The Vice-Guardians have agreed to a rate, which will be sufficient to discharge the existing liabilities of the Union, and, to enable them satisfactorily to continue the administration of relief to the destitute, and the rate will be immediately placed in active collection; but in the mean time, the advance which the Guardians have applied for would greatly facilitate their proceedings, and would enable them at once to place the business of the Union in a more satisfactory state.

Under these circumstances, the Commissioners desire to state that, should the treasurer be authorised to make the advance which has been applied for by the Vice-Guardians, the Commissioners have reason to believe that they will be enabled themselves to guarantee the repayment of the interest on the advance.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain HART—December 2, 1847.

I AM to forward to you the enclosed copy of a letter which they have received from the Agent of the Provincial Bank, declining to accede to the application of the Vice-Guardians of the Scariff Union for an advance of 2000*l.*, and I am to express the regret of the Commissioners at the decision of the Directors.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. MURRAY, Agent of the Provincial Bank of Ireland, to the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS:—
December 1, 1847.

WITH reference to my letter of the 27th ultimo, I beg to inform you that the Directors having considered the application of the Vice-Guardians of the Scariff Union for an advance of 2000*l.*, regret to be obliged to decline acceding to the application, as no security has been offered for repayment of the principal.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 11, 1847.

THE past fortnight has been a period of most anxious and painful solicitude to me, occasioned by the great and almost overwhelming pressure on the part of crowds of starving people clamouring for relief, and no present means available for alleviating their destitute condition; and this state of things is rendered more difficult to be dealt with, owing to a large admixture of turbulent able-bodied single men, and others not in distressed circumstances, who evidently entertain the notion that it needs but a due exhibition of physical force to induce an indiscriminate issue of out-door relief, seeing that the workhouse which was constructed for 600, now contains nearly 800 inmates.

Last week, a number of persons forced their way up to the Board room; but on my seizing and locking up two of the ringleaders, the crowd dispersed. I did not fail, however, to impress upon the minds of the assembled people that they had, by their turbulent behaviour, given me the most convincing proof that they at least were not in want of food, and that no relief whatever should be extended to those who clamoured for it at the workhouse, but only to peaceably disposed destitute persons, who sought for it in the manner provided for by law, viz., through the medium of the relieving officers.

On Tuesday last, however, I had again to seize another turbulent fellow (a single man) who had forced his way with others into the house; and on my having his name registered, as a warning to others, and ordering that no relief should ever be given to him except inside the house, he insolently replied, that he would "rob and steal sooner than come into workhouse," and that "all the people had a right to get the out-door relief."

I should not have deemed such matters as these worthy of mention, were it not that they abundantly exemplify what must inevitably be the demoralizing effects of out-door relief to able-bodied men, should such an expedient unhappily ever have to be resorted to—a crisis which I can view in no other light than as an unmixed and dire calamity, which will speedily extinguish in the breasts of its recipients every principle of self-reliance, and swallow up the property of the country; for judging from past experience, it is utterly futile to expect that any adequate check can be interposed, especially at this early stage of the administration of the new laws for the relief of the poor, to prevent an almost indiscriminate issue of relief, as when once it is believed that the destitution has extended beyond the power of being met by local taxation, every barrier to abuse will I fear be at once levelled, and the same general rush made for the "Government relief" as took place under the system of relief by Public Works, and subsequently by the issue of rations, when the detection of the most shameless imposition was usually met by the reply, that "one man had as good a right as another to get a share of the Government relief."

It appears, by the public returns that upwards of one-half of the entire population of this Union were lately receiving Government rations, and that 17,000*l.* was expended for that purpose. Consequently, as the rateable property of the Union is valued at but 44,960*l.*, it is quite clear that the entire rental would be inadequate to meet the wants and abuses incident to out-door relief. Under these circumstances, indeed, under any circumstances, I confidently hope that the Commissioners will approve of every possible expedient being resorted to which offers a prospect of warding off the necessity of issuing an order authorizing out-door relief to able-bodied persons, and I shall now proceed to report progress in that direction, by stating that during the period necessarily occupied in striking the rate and making out the books for the collectors, I visited various localities in search of additional workhouse accommodation for a length of time, with but little success. I am truly happy, however, now to be able to state that I have at length secured most eligible premises from Dr. Sampson (referred to in a former report) for the unexpired period of his lease, viz. up to the 25th March, 1849, at a rent of 150*l.* for the entire period. This will enable us to carry out the suggestions of removing the whole of the school children to a separate establishment. I have also suggested, with the view of rendering the workhouse still further available for able-bodied men, the advantage of also removing the aged and infirm who are still in the house, and in pursuance of this plan an agreement has been entered into for the purchase (for 50*l.*) of a three-storied slated house in Scariff with out-houses and a rood of land; here we purpose accommodating nearly 100 old women. We are also in treaty for the purchase (for 150*l.*) of extensive premises with about two acres of land, eligibly situated on the Scariff River; the houses will accommodate all the old men, and the barn can be fitted up as a fever hospital, until such time as we are enabled to erect a new fever hospital for the use of the entire Union, lower down on the land. This alone would effect a very large saving, as at present the expense of medical and other attendance for each of the temporary fever hospitals, is little short of 300*l.* per annum, while the Medical Officer of the workhouse has but the miserable stipend of 40*l.* per annum.

The erection of temporary accommodation on the workhouse premises for 300 men, will also be commenced next week.

I trust that the Commissioners will approve of these measures, and sanction the continuance of similar ones as occasion requires.

It is infinitely more advantageous to purchase (when it can be done on such favourable terms) than to hire, as any tenement can be sold with all improvements when no longer required.

I beg leave to enclose a plan of Dr. Sampson's house, and should be glad to receive it again when done with.

REPLY to the above:—December 14, 1847.

THE Commissioners approve of the course which you have adopted, a detailed in your report.

With reference to the house of which you have forwarded the plan, the Commissioners will readily sanction the hiring of it; and I am to forward for your information, the enclosed copy of observations of one of the assistants of their architect on the subject. The Commissioners have written to their architect, Mr. Wilkinson, by this night's post, in accordance with the suggestions contained in the last paragraph of Mr. Barney's observations.

The plan of Dr. Sampson's house which accompanied your communication, is herewith returned.

ENCLOSURE.

OBSERVATIONS of Mr. BARNEY.

WITH regard to Dr. Sampson's house, it appears to me very eligible, and will accommodate about 220 children, allowing only two of the rooms on the basement floor for kitchen, &c., and the two large rooms on the principal floor (marked 13) for school-rooms, and appropriate all the other rooms for dormitories. The plans do not shew what extent of ground for yard there is attached to the building; if the children are removed altogether from the workhouse, yards will be indispensable. 220, I am of opinion, is the greatest number that can be accommodated in this building, and probably it will only accommodate one class of the children, the girls perhaps.

With regard to the other buildings mentioned in Captain Hart's report, there is nothing upon which I can form any idea of their eligibility, but I beg to suggest, as Mr. Wilkinson will be at Galway at the latter end of this week, whether it would not be advisable to ask him if he could make Scariff on his way back to Dublin, as it is not very far from Galway, and inspect the premises reported on by Captain Hart.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. WILKINSON:—December 14, 1847.

THE Commissioners have received a communication from their Temporary Inspector, Captain Hart, relative to the arrangements which he is making in conjunction with the Vice-Guardians, with the view of providing additional workhouse accommodation, from which it appears that a house has been purchased, and that they are now in treaty for two other buildings.

This communication has been referred in your absence, to Mr. Barney, who approves of the house which has been purchased, and has suggested, with regard to the others, that as you will be at Galway at the latter end of this week, it would be desirable if you could make Scariff on your way back to Dublin, and inspect the premises in question.

As the matter is of considerable importance at the present time, in reference to the state of the Scariff Union, the Commissioners will feel obliged to you, if you will endeavour to act in accordance with this suggestion.

Scariff Union.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 14, 1847.

IN reply to your letter of yesterday's date, and its enclosures having reference to naval clothing and purser's stores in charge of Sir Randolph Routh, I beg leave to inform you that any supply of the articles enumerated would be most thankfully received for the use of the paupers in this Union Workhouse, and I firmly believe they could be sent to no establishment so much in want of the articles in question; for a length of time the scanty clothing of the poor inmates has been in rags and tatters, and there is also a lamentable deficiency of beds and bedding; the insolvent state of the Union has unfortunately hitherto precluded the possibility of a purchase of clothing and bedding.

Mr. WILKINSON to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 23, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to report that I this week inspected some buildings taken by Captain Hart for auxiliary workhouses in the Scariff Union.

Three buildings have been taken, one a large residence, which has already been sanctioned by your Board, and it is well calculated for the female children; it is about one mile from the poor-house.

The other premises are an old barn and small dwelling-house adjoining, and requires outlay in providing new floors, and high enclosing walls to screen the yard from the road. This building is suited for the boys to occupy, when it is fitted up as intended.

The third building is an old dwelling-house, very well suited for occupation by infirm people; it is in the street of the town of Scariff, with a small yard in the rear, and an out-building suitable for day-room, when provided with windows, &c.

Workhouse accommodation, in addition to the present building, being considered necessary, it appears to me that Captain Hart has done the best for obtaining it that it was possible for him to do, by the taking the above buildings.

It is proposed to enlarge the main building of the poor-house, by making the wing buildings half as large again. The cost of this addition will be about 800*l*. Captain Hart proposes to pay this cost out of the rates: if your Board approve this outlay, plans and specifications can be sent to Scariff accordingly.

REPLY to the above :—December 27, 1847.

THE Commissioners approve of the proposed enlargement of the workhouse, and I am to request that you will prepare and forward plans accordingly.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain HART :—December 27, 1847.

I AM directed to forward, for your information, the enclosed copy of a report which they have received from their architect, relative to the proposal for enlarging the workhouse accommodation of Scariff Union; and I am to inform you that the Commissioners have apprised Mr. Wilkinson that they approve of the proposed enlargement of the workhouse, and have requested him to prepare and forward plans accordingly.

I am at the same time, to state that it would be more equitable to borrow the money for this purpose, under the 35th section of the Irish Poor Relief Act, and not to expend the whole of it out of the present rate.

Scariff Union.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 25, 1847.

I HAD hoped to have it in my power to have stated in this report that the female school children and the aged and infirm female paupers had been removed from the workhouse to the two buildings which I had engaged for their respective accommodation; unfortunately this intention has been frustrated for the present, owing to the contractor for the blankets having to send to London for the supply. I trust, therefore, that the Commissioners will consider that I exercised a proper judgment in advising the Vice-Guardians to immediately purchase in Limerick bedding for 500 persons; as unless arrangements are speedily made to render the workhouse extensively available for the reception of able-bodied paupers next week, a storm of destitution will, I fear, break upon us which we shall not easily weather. Should it be intended to grant to this Union any portion of the navy clothing and pursers' stores now in charge of Sir R. Routh, I would earnestly request that it might be sent here with the least possible delay; and I venture to express my belief that there is no Union in Ireland more in need of a supply of the clothing in question than the Scariff Union.

Referring to the subject of erecting additional accommodation on the workhouse premises, it appears to me, after having duly reconsidered the matter in all its bearings, that a permanent enlargement of the workhouse, by adding another section to each of the wings, would be the most advantageous plan to adopt; and as Mr. Wilkinson, the Board's Architect, who visited this place on Sunday last, expressed his perfect concurrence in the design, and considered the enclosed estimate very moderate, I am anxious to receive, at the earliest possible period, the Commissioners' authority to enter into the contract, and for which forms will be required.

My objections to the temporary accommodation which I proposed should be erected, are, 1st, That it might, and from what I can learn, most probably would be burned down; and, 2ndly, That permanent buildings can, I now find, be constructed at less than double the cost of temporary ones.

Mr. Wilkinson, of course, considers this period of the year unfavourable for building, and that the 1st of March next would be quite early enough to commence operations. I beg to say that I entirely concur with that gentleman in every opinion which he expressed on that subject, and that under ordinary circumstances, I should consider it the height of folly to commence building at this season of the year; but, situated as this Union is at present, we must bend to circumstances, which no effort can control; I, therefore, earnestly hope that the Commissioners will grant the necessary authority for a contract being entered into for the immediate erection of another section to each of the wings of the Scariff workhouse. With the increased means which this accommodation will afford I confidently hope to effectually stave off the calamity of giving out-door relief to able-bodied persons; but, on the other hand, in the absence of this indispensable assistance I must candidly express my conviction that the evil must be shortly succumbed to, for the people have become so demoralized as to be plotting what they conceive to be a deeply laid scheme which they imagine will force forward a general issue of out-door relief. It is their determination, I learn, to fill up all the accommodation we have provided, and then, they argue, that we must give indiscriminate out-door relief. Now the immediate commencement to build on the premises, and an intimation that this would be promptly continued to any required extent, would abundantly demonstrate to the population in general the utter futility of any attempts to "fill us up," and a reaction would take place by which we should be effectually relieved from all except the really destitute.

ENCLOSURES.

Tomgraney, December 15, 1847.

I PROPOSE to erect two additional wings to the Scariff Union workhouse similar in every respect to those adjoining.

To be finished in a proper and workmanlike manner, and subject to the inspection of any competent person, for the sum of 780*l*.

The entire work to be strictly in conformity and in exact accordance with present building To be finished in four months from date of agreement. Security to be given for due performance of contract.

P. SULLIVAN, Builder,

MR. SULLIVAN will engage to have one section ready by the 1st March and the other by the 10th April next.

N. G. HART.

Scariff Union.

Each section would afford barrack accommodation for 300 soldiers, and consequently sleeping room for 300 paupers.

REPLY to the foregoing :—December 29, 1847.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to return the estimate herewith, and to send you a copy of Mr. Wilkinson's observations in regard to it, as well as the usual form of contract bond, which may be adapted to the circumstances of the Union. When so adapted, and the several blanks for the names of the sureties and other particulars are duly filled up, it should be submitted to the Commissioners for examination, before being executed.

ENCLOSURE.

THE amount of estimate is a fair sum. I would suggest that the contractor should be required to put windows in the new outside wall instead of the present blank window openings, the sills of which can be removed for the new outside wall. The quoins of the angles should also be pulled down and be rebuilt in the new wall.

A fire-place will also be required in the new outside wall, and the gateway will have to be removed.

December 27, 1847.

GEORGE WILKINSON.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. TREVELYAN :—December 27, 1847.

WITH reference to the constabulary report forwarded by you to this office, relative to the death of William Danalier, at Moyno, County Clare, I am directed by the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, to forward for your information, the enclosed copy of a report and of its enclosure, which they have received from the Temporary Inspector, Captain Hart, on the subject.

ENCLOSURES.

EXTRACT FROM ABSTRACT OF CONSTABULARY REPORTS, 11th December, 1847.

Clare.—“ Wm. Danalier died at Moyno, on the 9th instant, from want and destitution.”

Captain HART, Poor Law Inspector, to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 23, 1847.

IN reply to your letter of the 18th instant, I beg to acquaint you that, after due inquiry into the case, I find that William Danalier died of old age and infirmity, on Sunday the 5th instant.

In addition to the particulars contained in the report, addressed to me by the relieving officer, I wish to state that the poor man was furnished with a good meal of warm milk and bread at the workhouse on the 3rd instant, and that he would have been kept in the house had he not himself preferred the out-door relief. It appears, also, that he was an inmate of the workhouse from the 19th January to the 19th July of the present year, and that he left it of his own accord, preferring the life of a wandering beggar.

Mr. PURCELL, Relieving Officer, to Captain HART, Inspector :—December 22, 1847.

IN conformity with your instructions, I beg to inform you that William Danalier, deceased, applied to me for relief on the 14th November, 1847, and that on the 23rd of November he was, with his wife and one child, allowed 3s. per week. I paid his wife and child 1s. 6d. per week, which was their portion. Danalier did not live with his wife—was a wandering beggar; I reserved his portion, namely 1s. 6d. per week, for him, in the mean time making all possible inquiries after him.

On Friday, the 3rd December instant, I paid him 3s. at the workhouse, being the allowance for that and the previous week. On that day he had no immediate symptoms of death; he had been a feeble old man for the last 12 months. On that day he pointed out to me a little boy, his son, to whom he wished that I should give his weekly allowance in future. He died on Sunday, the 5th December instant, at Moyno, of old age and infirmity.

Scariff Union.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 1, 1848.

THIS day terminates a week of severe trial to many a destitute family in the Scariff Union, and not less so to the Poor Law establishment here, who are making strenuous efforts, with inadequate means, to afford the necessary measure of relief.

Unhappily the idle and worthless, as well as the really destitute, make the workhouse a focus at which to assemble on Board days; and the former are ever ready to create disturbance, and only lack the courage to break the peace. Thus on Wednesday, when a commencement was made to receive into the house a certain number of the most destitute, to whom the respective relieving officers had been authorized to issue tickets of admission, a general uproar was made by a set of idle fellows, who insisted that a shilling a-head should be at once distributed. It became necessary, therefore, to call in the aid of the police to preserve order; and after the lapse of several hours we were enabled to bring about 100 most wretched objects, who were placed for the night in the probationary wards; other poor creatures who would have been also admitted, had straggled away in despair after nightfall, but were received the following day, when the house lately purchased in Scariff, and also the probationary wards, were filled with pauper families, who are being classified and drafted, some to the female school at Moynoe, and others into the body of the workhouse, as fast as clothing can be got ready.

The removal of all the female school children to Moynoe House, and the occupation of the small house in Scariff, have contributed to rere-off an enormous pressure of destitution, but which is by no means yet altogether removed. I confidently hope, however, that the premises which I hired yesterday will enable us to relieve every case of undoubted destitution of the able-bodied class which may present itself during the next few weeks; but should this prove inadequate, I expect to have yet in my power to secure additional accommodation. Any outlay in the shape of rent will be preferable to giving out-door relief to able-bodied men, a calamity which I am doing all in my power to avert.

The premises which I hired yesterday are situated in Tomgraney, about half a mile from the Scariff workhouse. They consist of a large corn store and a good sized house. For the store, which contains three lofts, 60 feet by 18, together with another loft running at right angles, 40 feet by 20, and the kiln, I have agreed to pay a rent of 80% for one year. The house I have also engaged, but for one year, at a rent of 15% only, in consideration of sundry repairs being necessary, and which we shall have to make.

I am thankful to have the necessary authority for making the preliminary arrangements towards the immediate commencement of the permanent enlargement of the workhouse; and I did not fail to give effect to the suggestion of borrowing money for building purposes, in preference to making an indent upon the rate, which is now in process of collection. A loan will accordingly be advertised for; but we may after all fail in obtaining it, as the credit of the Scariff Union was brought to a very low ebb by the late Board of Guardians.

I beg leave, in conclusion, to express my gratitude for the approbation and support which I have received from head quarters in my humble, but I trust zealous, exertions here. It is this which upholds me in my present difficult position, threatened as I am on one side for starving the people, and abused on the other for taxing the rate-payers. My line of duty, however, is sufficiently defined; and all attempts, therefore, either to influence or intimidate me, will prove alike unavailing.

REPLY to the above :—January 5, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state that they approve of the measures adopted by you, and that they are fully sensible of the difficulties with which you and the Vice-Guardians have to contend; but the Commissioners trust that, by your persevering in the same line of conduct which you have hitherto pursued, those difficulties may be successfully surmounted.

Mr. FISHER, Vice-Guardian of Scariff Union, to the COMMISSIONERS:—

January 6, 1848.

Scariff Union.

IN the absence of my colleague, Mr. Christy, from illness, I have the honour to submit the following report relative to the collection of rates in this Union, and to the general state of its affairs, concluding with a report of the state of the workhouse at the time of our commencing the discharge of our duties as Vice-Guardians, and of its state at the present time.

Immediately upon our appointment, the question of the imposition of a new rate for the purpose of providing for the current expenses of the workhouse, as well as for liquidating the large accumulation of debt which had been incurred and left unpaid by the late Guardians, became the subject of anxious inquiry and deliberation.

About five weeks were occupied with the necessary inquiries and arrangements, which included the question as to what valuation should be adopted, and as to the qualifications and securities of the existing collectors, as well as the amount of rate which ought to be struck. The careful preparation of the rate-books and the collectors' books also occupied a considerable portion of this period.

On the 3rd December, the rate-books and the warrants for the collectors were signed, and were immediately given to each collector, whose securities were perfected. This was the case with all of them, except the collector for the Scariff electoral division. In this case, the sureties had signed the old form of bond, previous to the new form being received by the clerk; but on getting notice that their signatures were required to the new form they declined to come forward, and John McNamara, the collector, was unable to obtain any other solvent securities. From information since received, we have reason to congratulate ourselves that it became necessary to appoint a new collector for the Scariff electoral division. Some delay was thus incurred before the legal appointment of a new collector could be made. That was accomplished on the 29th of December, and on the 3rd instant, the warrant for the Scariff collection was handed to Mr. Lawrence Taylor. Another delay has occurred in consequence of the suspension and dismissal of John Callaghan, the collector for Kilnoe, for neglect and misconduct.

In Killaloe, Mr. Scanlan, the collector, has been proceeding in a very satisfactory manner, and has shown diligence and correctness in the discharge of his duties, although no sum appears on the minutes, as collected and paid on this division during the week. This arises from the delay in the acknowledgment of sums in course of transmission to the treasurer, but which will appear on next week's minutes. At the same time, Mr. Scanlan, the same collector, has made no progress in Ogunnella. This has been chiefly owing, as he states, to the refusal of Simon Purdon, Esq., late chairman of the Board of Guardians, to pay his rates, after appointing a day for doing so. In consequence of this appointment, the collector did not serve him with notice; but on calling for the rate on the day agreed upon he was told by Mr. Purdon that the rate was unjust and illegal, and that proceedings were taken in the Court of Queen's Bench to quash it. Mr. Scanlan attended the Board on Tuesday, the 4th instant, and made this report, whereon he was desired to proceed in the most summary way against Mr. Purdon.

Owing to extreme pressure of business this week, and the absence of Mr. Christy, from illness, the report of the collection is not so perfect as I could wish; but for the future it shall have our careful attention weekly, and we mean to forward it every Friday.

The following sketch will give some idea of the progress in each division up to this time, so far as is reported:—

	To 25th December.	Week ending 1st January.	This Week.	Total.

Scariff Union.

We have generally to remark, that delay has taken place from the unwillingness of the collectors to proceed to extremities where they saw preparations making to meet the rate, and where a little time was demanded. They state that they have served notices to a considerable extent, on which they will proceed at once, if payment be not made.

All of the collectors, except Mr. Taylor, attended on Tuesday, the 4th instant, and each was strictly and carefully admonished by Captain Hart, who pressed on them the importance of an immediate and vigorous progress being made in their collection, and that no excuse would be taken for their not collecting quickly, unless they could show that they had taken immediate and legal proceedings in every case of default. We have reason to expect, from all that has passed, together with the example of Callaghan's dismissal, that a vigorous effort will be made this week, with some effect, to collect a considerable sum.

While so little progress has as yet been made in the collection, and the weekly expenses of the Union being more than ordinary, owing to the existing want of clothing and bedding, not only for new admissions, but to replace the old and worn-out garments and bedding of the whole establishment, no steps have as yet been taken towards relieving the Union from its pecuniary embarrassments. The heavy debt of nearly 6000*l.* still remains unliquidated, nothing having been paid of the engagements of the late Guardians, except the current salaries of the officers of the house to the 29th September last, and a few small debts due to needy persons, to prevent their becoming chargeable to the Union as paupers. Some of the officers of the house still hold in their possession unpaid cheques of the late Guardians on the treasurer, for which receipts were duly given, and have passed the auditor. It would be very desirable if arrangements could be made for the gradual payment of the outstanding cheques, many of which have passed from hand to hand, and on some of which law proceedings either have been taken or are threatened. The amount of those cheques is now about 3500*l.*, and we think, if paid according to priority of date, if the collection proceeds satisfactorily, they might all be liquidated in the course of this and the next month. A list of the cheques ordered to be paid, and charged to the account of the Vice-Guardians, might be transmitted weekly to the treasurer; and public notice given to the holders of such cheques to present them at the bank for payment, might be given by advertisement. This is a subject on which we have felt some difficulty, and would be glad of the advice and recommendation of the Commissioners.

After payment of the outstanding cheques, we propose to examine the outstanding accounts as certified by the master, and to arrange for payment of such as appear correct and equitable, and as much as possible by priority of date. We do not think that a meeting of creditors would lead to any satisfactory arrangement, but might tend in our present situation to embarrass us further.

The pressure at present on our time and thoughts, as well as upon our funds, arises from the great amount of unrelieved destitution, which has increased more rapidly than we have immediate means of meeting. Although we have additional room between Moynoe and other houses, for about 700 to 800 paupers more than the limit assigned to the original workhouse, yet we are prevented from receiving that number by the want of clothing and bedding, which we cannot procure quickly enough to meet our daily necessities. The duties of the master, matron, porter, medical officer, and clerk, are necessarily very much increased by the peculiar circumstances of the Union; and we are embarrassed by the immediate necessity of providing assistants, and the difficulty of finding suitable persons on the spot. It is unreasonable to expect, that the officers above named should be subjected to an increase of duty to so great an extent without adequate additional remuneration; and it is vain to expect that the business will be efficiently and satisfactorily performed, unless sufficient inducement be held out to the officers, to engage their willing co-operation with the Vice-Guardians. Although in the present state of our finances, it might appear unjust to the creditors of the Union to announce any increase of salaries, we think it would be advisable to make some conditional pledge to the officers who have increased and onerous duties to perform, that as soon as the finances of the Union will admit of it, a retrospective allowance for extra services will be considered by the Guardians.

As, however, some immediate measures are necessary to ensure the regular government of the house, and the labour now devolving on the master is far too great for him to perform satisfactorily, we would recommend the temporary appointment of Patrick Farrell, the porter, to be acting assistant master at a salary of 25*l.* per annum, and that an assistant porter be appointed at 9*l.* per annum, with rations. P. Farrell is a very clever efficient person, and fully capable of keeping all the accounts, and, from his character and conduct, well deserving of promotion.

So far we have taken a review of the affairs of the Union, as regards outstanding debts and present difficulties. It remains to be stated, that a sum of from 1500*l.* to 2000*l.* must be expended during the next two months, in paying for materials for clothing and bedding; and that if we have to provide for 2000 in-door paupers, which we think is a minimum number, and may extend to many hundreds more, the current expenses will require about 200*l.* per week, while the relief to externs will not fall short of 120*l.* per week. In addition to these, are the two temporary fever hospitals in Feakle and Tulla, at an expense of about 50*l.* per week for both.

This will form a total weekly expenditure of	£ 370
Or, for three months for subsistence	£ 5,000
Clothing	2,000

leaving but a small surplus to cover arrears of rate and cost of collection; so that, at the 25th March, it is likely we shall again be under the necessity of striking an additional rate, or of asking assistance from the Treasury.

We are not acquainted with the peculiar circumstances of other embarrassed Unions; but we can scarcely suppose the worst of them to have been placed in such a difficult position as Scariff, or that there is one where Vice-Guardians and Inspector have had to contend with such fearful difficulties, oppressive in the highest degree, not only to our mental faculties, but to our feelings of humanity and compassion for the destitution and suffering around us. Were it not for the cordial and efficient co-operation of Captain Hart, and the support which we receive from his counsel and assistance, our situation would be nearly untenable.

Having mentioned the temporary fever hospitals of Feakle and Tulla, it affords opportunity to state that we are most anxious, as soon as we can accomplish it, to establish in this neighbourhood a general fever hospital for the Union. One of our embarrassments at present is, the number of cases of fever in the families of able-bodied men, which we cannot relieve without violating the letter of the law, or without bringing fever cases at once into the workhouse. In some of these cases we have strained a point to class the head of the family as subjected to temporary infirmity, in order to relieve the pressing cases of fever by medical and other relief, out of the house.

It is, however, very satisfactory to be able to state, that, notwithstanding the very unfavourable circumstances with which we have had to contend, the health of the paupers in the house continues generally good. Although fever has been prevalent out of doors, and we have been obliged to afford out-door relief to many families in fever, yet we have only five cases of fever now in the infirmary, and two slight cases at Moynoe. It is grievous, however, to see the great prevalence of that frightful scourge, small-pox, of which there are two cases now at Moynoe, and several children, both there and at this workhouse, have recently recovered from the disease. We have been pressing on Dr. Egan the necessity of vaccination, and of forcing the mothers in the workhouse to allow their children to submit to the operation, to which the doctor says he finds the greatest unwillingness. Most of the infants recently admitted are in too emaciated and weak a state to be likely subjects to receive and transmit a healthy virus. This subject shall continue to have our attention.

As to the state of the workhouse when we first entered upon the discharge of our duties here, I have the honour to report that it then contained about 700 paupers, who were fed on Indian meal porridge twice in the day with milk: The bedding in the house was very deficient, and mostly very much worn, and in bad order. Most of the paupers were in a ragged condition, from want of proper clothing. The tailor and shoemaker employed in the house at weekly wages, were unpaid for many months, as well as the salaried officers of the house of all grades. Every other necessary article, a supply of which should have been in the house, was wanting: even the daily food of the paupers was refused by the contractors, without individual guarantees for payment. Copies of writs for debts were lying on the Board-room table, and a sheriff's officer was in possession of the property of the house. At this time the demand for admission was not very great, and orders were only given in those cases which appeared most pressing; while, by removing as many as could be easily and legally placed on out-door relief, it was endeavoured to keep the number in the house as near 700 as possible. The arrangements for keeping the able-bodied paupers at work, were imperfect and unsatisfactory; but without means at their disposal, the Vice-Guardians could not rigidly enforce all the rules. The boys' school was destitute of the necessary materials for their instruction: the children were ill-clothed, and therefore not cleanly in appearance. The girls' school, although deficient, was better supplied, the girls better clothed, and apparently in much better order, and many of them well instructed. The conduct of Miss Malone, the schoolmistress, under great discouragements, seems to have been exemplary, and has given us a favourable opinion of her character and capabilities.

A very unpleasant job was in operation at the time of our appointment, and which, from having been too long deferred, was one of tediousness and difficulty, namely, the cleansing of the necessaries. The labour and consequent disagreeable and unwholesome effluvia continued for some weeks.

The want of funds for immediate expenses was supplied by the loan of 200*l.*, procured for us by the Commissioners; and when that was exhausted a further loan from the British Relief Association, through Captain Hart, enabled us to provide for pressing wants until the new rate began to be collected. As soon as it could prudently be done, contracts were entered into for the supply of bedding and clothing for about 800 paupers; but in consequence of taking Moynoe house for the female children, and an almost immediate and pressing demand for admission to the workhouse from all quarters, an additional supply of clothing and bedding materials was ordered by us from Limerick and Dublin immediately, and which are now in process of being made ready for use. We have also just received, through Captain Hart, from the Ordnance stores in Limerick, a considerable supply of soldiers' cast rugs, and some blankets and sheets.

The pressure for admission from furnishing multitudes on each of the relieving officers, but chiefly in Tulla and Feakle, has been so sudden, and to such an extent, that we have been obliged to provide temporary accommodation in a house in Scariff for about 100 women and children, for whom we had no clothes ready; and in the store we have hired at Tomgrany, we have provided room for about 300 of all classes in a temporary manner, until clothing is ready for them. In addition to these, we have been obliged to take 190 into the probationary wards, while further room is preparing in the store at Tomgrany. We were obliged to adopt this expedient to prevent their spending the night on the road.

By the addition we have made to the house room, by converting the late stables into dormitories, we have room with comfort for 750 paupers in the present workhouse. We shall be able to keep 100 in Clune's house, about 350 in the store in Tomgrany, and about 100 in Hickey's house: these, with 300 at Moynoe, will amount to 1600. Having this day over 1400 on the books, and the remaining 200 at hand ready to enter, we must immediately endeavour to procure further room.

The diet of the paupers has been for some time altered by recommendation of the medical officer, and brown bread has been substituted for the afternoon meal instead of porridge, as heretofore. The clothing of all classes continues ragged and deficient, although we have tailors and women at constant work making up new articles as fast as materials arrive. It will take some weeks before a sufficiency of new clothes is made to clothe all those now on the books. The wages of tailors and shoemakers are now regularly paid, as well as the bills of the contractors for provisions, fuel, straw, and other necessaries. The clothing contractors have agreed, in most instances, for payment in two months. The writs issued against the Union, for various debts contracted by the late Guardians, still remain unsatisfied, and the sheriff's officer continues in charge on the premises.

The state of the house, as to cleanliness and subordination, is not at all satisfactory, owing to the extraordinary circumstances in which the master is placed. The number of paupers who have to take their meals in successive troops, and the necessity of a large number being admitted for this purpose in their own clothing, causes much unpleasant confusion, and renders classification and order much more difficult. For the present, we shall have to appoint some superintendents, both male and female, to assist the master and matron.

The dormitories are kept clean and regular ; but the dining-hall, and the yards and day-rooms are not in the state they ought to be, if matters were in an ordinary train.

There are now on the books of Moynoe house 209 female children, and some adult women to assist in cooking, &c. Over these we have placed Mr. Samuel Shaw, and his wife as matron ; and increasing the salary of Miss Malone, as schoolmistress, to 15*l.* per annum. This we considered to be a better arrangement than that at first proposed of uniting the offices of matron and schoolmistress ; and we think Miss Malone deserving of the addition to her salary, and entitled to it on account of increased duties.

REPLY to the foregoing :—January 11, 1848.

As regards the arrangement for discharging the outstanding debts of the Union, the Commissioners feel that the subject is one of much difficulty. They do not, however, see any course which is less open to objection than the one suggested by you ; but they think the propriety of publicly advertising from time to time, the claims which the Vice-Guardians are ready to discharge may be questionable. At all events, the Commissioners think that if that course be adopted, an advertisement should in the first instance be issued, stating fully and clearly the course which the Vice-Guardians intend to adopt, and announcing that lists of the claims will be from time to time advertised, as the Vice-Guardians may be enabled to provide for their discharge.

The Commissioners feel the justice of the Vice-Guardians' views in regard to the officers' salaries ; but as regards the suggestion that a promise of retrospective remuneration be held out, the Commissioners think that the legality of such retrospective remuneration is open to so much doubt, that they do not think the suggestion could properly be acted on. The best course, under all the circumstances of the case, will probably be for the Vice-Guardians to take a general review of the whole salaries of the establishment, and to record on their minutes the present rate of salary to each officer, and the increase which they think the circumstances of the case would warrant in each instance where they think increase requisite, setting forth at the same time, the allowances to any additional temporary assistants appointed to meet the present pressure ; and showing also the additional staff (with the salaries and emoluments) appointed in respect of each additional workhouse. Upon receiving such a statement, the Commissioners will give the subject their best consideration, and will communicate again with the Vice-Guardians thereon.

With reference to your observations on the prevalence of small-pox, the Commissioners think the Vice-Guardians should take immediate steps for putting the provisions of the Vaccination Extension Act in operation in the Union.

The Commissioners regret to learn that you are deprived of the assistance of your colleague through illness, and they trust that he will soon be enabled to resume the discharge of the important duties which devolve upon him, in conjunction with yourself, as Vice-Guardian of the Scariff Union.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 8, 1848.

I AM happy to be able to report, that the premises which I hired at Tomgraney, have enabled us, during this week, to effect a sensible diminution of the great pressure for relief ; there has also been a considerable abatement of the tumultuous clamour alluded to in my last report.

For a considerable time, I have been endeavouring to hire a corn store, situated near the bridge of Scariff ; it contains three floors, each 110 feet long, by 18 wide, but the enormous rent demanded, (every person seeming determined to take advantage of our necessities,) has hitherto operated to prevent an engagement being closed.

I must, however, almost immediately secure this accommodation ; and I am not without hopes of being able shortly to obtain premises, to which the male school children can be removed.

The total absence of all previous arrangements on the part of the late Board of Guardians, added to the pecuniary embarrassments in which they left the Union, renders it extremely difficult, even when house room is obtained, to admit such overwhelming numbers, and at the same time, to maintain discipline and classification unimpaired. The women and children recently admitted, we have sent to a separate house, and the men to another, all of course necessarily remain in a probationary state, until clothing can be got ready.

I am thankful to be able to add, that we are enjoying almost exemption from sickness, a circumstance which I ascribe chiefly to the great cleanliness and wholesome dietary; and I must here offer my meed of praise to the officers of the establishment, each of whom performs his duties in an efficient and cheerful manner, which I cannot too highly estimate; indeed, I never visited any public institution, which I consider better regulated than the Scariff workhouse. Cleanliness and order pervade every department. The officers are very inadequately paid for the duties they are performing, and I therefore suggest as a sound policy, as well as an act of justice, that their salaries should be raised.

The collection of the rate not progressing to my satisfaction, I distinctly intimated to the collectors, that unless more successful exertion were made, I should deem it my duty to recommend their dismissal. Two or three of them, I expect, it will eventually be necessary to get rid of; my admonition has, however, produced a good effect, as I now daily receive accounts of the receipt of money. Michael Conway having reported a rescue of cattle, was instructed to at once institute the necessary legal proceedings against the offenders, for unless prompt proceedings be adopted, an encouragement would be afforded for a combination to resist the payment of poor rates.

IN reply to your letter of the 6th instant, we have the honour to state that the number of cases of application for relief that have come before us, to which the 10th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act is applicable, are not many, owing to the relieving officers having instructions not to place any such on their books, until they were satisfied that the land held by the applicant had been properly and bonâ fide surrendered.

We have not in our power to state the number and particulars of such cases, as they were not put on record either by the relieving officer or the Vice-Guardians, the law appearing to be imperative that such persons should not be relieved.

In those instances which were brought before us, we invariably refused relief to the applicant until he was prepared to give such proof of the bonâ fide surrender of the land, as seemed to us to be satisfactory. The chief proof which we required was the production of a certificate either from the landlord, his agent, or under agent, that the surrender was satisfactory. In one instance, upon information received that a pauper then in the house, held more than a quarter of an acre of land which he refused to give up, the pauper was called up and discharged, and told that he would not be re-admitted until he brought sufficient proof that his landlord was satisfied with the manner of his surrender. This we found necessary to require, in this and some other cases, in consequence of an evident collusion among joint tenants, for some of them to seek relief in the workhouse on the plea that they had surrendered their land to the remaining joint holders, while it was pretty evident that they retained the expectation of being able to resume possession, as soon as it would suit them to quit the workhouse. In these cases we required the offer of surrender to be made to the immediate lessor, and proof to be given either of his having accepted or refused it. We had one instance of refusal on the part of the lessor, to accept the surrender, and in this case we only required that the tender of surrender should be made in the first instance, to the lessor—and if refused, we agreed to allow the applicant's case, provided the land were legally and bonâ fide given up to the joint tenant. In some cases, we found a reference to the rate-books a sufficient proof of the applicant's tenure.

The cases here stated are from recollection of the circumstances, not from any record or memorandum taken at the time; but they may give an idea of the manner in which we are disposed to carry out the provision of the 10th section of the Irish Poor Relief Act.

REPLY to the foregoing:—January 15, 1848.

Scariff Union.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state that they are fully sensible of the difficulty of acting on the 10th section of the Act referred to; still, as that section is of extreme importance, the Commissioners desire to express their opinion upon it, for your information and guidance.

The Commissioners think that the words of the Act should be strictly adhered to, by which no one who occupies more than a quarter of a statute acre of land shall be deemed and taken to be a destitute person. Hence the Commissioners think that the bonâ fide "cessation to occupy" more than a quarter of a statute acre, is the only point which should be looked to by you in the construction of the clause; and that no additional unbending condition should be insisted on, such as a certificate of surrender from a landlord, or the cessation to occupy even a quarter of an acre, or any land of still less extent.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 13, 1848.

WE have now the honour to submit our weekly report of this Union.

As yet in most of the electoral divisions the collection is proceeding slowly, but we expect, as the time advances, larger sums will be received, as the preparation to take legal proceedings in cases of default has been now pretty generally made.

The following is the state of the collection to this date:—

	To 1st January.	To 8th January.	This Week.	Total.

So far as we have the means of judging from the collectors' own reports, they are generally proceeding with increased activity in the collection, but have in several instances had to seize and impound cattle. In some cases they have met with opposition, and although no personal violence has been attempted, some cattle seized by the collectors were retaken and driven back by the owners or some of their connexions. One person is summoned by the collector of Feakle district for rescue, to appear before the petty sessions at Feakle on Monday, and another is summoned to the petty sessions at Killaloe, to be held on Saturday, for rescue of cattle seized by the collector of Orgunnella electoral division. The latter is a tenant of S. Purdon, Esq., and holds 12 acres of land at a nominal rent. He seems to be encouraged in refusing payment of his rates by the example of his landlord who has not paid his own, and who is the chief proprietor and occupier of land in Orgunnella parish. We have not been informed by the collector what proceedings he has taken against Mr. Purdon.

The total amount collected is not as yet sufficient to discharge the obligations which we have been obliged to enter into for feeding and clothing the paupers, and we are therefore unable to commence any arrangements for the discharge of the debts incurred by the late Guardians.

We shall further consider the subject of publicly advertising our intentions as to the payment of the outstanding cheques before we take any steps for doing so. If we can ascertain the names of those persons who are holders of cheques with any degree of accuracy, we shall be glad to avoid the necessity of advertising. It is our intention, however, to discharge all the debts which we have ourselves incurred for the immediate wants of the Union before we pay any of the engagements of the late Board of Guardians. It is essential to the proper discharge of our duties that our credit should be preserved by the punctual and exact fulfilment of all our engagements. The chief part of the clothing for which we have contracted we have promised to pay for in two months, but a considerable portion since ordered must be paid for in cash.

In our last report we omitted to advert to that paragraph in your letter of 1st instant, referring to the printed instructions to the Temporary Inspectors of Unions.

We have endeavoured to the utmost of our power to administer relief on the principles therein pointed out, and have given out-door relief in money in every case brought before us where we were satisfied we could legally do so.

In our last report we intended to have recommended your issuing a sealed order, authorizing us to give relief either in money or food to the heads of families, any of the members of which were afflicted with contagious disease, and also to able-bodied widows with one child or without children, to orphan children, and to married women with or without children, whose husbands had left the country or were in gaol, and which we now submit for your consideration. Such a measure would relieve us from a considerable number, and enable us to receive many able-bodied heads of families who are now daily besieging our doors. The constant obligation which we feel ourselves under to receive into the house such poor creatures as appear ready to perish at the door, continues to keep our probationary wards crowded, and it is but by comparatively slow degrees we can prepare clothes and bedding for their increased numbers. This evening we had to receive several such cases, so that our numbers, including 282 at Moynoe, are about 1800 under roof, while the out-door recipients of relief amount to over 3000. Such appears to be the still unrelieved pressure, that we think it necessary to endeavour tomorrow to take houses in Killaloe sufficient for the accommodation of at least 1000, and to make a separate establishment there if we possibly can. Killaloe being the principal town in the Union, we expect to find more accommodation there than we can in any other part; and it is desirable not to have the different workhouses too much scattered, as the power of inspecting and superintending them would be less. As we pass through Killaloe twice every week, coming to and going from Scariff, it will be easier for us to pay constant visits to any workhouse established in that locality, than it would be in any other.

The great amount of destitution, so much beyond what we at first had any idea of, now begins to be almost appalling, and it becomes a matter of doubt whether it will be possible to levy and collect rates sufficient to relieve the mass of pauperism that seems every day becoming more manifest.

According to your desire we have taken the subject of the increased duties of the officers of the house into our consideration, and on this day's minutes have submitted a scale of salaries for your approval. In case we take additional houses at Killaloe, an additional staff will be required there.

With respect to the health of the inmates of all our houses of relief, we beg to refer to the medical officer's report on our minutes of yesterday.

We have to beg you will favour us with a copy of the Vaccination Extension Act, in order that we may consider the subject of putting its provisions in force in this Union.

REPLY to the above:—January 18, 1848.

WITH reference to that part of your report in which you state that proceedings have been taken against one of the tenants of Mr. Purdon for a rescue, and that this tenant seems to be encouraged in refusing payment by his landlord, who has not paid his own rates, the Commissioners desire to state that inasmuch as the satisfactory collection of the rate must, to a certain extent, depend upon the conduct of the persons of station and influence in the district, in regard to the payment of their own rates, it appears important that the earliest application should be made to them, especially to such of them as were members of the late Board of Guardians; and that in any instance in which, as you state is the case in regard to Mr. Purdon, obstruction to the collector is offered, the most prompt and decided proceedings should be adopted to enforce payment.

With reference to your recommendation that a sealed order be issued authorizing out-door relief to certain classes in money or food, the Commissioners desire to state that they have received a communication from Captain Hart, in which he states, that for the next two weeks he trusts that all claims for admission to the workhouse can be met; but that after that period it will be necessary to relax the rule as at present existing in regard to out-door relief. Under these circumstances, and bearing in mind that it is desirable to relax the rule as gradually as possible, the Commissioners have thought it best to comply only partially with the request contained in your report, and they have accordingly issued an order, a copy of which is enclosed, authorizing out-door relief in food to widows with one child, and to children whose parents are both dead. The Commissioners will, however, be prepared to extend the other, by authorizing out-relief to such other classes as may appear desirable on learning that such extension is necessary.

The subject of the officers' salaries shall receive the consideration of the Commissioners.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 15, 1848.

I AM glad to be able to acquaint you that my expectation of securing premises adequate to the accommodation of the pauper male school children has been realized, in my hiring a large house with extensive out-offices and a large garden, situated in the town of Scariff, at a rent of 100*l.* for one year. In these premises I calculate that between 300 and 400 children can be comfortably domiciled. I have also hired another house, at a rent of 2*l.* per mensem, capable of holding at least 100 persons.

Although there has been a considerable pressure for admission to the workhouse during the week terminating this day, still it has not been to the extent experienced in the three previous weeks. At present it is scarcely possible to make, with anything approaching to accuracy, even an approximation of the number of destitute persons of the able-bodied class for whom workhouse accommodation may yet be needed; for the next two weeks, however, I trust that all claims for admission into the workhouse can be met, after which period, it will be necessary to relax the rule as at present existing for out-door relief, so as to embrace another class or two of persons, reserving the workhouse for able-bodied men.

The collection of poor-rate during the week has upon the whole been satisfactory, the collectors having reported to me the receipt of nearly 1200*l.*; and I have reason to expect that a very large amount will be obtained before the end of this month.

I had a man fined 40*s.* this day at Killaloe for a rescue; and on Monday I am going to see the law enforced at Feakle for a similar offence. After these examples I expect that the rate will be promptly paid.

In conclusion, I beg leave to observe that I conceive the officers of the workhouse eminently deserving of the increase of salary recommended by the Vice-Guardians.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 20, 1848.

WE are sorry to state that much difficulty continues to be experienced in collecting the rate as quickly as our necessities require. The collectors have been very strongly urged not to delay proceedings in any case where payment is refused or evaded, and as they have, in many instances, been obliged to drive and impound cattle, but as yet have not sold any for payment of rates.

The case referred to in our last report of rescue of distress made in Ogunnella, was tried on Saturday, at Killaloe, before Petty Sessions, and the party was fined 40*s.* Captain Hart attended and publicly explained the necessity of immediately enforcing payment of the rates. Another case was tried at Feakle, on Monday; and to-day Captain Hart has gone to attend a case brought before Tulla Petty Sessions. It is hoped that these few examples may have a useful effect.

Some delay has occurred in collecting from those gentlemen at present in attendance at the Special Commission in Ennis, as it was not thought expedient to disturb them from their important duties there, but as soon as the business of the Commission is over, the collectors shall be required to perform their duty without exception, and means will be adopted to give publicity to the names of those who are defaulters, and who persist in giving delay to the collection. We are aware that in consequence of the disorganized state of the country, and the difficulty experienced by most landlords in collecting their rents, for some time past, there are many instances among that class in which the means of immediate payment are wanting, without attributing their default to any disposition to oppose or object to the rate.

We have received the following letter from James Molony, Esq., of Kiltanon, a gentleman of considerable property in the Union, and a member of the late Board of Guardians, and who has publicly expressed his opinion of the necessity for collecting this rate.

"GENTLEMEN,

"Kiltanon, January 18, 1848.

"THE collector of the Tulla division has been pressing my tenant, Mr Robb, for payment of the balance of the very heavy assessment on the town-land of Kiltanon; I have paid 78*l.* of rates, and Mr. Robb has paid 40*l.*; I think, therefore, it would not be unreasonable to expect a little forbearance from pressure for some time longer.

"I have the honour to be, &c.,

"(Signed) JAMES MOLONY.

"P.S.—I have also paid a considerable sum in Feakle electoral division.

"To the Vice-Guardians of the Scariff Union."

To which we have sent the following reply:—

"SIR,

"Scariff Union, January 20, 1848.

"WE have received your letter of 18th instant; and in reply we beg to state, that we have no wish unnecessarily to cause any pressure upon the rate-payers of this Union, but as you must be aware that the heavy debt incurred by the late Board of Guardians is still unpaid, and as the collection of the rate, so far as it has gone, has not yet been sufficient to meet our current weekly expenses in providing relief for about 6000 destitute persons, while the workhouse doors are daily besieged by additional applicants, we hope you will not think it unreasonable that we should decline, in any instance, to relax from the immediate collection of the rate.

"We have the honour, &c.,

Of the above, Killuran and Killaloe have been the most satisfactory, the third part of the rate having been collected in each of these electoral divisions, and about the same proportion in Mount Shannon. In Kilnoe the collection is suspended until the appointment of the collector is confirmed. In Ogunnella no progress has been made; and the collector states he cannot proceed without the assistance and protection of police or military. Mr. Purdon is still a defaulter, although as Chairman of the late Board of Guardians he must be well aware of the necessities of the Union. Not much progress has as yet been made in Scariff electoral division, in which the collector was only recently appointed. He is, however, using exertions to enforce payment. In Feakle and Woodford the collection has not been in equal proportion to the other electoral divisions.

Scariff Union:

A considerable sum is also due for clothing and bedding lately purchased, and a sufficient supply has not yet been received to enable us to clothe one half of the paupers under roof, and the supply of bedding is still very inadequate.

A good deal of difficulty has been experienced by the collectors in the numerous cases in their books of joint tenancy; and we have therefore, by Captain Hart's advice, directed the collectors in such cases, where they can ascertain the different proportions for which each joint tenant is equitably liable, to receive from each who is willing to pay his individual proportion, and to give a separate receipt in each such case, as in part payment of the whole rating.

The great imperfections of the valuation are matters of notoriety; and great loss is sustained by the Union, in consequence of much property being wholly exempted. We are, therefore, very anxious to take immediate steps to have a new valuation perfected before it becomes necessary to make a new rate. On conferring with Captain Hart on the subject we find we agree with him in opinion, that for this object it would be most expedient to adopt Mr. Griffith's valuation as a groundwork: we would, therefore, beg to be informed what details of his townland valuation can be obtained and made available, and in what manner we are to apply for them. As soon as these are procured we are of opinion that a competent person, wholly independent of the Union, and whose integrity and judgment are unquestionable, should be appointed to divide and apportion the ratings. We must beg to solicit your recommendation of such a person; and also such advice as your position and experience may enable you to afford us.

The pressure this week for relief has been very great; and although of those recently admitted in apparently extreme destitution, about 118 have been discharged on out-door relief, the further necessary daily admissions keep our number up to 2000 under roof.

These are distributed nearly as follows:—

In workhouse	850
Tomgrany	350
Kirby's	300
Clune's	150
	2000

A good deal of irregularity necessarily occurs, in consequence of not having a distinguishing dress for the paupers in the out-houses, but clothing is being prepared as fast as materials can be procured; and we hope in two or three weeks to have matters arranged in a more satisfactory way.

We are preparing the small house of Hogan's (from which we have removed the late inmates to Kirby's) for an infirmary, as our present infirmary in the workhouse is rather over-crowded, owing to illness among those newly admitted. There are not, however, any cases of a dangerous or contagious nature.

We have to acknowledge your sealed order, authorizing out-relief to widows with one child, and to orphans, but the first class is not so numerous as to afford us any sensible relief; and the latter class is one which we fear to put out, as most of them have no homes to go to, and as relief in food would be of no avail, unless they could also be provided with lodging.

Such has been the pressure for admission, and the inadequacy of our means of affording it to the class of able-bodied men and their families, that in order to prevent any calamity from starvation, we have been obliged to authorize relief in food to over 300 persons out of doors where actual necessity seemed to exist, and in which we have to class the heads of families as infirm from hunger.

We have at present on the out-relief lists above 3500 persons; and there remain still in the Application and Report Books of the different relieving officers, as nearly as we can estimate, about 3000 persons who have received no relief, and all of whom are the able-bodied class and their families.

We think the time is come to authorize us to give relief to that class out of doors, for the difficulty of obtaining houses to contain them is such, that we fear some may perish in the meantime, if not temporarily relieved. We must acknowledge that the necessity of the case has obliged us, this week, to go a little beyond the strict letter of the law, in giving food where we could not give shelter. It were desirable not to leave us in such a predicament as to have to choose between violating the law and risking the lives of applicants in extreme distress.

We have only, in conclusion, to acknowledge your letter of the 15th instant.

We are quite satisfied with your construction of the 10th section of the Poor Relief Extension Act, and shall for the future act in accordance with your opinion, by only requiring such applicants as apply for relief, while occupying more than a quarter of a statute acre of land to give us some proof of their having ceased to occupy before we grant the relief required. We have given orders to the relieving officers not to require either landlords' or agents' certificates, but to satisfy themselves of the fact of the occupancy or the contrary, and to state that fact in their report.

We have instances of persons in the workhouse continuing to keep possession of tenements to which more than one quarter of an acre of land is said to be attached, by retaining the keys of their houses, and they have been followed here by the lessors, persons frequently in humble life, complaining that they could obtain neither land nor rent. It is exceedingly difficult to know how to act in such cases, particularly where the applicant and family are often in a state of extreme destitution. Many cases have occurred in which it is stated by the applicants that their houses have been thrown down as soon as they have quitted them; and although some of these are entitled by law to out-door relief, they cannot so easily subsist on the regulated allowance as those who still retain houses of their own.

REPLY to the above:—January 24, 1848.

THE Commissioners infer from some observations in your report, that you are under the impression that the relief given out of the workhouse under the 1st section of the Irish Relief Extension Act, is only to be given in food; or if in money, is only to be of sufficient amount to enable the parties receiving such relief to provide themselves with food. The Commissioners desire, therefore, to state that in cases where the wants of the applicant are such as to render allowances for clothing, fuel, or lodging, as well as for food necessary, the Vice-Guardians are fully authorized by law to grant such allowances; and it is their duty to take care that the allowances in all cases are proportioned to the necessities of the applicant, and that there shall be no danger of any person in the receipt of relief being exposed to severe suffering from cold.

The Commissioners take this opportunity of remarking, that although it is very proper to lay down a regulated scale of allowances for the guidance of the overseers themselves in the great majority of cases, still such scale should not be unbendingly adhered to; but the circumstances and necessities of each particular case should be taken into account, and the regulated allowance modified if necessary according to those circumstances.

The Commissioners have, in accordance with your recommendation, issued an order authorizing out-door relief under the 2nd section of the Irish Relief Extension Act, to the able-bodied for a period of two months. The Commissioners do not doubt that the manner in which such an order should be carried into effect, and the test of destitution which should be enforced under it, have already engaged your attention; and the Commissioners now forward, for your information and guidance, a copy of a letter which has been addressed to another Union in which out-door relief to the able-bodied has been authorized. A copy of the order is also enclosed.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 22, 1848.

IN my last weekly report, I expressed an expectation that all claims for admission into the workhouse could be met during the following fortnight, but that after that period, it would be necessary to relax the rule as then existing for out-door relief, so as to embrace another class or two of persons, reserving the workhouse for able-bodied men. I deeply regret, however, to have to represent that the time has arrived, in which it would be no longer safe to withhold authority for issuing out-door relief to the able-bodied classes.

We have borne up against the pressure of destitution to the last moment it can safely be withstood, administering the necessary measure of relief in every case of undoubted destitution, and rigorously refusing it in every case of reasonable doubt.

In bending to the great calamity of extending out-door relief to the able-bodied classes, we have still the satisfaction of feeling that we have done everything in our power to stave off the evil to the latest possible moment, and long after the adjoining Unions had been compelled to give way to it.

Need I here represent the state in which, about three months since, I took over the charge of the Scariff Union? The workhouse, constructed for 600, containing over 700 inmates; the Union deeply steeped in debt, indeed to all appearances inextricably involved in pecuniary difficulties; the daily food of the paupers provided for by funds advanced by the Government; the paupers clad in rags and tatters; an insufficiency of bedding and every other requisite; the sheriff of the county in legal possession of the effects of the workhouse; the salaries of the officers and servants of the establishment unpaid for about two years; an utter absence of all arrangements for the relief of a starving population, either within or outside the workhouse, notwithstanding that nearly 28,000 persons, upwards of one-half the entire population, were lately represented by the different Relief Committees within the Union, to be in a state of utter destitution, and who were accordingly fed at the public expense, or from funds amounting to nearly 18,000*l.* advanced by Government for that purpose, but which it was believed would never be repaid.

Surrounded as we have been with every conceivable difficulty, we have nevertheless provided in-door accommodation for nearly 2500 paupers; but in this direction we must of necessity halt, for the miserable village of Scariff contains but the one large house, already engaged for the pauper male school children, and there is no habitable building to be obtained in any part of the Union sufficiently large for a separate workhouse, except the house at Moynoe, to which the female school children have been removed.

There are also reasons why it would not on the whole, just at the present time, be advisable to receive more than the 2500 inmates. In the first place, it is desirable to prevent, as far as possible, any further demolition of the dwellings of the poor; for should employment hereafter offer, the unfortunate creatures will be unable to avail themselves of it, owing to the want of a cabin, and they would thus necessarily become permanent paupers. Secondly, the separate buildings which have been engaged for the male and the female school children, cannot by any contrivance, be rendered available for the reception of 400 children in each, and there will be fully 800 school children among 2500 paupers.

The Commissioners may rest assured that, in extending out-relief to the able-bodied, every effort will be made by the Vice-Guardians and myself to check abuses.

REPLY to the above :—January 24, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state, that they are satisfied that both you and the Vice-Guardians have had recourse to every expedient which could be adopted by you consistently with humanity, in order to prevent the necessity of granting out-door relief to able-bodied men; still the time seems now to have arrived, when such relief can no longer be delayed with due regard to the provisions of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act; and the Commissioners have issued an order authorizing such out-door relief accordingly.

The Commissioners rely on your exertions, and on the exertions of the Vice-Guardians, in carrying out efficient arrangements for employing able-bodied men in stone-breaking, as a condition of their receiving relief.

A copy of a letter which the Commissioners have addressed to another Union in which out-door relief to the able-bodied has been authorized, is enclosed for your information.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 28, 1848.

DURING the past week, and what has elapsed of this, the progress of the collection has been very satisfactory. We have reason to believe all the collectors have been vigorous in their exertions for the past fortnight, and have, in many instances, been enforcing payment by seizure of cattle and other stock, where prompt payment has been delayed.

The following is the state of the collection as far as reported:—

	Collected to 15th January.			Week 22nd January.			This Week.			Total.

	2,645	1	2½	1,415	3	1	1,076	5	4	5,136	9	7½

We expect that at the end of this week the whole collection will amount to 6000*l.*

On Wednesday we received information that Callahan, the late collector for Kilnoe, had managed, in some fraudulent manner, to collect about 40*l.* on account of the last rate made by the late Guardians, and for which he had not accounted. Yesterday we received from Mr. George Sampson, of St. Catherine's, the receipt which Callahan had passed him, and which appears to be dated 1st November, after the time when the warrant had been taken out of his hands and lodged with the clerk. No time was lost by Mr. Hennessy yesterday evening in going before a magistrate and lodging informations against Callahan, upon which a warrant was issued, and he was taken into custody, and is now lodged in the gaol at Tulla. We should be glad of advice how to proceed against him and his sureties; he should be punished for the fraud, and they should be made to pay the amount of deficiency.

The amount of the collection has now so much exceeded our current expenses, that we have begun to pay some of the outstanding cheques of the late Board, and we yesterday paid 167*l.*; we intend to pay a much larger sum next week; and in a very few weeks we hope to have the whole amount of the cheques liquidated. The total amount now outstanding is 3301*l.* 17*s.* 1*d.*

We have to admit, that in giving out-door relief in money to certain classes, we were, in some degree, under the impression that the amount should be regulated according to what appeared to be the cost of necessary subsistence in food, without regard to clothing or other requisites; and this impression was, in a great degree, caused by the provisions made, that relief to certain other classes should be in food only. We are glad, however, to be set right in this respect, and shall, for the future, take into account other circumstances than the price of food in apportioning out-door relief in money. In cases of relief to widows with one child and to orphans, under the sealed order of the Commissioners, it still appears to us that we are prevented from providing anything else but food for such classes, many of whom are in want of clothing and shelter. We wish to know if we should be authorized in providing clothing, at the cost of the Union, for such children as are receiving relief, and who may seem to need decent and proper clothing.

We have received your order authorizing out-door relief to the able-bodied for the space of two months. We have given anxious consideration to the subject, and are fully convinced of the necessity of a stringent test in all such cases of relief; but the necessity of the moment compels us to act on the order without in the first instance enforcing the test; as our other duties are at present so overwhelming, that we are not able to make the necessary arrangements to set the able-bodied recipients to work. We have applied to the Board of Works for implements, and they write that they have referred our application to you, but we have as yet received no answer to our application. The applications for relief at the door of the workhouse became so numerous and so clamorous, and such numbers came from remote districts, whom the relieving officers could no longer detain at home, that we feared death, from cold and exposure, might occur, if not from actual want of food. We wish, therefore, to be armed with the power of giving relief to the able-bodied in food, even for a short time, so as to keep the paupers in their own houses for a little longer, until those under our roofs were properly clothed and classified. We have, in a great degree, relieved the immediate pressure at the door by acting partially on your order. We have directed the relieving officers in no case to give any applicant a ticket of admission to the workhouse without a special order from the Vice-Guardians; but in all cases of immediate necessity, where a family were suffering from want of food, to give immediate relief provisionally, for one week in food, and to report each such case at the next meeting of the Vice-Guardians, who could then exercise their discretion in ordering for their relief. The number of such cases from each of the electoral divisions (but chiefly from Tulla and Feakle) during this week has been very great, and we have not yet been able to give an analysis of them. We have ordered a weekly continuance of food in all cases of able-bodied applicants with families, as it would be impossible for us to attempt to give them in-door relief. We are only able to report the number which were on out-door relief to the 22nd instant, not having time to count the additional cases of this week. They are as follow:—

Scariff and Mountshannon . . .	834
Kilnoe and Killuran . . .	1183
Killaloe and Ogunnella . . .	1174
Feakle	1589
Tulla	1632
Woodford and Clonrush . . .	359
	6771

Amount expended during last week in relieving the above number:—

In money	117	7	6
	£203	10	5

The numbers in the different houses at this date are nearly as follows:—

Workhouse	915
Tomgrany	300
Kirby's	260
Clune's	130
Total	1979

In the throng and pressure for immediate relief, many cases are admitted which, if there were opportunity to examine, would be found to be subjects for out-door relief. We have had much trouble in selecting these cases, and during the last two days have transferred from our in-door cases to our out-door relief list 78 persons of various classes. This has enabled us to admit 34 of the most urgent applicants. We are still, however, in a probationary state, and without the power of enforcing such classification and discipline as is desirable. The making of clothes is proceeding, but much more slowly than our necessities require.

The sickness and mortality among such numbers, when we consider the state of disease and debility in which many of the poor creatures were brought to the door, is comparatively small, and the deaths chiefly among the children. Colds and influenza have been very prevalent, and there have been many cases of dysentery; but, on the whole, we have reason to be satisfied that disease has made so little progress.

Your letter of the 24th instant has been received, relative to the revision of the Union valuation. We are glad that it is the intention of the Commissioners to appoint a revisor of valuation, who will be fully competent to make a new valuation, as we fear the attempt at revision would prove very unsatisfactory, the groundwork of the present rate is so very imperfect.

We hope that under the circumstances in which this Union is placed, where the amount of destitution is so very overwhelming, and the present rate in course of collection so very large, that although the whole of this collection appears likely to be expended about the end of March, some means may be found, by temporary assistance from Government, to preclude the necessity of making a new rate until another crop is raised, as we fear otherwise many of the possessors of property will be utterly ruined, or their resources so dried up as to deprive them of the power of employing labour, and so be the means of throwing an increased amount of pauperism on the Union.

We have received your letter of the 24th instant, together with copy of a letter from Mr. Reade, on which we think it unnecessary to make any observations at present.

We have still to report the state of the schools to be very unsatisfactory, because of the want of books and other requisites. We wrote to the Board of Education a fortnight since for a list of prices, that we might order what was required, but have received no reply. It appears to be a long time since any Inspector from the National Board has visited the schools.

January 29, 1848.

The foregoing report was not ready for post-hour yesterday, and we have this morning received your letter of the 28th instant, enclosing a copy of a Constabulary report relative to the death of Bridget Gallaher. This case you will find on our minutes of Wednesday, the 26th instant, with all the particulars we could then learn. We beg to call your attention to their having been no medical officer present, and that the relieving officer was not summoned. The report given by the relieving officer in this case at our Board was a verbal one; and on recurring to our recollection of it, we think he stated that Bridget Gallaher was subject to epileptic fits, and which circumstance we omitted to state in the minutes.

REPLY to the above:—February 5, 1848.

I AM to express the satisfaction of the Commissioners at the progress which they observe has been made by you in collecting the rates.

In regard to a new valuation of the Union, as suggested by you, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they will give the fullest consideration to your wishes on this head; and the Commissioners are disposed to cause a wholly new valuation to be made, provided that other circumstances render such a course possible.

With reference to your inquiry as to whether you are at liberty to provide clothing (where needed) for children of widows who have only one child, or whether they are limited to food, the Commissioners desire to state that the Vice-Guardians have no power to grant any relief, except in food, to persons relievable under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act. It will be observed that this depends on the express words of the Act of Parliament, and is not one respecting which even the Commissioners themselves have a discretionary power.

In regard to the fraudulent collection of rate by the late collector for Kilnoe, after the warrant had been taken out of his hands, I am to state that you must be guided by professional advice, both as to the civil and criminal proceedings to be taken against this collector, after submitting the whole facts of the case and the bond to a solicitor for that purpose.

The Commissioners quite concur with you that an example should be made by a criminal prosecution, if the facts of the case admit of it, either under the Poor Law Acts or otherwise, and that every exertion should be made to recover the money received and not accounted for.

THE authority to give out-door relief to the able-bodied classes reached us on Tuesday, and relieved us from much anxiety, for it had become absolutely necessary to clothe and classify the paupers who were remaining in a probationary state, before further admissions were made. In the course of another fortnight every arrangement of this nature will be accomplished; after this, and in order that the workhouse test may be yet extensively applied, as well as to withdraw from the market as much of the surplus labour as possible, I propose that during the period in which it may be necessary to grant out-door relief to able-bodied men, it be given to those who have the greatest number of young children; thus reserving the workhouse for all single persons, and, if possible, for married men who have not more than three children. By a plan of this nature, the proportion of school children would not be too great for our existing establishments, even if we made arrangements to provide in-door accommodation for 3000 paupers.

Although practically acting to a limited extent on the order authorizing out-door relief to able-bodied men, still, for obvious reasons, we are not yet ostensibly doing so, and I have enjoined secrecy of the fact of such an order having been issued: it is at present only known to the Vice-Guardians, the clerk, and myself.

In every new case of well-ascertained destitution, the relieving officers have been instructed to administer provisional relief for one week, but on no account to issue tickets for admission to the workhouse without due authority; and it is proposed, during the existence of the present pressure, to continue on provisional relief from week to week to such destitute persons as have large families, and to receive into the workhouse all other destitute able-bodied men with their families. This arrangement will have the double advantage of preventing or mitigating the demoralizing effects of out-door relief, as the large mass of the population will not be slow in observing that out-door relief will never be extended to them; and it will also effectually prevent any destitute person from suffering unnecessary privation.

During the present severe weather it would not be possible to put persons who are half naked to stone-breaking, unless under shelter; efficient arrangements will, however, be made to employ the able-bodied men who may hereafter be put to out relief; and in order that this may be effected in an economical manner, I propose to restrict the application of the order to the most populous localities.

As regards the poor-rate, I have again the satisfaction of being able to report most favourably of the progress now making towards its collection. Accounts have already reached me of the receipt of 5520*l.*, and I have every reason to believe that the entire amount will be speedily paid. My attendance on the few occasions already reported, to see the law enforced against parties who had rescued cattle seized by the collectors, has produced the best possible effect; for as the utter futility of resistance has been proved, the smaller rate-payers are promptly meeting the call. I wish I could say so much for the higher classes. However, fair promises have been made; and so long as money continues to flow in as it has done during the past fortnight, there can be no harm in giving some of them "a long day."

As we have now a balance in hand exceeding 2000*l.*, after paying all our own expenses, I have advised the Vice-Guardians to make a commencement towards the liquidation of the debts incurred by the late Board of Guardians; their outstanding cheques amount to about 3400*l.*, and I propose that these should be first taken up, as they should never have been issued. In about two or three weeks' time we shall have all these paid; and during the next similar period it is hoped that their entire debt of 6000*l.* odd will be extinguished.

The present state and future prospects of the Scariff Union, as compared with affairs as existing two months since, abundantly exemplify the efficacy of the New Poor Law, when vigorously administered; and were it not for the heavy debt incurred by the late Board of Guardians, and their neglect to strike and collect the very moderate rates which would have been adequate for the then wants of the workhouse; had it not been for this, I can see no sufficient cause why the Scariff Union should not have been in a condition to support its own poor without any assistance from the Government, or from the charitable societies. However, as the insolvent state of the Scariff Union, and the extensive spread of destitution amongst its population, occasioned its being considered as one of the 22 Unions situated in the west of Ireland, to which it would be necessary to afford assistance; and as the time is rapidly approaching when it will be entitled to that assistance, by my certifying that the "Guardians have made proper exertions to work out their own arrangements, and that the extent of distress really exceeds all their power of relief, duly and fully exerted;" I am anxious now to place before the Commissioners my views on the subject, and in doing so, I must necessarily advert to matters that have already been sufficiently discussed.

The Commissioners are aware that in urging upon the Vice-Guardians the necessity of striking a 7*s.* 6*d.* rate upon each of the electoral divisions of the Union, I had a double object in view: the first was, to raise sufficient funds to provide for current expenditure up to the end of March next; and the second was to pay all outstanding debts, and thus replace the Union in a state of solvency; these views could not have been achieved had a lower rate been struck; and it is not unworthy of remark, that nearly 18,000*l.* of the Government money was expended in out-door relief during four months of last year, (under Act 10 Vict., c. 7,) to say nothing of the other bountiful contributions showered into the Union by various charitable societies.

Now, as it was intimated to me in confidential communications from the Commissioners, that assistance would be rendered to the Scariff Union only at a period when the necessary local efforts had been made, I was anxious to place the Union in a position to profit by the promised bounty, and at the same time to fulfil my duty to the Commissioners; it did not appear to me that I could consistently with any honourable feeling certify that a proper exertion had been made, unless past misconduct had been atoned for; in other words, until means were taken to at once liquidate the debt which had been so recklessly contracted; it appeared equally reasonable that the rate-payers should also make a proper effort to provide for their destitute poor for a short period. My position has enabled me to see these views carried out; and as my duty to the Commissioners has been carried out, I am now anxious to secure to the Scariff Union the assistance of the British Relief Association. As already stated, the rate in course of collection will be adequate to pay off outstanding debts, and meet current expenditure up to the end of March, from which period up to next harvest I earnestly hope that the Association will provide us with the necessary means of providing for the wants of our poor. At a rough estimate, I calculate that we shall require about 6000*l.* altogether. This assistance will leave the Union free of all embarrassment, and in a position to make a fresh start at the commencement of the next harvest.

REPLY to the above:—February 4, 1848.

I AM to state, that the Commissioners entirely approve of the plan proposed to be adopted by you in offering relief in the workhouse, first, to single able-bodied men, and then to able-bodied men with small families, if there is not room in the workhouse for the two last-mentioned classes, and likewise for able-bodied men with large families.

The Commissioners feel much satisfaction at the progress which has been already made by the Vice-Guardians in the collection of the rates, and the Commissioners trust that the sum which remains at present uncollected will be levied by them with equal vigour and promptitude.

In regard to the relieving officers, the Commissioners desire to point out that those officers have no legal authority to grant relief, except in cases of necessity which are both sudden and urgent; and the Commissioners therefore regard it as foreign to the spirit of the Irish Relief Extension Act, that the relieving officers should give provisional relief for a longer period than until the next meeting of the Guardians after the application for such relief is duly made.

EXTRACT from CONSTABULARY REPORT.

January 21, 1848.*

AN inquest was held this day on the body of Bridget Gallagher, who died on the 19th instant, and a verdict returned that she died of destitution.

*Inspector-General,

OBSERVATIONS of Captain HART thereon.

I BEG to annex a statement from Mr. Purcell, the relieving officer of the district, by which it will be seen that Bridget Gallagher's death did not result from starvation.

In the present case, I am informed that there was no medical man at the inquest, and in no single case has a relieving officer been requested to attend or even noticed of this inquest.

*H. G. HART, Captain 49th Regiment,

Scariff, February 2, 1848.

STATEMENT of Mr. PURCELL referred to in Captain HART's Observations.

Scariff Board-room, February 2, 1848.

THOMAS GALLAGHER rented a farm at Coolmore, which he sold about the 6th January instant to a man named Broderick, who applied to me on his behalf on the 8th January, and stated that he had given him 2*l.* 10*s.* for it.

Gallagher's wife was subject to a violent inward pain, of which it is the opinion of those most intimately acquainted with her that she died.

The money which Gallagher received from Broderick was not spent at the time of her (his wife's) death.

Correspondence respecting the Amount of Rate struck by the Vice-Guardians.

Mr. PATERSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 22, 1847.

I WOULD beg to call your attention to the enormous rate of 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, struck by the Vice-Guardians of the Scariff Union, and to be levied on the property of that Union, and to point out the injustice of laying such a rate in the present impoverished state of the country. Being intimately acquainted with the various properties of that Union, I can assure you that the collection of this rate will be found an impracticability, and one which may lead to very dangerous consequences, both as regards the peace of the Union as well as also the pecuniary resources both of landlord and tenant, most of whom, if not all, are severely pressed by the destitution and depression of the times, as also by the various other taxes. The Vice-Guardians not having any property in the Union, nor having any taxation to pay, cannot be as competent judges as those persons from whose resources their moneys must come, and who, although having a nominal rental, yet, in fact, from the impoverished state of the lower class of tenantry, not in receipt of any, and scarcely able to meet the heavy calls on their resources, almost unable to meet the demand of this excessive rate.

At the same time, gentlemen, that I request your attention to the circumstances of the landlords, and to the sad state in which they now find themselves, I do not mean to exonerate them from the payment of just and lawful rates for the support of the poor, but to require from you that this rate should be levied in some modified manner, either by instalments or in such manner as you and the Vice-Guardians might best see fit; and should it not be in your power to order, yet that you would advise the Vice-Guardians that this rate should be levied by instalments, and that the Vice-Guardians should call a meeting of the landlords, and advise with them as to the best and most desirable manner of doing same, both as regards the resources of the inhabitants of the Union and the peace of the district. Nor do I conceive I am requiring too much in making this request, knowing more intimately than the Vice-Guardians can the state of the Union, and being equally anxious with them that this rate should be collected, and that without oppression or breach of the peace.

Gentlemen, having now laid before you the state of the Union and the hardness of this rate, I would beg respectfully to call your attention to the hardness of my own peculiar case. Having a property in the Union I have always endeavoured, so far as my own pecuniary resources would allow, to assist my tenantry, and not to allow them to look for relief from the poor-rates, either in or out of doors, and have been, up to this period, affording employment from my own money. I now, to benefit them more, have applied for a loan from Government to further assist and enable me to give them greater employment; nor can any advantage accrue to me from this, as, by agreement, each tenant is to work his own land, to be paid daily hire, and he to pay 2 per cent. towards the loan, I 4½ per cent. And yet I, with every anxiety, with every desire, to employ every individual over the age of 15 years; to tax myself, without any hope of gain, with 4½ per cent., now find myself called upon to pay a rate of 7s. 6d. in the pound, never having, as I stated before, one single individual receiving relief from these poor-rates; so that, in fact, this rate, and more especially its being a Union rate, quite ties up my hands, and renders it impossible for me to give the employment so much desired for, having to pay for poor-rate more than 30 per cent., for Government loan 4½. I would, therefore, urge on you the hardship of my case, and which is also the case of three-fourths of the landlords in Ireland; and the necessity and propriety, in order to preserve the property of the country and to encourage employment, that the taxation under the Poor Law be made a townland and not a Union rate; and also to state that my tenantry are the ordinary small class of tenantry of Ireland, who, if not assisted by me, must become a burden and tax upon the country.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 31, 1847.

WE have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of yours of the 23rd instant, enclosing a copy of a letter from Mr. Paterson, relative to the rate of 7s. 6d. in the pound, which has been made in this Union, and requesting us to furnish you with our observations thereon.

In reply, we beg to state that the above rate is so far from enormous, that, setting aside from the present consideration the debt of 17,000*l.* incurred for out relief under 10th Vict., chap. 7, we very much fear it will not be more than sufficient to pay the other debts of the Union, and provide for the current expenditure for the next four months.

Neither is this rate unjust to the rate-payers, who have been hitherto almost exempted from rate, having paid on an average only 7d. in the pound annually since October, 1841, while other Unions were paying 2s. 6d. to 3s. a-year, and the valuation of Scariff Union being notoriously on a very low scale.

As to the impracticability of collecting the rate, we have reason to believe it will not be so great as Mr. Paterson supposes, nor is there so much reason to fear any disturbance of the peace, by making the attempt, as there would be in allowing the poor to perish for want of funds to afford them relief.

It is true the Vice-Guardians have no property in the Union; but for that reason it may be presumed we are more impartial judges of what relief is needed, and of what rates should be levied for the purpose, having no personal interest to prevent our doing justice to the poor as well as to the owners of property.

We have said enough to prove that this rate is just, and we believe you are satisfied that it is lawful, and we therefore hope Mr. Paterson will set a good example by paying it forthwith.

As to collecting it by instalments, if that were legal, it would be most inexpedient, as we cannot feed and clothe the paupers by degrees: it must be done at once, or they will perish; and we fear it would be more difficult to collect 2s. 6d. in the pound in March than 7s. 6d. now.

As to a committee or meeting of landlords to consult, we beg to submit that the late Board of Guardians was partly composed of such, and they were not able to surmount the difficulties of their situation; we are, therefore, satisfied that such a meeting would have no other effect than to retard the necessary operations of the law, and produce nothing but altercation and confusion.

We are glad to know from Mr. Paterson's own declaration, that he is equally anxious with us for the collection of this rate, and is only desirous of preventing oppression and breach of the peace. We are satisfied that with his sincere co-operation, and that of other landlords in the Union, neither of these evils need be dreaded.

As to Mr. Paterson's individual case, it cannot be met by us, however much we may appreciate his useful exertions to give employment. It is for you, gentlemen, to refer him to your reply to the Newcastle Board of Guardians, relative to Lord Devon's application for individual property rating.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 31, 1847.

AFTER a careful perusal of the copy of Mr. Paterson's communication, which accompanied your letter of the 23rd instant, it appears to me that that gentleman is impressed with a notion that the property situated within the Scariff Union has been placed at the mercy of a set of unprincipled functionaries, who are actuated by no better motive than to ensure its wanton confiscation; for Mr. Paterson abstains from all allusion to the starving condition of the population, and is equally silent regarding the state of debt and difficulties into which the Union has been plunged by the late Board of Guardians, or rather by a majority of that body, for there were gentlemen of correct feeling and high honour belonging to that Board, who were most anxious to administer the laws enacted for the relief of the poor with vigour and effect.

It is this heavy debt which has rendered a 7s. 6d. rate indispensably necessary; to liquidate which, and to meet more recent expenditure, 10,000*l.* are at this moment required.

Mr. Paterson should have entered his protest against a reckless expenditure when supplies were being purchased on credit by the late Board of Guardians at more than double the market prices of the day, instead of now raising innumerable objections and difficulties against the remedial measures rendered necessary solely by the misconduct of that Board, and which measures the strong arm of the law has forced upon those who are now administering the Poor Laws in this Union; for the sheriff has long since seized in execution the very rags worn by the inmates of the workhouse, there being no other effects, and a sad deficiency even of these.

In addition to other liabilities, the late Board issued cheques to the amount of nearly 4000*l.*, without having a farthing in the hands of their banker. One of the sad consequences of such a proceeding has been, that many of these cheques have been parted with for one-third of their nominal value; and, last summer, a poor tailor who had been paid for his labour by the Guardians with a cheque for 1*l.* 10s. was glad to sell it for 10s., to save his family from starvation.

I feel bound to infer that Mr. Paterson must be in total ignorance of the circumstances and condition of this Union, with the exception of the one isolated fact of a 7s. 6d. rate having been struck.

As regards his proposal of a townland rating, it is not necessary for me to offer any opinion, seeing that it is repugnant to the existing law; but I feel bound to supply an omission to Mr. Paterson's statement, namely, that a townland rating would effectually screen that gentleman from poor-rates, seeing (if the inquiries and researches which I have made be correct, as I believe them to be) that there are no persons on his property, which is valued at 362*l.*, who require public support, his tenantry being chiefly substantial farmers, there being but 16 persons valued at and under 4*l.*

Finally, Mr. Paterson's fears as to the peace of the Union being broken should the collection of the rate be attempted, I hold to be perfectly groundless; but should any symptoms of the kind be evinced, doubtless the arm of the law will be found sufficiently powerful as well to preserve the peace as to collect the rate. It is no time now to temporize with a section of rate-payers when the pauper population are starving.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. PATERSON:—January 10, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration your letter of the 22nd ultimo; and in reference thereto they desire to state, that having communicated on the subject with the Vice-Guardians of Scariff Union, the Commissioners see no sufficient reason for their interfering to prevent the law from taking its course in respect of the rate which has been made on your property by the Vice-Guardians.

The Commissioners are convinced that the Vice-Guardians in the course which they have adopted have been actuated by a sense of public duty in reference to the great destitution which exists in Scariff Union, and the amount of debts incurred and left unpaid by the late Board of Guardians. The first duty of the Vice-Guardians is, to relieve the distress which unhappily exists in the different electoral divisions of the Union; and unless it is shown that the rate made in any such division is too large to secure this object (which the Commissioners see no reason to believe), the Vice-Guardians were fully justified in making a rate of 7s. 6d. in the pound in all the electoral divisions of an Union the valuation of which is represented to the Commissioners as notoriously too low.

However much the Commissioners may regret the hardship of your individual case, the Commissioners cannot comply with your request to introduce a system of townland rating. At the same time the Commissioners desire to observe, that the present system of rating is not on Unions as such, but on electoral divisions. If, contrary to the expectation of the Vice-Guardians, there is any electoral division in Scariff Union in which the whole sum of 7s. 6d. in the pound will not be required, the balance will remain to the credit of the electoral division, and will not be applied to the uses of the Union generally.

Mr. PATERSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 13, 1848.

I HAVE this day had the honour to receive your letter, in answer to my communication with regard to the rate on the Scariff Union. I beg to call your attention again to that part referring to the collection by instalments, and to which you do not even allude. It would appear from Sir G. Grey's answer to the member for Portarlington, that it is in your power, as I asserted before, to order the Vice-Guardians (they being for the time your servants,) to levy the rate as you may deem fit; nor can I conceive any objection you may have to issuing this order, it tending towards the benefit of the inhabitants of the Union, so will as to the advantage accruing from the rate, and I would again respectfully call your attention to this point.

From your official communication, I can see no reason to infer that my assertion was incorrect as to the rate being a Union, and not an electoral division rate; but on the contrary am now more fully convinced of the validity of my objection, both from the latter part of your letter, as from a previous conversation with Mr. Twisleton, clearly pointing out that the Vice-Guardians never had examined into the cases of the several electoral divisions, but had struck one rate of 7s. 6d. in the pound, I presume to save themselves any extra trouble, "as, should not the whole sum of 7s. 6d. in the pound be required, the balance would remain to the credit of the electoral division, and not be applied to the uses of the Union generally;" in this showing, at least to me, the advantage and benefit of instalments so much desired: for what can I understand by a rate of 7s. 6d. in the pound on all the electoral divisions, otherwise than a Union rate, all the electoral divisions forming the Union.

Gentlemen, I would respectfully urge your attention again to this point, and to the manner in which the rating is at present levied, as it cannot be an advantage to you to assist in the confiscation of property, or to the discouragement of those landlords who are willing, anxious, and in many cases embarrassing themselves, to assist their cottier tenantry; but that rather, you, from the high position, from the great powers you possess, would exercise that authority, and assist and encourage those landlords and private individuals; and I would request you not to shelter yourselves under the plea of not having these rates to pay, in looking to the wants of such landlords, where it can be clearly proved, that, without any hope of gain, without the slightest prospect or wish at emolument, they have been laying out their own monies, than take advantage of the Government loan to employ, and thus remove from the charity of the poor-rates, all those families and separate individuals dependent on them.

With the greatest respect, and with the most urgent entreaty, gentlemen, I would call on you to show to the country that you are determined to use your powers in enforcing the principle that properties should support their own poor, and especially when urged to it by a landlord whose dependants, to a great number, and with but two exceptions, are the small cottier and labouring tenants of the country, and holding all the lands in their own occupation.

I would request your earliest communication.

I would also request the correspondence between your Board and that of the Scariff Union, on the subject of my first letter.

REPLY to the above:—January 20, 1848.

IN reference to that part of your letter in which you call the Commissioners' attention to that part of your letter of the 22nd ultimo, which referred to the collection of the poor-rate by instalments, and to which you state that the Commissioners did not even allude, I am directed in turn to call your attention to the first paragraph of the Commissioners' letter to you in which they state, that they see no sufficient reason for interfering to prevent the law from taking its course in respect of the rate which has been made on your property by the Vice-Guardians.

As you are legally bound to pay the rate which has been made upon you by the Vice-Guardians of Scariff Union; as the law does not recognize the collection of a rate by instalments; and as a collector who has received his warrant, cannot legally be required to take instalments of a rate; the Commissioners, in the words above quoted, virtually negatived the proposition for the collection of the poor-rate in Scariff Union by instalments.

In regard to your account of a conversation at the Poor Law Office, the Commissioners are authorized to assure you, that you entirely misunderstand the drift of what was said on the occasion adverted to.

With respect to your remark, that "you see no reason to infer, from the latter part of the Commissioners' letter of the 10th instant, that your assertion was incorrect as to the rate being an Union, and not an electoral division rate, but that, on the contrary, you are now more fully convinced of the validity of your objection," the Commissioners desire to set forth the passage to which you advert, which was as follows:—

"The present system of rating is not on Unions as such, but on electoral divisions. If, contrary to the expectation of the Vice-Guardians, there is any electoral division in Scariff Union, in which the whole sum of 7s. 6d. in the pound will not be required, the balance will remain to the credit of the electoral division, and will not be applied to the uses of the Union generally."

The Commissioners have to add, that the meaning in the Irish Poor Laws of an Union rate is, a rate which is applied to the uses of the Union generally, and in which, if the whole sum levied on an electoral division is not required for it, the balance, nevertheless, does not remain to the credit of such electoral divisions.

In conclusion, the Commissioners desire to state, that they would readily comply with your request, to furnish you with a copy of the correspondence between the Commissioners and the Scariff Board of Guardians, on the subject of your first letter, were it not contrary to their practice in similar cases. The Commissioners however do not hesitate to acquaint you with the main grounds alleged by the Guardians on which the Commissioners arrived at the conclusion, that it was undesirable for them to prevent the law from taking its course in reference to the rate made on your property. These grounds were, in substance, that the destitution in Scariff Union was very great, and in order to pay the Union debts, and to preserve the destitute poor from starvation, it was necessary to push forward the collection of the rate with the least possible delay.

MR. READE to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 26, 1847.

HAVING no other feasible mode of redress, I trouble you with the following facts :—

I am joint occupier, with a Mrs. Tandy, of the electoral division of Mountshannon, Scariff Union, valuation, Poor Law, 1530*l.*; Ordnance, 1640*l.*; and many farms are let at less than the valuation, by me, previous to the Poor Law enactment, on leases, and agreements for leases, of a life, of 21 years.

Consequently, I am not legally liable to the poor-rate of those holdings.

I wrote, offering to point out to the Vice-Guardians lately appointed, those who were so circumstanced, and well able to pay; and offering personally to pay for 43 holdings, though not legally liable, as the persons were poor—as I always had done on former rates.

The Vice-Guardians have declined my offer, and placed the whole rate on me, as immediate lessor; by this means I lose all the rate from solvent tenants—or I may appeal—and, though I must succeed, I should have to pay, not only my own expense, but also the expense of the defence—as, in all cases, I pay three-fourths of the rates. So that an appeal in each case would be ruinous; and the Vice-Guardians would be perfectly indifferent on the matter.

It is right to state, I did appeal on a former occasion, and at once succeeded.

The Queen's Bench remedy would be still worse, as I should have to pay both costs, though successful.

Both the names were on the rate-book, and the only question for the Vice-Guardians was, which they would enforce the rate from. By taking it from me, I lose the whole rate, and have no remedy. In the other case, the occupiers would have paid it, as they always did.

The difficulties I have to contend with are overwhelming, without any additional or illegal ones being imposed.

A population of 2400, on a valuation of 1530*l.*, or 12*s.* 8*d.* a-head, in a poor mountain district, on which I have had the misfortune to have already expended 10,000*l.* capital. In such a district, to exonerate all the small farmers from poor-rate, and, consequently, make them utterly careless what number of old, helpless, relatives or strangers are introduced, the utter impossibility of controlling such conduct, where all interest is removed, need not be pointed out to you.

The rate struck, 7*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, I will pay out of capital solely. It, with the county tax, 4*s.* in the pound, is a great deal more than I have received—and, in fact, amounts to total confiscation. As duties are now always referred to, I may be pardoned for stating, that I have endeavoured to do mine. I have refused to none, and have uniformly afforded work, for the last 15 months, to every labourer of this division.

But all the solvent farmers have taken alarm, and are flying to America from the rates, or throwing up land. This division and Union, I firmly believe, will almost immediately consist of ruined proprietors and a pauper peasantry.

I shall struggle against it to the last; but I have no doubt of the result—no purchaser can be found for such properties. The Vice-Guardians come from the best land in, perhaps, the world, where 7*s.* 6*d.* is about the value of the 8*th* or 10*th* part of an acre of land—in this Union, it is more than the value of an entire acre; so that, supposing one half the rents to have been paid, and that is the full average, it amounts to a confiscation of the whole available income of the Union.

It will be paid by some proprietors and farmers, out of capital, and the rest of the Union will become one great pauper warren.

I hope the case I have stated, with regard to my own position, will meet your consideration.

The defective valuation of this Union I need not allude to; Lord Morpeth deemed it both "unjust and illegal," and yet the rate is again struck on it, by which some of the best property is altogether exempted, and the rate falls on others with augmented weight.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 31, 1847.

IN reply to your letter of the 28th instant, enclosing copy of a letter from Mr. Reade, relative to the rating of his property in this Union, we beg to state that the only propositions we had from that gentleman were contained in two letters, the substance of the first of which, and our resolution thereon, was stated in our minutes of the 1st December instant.

Mr. Reade's second letter, and our reply thereto, were both stated on our minutes of the 21st instant, to both of which we beg respectfully to refer.

The Vice-Guardians, under the pressing circumstances in which they were placed, and having no distinct or tangible proposition from Mr. Reade, nor means of arriving at an equitable decision on his own ex-parte statement, were obliged to sign the rate-books as they stood, rather than delay the collection, at a moment when the lives of thousands were dependent on the immediate raising of funds for the subsistence of the poor.

In making any decision between Mr. Reade and his tenantry, if we had agreed to entertain his proposition, we are not satisfied that we would have acted legally, and were therefore unwilling to undertake the responsibility. We have made inquiries, and we do not find that Mr. Reade did appeal in the cases he alludes to when a former rate was made, and we cannot see that there is any formidable obstacle to his lodging an appeal now, and if he does so, he will not find that we are disposed to offer any vexatious opposition to his having justice done to him.

We beg to correct a misstatement of Mr. Reade's, that both the names of the occupiers and immediate lessors were in the rate-books; this is not the fact, nor would it be legal to have it so.

Mr. Reade speaks of the difficulties he has to contend with, which, no doubt, are many, but we submit that they are not greater than those of other landed proprietors in this Union, nor so great as those to which we, as Vice-Guardians, are subject, which Mr. Reade and some other rate-payers rather seek to aggravate than to alleviate.

We find that the electoral division of Mountshannon, in which Mr. Reade's property is situated, is valued, as he states, to 1536*l.*, the rate on which, with arrears, amounts to 595*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* The amount due by that electoral division at 29th September last was 272*l.*, besides 217*l.* for relief, under 10 Vict. cap. 7. The estimated expense to 25th March next, cannot be less than 200*l.*, which will leave the electoral division still in debt, even if the whole of the rate be collected before that time.

The question between Mr. Reade and the Vice-Guardians is not as to the value of the land on which the rate is levied, but whether the rate is or is not sufficient or excessive for the purpose of supporting the poor in the manner provided by the law. The value of the land in the district from which the Vice-Guardians came has nothing whatsoever to do with the matter, and has had no influence in determining the amount of rate which they should strike; they regarded chiefly the debts of the Union, and the necessities of the destitute poor; but were in some measure guided by the supposed ability of the rate-payers to meet this demand, and it was this consideration alone which prevented their making a still higher rate.

Mr. Reade seems to have gone astray in his calculations, by assuming that the rate will amount to 7*s.* 6*d.* per acre on the poor land in this Union. We wish to correct him by explaining that the rate amounts only to three-eighths of the annual value of the acre, whether that acre is worth 3*l.* or only 5*s.* We are sorry to find that this Union is in so impoverished a state; the mass of pauperism is immense, almost overwhelming, but we do not think that the population should be abandoned to certain annihilation by famine and pestilence, without an effort to avert such a calamity.

Mr. Reade has failed to point out any feasible remedy by which destitution can be relieved without expense to the owners of property.

Scariff Union.

We are convinced that the present valuation of the Union is very defective, and are most anxious to have it corrected, but the overwhelming pressure of debts and destitution, left us no alternative but to choose the least of two evils, and make a rate on the existing valuation.

ENCLOSURES.

EXTRACTS from MINUTES of the VICE-GUARDIANS referred to in the foregoing Report.

Extract from Minutes of December 1, 1847.

READ a letter from Philip Reade, Esq., of Wood Park, Mountshannon, in this Union, complaining of the injustice of striking a rate on the immediate lessor in the electoral division of Mountshannon, for lands which are either held in perpetuity, or for long terms on leases, or agreements for leases dated prior to the first Poor Law Act, and therefore expressly exempted by the Act from being so charged; and further stating that several farms have been consolidated into one, and yet are now charged separately to the immediate lessor; and complaining that a great injustice would be wrought unless the rate-book is amended.

Resolved,—That the necessities of the poor in this Union are such, and the sufferings so great both within and outside the workhouse, from the want of funds to pay for the daily maintenance of the paupers, and to afford that measure of out-door relief to which the sick and indigent poor are entitled; and the embarrassments of the Union being so great from the pressing demands of creditors to the amount of over 6000*l.*, left unpaid by the late Guardians, the present property in the workhouse being seized by the sheriff under execution at the suit of some of the creditors, and liable to be sold from day to day, the Vice-Guardians consider it their duty not to delay signing the rate-books, notwithstanding the complaint of Mr. Reade, more especially because it does not appear that Mr. Reade appealed against the rating when last made by the late Board of Guardians, and that it is still in his power to appeal against the present rating if he finds himself aggrieved.

Extracts from Minutes of December 21, 1847.

*Mountshannon Electoral Division,
December 21, 1847.*

As persons may, and I believe have applied for and are receiving relief in this electoral division who can earn good wages if they please to work, I beg to apprise you thus officially, as I have previously in your Board-room, that no person whatever has been refused employment by me for, I believe, 15 months, and that I have ordered my steward to continue to afford it at full wages, and when it ceases I shall inform you or direct him to do so. I beg also to state, that all persons employed get an excellent 4 lb. of good stirabout for $\frac{1}{2}$ d., and all poor widows and others the same gratis, daily, who have been deemed objects, and that same will be continued until the 1st March next, and if then stopped you will be informed of the fact. Under these circumstances, I hope the Vice-Guardians will not encourage idleness, by affording relief to those who are able to work, or discourage industry and independent support, by giving money as relief to persons who can get food gratis daily if really objects, and who, with assistance, will now, as they always have done heretofore, support themselves by various independent sources of industry, and which, if pecuniary aid is once tasted, will utterly cease, and also utterly confiscate the property of this electoral division. Begging this letter may be inserted on your minutes,

I remain, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant.

PHILIP READE.

The following reply was given to Mr. Reade's letter.

SIR,

Scariff Union, December 21, 1847.

YOUR letter of this date has been received, and will be inserted in our minutes. We can assure you that we fully appreciate the exertions you are making to give employment and subsistence to the poor of your neighbourhood, and that we shall be happy to co-operate with your views by not affording relief to those who have an opportunity of earning their livelihood by labour. As to the relief of those classes whom we are obliged by law to relieve out of doors, when there is no room for them in the house, we must depend on the report of the relieving officer as to their destitution, but the relieving officer will be glad to have your assistance to enable him to detect any cases of imposition which may be attempted.

If you would supply Mr. George Sampson with a list of those to whom you are kindly affording relief gratis, it would enable him to distinguish those in his report, and we would give them our attention.

Your obedient servants,

(Signed)

J. J. FISHER, }
JOHN CHRISTY, } Vice-Guardians.

Captain HART to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 30, 1847.

Scariff Union.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 28th instant, enclosing a copy of a letter from Mr. Reade, and in reply I beg to enclose a copy of another letter from that gentleman, together with an extract from the minutes dated 1st instant, which embodies the sentiments of the Vice-Guardians and myself, on the subject which Mr. Reade has brought under the notice of the Commissioners.

I must add, however, that it appears to me that Mr. Reade should have pressed for the redress of his grievance during the period when he was himself in office, seeing that the Guardians were left perfectly uncontrolled in the alteration of the valuation; so much so, indeed, that one Guardian reduced his own valuation below the amount which qualified him to remain in office; and, on this fact being pointed out to him, he then added another shilling to his rating merely to sustain his position as a Poor Law Guardian.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. READE:—January 12, 1848.

IN reference to your letter of the 26th ultimo, the Commissioners have communicated with the Vice-Guardians, and the Guardians have explained, to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, that they were obliged to sign the rate-books as they stood, rather than delay the collection at a moment when the lives of thousands were dependent on the immediate raising of funds for the relief of the poor. The Commissioners would sincerely regret to learn that your property was unduly burdened by the rate. Still the legal remedy of appeal remains to you; and in the present very embarrassing circumstances of the Union, the Vice-Guardians were reduced to the unpleasant necessity of choosing between two evils, and of these they appear to the Commissioners to have chosen the least.

From the report of the Vice-Guardians, the rate made on the electoral division of Mountshannon does not seem to be greater than is required for the purpose of supporting the poor in the manner provided by the law. The whole valuation is, as you correctly state, 1536*l.*; and the rate, with arrears, amounts to 595*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* Now the amount due by the electoral division for Poor Law expenses on the 29th of September last was 272*l.*, besides 217*l.* due for relief under the 10th Vic. c. 7; and the estimated expenses to the 25th of March next cannot, it is stated, be less than 200*l.* So that, supposing the electoral division does not repay any of the advances under the Temporary Relief Act before the 25th of next March, the electoral division will only have the sum of 106*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* to its credit at that date, while if the division repays the full amount of those advances, it will actually be in debt.

Mr. READE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 18, 1848.

IT is, I know, useless to remonstrate with official gentlemen once they have decided, and I only write in reply to your letter of the 12th instant, to correct facts as given by the Vice-Guardians:—

“That they were obliged to sign the books rather than delay the collection a “moment.” Nearly two months, from 13th October to 8th December, was devoted to fill this rate-book, one quarter of an hour with the revised valuation on the table was not too much to do so honestly and legally, as it was only to leave both names on the rate-book instead of improperly omitting one.

I thought I had explained that the grievance I complain of is, that I am virtually deprived of my right of appeal by having to pay costs at both sides, which exceed the possible gain. “That the legal remedy of appeal remains to me,” as stated in your letter, is rather a singular answer to my complaint.

Excuse these observations, but when I see the fruits of my own unwearied industry and capital for many years, and my children's property, about to be confiscated by the course adopted, I cannot at once submit in total silence.

None of the debts are paid; a small one, only 4*l.*, due to myself, was refused on Saturday; and I deliberately and thus coolly state my conviction, that if the uncontrolled command of the funds is left to persons, one of whom at least has extreme opinions, and with merely official surveillance, and not of those having personal interest, all the property of this Union will be confiscated "according to law."

One further hope I have, which I now submit for your consideration.

The workhouse now contains, as I hear, 900 paupers. The proportion of accommodation falling to this electoral division would be for about 33 persons; now, if by private expenditure I prevent a greater number entering the house, this electoral division, the poorest in the Union, with only 12s. 6d. a head for its population, ought to be exempted from paying for the other houses and stores taken for the in-door relief of other electoral divisions at immense expense. There is evidently no reason why one electoral division should be charged with the in-door relief of another than with its out-door relief, particularly when it is prevented by private employment.

If this is decided against me it will paralyze individual exertion, and this estate will, ere long, be handed over to the Poor Law Commissioners or their paid Guardians, and I should retire to another country while I have yet an independence to enable me to do so.

REPLY to the above:—January 22, 1848.

THE Commissioners will communicate your letter to the Vice-Guardians.

The Commissioners can assure you that they are much concerned, and are convinced that the feeling is shared by the Vice-Guardians, that a necessity should exist for making such a heavy rate on your electoral division. At the same time the Vice-Guardians, in the present circumstances of the Union, had only a choice of two evils before them, and of these they selected the best.

In regard to your request that your electoral division should be exempted from paying for the other houses and stores taken for the in-door relief of other electoral divisions, the Commissioners have to regret that in this instance, likewise, they are precluded from meeting your views, inasmuch as the principle involved in your request is not recognized in the Irish Poor Relief Acts, and that it is at variance with the manner in which the establishment charges are regulated in all Unions in England, Wales, or Ireland.

KENMARE UNION.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—November 28, 1847.

I HAVE to acquaint the Commissioners of my arrival here on the 23rd instant, and for their information beg to submit the following report of the Union, upon the inspection which I have as yet been able to make.

My first duty was to inspect the state of the workhouse. Its order and cleanliness were to my satisfaction; it contained the number of inmates it is calculated to receive (500), including about 40 in the hospital, but upwards of half the number were children.

I attended the Board of Guardians yesterday, when they received me with proper courtesy, and manifested a desire to carry out the views of the Commissioners. The subject of admitting more paupers into the workhouse than it is intended for, by accommodating the extra numbers in the probationary wards, was brought up. Upon my objection it was abandoned; one of the Guardians having provided accommodation in the town for 100 boys, they were removed, which enabled 100 more inmates to be received into the workhouse, making 600 receiving in-door relief. During the whole day, the entrance was surrounded by hundreds of applicants of the most miserable and destitute class, craving for admission. I caused resolutions to be adopted, appointing a visiting Committee to attend to the internal economy of the workhouse, and a Committee to control and facilitate the collection of the rates, who expressed a readiness to undertake their duties.

With respect to the collection of the rates, at present I am unable to form an opinion of the amount likely to be collected; but 133% was paid in during the last week. The finances of the Union are in most embarrassed circumstances, as the Commissioners are aware; the liabilities, amounting to 3212%, with an expenditure increasing weekly, and an amount of destitution they are unable to relieve. Out-door relief is being given only in four divisions, the funds for three being supplied from the balances remaining under the Temporary Relief Act.

The subject of the great amount of distress already prevailing throughout this Union, is of serious consideration, and requires immediate attention. Allowing that every exertion is made on the part of the Guardians, the resources of the Union are quite inadequate to relieve the great disproportion of the destitute population. The Commissioners are doubtless aware of the circumstances of this Union; I only wish to remind them there is no employment for the people, and they have no substitute to compensate for the loss of the potato upon which they entirely depended. At present the distress of the people is far greater than what prevailed during the same period last year. The destitution is increasing so rapidly, that it is sad to contemplate what a few weeks may produce. The town is at this moment, filled with the most miserable objects seeking relief; the cries of the children from hunger are most distressing; the Bridewell is full of people who have been taken up in the streets, and this shelter they are glad to obtain.

This morning, I regret to say, an attack was meditated upon the Commissariat stores, but the presence of the police deterred the people.

I have made a tour of inspection through the division of Tuosist. It is of great extent and in greater poverty than any part of the Union. It is thickly populated on various parts of the coast, where there are no visible means of subsistence, and numbers are suffering from the want of food. From this division there are upwards of 100 inmates in the workhouse. As yet there is no out-door relief afforded. The state of this division certainly requires some relief, and that without delay. There are some very useful roads required, which I would suggest as a useful employment for the people.

I recommend that the benevolent intention of the British Association for affording relief, through the medium of existing schools, should be carried into operation without delay; though I fear that the school accommodation in this Union is very limited.

In conclusion, I cannot refrain from impressing upon the minds of the Corr missioners the necessity of affording some assistance to this district, as under any circumstances, the season is too far advanced for any reliance to be placed upon the Guardians for mitigating the present amount of destitution, and the winter before us, I apprehend, will be a season of severe distress and suffering for the destitute.

Kenmare Union.

REPLY to the foregoing :—December 1, 1847.

WITH regard to the crowded state of the workhouse and the pressure for relief, I am to request that, if possible, further additional accommodation may be obtained with a view of sending more of the children out of the house; and I am also to recommend you to move the Guardians to give out-door relief at once, to all persons that can be removed from the house, and are of the class described in the 1st sec. 10 Vic., cap. 31, as well as to all destitute persons of such classes who may be amongst the applicants for relief.

The Commissioners are also of opinion that much good may be effected by a public notice from the Guardians, apprizing the rate-payers of the urgent necessity for an immediate payment of the rates outstanding, which the collectors are required to recover by all the means which the law places at their disposal.

I am at the same time, to request that you will report whether it is necessary to extend the power of giving out-door relief, by an order under the 2nd section of the Act, either limited to certain classes (as in an order to the Old-castle Union, a copy of which is herewith sent for your information), or extended to the able-bodied classes that may be legally relieved, as by the further order issued to that Union, a copy of which is also sent.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 10, 1847.

IN compliance with the Commissioners' request, contained in your letter of the 1st instant, I have to report that, although the extent of destitution in this Union may require an order under the 2nd section of the Act 10 Vic., cap. 31, it is unnecessary to issue it until the provisions of the 1st section are properly extended to all destitute persons of the classes therein mentioned. Under this section the Commissioners' instructions are not fully carried out, nor has it yet been applied to the very distressed electoral divisions, viz., Tuosist, Bourdoneen, and Kilgarven. The excuse put forth by the Guardians is, their inability from want of funds; as, in consequence of their heavy debts, they are bound to pay away the rates as soon as they are collected, to avoid getting into further difficulties by being subjected to legal proceedings.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 5, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to submit the following weekly report, for the information of the Commissioners.

This week I have completed my tour of inspection of the Union, and am much struck with the general poverty which prevails throughout the district, which I can only briefly represent, by stating that the general mass of the population is in a state of pauperism.

The Guardians have entered into arrangements for extra workhouse accommodation in the town. In the course of a few days, more of the children will be removed, when more inmates will be received. The applicants are numerous, and all are real objects of distress.

The Committee appointed to control the collection of the rates met on Friday, and investigated the accounts of the collectors, when it appeared that their progress had been satisfactory, considering that they have, as yet, confined the collection to the most remote and unfrequented parts of their districts. I have therefore, some confidence, that as they call on the more wealthy classes for payment, the great bulk of the rate will come in without much difficulty.

The balance in hand of the Bourdoneen Relief Committee (amounting to 28*l.* in cash, and 10*l.* in meal, remaining from advances under the Temporary Relief Act), was produced yesterday, and transferred to the Guardians, and is intended to be applied for the out-door relief.

Out-door relief is a measure which I fear it will be found exceedingly difficult to establish in this Union, partly owing to the financial embarrassments of the Guardians, but chiefly from the disproportionate amount of pauperism compared with the value of the land. As the rates are collected, the Guardians are compelled to discharge their debts, many of which are of long standing, and they are continually threatened with legal proceedings by their creditors. It would be impracticable to collect another rate for a considerable period; consequently, taking into consideration the augmented workhouse expenditure, it appears to me that the Union will scarcely be in a position, to do more than provide for the workhouse with extended accommodation.

The motion for a paid Board of Guardians came before the Board yesterday, and was lost by a majority of two votes. The argument put forth by its supporters was, that it was impossible for the Guardians to give that attention to their duties which the increased business of the Poor Law Extension Act require; and that in consequence of the great distance some of the Guardians have to come on a Board day, they are seldom able to attend.

The Guardians and some residents of the Bourdoneen electoral division, have represented the great inconvenience they experience from being attached to the Kenmare Union, owing to its remote position, and are desirous of being changed to the Cahirciveen Union.

It would be a great benefit and source of relief to the Union, were the parties allowed to proceed in the execution of the works, which have been granted under the Land Improvement Act.

I had the gratification of meeting Mr. Crawford (Inspector) at the Board yesterday.

REPLY to the above :—December 8, 1847.

THE Commissioners infer, from your observations with respect to the collection of the rate, that the collectors are not in the first instance obtaining the rates from the highest rate-payers.

The Commissioners recommend that, in the first place, the rates should be collected from all the higher and more wealthy classes in the Union, or at least, that the collection in any particular district should include all classes. It has been found useful in other Unions, to require the collectors to return to the Guardians each week, the names of the ten highest rate-payers in each district, who are in arrear; and I am to suggest that this plan should be adopted in the Kenmare Union, as the Guardians will be better enabled by that means, to instruct the collectors as to any proceedings which may be necessary in any case, to obtain immediate payment of the rate.

The circumstances of the Union absolutely require that the most speedy and vigorous efforts should be made to collect the rates, which are required for the support of the destitute poor in the Union, and the Commissioners are anxious that your continued attention should be directed to this essential point.

The Commissioners regret to observe, that you entertain apprehension of great difficulty in administering out-door relief, owing to the extent of pauperism in the Union; but they request you to bear in mind, that when the sources of the Union, are fully called into action, if they be fully proved to be inadequate, the funds of the British Association will be to a certain extent, an auxiliary resource.

As regards the Bourdoneen division, I am to state that the Commissioners are desirous that alterations of Unions should not be made at the present time, unless absolutely requisite; and they think that the provisions of the 6th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act may be acted upon with advantage in that division. Your further observations on this matter are requested.

The Commissioners will communicate to the Board of Works your observations with respect to the commencement of works under the Drainage Act, in the Kenmare Union.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS.—December 12, 1847.

THE distress and destitution prevailing generally throughout the electoral division of Tuosist, without any prospect of relief from the Guardians, instigate me to the expediency of making special application to the Commissioners, to consider the necessity of granting relief to this division.

I have personally inspected the condition of the people of Tuosist, and can therefore testify from observation that, in many parts, the people are suffering from all the miseries of famine; nor can I conceive it possible for them to endure their privations much longer.

Owing to the poverty of the rate-payers in this division, it is hopeless to look to them for the means of supporting the dreadful amount of pauperism. There are more than its proportion of inmates in the workhouse, most of whom are objects for the out-door relief; but as there is none in this division, it is impossible to refuse them admission, in consequence of their miserable condition, though it crowds the house to the disadvantage of the other divisions.

Under the afflicting circumstances, I feel bound to recommend the case of this division as one which the Commissioners may justly consider as an exception, and request their sanction to the funds of the British Association being applied for relief in Tuosist, or to any other course the Commissioners may deem more expedient.

To delay, until I can report that the resources of the Union generally are inadequate, would be attended with fatal results; and, with regret, I cannot but anticipate loss of life, by the time arrangements can be made for extending relief, consequent upon this representation, even should the Commissioners act immediately on this requisition.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 12, 1847.

FOR the information of the Commissioners, I have the honour to submit the following weekly report.

This week further extra workhouse accommodation in the town has been made available for children, which enabled the Guardians to admit 120 more inmates into the workhouse yesterday. With respect to the collection of the rates, but little progress has been made this week. At the meeting yesterday, the names of the ten highest rated defaulters were brought before the notice of the Board, amongst them are several of the Guardians, and gentlemen who hold stations of influence in society. The collectors were directed to give a satisfactory account that they have used every means which the law places at their disposal, to recover the outstanding rates from these parties, by the next Board-day, and that in case of neglect, they must suffer the penalty.

Out-door relief has been this week supplied to the Bourdoneen division, from the balance which remained from the Relief Commission. The divisions of Kilgarvan, Bunawn, and Tuosist, are deprived of the benefit of out-door relief from want of funds. The destitution prevailing in the latter is such, that I consider it as a special case for assistance.

The financial difficulties of the Union prevent the Guardians from giving due effect to the operation of the Poor Law. The pressing demands of their creditors, leave them no alternative but to discharge their debts. Of the outstanding rate there remains about 2,000% of debt.

Owing to the distance of the Bourdoneen and Ballyboy electoral divisions, I would recommend the Commissioners to issue directions for complying with the provisions of the 6th section of the Act 10 Vict. cap. 31, as the Guardians complain of their inability to attend the Board.

The distress of the Union increases, nor do I hear of any local exertions being made which are likely to afford relief.

Exertions are being made by the poor people to prepare their land for cultivation by manuring with sea-weed.

Deputy Commissary-General Dobree visited the Union this week, on his tour of inspection, and informed me of the intention of Government to construct an oven at the workhouse. The Guardians gladly accept the offer. It will be of great service, and I recommend it to be erected without delay, as the scarcity of bakers has delayed my proceedings, in distributing the bounty of the British Association to the schools.

REPLY to the foregoing:—December 15, 1847.

THE Commissioners have issued an order for enabling the Board of Guardians of Kenmare Union to give out-door relief to certain classes of the destitute poor, in addition to those described in the 1st section of the Act 10 Vic., cap. 31.

The circumstances of the Union to which you have drawn attention, require that the most strenuous exertions should be made to collect the rates throughout the Union, from all rate-payers possessing the means of payment; and the Commissioners trust, that you will require the collectors to give the most unremitting attention to this important object.

At the same time, the Commissioners request you to report formally, whether the Guardians are taking due steps to enforce payment of the rates, as in case of failure the Commissioners will have to consider their responsibilities under the 18th section of the Act 10 Vic., cap. 31.

In reference to the remarks in your report of the 12th instant, the Commissioners deem it right to observe, that the rates of the whole Union are applicable to the relief of the distress of all parts of the Union; and that, in such portions of the Union as are not now able to pay rates sufficient to relieve the distress there existing, any sums applied for the purpose out of the rates collected in other divisions, must be replaced hereafter by the collection of the rates now outstanding, and by the imposition of further rates on such portions of the Union, if necessary.

The Commissioners observe that the rateable property in Bourdoneen, Kilgervan, Bunawn, and Tuosist divisions, to the destitution in which you make special reference, is estimated for rating at the annual value of 12,268*l.* 10*s.*

That portion of your report of the 12th instant which relates to the construction of an oven in the workhouse, under the direction of Commissary-General Sir R. J. Routh, will be communicated to him.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 18, 1847.

IN compliance with the request of the Commissioners, contained in your letter of the 15th instant, directing me to report whether the Guardians are taking due steps to enforce the payment of the rates, I have to state, that since my arrival in the Union they have made as much progress in the collection, as can reasonably be expected.

With reference to the sealed order of the Commissioners, ordering out-door relief to be given to certain classes of the destitute poor, in addition to those described in the 1st section of the Act 10 Vict. cap. 31, I beg to observe that as the order directs the relief to be given in food, and as the Guardians at present give out-door relief in money, we should have two different systems in operation, which would cause much confusion. I have, therefore, to request that the Commissioners will inform me whether the Guardians should be restricted to giving relief in food, or by an allowance of money, as they have been permitted to do up to the present time.

THE Commissioners have received with satisfaction, the statement that since your arrival in the Union, the Board of Guardians have made as much progress in the collection of the rates, as can reasonably be expected; and they trust that the Board of Guardians will use such exertions in the collection of the rates as are necessary, to enable them to afford relief effectually to the destitute poor of the Union.

I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners cannot but entertain the opinion that a larger amount of rate might have been collected in the last month, than 635*l.* out of 4236*l.*, due at the beginning of the month; and they bear in mind that you have already drawn attention to the fact, that some Guardians owe the rate assessed on their holdings.

As regards the relief to be afforded to certain classes of poor persons in the Union, I am to state, that relief should be given, in food only, to the able-bodied, in accordance with the Commissioners' order of the 15th instant; but relief may be still given as heretofore in money, or partly in money and partly in food, as may be found expedient, to the classes to whom the Guardians were authorized to give out-door relief, before the issue of that order.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 19, 1847.

FOR the information of the Commissioners, I have the honour to submit the following weekly report.

Considering the circumstances of this Union, the administration of the Poor Law, since my arrival in the Union, has thus far proceeded with satisfaction, and I have had great pleasure in seeing its gradual extension made available to relieve the increasing demands of destitution.

The extra workhouse accommodation provided in the town, has been a great source of relief to the Union, affording admission to many able-bodied families who were in great destitution, to which class all the admissions are confined; and owing to the numerous families of this class, the greater portion of inmates are consequently children. Upon examination it is found, that the extra houses are capable of receiving more inmates, which will enable the Guardians to admit about 50 more; and there are also a few in the house who are entitled to out-door relief, who are to be removed.

The sealed order of the Commissioners, dated the 15th instant, was read yesterday at the Board, enabling them to extend out-door relief to certain classes of the destitute poor, in addition to those described in the 1st section of the Act, 10 Vic., cap. 31, and a resolution adopted to act upon it. Out-door relief has been granted to the divisions of Kilgarven and Tuosist, which at length extends it over the whole Union.

Upon the important subject of the collection of rates, I have endeavoured to stimulate the collectors in the execution of their duties. They have certainly increased their exertions; but at the same time I think they are in need of assistance, and of being supported in their authority, to enforce payments. In several instances of distress upon parties well able to pay, there have occurred rescues, and in such cases the collectors should have immediate support upon application. The collector for the Bourdoneen division makes but slow progress in the collection, owing to a rumour of resistance. He appears to be intimidated from making use of his powers, and wishes for the support of police or military. At the next meeting of the collectors I hope to receive a good return, as they say there are fairs and other public meetings then to be held where they confidently expect to obtain payments. There are several appeals against rates, which will come before the sessions on January 3rd.

Much discussion has arisen at the Board with reference to the appointment of a legal officer, the candidates being a Guardian and a Guardian's brother. The selection yesterday fell upon Mr. Downing (attorney), a Guardian, and I hear that he is the most competent person in the town for the business required.

It is much to be lamented there is no employment going on. Throughout the Union, I see no private exertions to assist the people with employment.

I have commenced the distribution of the bounty of the British Association to destitute children through the medium of existing schools; unfortunately they are so few in number that very little benefit can be experienced.

This week I have travelled over a great portion of the Union; the condition of the people is most wretched, and their prospects nothing but a trial of severe misery and suffering.

REPLY to the above:—December 23, 1847.

WITH reference to the resistance which the collector for Bourdoneen electoral division states has been offered to him in the collection of the poor-rate, I am to state that the Commissioners have reason to know, that the requisite assistance to enable the collectors to discharge their duties effectually, will be given on the proper application for aid being made to the stipendiary magistrate.

It is of great importance that any resistance to the collectors, should be met and overcome with promptitude and vigour; and as ample assistance, where really required, will be immediately afforded on application for it, any alleged resistance to the collectors in the discharge of their duties, cannot be admitted as an excuse for unsatisfactory returns of the collection.

The Commissioners request that you will have the goodness to impress the Guardians with these views.

With reference to the proposed appointment of a solicitor to the Board of Guardians, I am to state that the Commissioners have already addressed the Guardians on the subject.

As regards the want of employment in the Union, the Commissioners regret that private exertions are not being made to provide profitable employment for the poorer classes. A want of activity in this respect, can only result in causing the necessary imposition of increased rates on all rateable property for the support of the poor.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 27, 1847.

THE Board of Guardians met on Friday, in consequence of Christmas-day falling on Saturday. They have come to the resolution of holding their meetings at an earlier hour in future; hitherto they have seldom assembled before two o'clock, which was a cause of much business being neglected.

There are still in the workhouse several of the classes entitled to receive out-door relief under the 1st section of the Act, but the Guardians express a disinclination to remove them from the house, upon the grounds that it would be a harsh measure to remove those who have no shelter outside. Several inmates from the Bourdoneen electoral division left the house during the week, at their own request.

The collectors are making exertions to get in the rates, but I regret there are many unsatisfactory reports regarding opposition. They have distrained in many instances, and in nearly every case they have been rescued; the offenders have been summoned, and informations taken by the magistrates. The collectors have processed a large number of defaulters, for the next quarter, sessions to be held in Kenmare on the 3rd January next; and they will have the advantage, where decrees may be obtained, of selling distresses made under them without employing a licensed auctioneer. As yet no benefit has been gained through the measure of exposing the names of the ten highest rated defaulters; the exposure, I am sorry to state, has little or no effect on the parties so disregarding the law. The result of proceedings at quarter sessions, it is to be hoped, may produce a salutary effect, should the law demonstrate to the public the crime for non-payment of rates. As the collectors are to make their reports at the end of this week, I must defer making a more definite report of their proceedings.

The magistrates should, in every case, show their determination to support the collectors in carrying out the law. The petty sessions are only held here once a month. I am of opinion a reinforcement of police or military would have the effect of showing the determination of Government to enforce the rates being collected.

By discharging all persons from the workhouse entitled to out-door relief, I am of opinion that the number to be relieved under the order of the 15th instant, would not be so extensive as to require the expense of food establishments, unless it is more advantageous to give all out-door relief in food.

With the exception of a school at the western extremity of Tuosist, I have succeeded in supplying each of the established public schools with rations of bread, under the conditions allowed for distributing the bounty of the British Relief Association, each destitute child receiving $\frac{3}{4}$ lb. of rye bread, which I have baked by contract in Kenmare, and forwarded by carts to the respective schools in the district. In forwarding these supplies, I apprehend the escort of police will soon be necessary, as I hear that several depredations have been committed on live stock.

I regret that the want of unity of feeling and co-operation in this community is an obstacle against carrying out any public measure with general satisfaction, which unfortunately is the case with regard to the school relief, some parties not being satisfied without having the entire control in the distribution and arrangements.

Due consideration may be allowed to the collectors for the nature of the country where they have to collect, which during the late stormy and wet weather rendered the mountainous glens almost inaccessible: the treasurer being at Tralee, and the long distance they must come to make their reports and attend the Board, engage a great deal of their time. The collector of the Bourdoneen electoral division has been very unsuccessful, which I fear results from a combination against payment of rates.

REPLY to the foregoing:—January 1, 1848.

WITH reference to the persons in the workhouse who you state, are entitled to out-door relief, the Commissioners recommend you to have lists of these classes made, according to the electoral divisions in which they resided before entering the workhouse, and send the lists to the relieving officers to ascertain whether means of lodging, with relations, or otherwise, may not be found by the paupers if discharged.

It is not incumbent on the Guardians to give out-door relief in food only, to the classes specified in the 1st section of the Extension Act; in fact, the Guardians have ample power to grant allowances sufficient to provide the pauper inmates with lodging, clothing, and fuel, as well as food.

Under these circumstances the Commissioners acquiesce in the course adopted by the Guardians. It is a matter of essential importance to the interest of the Union that the workhouse should be received as a test for able-bodied men, and they rely on your impressing this view upon the Guardians in the strongest manner, in accordance with the Commissioners' instructions of 26th October.

As regards the collection of the poor-rates, the Commissioners request that you will have the goodness to impress on the Board of Guardians that they are responsible for having the rates collected or enforced from all persons possessing means of payment; and that if this be not done by a strenuous exercise of the powers which the Guardians and collectors possess, the Commissioners must consider that the duties of the Board of Guardians are not effectively discharged, and the Commissioners will feel bound to take into consideration their own responsibility in such cases, under the 18th section of the 10 Vict., cap. 31.

The Commissioners recommend that when the collectors ask for escort, they be required to make information of its necessity before the stipendiary magistrate, when protection will be given in the usual course.

To proceed by summons it is not necessary to wait for petty sessions, as the grand jury, which authorizes this mode of proceeding, enables any one magistrate of the county to issue the summons requiring the rate-payer to appear before himself.

At the same time the Commissioners desire to state, that the collectors, when not proceeding by summons, may distrain under their own warrants.

As regards the apprehended plunder of provisions supplied by the British Association, I am to state that whenever you may consider an escort necessary for the carts conveying food to the schools, you should make timely application to the local authorities.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 31, 1847.

I HAVE this day been examining the accounts of the rate-collectors, and receiving their explanations, with reference to the delay in obtaining the outstanding rate, and I have to make special complaint against the rate-payers of the Bourdoneen electoral division for non-payment; and request the Commissioners will cause compulsory measures being resorted to for payment of rates.

It appears from the evidence of the rate-collector, Mr. W. J. Kelly, that there appears to exist a decided determination against the payment of the rate in Bourdoneen, an English proprietor, E. B. Hartopp, Esq., and a few small farmers being the only individuals who have paid.

The total amount of the rate in this division is 663*l.* 6*s.* 11*d.*, of which the sum 614*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.* still remains uncollected. The following are the names of the most influential parties who are defaulters:—

Maurice O'Connell, Esq., M.P.

James Butler, Esq., J.P.

James F. Bland, Esq., P.L.G.

Eugene O'Sullivan, Esq., P.L.G.

William Jermyn, Esq., P.L.G.

One, a magistrate, has been applied to three times, but without obtaining payment.

Kenmare Union.

The collector states that he used every exertion in his power to enforce the law. On making distresses he was rescued. He lodged the information with a magistrate, who was unable to assist him in consequence of the inadequate strength of the police force, there being only two constables to assist him.

At Sneem, the nearest police station, there are but four constables.

There is no reasonable excuse why the rates in this division should not be paid. It is necessary the Government should enforce obedience to the law in Bourdoneen by forthwith protecting the collector to obtain the rates; the example is producing a dangerous effect throughout the Union.

REPLY to the above :—January 3, 1848.

THE collector in the Bourdoneen division should make application for assistance in the usual manner to the stipendiary magistrate of the district, when the Commissioners have reason to know that the requisite protection will be afforded to him.

As regards the gentlemen named in your report as defaulters, I am to observe that the collector cannot proceed to distrain for rates due by immediate lessors, until after the immediate lessor has been served with a notice under the 2nd section of the 6th and 7th Vict., c. 92, and the necessary proceedings before a magistrate have been taken; but for rates due by such parties for tenements of which they are rated as the occupiers, the collector can, of course, proceed in the ordinary manner.

THE workhouse has been cleared of those persons who are entitled to receive out-door relief under the 1st section of the Act, and transferred to the lists of the relieving officers, which made room for the admission of about 100 inmates of the able-bodied class. There were many applicants of this class yesterday, strong, active-looking men, who were encumbered with large families, which fill the greater portion of the workhouse with children.

Upon the subject of collecting the rates, I hope next week to give the Commissioners a more satisfactory statement of the progress made in the collection than hitherto. The general feeling among the rate-payers has been, to delay payment until the Quarter Sessions, which commence to-morrow. There are no less than about 400 processes for disposal, representing a sum of more than 1000*l*. I trust that the result may convince them of the futility of their schemes to avoid payment, as the public here seem more disposed to be influenced by legal opinions. The collectors are under the impression that a large sum will be recovered this week. In the Bourdoneen electoral division there appears to be a decided determination against payment, which I have already made special report of. Several of the Guardians still continue defaulters.

The out-door relief is at present given in money. I am of opinion that if meal tickets were substituted they would be less subject to abuse.

General destitution increases, without any local exertions for giving employment.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 4, 1848.

It is my painful duty to transmit a copy of the evidence which was given this day at an inquest, held on the bodies of four children who died from want of food, in the electoral division of Tuosist, together with the verdict which has been passed thereon.

The widow Connolly with five children, were amongst the inmates of the workhouse entitled to out-door relief, in pursuance of a resolution which was passed by the Guardians on the 11th ultimo, they were in consequence, with some others of the same class, to be discharged from the workhouse, and to be provided for by the relieving officers, in order that they should be supported immediately, they left the workhouse. A copy of the resolution is enclosed.

In consequence of the verdict which was passed this morning, I summoned the master of the workhouse, and in presence of the stipendiary magistrate and

Kenmare Union.

Edward Godfrey, esq., he gave me the evidence in writing to the queries which I put to him, a copy of which is herewith transmitted; also the reply of the clerk of the Union to a similar query.

I request that you will be pleased to direct the attention of the Commissioners to the difference of the evidence given by Mr. Phelan before me, and that which he gave at the inquest.

I leave the Commissioners to judge of my feelings upon hearing such a verdict, after having used every means in my power to relieve the distress and extend the provisions of the Poor Law Act; for my part I feel conscious that as far as my duty is concerned, nothing was left undone to guard against such a lamentable circumstance as befell the unfortunate children.

ENCLOSURES.

Kenmare, January 4, 1848.

George Phelan, master of the Kenmare poor-house, examined:—Said that Catherine Connolly with five children were in the Kenmare poor-house; were put out on Tuesday the 28th. Was directed by Captain Ommanney and the Board of Guardians to put all persons entitled to out-door relief out of the workhouse, for the purpose of making room for the able-bodied; got the orders some days before to put them out, but from his other duties was not able to do so until Tuesday. Catherine Connolly and her children went much against their will; they left the house from 12 to 2 o'clock, after breakfasting; when putting out those classes has never been directed to give them any rations for the purpose of supporting them until they arrived at home; cannot say if any persons remained in the house who were entitled to out-door relief after the deceased and their mother were put out of the house.

Daniel Sullivan, of Derrynamuckalagh, examined:—Saw the deceased, Michael, John, Daniel, and Catherine Connolly, on the evening of Thursday, the 30th December, 1847, off the high road near Glaninchaquin—the two eldest had the two youngest on their backs; asked them if they were going home—they answered yes, that they had been turned out of the poor-house; they were crawling on the road, falling from side to side; asked what was the matter with them, they answered they were hungry; asked where their mother was, they said she went to Dourus to get relief from Mr. M'Swiny, the relieving officer, who promised it to her; they said they would wait on the road for their mother. Witness said, he supposed she would not come that night; they answered, if she did not, they would die on the road. Witness then left them, and did not see them afterwards alive.

Timothy Sullivan, of Derrynamuckalagh, examined:—Got up about 7 o'clock on Friday morning; went on the road towards Currageen, where he saw a little girl as he thought asleep on the road; went up to her, found she was dead. It was Catherine Connolly. Found Dan and John Connolly about one-eighth of a mile further on, on the roadside dead, and further on still, Michael Connolly, also dead.

Catherine Connolly, examined:—Is mother of the deceased Michael, John, Daniel, and Catherine Connolly; was with her children in the Kenmare poor-house; was put out on Tuesday, the 28th of December; was asked if she would go out, said yes, as they were putting every person like her out, but she would stay within if they left her there; was put out a good while after breakfast; got no relief since. Asked the relieving officer, Mr. M'Swiny, on Thursday, the 30th, for relief, and he answered, that her name was not on his book, but to come to him the next Monday, and that she would get it. When put out of the poor-house, she asked the master if she would get a ticket for relief, and he said there was no occasion, as her name was on the book of the relieving officer; parted with her children for the purpose of going to Dourus to get her name put on the book of the relieving officer; thought the eldest boy would be able to take the rest home; he was about 15 years old; she nor her five children did not eat anything from the time they left the poor-house on Tuesday, until she parted with them on Thursday evening, except one plate of gruel between them all, which they got in the house of John Harrington, of Muscua; thinks it was hunger killed her children.

George Woodhouse, clerk of the Union, examined:—Read a resolution which was agreed to by the Board of Guardians of the Kenmare Union, on the 11th of December. It was as follows:—"Resolved, at the suggestion of the Union Inspector, that all persons entitled to out-door relief, and who can be removed from the workhouse, be discharged on next Saturday, to make room for the destitute able-bodied who may apply for admission to the poor-house, the persons so discharged to be placed on the out-door relief lists by the relieving officers of the respective electoral divisions to whom they belong. It was the Board of Guardians generally who had the resolution proposed: Captain Ommanney suggested it.

George M. Mayberry, esq., M.D., examined:—I have made a post mortem examination on two of the deceased children, Catherine and Michael Connolly, and not a particle of food was there in the stomach or intestines; from the general appearances on my examination, I consider they died from want of food, accelerated by cold.

VERDICT.

"That the deceased Michael, John, Daniel, and Catherine Connolly were found dead on the morning of the 31st December, 1847, on the high road leading through the lands of Currageen, where we believe they came by their deaths from want of food, in consequence of the neglect of Captain Erasmus Ommanney and the Board of Guardians of the Kenmare Union."

Query, by Captain Ommanney to Mr. Phelan, master of the workhouse.

"State the reason why my directions were not carried out with respect to those parties who were discharged from the workhouse, receiving tickets to be placed on the relieving officer's lists for immediate relief, it being alleged at the inquest this day that such was not carried out."

Answer, by Mr. PHELAN.

"I have to state that widow Connolly and five children went out without being discharged, and I do consider I have obeyed the order, so far as giving tickets to those entitled, the parties whom the inquest was held this day and the mother; and consider I gave a ticket to some person, if not to herself, for to give the relieving officer."

Captain OMMANNEY—"You state they were not discharged; under what circumstances did they leave the house?"

Answer, by Mr. PHELAN.

"Left the house on Tuesday, the 28th instant, as they were told they would be discharged on the following day, as it was at their own request they left the house, and I cannot object to their doing so when they wish."

Query, by Captain Ommanney to Mr. Woodhouse, clerk of the Union.

"State the reason why my directions were not carried out with respect to those parties who were discharged from the workhouse, in pursuance of a resolution passed at the Board on the 11th ultimo, it being alleged at the coroner's inquest, held this day, that widow Connolly and five children did not receive tickets to be placed on the relieving officers' list for immediate relief?"

Answer—"The master received instruction in person from the Guardians assembled at the meeting of the Board, to select such persons as came within the class entitled to out-door relief, and to discharge them in order to make room for the able-bodied, who might apply for admission to the workhouse.

"The master also directed to apprise the relieving officers either by giving them lists of the persons discharged, or by tickets to the individuals themselves, to be presented to the relieving officers. The order was to discharge on the following Saturday, but on the next meeting of the Board it was considered expedient to extend the time to Wednesday, so that in each case half a week's ration would be received on application to the relieving officers, who were aware of the arrangement, and I believe complied with it."

WITH reference to the verdict passed at the coroner's inquest on the 4th instant, held on the bodies of the four children who died from want of food, (the evidence of which I have already transmitted), it appears to have been the impression on the minds of the jury that my duties are of an executive character in the working of the details of the Poor Law.

My definition of the Commissioners' instructions is, to direct the proceedings of the Guardians, and suggest to them the most effectual means of carrying out the Commissioners' instructions. Upon desiring that the workhouse should be cleared of those persons who were eligible for the out-door relief, I caused a resolution to be passed at the Board, and desired that precaution should be taken that they were transferred to the relieving officers' lists for immediate relief. In this case I considered that the officers were responsible for seeing the details carried out, by taking care that the relieving officers took charge of the persons on leaving the workhouse.

REPLY to the foregoing :—January 10, 1848.

I AM to state, that although you have a right, as Inspector, to attend the meeting of the Board of Guardians, you have no power of voting or ordering relief; and if due relief is not afforded to any destitute person in the Union, the Commissioners are of opinion that the legal responsibility rests with the Board of Guardians or the relieving officers.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. CRAWFORD, Poor Law Inspector :—
January 6, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a communication which they have received from Captain Ommanney, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, relating to the death of four children, named Michael, John, Daniel, and Catherine Connolly, who had been inmates of the workhouse of the Kenmare Union, and had left the house with their mother on the 28th ultimo, and I am to request that you will have the goodness to inquire and report to the Commissioners on all the circumstances under which the widow Connolly and her five children were not put on the out-door relief list at once on quitting the workhouse, and did not receive sufficient relief to enable her to preserve her children from starvation.

I am also to request that you will inquire and report whether the death of the children is to be imputed to a neglect of duty on the part either of the relieving officer, or of the Board of Guardians of the Kenmare Union.

Mr. CRAWFORD to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 23, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to forward to you a report of the circumstances under which the widow Connolly and her five children were not put on the out-door relief list at once, on quitting the Kenmare workhouse on the 29th December last, as also my opinion as to whether the death of the four children who unfortunately perished on that occasion can be imputed to a neglect of duty on the part either of the relieving officer or of the Board of Guardians of the Kenmare Union.

Captain Ommanney, the Temporary Inspector of the Union, produced a letter from the Commissioners, dated 1st December, 1847, requesting him to suggest to the Guardians the necessity of giving out-door relief to all inmates of the workhouse authorized to receive it under the provisions of the 1st section of the Poor Relief Extension Act.

In accordance with this communication, Captain Ommanney brought the subject under the consideration of the Board, and in consequence, at their meeting on the 11th December, 1847, a resolution was passed ordering the discharge of those classes, and directing them to be placed on the out-door relief lists of the relieving officers of the respective electoral divisions to which they belong; and, at the same time, instructions were given to the master of the workhouse to make out lists of those parties.

It appears that those lists were made out by the master of the workhouse and submitted to the Guardians at their meeting on the 24th December, and an arrangement was made that those parties should leave the house at latest on the following Thursday. Although I cannot find that any written instructions were given as to the mode of carrying out the arrangement, still it was distinctly understood that the master was to give tickets to such parties as might be discharged, which, on being presented to the relieving officer of the district, entitled them at once to relief from that officer.

The widow Connolly and her five children being included in the class entitled to out-door relief, were among the persons who were to be discharged from the workhouse under the arrangement.

The master, on some day in the beginning of the ensuing week, informed all those parties that they should leave the house at latest on the following Thursday, but, at the same time, recommended those who resided in remote localities to take advantage of any fine day which might occur, as the Thursday might be wet and unsuitable for travelling.

29th, her object being to go to Gleninchiquin, in the division of Tuosist, where her father dwelt, and which is about 10 miles distant from Kenmare, on the south bank of the Kenmare bay.

The widow Connolly states, that previous to her departure she asked the master of the workhouse for a ticket to the relieving officer, when he stated, in reply, that "the relieving officer would have her name before her." This, however, the master does not recollect, as he states his ignorance of her having taken her discharge on that day until after she left the workhouse. But I do not consider this point to be material, as it appeared to me perfectly plain that the widow Connolly had a perfect right to presume that she would receive immediate relief on applying to the relieving officer of the Tuosist division, and which she would have received only for an unfortunate mistake which occurred, the particulars of which I am about to explain.

The master of the workhouse, on discharging the paupers, instead of giving a separate ticket to each individual or family, made out a list containing the names of all the parties chargeable on each division, which he entrusted to one of the parties whose name was on the list, and who was to receive assistance from the relieving officer. I send herewith a copy of a list for the electoral division of Tuosist, which it will be seen does not contain the name of the widow Connolly. I would, however, direct attention to the last name on the list, which is that of "Norry Harrington, widow, and five children," which was evidently intended for Norry Connolly, the master having inadvertently inserted the name of Harrington (being a repetition of the previous name on the list) instead of Connolly. This appeared manifest, as no such person as "Norry Harrington" appeared either on the register, on the Admission and Discharge Book, or on the Application and Report Book of the relieving officer; and the description of widow and five children perfectly coincided with the case of the widow Connolly.

The widow Connolly, on being discharged from the workhouse on Wednesday, proceeded towards her father's house, and remained that night at the house of a man named Harrington, at a place called Killaha, about two miles from Kenmare. She proceeded on her way next morning, and went as far as the house of a person called Daniel Stretton, at Floramore. She there met the relieving officer of the division, who was proceeding to a place called Dourus, where he has an office for receiving applications and giving out-relief. On meeting Mr. M'Swiney, the relieving officer, at Stretton's house, she stated her circumstances, and applied for relief. Mr. M'Swiney having previously received the list of those parties chargeable on Tuosist who had been discharged from the workhouse, that list having been brought to him by the widow Gallavan, whose name is on the list, immediately made reference thereto, and not finding the name of the applicant (in consequence of the mistake alluded to) refused then to assist her, desiring her to follow him to Dourus, where he was proceeding, and where he expected he might have some means of ascertaining the truth of her statement. She accordingly did follow Mr. M'Swiney; but as in going to Dourus she was retracing her steps, she did not think it expedient to take the children with her (except the youngest, whom she carried on her back), desiring them to proceed home, which was not more than a distance of two hours' walk from Stretton's house, where she parted from them. It appeared that the children had not strength to accomplish this distance, and unfortunately perished from the effects of hunger and exposure during the ensuing night.

The widow Connolly, on separating from the children, followed the relieving officer to Dourus; but it did not appear that she there renewed the application for relief, either from fatigue or from the number of applicants before her. She did not see the relieving officer, and on going away she thought it too late, or was unable to follow her children, who were thus left by themselves on the night in question.

It appears to me that the death of the children is attributable to the unfortunate mistake made by the master in making out the Tuosist list. If the widow Connolly's name had been properly inserted, she would have received immediate relief on her first application to the relieving officer at Stretton's house, but who, under the circumstances, was justified in having strong suspicion of the truth of the statement made to him, as her name did not appear on the list which he had that day received from the master of the workhouse through the widow Gallavan; and thus further inquiry on his part was called for previous to granting relief. There did not appear to be any extraordinary circumstances to warrant him in departing from the course he pursued. The children at that time had not been more than 24 hours from the time of leaving the workhouse, had been under shelter the previous night, and had a plate of gruel among them, given by Harrington, at whose house they stopped.

With regard to the question as to whether any blame is to be attributable to the Board of Guardians, I think they might have given more explicit directions as to the mode in which the discharge of the parties should be carried out. The manner in which it was performed by the master was evidently one liable to accidents, as from the entrusting the list of all the persons from one electoral division to one person, any casualty occurring to that individual might have been attended with serious consequences to the others; each party discharged should have been furnished with a separate ticket.

With respect to the master, to whose unfortunate mistake the lamentable result is attributable, I do not think much blame can attach, it being one of those mistakes which might occur to any individual in the hurry of business attendant on the discharge of a large number of individuals. He was evidently much confused in the answers he made to the several inquiries which were put to him on the investigation, and which varied in some respects from the statement made by him on the coroner's inquest; but, under the circumstances, this may be in some degree excusable, as he seemed to feel much the unfortunate mistake which he had made.

After the inquiry, I was informed by the relieving officer of the Kenmare division, who, residing on the spot, attended personally to take the names and give relief to those parties chargeable on the Kenmare division, that he gave the widow Connolly sixpence out of his own pocket on her leaving the workhouse, being urged to do so by the distress she exhibited at not being able to get the clothes which belonged to her husband, who died in the workhouse, and which could not be found. It would thus appear that she was not perfectly destitute at the time she left the workhouse, and it would have been in her power to have supplied the children with food before she parted from them at Stretton's house; but it appears plain that at that time she expected they would have been easily able to reach home before night, as stated in her evidence given on the coroner's inquest.

I am therefore of opinion, upon a review of all the circumstances of the case, that the casualty was produced by the unfortunate mistake made by the master of the workhouse, in the performance of the duty imposed upon him by the Guardians, and is not to be attributable to any wilful neglect upon the part either of the Board of Guardians or the relieving officer of the district.

II.

EVIDENCE taken at an INQUIRY held at KENMARE, on the 19th of January, 1848, relative to the deaths of Michael, John, Daniel, and Catherine Connolly, who had been inmates of the Kenmare Union Workhouse.

The register was produced, from which it appeared that Honora Connolly and six children entered the workhouse on the 28th August, 1847; she and five of the children subsequently left the house on the 29th December, one child having previously died in the workhouse.

Captain Ommanney read a letter from the Commissioners, dated 1st December, 1847,

No. 39631, directing him to suggest to the Guardians the expediency of giving out-door relief to all inmates authorized to it under the 1st section of the Poor Law Extension Act.

Kenmare Union.

Resolution of the Guardians carrying out the suggestion, passed on the 11th December, 1847, attached to the proceedings of the coroner.

Honora Connolly, sworn.—States that she had been an inmate of the Kenmare Union workhouse; left the workhouse with her children on the Wednesday after Christmas-day last; is positive it was on that day, although having stated previously it was upon a Tuesday; at the time she so stated had not her senses about her; on leaving the workhouse went to a place called Killaha; left the workhouse about the middle of the day; stopped that night at the house of a man named Harrington who resided there; left next morning; proceeded towards Dourus on her way home; went past Dourus to Floramore, to the house of one Daniel Stretton; parted there with the four children, who subsequently died; desired them to proceed home to Gleninchiquin, where she formerly had a house, and where her father and mother, and four sisters resided; the place where she parted from the children is about a couple of hours' walk from her father's house, which is about nine miles distant from the workhouse; remained behind the children to try to get relief from the relieving officer; met the relieving officer, Mr. M'Swiney, at Stretton's house; it was after breakfast time when she met him; asked him for relief, he desired her to go on the Monday following to Lauragh; told him that her children were outside, and had been fasting since they left the workhouse on the previous day; Mr. M'Swiney remained some time at Stretton's, and then proceeded to Dourus, whither she followed him; her children were with her when she first applied to Mr. M'Swiney; upon relief being refused, desired the children to proceed home; the children would have had sufficient time to reach home, if they had had strength and food; the reason Mr. M'Swiney said he refused relief was, because her name was not on the books; the first night after leaving the workhouse she went as far as she could; the reason she left the workhouse was, because "all of her kind" were going out; some of them left that day with her; the master of the workhouse told her of it; he was taking down a list of names for a week before; heard that they were not to be discharged until they had out-door relief; went out of her own accord, and did not receive any positive directions to go out that day; her name was taken down with those of the others; the master did not desire her to leave the workhouse; made no objection to do so; applied to the master for a ticket to the relieving officer; the master informed her that her name would be in the Tuosist book before her; he told her so on her leaving the workhouse; from the time they left the workhouse she and the children only got one plate of gruel among them, which was given by Harrington, at whose house they stopped; left the workhouse after breakfast; did not ask the master for any relief to take with her; saw no other person discharged that day along with her; after waiting for some time at Dourus, she went away without seeing the relieving officer; felt too ill to wait longer; went to the house of a man named Sullivan, where she slept; she fainted when there, and had some warm milk given her; left at day-break in the morning, and proceeded homewards across the mountains; heard of the death of the children on the road; if she had got relief from Mr. M'Swiney when she first applied, would have been able to save her children.

George Phelan, sworn. Is master of the Kenmare workhouse; received instructions from the Guardians to make out a list of the inmates belonging to each electoral division who might be entitled to receive out-door relief; made out lists for that purpose three different times; the Guardians did not act upon the lists first returned by him; made out lists on Monday, the 24th December; the Guardians inquired if any had been discharged; stated that they had not yet; was desired to discharge them immediately; told the Guardians that would be inconvenient, as from the number of persons admitted that day he would not have time to do so, and requested the Guardians to postpone it until some day in the week following, to which they assented; stated to the paupers that night in the dining-hall that such as were entitled to out-door relief should leave the house in the following week; told them on the Monday or Tuesday after that they must go out on the Thursday at farthest, but recommended those that lived at a distance to take advantage of any fine day which should occur, as Thursday might be wet; by directions of the Board gave tickets to the parties going out; the tickets stated that the parties were entitled to out-door relief; those tickets were to be delivered to the relieving officers of the district. On the morning of the day the widow Connolly left, asked whether any would leave on that day, as they must at all events go on the day following; the widow Connolly said she would go; she came down towards his (the master's) room, and then went back to the dining-hall; supposed, therefore, she had changed her mind, and was about to remain until the day following; does not recollect having seen her afterwards; does not recollect whether she made any application to him for a ticket to the relieving officer; was asked by the parties who were to be discharged, whether they would be entitled to out-door relief? told them they would, as all from each division would get a ticket to the relieving officer of that division; did not know that the widow Connolly had left the house until after she had gone; thinks, on finding she had gone, he gave a ticket for her to some woman who left the house on the day following; never received instructions from the Board to give tickets to each of the parties going out; thinks he did not discharge any paupers entitled to out-door relief without giving tickets, except those from the Kenmare, the relieving officer being in attendance, and taking their names; does not conceive he was ordered by the Guardians to give tickets to parties going out; did it of his own impulse; will not swear he may not have told the widow Connolly that her name would be on the books of the relieving officer of Tuosist before her; would have given her a ticket, if he had been aware of her leaving the workhouse at the time she did.

Victoria Robertson, sworn. Is matron of the workhouse; remembers the widow Connolly leaving the workhouse on the 29th December; saw her in tears at leaving, as the children were almost naked; their old clothes were very ragged; desired the porter to search for the clothes of her husband, who had died in the workhouse, to give to her, but the porter could not find them; thinks the widow Connolly said she would rather not go out; other parties entitled to out-door relief went out the same day.

Daniel Sullivan, sworn. Is porter of the workhouse; remembers the widow Connolly being discharged; a good many were discharged on the same day; they were chiefly persons entitled to out-door relief; they were parties who lived at a distance; saw the master making out lists of those to be discharged; those lists were given to one of the paupers going out to take to the relieving officer of the district.

Edmond Brown M. Swiney, sworn. Is relieving officer of the electoral division of Tuosist; understood that all parties to be discharged from the workhouse were to get out-door relief; got a ticket from the master containing the names of the parties discharged who were to be relieved in his division; produces that list, which is in the hand-writing of the master; that list does not contain the name of the widow Connolly; the last name is that of the widow Harrington, and five children; no person answering that description applied to him for relief; the ticket was brought to him on Thursday, the 30th December last, by the widow Gallavan; received the list on his way to Dourus, where there is a relief station; gave relief to the widow Gallavan, and would have done so to any other whose name appeared on the list; remembers the widow Connolly applying to him for relief on that day at Stretton's house; she stated she had been discharged from the workhouse; examined the list which he had received, but not finding her name, refused to relieve her until he made inquiry; desired her to follow him to Dourus where he would put her name on the list of those receiving relief; she did not again apply to him at Dourus, and did not see her there that day afterwards.

The COMMISSIONERS to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—January 28, 1848.

I AM to forward herewith for your information, a copy of a report which the Commissioners have received from their inspector, Mr. Crawford, relating to the death of four children named Connolly, who, with their mother, had been discharged from the workhouse of Kenmare Union, and I am to state that the Commissioners concur in the view taken by Mr. Crawford, of the circumstances which caused the deplorable death of the four children.

I am at the same time to state, that as the Commissioners are convinced that the master of the workhouse sincerely laments the dreadful consequences which resulted from his clerical inadvertence, the Commissioners do not wish to distress his feelings by dwelling on them; at the same time, the Commissioners trust that what has occurred will be a solemn warning to all parties engaged in the administration of relief in Kenmare Union, that want of accuracy, or inadvertence on their part, in the present state of the population, may be attended with consequences as fatal as wilful neglect itself.

The Commissioners have further to add, that the arrangements of the late Board of Guardians appear to have been defective, in their not having provided that the name of every inmate of the workhouse who was to receive out-door relief should be placed by the relieving officer in his Report and Application Book, and brought under the notice of the Board of Guardians for their decision on the case before such parties left the workhouse. The Commissioners think that it was contrary to their regulations that the out relief to be furnished by the relieving officer to the inmates of the workhouse, should depend on a list to be furnished by the master of the workhouse.

In conclusion, the Commissioners have to state that they do not doubt that the Vice-Guardians will make such arrangements for the due relief of the destitute, as will prevent the possibility of the recurrence in Kenmare Union of such a deeply afflicting catastrophe.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 5, 1848.

I HAVE to acquaint the Commissioners that many of the processes which were served against parties for non-payment of rates have been dismissed by the assistant-barrister at the Quarter Sessions, in consequence of some technical form in the rate book being omitted; for instance, the name of the townland should have been inserted on every line where there are several rate-payers in the same page of the book, as per margin, "for example;" the cases where the townlands were dotted have been dismissed.

The result was received with great exultation by the public. The result will I fear be detrimental to the collection of the rate.

Kenmare.

I should wish the opinion of the Commissioners whether the rates can be recovered by those rate books; and for advice as to the course to be pursued in consequence. Kenmare Union.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 6, 1848.

IN consequence of the dismissals granted by the assistant-barrister at the Kenmare Quarter Sessions on several parties who were processed for non-payment of rates, the legality of the rate books in their present form was a matter of serious importance. I have to acquaint the Commissioners that upon a conference with the chairman of the Union and some of the Guardians, it was deemed advisable to appeal at the next assizes in Tralee to one of the dismissals, and accordingly the chairman has entered into a recognizance to prosecute the appeal.

I have communicated with the stipendiary magistrate upon the necessity of rendering assistance to the collector for obtaining the outstanding rate in the Bourdoneen electoral division. He informs me that he has no available force at present for this service, but will be prepared next week with a force, should the collector swear the necessary informations.

I have desired the clerk of the Union to forward a form of the rate book as filled up, to which the assistant barrister has raised a legal objection. I consider it is important that the Commissioners should obtain opinion from higher authority if the Guardians can still proceed in the collection of the rate with the rate books under their present form.

The COMMISSIONERS to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—January 26, 1848.

I AM to state for your information, that the assistant barrister having directed that the last rate made in the Kenmare Union was in certain cases invalid, in consequence of the name of the townland in which the property was situated not having been repeated on every line of the rate book, the Commissioners submitted a case on the point for the opinion of Mr. J. Henn, Q.C., and I am to forward herewith a copy of the query submitted to Mr. Henn, together with a copy of his opinion thereon.

The Commissioners place entire confidence in the opinion of Mr. Henn, and they request that the collection of the rate may be prosecuted rigorously without delay.

ENCLOSURE.

OPINION of Mr. J. HENN, Q.C.:—January 18, 1848.

IN my opinion the rate as struck was valid; a repetition of the name of the townland does not appear to me to have been actually necessary; what has been done was, I think, equivalent to such repetition, as the townland first written is applicable to all the succeeding numbers until a new name is introduced; and if in fact the numbers without names written after them formed portions of the townland next before specified, I think the assistant barrister ought not to have yielded to the objection.

J. HENN,
16, Upper Merion Street.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 8, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to submit to you the following weekly report upon the state of this Union:—

On my attendance this day at the meeting of the Board of Guardians, which I regret to say was very thinly attended, I impressed upon their minds the very responsible nature of their position, in consequence of the prevailing destitution and misery, without any other source available at present, for affording relief, than that which the Poor Law imperatively demands they should provide.

From the nature of the reply received by the Commissioners from the Board of Works, it appears that no loan has yet been made for the proprietors in this Union under the Landed Property Improvement Act, therefore we must relinquish the hope of any assistance through such a beneficial source of relief at this season. I caused a resolution to be adopted, and forwarded to the proprietors, in order to arouse their attention to the state of the Union, unprovided with any means of employment.

It then became my duty, to remind the Guardians of the extent of their duties, and I informed them that it is now impossible the amount of business now requiring close attention, can be effectively discharged at a single meeting in the week. Hitherto, sufficient attention has not been directed to the out-door relief, or to the examination of the business connected with the collection of the rates. At my suggestion, a resolution was agreed upon for the Board to meet twice a week—on Fridays, for the admission of paupers, business connected with the out-door relief, and the collection of the rates; on Saturdays, for the general routine and special business of the Board.

I again urged upon the Guardians the necessity of exercising their powers to enforce the collection of the rate; and I stated that in the event of non-compliance with this essential part of their duties, the Commissioners would consider that they were evading the responsibility entrusted to them. The collectors are directed to proceed forthwith by distraint against all defaulters, and, if necessary, to apply for protection to the stipendiary magistrate.

The workhouse has been cleared of all classes, but the able-bodied with their families. Some further extra accommodation was provided in the town, for 50 more inmates, which makes up a total of 840 pauper inmates. With the cleanliness of the house I have to express my satisfaction. By a frequent inspection, much improvement in the internal arrangements is perceptible, particularly in having a separate bed for each pauper, and in keeping them at work: they are now employed in draining the land attached to the house, paving the yards, &c., which up to this time, were almost in their natural state. The boys are kept five hours at school, but some useful labour from the elder ones would be of service. The articles for consumption are now procured for the use of the house at cash prices, which effects a considerable saving.

I cannot convey an adequate description of the miserable and wretched condition of the numerous unhappy creatures, who presented themselves at the house this day for admission; many had travelled a long distance in the hope of being admitted; the greater proportion were women with young children, whose emaciated appearance was shocking to behold. There were many at the house when I left it at 6 o'clock, crying from the pangs of hunger; I ordered a supply of bread to be distributed amongst them, from the bakery of the British Relief Association.

The workhouse being full, and the destitution so rapidly increasing, I fear the out-door relief will soon become incapable of supporting the mass of poverty. The relieving officers report generally, that there are numbers in the greatest want who do not come under any of the classes now sanctioned to be on their lists; and they state, that they know not what to do with the numbers applying for relief and admission to the workhouse. In Tuosist, the sum of 37*l.* has been expended in a fortnight, the relief being confined to a very limited scale. In this division, which is nearly 20 miles in extent, I think that two officers should be appointed. It is also necessary that an order under the 6th section 10 Vict. cap. 31, should be made by the Commissioners to enable the Guardians in the remote parts of the Union to approve of their own relief lists, and thus ease the pressure of business at the Board.

I must now request that the Commissioners will consider the financial position of the Guardians, as the uncollected portion of the rate will only meet their liabilities. The weekly expenditure is now about 200*l.*, and unless the rate is collected, there will be nothing in the treasurer's hands to meet this. I have directed that no sum be appropriated to any other purpose but the maintenance of the workhouse and out-door relief. At present there is only a small balance in the treasurer's hands of about 200*l.*

It is necessary that every portion of the outstanding rate should be immediately collected, and I have desired the collectors to be prepared for laying informations before the stipendiary magistrate, who will be ready to protect them; but even this, with another rate to the same amount, will not support the mass of distress which daily becomes inevitable.

In recapitulation, the state of the Union is this: there is no other support for the destitute but the Poor Law, which is inadequate to relieve the distress, and there is already about one-sixth of the population maintained by it. The workhouse, and all extra accommodating which can be procured, are occupied; and consequently there can be no further test for the able-bodied. The present rate, and another one, must be collected to maintain the poor, provided there are no other means but the Poor Law; and I am of opinion the Guardians will not work it out effectively. Kenmare Union.

At the Quarter Sessions held in Kenmare this week, the collectors proceeded by civil bill for the recovery of the rate, from a large proportion of defaulting rate-payers. The attorney for the defendants argued, "that the description of the rate-books was defective," inasmuch as the name of the townland was not repeated at full length opposite to each number in the rate-books, this was ceded by the presiding barrister. It seemed a mere technical point; but its being so ruled will produce a mischievous tendency amongst the defaulters, as other rate-payers will be encouraged to refuse payment, while there is a chance of escaping by legal technicality, or by any other mode of evasion. Several appeals against the rates were heard at the same sessions, and over-ruled, with one exception, which the barrister, at the request of the appellant, adjourned to the next sessions, although he had previously expressed himself strongly in favour of the rate.

A coroner's inquest was held at Kenmare on the 4th instant, upon the bodies of four children, who were found dead in Tuosist on the 30th ult., having left the workhouse with their mother on the 28th December; the jury were pleased in their verdict to charge me with neglect, without ever taking the evidence of the relieving officer. I have since taken the evidence both of the master of the workhouse and the relieving officer for Tuosist, from which it appears, the mother left the workhouse at her own request, and did not apply to the relieving officer for relief.

I beg the Commissioners will favour me with their advice for my future proceedings, to provide for the great distress which must prevail in this Union.

REPLY to the above:—January 12, 1848.

THE Commissioners approve generally, of the course taken by you. I am at the same time to state, that if all attempts to obtain further workhouse accommodation are unavailing, and if you are in a position to assert positively, that according to the best of your judgment no such accommodation can be obtained in the Union, the next step for you to consider will be, whether the period has arrived in which it is necessary that an order should be issued, authorizing out-door relief to the able-bodied.

When that necessity arises, if you are able to certify that the Guardians have used all possible diligence to collect the rates, and if the Guardians provide funds for the maintenance of the inmates of the workhouse, and of the destitute poor who receive relief under the first section of the Irish Relief Extension Act, the Commissioners believe that funds will be forthcoming from the British Association for the relief of the able-bodied, who will receive out-door relief under a sealed order of the Commissioners.

If, however, the Guardians do not collect the rates vigorously, or if they otherwise fail to discharge their duties effectually, you should formally make a separate report to the Commissioners on the subject, and should recommend the dissolution of the Board of Guardians; in which case, the Commissioners would be in a position to dissolve the Board accordingly, and to manage the affairs of the Union by paid Guardians. It will not be sufficient, however, to make general complaints; you should formally specify instances in which the Guardians have neglected their duty. Thus, continued thinness of attendance at the Board meeting would be a ground of dissolution, if owing to such thinness of attendance the duties of the Board are not properly discharged. So, again, if the Guardians are not as energetic in the collection of the poor-rates as they ought to be, or if they have not generally paid the rates which are due from themselves, such neglect would show them to be unfit for their office, and would justify the dissolution of the Board.

The Commissioners have only to add, that they will sanction the appointment of as many additional relieving officers as are found to be necessary; but the correct course will be for you, to bring the subject under the notice of the Guardians, and for the Guardians to record their wishes in their minutes.

In reference to the verdict of the coroner's inquest referred to in your letter, the Commissioners have, on the whole, deemed it advisable to instruct their inspector, Mr. Crawford, to make a special inquiry on the points connected with it; and when the Commissioners receive his report, they will be able to form a definite opinion as to whether any blame attaches either to the Kenmare Board of Guardians, or to any of the officers of the Board of Guardians, in reference to the deplorable death of the children on whom the inquest was held.

Kenmare Union.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 10, 1848.

I HAVE to bring before the immediate attention of the Commissioners the necessity of enforcing the collection of the outstanding rate without delay.

A general feeling of opposition to payment is manifest throughout the Union. Unless vigorous measures are instantly resorted to, the Union will not be in a position for sustaining the destitution of the country, through the medium of the Poor Law.

A collector was this day beaten in the town whilst distraining for poor-rates; a large number of the populace joined and rejoiced at their triumph. Such a spirit of opposition, if suffered to exist with impunity, will be detrimental to the future collection of the rate, and should not be permitted, whilst the poor are perishing in consequence of the rate being uncollected. I have applied to the stipendiary magistrate for assistance.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—Dissolution of the Board of Guardians:—January 14, 1848.

I HAVE to report that my effort to impress upon the Guardians the necessity of collecting the rates are unavailing; neither by showing a proper example themselves or by making a proper exertion on their part to collect the rates.

Several of the Guardians are defaulters, and although I have frequently at the Board pointed out the evil of such a bad example on their parts by inducing others to hold back their rates, it has produced no effect in obtaining their rates due from themselves.

The Guardians have made no exertion on their part to enforce the collection of the rates, or to exercise the powers they possess to obtain the same. I caused a committee of the Guardians to be appointed soon after my arrival here, for the purpose of controlling the collection of the rates, but no attention has been devoted to the subject by them. At the last meeting another day in the week was appointed when the business relative to the collection of the rate was to form a part of the day's proceedings. The Guardians met to-day, but when the time arrived for examining the collector's accounts and reports there was not a quorum to conduct the business.

I have applied to some of the ex officio members, being magistrates, for an example on their part to the other ratepayers by paying their rates, but I regret to say they are still defaulters.

There still remains upwards of 2,300*l.* of the rate uncollected; many of the defaulters are well able to pay. Within the last week there has been about 100*l.* paid into the Treasurer's hands; there is scarcely any balance in his hands. Unless more vigorous measures are adopted we shall soon be without funds to support the destitution of the Union.

I augur no further exertion from the Guardians to obtain the rate, nor do I anticipate they will effectively discharge the duties required of them to carry out the poor law. I therefore recommend the dissolution of the Board of Guardians by the Commissioners, before the Union is involved in further difficulties.

REPLY to the above:—January 20, 1848.

THE Commissioners have given directions for preparing an order for the dissolution of the Kenmare Board of Guardians.

The Commissioners deem it right to make you acquainted with their intentions, but they do not wish you to communicate on the subject with any person in Kenmare Union, until the order actually arrives. An order for giving outdoor relief to the able-bodied will also be issued, and a copy of a letter which has been addressed to the Board of Guardians of Unions where such an order has been issued is enclosed for your information.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 16, 1848.

Kenmare Union.

ACCORDING to the arrangement of the previous week, the Board of Guardians met on Friday for the admission of paupers, disposing of all business connected with the administration of out-door relief, and for controlling the collection of the rates. By this means, these important branches of the Guardians' duties can receive that attention which is necessary, and which never could receive a proper investigation, when all the business of the Board has to be transacted in one day. When the time arrived for entering upon the important business of the collectors' duties, the Board had dispersed.

By the treasurer's account, produced at the Board yesterday, there appeared only a balance in hand of 165%. Cheques for the amount of 146% were signed the day previously for out-door relief alone; consequently, a sum of more than 200% weekly is required to maintain the support of the poor. The debts of the Guardians amount to 1500%. About half the rate only is collected, leaving about 2300% uncollected. Under these circumstances, the operation of the Poor Law must become embarrassed, unless more vigorous efforts are made to collect the outstanding rates.

Upon the subject of the collection of the rate, I regret that sufficient progress has not been made; and, with reference to the Commissioners' repeated instructions on this important duty, I do not consider the Guardians have exerted proper energy to collect it, which, owing to their financial difficulties and the distress of the Union, the necessities of their position demanded. Under these circumstances, the Guardians have not discharged their most important duty.

Rescues have been made, on several occasions of distraining for rate. I am anxiously looking for the stipendiary magistrate, with a force sufficient to ensure the payment from all parties who have the means. I am informed by the collectors that most of the defaulters are well able to pay.

Further extra workhouse accommodation has been procured, which will receive about 80 more able-bodied inmates. This will increase the number of paupers to more than 900 receiving in-door relief. Beyond this there will be no practicability of obtaining more extra buildings for this object.

I have now to inform the Commissioners that the time has arrived requiring them to issue a sealed order for authorizing out-door relief to the able-bodied—an evil which I was anxious to guard against; but there is no other resource for the maintenance of the destitute in the Union. It would be desirable that the order should be similar to those already issued to the Newcastle and Listowel Unions, whereby labour is exacted.

In consequence of the extra numbers of paupers receiving workhouse accommodation, the increased number of sick patients cannot be received in the infirmary or the fever hospital, for want of room. A number of fever and dysentery cases appeared. The upper probationary wards were appropriated to the use of the sick. Upon the report of the medical officer yesterday, it appears that sickness had still further increased, so as to render it necessary to provide more accommodation. At his suggestion, the men's infirm ward was also appropriated for the sick.

The numbers of destitute on the out-door relief lists, have augmented considerably. The relieving officer for Ballybog states that he has been compelled to give relief to several able-bodied persons whom he found at their residences suffering from severe illness, most of them very bad fever cases. In two instances he found a child lying dead in consequence.

In this Union there is a very extensive class of destitution, which cannot be legally entitled to out-door relief—women, with children, whose husbands are gone to America; they are in the greatest distress. The relieving officers are desirous of instructions how such cases are to be dealt with.

The relieving officers find it necessary to exercise a rigid scrutiny with all applicants, to guard against the numerous attempts at imposition, as they generally are anxious to obtain the out-door relief in money, and practise deception to evade the workhouse test. Many leave the house after a few days, from a dislike to the labour now required of them.

In case of a deficiency of funds to meet the present current expenses of the Union, I wish to be furnished with instructions for my guidance.

REPLY to the above :—January 19, 1848.

I AM to state that it appears that the sum of 2300*l.* remains uncollected of the last rate made in the Union; and the Commissioners are desirous that you should be unceasing in your efforts to cause the recoverable portion of that sum to be paid with the least possible delay by those who are in arrear.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 18, 1848.

I CONSIDER that the time has now arrived that an order should be issued by the Commissioners for giving out-door relief to the able-bodied poor; the Poor Law being now extended as far as practicable, and there still remains a great number of the population requiring relief.

Every extra building available for workhouse accommodation is now occupied. Out-door relief under the 1st section of Act 10 Vict., cap. 31, and under the Commissioners' sealed order of the 15th ult., is now being extensively administered throughout the Union. I estimate that the weekly cost for in-door and out-door relief now amounts to 300*l.*; beyond this extent it is not practicable to provide for the maintenance of the poor from the rates.

As I am informed that when the local means are inadequate to provide for the extent of prevailing destitution, that funds will be forthcoming from the British Association for supporting the able-bodied, on condition that labour is exacted from them, I have to request that the Commissioners will be pleased to issue a sealed order to that effect.

The COMMISSIONERS to the CLERK of the UNION :—January 20, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under their consideration, a report which they have received from Captain Ommanney, Poor Law Inspector in the Kenmare Union, stating that all his efforts to impress upon the Board of Guardians the necessity of collecting the poor's rate have been unavailing.

Captain Ommanney reports, that several of the Guardians are themselves defaulters in the payment of the rate; and that although he has frequently at the Board pointed out the evil of such a bad example on their part, by inducing others to hold back the rate, it has produced no effect in obtaining payment of the amounts due by the Guardians.

Captain Ommanney further states, that the Guardians have made no exertion on their part to enforce the collection of the rate, by exercising the powers they possess to obtain payment. He observes, that soon after his arrival, he caused a Committee of Guardians to be appointed for the purpose of controlling the collection, but that no attention has been directed to that object by the Committee.

He further observes, that at a late weekly meeting of the Board a second day in the week was appointed, on which the business relating to the collection was to form a part of the day's proceedings; but that although the Guardians met on the 14th instant (one of the days so appointed), yet, when the time arrived for examining the collector's accounts and reports, there was not a Guardian to conduct this most important part of the business.

Captain Ommanney reports, that he has applied to some of the ex-officio Guardians, who, being magistrates, might be expected to set an example to the other rate-payers by paying their own portions of the rate, but that his applications have had no effect.

He states that there still remains upwards of 2300*l.* of the old rate uncollected, many of the defaulters being well able to pay: that within the last week there had been only about 100*l.* received, whilst there is scarcely any balance in the treasurer's hands; and he expresses his opinion that unless more vigorous measures are adopted, funds will soon be wanting to support the destitute poor in the Union.

The Commissioners find that during the first six months of the last year, little more than 700*l.* was collected, and only 1761*l.* during the last six months; whilst the debts of the Union at the close of the year amounted to 1281*l.* over the money in the treasurer's hands.

The Commissioners must consider that the Guardians have failed effectually to discharge their duties, when, out of the rates due in the Union on holdings of the annual value of 24,689*l.*, the amount collected in the last six months was insufficient to meet the ordinary expenses of the Union, as appears by the amount of debts left undischarged. Kenmare Union.

The Commissioners have much apprehension that, owing to the want of due exertion on the part of the Board of Guardians, much severe distress has remained unrelieved in the Union, the population having in 1841 been 33,656, according to the census of that period; and they are not led to hope that any future exertions of the Guardians would be sufficient, to meet the impending difficulties of the Union.

Under these circumstances, the Commissioners have resolved, in the exercise of the powers entrusted to them by the Legislature, to dissolve the present Board of Guardians of the Kenmare Union, and to appoint paid officers to administer the affairs of the Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain OMMANNEY:—January 20, 1848.

THE Commissioners direct me to forward herewith, for your information, a copy of a letter which they have this day, in forwarding the order dissolving the Board of Guardians, addressed to the clerk of the Kenmare Union.

The Commissioners hope that early in the ensuing week, the two gentlemen whom they propose to appoint paid officers for administering the affairs of the Kenmare Union, will be at Kenmare to enter upon the discharge of their duties.

In the meantime, the Commissioners have deemed it advisable to appoint you a paid officer of the Union, at a nominal salary, to enable you to take any steps which may be necessary for affording relief to the poor in the Union, until the paid Guardians shall have arrived at Kenmare.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS—January 24, 1848.

HEREWITH I have the honour to submit my report for the past week.

The Commissioners having taken into their consideration the several reports made to them relative to the management of the affairs of this Union by the late Board of Guardians, and that in consequence of not having discharged their responsibilities in the collection of the rate, at the same time continuing defaulters themselves for the same, were pleased in the exercise of their own responsibility to issue an order dated the 20th instant, for the dissolution of the Board of Guardians; on the assemblage of the Ex-Guardians for their ordinary meeting yesterday, the Commissioners' order was read, when the said Board dissolved accordingly.

The sealed order appointing me a paid officer to carry into execution the Acts now in force for the relief of the destitute poor was then read, when I assumed the duties heretofore discharged by the Board of Guardians.

On Friday the Board sat for the admission of paupers, when there was but eight vacancies. In the course of the week about 50 inmates had been received into the further extra accommodation provided. The numbers now accommodated amount to 862. As it is impracticable to manage any further workhouse accommodation, we are no longer in a position to prosecute the workhouse test. There were numerous applicants for admission, many of the most miserable class, and others able-bodied, for whom no relief was available. To those who had a considerable distance to travel back to their abode, and were much exhausted, the relieving officers were directed to assist with temporary relief.

The out-door relief lists were scrutinized and authenticated. The relieving officers state they are overwhelmed with applications for relief. There was a considerable augmentation in their lists. They have to guard against many attempts at deception in the exercise of their responsible duty, which I cannot refrain from bearing testimony to, is discharged with fidelity and satisfaction. The amount required for out-door relief weekly is not less than 150*l.*; for the division of Tuosist 45*l.* is required, or upwards of 2300*l.* annually. I am informed the proprietor of this division has not received rent equal to the sum paid by him for poor-rate.

I regret to state that the rate is collecting but slowly; only a few small sums have been obtained in the last week. In consequence of the illness of the stipendiary magistrate, and the temporary withdrawal of the police force, it has been impossible to take the necessary steps for enforcing payment. The stipendiary magistrate has informed me that he will be prepared in the course of a week to render assistance. I have recently received a communication from Maurice

Kenmare Union.

O'Connell, M.P., expressing his readiness to pay his poor-rate, and at the same time to procure the amount due from his tenantry.

I have already specially communicated to the Commissioners the predicament I am placed in for want of funds to proceed with the operation of the Poor Law. Upon the occasion of assuming the duties of the Board yesterday, I found myself without the means of providing for the support of the poor; nor can I see what course is to be adopted, without the Commissioners see the expediency of supplying the Union with a temporary advance.

Mr. Crawford held an investigation into the circumstances relative to the death of the four children in Tuosist on the 30th ultimo, at the workhouse. The Commissioners will perceive by the evidence how injudicious was the conduct on the part of the jury to pronounce a verdict without having taken the evidence of the relieving officer, or made proper inquiries into the facts of the case. It is clear that a mistake occurred in entering her name upon the list; and from the evidence it was the general impression that the mother was to blame at having parted with her children. The contradictory evidence of the master subjects him to censure. The investigation excited much interest, and caused a large assemblage of the most influential persons in the Union.

The school relief to destitute children is now in extensive operation; in Tuosist 1200 children are fed, which affords considerable relief. I intend proceeding to Bourdoneen to organize the system in that division. I understand that the children so relieved may be reduced from the out-door relief allowance.

As there is no alternative left but to give relief to the able-bodied, no delay should take place in organizing the system for putting them to work, which should be suspended when the agricultural employment commences.

The state of the Union requires that the paid Guardians should repair to assume their duties with all dispatch.

REPLY to the above:—January 29, 1848.

ALTHOUGH the subdivision of holdings in Tuosist may now prevent the landlords from receiving the rent, this cannot be admitted as any reason for not requiring payment of the poor-rate, a large portion of which is payable by immediate lessors, whose capability of paying the rates may depend not merely on the circumstances of their property in that division, and whose rent there may have been hitherto well paid. I am also to observe, that Mr. O'Connell, one of the proprietors in Bourdoneen division, states, that he has never been applied to for rates, an instance of gross neglect which is probably not unusual in the Union. The Commissioners must therefore consider that much can be done by the exertion and diligence of the collectors, which should be constantly enforced.

As regards the number of children receiving relief in the schools in the division, I am to request that care may be taken that children of persons receiving out-door relief be, while relieved in the schools, deducted from the number for which the relieving officer's rations shall be issued.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 22, 1848.

I HAVE to inform the Commissioners that their sealed order of the 20th inst., for the dissolution of the Board of Guardians, was this day read at the Board, on which occasion the said Board dissolved accordingly; when the sealed order of the same date, appointing paid officers to carry into execution the provisions of Acts for the relief of the destitute poor, was also read.

In pursuance of the instructions contained in the Commissioners' communication of the 20th inst., I proceeded to the discharge of the duties of the Guardians heretofore existing in the Union.

Upon the production of the treasurer's book, it appeared there were no funds in hand available for the support of the Union; and on comparing the cheque-book the sum of about 120*l.* is overdrawn. There is no probability of the cheques being dishonoured, as lodgments have been made by the collectors sufficient to meet them.

In consequence of the want of funds, I was unable to furnish the relieving officers with cash for the maintenance of the out-door relief for the ensuing week. The contractor's supply of meal having not yet arrived from Cork, and being unable to make another contract in the town this day, I applied to the Commissariat officer for a temporary supply of meal, which request he declined acceding to without cash.

With no resource for the support of the out-door relief, I resorted to the expedient of appropriating an order from the British Association on the Commissariat officer for provisions, intended for the use of the schools; by supplying the relieving officers with meal from this fund, as a loan, I have thus made a temporary provision for maintaining the poor, which I trust may meet with approval.

In the exhausted state of our finances a temporary advance will be necessary to meet the current expenses of the Union. I request instructions for my further guidance. The copy of a resolution passed this day at the Board will also be forwarded.

P.S. An immediate reply is requested on the subject of our finances, whether an advance can be granted.

Kenmare Union.

REPLY to the above:—January 27, 1848.

THE Commissioners have made application to Count Strzelecki for an advance of 300*l.* for the Kenmare Union.

I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners are desirous of being informed whether you are able to certify that the rate-payers of the Union will not be able to meet their liabilities, and that they are making such exertion as can reasonably be expected from them.

The Commissioners also request that you will be so good as to report specially on the following points:—

1st. What is the sum total of the poor rates paid in Kenmare Union since you have been the Inspector of the Union, and to how many shillings in the pound on the net annual value does it amount?

2ndly. What is the obstacle to the rate being collected? Is it that there is negligence or dishonesty in collectors or rate-payers? Is it that the crops have failed? Are the means of the proprietors and occupiers exhausted, or likely soon to be exhausted; and if so, how is this proved?

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 27, 1848.

UPON entering into the arrangements required for carrying into operation the order for out-door relief to the able-bodied, I have to submit to the Commissioners the following subjects for my information and guidance.

I have already expressed my opinion that the Union can only maintain the workhouse establishment, and the out-door relief under the 1st section of the Act. I have now to arrange for the cost of the staff of superintendents of labour, the food, and the implements required for putting the men to work; also many other expenses involved by the distribution of food, as depôts in each division must be established.

As I am informed that the funds of the British Association are the resource from which assistance is to be rendered, am I to understand that all the expenses for putting the able-bodied to work will be advanced, and the food to be supplied from the Commissariat store?

There are plenty of tools available for putting the people to work immediately at the different depôts of the Board of Works; if these can be applied for this service, I request that directions may be issued to the officers under the Board of Works for a supply of implements suitable for the purpose of stone-breaking in each electoral division.

I have also to request that directions will be given to the stationer for a supply of the duplicate forms referred to in the Commissioners' letter to the Vice-Guardians, relative to the employment of persons in the receipt of out-door relief, to enable the lists for the superintendents of labour being completed without delay.

Stone-breaking on the unfinished roads is the labour which can be most easily put into execution.

REPLY to the above :—February 2, 1848.

BEFORE the Commissioners can give you a definite answer to your questions, they are anxious to receive a detailed answer to the questions contained in their letter of the 27th ultimo, to which letter they desire to call your particular attention, if it has not been fully answered before this letter reaches you.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 29, 1848.

WITH reference to my report of the 14th instant, recommending the dissolution of the Board of Guardians, wherein I stated that many of the Guardians were defaulters themselves, for the information of the Commissioners I enclose a return showing the names of the Guardians who had not paid their poor rates, in justification of my report.

ERASMUS OMMANNEY, Captain R.N.
Temporary Poor Law Inspector.

Kenmare, 29th January, 1848.

REPLY to the above :—February 1, 1848.

THE Commissioners presume that you have caused the collectors to be instructed to take active and prompt measures to enforce the immediate payment of rate in these cases as well as others.

The Commissioners are desirous of being informed, in the course of the next week, whether any of the persons in the list enclosed with your communication are still defaulters—and if so, what reason can be assigned in each such case, of the neglect of the collector to enforce payment?

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 30, 1848.

THE Vice-Guardians have arrived. Charles Barnewall, Esq., assisted me on Friday in the admission of paupers and in authenticating the relieving officers' lists. Richard Robinson, Esq., attended at the Board yesterday, and assisted us with his advice. As their sealed order for the appointment arrived last night, the sealed order authorizing out-door relief to the able-bodied was read at the Board, a measure which is at this moment impracticable, arising from the impossibility of obtaining funds in the Union.

The sealed order authorizing the Vice-Guardians to hold meetings at other places in the Union than Kenmare was read, an authority which I consider as one of the greatest utility with a view to ascertain the correct state of the relieving officers' lists, and inquire into the manner in which they discharge their duties.

The collectors have obtained about 200% more of the rate. The stipendiary magistrate has arranged to be here to-morrow with a force to protect the rate collectors, and will at once proceed to the division of Bourdoneen. This measure has been delayed a fortnight in consequence of the severe illness of Mr. Dillon, resident magistrate. The collectors appear to be sanguine in obtaining the greater part of the rate, but I anticipate a difficulty should a large sale be required for distresses made.

The dissolution of the late Board is regarded as a most salutary measure for the public benefit. The whole system in the execution of the Poor Laws in this Union requires to be placed on a proper footing. The Vice-Guardians will have to consider that they are beginning entirely de novo, particularly in the workhouse establishment; the Vice-Guardians will give their attention to this immediately.

The number of admissions on the lists of the relieving officers have increased to a large amount. A total revision of the lists will be necessary immediately; the Vice-Guardians can attend to them. In the Bourdoneen division the relieving officer brought up nearly 100 additional names, which I declined to authenticate, as he could not give any satisfactory account of the parties, nor could he state any particular case which required immediate relief. I have arranged that the Board will hold a meeting in the electoral division of Bourdoneen on the 8th February, in order to scrutinize the lists of the relieving officer.

The only dwellings which could be obtained in the town for extra workhouse accommodation, afford but very indifferent shelter for the inmates, who are scattered about the town. Upon inquiry, I find that a large building adjoining the Commissariat store may be made available for accommodating all the extra paupers. If it can be obtained it will be a very great advantage, as it is detached from the town, nearer to the workhouse, and will receive all under one roof, besides afford us an extension for continuing the workhouse test. I shall endeavour to have this effected without delay.

This week I availed myself of the opportunity of visiting the division of Bourdoneen, where a better disposition to pay the rate appears to be manifested since the change of Guardians, and a satisfaction to find the Vice-Guardians will hold meetings in the division. Much anxiety is entertained by the ratepayers for being attached to the Cahirciveen Union.

At Sneem in the division of Ballybog, the misery and destitution of the people can hardly be exceeded; the emaciated appearance of the children, who are almost naked, is distressing to witness.

I am now distributing upwards of 3000 rations of rye bread daily to destitute children, from the bounty of the British Association, and I have all the arrangements completed—the number will amount to 4000.

All along the coast the greatest exertions are in operation preparing the land for sowing the potato: in many parts it is already sown; every one who can is determined to plant it extensively. The destitution of the people produces much petty crime—seed is rooted up at night, and stock carried off. Sickness is spreading through the county, both fever and dysentery.

Many applications are made for the means of interring the destitute: but as the provisions of the Fever Act are not in operation, I am not aware how to satisfy the claimants for assistance. As much mortality may be anticipated, I beg the Commissioners will take the subject into consideration, and direct me as to providing for the emergency.

The Vice-Guardians will immediately proceed to a thorough investigation of the present state of the workhouse establishment, and I am prepared to find the existence of many evils from continued mismanagement; and in order that the Commissioners may obtain the fullest information respecting the whole state of affairs, I strongly suggest the propriety of directing Mr. Crawford, Poor Law Inspector, to repair here for the purpose of being present during the inquiries of the Vice-Guardians; the benefit of his advice and experience would, I think, be most desirable, and his opinion would be satisfactory from the respect generally entertained for him in this Union.

REPLY to the above:—February 3, 1848.

THE Commissioners have made application for a further advance of 200*l*. to the Vice-Guardians of the Union, to assist them in providing for the relief of the destitute poor of the Union.

I am, at the same time, to state, that the Commissioners are still desirous to Kenmare Union. receive detailed answers to the questions contained in their letter to you of the 2nd ultimo.

As regards the difficulty which you anticipate with respect to the sale of goods distrained for non-payment of poor-rate, I am to draw your attention to the legal opinion on the subject contained in the "Collector's Manual."

If a sale cannot be effected to ordinary purchasers, it is possible that the Commissariat officer, or the police, or the Union officers, might become purchasers of the cattle or goods distrained. The Commissioners do not, however, apprehend that the difficulty which you anticipate will arise.

They await your further report on the subject of the occupation of the building, which you state may be advantageously used as an addition to the present work-house of the Kenmare Union.

With respect to your recommendation, that Mr. Crawford should visit the Kenmare Union, I beg to state that Mr. Crawford has various engagements in other parts of his district; but the Commissioners do not doubt that he will visit the Kenmare Union as soon as compatible with his other engagements.

Adverting to your report of the 27th ultimo, I am to state that the Vice-Guardians should themselves apply to the stationer for the printed forms required for commencing the system of out-door relief, or they may perhaps be more expeditiously printed at Kenmare.

Captain OMMANNEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 2, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 27th ultimo, and in reply I beg to inform the Commissioners that I am ready to certify that the rate-payers are unable to meet their liabilities, which amount to 1500*l.* The weekly current expenses are upwards of 300*l.*; the amount of rate uncollected about 2000*l.*, the whole of which it is expected will not be obtained.

Having also been called upon specially to report:—

1st. "What is the sum total of the poor-rates paid in Kenmare Union since I have been the Inspector of the Union, and how many shillings in the pound on the net annual value does it amount?" The sum total paid since my arrival, November 23rd, up to the 22nd January, is 1595*l.* 9*s.* 5*d.*, amounting to 1*s.* 3½*d.* in the pound on the net annual value.

2ndly, "What is the obstacle to the rate being collected? is it that there is negligence or dishonesty in collectors or rate-payers? is it that the crops have failed? are the means of the proprietors and occupiers exhausted or likely soon to be exhausted; and if so, how is this proved?"

The bad example of the Ex-Guardians in not paying the rates due from themselves I consider was an obstacle to collecting the rate, together with their negligence in collecting it. Most of the proprietors in this Union are people of affluence; but with occupiers there are many whose means are exhausted, owing to the failure of the potato crop, upon which they entirely depended. Many are in a state of destitution; the class usually termed middlemen are in great poverty, having received no rents last year, and are in consequence unable to pay their poor-rates.

Under the existing difficulties and great extent of destitution, I do not see any prospect of being extricated from them, so as to place the Union on a proper footing, without assistance to clear off the liabilities, and funds to set the work-house into a proper state of order.

REPLY to the above:—February 5, 1848.

THE Commissioners have made application for a further advance of 200*l.* to the Vice-Guardians, in order to meet the immediate and pressing wants of the Union. At the same time the Commissioners observe, that you state in your report that most of the proprietors in this Union are persons of affluence. Now the Commissioners are desirous of knowing whether the parties adverted to have paid their rates; and if not who the defaulters are, and whether legal proceedings have been instituted against them. The Commissioners observe also that you state that some of the late Guardians have not paid their rates; and it is scarcely necessary to point out that the very earliest attention of the collectors and of the Vice-Guardians should be directed to such cases of default.

CLIFDEN UNION.

MR. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS :—November 29, 1847.

THE usual weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians was held to-day.

I brought before the Board the communication which I had the honour of receiving from the Commissioners, in reference to Patrick Evans, disqualified from being appointed relieving officer of the Renvyle district; and I have to inform you that the Guardians will proceed to elect another person on Monday next.

The collection of the rates is progressing favourably in the electoral division of Clifden.

The Roundstone collector has resumed his duties. The collector of Renvyle will be sufficiently recovered from his attack of fever to proceed with the collection of the rate in that electoral division on Monday next. (See Minutes).

There is an arrear of 406*l.* 9*s.* 4*d.* of the last rate in the electoral division of Ballindoon, of which about 80*l.* is in the hands of the Board's solicitor for recovery, and for which he has already instituted proceedings in the superior Courts. I am desirous of being informed whether the Guardians can legally carry forward the arrears of the rate to the new rate, under these circumstances.

The necessary books are required for the use of the relieving officers before they can proceed to the execution of their duties, which I beg may be furnished at the earliest moment.

I am not sufficiently informed as to whether the documents can be had directly upon a requisition to the Commissioners' printer, or not. Adverting to the Commissioners' letter of the 20th instant, in reference to the deviation from the 17th article of the General Rules, I beg to state that the Guardians have taken the necessary steps to advertise for tenders for the supply of provisions, &c.; but, at the same time, I think it right to declare that I feel considerable doubt as to whether any tenders will be sent in at the next meeting, in consequence of the want of faith which there exists towards the Board of Clifden Union. I trust, however, that my apprehensions may prove incorrect. I am informed by the clerk, that on several occasions when notices for tenders were advertised, that no notice was taken of the same.

A Committee has been appointed, at my suggestion, for the revision of the list of paupers in the workhouse, agreeably to the Commissioners' opinion as to the necessity of such a step.

The cases of the children shall also be closely scrutinized by the same Committee.

No proposition has been made to remunerate Dr. Suffield for his services as local treasurer, I shall bring it before the Board at the next meeting.

In reference to the school-house proposed to be converted into a fever hospital, I beg leave to state that the chairman of the Board of Guardians, Mr. Hyacinth D'Arcy, is the landlord, and he is prepared to lease it on the most advantageous terms to the Board. Should the Commissioners approve of it, I shall write more fully on the subject when I communicate with that gentleman as to what he proposes to do. I do not think there would be any necessity to erect temporary sheds, if the school-house were fitted up. From what I have been enabled to gather by a short experience here, I doubt whether the Guardians could get the fever sheds fitted up in anything like the same space of time as the school-house.

It would be very desirable that I should be made acquainted, at the Commissioners' earliest convenience, with their definite opinion, as to whether the loan to build fever sheds could be expended in repairing the building I have alluded to.

The Board of Guardians appear to think (and I concur with them) that the school-house is the best site that could be chosen. The present state of the workhouse, now rendered absolutely pestilential by fever and dysentery, suggests the paramount necessity of prompt action to secure additional accommodation, and I beg leave respectfully to await the Commissioners' instructions on the points I have referred to.

My time has been anxiously directed during the past week, to the forwarding of the benevolent views of the British Association. I visited Westport on Tuesday last, and conferred with Mr. Lynch, the Inspector of that Union, in reference to the baking of rye bread. I returned on Thursday morning to Clifden, and have been very actively engaged in preparations to set the schools to work. The Commissary-General has forwarded me 250*l.* to make the necessary purchases, which I am proceeding to do.

The labour of effecting this excellent object is thrown, I may say, altogether on me. It will be in vain to expect assistance from the local gentry; however, it will afford me no small satisfaction to be enabled to dispense the relief through my own agency, and no exertion shall be spared for the purpose.

The distress during the week appears to have gained ground; but I trust in a week or ten days, it will be much mitigated by the proposed relief to the children.

I rejoice to state that the supply of fish is most abundant on the coast; and, what is still more gratifying, that (to use the words of Major-General Thompson, a resident landlord), "The fishermen were never more active in their exertions to fish, mainly because they are satisfied that no relief from the Government will be afforded to them this season." I myself witnessed some men bringing down their nets from the mountains to the sea coast, to catch the swarms of herrings in the bay. This is a step in the right direction, and holds out some hope for the future.

I hope in my next report to give the Commissioners some interesting information in reference to the commencement of relief to the schools.

REPLY to the above :—December 2, 1847.

THE Commissioners approve the proposed election of a relieving officer in room of Patrick Evans.

The Commissioners are glad to perceive that your continued attention is directed to the collection of the rate, the speedy collection of which from all classes is a matter of essential importance. In reply to your inquiry on the subject of the arrears, I am to state that, until the arrears have been actually paid, they should be carried forward into the new rate books as arrears, notwithstanding that legal proceedings for their recovery are pending. As regards the means of providing accommodation for fever patients, and your inquiry whether the loan for building temporary sheds for the accommodation of persons affected by fever, could be appropriated to the repair of the house, which Mr. D'Arcy proposes to let to the Guardians to be used as a fever ward, I am to state, that if the sheds cannot be speedily prepared, and that the house in question could be made available at once, without much outlay, the Commissioners will not object to a special application to the Lords of the Treasury, to sanction the appropriation of part of the loan for that object; but they must first be satisfied that the sheds cannot be speedily provided, and be made aware of the nature, particulars, and cost of the repairs proposed to be made in Mr. D'Arcy's house. They cannot understand why there should be any delay in preparing wooden sheds.

The Commissioners are glad to perceive that a Committee has been appointed to revise the relief lists. The relieving officers' books were forwarded to Clifden yesterday.

The Commissioners perceive, with satisfaction, that the apathy of the poor with respect to the coast fishery has in some degree abated; and they trust that the people will be induced to make an effort to provide sustenance for themselves and their families without extraneous aid.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 3, 1847.

I WOULD hope to receive the Commissioners' final instructions, in reference to the occupation of the school-house as a fever hospital, before the next meeting of the Board.

A Guardian has asked me whether the Commissioners would sanction an individual here appointed relieving officer, who was married to his niece.

It is really difficult to get candidates who are not in some way connected with the Guardians. The party recently disqualified was brother-in-law to a Guardian.

I have to inform the Commissioners that two schools in the neighbourhood of Clifden, have been for the last two days receiving the relief extended to the Union by the British Relief Association. 400 children have been fed each day.

I hope to have the relief in operation in the other districts before the expiration of ten days.

Children have already left the workhouse to partake of the food in the schools. This will afford the Guardians additional room for able-bodied paupers.

REPLY to the above:—December 4, 1847.

WITH regard to the proposed repair and occupation of the school-house belonging to Mr. D'Arcy, I am to request your attention to the letter addressed to you on the 2nd instant. The Commissioners are not yet furnished with information sufficient to enable them to decide upon the matter; but they will do so immediately on receiving your further report.

In reply to your inquiry whether the Commissioners would sanction the appointment of a person as a relieving officer, who is married to the niece of a Guardian, I am to state that if no other person equally competent can be found for the office on further notice to appoint, the Commissioners will not object to the appointment unless some other good ground of objection should exist.

SINCE the date of my last report, I have been occupied almost exclusively in organising the relief extended to this Union by the British Association, for the purpose of giving food to the children at the schools.

Two schools are already in full operation, and I only await the arrival of a supply of rye from Galway which I expect to-morrow, to provide food for several other schools in this district.

I attended the meeting of the Board of Guardians to-day.

The election of relieving officer in the room of Patrick Evans, disqualified, was proceeded with, and John Lyden was elected; I have made inquiries as to his character and qualifications, and can recommend the Commissioners to sanction his appointment.

The books for the relieving officers were delivered in Clifden this day, and the clerk handed them over to three of those functionaries, whose active duties shall forthwith commence.

The porter was dismissed by the Guardians to-day, and advertisements were ordered to be posted for candidates to offer for that office.

A man of the name of Mullen has been appointed to act pro tempore as porter.

The collector of the Clifden Union is continuing to give satisfaction in the discharge of his duties; he collected 50*l.* this week, or rather he lodged that sum with the Treasurer of the Union; he has about 12*l.* in his hands.

The collector of the Roundstone electoral division did not attend to-day, but I am given to understand he has collected something over 58*l.* during the week. The great distance he has to come to Clifden, coupled with the severe and inclement weather to-day, formed a reasonable excuse for his non-attendance.

The collector of the Renvyle electoral division has resumed his duties, after a severe attack of fever, and he lodged 19*l.* during the week; he did not commence to collect until late on Wednesday last. I have every confidence in this officer, and hope to be enabled to report to the Commissioners of a steady advance in the amount of his collection.

The collector of the Ballindoon electoral division was very properly dismissed.

Clifden Union.

to-day by the Guardians. He has proved himself unworthy of their confidence, and I can strongly recommend the Commissioners to adopt the suggestion of the Guardians, viz., that Mullins, the collector of the Clifden electoral division, should be allowed to collect the new rate in Ballindoon. I have already borne testimony to Mullins's efficiency, and when I assure the Commissioners, that before the 25th of this month, it is more than probable that the 3s. rate will be collected from the Clifden electoral division by this man, I would hope that they will permit his undertaking the collection of the rate in Ballindoon.

I am glad to be enabled to state, that several tenders were sent in to the Board to-day for the supply of necessaries, a proof of returning confidence in that body. I may here observe that the Guardians are evincing an anxious desire to attend to the interests of the Union, and that I continue to receive very willing co-operation from them, in the exercise of my official duties.

The Guardians, subject to the approval of the Commissioners, have agreed to take Mr. D'Arcy's house with the land adjoining for 15% a-year, for the purpose of a fever hospital (lease for 21 years). I have the honour to enclose one estimate which I have prepared, of the probable cost of making the necessary repairs, and alterations in Mr. D'Arcy's house for the purpose specified. The Guardians have ordered their clerk to post notices for tenders for doing the work (provisionally) with the sanction of the Commissioners. In reference to that part of the Commissioners' letter of the 2nd December, in which it is stated, that "they cannot understand why there should be any delay in preparing wooden sheds," I have the honour to submit the following remarks:—

1. There are but five persons able to undertake the erection of work of that kind.

2. A contractor having been declared, timber should be brought from Galway or Westport, by sea carriage, and at this time of the year it might be a month before it could be brought round.

3. I have made minute inquiries, and learn, that no one could complete the building before the expiration of ten weeks.

4. The constant storms and rainy weather at this time of year operate powerfully against the chance of the sheds being completed in any reasonable time.

For the above reasons, I would respectfully urge on the Commissioners the importance of procuring the sanction of the Lords of the Treasury to appropriate part of the loan to the repair, and alteration of Mr. D'Arcy's house.

The increase of disease in the workhouse renders it essential to have accommodation for fever patients, speedily provided.

I have (with the consent of the Guardians) employed the paupers in white-washing the interior of the workhouse during the week, and arrangements have been made to employ the able-bodied in breaking stones for the yards, which have not as yet been covered.

It is almost impossible to procure lime here, and it has only been by constant exertion on my part, that I have been enabled to obtain a small quantity for the workhouse.

It will take some time to reform the internal economy of the house after such long neglect, but I think that I shall yet be enabled to report to the Commissioners, the result of arrangements which I have made for its improvement.

There has been a great increase of distress and disease during the past week. The weather has been very severe, and has tended much to produce fever and dysentery.

It is pleasing to report that no opposition has been offered to the collection of the rate, and that with many combining disadvantages at present, a confident hope may be entertained as to this Union, of the ultimate success in the working of the recent legislation for the relief of the poor.

REPLY to the above:—December 8, 1847.

WITH reference to the appointment of a relieving officer for Renvyle, I am to state that the Commissioners will take the appointment of Mr. Lyden into consideration, as soon as they receive the answers to the usual queries respecting him, which the clerk of the Union should be directed to forward without delay.

Questions for answers to be signed by the clerk and the person who may be appointed porter of the workhouse, in pursuance of the advertisement issued by the Guardians, and I am, at the same time to observe, that the Guardians should record the dismissal of the late porter on the minutes.

The Commissioners have read with satisfaction, your account as regards the collection of the rates in part of the Union, and they are anxious that your continued attention should be directed to this important subject. When any of the collectors are unable to attend to lodge with the treasurer the money they have collected during the week, they should, if practicable, forward the amount by post, sending half of the notes for the amount in the first instance, and transmitting the other half notes when the first are acknowledged.

The Commissioners will issue an order for the dismissal of the collector for the Ballindoon division, on being informed of the grounds, if they be sufficient, on which the Guardians suspended him from his office, and I am to forward herewith the usual queries, for answers to be signed by the clerk and Mr. Mullin, whom the Guardians propose to appoint in room of Mr. Flynn; the answers to these queries should be forwarded to the Commissioners with as little delay as possible.

With respect to the taking of Mr. D'Arcy's house to be used as a fever hospital, instead of erecting temporary sheds for the accommodation of fever patients, I am to state, that the Commissioners' architect has proceeded to Clifden, and they await his report on the subject.

Mr. Wilkinson's immediate attention will be drawn to your observations.

In the event of Mr. D'Arcy's house being taken, I am to inquire whether the expense of preparing the necessary lease would be defrayed by Mr. D'Arcy or by the Board of Guardians out of the poor-rates.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 13, 1847.

I ATTENDED the meeting of the Board of Guardians this day. I have the honour to report that the several queries have been duly answered by the relieving officer elected for Renvyle electoral division, and were forwarded by the clerk.

A person of the name of Mullen was elected porter by the Guardians at this day's meeting. I have made particular inquiries as to his character and qualifications, and can recommend the Commissioners to sanction his appointment.

I have had a great deal of trouble in getting the dismissed porter to leave the workhouse. It was only by having a summons issued against him, under the 100th section of the Act, that I was enabled to get him to give up possession of the books, &c. His conduct was extremely violent.

The Board of Guardians paid him his salary to-day, and, I presume, they will receive no further annoyance from him.

The collector of the Ballindoon electoral division was dismissed by the Board, in consequence of his want of activity in collecting the rate; the Board unanimously feeling that the 3s. rate would never be collected by him. In this opinion I most fully coincide, and the appointment of Mullins would, I have no doubt, be the surest step to the collection of the rate. Flynn (the late collector) attended at the Board to-day, and preferred charges against Morris (the former collector of Ballindoon). He states that several persons (and he names two in particular), to whom he applied for the last rate (the 1s. rate), allege that they have receipts from Morris in their possession. Upon referring to the book, I found that the individuals alluded to by Flynn do not appear to have paid, and Flynn has promised to bring forward those parties, who have consented to produce the receipts. There is quite enough in the whole matter to rouse my suspicions, and, with the permission of the Commissioners, I should wish to examine the parties upon oath.

I have still to report favourably of Mullins's exertions. I examined a list of the immediate lessors owing rate which he laid before the Board to-day, and he has received instructions to proceed against the parties if the rate be not immediately forthcoming. There is a large amount to be paid by a receiver, who has been peremptorily written to, to send the amount due.

The collector of this division made no return this week, and the Board have unanimously resolved to suspend him on the next day of meeting, unless he shall have made considerable progress in the collection.

The Board have increased the rate of Leyden's poundage by three-pence. I think this was a prudent step, as his district is a large and straggling one, and in the collection of the rate a greater amount of labour than in the other electoral divisions.

In reference to the inquiry, whether the Board of Guardians or Mr. D'Arcy would pay for the expense of preparing a lease of the house and premises proposed to be taken for the purpose of a fever hospital, I have to inform the Commissioners that the Guardians have undertaken to defray that cost out of the current rates.

The Board have consented to provide funds for the support of this hospital.

This matter was brought before the Board this day, and its further consideration was postponed until next day of meeting. I think the Board will be obliged to incur a small annual expense for this purpose. I have suggested 2*l.* a-year for each office. I have no doubt they can be provided for this sum.

A Committee has been appointed to inspect two houses, contiguous to the workhouse, for additional accommodation; and the contractor for the supply of blankets was directed to furnish several additional pairs to-day for the service of the paupers admitted.

The additional day-room accommodation, as suggested by Mr. Phelan, is most important; and I beg leave to ask the Commissioners whether they would permit the present Board-room, which was built for the purpose, and also to be used as a chapel and dining-hall, to be temporarily allowed as a day-room. The Guardians have peremptorily refused to sit there until the house shall be in a more healthy state, and this, one of the largest apartments in the house, is unused (save on Sunday, when the paupers attend chapel), and could, I would suggest, be made available at the present time most advantageously.

It will be in vain to get the Guardians to attend at the workhouse, or appoint a visiting committee, until fever and dysentery cease their ravages.

As I mentioned to the Board in one of my former reports, it is a matter of no small difficulty to procure a supply of lime to whitewash the house, and it has only been by much personal exertion on my part that I got some few barrels to commence.

The medical attendant of the workhouse informed me that, in his opinion, the present inmates of the house required a change of diet; and a copy of his medical certificate appears on the minutes to that effect. The Board are desirous to use rye-bread. Dr. Suffield, appointed local treasurer, has been obliged to leave Clifden for a short time, in consequence of ill-health; he had not, as the Commissioners are aware, entered on the duties of that office. I hope in a short time that the Board of Guardians will have the benefit of his services.

I have to inform the Commissioners that the relief at the schools has been productive of the greatest benefit, and the system which I have been enabled to carry into effect will, I trust, be conducive of the best results.

There is much distress in particular parts of the Union, but I trust it is not of a character which cannot be met by the existing law, and the assistance to be afforded by the British Association. Whenever that assistance shall be extended to the Union I would hope to be enabled to procure an industrial return. To this matter I am directing my most anxious attention, and shall lay my views before the Commissioners in an early report.

REPLY to the above :—December 16, 1847.

THE Commissioners have had before them your report of the 13th instant relating to the Clifden Union, and in reference thereto, I am directed to state for your information, that the Commissioners have approved the appointment of Mr. Leydon as relieving officer for the Renvyle division of the Union.

The Commissioners have given directions for the preparation of an order for the dismissal of Mr. Flynn, the late collector for the Ballindoon division, which will be issued unless he forthwith sends in his resignation.

The Commissioners fully approve of your making inquiry, upon oath, into the charges brought by Mr. Flynn against Morris, a former collector of poor-rate in the division, and in the event of the charges proving to be correct, the Commissioners recommend that immediate proceedings should be taken against Morris under the 101st section of the Irish Poor Relief Act, for misapplication of the Union funds.

The Commissioners have read, with satisfaction, your report of the attention which is being paid to the collection of the rates in the Union, and they approve the increase proposed in the remuneration allowed to collector Leydon.

The Commissioners can take no step with respect to Mr. D'Arcy's house until they receive the report of their architect upon the subject of providing accommodation for fever patients at Clifden.

The Commissioners have forwarded an extract from your report relating to the Ballindoon temporary fever hospital to the Central Board of Health.

The Commissioners are prepared to approve the allowance of an annual payment of offices for relieving officers.

The Commissioners think it a matter of much importance that the Guardians should meet in a Board-room at the workhouse, but they will address you further on this point.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. WILKINSON, Architect:—December 16, 1847.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you the enclosed extract from a report from Mr. Deane, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, of Clifden Union, relating to the house proposed to be taken from Mr. D'Arcy, to be used as a fever ward to the workhouse, and I am to state, that the Commissioners await your report upon the subject before they take any step in the matter.

They also request your report on the proposal contained in the further extract from Mr. Deane's report enclosed herewith.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. DEANE:—December 28, 1847.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state that they have now received observations of Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. R. Bourke on the proposal to use the Board-room at the workhouse of the Clifden Union as a day-room, and under the circumstances of the case, and having regard to the peculiar construction of the Clifden workhouse, the Commissioners will not offer any further objection to the occupation of the room referred to, either as a day-room or a dormitory.

I am at the same time to state that the Commissioners think it very desirable that arrangements should be made as soon as possible for the meetings of the Guardians to be again held at the workhouse, and the Commissioners are desirous that you should bring this point, as well as the appointment of a Visiting Committee, under the notice of the Guardians at a favourable opportunity.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 20, 1847.

SINCE last I had the honour of addressing you my time has been chiefly occupied in attending to the dispensation of relief to the children at the schools in the Union.

You have already before you my report in reference to the amount of clothing required for the use of the workhouse, and I cannot too strongly urge on the Commissioners the necessity of advising its speedy transport hither.

The Guardians experience the greatest difficulty in getting the contractors to supply them with clothes and blankets.

The paupers who were admitted, are now necessarily obliged to lie down in the polluted and filthy rags they come into the workhouse with. I attended the meeting of the Board of Guardians this day. The applications for relief

Clifden Union.

(in-door) were most numerous, and the distress has within the last week, owing to the inclement state of the weather, gained considerable ground.

The list of the inmates in the workhouse is carefully in course of revision, and especially in reference to the quarter acre clause, in the Act of Parliament; acting upon information received from the relieving officers to-day, 15 were discharged from the workhouse, who were found to come within its provisions.

I have strongly urged upon the Guardians the necessity of adhering rigidly to the course pointed out by the Commissioners in the Circular of the 26th of August last, and they have expressed their determination to follow the suggestions therein contained.

The Guardians have selected two houses (or rather thatched cabins) in the vicinity of the workhouse for additional accommodation. Subject to your sanction they propose to take them at a small yearly rent, 5*l.* for each.

It will be impossible to obtain any other accommodation, and it is only a chain between this and out-door relief to the able-bodied, which in this Union I look to with considerable apprehension.

By a careful revision of the list, and by removing the children in the workhouse to another establishment, and with a supply of clothing, I would hope that we shall be enabled to avert the necessity of out-door relief to the able-bodied for a considerable time.

The Guardians are now prepared to give out-door relief to those comprised in the first class, viz., to destitute widows with two or more children, and to keep the house for able-bodied paupers.

I am inclined to think that the step will be productive of much advantage, and I hope to report by next Monday that it will be in operation.

The revision of the list I attach much importance to. It is absolutely necessary to be guarded against imposition. During the last week (for instance) one of the female paupers appeared before the magistrate, and charged a fellow-inmate with stealing 3*l.* off her person; from the evidence adduced, there was strong presumptive proof that her story was correct. The female paupers in the same dormitory with her were searched, but no money was discovered; on examining the complainant's person, however, the master found 14*l.* 6*s.* in silver sewn up in her dress. This woman had been but a week in the house.

This will show the Commissioners how difficult it is to deal with the cases brought before the Board.

The collection of the rate progresses, under all circumstances, favourably.

It would be desirable that Mullins should receive the Commissioners' appointment for the collection of the rate in Ballindoon, without delay.

M'Donnell, the collector of Renvyle, who was recently ill of fever, collected 45*l.* this week.

Mullins, the collector of Clifden, would have had much more than that which he lodged with the Treasurer this week, but for the inclement state of the weather. The same remarks apply to the Roundstone collector.

On the whole, I can have no reason to complain of the activity of the collectors, who perform their duty strictly, and, at the same time, with temper and moderation.

I trust I shall soon have the benefit of Mr. Wilkinson's assistance in reference to the fever hospital, &c.

I propose to investigate the charges against Morris to morrow, a full report of which I shall duly forward.

Rumours have reached me relative to the conduct of the matron, affecting her moral character; touching which I am making preliminary inquiries. I would hope that they will turn out unfounded.

I should feel much obliged if the Commissioners will afford me the benefit of their advice in respect to the course best to be taken as regards increased accommodation, and whether they would approve of the houses I have alluded to (thatched cabins more properly speaking) being taken for the purpose; the premises are quite close to the workhouse, and may be used merely as dormitories.

Clifden Union.

WITH reference to the insufficient supply of clothing for the workhouse inmates, I am to state that no unnecessary delay will take place in forwarding to Clifden such portion of the cast naval clothing to which you advert, as may be allotted to the Clifden Union. I am, at the same time, to state that the admission of paupers into the workhouse, without changing their clothing, ought not to be allowed by the Board of Guardians, as being calculated to spread disease in the workhouse; and I am to suggest the expediency of giving to paupers already in the house their own washed clothes, and then cleansing the workhouse clothing which they now wear, to put on the additional parties admitted while their own clothes shall be washing.

By such an expedient, pending the preparation of additional supplies of clothing, which ought to be expedited as much as possible, the danger of contagion will be lessened; and you will be so good as to instruct the workhouse officers on this matter without delay.

With regard to that part of your report which relates to the giving of out-door relief, I am to enclose, for your information, a copy of an order which has been issued in some Unions, extending the powers of the Guardians for giving out-door relief.

It is most desirable, however, to avoid giving out-door relief as far as possible, by providing additional workhouse accommodation; and, under the urgent circumstances of the case, the Commissioners do not object to the temporary occupation of the two thatched cabins to which you refer, for dormitories of additional inmates; but they consider the rent of 5*l.* for each cabin unusually high, and they recommend you to endeavour to obtain some large detached building in Clifden, or elsewhere, to which the children or infirm might be removed.

In consenting to the temporary occupation of the ten cabins referred to, I am to state that the Commissioners rely upon your discretion in this matter, as they are not furnished with any particulars as to the size or capacity of the buildings, and no information is supplied as to whether there are any yards or other enclosures attached to them.

As regards Collector Mullins, I am to state that the Commissioners are awaiting replies to some of the usual queries which were omitted when they were first forwarded by the Union clerk.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. DEANE:—December 23, 1847.

THE Commissioners have now received the report of their architect on the proposal to take a house at Clifden belonging to Mr. D'Arcy, called the National School-house, and to put it in repair for the reception of fever patients.

The Guardians propose, it appears, to take this house on lease for 21 years at a yearly rent of 15*l.*, and to pay the costs of preparing the lease. They also propose to put the house in repair, and you have forwarded an estimate, from which it appears that the repairs contemplated would cost 49*l.* 1*s.* 4*d.*, exclusive of the bedsteads which are estimated at 40*l.* 15*s.* 4*d.* In the estimate for the repairs is an item of charge of 3*l.* 6*s.* for sheeting under felt, which may not be required, as the item for felt has been struck out. The charge estimated for the bedsteads (15*s.* each) is considered high, and unless they are made for removing to the new fever hospital when it is built, 5*s.* or 6*s.* seems to the Commissioners to be quite sufficient for bedsteads.

The Commissioners observe that no name is attached to the estimate, and it does not appear from your reports who is to execute the proposed works. As the Commissioners are to make application to have any money which is expended on this house paid out of the loan which is to be obtained for erecting a fever ward, it will be necessary that the particulars, as regards the contract, should be fully stated.

I am further to state, that it appears to the Commissioners advisable, for the interests of the Union, to avoid if possible making a long lease of the National School-house, as it is intended to erect a permanent fever-ward, and it is also advisable to reduce the expense of repairs to the building as far as practicable. The Commissioners think it probable, as so much must be expended on the building to make it habitable, that Mr. D'Arcy would be satisfied with that expenditure, in lieu of rent, for such short period as the Board of Guardians may require to occupy the building, and they consider that if it can be avoided, it would not be expedient to take a lease of the building for 21 years. If, however, it is absolutely unavoidable to take a lease, a clause of surrender should be introduced. A copy of the estimate received from you is returned herewith.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 25, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of 23rd instant, in reference to the proposed occupation of Mr. D'Arcy's house, (the National School-house,) for the purpose of accommodating fever patients.

The estimate which I transmitted to the Commissioners was prepared for me in order that I might furnish some preliminary information. No tenders have been advertised for by the Board of Guardians. I have been awaiting the decision of the Commissioners, founded on the architect's report, before I ventured to proceed further in the matter. I have had an interview with Mr. D'Arcy to-day, and he wishes me to communicate to the Board that he will waive any personal consideration to obtain accommodation for the fever patients, and begs that I will make any arrangements best calculated for that purpose. It is right, however, to state, that he is anxious that the permanent fever-ward should be built on the site of the present school-house, and the Board of Guardians, as a body, has expressed a similar desire. I have already offered my opinion as to the eligibility of the site, and I would hope that the Commissioners will shortly have the benefit of Mr. Wilkinson's experienced judgment on this subject.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS :—December 30, 1847.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration the proposal to fit up the National School-house at Clifden, belonging to Mr. D'Arcy, as a temporary fever hospital for the Clifden Union, and I am directed to express the Commissioners' sanction to the occupation of the premises by the Board of Guardians for the purpose stated.

I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners will take the site of the building referred to for the erection thereon of a permanent fever-ward, if the terms upon which it is proposed to let the ground be favourable to the Union.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 25, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 23rd instant.

In reference to your instructions as to the expediency of giving paupers, already in the workhouse, their own washed clothes, and then cleansing the workhouse clothing, which they now wear, for the use of additional parties admitted while their own clothes shall be washing; I beg leave to state, that the workhouse officers shall receive directions to carry the same into immediate effect,

In respect to the intention of the Guardians to give out-door relief to the first and second classes specified in the Act of Parliament, I beg leave to observe, that it is strictly to be confined to the permanently disabled and impotent poor, and destitute widows with two or more children. I should have stated otherwise in my last report, and particularly as regards relief to widows with one child. I have done so inadvertently, and by a clerical mistake, inasmuch as my particular and anxious attention was directed, at the meeting of the Committee appointed to revise the lists, to the importance of following, in the strictest possible manner, the directions of the Commissioners as contained in their circular letter of the 26th of last August, upon the correct understanding of which the Commissioners have laid so much stress.

I can assure the Board that I look with much apprehension to the quantity of out-door relief to the able-bodied of this Union, and consistently with the primary duty of relieving distress, I shall endeavour to point out to the Guardians, in forcible terms, the value of making their workhouse available for the reception of the able-bodied, with the view of preventing the necessity of resorting to such a step.

Acting, in this spirit, I recommended the Guardians to give relief to the two classes alluded to, and to provide increased accommodation outside. The two cabins, (and not 10) as stated in the communication I had the honour to receive, are about 45 and 35 feet long; they stand separately, and are not enclosed by any yard. It would be in vain to procure in Clifden any large "detached building;" the only one available being that selected for a temporary fever-ward. The Committee appointed by the Board to inspect these premises reported, that the largest cabin was worth 5*l.* a-year. The Guardians look upon their occupation of them as likely to be very temporary, and consented to give that sum, subject to the sanction of the Commissioners. It would be desirable that I should be acquainted, in reference to the passage "large detached buildings in Clifden or elsewhere," whether the Commissioners have placed any limit to the distance from the workhouse of buildings to be hired for that purpose?

I have now to call the attention of the Commissioners to the state of the workhouse, which I regret to say is in a lamentable condition, owing to the spread of disease therein. The Commissioners will, no doubt, recollect the position I am placed in. Unaided by a visiting Committee (the members of the Board of Guardians peremptorily refusing to go to the workhouse), I am obliged to witness the wretched condition of the establishment without means to effect a prompt remedy for this state of things. The inmates of the house are crowded together in a day-room, breathing a tainted atmosphere; there is an insufficient supply of bedding and clothing. The rain pours down through the ventilating turrets into the rooms, and the paupers are thus subjected to increased liability of infection. In all these matters I have applied my anxious attention. Directions have been given to provide increased accommodation, such as can be obtained. The contractor has been directed to supply additional bedding. A minute appears on the proceedings of the Guardians directing advertisements to be issued for tenders for the keeping in repair the house according to the printed specifications furnished to me. All this has been formally done, and yet I can tell the Commissioners from the experience I have obtained since my residence here, that it will be no easy matter to determine when these orders shall be completed. The contractor for clothing must be paid a portion of his debt before he gives any additional credit. The slater, carpenter, mason, &c., will urge the state of the weather as being against their respective operations; and while this delay is being experienced, pestilence rages among the wretched inmates. I have already reported to the Commissioners the difficulty I experienced in obtaining a few barrels of lime to whitewash the house, and they can understand, from this simple fact, how much I have to contend with in effecting matters of more consequence. On visiting the house, a few days ago, I was disgusted at learning that the dormitories (particularly those appropriated for children) are not supplied with night buckets. I forbear to describe the abominations consequent on this. The buckets had been long since ordered by the Guardians; but the idle laziness of the tradesmen occasioned a delay in the execution of the order, and the result was as I have stated. Now setting aside that the Guardians have no visiting Committee, and bearing in mind that they had actually ordered these articles, and had also directed their contractor to supply bedding, and had issued advertisements for tenders, I cannot attach blame to them, since my official connexion with their Board. And the Commissioners will, I trust, agree with me, that the difficulties I have to meet are associated with, and almost inseparable from, the locality in which the workhouse is placed in the Union; so distant as it is from towns where the Guardians could supply themselves with materials, and contractors for executing necessary works.

I regret to state that Dr. Bodkin's brother, who accompanied him to the workhouse hospital about a week since, for the purpose of assisting him in his medical duties, died to-day, of malignant typhus fever. I mention this fact, with the view of assuring the Commissioners that I shall now find it still more difficult to induce the Guardians to visit the house.

Within the last week the weather has been most inclement, and has brought with it a vast increase of disease and misery.

The rates are, I am glad to say, still in course of active collection. There are some receivers under the Courts of Chancery and Exchequer who have rents to collect in this neighbourhood. I have advised the collectors to remind them of their duty in paying the rate; and have learned that, in some instances, the receivers have proposed their total inability to meet the demand. It would be desirable to have something more definite and certain to deal with than their assertions; and I should be glad to know, whether the Commissioners would recommend an application to the Court, in every instance, when the rate is not paid by a receiver.

I have to report that Doctor Suffield has returned to Clifden, and is ready to undertake the duties of local treasurer. It is proposed to give him a salary of 20*l.* a-year. Will the Commissioners object to this? I think Dr. Suffield would be entitled to some remuneration.

I shall report to the Commissioners in my next communication the result of the investigation which I held, in respect to the charges brought against Mr. Morris, a retired collector, by Mr. Flynn, lately in the same occupation.

I AM to state that a note will be made on your former report correcting the clerical errors as regards the relief of widows, under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, and the number of the cabins which the Board of Guardians have taken adjoining the workhouse.

The Commissioners fully approve of the course which you have recommended of giving out-door relief to those classes in the workhouse, who come within the provisions of the 1st section of the Extension Act, with a view to make room for the reception of able-bodied applicants for relief.

The Commissioners do not object, under the circumstances of the case, to a temporary occupation of the two cabins to which you advert; and as regards the distance within which they would think it advisable that the Guardians should occupy a suitable building, as an auxiliary workhouse, I am to state, that the Commissioners consider that it would be advisable to take such a building in any part of the Union in which it could be obtained. Any such auxiliary workhouse should be appropriated to the reception of the children in the workhouse, who might be readily managed by the employment of a trustworthy schoolmaster and schoolmistress, or other officers, if required. The Commissioners think it probable that there may be some buildings at Roundstone, which might be occupied with advantage as an additional workhouse.

The Commissioners have read your account of the state of the workhouse with great regret. They are aware that there are many difficulties to be met in reducing the establishment to a satisfactory state; but they rely upon your zeal and exertions to overcome those difficulties, and they trust, that you will shortly be enabled to report that your endeavours have been successful. The Commissioners are the more confident in this hope, from the satisfactory accounts which you give, upon the whole, of the collection of the rates.

As regards the case of properties under the Court of Chancery and the Court of Exchequer, the rates due on account of which are in arrear, I am to draw your attention to the orders of these Courts, copies of which will be found in the Collectors' Manual; and I am to request, that you will be so good as to obtain and forward to the Commissioners a list of the cases of that nature in which the rates have not been paid.

I am also to request that the Commissioners may be furnished with a list of the several immediate lessors in the Union who are now in arrear for poor-rate.

The Commissioners will address you again, with respect to the proposed allowance of 20*l.* a-year to Dr. Suffield, for discharging the duties of treasurer of the Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. DEANE:—January 1, 1848.

WITH reference to your report of the 25th ultimo, I am directed by the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, to state that they approve the payment of a salary of 20*l.* per annum to Dr. Suffield, for his services as treasurer of the Clifden Union.

I am at the same time to state, that Dr. Suffield should enter into a bond for due performance of the duties of his office, in a principal sum equal to the utmost amount he is expected to have in his hands for the Union at any one time.

The Commissioners will be glad to be informed of the names of the sureties proposed by Dr. Suffield.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 27, 1847.

I REGRET to be obliged to inform you that, owing to the crowded state of the workhouse and the spread of disease therein, I apprehend the most serious results, in which I am fully borne out by the opinion of the medical officer, as expressed to me in the letter which I have now the honour to enclose.

I attended the meeting of the Board of Guardians to-day. It was resolved, with the view of arresting the progress of disease, and of carrying out the instructions of the Commissioners, as contained in their circular letter of the 26th August, to take out of the house the permanently disabled, &c., and widows with two or more children. The list of those coming under those classes was duly revised by the Guardians, and instructions were given to carry the same into effect to-day, but owing to the severity of the weather from rain, it was thought right to postpone discharging them until to-morrow.

The Commissioners will feel at once the position the Guardians are placed in, when I tell them that the workhouse built to accommodate 300, now has within its walls over 700!! that in a ward where but 40 patients could be conveniently accommodated for fever purposes, there are now huddled together 150!! that even in the day-rooms, and in the body of the house generally, as I am instructed by the medical attendant, many of the paupers are actually in fever, and, to use his own words, a "dire pestilence" will be generated, unless some steps be taken to check the spread of disease.

Having at the meeting of the Board to-day formally obtained the opinion of Dr. Bodkin that it was absolutely essential that the house should be relieved from its present crowded state, I urged on the Guardians the necessity of so doing, and on to-morrow morning I hope to see over 200 of the two classes I have already alluded to discharged.

From every part of the Union I receive distressing accounts of the spread of fever; indeed it is almost to be found in every village committing its ravages. While sitting at the Board of Guardians to-day a cart containing a fever patient was brought to the door. The greatest alarm prevails as to the state of the workhouse, and the prospect of the spread of contagion. The Guardians have passed a resolution to-day in reference thereto, in which they have requested me to proceed to Dublin to lay the condition of the Union in detail before you. Of course, without your sanction, I could not think of leaving my station; but should the Commissioners think that by a personal interview I might be enabled more effectually to represent matters to them than through the medium of a report, I shall lose no time in repairing to Dublin.

The Guardians will gratefully accept the assistance of Government in the erection of an oven at or near the workhouse.

The collection of the rate has not been as satisfactory this week, owing to the fact of one of the collectors being suspended (Ballindoon), and the Renvyle collector not having been enabled (as he alleges) to collect, owing to the death of his mother from fever; he has but just recovered from a severe attack of the same disease.

I trust that the sanction of the Commissioners will be given to Dr. Suffield's immediate appointment as local treasurer. It will be productive of the greatest advantage to the Board of Guardians, who have voted him a salary of 20*l.* a-year, subject to the Commissioners' approval.

I shall enclose the evidence taken before me in reference to charges brought against Morris by Flynn, both ex-collectors, on to-morrow.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. BODKIN, Medical Officer, to Mr. DEANE:—December 27, 1847.

As the workhouse is at present so very much over-crowded, there being 700 inmates under its roof, being more than double the number it is calculated to accommodate, I very much apprehend that unless the number be very speedily reduced within sanitary limits, that a dire pestilence will be generated, which would very rapidly extend its devastating influence far and near, and perhaps destroy many who might consider themselves perfectly secure from its contamination.

REPLY to the above:—December 30, 1847.

THE Commissioners have had before them your report of the 27th instant relating to the Clifden Union; and they have read with much apprehension yr account of the state of the workhouse. The Commissioners regret that the Guardians have not earlier taken steps for reducing the numbers in the workhouse, by affording out-door relief to all the classes coming within the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, and by providing accommodation elsewhere for persons affected by fever. It appears, from the statements in your report, that the workhouse accommodation which has been provided in the Union, is not sufficient for the reception of the numbers of destitute persons now requiring relief in the Union; and under the circumstances, and taking into consideration the number of sick at present in the workhouse, the Commissioners have resolved to issue an order authorizing the Guardians to give out-door relief to the able-bodied. This order will be issued to-morrow, and, in the meantime, a copy of a similar order is enclosed for your information, together with a copy of a letter which the Commissioners deem it advisable to address to Boards of Guardians, when they issue such an order.

As regards the collection of the poor-rate in the Union, I am to request your attention to the Commissioners' letter of the 28th instant; and I am to state that the account which you gave of the Union fully shows the absolute necessity for the most vigorous and prompt steps being taken to effect the immediate collection of the outstanding arrears of rate. It appears from the clerk's return, that the collection for the month of November last amounted only to 300*l.* 8*s.* 4*d.* The Commissioners have not received from the clerk of the Union the funds returns for the last four weeks; but it appears by the minutes of the Guardians' proceedings on the 27th instant, that there is 2125*l.* 0*s.* 3*d.* still uncollected in the Union, notwithstanding the pressure upon the Guardians for want of funds.

The Commissioners have considered that part of your report referring to a resolution of the Guardians, suggesting that you should proceed to Dublin, to lay before the Government the alarming state of the Union; but the Commissioners think that it would be inexpedient that you should leave the district at the present time, when your presence there seems to be so much required.

The Commissioners will give prompt attention to any reports which you may make to them on the affairs of the Union; and they could only impress upon you, in a personal interview, the urgent necessity which exists for the active exercise by the Board of Guardians of the powers vested in them by the law, for affording relief to the destitute poor of the Clifden Union, and for the collection of sufficient rates for that purpose.

If you are of opinion that the duties of the Board of Guardians are not duly and effectually discharged, according to the intention of the Act for Relief of the destitute Poor in Ireland, the Commissioners are prepared to take into consideration the propriety of dissolving the Board, and of appointing paid officers to administer the affairs of the Union, in pursuance of the 18th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.

The Commissioners will communicate with you respecting the treasurer of the Union before the next meeting of the Board of Guardians; and they have forwarded extracts from your report respecting the spread of fever in the Union, and the erection of an oven, to the Board of Health and the Commissariat Office respectively; and they conclude that you have finally arranged with Mr. D'Arcy for the occupation of his house as a temporary fever ward, and have taken steps for having the necessary repairs made to the building.

When you report the amount to be expended for that purpose, the Commissioners will apply for authority to disburse it out of the loan for providing accommodation for fever patients in the workhouse.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward herewith, for your information, a copy of an order which they have this day issued, authorizing the Guardians of the Clifden Union to afford out-door relief to the able-bodied.

I am at the same time to enclose a copy of a letter which has been addressed to the Guardians relative to the employment of the able-bodied persons who are to receive relief; and the Commissioners request that you will have the goodness to afford the Guardians all the advice and assistance in your power, to enable them to carry out the order with the most effect and advantage.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 1, 1848.

Clifden Union.

SINCE my last report, 220 individuals, coming within the classes included in the 1st section of the Irish Relief Extension Act, have been discharged from the workhouse, and out-door relief has been administered to them. This step has been productive of much good in checking the spread of disease.

No time shall be lost in preparing Mr. D'Arcy's house for the reception of fever patients. On Monday next I hope to be enabled to report to the Commissioners as to the amount to be expended. Tenders for the execution of the work will be sent in to the Guardians on that day. In the absence of instructions as to specifications, I must necessarily trust to the assistance I shall derive from those prepared for the erection of wooden sheds, and from any judgment I can myself exercise as to the nature and extent of the work to be executed.

The order for granting out-door relief has arrived to the clerk, and I have, by this night's post, received copies of the same. The Commissioners may depend on my best and most anxious efforts to carry out their order with as much efficiency as lies in my power; but I feel it my incumbent duty to state, that I do not conceive that the present Board of Guardians "can duly and effectually" put the order into effect. They are totally unfit to meet an emergency of this kind, and are unable, from their want of business-habits and experience, to cope with the details of the order. The members of the Board are, for the most part, men of the more humble (indeed I may say of the lower class of life), and from whom I could not expect any assistance in the execution of the important instructions contained in the letter addressed to them upon the issuing of the order granting out-door relief.

Up to this moment, and previously, as I have already borne testimony in former reports, I have no reason to complain of the conduct of the Board of Guardians. They have attended passively to my suggestions, and adopted them; but I never received that active support which alone could enable me to carry out your last order in its spirit and integrity. The weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians being over, I saw nothing more of its members during the week, with the exception of Mr. D'Arcy, the chairman, to whose indefatigable exertions and ready co-operation at all times I wish to bear testimony. There appeared to be an impression on the minds of the Guardians (generally) that all responsibility should be thrown on me; and I have not hesitated, when I felt I could do good, to undertake it; but now that relief is about to be extended to the able-bodied, and that so much vigilance will be required in watching its administration, I have again to express my conscientious conviction that the present Board of Guardians is unequal to the trust. I, therefore, leave the consideration of dissolving that body to the Commissioners' judgment.

In reference to the collection of the rate during the last month, I beg to remind the Commissioners that fatalities have occurred unfavourable to its progress. Two of the collectors had only resumed their duties after severe attacks of fever, and a third had been suspended for inefficiency, and his successor has been but just appointed. A very large proportion of rate is due by landlords and receivers; and the Commissioners may depend that due steps shall be taken for the collection of the same.

The names of defaulting immediate lessors and receivers shall be forwarded as soon as I receive the lists from the collectors.

It occurs to me that it would be advisable that I should repair to Westport, in order to confer with Mr. Lynch and the Vice-Guardians as to the mode of affording out-door relief. I should also have occasion to go there to make a purchase of food from the agent of the British Association. I shall feel obliged by the Commissioners' permission to my leaving my Union for these purposes.

REPLY to the above:—January 3, 1848.

I AM to state, that the Commissioners have no objection to your proceeding to Westport, to confer with Mr. Lynch with respect to the order authorizing the Guardians to give out-door relief to the able-bodied.

The Commissioners will address you again with respect to the other matters adverted to in your report.

Clifden Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. DEANE :—January 4, 1848.

THE Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland have had under their consideration your report of the 1st instant, relating to the management of the affairs of the Clifden Union; and with regard to your proposal that the Board of Guardians should be dissolved, I am to state, that the Commissioners will be ready to give the proposal their most deliberate consideration, provided that you will, in a separate report, place formally on record any instances in which the Guardians may have actually failed to discharge their duties duly and effectually since you have been in the Union. Your remarks in your report of the 1st instant on the conduct of the Guardians would not form a ground for the dissolution of the Board, unless accompanied by the enumeration of special instances in which they had neglected their duty.

THE weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians was held to-day. I regret to be obliged to state, that the distress is becoming daily and hourly more alarming throughout the Union. Crowds of the most wretched and miserable objects surrounded the Court-house to-day, where the Guardians meet; and it required the assistance of the constabulary to preserve order, and secure the Guardians from interruption in the consideration of the many important matters which came before them. The order from the Commissioners for granting out-door relief to the able-bodied was read, as well as the instructions contained in the circular letter in reference thereto. I felt it to be my duty frankly to inform the Board of Guardians that I did not conceive, from my experience of the business-habits of its members, that they would be enabled "duly and effectually to discharge their duties according to the intention of the Act." I had (previous to the assembling of the Board to-day) a long interview with Mr. H. D'Arcy, the chairman, and the result was, that he expressed himself satisfied of the inability of the Board to meet the difficulties of the present crisis. He told me that he was willing and anxious to devote a certain portion of his time to the duties which devolved upon him as an ex-officio Guardian; and that to those duties he would give his undivided and anxious attention: but that he has apprehension that I could not expect regular attendance from the other members of the Board. At the meeting to-day there was considerable alarm excited by my having distinctly told the Guardians of my impression that the Commissioners would be obliged to dissolve the Board; and a resolution was passed in reference to the necessity of meeting two days in the week instead of one. I think it my duty to inform the Commissioners that I feel persuaded that that resolution will not be practically put into effect; and I expressed myself similarly to the Guardians. The Board did not meet till one o'clock to-day, and it is idle to think of getting through a mass of business in the interval between that hour and six o'clock, P.M.: it would nearly consume the whole time to examine into the cases of the applicants for relief. I have no hesitation in stating to the Commissioners my firm conviction, that, to meet the necessities which will arise, and to administer their duties fairly and honestly, it would take the attention of the Board of Guardians every day for one month at least, until the system should be fairly established for giving out-door relief to the able-bodied, according to the prescribed instructions. I have already communicated to the Commissioners my opinion as to the policy of dissolving the Board, and I have only now to await their instructions.

Tenders were received for the erection of the fever hospital to-day. I beg leave to enclose the one which the Guardians decided on receiving. The Commissioners will perceive that the cost of the bed which is to be made for permanent purposes has been reduced in price by 5s. (see No. 43251, D./47). The contractor is bound, under a penalty of 10*l.*, to complete his contract in six weeks from the day on which he receives orders to commence.

The increase of fever throughout the Union is most alarming. The relieving officers cannot send in patients to the present hospitals, either at Clifden or Ballydoon, as both are crowded to excess, and unable to accommodate more. Several wretched beings have died by the road-side and in their huts; and, in many instances, I have been applied to by the relieving officers with respect to instruction for providing coffins for them. According to the circular letter addressed to Union Inspectors, dated 15th November, 1847, it appears that coffins should be provided by the churchwardens, and the expense assessed on the parish, under the 7th Geo. IV., c. 72, sec. 10: on the minutes of this day's meeting of the Board of Guardians a resolution appears in reference thereto, to which I beg leave to call the Commissioners' attention. No vestry has been held here for a very considerable time, and the churchwardens are unable to meet the demands which are daily made on them for the supply of coffins. A case occurred to-day which will show the position the Guardians are placed in. The relieving officer for Ballindoon electoral division brought before the Board the fact that a man was lying dead on the road-side, with his widow and children around him, and that they had no means to bury him. Mr. D'Arcy, the chairman of the Board (who is one of the churchwardens), was applied to by me, and he told me that no vestry had been held, and that as far as he was concerned he was powerless. In this state of things the Guardians resolved to provide a coffin for the man; I, of course, calling their attention to the letter of the 15th November, 1847. Cases such as this are now becoming of daily occurrence; and I shall feel obliged for the Commissioners' directions as to the best manner in which I am to act. It is lamentable that public decency should be thus outraged.

I regret to state that the mortality in the workhouse (as appears on the minutes) is still very great. I shall lose no time in putting the order of the Commissioners into effect in reference to relief to the able-bodied; but the details of the order, in such a district as this, require time to arrange. I could not get a supply of hammers for 50 men under 10 days at least. I trust that I shall have the benefit of the Commissioners' early determination as to whether they are satisfied that the present Board of Guardians can duly and effectually discharge the duties now devolving on them, and that if they shall arrive at the conclusion that they cannot, that paid officers may be sent here with all convenient despatch.

The collection of the rate has not been satisfactory this week. I brought the matter in the most forcible terms before the Guardians to-day, and the clerk received directions to write to the immediate lessors in the Union, informing them that the most rigorous steps would be taken for the collection of the rate due by them. I read at the Board the names of the defaulters, and I regret to say, some of the Guardians themselves have not paid. Mr. Martin, (who, as the Commissioners are aware, holds the most extensive estates in the district) is still a defaulter, and I told him that I should recommend the Guardians to proceed summarily against him; he paid to-day the rates due on one electoral division, and requested the collector to assist him in getting the rates from the occupying tenants; he has promised that all his rates shall be discharged within a week. I enclose, according to the Commissioners' desire, lists of the defaulting immediate lessors in the four electoral divisions. Mr. Fitzgerald, the acting agent of the receiver on Mr. D'Arcy's property, has promised to pay the rates due next week. I have had his attention called to the orders of the Courts of Chancery and Exchequer. Mr. Hart, receiver in Burroughs v. Lambert, is a defaulter; and he alleges that he has received no rents, and is unable to pay. It would be well that the Guardians had some better proof of this than mere assertion.

I beg to state that Dr. Suffield proposes as his securities H. D'Arcy, esq., and Major-General Thomson; and that they are ready to execute the bond. It would be of the greatest assistance to me if this appointment was at once sanctioned, inasmuch as the weekly account of the sums lodged in the bank at Galway is much short of the sums in the hands of the collectors, and consequently the Guardians can only draw cheques for what is actually lodged. To-day a letter was read at the Board from the manager of the bank, returning 13*l.* which the collector sent in a letter of credit, which he took from an individual in payment of the rate; the manager states that he could not place the amount to the credit of the Union, as he was unacquainted with the name of the party in whose favour the letter was made. This will show the Commissioners the advantage of having a local treasurer.

I shall not fail to have the necessary proceedings instituted against Flynn, under the 101st Section of the Act. Morris lodged 2*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* with Dr. Suffield, at my suggestion; which sum will be placed to the credit of the Union as soon as Dr. Suffield shall be regularly appointed, or it shall be handed over to Mullins, the Ballindoon collector, as the Commissioners shall direct.

The clerk has just informed me that he communicated to the Commissioners the fact of Morris's default, and that he called the attention of the Board of Guardians to Flynn not having numbered his receipt book ; he also states that the order in reference to his new duties, in initialing the block part of the receipts, did not reach him at the time the 1s. rate was in course of collection. Nothing appeared in the investigation to attach blame to the clerk for wilful neglect, though, as I have said in a former report, I have some reason to complain of his want of business-habits. I do not think he will be enabled to discharge his increased duties without additional assistance.

I have to report on the whole favourably of the efficiency of the relieving officers, who are evincing every desire to perform their duties strictly.

The relief afforded by the British Association to the children at the schools is working admirably. I am now affording food to about 3000.

I have given directions to the relieving officer to get the names of the children receiving relief at the schools, in order that they shall be enabled to prepare their lists accordingly, and that the Guardians shall not have to support the children of the able-bodied who shall be claiming relief for their families, when the schools may be possibly affording assistance.

The town of Clifden is infested with beggars, several of whom I have had committed as vagrants. I should be unwilling to trouble the Commissioners with any matter personal to myself, but as it in a great measure affects the performance of my duties, I beg to state that from the position in which I am placed, and from the apprehension on the minds of the people that I can alone relieve them ; my house is constantly surrounded by a crowd of wretched beings seeking relief, who are so importunate that I am unable frequently to sit down to my meals with that quiet necessary for one whose whole time is devotedly and anxiously directed to the faithful discharge of the duties entrusted to him. In bringing this matter before the Commissioners, I trust they will excuse me—and that I shall receive some protection from the constabulary. The Sub-Inspector has already afforded me assistance, but I think I am entitled to have an order issued to protect my house from this annoyance.

I AM to state in reply, that the Commissioners await your answer to their letter of the 4th instant, before they take into consideration the expediency of dissolving the Board of Guardians, and appointing paid officers to manage the affairs of the Union.

With regard to the repairs of the "National School-house," I am to refer you to the Commissioners' letter of yesterday's date ; and I am to state that an extract from your report, relating to the spread of fever in the Union, has been forwarded to the Board of Health. The Commissioners have no power to authorize the Guardians to pay out of the poor-rates for coffins for the interment of the bodies of persons dying out of the workhouse ; and they can only recommend that the existing law for providing coffins should be carried into effect.

The Commissioners approve of the intention of the Guardians to take proceedings for the recovery of the rates due by the several defaulters to whom you have drawn their attention. They think that the collectors should be directed, under the 2nd Section of the Irish Poor Law Amendment Act, to serve the 15 days' notice on the immediate lessors, who are accessible to the collectors, with a view to their being summoned before the magistrates in case the rates are not at once paid.

It may be desirable to employ a solicitor to take proceedings against the defaulters in some instances, and the Commissioners request that you will bring the subject again under the consideration of the Guardians at their next meeting, as it is indispensable that every effort should be made without delay to obtain, and if necessary to enforce by all the means which the law has provided, the payment of the outstanding rates in the Union.

The following are the names of the immediate lessors who are returned as owing the larger amounts of rate :—

A. B. Martin, esq.	245	1	6
John O'Neill, esq.	109	0	8
Hyacinth D'Arcy, esq.	88	2	10	Property partly in Chancery.
Martin O'Malley, esq.	25	12	6
John Lambert, esq.	18	2	9	Property under the Courts.
Michael P. Browne, esq.	10	19	9
John D'Arcy, esq.	7	15	0

The Commissioners approve of the appointment of Dr. Suffield as treasurer of the Union, and recommend that his bond should be prepared and executed at once; a form of bond is given in the "Compendium," of which a copy is in your possession.

An extract from your report, relating to the importunity to which you are subject from vagrants, has been forwarded to the Constabulary Office.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. DEANE :—January 15, 1848.

ADVERTING to the letter already addressed to you on the subject of providing coffins for the interment of the bodies of persons not dying in the workhouse, I am directed by the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland to state, that if the Ballindoon temporary fever hospital be still managed by the Relief Committee, formed under the Act 10 Vict., cap. 7, the estimates to be sent to the Board of Guardians, through the Finance Committee, under the 15th section of the Act 10 Vict., cap. 22, may include the expense of providing coffins for persons who die of fever or other epidemic disease, in such Relief Committee's electoral division.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 10, 1848.

I ATTENDED the meeting of the Board of Guardians to-day.

The late hour at which I arrived from Westport on Saturday evening last, prevented my applying to your communications of the 4th and 6th instant, respectively.

With regard to your wish, that I should place formally on record any instances in which the Guardians of this Union have actually failed to discharge their duties duly and effectually, according to the Act, I beg leave to state that my opinions, expressed in my report of the 1st instant, have reference to the general inability of that body to perform their duties.

I may save the Commissioners some trouble, by informing them that after mature deliberation and consultation with Mr. Hyacinth D'Arcy, the chairman of the Board, I have determined, if possible, to save the Union the expense of paid officers, by undertaking the task of effecting the reformation in the state of the workhouse, in conjunction with Mr. D'Arcy, to whose constant and indefatigable exertions in the discharge of his duty I desire to bear testimony.

Mr. D'Arcy, in most forcible terms, brought before the consideration of the Board the state of the workhouse, and I cannot better describe its condition than by referring them to Messrs. O'Reilly and Duncan's report of the condition of the Mohill house, which, mutatis mutandis, is Clifden workhouse at the present moment.

The Board most determinately refused (with the exception of Mr. D'Arcy) to go near the house; one of the Guardians emphatically declaring, that the "Queen's dominions would not induce him to enter it."

The Commissioners will therefore see, that it is in vain for me to obtain the assistance of a visiting Committee; and in this extremity Mr. D'Arcy and I have offered (provided our suggestions be attended to) to undertake the task of setting matters in some degree aright in the workhouse.

The Guardians have willingly entrusted us with power to act as far as we may think expedient, in directing improvements; and with the desire, as I have before stated, to avoid the necessity of sending Vice-Guardians to the Union. I shall spare no personal labour for the purpose of bringing the Union workhouse to that condition which is provided for in the regulation of the Commissioners.

This must necessarily be a work of time, but I trust with zeal and industry to overcome the difficulties which surround me.

Clifden Union.

The roof of the workhouse is in a sad state, a great portion of the slates on the southern side having been blown off in the late gales.

I inquired to-day, and found that there were no slates to be obtained in Clifden.

Three or four weeks may elapse before a supply can be obtained, at this time of the year, owing to the difficulties of the navigation round Slyne Head from Galway, and of the prevalence of south-westerly winds in coming from Westport.

No delay shall be made in providing the house with articles necessary for its internal economy, and with materials for present repairs. The Commissioners will therefore perceive, that as far as I am concerned, I propose to undertake the responsible duties of a visiting Committee, aided by my friend Mr. D'Arcy—and that the Board of Guardians have willingly enough conceded to us ample powers to commence reformatations.

The Guardians discharged 98 individuals from the house to-day, coming within the 1st section of the Extension Act. To each adult the sum of 1s. was given for one week, and 6d. to each child. The whole sum expended was about 3l. 11s.

This step, which I think a wise one, under the present circumstances of the house, relieves it from its crowded state. By Monday next I hope to find it reduced to the number it was originally built for, viz.—300. There are at present 140 in the hospital.

The mortality has been somewhat less this week, the greater number of deaths arising from dysentery.

I should be glad to know whether the Commissioners would approve of my directing some of the patients in hospital, not labouring under infectious diseases, being removed to the upper attic dormitories.

The medical attendant of the hospital seems to think that these apartments would not be suited for that purpose without a fire-place.

The Count Strzelecki has requested me to communicate with Captain Hellard in reference to the transmission of a cargo of rye meal to Clifden. The vessel which must be freighted for that purpose can bring some articles necessarily required at the workhouse, chloride of lime, &c., &c.

The Guardians have directed advertisements to be made for tender, for assistant relieving officers, to assist in the administration of the order granting out-door relief.

Tenders are also to be received on Monday next from contractors for the supply of meal, &c., at the various stations to be selected in the electoral divisions.

Mr. Richard Bourke has forwarded to me some observations, in reference to carrying out the order for the relief of the able-bodied, which he prepared for the Ballina Vice-Guardians. I read them to the Board to-day, and they agreed with me in thinking it highly expedient to adopt the practical suggestions contained in the document arranged by Mr. Bourke, a copy of which, I presume, the Commissioners have already had before them.

The collection of the rate has been very satisfactory during the last week, 170l. having been lodged in the hands of the treasurers. Dr. Suffield commenced his duties to-day.

The Commissioners will perceive that the Board have voted a gratuity of 10l. to Dr. Bodkin for his services at the workhouse hospital; and a notice of motion has been given to increase his salary from 40l. to 60l. a-year. I think the medical attendant is fully entitled to the increase.

Warrants have been issued from the Board of Health to the Board of Guardians, for providing increased accommodation for fever patients in the Union. Ballinahill and Ballinahinch have been selected as the localities in addition to Clifden. The Board of Guardians did not take any step in relation thereto to-day. The contractor has commenced work at the National School-house, sanctioned as the site of the temporary fever hospital. The terms agreed upon between the Board and Mr. D'Arcy are 15l. a-year, with a clause of surrender every three years. I received a communication from the Commissioners of National Education, in which no objection is offered to the occupation of the building, upon the Trustees consenting thereto, and upon the understanding, that it is to be restored to them for its original use as soon as the fever ceases to be prevalent in the locality. I should wish to know whether it is necessary that the trustees should be parties to the lease; and whether the Commissioners are of opinion that the condition imposed by the Commissioners of National Education as to the restoration of the building to the trustees, will affect the occupation of the site for the permanent fever hospital.

I had an interview with the solicitor to the Board of Guardians to-day, to whom, as well as Mr. D'Arcy, I communicated the substance of the letter I received from the Commissioners of National Education.

Clifden Union.

I have given directions to the collectors to serve the fifteen day notice on defaulting immediate lessors.

The solicitor will be in attendance on Monday next, to receive instructions as to proceeding against parties not immediately available in the Union, and who are in arrear for rate.

I should be desirous of ascertaining from the Commissioners, how far the Board of Guardians would be justified in taking (in a case where a large amount of rate is due) payment by instalments. In some cases I should be inclined to recommend that the arrangement should be sanctioned.

A Committee has been appointed for investigating the accounts of the Union weekly. I beg to call the attention of the Commissioners to the fact, that no auditor has yet visited Clifden Union.

I have called the attention of the clerk to the inaccuracies in the Union funds return, which he states he has rectified in the form lately enclosed to him.

Nothing further occurs to me to report to the Commissioners.

Mr. DEANE, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, to the COMMISSIONERS:—

January 11, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to enclose a copy of informations sworn this day before the resident magistrate, Mr. Dopping, by John Lydon, poor-rate collector.

I waited on Mr. Dopping, who expressed his determination to accompany Lydon to the townland where the rescue and opposition to the payment of the poor-rate took place, and with an increased force of constabulary, to aid the collector in the execution of his duties.

I trust that this prompt and vigorous assertion of the law will have the effect of preventing a recurrence of similar outrages.

ENCLOSURE.

County of Galway } The information of John Lydon, poor-rate collector for the electoral to wit. } division of Roundstone, who, having been duly sworn, states as follows:—

I proceeded, accompanied by head constable Wilks and four others of the police, on the morning of yesterday, the 10th instant, and having made a seizure of cattle for poor-rates due on the townlands of Leehenaghmore in said county, a number of women assembled, and shouted to some men, who were out in boats dredging for oysters, to come in to shore; the men then came in immediately, and when I was endeavouring to take away the cattle some of the party called out to the rest to gather stones.

Immediately afterwards a stone was thrown which hit one of the drivers, Michael King, over the eye, which caused him to stagger. I then observed the head constable sitting down, and his hand bleeding. Seeing it would be impossible to effect my purpose, and the head constable having been wounded, I relinquished the distress, and with the police left the land, the crowd following us for some time and shouting. I believe it would be impossible to collect the rate in that townland without a large police force, and I would consider my life in danger if I went there again unprotected.

Some of the persons who were engaged in this proceeding have been summoned on my complaint to the Roundstone petty sessions for to-morrow, for a rescue committed on the same townland, for the same rates, on a former occasion, and for which I duly swore informations before you.

Sworn before me at Clifden this 11th day of January, 1848.

JOHN DOPPING.

JOHN LYDON.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 17, 1848.

I ATTENDED the meeting of the Board of Guardians this day. Tenders were received from individuals seeking to be appointed "stewards," or assisting relieving officers, to superintend the work to be performed by the recipients of outdoor relief (able-bodied).

The Board also received tenders for the supplying and delivering of meal, at certain places in the several electoral divisions. They were only enabled to agree with one contractor, and the further consideration of the tenders has been postponed until Wednesday next, an adjourned meeting.

The collection of the rate has not been satisfactory this week.

The collector of this district, who is also the collector of Ballindoon, has not been inactive. He informs me that if the immediate lessors in the several electoral divisions paid their rates, he would find no difficulty in collecting the rest.

Clifden Union.

The collector of this district has within a few weeks lost both father and mother by fever; the former having died within the last few days. He states that he was unable, from affliction, to undertake the collection of the rate since Monday last.

The collector here has been engaged, as he says, in attending petty sessions, and swearing informations for rescue before the magistrate; and thus excuses his having only collected 22*l*.

I told him that unless he shall increase the amount of his collection next week, that I shall recommend his dismissal. The Commissioners have already received the informations (a copy of which I forward) of the rescue of cattle from this collector. I have been informed that the parties are all summoned before the magistrates, and that the measures which have been taken, will probably prevent a similar outrage.

In reference to your request that I should state how much of the arrears due by the seven ratepayers named in the communication of the 6th instant, has since been paid, I have to inform you that Mr. Martin has paid 35*l*., and that I have directed the collectors to serve the 15 day notice on all the defaulting immediate lessors.

I have made the most searching inquiries as to the solvency of these individuals, and I have no doubt that in a short time I shall be enabled to report that the whole of their rate has been paid.

Mr. O'Neill, of Bunowen Castle, non-resident, owes a large amount of rate, about 200*l*. Proceedings have already been instituted against him for the 1*s*. rate, and similar measures must be taken to realize the recent rate, 3*s*.

The destitution is increasing here every hour, and I cannot but regret that, up to this moment I have been unable to organize the system for affording relief to the able-bodied. This is principally owing to the scanty supply of provisions in the Union. The order signed by the Board of Guardians to-day on the contractors (who could only supply them with two tons), and on other dealers, have nearly exhausted the supplies in Clifden, and I cannot too strongly urge upon the Commissioners to recommend to the Government the necessity of sending a supply of food for sale to this locality. The sooner this arrangement can be effected the more readily should I be enabled to put into effect the relief for the able-bodied, &c., with the assurance that there will be no deficiency of food.

I beg leave to enclose a letter which has been addressed to me by Dr. Suffield, the treasurer of the Union, and the medical attendant of the dispensary in Clifden.

Having been absent from Clifden, for the purpose of purchasing rye-meal in Galway, for the British Association, I requested him to assist Dr. Bodkin in classifying the sick and healthy in the workhouse. His letter very forcibly and truly sets forth the present state of the workhouse, and though I believe the master and matron to be, so far as I have had official acquaintance of them, honest, yet I have no hesitation in stating, that until the Clifden workhouse be managed and controlled by more experienced and practised officers, it will be in vain for me to effect permanent good.

If the Commissioners could possibly send an experienced master and matron here, (for it would be in vain to obtain such in Clifden), I should not despair of being enabled to produce the best results, but unless a strong step of this kind be taken, I cannot hope (at all events for some time) to effect much good. Since the date of my last report, Mr. D'Arcy and I have not visited the workhouse. We hope to be enabled to do so to-morrow, and I shall report accordingly.

The Board of Guardians have, in pursuance of the warrants issued to them by the Board of Health, directed notices to be posted for tenders for the erection of fever hospitals in Ballinakill and Ballinahinch. Clifden hospital is in course of preparation for the reception of fever patients.

The Board have named,—

Dr. Bodkin (medical attendant of the workhouse), for Clifden.

Dr. Suffield, for Ballinakill.

Dr. Gannon, for Ballinahinch.

I would respectfully suggest the propriety of an additional medical officer being appointed, pro tempore, to the Clifden workhouse. Dr. Suffield, who has been nominated by the Guardians to the fever hospital about to be erected at Ballinakill, and who has afforded me much assistance in endeavouring to arrest disease in the workhouse, would, in my judgment, be of the greatest and most valuable assistance at this critical juncture. The present medical attendant, Dr. Bodkin, having lost the use of his legs, is necessarily much incapacitated to perform the duties without assistance. At the same time I am desirous of bearing testimony to the latter gentleman's regular and zealous attendance on the sick, and of his desire to carry out to the best of his ability my suggestions for the sanitary improvement of the house. I should be glad to have the Commissioners' opinion on the suggestion of having Dr. Suffield's assistance at the workhouse hospital, without delay, as I feel very strongly the necessity and value of providing additional medical assistance in the present state of the fever hospital.

ENCLOSURE. *

I THIS day, according to promise, and in conjunction with the medical officer of the institution, visited the Clifden poorhouse. We visited every apartment, and have endeavoured, as far as in us lay, to correct the many abuses which now exist. Our task occupied us for hours, and I need not tell you, a most disagreeable office we had to perform; yet, if our instructions and orders are carried properly into effect, I do trust we may calculate on having done some good; and I do hope our labours may not prove in vain, for though not connected officially with the poorhouse, my anxious wish is, to see it conducted on proper principles, and that the poor may really receive those benefits which are intended. We have, so far as is practicable, classified the inmates of the house, separated the healthy from those in any way labouring under disease; settled the dietary, and made other arrangements as to cleanliness and order, which I trust will be conducive to the welfare of the house. Amongst the many abuses which exist, there seems to me to be a total disregard to discipline, order, or regularity; nor do the officers seem to me to have any idea of such a thing. The men, women, and children, are allowed to mix one with another, and even to pass and mix with the hospital patients.

The boys' school seems well conducted, the master attentive; but I cannot say the same thing of the girls', the school-room was dirty, and I found it converted into a wash-house; also the women's day-room, and other apartments in the house. On inquiring, I found that this has been the practice since the opening of the house, and that no use has as yet been made of the regular wash-house. I need not tell you, that converting the day-room and sleeping-room into wash-houses, is a most injurious one to the inmates, and must increase disease. I found all the yards in a most disgraceful state, full of nuisance and filth of every kind; the same reproach holds good as regards the privies, which are all in a most filthy and dilapidated state, the roofs and slates are broken, and in wet weather cannot be used by the paupers. The men and women's day-rooms require whitewashing, and the windows cleaning, they are now so dirty as not to admit the light. In the women's day-room, I found fires made on several parts of the floor, which was also strewn with old and dirty cast-off clothes of the paupers. The two sheds in the male and female yards, I found in a filthy state, covered with nuisance and some old clothes, which I strongly recommended should be burned. The dormitories, male and female, are clean, and in good order, as also the beds, &c.; but I find that so many as three or four lie in the same bed, this arises, they say, from the want of blankets. There are plenty of straw beds, sheets, &c. Steps should be taken to procure a sufficient supply of blankets.

There is plenty of sleeping room, as there are two dormitories unoccupied at present. The rooms which you said you thought might be converted into hospital wards, I do not think they would answer that purpose; they are too cold, and there is no fire-place, and besides, the roof is so much injured as to admit the rain and wind. We did wish to separate the children from the adults, but we could not procure for them an apartment which would answer. In the hospital we found double the number of patients for which it was intended; however, we discharged a good many, some of which were sent to the infirm ward. The hospital requires whitewashing, especially the idiot (now the fever) wards. There is a great want of hospital accommodation, and little can be done to reform it in its present crowded state.

I hope you will excuse this hurried sketch, it is merely intended for your own perusal. If order and regularity were kept, the house whitewashed, cleansed, and fumigated, the yards properly cleaned, and kept so, the roof and other matters repaired, a sufficient supply of bed-clothes and wearing apparel obtained, and a little more hospital accommodation, I do think (if the officers do their duty) in a little time you would have the poorhouse all you could desire.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. BOURKE :—January 20, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to request that you will have the goodness to proceed at your earliest convenience to Clifden, and to report to the Commissioners minutely on the manner in which relief is administered by the Board of Guardians of Clifden Union.

The Commissioners forward to you the reports relating to the Clifden Union, which they have received from Mr. Deane, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, and the general result appears to the Commissioners to be very unsatisfactory. They observe that Mr. Deane constantly refers in his reports to Mr. D'Arcy, as showing great energy, and doing all that he ought to do as a Guardian. The Commissioners think that it is not enough for one Guardian only in a Union to do his duty, and if the Guardians generally, as a Board, make defaults in this respect, there should be a report and recommendation made accordingly, and the Board will be at once dissolved. The Commissioners particularly request you to ascertain the names of the defaulting rate-payers, and to inform the Commissioners whether the gentlemen of property in the Union (not omitting Mr. D'Arcy himself) have paid their rates.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 20, 1848.

I BEG to call your attention to the proceedings of the Board of Guardians of this Union at an adjourned meeting of that body held this day.

You have already been made acquainted, through the medium of my previous reports, of the progress which has been made in putting into effect the order for the relief of the able-bodied.

The irregular supply of food at present in the town of Clifden, owing to the uncertainty of navigation from Galway and Westport, has not enabled the Board of Guardians to obtain a sufficient quantity of meal for the support of the recipients for relief; and, combined with this difficulty, the Guardians have to contend against the unwillingness of individuals to contract for the supply of provisions, at the various places determined upon as depôts for the distribution of food.

The resolutions passed at the Board point to these difficulties.

The remedy I would take leave to suggest is alone to be found in the establishment of a commissariat at Clifden, the necessity of which I have urged in a former report.

Measures have been taken for the supply of hammers, to be used by the able-bodied at the work to be done by them. I hope by to-morrow to commence operations in the electoral division of Clifden.

Mr. D'Arcy, the chairman of the Guardians, and I visited the workhouse to-day. It is in a very discreditable state, and I fear, notwithstanding our efforts for its improvement, will continue in the same state of mismanagement and inefficiency until the Union shall have the benefit of more experienced officers to regulate and direct its internal economy and discipline.

Dr. Suffield's letter, which I had the honour to enclose in my last report, has placed before you in painful terms the state of the workhouse.

I have directed the employment of the able-bodied in whitewashing the interior of the house, and I have ordered the yards to be levelled and covered with gravel.

There is a very scanty supply of clothing and bedding. A large debt due to the contractor for clothing, and the inability of the Guardians to discharge their debt to him at present, operates against the obtaining of further credit. Since my arrival to take charge of the Union he has been paid several small sums on account. The debt now exceeds 200*l.*

I have taken measures to have the children in the workhouse taught trades, viz., tailoring and shoemaking, and hope shortly to be enabled to report further on the subject.

The state of misery and destitution in the Union is most alarming at the present moment. Several deaths have taken place by the road-side from starvation.

While sitting at breakfast this morning my servant informed me that there was a woman at the door with a dead child in her arms, which I found upon inquiry to be too true. I directed the relieving officer to offer the poor woman provisional relief.

I trust that the observations I have made in reference to the necessity of securing a supply of food to this locality, will receive an early consideration from the Commissioners.

REPLY to the above :—January 22, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have read with the deepest concern your statement that several deaths have taken place on the road-side from starvation.

The Commissioners request to be informed whether any of the deaths adverted to were the deaths of parties entitled to relief under the Poor Laws. If the deceased parties were entitled to relief, the deaths could not have taken place without a great neglect of duty on the part of the Board of Guardians.

The Commissioners request you to give them information on this point by return of post, and at the same time to acquaint them with the names of any of the Guardians who have not paid their poor-rates, and with the sums due from each such Guardian respectively. The Commissioners rely upon your sending this information by return of post, as far as you can obtain it. The Commissioners think that there can be no difficulty in your obtaining this information for Clifden electoral division, even although some time longer should be required on this head in reference to the other electoral divisions of the Union.

Clifden Union.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 23, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 22nd instant, to which I hasten to reply by return of post, according to your directions.

I have made inquiries from the relieving officers of Clifden and Ballindoon electoral divisions in reference to the individuals who have died from starvation, and they inform me that no application had been made by them for relief previous to their death. Collector Joyce, Ballindoon electoral division, states that two individuals (whom he names) died from want, and that they had not applied to him; he is now relieving their families. The same officer informs me that a man of the name of Flaherty, of Ballyconnell, in Ballindoon electoral division, made application to him for relief, that he visited his place of residence, and found that he was in the occupation of more than a quarter of an acre of land. This relieving officer refused the applicant relief, and he died by the road-side from actual starvation.

I regret to be obliged to state that Mr. Bell Martin, of Ballinahinch Castle, is taking advantage of the quarter-acre clause in the Act of Parliament in a manner totally foreign and inconsistent with the policy of its provisions. He is in the habit (through his agent or bailiff) of giving a certificate to his tenants that they are entitled to relief on giving up the land in their possession, and on their consenting to leave their homes, which upon being done the habitations are levelled to the ground, and the inmates left without shelter. This is making an ejection process of the Poor Law statute, and converting a clause passed for the protection of the landlord into a measure for the effectual pauperization of the Union.

I have expressed my opinion to Mr. Martin very decidedly on the inhumanity of putting so many families as an additional charge on the rates of the Union under the circumstances above detailed.

The Board of Guardians met three times during the past week.

Contractors were declared on Saturday to supply meal at some of the depôts in the district.

Two thousand five hundred and forty received out-door relief last week.

The able-bodied are daily employed in breaking stones, &c.

There has been an arrival of a cargo of Indian meal since my last report—30 tons.

I beg to submit, according to your desire, the names of the Guardians who have not as yet paid their rates to the several electoral divisions.

I have despatched special messengers to the collectors of Renvyle and Roundstone for the names of the Guardians (if any) in their electoral divisions who have not as yet paid their rates, and shall forward the information should it come in time for post.

In reference to the communication from Mr. Dopping, R.M., as to the state of this Union, I have to remark that the Commissioners will, no doubt, consider the difficulties which the Guardians have had to contend with in obtaining a supply of food, causing, as it necessarily has done, great delay in affording relief to the destitute.

I have already laid before you the facts connected with the deaths of those individuals who died from starvation, and that they had not applied for relief.

The Board of Guardians cannot, of course, deal with cases not before them in the regular way.

ENCLOSURE.

Clifden, January 14, 1848.

As it is impossible to witness, without feelings of intense interest, the scenes which every day come under my observation, I gladly avail myself of his Excellency's permission, in now making a further report of the state of the poor in this district.

I grieve to have to state, that poverty, destitution, and crime, are still on the increase. Deaths from actual starvation are becoming frequent, and so desperate and daring have the people become, that they not unfrequently enter dwelling-houses through the roof and steal whatever they can find, whilst the inhabitants are asleep.

At the petty sessions of Roundstone this week, which lasted two entire days, the following cases were disposed of in addition to the usual routine business of petty sessions.

Two committals for stealing corn.
Three committals for sheep-stealing.
Three committals for cow-stealing.
Seven committals for burglary and robbery.
One committal for stealing an anchor.
One committal for stealing a cable.
One committal for stealing a rope.

RENVYLE ELECTORAL DIVISION.

January 24, 1848.

J. C. DEANE.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 24, 1848.

I ATTENDED the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians to-day.

I beg to state that Mr. Bell Martin's name was omitted in the list of Guardians returned by the collector of the Roundstone electoral division, as being in arrears for rate; he owes 194 $\frac{1}{2}$.

He has been served with the 15 days' notice, and I urged on him the necessity of discharging the amount due by him immediately.

He has tendered the collector a small portion due for some of his holdings, but as he has been noticed for the full amount, the collector has been directed to refuse partial payments.

The Guardians who are in arrears for Renvyle electoral division are :—

General Thomson, who was at the Board to-day, has promised to pay his rate to-morrow.

The greater part of this day's meeting was taken up in the election of an additional relieving officer for Roundstone electoral division, which resulted from the number of votes for each of two candidates being the same, in an order for a new election.

Contractors were this day declared for supplying meal to the various depôts.

There are no small hammers (as I am given to understand) in the store of tools belonging to the Commissioners of Public Works, and the Guardians have employed the local smiths to make a supply for the use of the able-bodied workmen.

There are several men employed in the levelling of the workhouse yards, and in breaking stones for the covering of the same, a most necessary and useful work.

I beg to enclose an estimate (according to the present number of able-bodied employed) of the tools required for the use of the Union. Their numbers will, of course, be increased in a few days very considerably, but I would respectfully submit that if I obtain a general order on the stores at Clifden, for the quantity of implements required, that it will save much trouble.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. DEANE:—January 27, 1848.

THE Commissioners have the state of the Clifden Union under their serious consideration, and they are merely awaiting a report on the subject from Mr. R. Bourke, their Inspector for the district in which the Union is included.

Mr. DEANE to Count STRZELECKI:—January 28, 1848.

I HAVE much pleasure in acceding to your wish, that I should furnish you with a report of the manner in which the relief extended by the British Association to the children attending the schools in this Union has been carried out, and of the results both moral and physical produced thereby.

Having received your circular of the 22nd November, 1847, intimating the course which the British Association intended to pursue for the relief of the children, I proceeded to make an inspection of the schools throughout the entire Union.

It is impossible to conceive anything more lamentable than the neglect of education in this district.

During my tour I found the National School houses for the most part in ruins, and, with one or two exceptions, no other schools established in their place.

In Roundstone the house formerly occupied as a National school, and built at the expense of the National Board, had been taken possession of by the brethren of the monastery there, and is conducted by them.

There is another school established by the monks near the town of Clifden.

A school under the auspices of the Church Education Society was existing in Clifden with a very limited attendance.

As soon as it became generally known that food was about to be given to the children attending the schools, the numbers increased to the full extent for which accommodation could be provided.

Clifden Union.

Objections having been raised by parties of both religious persuasions to the occupation of the National schools, I was for a considerable time in doubt (bearing in mind your instructions as to existing schools) whether I should give food to those which came into existence in consequence of the proffered relief. I felt, however, that the interests of the children should be primarily and above all things considered, and I provided to as many of the clergymen of the Roman Catholic church, as applied to me, provisions for schools opened by them.

The rations to each child consists of 10 ounces of bread (a mixture of three parts rye and one part of Indian meal) with a half pint of meat soup, and fish soup on fast days.

The elder children in almost all the schools prepare the soup themselves and cut up the bread.

A trough of water with soap and towel is provided for the schools, and I lose no opportunity of impressing on the masters and mistresses of the schools, and on those entrusted with their superintendence, the necessity of enforcing habits of cleanliness.

The female children are employed in making shirts, &c., from the funds placed at my disposal for clothing purposes. At one school, at the head of the little Killeries Bay (Salruck), which is under the guidance of Major-General Thomson, the boys are employed in making nets, the benefit of which occupation I trust to be able to extend to other schools in this Union.

It is scarcely possible to over estimate the value and importance of the course adopted by the Committee of the British Association, in the relief afforded to children at the schools, which now in number exceed 2000.

I feel persuaded, from my knowledge of the state of things in this Union, that were it not for the step which has been so wisely taken, the greater number of those who are now deriving the benefit of instruction (limited though it be) would have advanced to adult age uneducated and uninstructed, and then pursuing the ordinary labour of the peasant, would not find time or inclination for education.

Since the food has been given to the children their appearance has been wonderfully changed—on my arrival here I found the greater part of them emaciated and wretched, they are now showing the effects, in improved health, of the wholesome food so benevolently provided for them.

I rejoice to say that the funds placed at my disposal for clothing are being made available for the relief of some hundred families in this Union, there being employed at this moment in spinning wool for flannel 160 women, besides weavers and tailors, &c.

In no case (and I have made particular inquiry) have the persons so employed applied to the relieving officer for relief.

In the course of the next week I hope to be enabled to distribute some of the clothing, which I shall do with the more pleasure, as being the produce of the industry of the people.

I have calculated that each dress (on an average for all sizes) will cost, when complete, from 5s. to 5s. 3d.

I beg leave to enclose you a specimen of the flannel of which the dresses are made.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 31, 1848.

SINCE last I had the honour of addressing you, Mr. Richard Bourke has visited Clifden. His report will put you in possession of the manner in which the Poor Laws are administered in this Union.

I attended the meeting of the Guardians to day—John King was elected by the Guardians, relieving officer for a portion of the Roundstone district, which has been defined by a resolution of the Guardians.

His election has been protested against by one of the Guardians, Mr. Joyce, on the grounds that he insulted him. I have made enquiries as to King's character, and learn from the Sub-Inspector, Mr. Ireland, that he was formerly in the police, and that he bore an excellent character.

Several of the parties declared contractors at the last meeting of the Guardians for the supplying of meal at depôts in the Union, failed during the week to perform their contracts. It is right to observe that the agreements and bonds were not perfected, though directions were given to that effect. The clerk states that the parties left town without executing the necessary documents.

At this day's meeting contractors were appointed for all the depôts save four, and they executed the agreements, and the bonds were also perfected.

I am glad to be enabled to state that the collection this week has been the best since the new rate has been struck, it amounts to 194*l.* 4*s.* I have every hope that I shall be in a condition to report as favourably of next week's collection.

The Guardians have at length agreed to meet in their Board-room at the workhouse, on Saturday next. I hope for the best results from this resolution.

During the last week, Flynn (formerly collector of Ballindoon electoral division) was fined 5*l.*, in addition to treble the amount of 14*s.* 6*d.* which he was found to have peculated of the Union funds.

Two of the collectors were fined 5*s.* each by the magistrates for wilful disobedience of the Guardians' orders; these examples are calculated to effect much good.

Deputy-Commissary General Dobree has visited Clifden, and I have been in communication with him in reference to the proposed establishment of a commissariat here.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 21st instant, enclosing me Sir Randolph Routh's communication to the Secretary of the Commissioners in respect to the same.

REPLY to the above :—February 5, 1848.

THE Commissioners await the answers to the usual queries with respect to Mr. King, who was elected a relieving officer, in part of the Union, on the 31st ultimo. I am, at the same time, to state that the Commissioners are desirous of receiving a report from you as to the specific charge against Mr. King, which was entered on the minutes of the proceedings of the Board of Guardians on the day of his election. If necessary, you will be good enough to make enquiry into the matter upon oath.

Mr. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 31, 1848.

IN accordance with the instructions contained in your letter of the 20th instant, that I should proceed as soon as possible to Clifden, and report to you minutely on the manner in which relief is administered by the Board of Guardians, I beg leave to inform you that, on the 27th instant, I visited that Union, and shall now proceed to lay before you the results of my inquiries into the subjects referred to me.

I directed my attention, first to the administration of relief within the workhouse, which I inspected on the 28th, in company with Mr. Deane; and on the following day I enquired into the arrangements made for affording out-door relief.

The condition of the workhouse appeared to me far from satisfactory. Though improved in cleanliness since the first time I saw it, the discipline of the house continues very defective; and no steps appear to have been taken by the Guardians for compelling the officers to perform their duty in this respect. The paupers are generally very badly clothed; no regular labour appears to be exacted from the able-bodied of either sex beyond the necessary work in the house, and the beds in use are of the worst possible description. I regret also to say that the hospital is much overcrowded and very dirty, and that disease has assumed a fatal character.

Upon former occasions I have, at various times, pointed the attention of the Board of Guardians to these defects; and I have reason to know that the same has been repeatedly done by Mr. Deane, who has himself used every exertion to remedy them, but his orders have been neglected by the officers of the house, and the Board have not used their powers to enforce them. No visiting committee has assembled at the workhouse for many months; and the Board have positively refused to meet there, though the prevalence of infectious disease is by no means so great as to make it dangerous for them to do so. Under these circumstances it cannot be expected that the workhouse will be found in a satisfactory condition, or that relief can be efficiently administered within it.

With respect to the arrangements made for relief of the poor out of the workhouse, I ascertained that the Board had ordered food for between 2000 and 3000 persons, composed of the classes enumerated in the 1st section of the Relief Extension Act, and latterly of the able-bodied, under your order. The precise number of persons at this time receiving relief I could not ascertain, in consequence of the relief lists not being fully made up; but it is due to the relieving officers to state that they are not so much to blame for this irregularity as might be imagined, as the pressure upon them for the last week has been very severe. The food is distributed at certain appointed places by the relieving officers, who are furnished by the contractors. Until lately this supply was given by the workhouse contractor, but a short time back arrangements were made by the Board with certain parties in the Union to supply meal at the different depots, and deliver it to the applicants. This arrangement was to have taken effect from Monday the 24th instant, but when I reached Clifden the greatest confusion prevailed in consequence of these contractors having failed in providing the food, and as the Board had not prepared against any such contingency, the relieving officers found themselves without their supply; and but for the interference of Mr. Deane with a merchant in Clifden, the poor would have remained without food. No written agreement has as yet been entered into by these contractors, though one was prepared for the use of the Guardians by Mr. Deane, and there are therefore no means of punishing them for this neglect. It may be right here to observe that the irregular mode in which the Guardians transact their affairs, and the confusion into which they have allowed their finances to fall, have deterred merchants of respectability and capital from entering into contracts with them; and there is at present considerable risk of the supply of food in the town being suddenly exhausted, which would never occur if traders in Galway or Wexford would undertake to provide it.

There was a meeting of the Board, on Saturday, to go over the relieving officers' books, and have them ready for the usual meeting on Monday. Mr. D'Arcy, the chairman, and two or three other Guardians alone attended; and this most important duty was hurriedly and imperfectly executed, very little assistance being afforded to the chairman, upon whom the whole weight of the business devolved. Preparations are being made for applying the labour test, but as yet it is but partially in operation.

There at present exists a very large amount of destitution in this Union, and I fear it is not soon likely to decrease. To meet this, and duly to carry out the provisions of the law, will require a much greater degree of energy and activity than has as yet been exercised by the Guardians. The workhouse should not only be made available for the largest number it can safely accommodate, but should likewise be used as a test of the destitution of the able-bodied, whilst the arrangements for a regular supply of food for out-door relief should be united with measures for carrying out the views of the order for setting the able-bodied to work.

The improvement in the workhouse will, I fear, not be carried out as long as the Guardians refuse their personal superintendence to its management, and protect the officers in the imperfect execution of their duties; and the details for out-door relief will be thrown, as they have up to this time been, upon a single member of the Board, with the assistance to be afforded to him by the Temporary Inspector. The exertions of these two gentlemen, though zealously given, cannot be expected to supply the place of the united efforts of every member of the Board, which are absolutely required at this moment to conduct efficiently the different branches of the system of relief.

I forward herewith a list of some of the highest ratepayers in this Union, whose poor-rates are still in arrear. They will be found to include many persons of property and station in the Union, some of them being themselves Guardians. Whatever success has as yet attended the collection of the rates is to be attributed to the personal exertions of Mr Deane; no measures have been taken by the Guardians for exercising a control over the collectors, or assisting them in recovering the rates, either by forming a committee to examine the books, or by considering them at a full Board; and no step for enforcing payment appears to have been adopted until the last meeting of the Board, when, at the instance of Mr. Deane, leave was applied for to bring actions in the superior courts against four parties then named. The amount of rate paid in, though not very deficient, is not so large as it might be; and in the case of one collector, whose books I examined, I found great cause to complain of his delay in making demand for the amount due, which, if the Guardians had duly inquired into, his progress would not have been permitted to continue.

Upon the whole, I fear that this Board of Guardians have failed in using due activity and diligence in carrying out their duties in this Union; and I cannot hope, from what I have seen of them, that they will meet their difficulties with the energy necessary to surmount them. With the exception of the chairman, who has shown great anxiety to perform his part with zeal and efficiency, little is to be expected from the Board. Many of the gentlemen of consideration are irregular attendants, some by reason of the distance of their residences from Clifden, and others from different causes; whilst the majority of Guardians who attend have never shown a disposition, and perhaps from their previous habits and mode of life are unable, to carry out in a proper manner the important duties now devolving upon them. Their attendance at the Board is not punctual; and it is often found impossible to secure their presence in the room where they meet for a length of time sufficient to the due discharge of the business, to which, even when present, they afford but very little assistance.

Under all these circumstances I beg leave to recommend that the Board be dissolved, and paid officers be appointed.

Mr. DEANE to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 2, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to enclose you letters which I have this day received from Mr. D'Arcy, the Chairman of the Board of Guardians of this Union, and from Major-General Thomson, J. P. Both these gentlemen had a lengthened interview with me to-day; they expressed themselves satisfied of the inability of the present Board of Guardians to discharge their duties, and have begged me to be the medium of communicating to you their written opinions on this subject. Major-General Thomson states that he cannot undertake to attend the Board regularly; and Mr. D'Arcy, among other things, complained to me of the whole business being in effect thrown on him, and without assistance that he would be unable to meet with the difficulties which present themselves. Under these circumstances it only remains for me to state, that should Mr. D'Arcy and General Thomson decline to sit at the Board, I have no hesitation in stating that the affairs of the Union cannot be managed by the elected Guardians.

ENCLOSURES.

Mr. D'ARCY to Mr. DEANE:—February 2, 1848.

HAVING to the best of my abilities endeavoured to carry out the provisions of the Act for the Relief of the Destitute Poor of this Union, and alive to the responsibility that devolves upon me as Chairman of the Board of Guardians, I feel I would not be doing my duty in withholding from the Poor Law Commissioners my frequently expressed opinion, that we are not equal to the present emergency. It may be painful to me to say this of a body, of which I am myself a member, but I believe conscientiously the duties are not done, and that as an individual member of the Board, I cannot afford to it more of my time than it at present receives.

The cases which have this day been brought forward of deaths under such heart-rending circumstances—for the lives of whom the Board were, I do feel, morally responsible, although I cannot say legally, as it appears no application had been made to them—confirms my conviction that I must not any longer withhold from the Commissioners my deliberate opinion that the time is come that the responsibility reaches them, and that the most prompt and vigorous measures will be required, or the lives of many may be sacrificed.

I trust, Sir, you will allow me to make you the channel of this communication. Our Union is truly in a state of wretchedness and misery no pen can describe; but unless met at once will be overwhelming.

Major-General THOMSON to Mr. DEANE:—February 2, 1848.

I BEG leave to state to you, for the information of the Commissioners, that I feel from the distance I live from Clifden, about 25 miles, that it is totally impossible for me to attend at the Board of Guardians with that regularity that the present emergency requires, having other important duties to perform connected with the employment of the poor on my estate.

I have with much difficulty paid my own rate, and having done my duty, have nothing to reproach myself.

I consider the elected Guardians, from their class in life, totally incapable of managing the affairs of the Union; and bearing in mind that it is impossible for me to attend at the ordinary weekly meetings of Guardians, I do not desire to hold myself responsible for their acts. I need not say that in any observation made I mean to include Mr. D'Arcy, whose entire time has been devoted to his duty as a Guardian.

I am glad to be enabled to state that in a short time, through the loan that has been granted to me under the Land Improvement Act, I shall be in a condition to employ all the poor on my estate. I trust that my exertion will have the effect of reducing the amount of the next rate; but should the new ejectment process, viz., the quarter acre clause, without giving the people ejected employment, continue to be made use of, I know not where pauperism is to end.

REPLY to the above:—February 5, 1848.

IN reference to your report of the 2nd instant, I am to enclose herewith, for your information, a copy of a letter which the Commissioners have this day addressed to the clerk of the Union, announcing their intention to dissolve the Board of Guardians.

Paid officers for administering the affairs of the Union will immediately be appointed.

The COMMISSIONERS to the CLERK of CLIFDEN UNION—Dissolution of the Board of Guardians:—February 5, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under their consideration a report which they have received from their Inspector, Mr. Bourke, on the manner in which relief is administered to the destitute poor in Clifden Union by the Board of Guardians.

The Commissioners have likewise had under consideration a return from the collectors of the Union, containing a list of the individual Guardians in each electoral division who have not paid their rates, together with a statement of the sums which are due from each such Guardian respectively.

The Commissioners transmit herewith a copy of Mr. Bourke's report for the information of the Guardians, and at the same time the Commissioners have to announce, that having bestowed their careful attention on the present condition of Clifden Union, the Commissioners have arrived at the conclusion, that the Board of Guardians have failed to administer relief duly and effectually either in the workhouse or out of it, and have especially failed to provide themselves with a sufficient amount of funds at this season of distress, by a timely and vigorous collection of the poor-rates.

The Commissioners are strongly sensible of the great exertions which have been made by Mr. D'Arcy, the Chairman, to place the affairs of the Union on a satisfactory foundation; and the Commissioners are disposed to believe that his exertions would have been attended with success, if the object could have been attained by one individual Guardian alone. The Commissioners are convinced, however, that the debts of the Union are too heavy, and the amount of destitution is too great, to be met otherwise than by the systematic and persevering efforts of a Board; and as the Commissioners perceive no reasonable prospects of such efforts being made by the existing body of management, they have determined to issue a formal order dissolving the Clifden Board of Guardians.

The Commissioners are desirous that the Guardians should transact business as usual on Monday next, and the Commissioners will issue the Order of dissolution by the post of the 7th instant.

November 25, 1847.

I AM directed by the Central Board of Health, to forward to you the enclosed copies of communications relative to the sanitary state of the electoral division of Dromod, in the Cahirciveen Union, and to state for the information of the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, that the temporary fever hospital provided under certificate of this Board, has been closed without previous communication with the Board.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. BARRY to Mr. HOPPER, Secretary :—November 2, 1847.

I BEG to transmit to you the circular on which the Relief Committee have acted in closing the Dromod temporary fever hospital. As the entire responsibility of providing funds was thrown on the Guardians, after the 30th September, and the Union being already deeply in debt, they did not wish to incur any further expense. The clerk of the Relief Committee has mislaid the official letter he received from the Relief Commissioners, for closing the hospital on the 25th day of September, otherwise I would forward it with the enclosed documents.

In reply to your inquiries respecting the sanitary condition of the country, I regret much to say, that this district is more unhealthy than it was during the spring or summer months; and fever of a worse description than that which then prevailed, is making vast inroads among the poorer classes. For corroboration of this statement, I refer you to the accompanying letter from the parish priest of Dromod.

Any further information you require, I shall feel happy to give you if in my power.

IN answer to your inquiries as to the state of disease among my parishioners, I am sorry to say there never was so much fever as at present; scarcely a day passes that I have not to administer the rites of the Church to many afflicted with that dreadful malady. We have every reason to deplore the loss of our little hospital; limited as it was in its accommodation, still it was a great means of preventing the disease which is now fatal, from making such rapid strides among the poor. My curate, the Rev. Mr. Fitzmaurice, is not as yet able to assist me in the duties of the parish; his attack of fever was the worst I have yet seen, but I trust a few weeks will restore him to perfect health.

The COMMISSIONERS to Colonel CLARKE :—November 30, 1847.

I AM directed to forward to you herewith a communication which the Commissioners have received from the Board of Health, relative to the sanitary state of the Dromod electoral division of the Cahirciveen Union, and I am to state that you will have the goodness to make inquiry as to the fact stated, that the fever hospital was closed without previous communication with the Board of Health.

I am, at the same time, to request that you will state your opinion as to the necessity which may exist for re-opening the fever hospital; the Commissioners consider that the subject should be brought under the notice of the Board of Guardians at their next meeting.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 4, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo respecting the late temporary fever hospital, and the prevalence of fever in the electoral division of Dromod.

I am not able to ascertain if any communication was made to the Board of Health previous to closing the fever hospital; but most probably not, as immediately the supply of money by the Relief Commissioners was stopped, Finance Committees and Relief Committees dissolved themselves, and cared for nothing further; but in this particular instance it would have been impracticable to carry on the establishment, as the Guardians had neither money or credit.

Cahiriveen Union.

With regard to the representations of the alarming extent of fever, I am somewhat taken by surprise. In organizing the mode of supplying the children attending public schools with food, I have traversed the Union in every direction and made the most minute inquiries as to the extent of fever: the answer universally given was, that there was little or none. On Wednesday, the 24th ultimo, I was through the whole extent of the Dromod electoral division, and made every arrangement with the Rev. T. Lynch, P. P., respecting the number of scholars that should be permitted to attend, referring most particularly to the danger of causing fever by overcrowding; but the reverend gentleman made no allusion to its being prevalent at Masterguehy. In the centre of the division I made most particular inquiries, and was distinctly told there was no fever; and at Ballynakelly, the eastern extremity, I received the same reply, but found hooping cough very common. I think it very probable that the wish to re-establish the hospital on the one hand, and the desire to obtain food on the other, may have caused the discrepancies of representations.

Dr. Courtenay, one of the Board of Health Inspectors, having been here, his report will be conclusive on the point.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of HEALTH:—December 18, 1847.

THE Commissioners desire to state, for the information of the Board of Health, in reference to the Board's communication of the 25th ultimo, relating to the temporary fever hospital of the Dromod electoral division of the Cahiriveen Union, that it appears by a report from Colonel Clarke, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, that this hospital was closed by the Relief Committee on the 25th September, upon the expenditure of the money received for its support, from the Relief Commissioners.

The Commissioners beg to forward a copy of the Report of Colonel Clarke, for the information of the Board of Health; and they are desirous to ascertain, under the circumstances stated, and the abandonment of the hospital since the 30th of September, by the Relief Committee, which then ceased to act, whether in the opinion of the Board of Health, the Guardians should now be required to take charge of this hospital.

In reference to the Board's letter of the 2nd instant, relating to the permanent district fever hospital, at Cahiriveen, the Commissioners beg to observe, that as it is no longer the hospital of a Relief Committee, the Guardians have no legal authority, (even though possessed of funds) to provide for its maintenance, unless the Board of Health can issue a requisition for that object, under the 9th Vic. cap. 6.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 4, 1847.

MR. INSPECTOR CRAWFORD having been present at the meeting of the Board of Guardians on the 2nd instant, I presume he will have reported to you the proceedings. At the same time, I am desirous of submitting to you some observations on the present state of the Union, and the probable operation of the Poor Law during the winter.

The insolvent state of the Union and the general poverty of the country, will, I believe, preclude the possibility of giving out-door relief to any class, or to afford in-door relief from any rate that can be collected to a greater number than the present workhouse will contain. This is totally inadequate, even to the present wants of the people; and I believe that before the commencement of next month, there will be as great destitution as existed last spring, and it is daily becoming more important that measures should be adopted for affording relief. I have this day returned from visiting the district of Glenbeigh, and am persuaded that many are in immediate and pressing want, which is generally the case in every electoral division.

Assuming my proposition to be correct, which I believe it to be, viz., that the capabilities of the country are only equal to the support of the in-door poor, the great mass of the destitute must be fed from other sources. I have given this subject much consideration, and am strongly of opinion that the best course would be to dissolve the present Board of Guardians, and to appoint paid officers, as I consider the present Board as a body, hopelessly and helplessly plunged in despondency by the effects of their own mismanagement, and totally inefficient. An opportunity would thus be given, of giving the Poor Law a fair trial in one of those Unions, in which it is said it can never succeed. The 3s. rate is equal to paying outstanding debts, and sustaining the workhouse for a considerable time to come. The out-door relief given under its provisions would fall on the Government, and would, I am persuaded, be far less in amount than what would be required for any measure of relief disconnected with the Poor Law. I submit this with much deference, to your superior judgment.

The collectors are now at work in all the electoral divisions, with one exception, in which some delay in completing the securities took place. They have not been very successful as yet, but as soon as the military detachment arrives, more activity will be enforced.

I think it highly important that a depôt of food should be established here. The supply at the present moment is very short, and as I am a purchaser to the extent of 10 tons, on account of the British Relief Association, it will be still further reduced. This, combined with the long-continued tempestuous weather, rendering communication with the markets impracticable, causes me some degree of anxiety.

REPLY to the above:—December 8, 1847.

THE Commissioners will be prepared to appoint paid Guardians in this Union, if this measure is absolutely necessary.

I am, at the same time, to state, that the Commissioners would not be justified in taking this step unless they have before them recorded instances of default of official duty on the part of the Guardians, and the Commissioners request that you will be so good as to report specially on this subject to them, if, in your opinion, the conduct of the Board of Guardians has been such as legally to justify their dissolution.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 10, 1847.

THE result of the meeting of the Board of Guardians yesterday renders it now imperatively necessary that some decided steps should be taken for affording out-door relief in this Union, as the Guardians themselves are totally unequal to organizing measures for meeting the emergency, which is hourly becoming more pressing.

It was resolved, on the 2nd instant, that buildings should be hired for the reception of paupers, and orders were signed for obtaining clothing; but, although it was well known that there would be a rush on the house, not a single step was taken during the week; and yesterday, after admitting to the full extent recommended by Dr. Phelan, numbers remained, many of whom had come a distance of more than 30 miles, for whom no provision could be made; and it was found that there was no clothing for those who had been admitted.

A resolution was passed, appointing a Committee to inspect, and report upon the practicability of converting a store at Port Magee into a branch house for the children; but I do not think it can be made available without incurring a very great expense, and the distance (upwards of 10 miles) would render it very difficult to furnish supplies and superintend the management.

There is no possibility of finding accommodation sufficient to give the workhouse test a full and fair operation. It is computed that there are 10,500 destitute individuals in the Union, being able-bodied labourers not possessing land, and their families. How these persons existed in former years, is one of those Irish problems most difficult of solution; but I believe that to relieve one of them, and not another, would be a positive injustice; all being equally destitute. I am perfectly convinced that, even supposing the Guardians were in possession of sufficient funds, they are totally incapable of carrying out any measure of relief to any such extent; and though I might lecture on the subject daily and hourly, and every word be most fully acquiesced in, there would be no practical result. The gentlemen of the country who are ex-officio Guardians take no interest whatsoever in the affairs of the workhouse. I have now attended six meetings of the Board, and, excepting Dr. Barry, and, on one occasion, Mr. James O'Connell, not one of Cahiriveen Union. these gentlemen ever attended, and the entire management is left to a class which I cannot consider competent.

I am of opinion that, whatever aid may be given by the Government or the British Relief Association should be administered in strict accordance with the Acts of Parliament in force for the relief of the poor; the inefficiency of the Board of Guardians as a body renders this impracticable, unless a separate establishment be found. It is on these grounds I recommend that paid Guardians should be appointed as a temporary measure; and though this may render my services as a Temporary Inspector unnecessary, I cannot permit my private interests to compete with that course which I consider would be most advantageous to the country.

The mismanagement of the workhouse, and the imposition of insufficient rates, are, I think, quite sufficient grounds for dissolving the present Board of Guardians. If we consider the actual state of the house, there is sufficient proof of both these points; a load of debts contracted which will absorb a great proportion of the rate now in course of collection; cheques given in anticipation of rates to be collected; no means of providing clothing for paupers admitted; the regulations for enforcing labour entirely neglected; land attached to the workhouse left uncultivated; are practical proofs that the evils of mismanagement are so deeply rooted as only to be eradicated by the strongest measures. I am not an advocate for taking the care of the poor from those on whom the duty should legitimately rest, as a permanent measure, but the present emergency requires an immediate and effective remedy; and when affairs shall be brought into a proper healthy state the Guardians should resume their duties under a strict and rigid inspection.

Mr. Crawford, when here, was of opinion that it would be sufficient if the collectors attended once a fortnight; and as the treasurer did not send his book, I am unable to state how the collection is proceeding, but I fear not very satisfactorily. I am informed that last week an anonymous notice was posted on the chapel door in Prior parish, advising the people to resist the payment of rates. I do not think it would be advisable to attempt any coercion until there shall be a sufficient force at hand; as one instance of successful resistance would be immediately followed by universal opposition.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th instant, and in reference thereto, beg to refer to my report of yesterday's date, which explains the grounds on which I recommended a dissolution of the Board of Guardians of this Union.

On a former occasion, I expressed a hope that I should be able to carry out the laws for the relief of the poor even without the active co-operation of the ex-officio Guardians, but experience has shown me that this is impossible; and as they will not attend to their duties, and this is a moment requiring the most energetic and prompt measures, I see no alternative but the course I have recommended.

IN doing myself the honour of reporting to you on the meeting of the Board of Guardians yesterday, I am happy to say that, although a very considerable crowd assembled, there was no disturbance; this I attribute to the prudential arrangements of Mr. Dillon, the stipendiary magistrate, who assembled all the police force available in the district.

This is a state of things which cannot be suffered to continue, and would have been prevented, had the Guardians acted in accordance with my admonitions and advice; but each day only the more strongly convinces me that it is totally impossible to carry out the law with the present Board; and yesterday notice was given by one of themselves of a motion to apply for paid Guardians; stating, as a reason, that they were a most incompetent body, and himself more so than any; in all of which I most fully concur.

The affairs of this Union are now assuming a very serious aspect, and unless men of energy and determination be sent down to administer the Poor Laws, the country will be in a state of anarchy and confusion. It cannot be denied that destitution is daily becoming more pressing, and the greater number of those who presented themselves at the workhouse yesterday were evidently suffering from absolute want of food, and yet these poor wretches, many of whom had come a distance of from 20 to 30 miles, were turned from the doors with streaming eyes, because men possessing the power to relieve them have totally neglected their duties.

I have insisted that out-door relief shall be given to 112 persons, now in the workhouse, who fall under the 1st section of the Poor Relief Extension Act, and accommodation may be found for 240 children in separate houses; if this be carried into effect, there will be room for 352, which I expect will be fully occupied on the next Board-day; after which there will be no alternative but to apply for your Order under the 2nd section of the Act. I transmit you a letter, addressed to me by the Knight of Kerry, and though I do not consider the state quite so imminent as he describes, still the prospect is sufficiently alarming to render every precaution necessary.

The collection of the 3s. rate is proceeding slowly; one of the collectors having neglected to attend the Board of Guardians yesterday, in obedience to the orders he received. I have ordered the clerk to take out a summons against him, under the 100th section of the 1st and 2nd Vic., c. 56, which I hope will prove a salutary example.

ENCLOSURE.

The KNIGHT of KERRY to Lieut.-Colonel CLARKE :—December 15, 1847.

OUR position as to food is very alarming. I have written to the Government in London and Dublin to state, that in this electoral division there will be 1000 persons without food by the 1st of January. I have no doubt on the subject. This does not comprehend any of those I employ in drainage and quarrying, &c.: they will be numerous, and many of them even very destitute. But I have much more serious points to discuss with you concerning the general state of the country, and the spirit of insubordination has crossed the borders of Limerick, and is on both sides of Listowel.

I have the most serious apprehension of an outbreak of an extensive character, and the Government is by no means up to the amount of danger, nor its nature, and the means of providing against it beforehand. I wish, if you are not * to forward that you should * Illegible. be so; and would much prefer to address you officially than intrude myself officiously on the people at head quarters, so pray come to me when you can.

Tell the police to keep a sharp look out for strangers.

The COMMISSIONERS to the CLERK of GUARDIANS—Dissolution of the Board of Guardians :—December 21, 1847.

THE Commissioners have recently had under their consideration the state of the Cahiriveen Union, particularly with reference to the extent of the distress existing in the Union, and the inadequate measures adopted by the Board of Guardians to discharge themselves of their responsibility in affording relief to the destitute poor.

The result of the meeting of the Board of Guardians, on the 9th instant, has led the Commissioners to the conclusion that it is now imperatively necessary to take steps for having the laws for relief of the poor administered in the Union with greater vigour than has been exercised by the Board of Guardians, who have not shown themselves equal to organizing measures for meeting the present emergency.

It appears that, on the 2nd instant, a resolution was passed by the Guardians that buildings should be hired in addition to the present workhouse for the reception of paupers, and that orders were signed for obtaining clothing; but although it was well known that there would be a pressure, and on the 9th instant the Guardians, after admitting applicants into the workhouse to the fullest extent, found themselves unable to afford relief in the manner in which they are authorized to do, to a large number of destitute poor persons, many of whom had travelled more than 30 miles to seek it.

The Commissioners cannot but think that if active steps had heretofore been taken by the Guardians for relieving out of the workhouse all classes coming within the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, and for providing additional workhouse accommodation, they would now have been enabled to make Cahiriveen Union. arrangements which are necessary to afford relief to the destitute poor persons who are seeking it at their hands.

The Commissioners regret to have observed that the ex-officio Guardians of the Union generally do not appear to take an interest in the business of the Board of Guardian, as, at the last six meetings of the Board, the Commissioners find that, excepting Dr. Barry, and, on one occasion, Mr. James O'Connell, not one of the ex-officio Guardians have attended, and the entire management of the Union has been left to the elected Guardians, who have thus had to contend with difficulties of no common magnitude.

As regards the finances of the Union, it appears that, owing to its pecuniary embarrassment, bread is not even obtained for such of the sick in the workhouse as require it; milk even for the sick is often provided in insufficient quantities, and Indian meal is taken for breakfast and dinner of the healthy classes without milk, sugar, or molasses.

Owing to the Guardians not having taken active steps to secure the collection of the necessary poor-rates, although repeatedly exhorted to that course by the Commissioners, the debts of the contractors and others have reached the sum of 1650*l.*, an amount sufficient to absorb a full half of the entire new rate now being brought into collection, but of which no portion had been collected down to the 30th ultimo.

On this point the Commissioners cannot omit to remark that, at the close of July last, they urged on the Guardians the necessity of providing for their liabilities by the immediate levy of a new rate, which, however, the Guardians, for a considerable time, declined doing, and the Commissioners believe that the disinclination of the Guardians, in the first instance, to strike the necessary amount of rate, and their subsequent delay in bringing the rate into collection, have been seriously detrimental to the interests of the poor of the Union; nor could the Commissioners entertain a confidence in the Guardians now taking the necessary steps to rescue the payment of the rates which have been made.

The Commissioners have determined, under all the circumstances of the case, to dissolve the Board of Guardians, in pursuance of the powers entrusted to the Commissioners by the 18th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, and to appoint paid officers to administer the affairs of the Union, and they have accordingly issued an order this day dissolving the present Board of Guardians of the Cahiriveen Union.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your reports of the 10th and 17th instant, relating to the Cahiriveen Union; and in reference thereto, I am to forward, for your information, the enclosed copy of a letter which has this day been addressed to the clerk of the Union, in forwarding an order for the dissolution of the Board of Guardians.

I am at the same time to state, that paid officers, to administer the affairs of the Union, will be immediately appointed.

With regard to your observations as to the difficulties in the way of providing in-door relief in the Union, I am to state, that the Commissioners are most desirous that every exertion should be made to obtain additional workhouse accommodation; and if any additional building suitable for the purpose can be obtained, though at a considerable distance from the present workhouse, the Commissioners are of opinion that it should be taken; and that by the appointment of sufficient trustworthy officers to manage any such building or buildings, the difficulties adverted to in your report may be met and overcome.

With respect to the large number of persons whom you describe as able-bodied labourers not possessed of land, and whose mode of living heretofore you have not ascertained, I am to observe, that it will be very necessary to watch closely the proceedings of the relieving officers, under the Act 10 Vict., cap. 31, particularly in reference to persons holding more than a quarter of an acre of land.

The Commissioners apprehend that much error may arise from misstatement of persons holding land, with a view of obtaining relief; as the number of destitute able-bodied persons stated in your report must far exceed the actual extent of destitution in that class. It appears that of the number of persons who received relief rations in the week ended 4th July last, only 5211 were able-bodied men, and of these 1817 held more than a quarter of an acre of land.

The Commissioners will issue an order for out-door relief, under the 2nd section of the Act 10 Vict, cap. 31, when you recommend that they should do so, and will recommend Count Strzelecki to place at the disposal of the paid Guardians, immediately after their arrival in the Union, a loan of 200*l.* to aid in providing relief; but the Commissioners trust that you will have the relief lists of the relieving officers carefully scrutinized and revised; and that by sending out of the workhouse such destitute persons as out-door relief may be safely given to, and providing further workhouse accommodation, room may be found for testing the destitution of the able-bodied applicants for relief.

Rev. EUGENE O'SULLIVAN, Parish Priest, to the COMMISSIONERS:—
December 6, 1847.

SINCE I had the honour of receiving your letter of the 25th ultimo, I waited on the Board of Guardians of the Cahirciveen Union, and endeavoured to impress on them the absolute necessity of giving out-door relief to the persons referred to in your letter, in order to save them from immediate death by starvation.

I regret to state that I could not make any impression on the Board. It is needless for me therefore, to state, that no language can convey an adequate idea of the frightful condition of the poor in the electoral division in this parish attached to the Cahirciveen Union. As it is totally out of the question that disabled and infirm persons could walk to the workhouse, I requested of the Board to give funds to the relieving officer which would enable him to procure cars for their conveyance, but in this I was equally unsuccessful.

I respectfully beg leave to call the attention of the Commissioners to these facts, and to request that something be done to save the lives of the people.

It is totally inexpedient that the Killorglin Dunkerron electoral division should be attached to the Cahirciveen Union, because the distance between the workhouse of the Union and the electoral division is too great, being, in some instances, 35 miles.

Now it is quite plain, that even an able-bodied person with five or six children, some of whom he must convey on his back, would not now accomplish in the depth of winter, through a most dreary and desolate country, so long a journey.

If this electoral division were attached to the Killarney Union, the average distance from the workhouse would be about 12 miles. It is obvious then, that the greatest convenience would result if it was attached to the Killarney Union, besides the interests of the division cannot be so well attended to if it remains attached to the Cahirciveen Union, because the distance is so great, that neither will the ex-officio or the elected Guardians attend the sittings of the Board. I think it right to remark, that this subject was brought under the consideration of the Commissioners.

OBSERVATIONS of Colonel CLARKE:—December 11, 1847.

It is intended to commence giving out-door relief to destitute persons falling under the 1st section of the Poor Relief Extension Act, after the next meeting of the Board of Guardians. According to the Application and Report Book prepared under the direction of the Rev. Eugene O'Sullivan, there appear only 26 individuals who could receive out-door relief.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 13, 1847.

A NOTICE, of which I have the honour to enclose you a copy, was posted this morning on the chapel door, and being the fair-day, has received extensive circulation. I have also private information that the Killorglin and Glenbeigh people are to come in on the same day. Mr. Dillon, the stipendiary magistrate, will be here to-morrow, and I will consult with him as to the measures for the preservation of the peace.

Cahirciveen Union.

ENCLOSURE.

December 12, 1847.

It is hereby ordered, that all persons who want food or employment in this district, will meet at the Cahirciveen workhouse on Thursday, the 16th of this month, at the hour of 12 o'clock in the afternoon, this being done effectively by strict orders of the respectable persons of Cahirciveen, Foylemore, Valentia, Prior, and also Dromod.—It is also hoped there will be no disturbance. Fail not at your peril.

Work we want, or food we must get,
We shall not starve
in the ensuing year; fail not boys for
God is our guide.

REPLY to the above:—December 15, 1847.

THE Commissioners desire to state, that as the workhouse is a considerable distance from the town there may not be reason to apprehend that an attack on the provision dealers is contemplated; but there may be an intention of carrying away provisions stored in the workhouse, and, in either case, the assembly would be unlawful according to the terms of the 27th Geo. III. cap. 15. If, according to the opinion of firm men, the meeting is likely to produce danger to the peace of the neighbourhood, it is an unlawful assembly, and a misdemeanour in those assembling, even though there may not be an intention to do any act which if executed, would make them rioters.

The Commissioners apprehend, that if any effort shall be made to dissuade the persons from whatever purpose they entertain, by an appeal to their reason, or any assurance of giving attention to their case, such parleying will have the effect of promoting further meetings and tumult.

December 21, 1847.

I AM to forward herewith, for your information, an extract from a report which they have received from Mr. Phelan, Poor Law Inspector, relating to the insufficiency of proper nourishment for the sick inmates of the workhouse of the Cahirciveen Union, and I am to request that you will be good enough to furnish the Commissioners with a report on the present supplies for the workhouse inmates.

ENCLOSURE.

EXTRACT from Mr. PHELAN'S REPORT of November 17, 1847.

THE financial difficulties of the Union, are of course known to the Commissioners, through Mr. Crawford, and Colonel Clarke; but I beg to observe that in consequence of these difficulties, the credit of the Guardians is such that no bread is now to be had for such of the sick as require it, rice and Indian meal being the only articles of food used in the house. Milk, even for the sick, is often provided in insufficient quantity, and the Indian meal breakfast and dinner of the healthy classes, is taken without milk, sugar, or molasses.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 24, 1847.

WITH reference to your letter of the 21st instant, requiring a report on the present supplies for the workhouse inmates, I have the honour to acquaint you that as the same financial difficulties which existed when Mr. Phelan made his report, still continue, no person can be induced to supply bread, even for the sick.

The only improvement in the dietary that I have been able to effect, is that of giving milk to all children under nine years of age, substituting a small proportion of rice for Indian-meal, and giving six ounces of salt fish in lieu of so much meal at dinner.

I regret to add, that the town is now quite bare of provisions; I have this day been obliged to suspend the supplies to the schools, and the contractor for the workhouse supply has only sufficient for 10 days on hand. Vessels are expected, and some cargoes have been afloat for the last five weeks, but detained by stress of weather. Calhirciveen Union.

REPLY to the foregoing:—December 28, 1847.

THE Commissioners trust that the sum of money which has been advanced by the British Association, will ere this, have enabled you to provide the requisite supplies for the inmates.

I am further to state, that if the supplies expected should not immediately arrive, it would be advisable for the Vice Guardians to purchase a sufficient quantity of meal, from the Commissariat dépôt at Kenmare.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 23, 1847.

I HAD this morning the honour to receive your letter and its enclosures of the 21st instant, announcing the dissolution of the Board of Guardians of this Union. A severe attack of the prevailing epidemic prevented my being present at their meeting to-day, when it was communicated to them; but it was a timely reprimand, as, notwithstanding the resolutions of last week, no preparation for the reception of paupers, or for giving out-door relief to the impotent class, has been completed.

A house, consisting of two dormitories, a kitchen, and a school-room for 120 girls, has been taken, and is now nearly ready for their reception; and a house in the immediate vicinity of the workhouse has also been engaged as a dormitory for 120 boys. By some underhand influence the parties drew back from their bargain, and insisted upon a twelve months' term, which I could not accede to. I have learned this evening that they will let for six months, but I do not feel myself at liberty to enter into any contract, without your special authority. I think two or more additional buildings may be obtained in distant parts of the Union, and as soon as the new Guardians arrive, no exertion shall be wanting to give the workhouse test the most extensive operation.

According to the returns furnished by Captain Forbes on the 4th July last, there were 9463 able-bodied labourers (including their families) not holding land, on the relief lists, and as ejections on a large scale will shortly take place, I fear the number of 10,500, I formerly stated, is too near the truth. Nothing short of the most absolute necessity, and after every other resource shall be exhausted, will induce me to recommend an order under the second section of the 10th Vic. cap. 31.

I shall not hesitate to examine on oath, any relieving officer whom I may suspect of irregularity, and as I shall now possess a working power, it shall be exercised to its utmost extent.

Should any delay take place in the arrival of the Guardians, I should be glad of your instructions as to whether I shall be authorized in signing orders on the contractors, for food for the workhouse. It is necessary that I take upon myself the responsibility of doing so, in the interim of your reply.

REPLY to the above:—December 28, 1847.

THE Commissioners consider that you were fully justified, under the circumstances of the case, in signing the requisite orders for supplies for the workhouse inmates.

I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners think it more advisable to take suitable buildings for affording additional workhouse accommodation for a year, than to abandon them, because the owners will not let them for a shorter time.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 23, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to transmit a proposition from the Knight of Kerry, which is tantamount to making the island of Valencia a separate Union, under laws differing from those in force for the county at large.

I am prepared to admit that the administration of the Poor Law in this Union

Cahiriveen Union. has been most shamefully mismanaged; but this by no means touches the soundness of its principle: nor does it appear to me that the Knight has adduced any argument against it, but merely urges the expediency of giving an opportunity of carrying out his particular views.

The distance from the workhouse might be urged as a ground for separation, with greater reason, by two-thirds of the Union, in some parts the distance being trebled; but the Knight's great objection seems to be founded on the assumption that the law establishes poor-houses in place of workhouses. The Guardians, by their neglect, have made this conversion of terms applicable; but this is capable of immediate remedy, without having resort to the measure of separation.

Supposing the law permitted the Knight's proposition, there is a point of some consideration as regards the establishment expenses of the Union workhouse. The Poor Law valuation of Valencia is about one-eighth of the whole Union; and as it may possibly be deemed expedient to separate the Killorglin electoral division, the valuation would be reduced from 24,866*l.* to 19,381*l.*, with the same establishment expenses to provide for.

I have not replied to the Knight's letter beyond a bare acknowledgment, as I do not consider it my province to enter into any controversy on the merits of the law.

ENCLOSURE.

I AM glad to hear both matters which you tell me of confidentially. I enclose to you a pacific proposal which I offer to the Poor Law. If they do not assent, they must resolve to do evil with their eyes open. The greatest injustice is perpetrated against that island in all fiscal matters. Whether through the Poor Law Guardians, valuers, or Presenting Sessions, the island representatives, even when there are any, are, necessarily, in a small minority—the tyrant majority always against us. They hold still the mainland and the island; have no common interest: but they will never use roads in the island, and, therefore, that they should have none, &c.

You will much oblige me, and serve our destitute population, if you can promote what I recommend.

I am so rootedly opposed to the Poor Law, that it is with difficulty I bring myself to meddle with any of its details. I believe you, and I fully agree, that in this Union its administration has, in many respects, been shamefully abused. As another season of dire distress now approaches, I am desirous of suggesting, through you, some modifications, which may practically mitigate its mischief, at least in one district. As a basis for this improvement, I suggest the separation of this particular electoral division from the rest of the Union of Cahiriveen. I do this upon the ground of its being an island, making it difficult, especially in winter, for the extremely indigent to reach the poor-house, and dangerous in case of sickness. The centre of our district is nine miles from the poor-house, half a mile of which is water (at the narrowest point). A very strong prejudice prevails amongst the islanders against going to an external side.

All the circumstances of this district are very different from those which belong to the other electoral divisions of the Union. Works which are suitable to other parts, such as main lines of communication, do not, in any respect, interest or concern this island. Works can never be in common between the island and the mainland. Central accommodation could be obtained upon the island on very reasonable terms. The administration to be on the strict principles of a workhouse, contradistinguished to a poor-house, with an efficiency which will probably soon enable it to support itself. A large proportion of the destitute in this district are widows with large families, whose removal to a distant poor-house would be extremely painful. The active inspection of the clergy of both persuasions, as well as of the local magistrate, could be ensured, and a considerable moral improvement would be obtained. The insularity of the district would prevent it being brought as a precedent in other cases. By localising the establishment under the view of those who must pay for its support, the greatest economy and regularity in its administration would be ensured. The greatest distrust prevails amongst the rate-payers of this island as to the transactions of the poor-house, from the observation of which they are cut off by the sea. If this very reasonable proposal be conceded on its merits, and on the peculiar circumstances of the case, I can answer for lending myself to a very useful reformation of the Poor Law system, at least in one district. I have no doubt that the rate-payers would cheerfully submit to whatever increase of rate may be involved in the proposed separation.

You will observe that my tender is for industry versus idleness; for reproductive and useful employment against the slothfulness and demoralization of the poor-house; the bringing work to the door of the pauper instead of sending him away from all work, useful to himself and family and the district, to systematic indolence in a remote poor-house. I clear my conscience by this proposal; the responsibility of rejecting it must rest with others.

The COMMISSIONERS to the KNIGHT of KERRY :—December 29, 1848.

Cahiriveen Union.

THE Commissioners have had before them your communication of the 21st instant, addressed to Colonel Clarke, Temporary Poor Law Inspector; and I am directed to state, that the Commissioners have considered your proposal, to have the island of Valencia declared a separate Union: but as the reasons stated in your letter to Colonel Clarke have reference to a defective administration of the law by a Board of Guardians now dissolved, they cannot be considered to weigh in favour of the change proposed.

The annual value of the rateable property in Valencia being 3019*l.*, a very large amount of rate would be necessary to raise the sum requisite to provide and support a workhouse, much exceeding the rate on any other part of Ireland; for, notwithstanding the efforts suggested for making workhouse labour available towards its support, a large surplus expense would be unavoidable.

In the application of means for lessening the pressure on the workhouse, the present position of Valencia as a separate electoral division should afford the same facilities that could be used if it were a distinct Union; and every local exertion to promote employment and abate pauperism must, in the present as in the proposed disposition of the island, be equally effectual in lessening the rates.

The Commissioners trust that you will continue your most useful efforts in providing employment, and so give the paid Guardians the advantage of your valuable co-operation, and the law a fair trial, while administered in strict accordance with the regulations for giving effect to it.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 29, 1847.

IN acknowledgment of your letter of the 27th instant, I have the honour to acquaint you that my earnest attention has been given to the state of destitution in the island of Valencia, and the Vice-Guardians shall be desired to give the subject their immediate consideration on their arrival.

I am happy to state that the Society of Friends have again come forward with their usual benevolence, and enabled the Knight of Kerry to continue feeding the 700 persons on his list, and I am affording relief to 460 children attending the schools; to which there has been no interruption in that locality.

OBSERVATIONS of Colonel CLARKE, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, relating to a communication which the COMMISSIONERS have received from the Rev. E. O'SULLIVAN, P.P., on the distressed state of the poor in the Killorglin electoral division of the Cahiriveen Union :—January 1, 1848.

THE Inspector has directed the relieving officer to investigate the cases represented in the declarations, and if found proper persons, and unable to walk from sickness or infirmity, to hire a car to convey them to the workhouse, where there is room reserved. It is expected that two of these cases are those of persons possessing land.

THE delay in the arrival of Mr. Burchadt has prevented any progress in definitive arrangements for the operation of the new Board of Guardians. I am, however, informed that he may be expected this day, and on Monday, I hope to give effect to those preliminary measures I have been making during the last 10 days.

A commodious store has been fitted up in the vicinity of the town, which will afford accommodation for 120 female children, with kitchen and schoolroom, and a respectable woman engaged to superintend the cooking, and general management, and near the workhouse, two houses as dormitories, for 120 boys, who will be fed and taught within the house as before, also a store in the town, at 25*s.* per month for the reception of the supplies from Limerick, of which I have been advised.

I have received 200*l.* as a grant from the British Relief Association, in addition to a similar sum, placed at my disposal for feeding the children attending the schools, but I have not received any notification, if this sum be for the same object, or if intended, for the use of the Guardians, as mentioned in your letter of the 21st ultimo. If the latter, I have to request your instructions, if I should pay this sum over to the Guardians in instalments of 50% at a time as a loan from the British Relief Association, to meet incidental expenses of out-door relief to the impotent class, and to provide bread for the hospital.

On my visit to the workhouse yesterday, I was much struck with the squalid appearance of the inmates, particularly children; I have had a communication with the medical officer on the subject, and he is of opinion that a change in the diet is absolutely necessary. I shall press on the Vice-Guardians to substitute a proportion of bread in lieu of meal; I attribute the unhealthy appearance of the paupers in a great measure to the cold wet flooring, of the whole of the basement story, on which the schoolrooms and men's day room are situate. The drainage is so imperfect, that the flags are never dry; I have caused the boards which formed the bed tressels in the temporary sheds, to be placed in front of the seats, in the schoolroom, in order to protect the naked feet of the children from the damp.

I am of opinion that the kitchen should be separate from the body of the house, as the steam from the boilers pervades the dining-hall to such a degree, as to impede respiration; and as the water is not supplied by pipes, the wetness of the floor is still further increased. As it is in contemplation to erect a bakehouse and oven, probably a favourable opportunity offers for attaching a kitchen under the same roof, without any very great additional expense.

I beg to bring under your consideration, that it will be necessary to provide infirmary accommodation, while the alterations contemplated for that building are being effected. The district fever hospital is now on the point of being closed for want of funds, the medical officer having neglected the necessary measure for obtaining the grand jury presentment, at the last Sessions. I am led to believe that the subscribers are willing to let the building to the Guardians at a low rental, and as there is no fever of an epidemic character now prevailing, I think it would be desirable as a temporary measure of expediency, that this arrangement should be effected, which would afford the power of admitting 100 additional paupers into the workhouse, for some months to come.

There is some difficulty as to the contract for supplying the workhouse with meal, which will not expire for three months. The contractor states that he has entered into arrangements to meet the average demand for that time, and that the Government grant, if applied to the workhouse, will subject him to a heavy loss.

REPLY to the above:—January 3, 1848.

THE Commissioners perceive with satisfaction that additional workhouse accommodation has been obtained.

As regards the sum of 200% last sent to you from the funds of the British Association, I am to state that the amount is to be considered as a loan to the Guardians, and that it should be brought to charge in the Union accounts under the head of "other receipts."

The Commissioners will forward an extract from your report, relative to the drainage of the workhouse premises, and the providing additional hospital accommodation, to their architect. They have no objection to the Guardians renting the district fever hospital, under the 16th Section of the Irish Poor Relief Amendment Act, if that course is deemed advisable.

With respect to the contract for the supply of meal for the workhouse, I am to request that the contract may be forwarded for the perusal of the Commissioners.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 15, 1848.

THE last week has been one of incessant occupation, the Vice-Guardians having sat every day by adjournment. The people are crowding to the workhouse, which is now completely filled, and 200 children lodged in separate houses. The occupation of the fever hospital will afford additional room; and I shall accompany the Guardians to inspect a store at Port Magee, which, if at all answerable for the purpose, shall be immediately fitted up for the reception of paupers. A difficulty arises as to finding bedding for these extra buildings, credit being out of the question; and to expend the produce of the present rate on this object, would cripple the exertions of the Guardians in providing food and other necessaries. If there should be any available barrack stores of this description at Cork, Limerick, or Tralee, it would be a great relief to have a supply granted.

There is a strong objection on the part of the inmates of the workhouse, falling under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, to being placed on the out-door relief lists, all alleging that they have no home to go to. I do not feel warranted to advise the Guardians to a compulsory course, but all such persons henceforth presenting themselves, will be put on those lists, unless there shall be room for them.

The collection is now proceeding rather more satisfactorily; all outstanding cheques have been discharged, and the Guardians were enabled, on Thursday, to issue others in payment of some small accounts. I will endeavour to make an arrangement with the larger creditors, to receive their money by instalments; and intend going to Killarney on Tuesday, with the view of inducing Mr. Murphy, the contractor for clothing, to receive 200% on account, and to stay legal proceedings.

I am entreated on all sides, not to make any application for your order for out-door relief to the able-bodied, but I fear it will be inevitable, as there is no absorption of labour in this purely pastoral country. I cannot, however, but suppose that the return on the 4th July last, of 10,340 destitute individuals not possessing land, must be far beyond the real fact. I find the number of ratings to the Poor Law is upwards of 5000, representing 25,000 individuals, out of a population of 30,888. This, however, will not be an exact criterion to judge from, as parents cannot be compelled to support their adult children, whatever be the extent of their means. The absence of this power will, no doubt, prove the loophole by which abuses of the out-door relief system will creep in. Unfortunately, in this country, charitable or local funds are looked upon as common property, of which every man is entitled to a share without reference to his circumstances. Parents, however well off, will have their adult children placed on the poor lists, and use every deception as to the ages of the younger children, which is now daily practised at the workhouse, in order to obtain a higher scale of diet. I am, therefore, induced to believe that there will be at least 6000 persons on the out-door relief lists; the cost of these for 25 weeks, at the most moderate calculation, will be 8000%.; to raise this sum from the Union, would require a rate of nearly 7s. in the pound. I have before had the honour of submitting to you my opinion that the levy of any rate, in addition to that now in course of collection, would be hopeless. If the Guardians can carry on the workhouse, with the auxiliary building, it will be the extent of their powers.

I am gratified with the manner in which the Vice-Guardians have set about their arduous task. Mr. Power has had considerable experience in the administration of the Poor Law, and both gentlemen were inspectors under the Relief Commission. Mr. Burtchaell was in the adjoining Union to that under my charge, and well known to me by favourable repute; and I have no doubt, they will sustain the high character they obtained under the trying circumstances of the last year.

INQUIRY has been made of the Commissary-General, as to whether there is any barrack bedding which could be obtained for the workhouse inmates.

As regards the objection to leave the workhouse, which you state exists amongst such of the inmates of the workhouse as are entitled to out-door relief, I am to request your attention to the Commissioners' circular letter of the 18th instant, as containing the Commissioners' opinion in respect to inmates of the workhouse, who may get out-door relief under the 1st section of the 10th Vic., c. 31.

The Commissioners trust that, if you shall have to recommend the issue of an order for out-door relief to able-bodied persons, a timely arrangement will be made for establishing stone-breaking in stations throughout the divisions, in which such relief may become necessary; and they rely on the effect which the knowledge of the Guardians' preparations for that object must have, for Cahirciveen Union. a considerable check to applications for relief, and the limitation of them to cases of actual necessity. At the same time, the Commissioners have a full expectation that both yourself and the Vice-Guardians, will use all available means of extending in-door accommodation, by hiring additional buildings, and making temporary constructions where practicable, to avert, if possible, the resort to out-door relief for able-bodied persons.

Page 1. A copy of a letter which has been addressed to Boards of Guardians of other Unions, in which an order for out-door relief to the able-bodied has been issued, is enclosed herewith for your information.

The COMMISSIONERS to Colonel CLARKE :—January 21, 1848.

WITH reference to your report of the 15th instant, relating to the Cahirciveen Union, in which you advert to the probability that the Union will be unable to defray the cost of out-door relief, I am directed to state, that if you are convinced, and are able to certify, that every possible exertion is made to collect the rates, and if the rates when collected are such as to enable the Guardians to maintain able-bodied men and their families in the workhouse, and persons entitled to relief under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, out of it, the Commissioners will make application to the British Association for food to maintain able-bodied persons out of the workhouse.

In reference to the workhouse inmates who may receive out-door relief under the 1st section, the Commissioners are desirous of reminding you that they have full authority to give such persons allowances of such an amount as will provide them not only with food, but likewise with lodging and clothing.

WE beg leave to report for your information, that we have examined the workhouse of this Union, and found that it was totally inadequate to accommodate the number of persons applying for admission. We were, therefore, obliged to rent five houses to enable us to shelter and feed the destitute creatures, who are every day pressing upon us in large numbers for relief; and certainly, from their general appearance, we consider them the most wretched, miserable people we ever beheld, and we are of opinion, that in no other Union in Ireland, does destitution prevail to a greater extent.

The inmates of the house stand in need of almost all necessaries requisite to support nature; and, so shamefully have they been neglected, the straw for their ticks has not been changed more than once, within the last six months. In fact, there has been a total disregard on the part of the late Guardians, to attend to the wants of those poor people, which is quite evident from their emaciated, worn-out, and ragged appearance.

The only food the adults receive is Indian meal stirabout, with a small portion of rice and conger eel. The hospital patients get a very small quantity of meat, and some milk, which the children under six years also get.

The dining-hall requires to be furnished with tables, forms, tins, &c., &c. The inmates are obliged to be formed into four classes, to enable the master to serve them at each meal, which causes considerable delay and inconvenience; but we have given orders for a supply of the required articles, to remedy this evil.

The master has reported that property has been from time to time, conveyed away by the paupers through the lower windows, which are quite insecure; and there are no less than 370 broken panes of glass in the house. The damp of the underground apartments, and also in the yards, is sufficient to cause disease; and the portion of the walls partially built round the house, is not sufficiently high to prevent the paupers from having ingress or egress at option. No fence walls have been erected, enclosing the land attached to the house, nor have the paupers been employed in any way whatever, in the cultivation of it from the commencement, until within a few days, when we procured implements and set them to work in repairing the approach to the house, and cleaning up the yards.

The rate struck by the late Guardians amounts to 3,578*l.* 13*s.* 7*d.*, and is in progress of being collected. There is at this moment, an execution against the house for 458*l.*, with costs; and proceedings have been taken by the late master and matron, for the recovery of their salary. Some of the present officers are claiming their salary, not having received any portion of it since their appointment.

We beg further to add, that for the last week, we have met from day to day for the despatch of business, and will continue to do so until matters are on a better footing in the Union; and we are happy to say, that up to the present, we have been able to give relief to all the applicants that came before us.

In conclusion, we feel great pleasure in stating how much we are indebted to Colonel Clarke for his kindness and zealous co-operation, since our arrival here.

YOUR proceedings appear to be conducted with an activity and attention to the more urgent wants of the destitute poor, which must be considered very satisfactory.

The Commissioners find it necessary at present, to direct your attention to the consideration of the best means of removing the cause of damp from the basement portion of the workhouse, by employing the able-bodied inmates in cutting deep drains from it through the site.

The Commissioners also recommend, that some arrangement be at once made to stay the execution for 458*l.*, which one of the creditors has obtained. In reference to this and other debts, it may be useful to suggest a composition with the creditors, for payment of part out of the present rate, and the remainder out of the rate next to be levied. This course has been readily agreed to in another Union, for which the Commissioners have had to appoint Vice-Guardians.

WITH reference to that part of your letter of the 14th instant, relative to the proposed appointment of additional relieving officers for Prior, Killorglin, and Glencar electoral divisions, I have the honour to submit for your consideration the grounds which induced me to recommend that course.

The electoral division of Dromod, to which Prior is now attached, is the most extensive of any in the Union, being estimated at 50,702 acres, with a scattered population of 5247, while the Poor Law valuation is only about 15*s.* to each individual; consequently there is great poverty, and I think sufficient occupation for one individual; at the same time, as Valencia is now separated from Killinane, the relieving officer for the latter should also take charge of Prior, which, combined, will form a compact relief district of 38,666 acres, with a population of 6892.

The recommendation of separating Killorglin and Glencar from Glenbeigh, arises from circumstances of a different character. On the 25th November last, the Rev. Eugene O'Sullivan, P.P. of Killorglin, presented himself at the meeting of the Board of Guardians, and represented the state of destitution to be such that if relief were not given, many would die of starvation within 24 hours. At my urgent request the Guardians desired the relieving officer to proceed immediately, and to exercise the discretionary power conferred by the 7th Section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, in such urgent cases as represented by Mr. O'Sullivan. On the following Thursday, it appeared that he had given out 2556 lbs. of meal to individuals whose cases he had not investigated, not one of whom would come into the workhouse. He admits he did wrong, but urges that he was ordered to do so by Father O'Sullivan. I think it, therefore, highly desirable that a man possessing sufficient moral courage to act upon his own judgment and responsibility, should be appointed for Killorglin, to which Glencar might be added, in order to equalize the districts.

REPLY to the foregoing:—January 20, 1848.

THE Commissioners will be prepared to sanction the proposed change of relieving officers' districts, and appointment of additional officers, when carried into effect by the Vice-Guardians.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 22, 1848.

As the Vice-Guardians now sit daily, my reports will be an epitome of the proceedings of the past week, rather than of any particular meeting.

On Thursday last the number of applicants for admission to the workhouse exceeded every power of accommodation, and the Guardians were at length compelled to commence a general system of out-door relief to the widows and impotent. Upwards of 70 individuals were transferred to the out-door relief list at their own desire, the relieving officers being present, and inserting their names on their lists, and receiving money for their support; this being done in my own presence, there cannot possibly be any mistake or misapprehension. I am in hope of being able to defer the extension of this to the able-bodied for some weeks.

The want of clothing is a most serious evil; there are now upwards of 400 persons who are in probationary wards, and cannot be admitted into the interior of the house on account of filth and vermin. I have directed the master to let all those who came into the house with decent clothes have them to wear, giving those more in want, the workhouse clothing; but these are very few in number. I felt the importance of getting a supply so great, that I went to Killarney to ascertain if I could make any arrangement with the contractor, and I am happy to report to you that he has consented not to proceed to execution upon his action, on the condition of receiving 200*l.* on account, and that the Guardians will engage to pay the remainder by instalments from the present rate as it shall be collected. He will moreover supply immediately, upon the usual credit, 150 complete suits of clothing for each sex, to be delivered 50 suits each week, and on lower terms than before. I endeavoured by every possible argument to induce him to accept half of his claim from the present rate, and the balance from the next that should be struck; but he declined doing so on the ground that his claim is of longer standing than that of any other creditor, having never received any sum on account, and that the late Guardians, after running up a long bill, took no further notice of him, but purchased what they required from other parties. I think he has reason in what he states, and I trust the proposed arrangement will meet your approbation. I have 400 strong calico bags which will make 200 good petticoats for the girls, which are being made in the school.

I anticipated Mr. Wilkinson's recommendation as to procuring the felt for covering the temporary sheds, which will arrive to-morrow; the printed instructions will enable the workmen of the country to proceed immediately to the task.

The collection of the rate varies much in different localities. In Killorglin more than two-thirds has been collected; but in Dromod it is very unsatisfactory, being only 73*l.* out of upwards of 600*l.* The collector informs me that he experiences the greatest difficulty. There have been two cases of rescue, on which he has sworn informations, and he has justices' warrants against other parties, but fears to distrain without the assistance of the police, which cannot at present be given, the greater part of the force having marched for the county Limerick.

In Killemanagh a forged notice was posted, purporting to be signed by the clerk of the Union, that the Vice-Guardians would proceed to levy a rate of 9*s.* 6*d.* in the pound. The intention is evidently to create alarm in the minds of the rate-payers, and to impede the collection of the present rate. I have directed the clerk to issue a notice that I will give a reward of 5*l.* to any person who may give such information as may lead to the conviction of the guilty party.

REPLY to the above:—January 26, 1848.

THE Commissioners see no objection to the arrangement which you have made with regard to the settlement of the account of the contractor for clothing.

The COMMISSIONERS to Colonel CLARKE :—January 29, 1848.

Cahiriveen Union.

I AM to request your attention to the enclosed extract from a communication from Mr. Maurice O'Connell, M.P., which has been referred to the Commissioners from the Under Secretary's office, relative to the neglect of a relieving officer in the discharge of his duty, and abuses in administering out-door relief in Cahiriveen Union.

ENCLOSURE.

I HAD this honour on the 18th. On this day I have had a letter from Captain Ommanney, stating that he would probably be here on Monday next to visit this district. I should be sorry to prejudge him, or prejudice the cause of any man with his superior officers without giving him every chance: and I would, therefore, pray that no decision may be come to on that part of my letter concerning him, until opportunity has been afforded of judging of what his presence will effect in this quarter. I trust he will find time for the future to visit this district regularly; but I despair of having anything substantial done for this district until it is taken from the Kenmare and affixed to the Cahiriveen Union; and I would earnestly pray the attention of the Commissioners to the part of my letter bearing thereon.

This day the approaches to my farm-yard and offices were thronged with near 100 poor persons. Their statement was, that they had been directed to muster here for inspection by the relieving officer, who would be here at noon. They spent the day here, and have only just retired, having impeded the operations of my people during the day, to say nothing of the spectacle presented, or the chances of infection, &c. The relieving officer, so called, did not make his appearance at all. He certainly had no right to make my offices his place of pauper rendezvous without even informing me thereof; but if the creatures took anything by the motion, I of course would waive objections, but keeping them all day standing fruitlessly, with the thermometer at the freezing point, is rather what seamen call "hard lives."

If this out-door relief is intended to be efficient,—if the meaning of the Act is to be carried out,—the staff must be changed in this quarter. At present it is a mockery; one case will suffice for a specimen. The relieving officer, Mr. Jermyn, takes candidates for out-door relief on the faith of a person named John Moran, clerk to the parish priest. Moran puts in the names of all his own family,—sons, daughters, and sons-in-law. One of these sons-in-law, by the name of Coffee, lives on my land. He has a good house, for building which his father was allowed the full value, certainly over ten acres of land, besides mountain pasture; is an able-bodied man, a good quarryman, and could earn from 7s. to 10s. per week as such; has two cows, &c., &c.; yet this fellow is on the out-door relief list, has been so from the commencement—he and all his family receiving rations: of course he won't work. This is but a solitary case, but is a type of how the great majority of those receiving out-door relief in this division are circumstanced.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 29, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report to you that affairs are proceeding in this Union in a more satisfactory manner than might have been expected. There is a great mass of destitution, yet I hope out-door relief to the able-bodied may be deferred for a few weeks longer. I believe that the Vice-Guardians have pushed the principle of taking buildings as auxiliary to the workhouse as far as it can be carried with advantage. There are now upwards of 1100 receiving in-door relief. I have not yet a return of the out-door lists, which are very heavy,—and I have no doubt that many individuals are borne upon them who, strictly speaking, should not be; but I think it better to give some small latitude to sickly and weak persons than to open the flood gates to the able-bodied.

I am most desirous that the clerk of works should be here with as little delay as possible, as no person can be found capable of putting the patent felt on the temporary sheds.

REPLY to the above :—February 2, 1848.

MR. WILKINSON's attention has been drawn to your request with respect to the clerk of the works, to be despatched to Cahiriveen.

With a view to enable the Vice-Guardians to relieve the workhouse of some of its present inmates, the Commissioners have given directions for the issue of an order authorizing them to afford out-door relief to widows with one child, and to children, both of whose parents are dead.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 5, 1848.

I HAVE much gratification in being able to report to you that I do not yet feel myself called upon to recommend out-door relief to the able-bodied. To avoid this has been the more difficult on account of it having been resorted to in the adjoining Unions; but I have impressed so strongly on the ratepayers that such a measure would press most heavily upon them, that I believe a healthy spirit has been roused; and that there will not be that wholesale trade of imposition practised which prevailed during the last and preceding years: at the same time it must be admitted that there is much distress and misery amongst the small landholders, who will not give up possession; and it is this class that is alluded to in the various representations made respecting the island of Valencia.

The number now receiving in-door relief exceeds 1200. There are 200 female children lodged in two convenient houses close to the town (but separated by a branch of the harbour), where they sleep and are fed under the care of a superintendent and the schoolmistress. In the immediate vicinity of the workhouse a house is appropriated solely for nurses and infants: this is a great relief to the workhouse, as this class is always most difficult of management. About 350 men and boys occupy other houses near the workhouse as dormitories only. By these means the Vice-Guardians have been able to treble the in-door relief; and as soon as the sheds shall be made habitable 120 more may be admitted.

The great evil is the want of clothing. I had made arrangements for the immediate supply of 300 suits, but it appears the contract had expired, and the Guardians did not feel themselves at liberty to sanction what I had done, but have advertised for tenders. I am sorry for this delay, but believe they have acted in strict accordance with your instructions.

Somewhat more than one-third of the 3s. rate has been collected, and many of the highest ratepayers have promised payment immediately after the fair, which takes place next week.

An application has been made by the Roman Catholic clergyman of Glenbeigh for a medical officer, recommending the appointment of his brother. It appeared to me very objectionable to place the whole operations of relief under the control of one family—the one brother having the entire patronage of four national schools, in which 740 children are fed, the other being the relieving officer; and it was not shown satisfactorily that sickness to any extraordinary extent was prevalent. The Vice-Guardians did not, therefore, feel themselves under the necessity of applying to you under the 5th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, which was communicated to the reverend gentleman, on which he wrote to the Vice-Guardians, saying that the people were dying almost daily of disease and starvation; and though he felt bound in conscience to mention these things, that, of course, the Guardians would not notice them. I had the relieving officer before me on Thursday, when one of the clergy of this parish and many other persons were present, and examined him closely as to whether any person had died during the last three weeks, after applying to him for relief;—if so, had he refused relief; and on what grounds; and whether the Guardians had supplied him with the means of relieving all cases of sudden emergency. He fully admitted that he had no knowledge of any such cases; that he must have known of them had they occurred; and that he had money at command. I was glad, of an opportunity of giving so complete a negative to a grave charge—affecting not only my own character, but that of gentlemen who are unceasing in their endeavours to perform their arduous duties conscientiously.

The ratepayers generally are very desirous that relieving officers should be appointed for each electoral division. I think this might be done as a temporary measure under the present pressure. The electoral divisions of Caher and Killinane are at present combined; the population is about 10,000, and the area 46,000 acres, embracing the most destitute part of the Union; and though I recommended Prior and Killemenagh to be united, which, in appearance on the map, form a very compact district, I find the communication is intercepted by a range of mountains, is always difficult, and often impracticable. I think it would therefore be desirable to appoint temporary relieving officers for Killinane and Prior.

I have great reason to be satisfied with the manner in which the master and matron of the workhouse have conducted their duties under no ordinary difficulties. The house is kept beautifully clean throughout, and, comparatively speaking, there are few disorderly or refractory cases. I felt it so necessary to make a prompt example of any that might arise, that last week I had three tailors brought before the court of petty sessions for refusing to work, who were sentenced to a month's imprisonment, with hard labour. Cahiriveen Union.

The deaths in the infirmary have been few—the last week only nine. I am informed that at this period of last year from 20 to 30 died weekly, when the inmates of the house only averaged about 350. I think, considering the character of extreme destitution which has always been attached to this Union, that the facts of no out-door relief having been required until within the last fortnight, and that out-door relief to the able-bodied is not yet absolutely necessary, show that the benefits I anticipated from the dissolution of the late Board of Guardians were not overrated.

REPLY to the above :—February 8, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners are prepared to take into their consideration the re-construction of the relief districts, as you suggest.

I am at the same time to request that you will have the goodness to communicate on the subject with the Vice-Guardians, in order that they may record on the minutes of their proceedings at their next meeting the arrangement which they may propose to make.

Colonel CLARKE to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 10, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report to you that at the ordinary meeting of the Vice-Guardians which took place this day, tenders were put in for the supply of clothing and bedding, which will relieve the most pressing necessity.

The clerk of works has arrived, and will proceed immediately to making the temporary sheds habitable, and erecting the boundary wall. It is desirable that I should know the exact sum that remains from the building loan, in order to regulate the expenditure accordingly.

I am gratified in being able to state that there is a manifest improvement in the appearance of the paupers generally, and most particularly with the children; and when they shall be clothed it will make a very great improvement in their condition. There were this day 1241 in the workhouse and auxiliary buildings; of these 155 were in hospital, not a very great proportion, considering the condition of those who came into the house. Deaths are very few, and from what I can learn, malignant disease was never less known in this part of the country.

There is much importunity for relief by those who will not go into the workhouse; but there is no turbulence nor disorder, and I believe the determined attitude assumed by the Guardians has been mainly instrumental in producing that effect. About 6000 individuals, including those in the schools, are now led with the greatest order and regularity; and I believe few now remain who can be relieved under the Poor Law; but the lists will increase weekly by the addition of those whom circumstances will oblige to give up their land.

Rathkeale Union.

RATHKEALE UNION.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain MAXWELL :—December 7, 1847.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you the enclosed copy of a letter which they have received from the clerk to the Board of Guardians of the Rathkeale Union, reporting a resolution of the Guardians, urging the necessity of authorizing the administration of out-door relief to the able-bodied poor in that Union; I am also to forward for your information, a form of an Order which they are about to issue to the Rathkeale Union previous to the meeting of the Guardians on Friday next, and I am to request that you will be so good as to proceed to Rathkeale, and inquire and report to the Commissioners, with the least possible delay, as to whether it is or is not advisable to issue a further Order authorizing out-door relief to the able-bodied men in Rathkeale Union.

ENCLOSURES.

I.

Mr. HALL, Clerk to the Guardians, to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 4, 1847.

At the meeting of the Board of Guardians of Rathkeale Union on yesterday, the 3rd instant, it was resolved,—

That we find from our own knowledge, and from the information of our relieving officers, that large masses of the labouring poor in this Union are in the most destitute state, living solely on turnips, without work of any kind.

That our workhouse is unable to contain anything like the number of destitute persons who seek for admission, and that although we are preparing an old building to enable us to accommodate 500 more paupers, it cannot be got ready in less than a month.

That under these circumstances we again apply to the Commissioners to authorize us to give out-door relief to those destitute persons who have no food, and no employment to earn it, until we can find room in our workhouse to sustain.

That we make this request with the greatest unwillingness after the refusal lately sent us from the Poor Law Commissioners, and we suggest that if the Commissioners will not permit us to give full rations, that they will allow us to give those destitute persons half rations, to save them from the effects of living on turnips alone.

That our chairman be requested to send these resolutions to the Poor Law Commissioners, in the hope of their permitting us to grant this proportion of relief, which with what turnips they can obtain may for a time sustain life.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. HALL, Clerk to the Guardians :—December 9, 1847.

I AM directed by the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, reporting a resolution of the Board of Guardians of Rathkeale Union on the 3rd instant, in which they request the Commissioners to authorise them to grant out-door relief to the destitute poor in the Union.

In reference thereto, I am to state that the Commissioners have issued an Order under section 2 of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, authorizing the administration of out-door relief to other classes than those specified in the 1st section of that Act; a copy of the Order was transmitted by last night's post.

The Guardians will observe that the relief authorized by the Order is limited to relief in food to destitute widows, with one child dependent on them, respectively, to destitute children whose parents are dead, and to destitute able-bodied men, of whose families one or more members dependent on them are affected by severe illness or serious accident; and the Commissioners desire to impress on the Guardians the necessity of their administering relief under this Order strictly to the classes therein specified, and in the mode prescribed.

The Commissioners have requested their Temporary Inspector, Mr. Maxwell, to visit the Union with special reference to this subject, and on receiving his report the Commissioners will, if necessary, address the Guardians further.

II.

RATHKEALE UNION.

To the Guardians of the Poor of the RATHKEALE UNION; to the Clerk or Clerks to the Justices of the Petty Sessions, held for the Division or Divisions in which the Townlands and Places comprised within the said Union are situated, and to all others whom it may concern.

WHEREAS it has been shown to our satisfaction, that, by reason of the want of room in the workhouse of the Rathkeale Union, adequate relief cannot be afforded to destitute poor persons, being widows with one child dependant on them respectively; or to destitute poor persons, being children whose parents are both dead; or to destitute poor persons being able-bodied men, one or more members of whose families dependent on them for support are affected by severe sickness or serious accident:

Now, therefore, we, the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, do hereby authorize and empower the Guardians of the said Union, for the period of one month from the date of this order, to administer relief out of the workhouse in food to such destitute persons as aforesaid, being widows with one child dependent on them respectively; or being children whose parents are both dead; or being able-bodied men, one or more members of whose families dependent on them for support are affected by severe sickness or serious accident.

Sealed with our seal, this eighth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven.

Captain MAXWELL to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 10, 1847.

IN compliance with your communication of 7th December, 1847, I proceeded to Rathkeale, and made every inquiry in my power into the state of that Union. I am informed that the distress is beginning to be severely felt very generally; that the supply of food of the poorer classes is now nearly exhausted, and that the employment formerly given is now withheld from the labouring classes. I therefore think that it will be advisable to authorize out-door relief to the able-bodied, but would suggest that the Guardians be first compelled to make the necessary arrangements to carry out the labour test.

I find that the workhouse is full; the Guardians are preparing a large building in the town to contain 500 persons, this house will be ready in about three weeks. There is another house available, I am informed, which would accommodate about 100 more. The idiot wards would contain from 20 to 30, there are five inmates at present in them. The infirmary, which is now entirely vacant, is calculated to contain 200 persons.

REPLY to the above:—December 18, 1847.

I AM to forward for your information, the enclosed copy of a letter which the Commissioners have addressed to the Board of Guardians, relative to the administration of out-door relief to the able-bodied.

ENCLOSURE.

The COMMISSIONERS to the CLERK to the GUARDIANS:—December 16, 1847.

WITH reference to the resolution of the Board of Guardians of Rathkeale Union on the 3rd instant, on the subject of out-door relief, and to the Commissioners' letter to you in reply, I am directed by the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, to state that they have received Mr. Maxwell's report; and I am to forward herewith, for the information of the Guardians, a copy of an order which they have issued in another Union, authorizing out-door relief under Section 2 of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act to the able-bodied.

I am at the same time to state that if the Guardians are of opinion that the issuing of an order authorizing out-door relief to able-bodied men is absolutely required, the Commissioners will not object to issue an order accordingly. But the Guardians should make preparation beforehand for acting on it, as otherwise the Commissioners are afraid that the same abuses might arise which are known to have been in operation in Newcastle Union during the period subsequent to the first issuing of the order to the Newcastle Guardians.

The Commissioners, however, are still not without hope that the Guardians may by great exertions be enabled to dispense with the issuing of the order in the Rathkeale Union at the present time.

Rathkeale Union.

ORDER referred to in the foregoing Letter.

WESTPORT UNION.

To the Paid Officers acting in execution of the duties of the Board of Guardians of the WESTPORT UNION; to the Clerk and other Officers of the said Union; and to all other persons whom it may concern.

WHEREAS it has been shown to our satisfaction, that by reason of the want of room in the workhouse of the said Union, adequate relief cannot be afforded therein to destitute poor persons not being persons permanently disabled, or destitute poor persons disabled by sickness or accident, or destitute poor widows having two or more legitimate children dependent on them, and it is expedient to authorize and empower the paid officers acting in execution of the duties of the Board of Guardians of the said Union to administer relief out of the workhouse to such destitute poor persons, for a limited time as hereinafter mentioned.

Now, therefore, we, the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, do hereby authorize and empower the said paid officers to administer relief out of the workhouse, in food, to destitute poor persons not being persons permanently disabled from labour by reason of old age, infirmity, or bodily or mental defect, and not being persons disabled from labour by reason of severe sickness or serious accident, and thereby deprived of the means of earning a subsistence for themselves and their families, whom they are liable by law to maintain, and not being poor widows, having two or more legitimate children dependent on them, for two months next ensuing after the date of this order.

And we do hereby make the following rules and regulations as to the granting, ordering, and giving of relief to all persons who shall be relieved by the said paid officers, under the authority of this order, that is to say:—

1. Every person relieved under the authority of this order shall be relieved in food only, and such food shall, as far as is practicable, be cooked food.
2. Every able-bodied male person relieved under the authority of this order shall, so far as is practicable, be set to perform a task of work during eight hours at least of every day for which he receives such relief.
3. No able-bodied person who shall be in employment, nor any part of his or her family, shall receive relief as a destitute person under the authority of this order.

And for the more effectual administration of relief under this order, we do hereby authorize and direct the said paid officers to appoint so many relieving officers as shall be found sufficient from time to time, to superintend the labour of such persons as shall be set to work, in pursuance of the regulations in this order contained, and otherwise to assist in the administration of relief under this order, as the said paid officers, subject to our approval, shall direct.

Sealed with our seal, this seventh day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven.

T. N. REDINGTON.

Mr. HALL, Clerk to the Guardians, to the COMMISSIONERS:—
December 18, 1847.

At the meeting of the Board of Guardians of Rathkeale Union on yesterday, the 17th instant, your letter of the 16th instant, in reference to the resolution of the Board on the 3rd instant, on the subject of out-relief being read, together with the copy of the out-relief order issued to the Westport Union, it was resolved,—

“That before calling on the Commissioners to issue an order for general out-relief to the able-bodied, we consider it advisable to ascertain how far the order of the 8th instant for giving out-relief to certain additional classes, which has been but a very short period in operation, will be effective in relieving the existing destitution of the labouring classes.”

The Lord MONTEAGLE to the COMMISSIONERS—Proposed Annexation of certain Townlands to Shanagolden Electoral Division:—November 18, 1847.

I AM directed by the members of the Shanagolden Relief Committee to bring under your consideration the present divisions of our neighbourhood into the two electoral divisions of Shanagolden and Loughill. The inconveniences arising out of the mode in which these districts are partitioned have long been felt, but since the introduction of out-door relief are greatly increased. The whole social connexion of the eastern parts of the Loughill district is with Shanagolden and not with Loughill. The identity of property, of ecclesiastical government, and of vicinage between Shanagolden and many townlands now united with Loughill, is so obvious as to require no argument beyond the mere recital. Rathkeale Union.

The facilities of obtaining the allowances required and granted for the relief of the old and sick—the local knowledge required for the relieving officers and for the Guardians is lessened or rendered unattainable by the present geographical division; above all, by the partition of properties, the bond of private interest, which ought to induce the inheritors of land to invest capital for the improvement of their estates and the employment of their people, is severed altogether.

It is, therefore, the opinion of the Committee, which in their name I am desired to communicate to you, that the following townlands might be advantageously annexed to the electoral division of Shanagolden :

Clountees,	Ballymorris,	Clashganneff
Ballyanne,	Knockgoura,	Ballybawn,
Bansmore,	Gourbane,	Toodegbee,
Clouncloghessy,	Rathfroder,	Turamore,
Breseagh,	Monekeal,	Rathfarra,
Waterpark,	Moeg,	Kilmoylan Glebe.
Shaned, E. and W.,

The Committee, therefore, earnestly request, that for the benefit of the district, and more especially for the benefit of the classes entitled to relief, the Poor Law Commissioners may exert their power in making a revision of the present electoral division by the formation of another arrangement more consistent with public convenience and justice to all concerned.

Mr. HANCOCK, Poor Law Inspector, to the COMMISSIONERS :—
December 6, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 19th November, forwarding to me a letter enclosed which they had received from Lord Monteagle, suggesting that certain townlands should be annexed to the Shanagolden electoral division of the Rathkeale Union.

I also procured a return from the clerk to the Guardians of the names of the owners of property likely to be affected by the proposed alteration, as well as a copy of the application from Lord Monteagle, as chairman of the Shanagolden Relief Committee, to the Board of Guardians. The Guardians did not entertain the question of the proposed alteration.

As I found that Lord Clare had considerable interest in the question, I postponed my report until I had an opportunity of seeing him, and it was not until last Wednesday that I had the opportunity. Lord Clare had not heard of the proposition; and he is entirely opposed to any such change, and considers the answer given to the trustees of the Earl of Devon to be final, conclusive, and very satisfactory upon the estate area question.

It does not appear from any document furnished me, that Lord Monteagle has undertaken to pay the rates for the occupiers of his lands.

I beg to recommend that a copy of the letter to the trustees of the Earl of Devon, Newcastle Union, be forwarded to Lord Monteagle.

ENCLOSURES.

SIR, Rathkeale Union, November 23, 1847.

IN conformity with your request, I send herewith a copy of Lord Monteagle's letter regarding the electoral divisions of Loughill and Shanagolden, together with a list of the immediate and principal landlords of the rateable property in such divisions.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. HANCOCK in reply:—December 10, 1847.

I AM to request that you will be so good as again to inquire and report specially on the request of the Shanagolden Committee, in reference to that part of their memorial in which they state that the whole social connexion of the eastern parts of the Loughill district is with Shanagolden and not with Loughill; that the identity of property, of ecclesiastical government, and of vicinage, between Shanagolden and many townlands now united with Loughill, is obvious; and that the facilities of obtaining the allowances required and granted for the relief of the old and sick; and the local knowledge required for the relieving officers and for the Guardians, is lessened, or rendered unattainable by the present geographical division.

The Commissioners would not have referred the memorial to you, if it had merely involved the principle disposed of in the answer to the trustees of the Earl of Devon. There are, however, other important considerations which have been adverted to in the memorial of the Shanagolden Committee; and it is with regard to these considerations, which require local knowledge, in order to bring out all the facts of the case, that the Commissioners were, and still are, desirous that you should inquire and report to them.

The papers are herewith returned to you.

The COMMISSIONERS to Lord MONTEAGLE:—January 5, 1848.

I AM to acquaint your lordship that the Commissioners' Inspector, Mr. Hancock (who is confined to bed by severe illness), has returned to them, undischarged, the papers which were referred to him for his report, relative to the request made by the Shanagolden Relief Committee, that certain townlands might be annexed to the Shanagolden electoral division of Rathkeale Union.

The Commissioners will, however, take the earliest opportunity of obtaining such a report, founded on local inquiry, as will enable them to come to a decision on the proposal.

Captain MAXWELL to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 8, 1848.

IMMEDIATELY on the receipt of your communication of the 6th January, 1848, I proceeded to Rathkeale, and put myself in communication with the Board of Guardians, with a view of obtaining the information necessary to enable me to report on the subject of the annexation of certain townlands to the Shanagolden electoral division.

I conceive that the plan I now propose would remedy the inconveniences complained of in Lord Monteagle's letter, without making any alteration in the electoral divisions as they now stand; viz., to join the electoral division of Shanagolden and Loughill in one relief district, under one relieving officer, giving him, by this arrangement, a population of 7618 to attend to. One food depôt to be at the village of Shanagolden, the other at the village of Loughill, in both of which there are police stations. The paupers of the townlands named in Lord Monteagle's letter, to receive their rations at the Shanagolden depôt, which is at a moderate distance, and the distributor to keep the accounts quite distinct.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain MAXWELL:—January 13, 1848.

THE Commissioners regret that they should be obliged to trouble you again on this subject; but on reference to the instructions contained in the Commissioners' letter to you of the 6th instant, and their letter to Mr. Hancock of the 10th of December, it will be seen that the Commissioners require a report on certain facts alleged in the memorial of Shanagolden Relief Committee, and that they referred the subject a second time to Mr. Hancock, after he had made one report, because his first report was insufficient. Under these circumstances they desire to call your especial attention to the following passage contained in their instructions of the 10th December to Mr. Hancock, which, by the Commissioners' letter of the 6th instant to you, are made a part of your instructions:—

“I am to request that you will be so good as again to inquire and report specially on the request of the Shanagolden Committee, in reference to that part of their memorial in which they state that the whole social connexion of the eastern parts of the Loughill district is with Shanagolden, and not with Loughill; that the identity of property, of ecclesiastical government, and vicinage, between Shanagolden and many townlands now united with Loughill is obvious; and that the facilities of obtaining the allowances required and granted for the relief of the old and sick, and the local knowledge required for the relieving officers and for the Guardians is lessened, and rendered unattainable by the present geographical division.”

So much delay has already taken place in reference to this case, that the Commissioners will be obliged by your reporting to them, in accordance with the above instructions, at your earliest convenience.

The documents relating to the case are herewith returned to you.

Captain MAXWELL to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 14, 1848.

IN obedience to instructions contained in your letter of the 13th January, I proceeded to Rathkeale, and attended the Board of Guardians at their weekly meeting. From the information I there received, I find that 11 of the townlands named in his lordship's letter (in the electoral division of Loughill) are his lordship's property. He is also the proprietor of part of the town of Shanagolden, and part of the electoral division adjoining Loughill eastern division.

The townlands proposed to be annexed to Shanagolden are all in the Roman Catholic parish of Shanagolden, and under the charge of one priest. These townlands are also in the vicinity of Shanagolden; this is their town of resort.

The Guardians are decidedly averse to any change being made in the electoral divisions, but have already recommended that the paupers of these townlands receive out-door relief at the Shanagolden food depôt. This has not been carried into effect yet from press of business.

The Guardian of Loughill division dissents, and advocates the change in the eastern division, because it would be of service to Lord Monteagle and to the people on his property.

The Guardians had discussed this subject before in presence of his lordship, and Rathkeale Union. had objected to any change. The object of Lord Monteagle appears to be plainly to get the whole of his property into one electoral division.

All the difficulties and inconveniences complained of in his lordship's letter, with regard to the districts of relieving officers and the distribution of food, will be removed by the arrangements detailed in my letter of the 8th January, 1848, and the Guardians are prepared to carry them into effect without any further delay.

The BOARD of GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 15, 1848.

AT the meeting of the Guardians of Rathkeale Union on yesterday, the 14th instant, Captain Maxwell, Poor Law Inspector, attended the meeting in reference to the proposed annexation of certain townlands in Loughill electoral division to the electoral division of Shanagolden; and the subject having been explained to the Board, and by them taken into consideration, it was resolved :—

“ That we do not consider it would be desirable or generally advantageous that “ any alteration should be made in the electoral divisions of Loughill and Shana-“ golden; but for the accommodation of the recipients of out-relief in the electoral “ division of Loughill, the suggestion of the Board on a former occasion, that all “ persons entitled to out-relief in the eastern portion of that division should receive “ their rations at Shanagolden, as being more conveniently situated for the pur“ pose, shall be immediately carried into execution.”

ADVERTING to your lordship's letter of the 18th November last, relative to the proposed annexation of certain townlands to Shanagolden electoral division of Rathkeale Union, I am to acquaint your lordship, for the information of the Shanagolden Relief Committee, that the Commissioners have given much attention to their proposition, and they have received a report from their Inspector, Captain Maxwell, and have communicated with the Rathkeale Board of Guardians on the subject. After duly considering all the circumstances of the case, the Commissioners do not propose to make any alteration in the boundaries of the Loughill and Shanagolden electoral divisions; but, at the same time, they are not insensible to the evils pointed out in the report of the Shanagolden Relief Committee.

The Commissioners are informed that the Board of Guardians of Rathkeale Union is decidedly averse to any change being made in the boundaries of the electoral divisions; but the Commissioners are likewise assured that the Guardians will remedy the evils complained of, and that they have already recommended that the paupers of these townlands receive out-door relief at the Shanagolden food depôt, though this recommendation has not yet been carried into effect, owing to the pressure of business.

Captain Maxwell expresses a decided opinion that all the difficulties and inconveniences complained of, with regard to the districts of relieving officers and the distribution of food, will be removed by joining the electoral divisions of Shanagolden and Loughill in one relief district, under one relieving officer; one food depôt to be in the village of Shanagolden, the other at the village of Loughill, with the understanding that the paupers from the townlands named in your lordship's letter should receive their rations at Shanagolden depôt, which is at a moderate distance from the townlands. Captain Maxwell further states, that the Guardians are prepared to carry this arrangement into effect without further delay.

SKIBBEREEN UNION.

Extract from the Cork Southern Reporter Newspaper:—November 11, 1847.

SKIBBEREEN BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

THE Relieving Officer complained that no provision was made for persons recommended, for whom there was no room in the house; that such persons, after travelling long distances, were sent away by the master without a morsel to eat, and that the Relieving Officer had no authority to give them relief.

The master admitted the truth of this; he said he had no room in the house; that one man had travelled, backwards and forwards, 135 miles, seeking an admission ticket, and must have been rejected by him, unless the Rev. Mr. Fitzpatrick had taken upon himself the responsibility of his admission.

The particulars of this man's statement were then given to the Board of Guardians by Mr. Fitzpatrick, of which the following is a summary:—

Miles.	Curly Cocklan, living at Camgaeet, 27 miles from Skibbereen work house, having got a recommendation from his clergyman, he travelled
27	to the poor-house with his family, consisting of a wife and five children, the eldest 15, the youngest carried on the mother's back.
27	The relieving officer, Williamson, refused him a ticket till he had seen the man's house; he then walked back, leaving his wife and child in Skibbereen.
27	The relieving officer visited the house next day, refused a ticket, because the wife and children were not there; he then travelled back to bring them.
27	He returned home with them next day; he then got the ticket and went
27	back with his family, when he was admitted, as before stated; thus, the
135	man walked 135 miles, and the wife, with a child on her back, 108 miles.

N.B. Many other important statements were made by Mr. Fitzpatrick.

The case was inquired into by the Board.

Mr. Fleming stated Cocklan was his tenant, but would neither pay rent nor give up his land. Cocklan was then examined, stated he had a joint farm with his brothers, that he had offered 12 months ago to give up his land, but the landlord would not take it, as his brothers refused to give up their parts. Mr. Townsend, of Raheen, is then reported as saying, "Turn this fellow out of the house, we will make these fellows be honest, &c."

The report does not state the further result, but leaves it to be supposed the man was turned out.

Mr. Charles Galway is stated to have afterwards proposed a resolution, to the effect that application be made to the Commissioners for authority to give out-door relief to the able-bodied, the house being full.

Carried, with one dissenting voice, Mr. Fleming.

Will Sir William Somerville be so kind as to inquire whether the above statements are true? whether Cocklan was turned out or not? and what answer has been given to the foregoing resolution by the Poor Law Commissioners?

W. S. C.

The above proceedings must have been at the meeting of the Board, either on Thursday, the 11th November, or the Thursday preceding, the 4th instant; the report in the newspaper does not clearly indicate which of those days.

Mr. MARSHALL'S OBSERVATIONS on foregoing:—November 30, 1847.

WITH reference to the case of Cornelius Coghlan, I have the honour to report for the information of the Commissioners, that the greater part of the statement, as it appeared in the "Cork Southern Reporter," is correct; he was not discharged, but still remains in the workhouse of Skibbereen Union with his family; his father held a farm for some years under Mr. Fleming, which he divided among his three sons, each of whom paid their portion of rent to Mr. Fleming, in all amounting to 15*l.* yearly.

Two years rent is now due. Cornelius Coghlan was reduced to a pauper, and gave his share of the land to his brothers; he left home in August last to obtain work at the harvest, and returned in October with 10*s.*; he spent all but 3*s.* in the support of his family; he brought his wife and family, as stated, to obtain admission to the workhouse, but the Relieving Officer could not give a ticket without first visiting his place of residence; during the time he was returning to Killmoe, where he resided, he left his family in Skibbereen with means of support, and they don't appear to have been without that till they were admitted.

No blame appears to be attached to any party but the man himself; had he made the proper application, in the first instance, he would have had his case investigated, and not have been sent forward when there was no room, and for this reason he was obliged to travel the distance stated.

Coghlan is a strong able-bodied man; the relieving officer got directions not to send forward paupers to the workhouse unless there was room for them.

Arrangements have been made so that few will be disappointed; but from the number of applications at first, some cases of hardship occurred, which were unavoidable.

With reference to the resolution passed on the 4th November, at the Board of Guardians, for an order to give out-door relief to the able-bodied class, only six Guardians were present. Mr. Aylmer, the Chairman, gave his decided opinion against the resolution, but could not vote. Mr. Fleming voted against it. It was suggested that additional accommodation be had for able-bodied paupers, and every means taken to prevent the necessity of resorting to such an alternative of giving out-door relief to that class. This has been done, and accommodation is now given to those applying for admission, which will prevent the necessity of having the resolution complied with by the Commissioners; which would, if carried out, have a most injurious effect upon the Union generally, as when room is to be had in the workhouse, and the test is applied, the application for tickets are not so numerous.

Mr. MARSHALL to the COMMISSIONERS:—November 30, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to report that I returned from Skull this day, and attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians.

I have also to report that stores have been taken and are in course of fitting up, in which all the children can be placed permanently, and in which also upwards of 600 adults can have sleeping accommodation, which will afford considerable increase of room to test the able-bodied paupers who are at present seeking admission to the workhouse. No time will be lost in carrying those arrangements into effect. Assistants to the relieving officers, in certain districts, were offered where the duties were too great; but this assistance is limited to one month, by which time the destitute poor in the three classes for out-door relief shall be upon the lists, and the pressure less severe.

Numbers of Committees composed of the local Guardians were named in districts more than six miles from the workhouse, who will also assist much in carrying out the relief to those requiring it, and by which the duties of the Board will be lessened.

I have ordered the relieving officer to furnish me with a return weekly, of the number of adults and children receiving out-door relief in each electoral division daily, and am adopting means to ascertain the probable number of unemployed able-bodied persons and their families in the Union (not holding land), with a view to judge of the relief that may be required for that class, and who cannot be received in the workhouse, should a plan be adopted to afford them relief for labour of a profitable kind, similar to that I proposed in a late communication. I fear the number will be great, particularly in the western division, where no employment is to be had.

The turnips which were sown last season, have been of great benefit to the people; excellent bread is made from these and Indian meal, and from the advantages derived from this crop, a large quantity is likely to be sown next season, and also parsnips and other vegetables. In many districts every preparation is making to plant potatoes, and the seed is being preserved with great care. Under these circumstances employment in spring will be more easily had for the poor; a greater variety of cropping is likely to be adopted, which is so much to be desired. I propose to accompany Assistant Commissary-General Dobree to-morrow to Skull and Crookhaven, to examine as to stores should they be wanted, in the western district, and afford him as much information as possible. I shall return for the meeting of the Board of Guardians on Thursday, at which some important matters are to be brought forward.

Mr. MARSHALL to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 2, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to report, that I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians this day, when the motion was brought forward to apply to the Poor Law Commissioners for paid Guardians, but it was negatived by a large majority. There was a long discussion on the subject, which will tend to much good, as those who opposed that motion brought forward arguments to show the necessity of the united exertions of the Guardians, and not to relinquish their duties at this time; but to carry out the law to the fullest extent, and assist the Commissioners in that object, for the relief of the poor and the improvement of the Union. Great harmony prevailed, and those who supported the motion (although lost) stated they would not relax in their exertions with the other Guardians, but continue to act.

Several suggestions were made to adopt more effectual means of meeting the difficulties. I took the liberty of reading to the Guardians the copy of the letter from the Commissioners to the Glenties Union, in order to show the feeling of the Commissioners on the subject of paid Guardians, and it had a very desirable effect in the decision to which the majority came. I brought forward again the state of the accounts, and from their present confused state, although attempts have been made to arrange them, it will be necessary to obtain the services of a competent person to wind them up. The fault, it appears, lay with the late master; and from the deplorable state of the house last winter, when the Guardians could not venture near it, the clothing and provision accounts got into arrear.

The clerk, although he got an assistant, has so much business connected with the relieving officers and the collectors, that he could not have them arranged in proper time. A resolution was passed to-day, requesting me to apply to the Commissioners for their sanction to employ a competent clerk for a fortnight for this purpose. There has been a balance of 40*l.* stopped from the late master, till his accounts be settled. Could the Guardians appropriate a part of this to the payment of the person required? or can they pay it out of the funds of the Union?

It is extremely necessary that every means be taken to have the accounts regular. I have made several attempts, but I see no other mode of having them arranged but the mode proposed.

I have arranged to take stock of all the clothing in the workhouse on Monday next; by which I shall ascertain the present wants of the inmates.

The rate-collectors' books were not ready for signing this day, but shall be early next week. A delay arose from the revisor having had to make several alterations before the new books could be filled.

Arrangements are in progress to carry into immediate effect the benevolent and highly valuable plan proposed by the British Relief Association, to afford relief to those children attending the schools in this Union; this will be of the greatest advantage in many ways, and be a means of saving numerous lives; as, when an able-bodied man sees his children fed at these schools, he will exert himself to obtain for his own support a subsistence, and not apply for admission into the workhouse.

The plan is considered a great boon, and is hailed with gratitude by all classes. I shall draw up a few necessary regulations, with regard to the cleanliness, &c., and care of the children by their parents, and also endeavour to make it one of the stipulations, that the parents of those receiving relief in this way shall attend to cleanliness in their own houses, which is so necessary to preserve the health of the district.

REPLY to the above:—December 7, 1847.

THE Commissioners think that the Guardians should consider what part of the expense of employing an accountant to arrange the Union accounts should fall upon the clerk of the Union, and what part upon the late master of the workhouse.

Skibbereen Union.

As regards the power of the Guardians to deduct from the salary of a Union officer, I am to state that, on the one hand, the Guardians have the power of taking proceedings against a Union officer for neglect of duty, and on the other hand, the officer is entitled to payment of his salary after his accounts have been audited.

It frequently happens that deductions are made from the salaries of Union officers to meet expenses incurred in arranging accounts which have got into arrear or confusion by their neglect.

Mr. MARSHALL to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 8, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to report that I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians yesterday at the Union Workhouse, when the relieving officers' books and accounts were examined and checked. Upwards of 7000 persons are on the out-door relief lists of the three classes. No other business was transacted.

The master is having the stores prepared for the reception of the children and adults, some of which will be ready this evening.

The arrangements for giving food to the children in the schools, through the British Association, are going on, and this valuable relief will be afforded generally throughout the Union in a few days, by which a great change will be made upon the relief lists, and the pressure upon the Guardians will be much less. There are 96 schools in the Union, at which 5568 children are attending at present, but it is calculated that 10,000 will attend when the relief proposed is in operation. The houses would contain fully that number.

The collectors' books will be signed on Thursday next, and the 3s. rate, with the arrears, put in collection immediately.

REPLY to the above :—December 11, 1847.

I AM to request that you will be so good as to state whether the great number of persons on the out-door relief lists, at present exceeding 7000, answer the description of destitute persons, as given in the 1st section of the Act 10 Vict. cap. 31, to whom out-door relief is now limited.

I am also to request that the Commissioners may be informed of the number of each of the three classes given in that section, now receiving relief out of the workhouse.

The Commissioners deem it right to point out, that the auditor will be bound rigidly to disallow in the Union accounts, all sums expended for relief which shall not have been given in accordance with the Irish Poor Relief Act, and with the Commissioners' regulations. It is further the settled intention of the Commissioners that every individual or individuals debited by the auditor with the sums disallowed by him, shall be proceeded against under the 28th section of the Irish Relief Extension Act, and shall become responsible for the money of the rate-payers which he or they may have expended contrary to law.

I HAVE the honour to report that I attended at the workhouse on Tuesday, the 14th instant, but a sufficient number of Guardians were not present to form a Board to sign the relieving officers' books.

I read to the relieving officers your letter of the 11th instant, with reference to issuing out-door relief to those only in the three classes as specified by the Poor Law Acts, and cautioned them against acting contrary to their instructions under this head.

I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians this day, when all the collectors' books that were filled up were signed, and orders given to proceed at once to the collection of the 3s. rate, together with the arrears; the remainder of the books shall be filled up and signed next day of meeting; additional securities have been required and the bonds perfected.

The boys have been removed to the store fitted up for their permanent accommodation as a school, about a mile from Skibbereen; the other stores are in course of preparation also. There are vacancies in the workhouse at present for 100 paupers, but there is great want of clothing.

A contract has been made lately for a supply but not yet received.

Skibbereen Union.

About 60 schools in the Union are in operation, supplying the children in attendance with food, through the British Relief Association, which will afford much relief to the Union, and be a means of lessening the pressure both upon the workhouse and the out-door relief lists; upwards of 100 schools will be in operation by Monday next, and from 10 to 12,000 children shall receive food through this channel in the Skibbereen Union.

I have given directions to the relieving officers to discontinue rations to all children from 5 to 14 years of age, in those electoral divisions where the schools are in operation, and every care shall be taken to keep up regularity with a view to their education and cleanliness, by which it is expected the habits of the children will be much improved and their health also.

With reference to the number receiving out-door relief at present in the Union in each class, I cannot in this report give the required information; returns have been ordered to be sent to me by the relieving officers, but this shall be forwarded without delay. A competent person has been engaged to wind up the accounts of the Union, who is to be paid not by the Union but by the late master, and the present clerk. No time will be lost in having this highly important business completed.

The Union continues upon the whole in a comparatively healthy state. Dysentery prevails in some localities, but few deaths, and very few cases of fever, except those provided for by hospital accommodation.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. MARSHALL:—December 22, 1847.

THE Commissioners have received from Mr. Phelan, Poor Law Inspector, a communication, from which it appears that there is some intention of permitting persons recently admitted into the workhouse of the Skibbereen Union, to wear the clothes which they have on when entering the house, and in reference thereto I am directed to state that the Commissioners consider that the admission of paupers into the workhouse without changing their clothes ought not to be allowed by the Board of Guardians, as calculated to spread disease in the workhouse. I am at the same time to suggest the expediency of giving to paupers, already in the house their own washed clothes, and then cleansing the workhouse clothing which they now wear, to put on the additional paupers admitted while their own clothing shall be washing. By such an expedient, pending the preparation of additional supplies of new clothing which ought to be expedited, the danger of contagion will be lessened. You are requested to be good enough to instruct the workhouse officers immediately on the point.

Mr. HALY, Secretary of the British Association, to Mr. TREVELYAN:—
January 10, 1848.

You will be pleased to hear, that our relief to the poor children is being carried out most satisfactorily.

It is estimated that 58,000 children, attending various schools in the western Unions, are now receiving daily rations supplied by the Association. In the Skibbereen Union, 12,000 are being thus fed, and Mr. Marshall reports that this number will shortly be increased to 15,000.

Each ration consists of 8, 10, or 12 ozs. (according to the age of the children) of rye bread, to which is added half a pint of warm broth, generally made from one of Soyer's receipts.

The average weekly cost of thus feeding each child is about 4d. a-head.

In many of the Unions, the bread is baked by contract; and to show you how very cheaply it is done, in Glenties, Captain O'Neil contracted with bakers for any quantity of bread required, at 3s. per month, fuel and labour included.

The inspecting officers have been requested by Count Strzelecki, to require that water, towels, soap, and combs are provided at each school at which our relief is afforded, and that no child be allowed to partake of his ration without having first well washed his face, and hands, and combed his hair.

I enclose you a copy of a very interesting letter, addressed by Mr. Marshall, of the Skibbereen Union, to Count Strzelecki, which will show you more particularly how this relief is being extended in that Union, and how very beneficially it is working.

I HAVE the honour to report, for your information, that since my last communication of the 8th instant, I have been completing the arrangements to provide for the children in all the schools in the Skibbereen Union, and have the whole in operation, but have not yet received the returns of those first commenced; they shall be forwarded to you this week. There are a greater number than I anticipated; preparations are making to open new schools in some localities, and I have thought it right not to discourage this, as destitution prevails to a great extent, and so efficient relief cannot be afforded in any other way with the same beneficial results, both as regards the health of the children and the improvement of their habits. In some cases, the clergymen have given the use of the chapels, which afford great accommodation, and good air, and prevent the over-crowding of the schools, as much danger would be apprehended if that were allowed. The education is attended to as far as possible.

I have thought it right to disallow the children of those parents who have sufficient means to support them, to give room for the destitute poor.

I beg to mention, that there are a few infant schools in the Union established some time by the ladies, who have been most active in their management; and I have taken the liberty of affording them small grants of food, as they tend to much good in bringing even the very young up in a system of order and cleanliness, which their parents could not effect, and these schools are extremely well managed.

I have been able, only in a few cases, to make contracts for bread, as all the bakers at this time are busily engaged; but in the course of a fortnight I expect to have more bread prepared, and so soon as ovens can be built, and rye meal and Indian meal procured, I shall endeavour to carry out the system of supplying bread as generally as possible. The contract I have had for bread is at 5d. for the 4 lbs., baked in rolls of $\frac{3}{4}$ lb. each, which is easy of distribution, made from best whole wheaten meal. Good substantial stirabout is given to supply this want; $\frac{3}{4}$ lb. made into a quart; a pint of which is given at 10 o'clock, A.M., and the other pint at 3 P.M., or immediately before the children leave the school; each brings a vessel and spoon.

For the systematic arrangement of the schools, and the distribution of the food, I have drawn up a form of rules, (a copy of which I beg to enclose for your approval,) which I shall have copied, and supply one to each school, to be posted up for their guidance and regularity. I have also made out forms of returns, in order that the accounts may be checked, and kept properly, to prevent abuse, as far as possible, and from which I shall always see the details of each. I beg to enclose you copies of these forms for your information also.

Mr. Commissary-General Dobree mentioned to me that I should be authorized to appoint persons to cook the food, and be accountable for its distribution; that the masters may devote their whole time to their own duties when the numbers were greater than the masters could manage; the whole at small weekly wages. I have found it necessary to do so; but as I am determined to expend as little of the funds as possible in this way, I allow only 4s. a-week, except in a very few cases, to a competent person, from whom I require security for the honest and faithful discharge of his duty. So soon as I obtain the return of children receiving food, and the expenses up to the 18th instant, which shall be made out weekly, I will forward them; but it is difficult to get so many into a proper system in so short a time. The number of schools will be over 120, and the number of children attending them will be over 12,000. In the western division of this Union (which, having suffered so much, requires considerable aid), the pressure on the workhouse or out-door relief is not so great, as many of the able-bodied class will now look for some means of support by their own exertions, rather than for admission to the workhouse, when their children are fed at the schools; and for this reason I have not discouraged the patrons of schools increasing the accommodation, but rather promote it,—as no system of gratuitous relief can have the same desirable effects.

With regard to the clothing, the children are very many of them in a miserable state for want of sufficient covering, but the providing them with food was the first object.

I would take the liberty of suggesting that a portion of the funds would be extremely well applied in purchasing frieze, flannel and linen, which are made in large quantities in this district, particularly through the exertions of ladies and benevolent individuals, who are endeavouring to provide employment for the females. Almost every article could be provided here in the way of clothing, and at very moderate prices, and they could be made up by the children. By purchasing these articles in the district, it would enable more employment to be given, and encourage industry among all. Several ladies who have quantities on hand have already applied to me on the subject, and as several who obtained grants and donations for the relief of the poor appropriated them in this way, rather than give gratuitous relief, by taking these off their hands at low prices they could carry on the same system of giving employment. It would be most desirable to encourage industry and individual exertion among all, as it can be only by this means that the people can rise from their present state of pauperism and dependence upon charity.

I am much in want of boilers of from 30 to 60 gallons, as those in the Union are generally too large for the schools.

Will you have the goodness to inform me out of what fund will the expenses of erecting boilers, and, in some few cases, sheds, at the schools for cooking the food be paid. I have kept every expense as low as possible, and shall continue to do so; but these cannot be avoided.

I have endeavoured to impress not only on the clergy and gentry, but the rate-payers in general, the necessity of co-operating in this most efficient mode of relief, as, by reducing the rates, it will be a great boon to them as well as to the poor.

I am glad to inform you that the people generally are in much better spirits, as a man, though able to work, when he saw his family of helpless children crying for something to eat and had not the means of relieving them, was cast down and rendered unable even to earn his own bread; but now the case is different, and in place of gratuitous relief being a check to industry, it will stimulate the parents to exertion.

A Roman Catholic clergyman, who had been most violent in complaining of the state of the people lately, came to me a few days ago, and said, that since the children are fed, matters were now become quite cheering, and that the returns of deaths this winter, he expected, would show a great contrast to those of last winter in this Union. I am glad to say the sanitary state of the Union is on the whole good, although dysentery prevails in some parts of it to some extent, but fever is not showing itself to any great degree. In some cases a little rice, as medicine, would be desirable, but not given as an article of food in any quantity. Cleanliness is most rigidly enforced, which is most essential in preventing the spread of disease, and although the children may not all receive a great share of education, the teaching them habits of regularity and cleanliness itself will be a great good effected. I omitted to mention that school requisites are much wanted in some of the poorer districts, and there is a great inability of paying masters, except those under the National Board of Education; although a little assistance to the poor in this way would be desirable, I give them no hopes of getting anything but food from the British Association, and endeavour to urge upon those residing in the localities to afford a little help in this, as it is the duty of all to co-operate in carrying out the present plan; and I have much pleasure in saying that I have received very general assistance, without which it would have been impossible to organize such an extensive system in so short a time. Whenever it can be done, I shall have different species of work and industry introduced in the schools; but the feeding takes the place of all other plans for the present.

I hope a supply of meal will shortly be sent here from Cork, as I fear the millers, from whom I am getting my supplies, are threatening a rise in the prices. The quantity that may be calculated upon as required, as far as I am able to judge at present, will be from 30 to 35 tons per week; but by the end of this week, when I have in my returns, I shall be better able to ascertain correctly.

One electoral division alone in my district, under the Temporary Relief Act, in the western part, issued half that quantity alone in a week, and there are 23 electoral divisions in the Union: from which you may have some idea of the state of the people here.

P.S. I have only one cash-book left from the relief business, but have given directions to the masters to rule books according to the sums supplied them, in order to save expense, printing, &c.

Mr. MARSHALL to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 23, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to report, that I attended a meeting of the Guardians this day, when contracts were entered into for the supply of meal for the out-door relief in the Union. Contracts were also made for a supply of wooden shoes for the paupers; also soap. Dr. M'Cormick, the medical officer for the Killcoe and Aghadown temporary hospital, attended, to bring the state of that hospital before the Board; when, at my recommendation, a resolution was entered into to advance a sum of 10*l.* to meet the current expenses, till the accounts be brought forward, with a view to put them in a way of being settled. A considerable sum is due by the hospital, prior to the 30th September, over which the Board think they have no control, and which they are not bound to pay.

At their next meeting, I shall have the matter again brought forward. The remainder of the collectors' books were signed. The 3*s.* rate, with the arrears, shall now proceed with the utmost vigilance in collection.

The supply of clothing contracted for has not yet all been delivered, which has been attended with much inconvenience. There is room in the house (exclusive of the stores fitted up) for 200, and I have thought it imprudent and dangerous to admit paupers to the house in their own clothes, although several are applying. The contractors have been urged to send in the supplies without delay, which are expected early next week. The doctor reports a most favourable change in the health of the boys, since they were removed to the house fitted up out of Skibbereen, for their permanent residence.

Over 100 schools are now in operation, and over 15,000 children in the Union, receiving food. I am about entering into contracts for a supply of bread to all, as that mode of relief will be attended with less trouble in every respect, than erecting boilers, and cooking the food.

The accounts of the Union have not yet been settled; the man who undertook to do so has not yet come, but has promised to be here on Tuesday next. Dysentery has been on the increase, and most of the hospitals are full, but fever has not increased.

REPLY to the foregoing:—December 28, 1847.

I AM to state, with reference to the debts on account of the temporary fever hospital to which you advert, that the Commissioners cannot legally pay out of the poor-rates, any expenses on account of such hospitals, which were received before the 1st October last.

As regards the supply of clothing for the workhouse inmates, I am to request your attention to the Commissioners' letter of the 22nd instant, and to state that the Commissioners trust that every exertion will be made to obtain, without delay, the supplies of clothing which have been ordered from the contractors.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. MARSHALL, Temporary Inspector:—
December 24, 1847.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward herewith, for your information, an extract from a report which the Commissioners have received from Mr. Phelan, Poor Law Inspector, relative to the number of boys, between the ages of 15 and 18, requiring employment or instruction in the workhouse of the Skibbereen Union; and I am to request that you will be so good as to state whether the boys referred to, can be taken into the school for a portion of each day.

ENCLOSURE.

EXTRACT from Mr. PHELAN'S REPORT:—December 13, 1847.

(A.) I BEG particularly to observe that in this, as in some other houses, the number of boys above 15 is becoming very considerable. There are about 120 of this class, perhaps from 15 to 17 or 18 years old. These get no school instruction, although many of them are evidently much in want of it, and there is little employment for them. I would take the liberty of suggesting that the schoolmaster should devote a couple of hours daily to the instruction of this class. Without it, and especially whilst unemployed, they will only acquire bad habits from idleness, and their intermixture with the elder male paupers; and I should think that the schoolmaster could readily devote some time to their instruction, religious as well as scholastic.

Mr. MARSHALL to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 30, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to report, that I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians for this Union yesterday, when Mr. Crawford was also present.

The collectors were ordered to proceed with the collections of the rates with all possible diligence, and Tobin, who has so large a district, was told that unless he return an amount of rate weekly to satisfy the Guardians, he will be dismissed, and more collectors appointed. This shall be strictly attended to, so that the collection of the 3s. rate, and the arrears, may be completed as soon as possible.

A circular has been ordered to be sent to each of the clergy of all denominations, to impress upon the rate-payers the necessity of paying, without delay, that the debts of the Union may be paid off, and the poor in the Union supported.

The Guardians have ordered clothing to be purchased at once, to supply the workhouse, where it can be had, as the contractor has not yet delivered according to agreement.

Upwards of 200 vacancies are in the house at present, besides two stores taken, not yet occupied; therefore the able-bodied may be admitted. Since the food has been given in the several schools, the pressure is not nearly so great, and many are going out daily when they have their children provided for. Under these circumstances, I have every reason to think that an order for giving out-door relief to the able-bodied will not be necessary. Should all the accommodation be taken up, I would prefer taking more stores for two months rather than have recourse to that alternative.

Owing to the severity of the weather, disease has been more prevalent; the last week, influenza and dysentery.

The person who had engaged to come to wind up the accounts of the Union has not yet commenced doing so; I would therefore advise that, if convenient, the Commissioners should send down a competent person from Dublin to do so without delay, as, from the present state of the accounts, nothing satisfactory can be arrived at, and the business of the Union cannot be put in a proper system of regularity, without which the working of the Union cannot be carried on as it ought.

With reference to that part of Dr. Phelan's report, with regard to those children from 15 to 18 requiring employment or instruction in the workhouse, I have the honour to report that the boys' school has been removed from the workhouse, and is now in a separate building, about a mile from Skibbereen, and therefore all the boys referred to could not at present receive instruction; but I have directed the master of the workhouse to remove the youngest of that class to the boys' school, as several of them are unable to do any work, and should it be found necessary for the others, I shall recommend the Guardians to have an assistant schoolmaster, for a short time, until all the male children return to the house; as, in spring, it is expected the pressure will be much less, and accommodation for all will be had in the house.

REPLY to the above:—January 4, 1848.

THE Commissioners will address the Guardians on the subject of the sureties of the master of the workhouse.

With regard to the Union accounts, I am to state that the Commissioners are not enabled to detach any of the clerks in their establishment to arrange the Union accounts, and they would suggest that the Guardians should obtain from Cork, the services of some person competent to make up the accounts correctly.

Under the circumstances stated in your report, it appears desirable that the Board of Guardians should engage an assistant schoolmaster in the workhouse, with a view to instruct the elder boys, and to keep them employed.

Mr. MARSHALL to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 6, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report that on Monday the 3rd instant, I visited the electoral division of Kilmore, with regard to the arrangement of the schools there, and to contract for a supply of bread. The state of that district is much improved, and a very general disposition is shown to cultivate the land, and prepare for the spring crops.

On Tuesday I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians, when the relieving officers' accounts were examined: the same evening, I went to Glandore, in the electoral division of Kilfaughnabeg, to inspect the schools; next day, I proceeded to Roscarberry and Clonakilty for the same purpose, and returned this day to Skibbereen, when I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians. In my visit to the eastern part of the Union I found a great necessity for having a district Committee of the Board of Guardians, to meet in Rathbarry, in order to examine the relieving officers' books, and inspect the paupers on the out-door relief lists, as I was informed that improper persons are receiving rations; but I had no means of ascertaining the correctness of my information. I brought the subject before the Board, and a resolution was passed to have an order from the Commissioners to form a district of Rathbarry, Kilkeranmore, and Ardfield: but in order to investigate the matter at once, I have arranged to meet the Board of Guardians of those electoral divisions on Saturday, the 8th instant, the result of which I shall report on my return. From the number of vacancies in the workhouse at present, it was resolved to test a number of those receiving out door relief, by which, I have no doubt, a reduction will be made. In Caharagh this plan was adopted, and a number gave up the out-door relief rather than come into the workhouse; care, however, will be taken in selecting those for this test that none may be in danger of sufficiency.

The collectors were present this day, when their books were checked and examined. I again urged the necessity of getting in the rates without delay, and enforcing the payment by every means. A feeling has gone abroad, that from the distressed state of this Union, the payment of the rates would not be enforced by the Government; but I took the opportunity of stating, that the last shilling would be enforced, and most rigidly; and that any collector not doing his duty diligently would be dismissed: and from my intercourse at present with the clergy of all persuasions, I have requested them to explain to the people the necessity of the rates being paid without delay, in order to meet the demand of the Union, and support the poor: this has been met in a proper spirit.

I find with reference to the securities of the master, when he found the objection made, he provided others.

The clothing granted for this Union out of the naval stores will be most acceptable, and enable the Guardians to give increased accommodation; in addition to this they are providing a supply through a contractor. A letter was this day written to an accountant in Cork, to come down to settle the accounts.

REPLY to the above:—January 19, 1848.

AN order will be issued authorizing the Board of Guardians to appoint a Committee for the Rathbarry, Kilkeranmore, and Ardfield electoral divisions, in accordance with the 6th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.

MR. MARSHALL to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 11, 1848.

I ATTENDED a meeting of the Guardians of the electoral divisions of Kilkeranmore, Ardfield, Rathbarry, and Rosscarberry, at Miltown (being a central situation), on Saturday, the 8th instant, when the relieving officer's books for Kilkeranmore were examined, and I am glad to say that they were found satisfactory. There was a full attendance of the Guardians of the eastern part of the Union, and they entered into resolutions to meet every Monday, for the purpose of scrutinizing the out-door relief lists, to look after the contracts for meal, and also to examine the rate-collectors' books, with a view to afford every assistance in the collection of the rates. A Committee of the Guardians, such as I proposed in my former report, will be of great advantage in that locality, it being upwards of 12 miles from Skibbereen. The rate-payers will feel they are protected, and the poor will be attended to. I shall endeavour to have such Committees in other parts of the Union, which will tend to lessen the duties of the Board at Skibbereen, and have the business of the Union more efficiently managed.

It is proposed in some electoral divisions, where it can be carried into effect, to give cooked food daily, to those on the out-door relief list. In many cases, the meal given out cannot be cooked sufficiently by those getting it; and some who are now getting, perhaps, 14 lbs. on one day in the week, would not look for it were they obliged to come for a daily ration of cooked food, although they may come within the denomination of the three classes; but, should this plan be adopted, care will be taken that those unable to come for it daily, shall have their allowance in the usual way. I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians this day, when the relieving officers attended, and had the books examined and initialed by the Chairman. They received further instructions with regard to testing a certain number of those on the out-door relief lists, by giving tickets for admission to the workhouse, as there continues to be room in the workhouse for nearly 200; and, in order to afford more, I gave directions to the master to send 100 of the youngest boys to the school, separate from the workhouse, or as many as can be accommodated there. Although they are over 15 years of age, many of them are unable to work, and will be better separate from the grown-up paupers, and to receive some education.

The clothing contracted for is on the way from Cork; therefore, from the vacancies in the house, and the two stores yet unoccupied, ample accommodation will be available, and a means of testing all will be had.

The pressure for admission only arises, when it is known the house is full.

From the high price of milk, and the difficulty of obtaining a supply (at almost any price), a substitute has been provided, made from a pound of ground rice, boiled in a gallon of new milk and a gallon of water; this is found most palatable, and rather medicinal, in cases of dysentery, which are more prevalent than usual.

The French hand-mill granted to the Union has arrived, and is most useful.

S kibbreen Union.

I ATTENDED a meeting of the Board of Guardians this day, when the collectors attended and had their books and receipt blocks examined and checked. The rate collected and lodged for the last week amounts to 908*l.* 1*s.* 1*d.*, and the collectors continue to receive orders to use every exertion to get in the rates with all possible expedition. A committee was formed to examine and report on the next day of meeting, upon the several hospitals, with a view to make such arrangements as may be deemed necessary; but the Guardians don't seem aware, whether they have the power of closing all or any of the temporary fever hospitals, or whether it is compulsory upon them to provide funds for their continuance. It would be well if this were clearly defined.

A meeting of the Aghadown Relief Committee is to be held to-morrow, at which I propose attending, for the purpose of having some arrangements made with regard to the hospital there, which has been so long in a most irregular state as regards the accounts. The several relief committees having ceased to act, has created much confusion with reference to the hospital. I shall endeavour to bring the committees together to remedy this, as it is only through them and the Finance Committee the Guardians can be called on to make any advance for the payment of the debts, or for the support of the hospitals.

I shall report the result of the meeting to-morrow. A resolution was adopted to advertise for a competent person to settle the accounts of the Union, which I have long tried to have wound up without effect, not being able to get a person conversant with the books of a workhouse, but hope through this means to have them settled without further delay.

REPLY to the above:—January 19, 1848.

THE Commissioners have addressed the Board of Guardians on the subject of the temporary fever hospitals in the Union.

Mr. MARSHALL to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 20, 1848.

I ATTENDED the meeting of the Board of Guardians this day, when I brought the subject before them with reference to the necessity of appointing additional collectors, but they passed a resolution stating the difficulties and delay that would arise by cancelling the arrangements made with their present collectors, and were still of opinion that the rate would be collected as efficiently by those engaged. 1018*l.* 19*s.* 1*d.* has been lodged the last week. But should more collectors be found necessary, I have no doubt the Guardians will appoint them, as they are determined to carry out the orders of the Commissioners to the utmost; and from the advice and aid of the clergy in the collection of the rates, I have every reason to hope that little delay will occur in having them paid in.

The solicitor to the Guardians is taking proceedings to recover the present rate, and arrears due upon the several properties in chancery.

The Committee appointed last day of meeting made a report upon the hospitals of the Union, and recommended they should be concentrated, and have proposed certain districts; the Guardians have named this day week to discuss the subject.

I am sorry to have to report the death of the medical officer (Dr. Brady), who was in charge of Caheragh hospital, he was carried off by malignant fever; another medical officer has been sent down. Dr. Brady was most efficient in the discharge of his duties since his appointment to this district.

The clothing has been received from the contractor, and is now making up. The out-door relief lists have been considerably reduced since the relieving officers commenced testing a number by giving tickets to the workhouse; out of one electoral division where forty tickets were given, only four appeared at the workhouse this week.

There are nearly 200 vacancies in the house, besides the stores not yet occupied; but should all be filled, those coming within the three classes shall at once be discharged, and have out-door relief. Applications were received to-day from persons proposing to settle the books and accounts of Skibbereen Union. the Union, and a committee has been named to select the most competent to undertake it.

The change adopted by substituting rice boiled in milk and water, as alluded to in my last report, is attended with good effects, as well as being a great saving to the Union. I shall have a report from the doctor on the subject, who will be able to give more information upon it, as to the health of the paupers since it has been given them. The sanitary state of the Union continues favourable; although dysentery prevails to some extent, fever is not prevalent, and very few deaths. In East Skull and Kilcoe only four persons have died within the last three months, who were upon the out-door relief lists.

Means are adopted to provide employment for the paupers in the workhouse as far as possible, four looms are at work weaving flannel and coarse linen for the house, and the women are about being instructed to knit woollen caps for the men and boys.

In my next report I shall furnish a return of what has been done in this way for the last six months, as it is most desirable to render the workhouse as reproductive as possible, and by which the habits of the inmates will be improved.

ON Tuesday the relieving officers attended at the workhouse for the purpose of giving lists of those paupers upon the out-door relief lists to whom tickets for admission to the workhouse had been given, and ascertain the number of those who presented themselves; but upon examination it was found not more than one in ten had done so. In order to afford as much room as possible for the able-bodied, those entitled to out-door relief now in the house shall be discharged, having been tested.

I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians this day, when the collectors attended, they having previously lodged the amount collected, and had their books checked and examined; upon examining the collector's books of Caharragh and Droumdalleague (John Kelly) I found them kept irregularly, and the amounts received not entered in the collecting book, and also that he had not used proper diligence in his collection in these electoral divisions. I found it necessary to report him to the Guardians; and should he not keep his books more regularly and get in the rates more promptly, I would recommend his dismissal. Over 1000*l.* has been collected the last week. A Committee has been named to meet at the Board-room to-morrow, which I shall attend to report upon the present state of the rate-books, as a proper revision is much wanted, in order that correct rate-books be prepared in time for the next rate.

An additional supply of clothing has been advertised for; and in doing so I suggested that Industrial Committees and private individuals who have had frieze, flannel, and linen manufactured, be solicited to send in tenders, in order that as much employment be afforded within the district as possible. The clothing granted from the Naval stores has been received.

From the increased number of applications for admission at the workhouse the last week, the Board of Guardians have resolved to rent additional stores to receive the able-bodied paupers, and prevent the necessity of giving out-door relief to that class. A temporary shed or timber-house would be much required, in which stoves could be put, to increase the day-room for adult males. The female children are all to be removed at once to the store fitted up for their permanent accommodation; their present school-room will be applied as a day-room for the adult females, as it is more desirable to have that class in the workhouse.

I have further to report that no pauper has been refused admission to the workhouse for the last month from want of accommodation in the house.

An accountant has been appointed to arrange the books and accounts of the Union, and has commenced doing so.

The collectors have been ordered to come weekly (every Wednesday) to have their books checked, and have all money collected lodged that day with the treasurer, in order that the clerk may make out the weekly return as ordered by the Commissioners.

The relieving officers have also been ordered to send in their books on Wednesdays to be checked by the clerk, and attend themselves on Thursdays to have them examined and initialed by the chairman; by this arrangement the business can be efficiently done, as the out-door relief lists have been much reduced since the children received food at the schools.

I fear the plan proposed by the Guardians to concentrate the hospitals of the Union would be attended with risk, particularly for the next two months, when contagious disease is most to be apprehended, and when no hospitals of sufficient accommodation are at present built if a large district were taken in.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather fever and dysentery have been on the increase in the Union. It is still undefined whether the Board of Guardians have the power of closing certain hospitals in the Union without the sanction of the Board of Health. I propose having meetings of the Relief Committees under the Fever Act, in order to have their opinion upon the subject, and shall write to the chairman of each to that effect.

REPLY to the above :—February 17, 1848.

WITH reference to your report of the 27th ultimo I am directed by the Commissioners to forward herewith for your information a copy of observations of their architect on the proposed erection of temporary buildings on the work-house premises.

I am at the same time to state that the Commissioners concur in the tenor of Mr. Wilkinson's observations.

ENCLOSURE :—OBSERVATIONS OF COMMISSIONERS' ARCHITECT.

THE school-rooms will give good day-rooms when the children are removed, and the day-rooms will then be equal to the sleeping-rooms. If a wooden building is erected it will become a dormitory, and I think the house will be better without it.

The state of Sligo, Parsonstown, and several other houses, owing to over-crowding from the effect of dormitory sheds, renders the advantages of such erections very doubtful on the whole.

EXTRACT from REPORT of MR. J. J. MARSHALL :—January 29, 1848.

You can have no idea of the great good the British Association bounty is doing to this Union: hundreds of lives have been saved by it, and were it not for this, the scenes of last year would have been witnessed in Skibbereen again. I am endeavouring to relieve the poor in such an effective way, both by the Poor Law and by feeding their children at the schools, as will, I trust, carry this Union over the trying season before us. If we had two months more over, much relief would be had by employment, and I therefore would beg you to allow me a discretionary power to go as far as 20,000, if I find that I require that number. I have adopted every means to have only the destitute children fed, and that they get what is allowed them. I find it necessary to have a person to go through the schools, say in one or two electoral divisions, to see the children fed, and my directions attended to, and not to allow improper persons to be on the lists.

I have arranged to give the sick children their bread, and shall buy a little rice and have it ground for them. A good many are suffering from dysentery, measles, and small-pox. They are much in want of clothes, but as there has been a large quantity of flannel made in the Union which could be had moderate, I would not recommend your sending clothes here but money to buy. We have extremely few deaths.

 GRANARD UNION.

Mr. FLANAGAN, Inspector, to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 14, 1847.

I EXAMINED yesterday the books of the different relieving officers of this Union, and have to report, that although relief has been given by them for a period of three weeks and more, their books have not as yet been initialed by the chairman; and the relief consequently has been illegally dispensed.

I would beg that the attention of the Board of Guardians be drawn to this subject, and that they be directed to have the Application and Report Book regularly initialed.

The system which at present exists is liable to the greatest abuses, and leaves the entire dispensing of relief in the power of the relieving officers.

The condition of this Union, I regret to state, is most deplorable. The Guardians are not able to give the different relieving officers more than one-tenth part of the sum required for their several districts.

The rate-books for the 3s. rate were signed, and the collecting books will be in the hands of the collectors in the course of next week. This rate, if actively collected, and not absorbed by the present creditors of the Union, will do much to alleviate the present very great distress.

I have to report, moreover, that of the applicants for relief many are able-bodied persons not coming within the terms of the first section, or of the limited order issued under the second section.

I would therefore beg to recommend that the Commissioners do issue an order extending the power of the Board of Guardians to give out-door relief to all destitute poor persons.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS :—December 18, 1847.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a copy of an order which they have issued to-day, in accordance with the recommendation in a report made to them by Mr. Flanagan, Poor Law Inspector, authorizing you to afford out-door relief, under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, in the Granard Union.

In reference thereto, I am to draw your attention to the circumstance, that no relief can be legally given to persons in employment, that such relief must be in food only, and that no able-bodied man should receive relief except in return for work.

With regard to the nature of the work which should be offered to able-bodied men, the Commissioners have to state, that the making of roads and stone-breaking are two modes of labour which have been suggested as expedient for employing persons receiving out-door relief.

The Commissioners are desirous that the question of employing the able-bodied paupers of the Union on the roads left unfinished by the Board of Works, or on the making of any other roads, should not be raised at the present moment; and as road-making has been proved on a very extensive scale to be no adequate test of destitution, the Commissioners would strongly recommend the other test which has often been found effectual, namely, stone-breaking; and they suggest the making preparations for obtaining a large supply of hard stone, and for employing able-bodied paupers at stone-breaking by task-work, in return for the rations to be supplied by the Union.

The Commissioners have further to state, that they are anxious strictly to prohibit and prevent the granting relief on account of the insufficiency of wages, to persons occasionally in employment during the week.

It appears to the Commissioners that there is no rule of greater importance in the administration of out-door relief to able-bodied men, than that they should be maintained either wholly by their employer, or wholly by the Board of Guardians, and that the strongest line should thus be drawn between relief and wages.

In setting able-bodied men to stone-breaking by task-work as a condition of relief, much will depend on the knowledge, firmness, and discretion of those who may be appointed to superintend stone-breaking: and the Commissioners cannot too strongly urge you to be peculiarly careful in permitting yourselves to be influenced by no other considerations than those of personal fitness in selecting candidates for that highly important office.

The Commissioners will take this opportunity of observing, that in specifying the period of eight hours at least in the day during which every able-bodied pauper should be required to work, they have made allowance for the present season of the year, and for the possible circumstance that some of the able-bodied paupers may come to the stone-breaking from a considerable distance. It is not, however, by any means intended to prevent the Guardians from requiring work during a still longer period of time; the period of eight hours is in fact merely the minimum space of time in the day during which every able-bodied pauper should give the value of his labour to the Union.

In conclusion, the Commissioners desire to remind you that the out-door relief order is only temporary, and that every possible exertion should be made to render the workhouse available, almost exclusively, for the relief of able-bodied men with their families, and that it is also advisable to provide further workhouse accommodation by every means which the Union may present for affording in-door relief as far as practicable to all classes of the destitute poor.

ENCLOSURE.—ORDER FOR OUT-DOOR RELIEF.

To the Guardians of the Poor of the Granard Union; to the Clerk and other Officers of the said Union; and to all other persons whom it may concern.

WHEREAS it has been shown to our satisfaction, that, by reason of the want of room in the workhouse of the said Union, adequate relief cannot be afforded therein to destitute poor persons not being persons permanently disabled, or destitute poor persons disabled by sickness or accident, or destitute poor widows having two or more legitimate children dependent on them, and it is expedient to authorize and empower the Guardians of the said Union to administer relief out of the workhouse to such destitute poor persons for a limited time as hereinafter mentioned.

Now therefore we, the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, do hereby authorize and empower the said Guardians to administer relief out of the workhouse, in food, to destitute poor persons not being persons permanently disabled from labour by reason of old age, infirmity, or bodily or mental defect, and not being persons disabled from labour by reason of severe sickness or serious accident, and thereby deprived of the means of earning a subsistence for themselves and their families, whom they are liable by law to maintain, and not being poor widows having two or more legitimate children dependent on them, for two months next ensuing after the date of this order.

And we do hereby make the following rules and regulations as to the granting, ordering, and giving of relief to all persons who shall be relieved by the said Guardians, under the authority of this order, that is to say:—

1. Every person relieved under the authority of this order shall be relieved in food only, and such food shall, as far as is practicable, be cooked food.
2. Every able-bodied male person relieved under the authority of this order shall, as far as is practicable, be set to perform a task of work during eight hours at least of every day for which he receives such relief.
3. No able-bodied person who shall be in employment, nor any part of his or her family, shall receive relief as a destitute person under the authority of this order.

And for the more effectual administration of relief under this order, we do hereby authorize and direct the said Guardians to appoint so many relieving officers as shall be found sufficient, from time to time, to superintend the labour of such person as shall be set to work, in pursuance of the regulations in this order contained, and otherwise to assist in the administration of relief under this order, as the said Guardians, subject to our approval, shall direct.

Sealed with our seal, this eighteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven.

(Signed)

E. T. B. TWISLETON.

W. STANLEY, Secretary.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS:—December 18, 1847.

THE Commissioners have received a report from their Inspector, Mr. Flanagan, relating to Granard Union, in which he states that he examined the books of the different relieving officers, and found that although out-door relief has been given in that Union for upwards of three weeks, their books have not as yet been initialed by the chairman of the Board of Guardians.

Granard Union.

The Commissioners desire me to call the attention of the Board of Guardians to this subject, and to impress upon them the necessity of having the Application and Report Book regularly initialed by the chairman, as prescribed by Article 7 of the Commissioners' general order for the administration of out-door relief.

I am at same time to state that the practice of the relieving officer giving relief without a proper authority, which at present exists in Granard Union, is liable to the greatest abuses, and leaves the entire discretion in administering relief in the power of the relieving officers.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. FLANAGAN :—December 20, 1847.

IN reference to the irregularity which you state has occurred in the keeping of the relieving officers' books, I am to transmit herewith for your information a copy of a communication which the Commissioners have addressed to the Guardians on the subject.

The Commissioners have issued an extended order for out-door relief, in accordance with your request; and I am also to enclose herewith a copy of the letter which accompanies that order.

I am at the same time to request that your exertions as an Inspector may be directed with great advantage to requiring the Guardians and officers of a Union to use the forms of accounts in the way prescribed.

EXTRACTS from MINUTES of PROCEEDINGS of BOARD of GUARDIANS :—
20th December, 1847.

Letter from the Poor Law Commissioners, dated 18th December, 1847.

In compliance with this letter, the Guardians waited to a late hour in revising the relieving officers' books, and adjourned to Thursday, 23rd instant, for further revision of the books.

Letter from the Commissioners, dated 18th December, 1847. No order was made on this letter whatever.

Mr. FLANAGAN to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 5, 1848.

AT a meeting of the Board of Guardians of this Union, held on the 3rd instant, the following collectors were selected for the collection of the new rate :—

	Electoral Division.	Poundage.
James Finnan	Abbeylara	6d.
Pat. Carnygy	Clonbroney	6d.
Henry Macken	Lough Gowna	6d.
William Creggy	{ Foyran	6d.
	{ Lickbla
	{ Coole
James Cosgrave	Scrabby	6d.
Michael M'Loughlin	Rathowen	6d.
William Pollock	{ Mullaghoran	6d.
	{ Drumlumman

In the electoral divisions of Columbkil and Granard no tender was made, and the Board has unanimously determined to offer the collection to the county cess collector. In case of his refusal, another person will be appointed upon the next Board-day. For Gelshagh no tender has as yet been made.

Of these collectors, Messrs. Pat. Carnygy and James Cosgrave are the only new appointments. I would beg that the Commissioners' sanction be forthwith transmitted to the Guardians, who are most anxious to put the rate into immediate course of collection.

The necessities of this Union are so urgent and pressing, that Major Blackhall has been obliged to give a personal guarantee to the treasurer for the sum of 100*l.* to meet the current expenditure of the week.

Upon inspecting the books of the relieving officers, they were found to be so irregularly kept and signed, and in fact so unintelligible, that the Board of Guardians has been obliged, under the direction of Major Blackhall, to adjourn from day to day in the course of the last week, and to prepare new lists for each of the electoral divisions of the persons to whom relief had been already ordered. The names in these lists to be afterwards transcribed into new books which have been ordered for the purpose, and the signature of the chairman to be then affixed to those entries, and such relief to be ordered as the Board may think right.

The object of the lists is two-fold; first, to obtain an accurate statement of the persons to whom relief is necessary; and secondly, an exact calculation of the sum which will be required weekly for their relief.

For the purpose of aiding the Guardians, the Relief Committees of the different divisions have been requested to attend and assist the Guardians with their local knowledge of the parties and their circumstances.

The Guardians I found most anxious to give relief in all cases in money, and several of their lists had been prepared with that view. I pointed out to them the illegality of this course; and the lists will undergo a further analysis to distinguish the persons entitled to such relief under the 1st section, from those to whom relief in kind only can be given under the 2nd section.

The lists so revised and prepared, and the new regular entries in the relieving officer's "Application and Report Book" consequent thereon, will, I hope, be all furnished and ready before next Wednesday.

Meanwhile there will be much irregularity in dispensing relief, which, as the Board of Guardians (or more properly speaking, Major Blackhall) is energetically and bonâ fide making the utmost efforts to bring the system as quickly as possible into legal and effective operation, I do not think it advisable to notice.

Until the new rate has been actually in part collected, which can hardly be for the next three weeks, I fear much distress will exist in the Union; the amount available weekly not being one-sixth part of what is required for the use of the relieving officers. Indeed, were it not for the personal guarantee of Major Blackhall, there would be no funds even for the support of the workhouse during the present week.

If it were possible to procure for the Guardians a loan of 300*l.*, it would do much to relieve their immediate wants. Indeed, if it be obtainable, I know not what they will do for the next fortnight. Major Blackhall has intimated that he cannot give any longer his personal guarantee for money advanced; and if he do not, upon the next Board-day there will be the workhouse without supplies, and the relieving officer's book filled with names of persons to whom relief has been ordered, and no money to procure any. Were not the Guardians now energetically doing their utmost to meet the difficulty, I would not recommend procuring a loan; but under the circumstances I would respectfully submit the propriety of advancing one to the consideration of the Commissioners.

REPLY to the above:—January 8, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to inform you that their approval of the collectors' appointments was conveyed to the Guardians by yesterday's post.

In regard to your suggestion as to procuring a loan of 300*l.* to the Guardians, I am to state that the Commissioners cannot hold out any prospect of a loan to the Guardians of Granard Union.

The Commissioners observe that in the return on the 20th ultimo, the amount of uncollected rate in Granard Union was as much as 1729*l.* 2*s.* 9½*d.*, and the Commissioners think that the proper remedy for the present financial embarrassments of the Union is, for the Guardians to proceed vigorously in compelling the payment of that sum by the rate-payers who are in arrear.

The CLERK of the BOARD of GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—

By the directions of the Guardians of this Union I have the honour of applying to request you will obtain for the Guardians an advance of 1000*l.* on the security of the rates, to enable them to settle their accounts with Mr. Dixon, who refuses to take what is due him by monthly instalments, and who is at this moment taking out execution against them for the sum of nearly 600*l.*, as also to pay off other old debts.

Granard Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS in reply :—
January 27, 1848.

THE Commissioners can hold out no expectation of a loan to the Guardians from any quarter for the purpose mentioned.

The only course which the Guardians can effectually take is to collect the rates with promptness and vigour, and apply the proceeds to the discharge of their debts and the effectual relief of the destitute poor.

Mr. FLANAGAN to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 7, 1848.

I FEEL it my duty to report, that in my opinion the Board of Guardians of this Union have not "duly and effectually discharged its duties according to the intention of the Act for relief of the poor," and would therefore urge upon the consideration of the Commissioners the necessity of dissolving this Board, and in the exercise of the powers vested in them by law, appointing paid officers to discharge those duties which the present Board has proved itself incompetent to fulfil.

The Commissioners will, by reference to the monthly returns of the state of the funds of this Union perceive the very unsatisfactory manner in which the rate has hitherto been collected. To prove the accuracy of my representation, I would beg to refer them to the case of electoral division of Gelsha, the net annual value of which is 3663*l.*, and in which, from the 31st of December, 1847, to the 31st of January, 1848, out of a gross rate, amounting to nearly 400*l.*, a sum of 12*l.* only was collected, and during the previous month of November a sum little exceeding that.

Directions have been repeatedly given to furnish names of the defaulting rate-payers, with a view to the enforcing a more vigorous and active collection, and resolutions to that effect entered upon the minutes, but never acted upon.

The consequence has been that the amount collected from week to week is wholly inadequate to meet the daily increasing destitution, and that the relief afforded to the many thousand starving poor of this Union is barely sufficient to keep them from the grave.

The following cases which I have taken indiscriminately from the books of the relieving officer for the Columbkil electoral division, will give a fair idea of the average relief given in this Union to every person receiving it :—

Columbkil electoral division, No. 675, in Application and Report Book.

Ned Reilly, his wife and seven children, ages 17, 15, 13, 11, 9, 8, 2, making altogether nine in family, received from the 13th to the 15th week, inclusive of the half year, half a stone of meal per week; during the 16th and 17th weeks none; during the 18th week half a stone, and during the 19th, 20th, and 21st weeks, one stone of meal, which is the maximum allowance made to him; that is to say, according to this scale nine persons are to live and be relieved upon 2 lbs. of meal per day.

Again, in the same book, No. 8, William Crossan, wife, and four children, during the 17th and 18th weeks they received one quarter of a stone of meal; during the 19th, 20th, and 21st, half a stone, the maximum which they have been ordered; that is, a pound of meal per day for the support of six persons, or 2 ozs. and two-thirds of an ounce per head.

It were a gross mockery and perversion of language to call food doled out in such a manner relief; it is rather a lingering process of starvation; and from the representations made to me this day, I fear that many have already fallen victims to hunger and want; and when it is recollected that 6000 or 7000 persons in the destitute and indigent state are upon the relieving officers' books, endeavouring to eke out existence upon such a scanty pittance as that allowed, I fear that many more will be carried off, unless those prompt and vigorous exertions be made to check the evil that this present Board of Guardians is capable of making.

I am far from imputing to them insensibility to the sufferings of the poor; on the contrary, I believe that they feel deeply and sensibly the unfortunate condition to which they are reduced. Unfortunately, though they clamour and wail, they either cannot or will not, but certainly do not act. I have here and elsewhere observed a want of a due sense of the heavy moral responsibility which as Guardians of the poor they have undertaken. Although alive to the sufferings of the poor, they never appear to recollect that upon them and them only the duty of relieving them devolves; and instead of energetically and perseveringly endeavouring to check the evil, they cry out to others for assistance, and think they have discharged their duty without a single attempt at exertion on their own part.

I could enumerate many other facts to prove the incompetency of this Board. One more will suffice to show the careless inattention to the details of their business which characterizes them.

From the time that the relieving officers have been giving out-door relief to the present, their books have never yet been regularly signed and initialed by the chairman, and consequently the relief given has been illegally given.

Again, although there are about 1700 able-bodied men receiving relief, not the least attempt has been made to set them to work according to the directions in the Commissioners' order.

For these (amongst other) reasons I would submit to the Commissioners the necessity of dissolving this Board of Guardians, and of entrusting the administration of the law to persons more competent (if not fitting) to extend to the destitute poor the benefit of that relief the law has given them a claim to.

While thus censuring the general conduct and inefficiency of this Board, I think it just to record the high sense I entertain of some individual members of it: in particular, of the deputy vice-chairman, Major Blackhall, who, when in this country, laboured with the most indefatigable zeal, energy, and ability, and through whose assistance I had hoped for a considerable time to extricate this Union from its present embarrassments, and avoid the necessity of a dissolution. His necessary attendance in Parliament deprived the Union of his services, and matters in his absence became as confused as ever.

As an illustration of what one individual can accomplish, I would farther state, that of the 15 electoral divisions of this Union, in which, as I have already said, there are about 1700 able-bodied men receiving relief, there is not one in the Castle Nugent division. Major Blackhall having given directions to the relieving officer that all such applicants should be referred to his steward who has orders to give them employment.

I feel much pleasure in bringing under the notice of the Commissioners this fact, which does so much honour to Major Blackhall, and proves that even in this Union the Poor Law has not been wholly ineffectual in giving a wholesome stimulus to industry.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS:—February 12, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under their serious consideration the state of the affairs of the Granard Union, and the financial embarrassments which appear with other causes to have prevented the Board of Guardians from effectually relieving the destitution prevailing in the Union. In consequence of representations which the Commissioners received of the great distress existing in Granard Union, and of the insufficiency of any measures taken by the Board of Guardians for its relief, the Commissioners felt it necessary to direct the special attention of their inspector, Mr. Flanagan, to the state of Granard Union. They have now received a report from him, which discloses a state of affairs which cannot be permitted to continue in the Union consistently with the objects of the Irish Poor Relief Acts.

From this report, and from the financial returns, and other documents before the Commissioners relating to the Union, it appears that the amount of relief afforded by the Board of Guardians has been wholly insufficient for the due sustenance of the destitute applicants. It appears that in the case of a destitute family, consisting of a man, his wife, and seven children, making nine in family, only half a stone of meal per week was given from the thirteenth to the fifteenth weeks of the half-year inclusive; the same family appear to have been also relieved during the eighteenth week with half a stone of meal only, and during the three next weeks with one stone of meal per week. The Commissioners have had other instances before them of inadequate relief in this Union; and in another case reported by Mr. Flanagan, a man, his wife, and four children, making six in family, received during two weeks a quarter of a stone of meal, and during the three next weeks half a stone.

Granard Union.

It is manifest that in cases in which the Guardians feel it necessary to afford relief, such an amount of relief as that reported in the above cases would not be sufficient or consistent with a due performance of the obligations imposed by the provisions of Laws for the Relief of the Poor; and when it is considered that there are some thousands of persons in a destitute state upon the relieving officers' books, it may be feared that many are in danger of falling victims to hunger and privation.

The Commissioners do not impute the inadequacy of the relief afforded to insensibility on the part of the Guardians to the sufferings of the destitute poor; but the financial embarrassment into which the Guardians have allowed the Union to fall, must be undoubtedly regarded as the principal cause of the destitute poor not receiving due relief.

The collection of the rate during the past year was very unsatisfactory, only 2,756*l.* having been collected, a sum of about 7½*d.* in the pound on the valuation, leaving debts on the 31st December, to the large amount of 2,094*l.*; a sum much exceeding two-thirds of the entire year's collection. The Guardians had not 10*l.* in their treasurer's hands at the commencement of the present year; and although a new rate was signed on the 13th December last, no part of it was put in collection until the middle of January, a large portion not being even yet in collection. This delay must have materially lessened the chances of a favourable collection, a great part of the season best calculated for the collection of the rate having been suffered to elapse.

As regards other matters, it appears that the Guardians have failed in due attention to the business of the Union. From the commencement of the administration of out-door relief by the relieving officers, their books have not it appears been regularly examined, signed, and initialed, while, although there are about 1700 able-bodied men receiving relief, no attempt has been made to set them to work according to the order in that behalf.

Under these circumstances, the Commissioners see no other course consistent with their duty for the remedy of this state of things and the effectual relief of the destitute poor in Granard Union, but to dissolve the Board of Guardians, and to appoint paid officers to act in their place. An order dissolving the Board will accordingly be transmitted by this day's post, and the appointment of Vice-Guardians will follow in due course.

February 12, 1848.

I HAVE been this day occupied in visiting the workhouse and hospital, and the inspection of the books of some of the rate collectors. I find the collection still very much in arrear, and that the large occupiers are the greatest defaulters, among whom I observe the names of several of the Guardians. The collectors state, that they have received promises from most of those of payment next week, but I have signified to them that in future such excuses will not be admitted by me for tardiness or negligence in the performance of their duties.

The books of some of them appear to have been kept in a very slovenly manner.

The state and condition of the workhouse and the ground about it, and the apparent want of order, cleanliness, and proper classification, are conclusive proofs of the incapacity or negligence of both master and matron.

If the close attention and vigilant surveillance I shall devote to the interior economy and management of the establishment. do not speedily produce a decided reformation, I shall consider it my duty to recommend the dismissal of both master and matron, a measure I feel reluctant to resort to, until admonition and reproof have been tried and found unavailing.

The ground belonging to the workhouse has never been properly fenced or enclosed, nor has the slightest attention been paid to the improvement or cultivation of it. A portion of it close to the road round the house, and near to one of the back gates, has been (most improperly in my opinion) appropriated as a cemetery; and from the specimen of two graves I saw ready dug, the bodies must have been deposited at a very little depth beneath the surface. This offensive nuisance ought to be removed without delay, and the space already occupied by graves covered over with a foot or more of fresh earth, for which purpose there is a mound of earth close to the place.

Measures should be taken to obtain a burial ground for the paupers, apart from the space immediately surrounding the house. On Monday I shall endeavour to impress these matters on the immediate attention of the Guardians, and report the result.

Granard Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain LANG:—February 19, 1848.

WITH reference to your communication of the 12th instant, I am to state that the Commissioners have directed a communication to the Vice-Guardians upon the several points referred to therein.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain LANG:—February 12, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to request your attention to the fact that the Commissioners' order authorizing the administration of out-door relief, which was issued on the 18th of December last, will expire on the 18th instant; and I am to request that you will be so good as to report to the Commissioners, as to the necessity for its renewal, in time for an order to be issued, if necessary, before the above date.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain LANG:—February 16, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state, that the Commissioners not having received a report from you in pursuance of their instructions of 12th instant, as to the necessity of renewing the order of 18th December for out-door relief in the Granard Union, and the time for the preparation and issue of a new order before the expiration of the present order on the 18th instant being so limited, the Commissioners have directed a new order to be issued in accordance with a communication which they have received from their Inspector, Mr. Flanagan, on the subject.

Captain LANG to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 17, 1848.

WITH reference to your letters of the 12th and 16th instant, Nos. 140 and 154, as to the necessity of renewing the order for the administration of out-door relief in this district, I beg leave to state that I deferred replying to the first until I had made some inquiry, and had returns before me of the existing amount of destitution prevailing in the several electoral divisions. From the information I have been enabled to collect I am satisfied that out-door relief cannot (at present) be dispensed with, and that the renewal of the order was a measure absolutely required. But I am of opinion that the labour test will very much reduce the numbers of able-bodied applicants on the lists of both in and out-door relief.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain LANG, in reply:—February 19, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state, that as the former order expired on the 18th instant, it was requisite to take such steps as might be necessary for that day, and therefore the Commissioners felt it necessary to renew the order, without waiting for your report, which in such cases should be made a few days before the actual expiration of an order, so as to allow time for a new one if necessary to be prepared and issued. The Commissioners are glad to perceive from your present communication, that the issue of the second order was in accordance with your views.

Granard Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to the VICE-GUARDIANS :—February 19, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state that they have had under consideration, reports from which it appears that the collection of the rates in Granard Union is very much in arrear, and it is stated that the large occupiers are the greatest defaulters, among whom are the names of several of the late Guardians of the Union. The Commissioners are also informed that the books of some of the collectors appear to have been kept in a very slovenly manner.

It is further reported that the condition of the workhouse, and of the ground about it, and the apparent want of order, cleanliness, and proper classification, indicate incapacity or negligence on the part of both the master and the matron of the workhouse.

It further appears that a portion of the ground belonging to the workhouse, close to the road round the house, and near to one of the back gates, has been appropriated as a cemetery, and that the bodies have been deposited at very little depth below the surface, so as to be in an offensive state, while there is a mound of earth close to the place, over which it could be spread; and measures should be taken with a view to procuring a proper burial ground more distant from the workhouse buildings.

The Commissioners request your early and special attention to these matters, and they rely upon your exertions in conjunction with the Inspector, for bringing the affairs of this Union into better order, and for ensuring a proper performance of their duties by the officers of the Union, or for the appointment of more efficient officers, should it be found necessary.

1. HAVING in pursuance of your orders entered upon the administration of the affairs of this Union, we deem it well at once to submit for your consideration our report upon their general aspect and condition, so far as the limited time we have had at our disposal has enabled us to form a judgment on the matter; and we shall take occasion, in the weekly reports it will be our duty to make to you, to supply you with accurate and detailed information upon the several particulars that engage our attention, or seem to us to demand comment.

2. We have completed a minute inspection of the house in all its departments, and regret to add, that the result is in every way far from being satisfactory. With so limited an experience to guide us, we feel slow to express, as yet, a decided opinion upon the character or competence of any of the officers of the establishment—especially so, as it seems manifest to us that the most ordinary supervision on the part of the late Board must have rendered impossible many, if not nearly all, of the abuses that have come under our notice; and we cannot therefore say how far the neglect of the servants is, or is not, attributable to the indifference exhibited by their superiors.

3. We cannot, however, hesitate to state, that the manner in which the duties of master and matron have been performed is exceedingly discreditable. The inmates of every class seem to have lived up to this in a state of utter listlessness and inactivity; and no effort whatever has been made, so far as we can see, to devise or enforce employment for them. An exactly corresponding air of neglect and slovenliness is observable in almost everything about the place. The land attached to the workhouse has been suffered to lie unfenced and uncultivated. The yards are all filthy, damp, and insalubrious; the windows are broken in many places; the floors in very many of the rooms are in a state of ruinous neglect; the ventilation of the dormitories has been seemingly but ill attended to, and in some instances the heads of the beds have been allowed to rest against walls so damp that the occupants must necessarily have been exposed to danger. In one of the sleeping wards we found two very young female children lying ill in bed, who, it might have been, stood in instant need of medical advice and infirmity treatment; but this the matron did not appear to have much considered.

4. In both male and female wards we found several young children of various ages, who for months had not been in the schoolroom—some had never gone there, and no intelligible reason was offered to us for so strange an omission.

5. The children attending the schools, or so many of them as we examined, did not seem unusually backward; but no pens, ink, pencils, or slates, having been for months supplied by the late Board, though they were applied to for them, as we are informed, no advance has been in consequence made in these branches of education.

6. Shoes, heretofore supplied to the house by contract, have been but sparingly used; the vast majority of the inmates being barefooted. Bread procured in same manner, by contract, has been never given except when medically ordered; and, when so required, has been obtained at the exorbitant cost of 1s. per 4lb. loaf, i. e., about double the market price. The universal diet of all classes is porridge or stirabout, made usually of Indian, occasionally of oatmeal; rice has not been used, except for the invalids.

7. A Visiting Committee, judging from the book kept for that purpose, has rarely acted in this Union; the last entry bearing date 27th September, 1847; and those preceding it are dated at long intervals. The queries in the book are all, without distinction, answered affirmatively upon those occasions—a circumstance which to our mind cannot be easily reconciled with the state of affairs as we have noticed them, and which we have here but very faintly described.

8. No entry appears in the Master's Clothing Receipt and Appropriation Books since 28th September, 1846; such being the case, a knowledge of the quantity in use or on hands is not now attainable by us.

9. The Commissioners' order requiring the officers of the house, by the calling of a roll, to ascertain the presence of every pauper half an hour after rising each morning has been totally disregarded; this, of course, opened the doors to a confirmed system of disorder and irregularity amongst the inmates.

10. We entertain strong hopes that the clerk will give us satisfaction ultimately; but his business is, at this moment, considerably in arrear; his ledger has not been posted into since March 25, 1847; but there are some extenuating circumstances to palliate this, and we trust he will not again suffer his duties to accumulate in the same way.

11. We have given such directions to the officers upon whom the several duties respectively devolve, as will, we trust, lead to a prompt reform of the abuses we have noted. We propose further, that the inmates shall be all provided with shoes, to be made in the house, by the employment of a competent tradesman, assisted by fit subjects selected from the paupers. This will be a source of economy in itself, will increase the comfort of the inmates, and will afford an opportunity of giving orphan children a useful trade. The same remark applies to other things. By the introduction of hot plates, numbers of the girls will be usefully and instructively employed in the preparation of bread; the article will then be available upon moderate terms for the general dietary of the establishment, and will, we think, be with advantage substituted in part for the porridge or stirabout, which now constitutes the sole diet of the paupers, and the indiscriminate and unvarying use of which has probably tended to the spread of disease in the house. Some time hence we hope to employ the females generally in carding and spinning wool, to be used in the manufacture of apparel for the house.

12. The books of the relieving officers are, we fear, one mass of hopeless and irretrievable confusion. For the correctness of their future operations we will of course be responsible; but we are not yet in a position to state how far it will be in our power to retrace their past errors, or bring to light any misapplication of the public funds those officers may have been guilty of. The Board have only in rare instances initialed or examined the books at all; the entire administration of the law has been thus confided to the relieving officers. They have been permitted to purchase the meal they distributed, where and at such cost as they pleased; and in the course of an inquiry yesterday held before Captain Lang, your Inspector, it was clearly proved that a relieving officer had charged the Board 12s. 8d. per cwt. for meal, which his brother (a dealer in meal) was shown to have bought in for the particular occasion at 11s. 3d. per cwt.

13. The collectors are to attend at our Board-room on Saturday next. Up to this they have done little in the performance of their duties; but we will endeavour to arouse them to a sense of their neglect, and the serious responsibility they have thereby incurred; and will lose no time in reporting to you upon the conduct of any of them by whom a becoming spirit of zeal and activity is not at once manifested.

14. We regret that, consistently with the necessity we feel we are under of accurately acquainting you with the present position of the Union you have committed to our charge, we could not compress this report into smaller limits. We shall not now trespass further ; and you may confidently rely upon our earnest anxiety to do all that lies in our power to promote the internal economy and comfort of this establishment, and restore its embarrassed financial concerns to a solvent and independent position.

REPLY to the foregoing :—February 28, 1848.

I AM to express the Commissioners' approval generally of the several steps which you propose to take, as stated in your report.

With reference to the condition of the workhouse, I am to state, that the Commissioners do not doubt that you, in concert with the resident Inspector, will be enabled shortly to bring it into a better state than it has heretofore been in.

The Commissioners have already communicated with Captain Lang, in reference to the officers of the Union ; and the Commissioners request that special attention may be given to the due enforcement of the duties of the master and matron of the workhouse, as well as the other officers of the Union ; and if they shall not be found hereafter to discharge their duties more efficiently than they have hitherto done, it will be necessary for you to consider as to the expediency of obtaining more efficient officers, and the present officers should be cautioned accordingly.

Respecting the supply of bread to the workhouse, the Commissioners suggest that as it appears the present extravagant price has been given under a contract, such contract should be terminated as soon as practicable, with a view to obtaining the requisite supplies on more just and economical terms.

The Commissioners also request that you will have the master's clothing and other accounts made up without delay, and the workhouse rules regularly observed. The clerk's accounts also should now be made up to 29th September last for audit as soon as possible, his salary having been recently increased to enable him to procure assistance.

As regards the confused state of the books of the relieving officers, the Commissioners will further consider the conduct of those officers, on Captain Lang's report of his inquiry.

THURLES UNION.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. J. BURKE, Poor Law Inspector—Condition of the Poor in Thurles:—January 3, 1848.

THE Commissioners, in accordance with the request of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, instruct you to proceed with the least possible delay to Thurles, and to make a special inquiry into the condition of the poor in that town, and in the surrounding neighbourhood, and to report to them thereon; and at the same time, they request that you will more especially report whether there are any well-authenticated cases of destitute persons in the Thurles Union having died from starvation; and if so, the Commissioners wish you to take evidence upon oath respecting any such case.

The Commissioners are aware that Thurles is not in your district, but Mr. Hancock is confined to bed by sickness, and the Commissioners are desirous of obtaining for his Excellency, the desired information with the least possible delay.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. J. BURKE:—January 4, 1848.

ADVERTING to the letter addressed to you on the 3rd instant, respecting the Thurles Union, I am directed by the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland to request that you will be so good as to place yourself in communication with Dr. Slattery, the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cashel, with reference to his public statement respecting the deaths of thousands of persons of starvation.

Mr. BURKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 12, 1848.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 3rd instant, instructing me, in accordance with the request of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, to proceed with the least possible delay to Thurles, and to make a special inquiry into the condition of the poor in that town and in the surrounding neighbourhood, and to report to you thereon, and also requesting me more especially to report whether there are any well-authenticated cases of destitute persons in the Union having died from starvation, and of fever, and directing me to take evidence upon oath respecting any such case. I have also to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 4th instant, advertng to your letter of the 3rd instant, and directing me to place myself in communication with Doctor Slattery, the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cashel, with reference to his public statement respecting the deaths of thousands of persons by starvation.

I have now to inform you that I arrived in Thurles on Friday, the 7th instant, my previous engagements not permitting me to be there sooner. On the following morning I waited on Doctor Slattery, the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cashel, and in the minutes of the inquiry, comprising 36 pages, which I forward herewith, will be found the report of my interview with his Lordship.

I next proceeded to hold the inquiry at the Board-room of the workhouse, and examined on oath the resident magistrate, the sub-inspector of police, the coroner, and one of the medical officers of the fever hospital, as also Mr. P. B. Ryan, the Deputy Vice-Chairman of the Board of Guardians, and the relieving officer of the Thurles electoral division, and his three assistants. Since the inquiry the clerk of the Union has forwarded to me the depositions taken before a magistrate, of the relieving officer for Moycarkey district, and whose attendance I could not procure in time for the inquiry.

From the evidence given, and from all I could learn, I believe that there is much destitution, not alone in the town of Thurles and its neighbourhood, but in the Union generally. There this destitution is caused, not by the scarcity or high price of food, but from want of the means to procure it, there being scarcely any employment for the labouring class. The discharging of about 600 labourers from the railway works, which are now nearly completed, has added I should say very much to the prevailing distress.

The Guardians have given very general out-door relief, there being, as far as the clerk of the Union could say (the relieving officer's books not being made up), about 10,000 persons on out-door relief, of whom nearly 4000 are in the Thurles electoral division. Amongst those on out-door relief are many able-bodied, the Guardians having administered relief to such, although not previously authorized by any order from you to do so.

It does not appear from the evidence of the parties whom I examined, and who must be considered to be well informed on the subject, that deaths from starvation have occurred within the Union. The only case which I could trace as having been attributed to such a cause was that of a young man, named James Ryan, from whom no application it appears was made to the relieving officer. James Ryan's father, subsequent to the death of the former, applied for relief for himself and daughters, and received from the relieving officer a ticket of admission for them to the workhouse, but which Ryan and his daughters did not avail themselves of for five days after.

Fever is stated to be on the decrease in the Union, and I did not hear of any death from it caused by the want of proper assistance. The Thurles fever hospital, which can accommodate 200 patients, has now not more than about two-thirds of that number in it. The apothecary and registrar of the hospital states that every facility is afforded for admission to it; in fact that no one is ever refused.

ENCLOSURE.

January 12, 1848.

MINUTES of an INQUIRY held on Saturday, the 8th January, 1848, at the Board-room of the Workhouse, before Joseph Burke, Esq., Poor Law Inspector, relative to the condition of the poor in the town of Thurles, and in the surrounding neighbourhood; and whether there were any well-authenticated cases of destitute persons in the Union having died from starvation or of fever.

Commenced the inquiry at 11 o'clock, concluded at 4 o'clock.

Saturday, January 8, 1848.

Mr. Burke, Poor Law Inspector, accompanied by Mr. Fogarty, the clerk of the Thurles Union, waited this morning on the most Rev. Dr. Slattery. Mr. Burke stated to Dr. Slattery that he, Mr. Burke, was directed to inquire into the state of the poor in Thurles and its neighbourhood, and particularly with reference to any deaths from starvation having occurred in the Union.

Dr. Slattery said he presumed Mr. Burke referred to a letter which appeared from him (Dr. Slattery) in the newspapers, and he did not think he was to be brought to account for any act of his in this way; that what he (Dr. Slattery) had written did not refer in particular to the Thurles Union, but had reference to what he read and heard particularly from the bishops of his province, and the clergy of his diocese.

Mr. Burke assured Dr. Slattery that he came with no such purpose as that of calling his lordship to account for any of his acts, but that the Poor Law Commissioners felt bound in every instance, when it was stated that deaths from starvation had occurred, or that destitution was said to prevail to a great extent in a Union, to direct one of their Inspectors to inquire on the spot, whether the Guardians entrusted with the carrying out of the law and their officers had performed their duties.

Dr. Slattery said that he was perfectly satisfied with the explanation, and that he was the last who wished to impute negligence of their duties to public functionaries or public bodies; nor did he in this instance, charge the Thurles Board of Guardians with any neglect of duty,—but he (Dr. Slattery) heard from all quarters, and from his clergy, of the wide-spreading distress now existing; and he saw by a report in the newspapers, that the Commissioners had refused giving their sanction to out-door relief to the able-bodied in the Thurles Union.

Mr. Burke stated in reply to Dr. Slattery, that the Commissioners, before giving their sanction to such an important step as relief to the able-bodied, required the Guardians in the first instance, to resolve on the necessity of it at a meeting of the Guardians specially summoned; this it appears was not done, until the last meeting of the Board on the 4th instant. Mr. Burke also stated that it was his intention to sit during the day at the Board-room of the workhouse, to receive any information on the destitution stated to prevail in the Union, and that if his lordship had any suggestion to offer, he, Mr. Burke, would be happy to receive and act upon it.

Dr. Slattery replied, that he had nothing to offer on the subject.

The examinations of Michael Harrold, who being duly sworn, saith that he is relieving officer for the electoral divisions of Thurles and Ballycahill. The farthest extent from the town of Thurles of either electoral divisions is not more than three Irish miles (hands in a document marked A). By the document handed in, it appears that 3800 are on his relief book as recipients of relief for the Thurles electoral division, and 308 for the Ballycahill electoral division, both for the week ending this day. About the commencement of December, relief was first given by deponent in his district; at that time there was no great pressure for relief, but in about a week after, when it became generally known that relief was giving out, the applications increased, and have continued to increase up to this time. At first, relief was only given to those contemplated by the 1st section of the Act, but about the middle of December, relief was extended to those mentioned in the Commissioners' Order of the 13th December; and deponent has since continued to give relief not alone in those cases, but deponent has also given provisional relief to other parties than those contemplated by the 1st section of the Act, or the Order of the 13th December, and even before the latter was issued; in fact, deponent gave relief to able-bodied whom he considered destitute, and which the Guardians sanctioned generally, at their subsequent meeting. Deponent's opinion is that no person did die of starvation, nor did deponent hear of persons dying of starvation; but deponent believes that many persons from the privations which they suffered, brought on sickness on themselves; has not heard of any coroner's inquest being held on any person whom it might be alleged died of starvation, but deponent thinks that if he had not exceeded the law in giving relief as he did, many would have died of starvation in the commencement; deponent was in the habit of visiting every case before he administered relief, but, from the numbers who applied latterly, deponent was unable to examine into the particulars of each case, and exercised his own judgment as well as he could, and took his information from Guardians and heavy ratepayers. Deponent's opinion of the present state of distress is, that in a short time there will be as many more as are on his list who will require relief as at present, and those of the able-bodied class; because deponent does not consider there will be any employment until the 1st March, and even then the farmers will continue to do their own work, and will employ as few as they can. From the time the temporary relief ceased until relief was administered under the Poor Law, the people were living on turnips, and even now those who are not receiving relief under the Poor Law are existing on turnips. In all the houses of applicants that deponent visited, he saw but one in which there was other food than turnips. Deponent again states that from his experience, and what he knows, he does not consider that any person in his district died immediately of starvation; the cessation of the works on the railway added to the distress, as many who came from other parts of the Union, and from other Unions, applied and received relief through deponent.

JOSEPH BURKE, Poor Law Inspector.

MICHAEL HARROLD, Relieving Officer.

The examination of Richard Harding, who being duly sworn, saith that he has been acting for the last fortnight as assistant to Mr. Harrold, the relieving officer for Thurles and Ballycahill electoral division; visited the houses of applicants in company with Mr. Harrold. During the time deponent has been acting as assistant to Mr. Harrold has not met with any case of death from starvation; saw some very bad cases of distress, and some, if they had not been relieved, would, deponent thinks, have died.

RICHARD HARDING.

The examination of Thomas Mahony, who being duly sworn, saith that he was acting as assistant to Mr. Harrold, the relieving officer, for between a fortnight and three weeks, up to Tuesday last. During the time deponent was acting, did not meet with any deaths from immediate starvation, but considers that from previous privations illness might have been brought on; during the time he was assisting Mr. Harrold, in every case of destitution properly represented by any Guardian or respectable ratepayer, he afforded relief as soon as possibly could be; but from the crowds that presented themselves, although Mr. Harrold and his assistant worked for 17 hours out of the 24, there must have been many whose cases could not be taken down, and others whose names were taken down, but their cases could not be properly attended to by the relieving officer from the extreme press of business. Deponent thinks the present distress is very great, as there is now no employment given by the farmers; last year there was some employment on the public works.

JOSEPH BURKE, Poor Law Inspector.

THOMAS MAHONY.

The examination of John Harrold, who being duly sworn, saith he is acting as assistant to his brother, Mr. Harrold, the relieving officer; he will be acting three weeks next Wednesday. Deponent was employed more at the books than in visiting the houses of applicants, but did visit a few houses; did not hear of persons dying of starvation, but has heard that privations or want brought on lingering sickness. In deponent's opinion the people are very much distressed, including the labouring classes who have no employment.

JOHN HARROLD.

The examination of Patrick Burke Ryan, who being duly sworn, saith, that he had been a Guardian of the Thurles Union, on the opening of the workhouse, for a year, and has been for the last year a Guardian and a deputy vice-chairman of the Board, and one of the most constant attendants, and for the last five weeks has been almost daily at the Board-room, that is, since the pressure for relief commenced. Deponent read a letter addressed by him to the editor of the Dublin Evening Post, a copy of which he hands in, marked B. During the last five weeks, deponent and his brother Guardians have devoted a great deal of their time to the examination of applicants for relief, and the Guardians are only guilty of exceeding their powers in administering relief to those whom they were not legally entitled to administer it to; and they were led to do so from a wish that even a thousand not entitled to legal relief might receive it, sooner than that one should perish from starvation. Deponent thinks that of the number on the Thurles electoral division now receiving out-door relief, not above one half are entitled, legally, to relief, but deponent and his brother Guardians have been solely influenced in their exceeding their power by the motives which deponent has just stated; deponent is of opinion that if the Guardians go on in the same ratio giving relief, the entire valuation of the Thurles electoral division will be swallowed up; deponent heard or knows of no death from starvation having occurred in the Thurles electoral division, nor in the Thurles Union; deponent is one of the highest ratepayers in the Union, his rates will be about 100*l.* this year; deponent considers that there is great destitution at present existing in the Union; considers that such arises from the want of employment rather than the price of food.

P. B. RYAN.

The examination of Thomas O'Meara, who being duly sworn, saith, that he is one of the coroners of the county of Tipperary, and for the northern and part of the southern divisions of the Union, which includes the district comprising the Thurles Union; there was no inquest held by deponent during the last six months, in which a verdict was brought in of death by starvation. The only case there was bordering on starvation was that of a body found at Drum, on Sunday the 31st December, the name was Mary Canny, she was found dead on the side of the road, and deponent held an inquest on her (deponent hands in a copy of the depositions taken on the occasion, marked C.)

Sworn before me this 8th day of January, 1848.

JOSEPH BURKE, Poor Law Inspector.

THOMAS O'MEARA.

The examination of James H. Bracken, who being duly sworn, saith, that he is sub-inspector of constabulary, and stationed at Thurles. Deponent has not during the last six months heard of any case of death from starvation, except in one instance, when a report was made to him by one of the constables (a copy of which, marked D, deponent hands in). There was no inquest held on the occasion, the man being buried, deponent did not think it prudent to have the body disinterred; deponent made inquiry whether the young man, James Ryan, ever made application to the relieving officer, and from what deponent could learn, believes Ryan made no application to the relieving officer. Deponent desired the constables to ascertain who the relieving officer of the district was, and then to let the relieving officer call on the family and give them relief; the family was in such a state of destitution when the constable went there, that the constable had to give relief to them. Deponent's belief as to the town of Thurles, and its neighbourhood, is, that there exists the greatest destitution, and is sure that it extends to the labouring classes. Numbers of women and children have applied to deponent, and stated their having been begging, with a view of being committed to gaol under the Vagrancy Act.

Sworn before me this 8th day of January, 1848.

JOSEPH BURKE, *Poor Law Inspector.*J. H. BRACKEN, 1st Sub-Inspector.

The examination of John Gore Jones, who being duly sworn, saith, that he is the resident magistrate of Thurles district, and has much opportunity of being acquainted with the state of the poor in the district. Deponent thinks, that the labouring classes here are in a wretched state of destitution for want of employment, and have no provisions of their own, and believes that they exist almost on turnips. The destitution has been much increased since the breaking up of the works on the railway. Deponent cannot move from his gate that he is not surrounded by groups of people, who importune him to put them in Bridewell, that they may get food, and pour forth their blessings on deponent for doing so, as if he were conferring on them the greatest obligation. Deponent believes he does not exaggerate when he states, that there have been as many as 150 of these miserable wretches at one time in the Bridewell, committed under the Vagrancy Act. On all occasions that deponent has committed those persons, he has directed the constable to come to the relieving officer to inform him that those persons were in Bridewell; the relieving officer has taken down the names, and been ordered to give relief to them. Deponent has not been aware of any case of a person dying of want, except the case just detailed in the evidence given by Mr. Bracken, the sub-inspector. Deponent did not think it necessary, in this case, that an inquest should be held, as it would only spread alarm, and as there seemed to be no doubt on the subject. Deponent has no reason, as resident magistrate, to suppose that there has been any opposition given to the collection of rates in the district, no application being made to him for assistance. The summonses that were issued have been very few.

Sworn before me this 8th day of January, 1848.

JOSEPH BURKE, Poor Law Inspector.

JOHN GORE JONES.

The examination of George Bradshaw, who being duly sworn, saith, that he is apothecary and registrar to the Thurles Fever Hospital, which was under the Temporary Relief Act, and is now supported by the Guardians under that Act. The hospital is capable of containing 200 patients, there are now 130 in it, and fever is now on the decrease; the highest number in the hospital during the last three months was 170, so that during that time there were always vacancies, but during that time or before, no person was ever refused admission, as soon as they do so, the number was exceeded; there is no difficulty at all thrown in the way of admission, as no one is ever refused admission. Deponent is also medical attendant of the Littleton dispensary; deponent believes that one-fifth at least of poor persons attacked with fever in the rural districts will not come into the fever hospital, from a wish to remain at home amongst their own friends, and from a prejudice they have to come into a fever hospital. As regards the Thurles Fever Hospital, every facility is afforded for admission to it, and if any poor person should die outside of fever, it must be in some measure owing to their not availing themselves of the fever hospital.

Thurles Union.

JOSEPH BURKE, Poor Law Inspector.GEORGE BRADSHAW, Surgeon.

The Rev. Daniel K. Lannigan, Roman Catholic curate, attended during the examination of Mr. Gore Jones, and on its conclusion, Mr. Burke having inquired of Mr. Lannigan if he had any information to give on the matter; Rev. Mr. Lannigan said, that he called at the instance of the Most Rev. Dr. Slattery to state a fact mentioned in Mr. Gore Jones's evidence, namely—the application of the people to be committed to Bridewell, but as Mr. Gore Jones had stated the circumstance, he Mr. Lannigan did not consider it necessary to be examined on the matter.

John Cassidy, a sub-contractor on the railway, stated (on the 7th instant,) that he had at one time 600 labourers employed, one half of whom he discharged some time since, and the other half more recently.

Thurles, January 10, 1848.

John Mannin, relieving officer for the Moycarkey District of Thurles Union, comprising divisions of Moycarkey, Holycross, and Ballymoreen, being duly sworn on the holy Evangelist, deposeth and saith, that on or about the 25th day of November last, he was applied to by a man named Danial Ryan, of Lisbonick, in the electoral division of Holycross in the above Union, for a ticket of admission for himself and three daughters, one 16, one 13, and one 11, to the workhouse of said Union. That deponent gave such ticket of admission on same day; that those persons were admitted on the 30th November following, to the workhouse, having kept the ticket five days without making application on it. At the time of application to him for such ticket of admission, on 25th November, 1847, the applicant, Danial Ryan, informed deponent that a son of his, named James Ryan, died some days previous, of want of food; heard that deceased was about 22 years of age, did not hear that an inquest was held on him; visited the dwelling of Daniel Ryan on his making application for relief, it was in a wretched state, the inmates with scarcely any covering for night or day, they were preparing a scanty meal of stirabout; cannot suppose the son, James Ryan, died of starvation, as if the family of which he was a member were in so destitute a state as to be in danger of death from hunger, they would not keep deponent's ticket for admission to the workhouse five days without making use of it. Deponent further says, relief would have been given to this family ten days previous to the said 25th November, had application been made to him for that purpose, which was before the death of said James Ryan, as this deponent heard and believes. Deponent saith he is giving out-door relief to all classes of destitute persons, with the knowledge of the Board of Guardians; that there is a most urgent necessity for so doing. That there is no employment for the able-bodied, and that the turnips, on which the labouring classes principally subsisted for three months previous to 10th November last, were about that period withdrawn from the fields. Deponent further says, that said Danial Ryan and his daughters are still in the Union workhouse.

(B.)

MY LORD,

As it appears to me your letter to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant implied a serious charge of neglect on the part of the Board of Guardians of this Union, I did expect that ere now some more influential member of our Board would have replied, and set you right on a subject with which you seem not perfectly acquainted. In presuming to address your Lordship, I do so with great diffidence and reluctance, lest in vindicating the conduct of our Board I may, in the slightest degree, displease one of the most amiable and exalted dignitaries of our church, for whom I always had, and ever will have, the most profound respect and sincere esteem.

Constituted as our Board is of men of various classes, there may be slight differences of opinion amongst us on matters of minor importance; but I beg to assure you that, individually and collectively, there never was a body more closely and firmly united in zealously promoting the great object for which we have been embodied—to administer to the wants of the poor, and, if possible, to raise them from destitution to comfort. For weeks previous to the date of your letter, we formed a resolution to attend daily, instead of weekly, at our Board-rooms. We have not only sacrificed our time, but risked our personal safety; first, by encountering an inclement season, and next, by exposing ourselves to that annoyance and danger ever attendant on commingling with crowds of destitute and perhaps diseased people. For my part I have been every day during the last five weeks at the workhouse, with the exception of two or three days, when I was laid up with a severe cold, caught in the discharge of my duty there. And I must in justice to my fellow-labourers state, that we have all acted on the principle that it would be better a thousand persons not entitled to relief should get it than that one individual should die of hunger. The consequence is, that two-thirds of the persons on our relief lists are not legally entitled to relief; and indeed a vast number of them are in better circumstances than many rate-payers who are contributing to their support. At present, about half the population of this district is receiving rations; and if the distribution goes on in the same progression, our expenditure will shortly considerably exceed the nett annual value of this division. Considering this state of affairs, and that the Temporary Relief Act was in force up to a very late period, I cannot conceive on what grounds your Lordship could come to the conclusion, "that the Poor Extension remains almost a dead letter, and that thousands of the people are famishing, and some of them perishing of hunger." If, by famishing, you mean that they are destitute, badly fed, badly clad, and badly housed, your assertion cannot be controverted; for that excellent philanthropist, Mr. Nicholls, many years ago, stated that one-third of our population was in that state; but if you mean to convey that they are famishing and dying of hunger, I must, in justice, respectfully state, that not one individual in the Thurles Union died of hunger since the passing the Act you allude to, nor was there any inquest held on the body of any person alleged to have died of starvation. I must further state, that from the highest to the lowest official entrusted with the administration of the Poor Laws in Ireland, I have always observed a most laudable anxiety to afford prompt relief to the destitute, and to treat them with the greatest clemency. At first view, a charitable benevolent mind will be led to think that the cries of the destitute should be instantly appeased, and that the laws should be made at once effective; but when your Lordship considers the embarrassing circumstances in which the executive are placed, I am sure you will make fair allowance for the delay created by the pressure of the people themselves.

That intelligent and hard-working man, Mr. Nicholls, in his admirable report on the state of Ireland, foretold the difficulty of introducing Poor Laws into this country. The greatest statesman proclaimed that it was almost impossible to frame laws to meet the exigency of such an impoverished people. But the greatest of all difficulties has latterly arisen—the principal food of the bulk of our population has been destroyed by an all-wise Providence. With this accumulation of difficulties the Poor Law Commissioners and the Guardians have to contend in administering the laws. We have to steer our course in a most boisterous sea between Scylla and Charybdis. If we are too liberal to the destitute, or if we incautiously give food to those who don't want it, we pauperize the rate-payers—we increase the misery we are bound to alleviate. Regardless of the censure of all parties, we will endeavour to do our duty fairly and firmly; and I am free to confess that the Commissioners have afforded us every facility in doing so. They have sanctioned our procuring further house accommodation, and done all in their power to meet the present emergency.

With a most submissive apology for the liberty I have taken in thus addressing you, and with the most profound respect and sincere esteem,

I have the honour to be your Lordship's most obedient humble servant,

Inquisition at Drom, on view of the body of Catherine Kanny, held the 1st of January, 1848, before Thomas O'Meara.

Anne Russell, sworn.—On Friday, the 31st December, I saw a woman lying on the side of the road at Knocka; I could not say whether she had a cloak or not; Judy Ryan gave me word she was there; I heard from a person called Andrew Ryan that her name was Catherine Kanny, of Borrisoleigh.

Ignatius Browne, constable, sworn.—On yesterday, the 31st, it was reported to me that a person was found dead at Knocka; I learned from Andrew Ryan her name to be Catherine Kanny; I had her removed to the widow Kennedy's house, who gave me liberty to do so.

Dr. Quinlan, sworn.—I have examined the body of deceased; I have opened the stomach, and found it quite full of yellow meal stirabout, it was over extended; I consider her death was caused by epilepsy.

I HAVE to report, that on Saturday last, about the hour of 4 o'clock, P.M., a young man, named James Ryan, living on the townland of Lisbook, and parish of Holycross, was found dead on his bed by his father, who left him at 11 o'clock, A.M., on his going out, seemingly well, but quite weak for want of food. Deceased was 23 years of age, and one of six in family, and obliged to live on a quarter of a stone of meal from the Tuesday previous until the time of his death. Whilst struggling during the day he called for a turnip, but, on receiving it, could not partake of it.

I have further to state, that respectable persons who live near them, informed me, that the whole family are many days suffering for want of food. Deceased's father kept this case quite private, until a few minutes before interment that I received the information; he will this day be buried in Clogher. The Sub-Inspector will please, should he consider it a case for an inquest, to give directions to the coroner accordingly; as also to let me know by return whether I will attend at the church-yard with such witnesses as would be examined by a jury.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS—Proposed Employment of able-bodied Persons receiving Relief, on Private Farms:—January 17, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had before them a resolution of the Board of Guardians of Thurles Union, passed at their meeting of the 11th instant in the following terms:—

"That, in pursuance of the directions of the Poor Law Commissioners, in their order of the 10th instant, to employ any able-bodied paupers who get relief, we direct our relieving officers to give to any rate-payer, on the production of the collector's receipt, to work on his farm a number of labourers, in proportion to the amount of the rate paid. For example, that any man who pays 5*l.* shall get two labourers for 60 days, and so in proportion for every rate-payer paying a higher or smaller sum; and on the rate-payer giving a certificate that these men are working fairly, the relieving officer of the district give them the amount of hire, at full rations, in Indian meal."

In reference to this resolution, the Commissioners desire me to call the attention of the Guardians to the printed letter which followed the sealed order under section 2, in which the Commissioners stated to the Guardians their determination not to approve any arrangement involving the employment of persons receiving relief on the lands of private individuals, and entered fully into the nature of the objections which appear to the Commissioners to exist to any proposal of that nature.

The course proposed by the Guardians of Thurles Union must, if carried out, inevitably lead to the discharge of many of those persons from employment who are now engaged in the cultivation of land for hire. Such, at least, is the direct tendency of the step proposed; for rate-payers now employing persons for hire will not continue to do so, if they can get the work done by labourers furnished them by the relieving officers.

The tendency of the resolution is, in effect, to call upon the relieving officers to interfere between the labourers and the employers of labour throughout the Union, in a manner calculated to disturb the natural relations between those parties; than which nothing can be more fatal to the mutual interests of both, and especially to the industry and independence of the labourer.

The Commissioners, therefore, call on the Guardians to re-consider this resolution, with a view to its being at once rescinded.

ORDER referred to in foregoing.

THURLES UNION.

To the GUARDIANS of the POOR of the THURLES UNION; to the Clerk and other Officers of the said Union, and to all other persons whom it may concern.

WHEREAS it has been shown to our satisfaction that, by reason of the want of room in the workhouse of the said Union, adequate relief cannot be afforded therein to destitute poor persons not being persons permanently disabled, or destitute poor persons disabled by sickness or accident, or destitute poor widows having two or more legitimate children dependent on them, and it is expedient to authorize and empower the Guardians of the said Union to administer relief out of the workhouse to such destitute poor persons, for a limited time as hereinafter mentioned.

Now therefore, we, the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, do hereby authorize and empower the said Guardians to administer relief out of the workhouse, in food, to destitute poor persons not being persons permanently disabled from labour by reason of old age, infirmity, or bodily or mental defect, and not being persons disabled from labour by reason of severe sickness or serious accident, and thereby deprived of the means of earning a subsistence for themselves and their families, whom they are liable by law to maintain, and not being poor widows having two or more legitimate children dependent on them, for two months next ensuing after the date of this order.

—And we do hereby make the following rules and regulations as to the granting, ordering, and giving of relief to all persons who shall be relieved by the said Guardians, under the authority of this order, that is to say:—

1. Every person relieved under the authority of this order shall be relieved in food only; and such food shall, as far as is practicable, be cooked food.
2. Every able-bodied male person relieved under the authority of this order shall, so far as is practicable, be set to perform a task of work during eight hours at least of every day for which he receives such relief.
3. No able-bodied person who shall be in employment, nor any part of his or her family, shall receive relief as a destitute person under the authority of this order.

And for the more effectual administration of relief under this order, we do hereby authorize and direct the said Guardians to appoint so many relieving officers as shall be found sufficient from time to time, to superintend the labour of such persons as shall be set to work, in pursuance of the regulations in this order contained, and otherwise to assist in the administration of relief under this order, as the said Guardians, subject to our approval, shall direct.

Sealed with our seal, this Tenth day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-eight.

EXTRACT from GUARDIANS' MINUTES of 18th January, 1848.

PROPOSED by Martin Quinlan, seconded by Richard Sause,—

Resolved,—That in compliance with the sealed order of the Poor Law Commissioners of the 10th instant, directing this Board to employ the able-bodied paupers in productive works, we unanimously agreed, that the most advantageous way they could be employed was in the cultivation of the land; and we have directed our relieving officers to allot any rate-payer who has paid his rates a certain number of men from our relief lists, in proportion to the rate he has paid, to be employed by him in such a way as he may find most profitable to him.

Resolved,—That the recommendation of the Poor Law Commissioners, contained in their letter of the 13th instant, to employ the able-bodied paupers in no other work than breaking stones, instead of our profitable advantageous, and beneficial mode of employing them in the cultivation of the land, is so preposterous, so ill-considered, and would be so cruel to those poor men at this cold and inclement season, and so ruinous to the rate-payers, by withdrawing so much labour from the land, that we beg of the Commissioners to consider maturely the proposition of this Board, and of other Boards who have acted on our principles, and sanctioned and approved of as it is by the public, before they make an order compelling us to abandon a project, in which we see the greatest possible blessings to all classes, and which has engaged our deep and anxious consideration for some time.

Resolved,—That as the Commissioners direct that relief to the able-bodied is to terminate in two months, and order stone-breaking as the only work they should be employed on for eight hours of the day during that time, we have calculated the expenses in the first place, which we are prepared to prove would be enormous; we have considered the profits also, which would not one-fourth cover the cost of the stones, the wages of stewards, the expense of stone depôts, the hire of horses and cars, &c. &c.; and we are so certain, from our experience of the great inutility of this mode of employment, and so thoroughly convinced that it is bad, that we would sooner submit to have the able-bodied paupers live entirely on the rates, without giving any value for them, than resort to this way of employing them.

Resolved,—Any inference from the good or bad working of the Poor Law in England or Ireland heretofore, cannot be brought to bear against our plan of employing the destitute people who are on our lists; for this reason, that our mode of giving employment, and thereby testing the destitution of those who apply for relief, was never before broached or tried by any other Board of Guardians in England or Ireland; this being the case, and convinced that by the rules and regulations we lay down we shall succeed in our object, we only ask the Commissioners to give our plan a fair trial even for one month, and if at the end of that time, it appears that we are wrong, we will unite most anxiously in any other scheme the Commissioners point out for the better employment of the people.

Passed unanimously.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration resolutions of the Board of Guardians of the Thurles Union on the 18th instant, in which they state their opinion that the most advantageous mode of employing able-bodied paupers receiving out-door relief is to employ them in the cultivation of the land, than in stone-breaking as recommended in the Commissioners' letter of the 13th instant; and in which resolutions the Guardians propose to allot to any rate-payer who has paid his rates a certain number of labourers, in proportion to the rate he has paid, to be employed by him in such a way as he may find most profitable to him.

In reference thereto the Commissioners desire to state, that they disapprove so decidedly of the employment of persons receiving relief on private farms; and they are so strongly convinced that the course proposed by the Guardians, however well intended, would be in the highest degree pernicious, in the long run, to the real interests of the Thurles Union, that they have determined to issue a formal sealed order prohibiting such employment: and the Guardians will receive such order in due course.

The course which the Guardians should pursue is the following :—they should contract with proper parties for the purchase of road metal, and should appoint overseers of the works, under the name of assistant relieving officers, who should take care that each able-bodied man has a definite task of work every day, and is compelled while receiving relief to break stones to such smallness as will render it possible to pass each of them through a ring of a certain diameter. In order to prevent confusion, the system might be commenced with 40 or 50 men, and the number might gradually be increased.

ORDER above referred to.

To the GUARDIANS of the POOR of the THURLES UNION; to the Clerk and other Officers of the said Union, and to all other Persons whom it may concern.

WHEREAS, in pursuance of the provisions of an Act passed in the 10th year of the reign of Her present Majesty, Queen Victoria, intituled, "An Act to make further “provision for the Relief of the Destitute Poor in Ireland,” we, the Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, did, by an order under our Seal, bearing date the 10th day of January instant, authorize and empower the Board of Guardians of the Thurles Union to administer relief out of the workhouse of the said Union for a limited period, to destitute poor persons in the said order described, and did make certain rules and regulations as to the granting, ordering, and giving of such relief, and did direct that every able-bodied male person relieved under the authority of the said order, should, as far as was practicable, be set to perform a task of work during eight hours at least, of every day for which he shall receive such relief.

And whereas the Guardians of the said Union did, at a weekly meeting of the said Guardians held on the 11th day of January instant, make and record upon their minutes, a certain resolution in the following terms, that is to say:—

“That, in pursuance of the directions of the Poor Law Commissioners in their order of the 10th instant, to employ any able-bodied paupers who get relief, we direct our relieving officers to give to any rate-payer, on the production of the collector's receipt, to work on his farm a number of labourers in proportion to the amount of the rate paid; for example, that any man who pays 5*l.* shall get two labourers for 60 days, and so in proportion for every rate-payer paying a higher or smaller sum; and on the rate-payer giving a certificate that these men are working fairly, the relieving officer of the district shall give them the amount of hire at full rations in Indian meal.”

And whereas the said Guardians, at a weekly meeting of the said Guardians, held on the 18th day of January instant, did make and record on their minutes a certain minute and resolution in the following terms, that is to say:—

“Resolved—that, in compliance with the sealed order of the Poor Law Commissioners of the 10th instant, directing this Board to employ the able-bodied paupers in productive work, we unanimously agreed that the most advantageous way they could be employed was in the cultivation of the land, and we have directed our relieving officers to allot any rate-payer who has paid his rates, a certain number of men from our relief lists in proportion to the rate he has paid, to be employed by him in such way as he may find most profitable to him.—Passed.”

And whereas it is inexpedient that persons receiving relief under the said order, should be employed in the cultivation of land occupied by any rate-payer or other person, or for the private profit or advantage of any individual in any way whatever.

Now therefore, in exercise of the powers vested in us in this behalf, we do hereby order and direct, that no person receiving relief under the authority of the said order, shall be set or sent to work by the Guardians of the Thurles Union, or any of their officers, in cultivating land in the occupation of any rate-payer or other person, or shall be employed or sent to be employed by the said Guardians or any of their officers, in any other way for the private profit or advantage of any individual.

Sealed with our seal, this 27th day of January, in the year of our Lord 1848.

Mr. LLOYD, Inspector, to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 26, 1848.

I BEG leave to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that I attended the Board of Guardians of this Union yesterday, and laid before it the necessity of complying with the order and views of the Commissioners. It affords me much pleasure to be enabled to add, that notwithstanding the preconceived ideas the members of the Board had formed regarding the employment of the able-bodied destitute, we had a lengthened and most amicable discussion, the result of which was the resolution forwarded with the minutes of proceedings of the Board by the Clerk of the Union. The Board did not break up until a late hour; I had it not therefore in my power to write by yesterday's post, neither could I this day, for from morning until post hour I was interrupted by the Guardians coming to consult upon different matters connected with the Union. The objection to stone-breaking is, as it should be, giving way; and one of my greatest opponents yesterday declared he was a convert to the Commissioners' views. I pressed upon the Guardians present the necessity of a better system of cultivation, to enable them to pay the rates; that draining was the first step towards such, and that breaking stones in different localities, particularly in those where such an improvement has been carried out, would prove remunerative. I hope to see good result from our discussions.

I visited every part of the workhouse, in company with three of the Guardians, one of whom was chairman of the Board. I think it quite possible to accommodate 1100 persons in the house; the large beds would easily contain three persons; and many of the wards had not the complement of beds they would without inconvenience contain. I think every exertion should be made to encrease just now for a test, house accommodation, in order to reduce the out-door relief list already amounting to near 16.000. I have recommended the Board to apply to the Commissioners for permission to take additional buildings, and to cease giving out-door relief to the able-bodied. The number of females in the house is double that of the males, and the children are at least two-thirds of the inmates.

It is supposed that upon a scrutiny the house may be cleared of about 200 of its present inmates, and that a house could be had near the workhouse capable of containing near 300 more; and if the Commissioners sanctioned the Guardians' admitting near 300 into the house, in addition to the present number, there is no doubt the applicants for out-door relief would be soon diminished. The spring business will soon commence, and if the able-bodied are placed upon out-door relief there will be no end to imposition.

EXTRACT from the MINUTES of PROCEEDINGS of the BOARD of GUARDIANS on the 8th February, 1848.

THAT we protest most strongly against the sealed order of the Commissioners, which prevents this Board from employing the able-bodied paupers in cultivating the land; but sooner than give up the care of our destitute poor into the keeping of paid Guardians, and rather than surrender the property of the rate-payers of this Union into the hands of the paid officials of the Poor Law Commissioners, who we are certain would both stint the poor and waste the rates, we reluctantly obey the order of the 27th ultimo; and though we see that the employment of the people at stone-breaking will not only waste our funds to the amount of 6000*l.*, but leave thousands of acres of land uncultivated in this Union, still we feel constrained to adopt the test of stone-breaking for the able-bodied—and will carry it out in every way as effectually as possible.

TUAM UNION.

PART I.

PAPERS RELATING TO THE POOR LAW DEFAULTERS.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. BOURKE:—January 4, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to request that you will be so good as to make inquiry into the condition of the poor of the Tuam Union, especially in the town of Tuam and in the Killererin electoral division, and to report to the Commissioners on the subject with as little delay as possible.

Mr. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS in reply:—January 11, 1848.

I ARRIVED at Tuam on Sunday evening, which was the earliest moment at which my previous engagements permitted, and have been occupied since then in making such inquiries into the circumstances of this Union as would enable me to afford the required information. At the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians which took place yesterday, I had an opportunity of consulting with the Guardians and relieving officers, and since then I have communicated with such persons as appeared to me likely to afford faithworthy information; and the result has been to convince me that destitution exists to a very great and distressing extent in various parts of this Union. The testimony of every Guardian present at the meeting yesterday and of all the relieving officers was given to this effect; and the large increase of applicants for admission to the workhouse afforded a strong confirmation. The total number of applications appearing on the relieving officers' books amounted to nearly 500, though not more than 250 attended at the workhouse; and if I may judge from these of the districts where the greatest poverty exist, I think I might name the electoral divisions of Lisgeevy, Killererin, Headford, and Tuam, as being at present the districts where the greatest distress prevails.

The relief afforded by the Board of Guardians has undoubtedly not been adequate to the distress; but at the same time it must be stated that they have provided for all cases brought before them in the regular course by their relieving officers which appeared to require it; and having regard to the necessity for caution in the administration of relief from the poor's-rates, I am of opinion that they acted wisely in confining themselves to such cases. The numbers of paupers, however, whom it was found necessary to admit yesterday into the body of the house having exceeded the limit appointed by your order, I called upon the Guardians to exercise the powers for giving out-door relief, as laid down in the first section of the Relief Extension Act, and after some hesitation and reluctance they yielded to my representations, and directed so many of the present inmates to be discharged on out-door allowances as would reduce the number below the regulated limit; they likewise placed a small amount of money in the hands of each relieving officer, to enable him to provide for cases of sudden and urgent necessity. In a few days I trust the children of one sex, now in the schools, will be enabled to occupy the house lately taken for them in the town of Tuam, and thus additional accommodation will be afforded in the workhouse; but neither this nor the additional room to be given by the removal of all the classes described in the first section of the Act, will for any length of time afford means for relieving the numbers who must soon be expected to demand relief, and more extended powers must soon be given to the Board of Guardians. How far they will consent to exercise these powers the experience derived from their debate in the Board-room yesterday renders very doubtful.

Their reluctance to act on the powers of giving out-door relief, which they now possess, arose from the embarrassed financial condition of the Union, and the alleged difficulty of collecting rates taken in connexion with the immense demand they expect will be made upon them. I urged upon the Guardians yesterday my opinion, that it was quite premature in them to assert that the distress could not be adequately provided for from the rates; that as yet no sufficient effort had been made; that the present rate, amounting to not more than 1s. 6d. in the pound, must be considered as a very trifling demand; and that not until a much heavier rate had been struck, and actively put into collection and found deficient, could they with any justice allege that the poverty was beyond the powers of a poor-rate to provide for. And I pointed out to them how badly the present rate had been paid, and represented the duty now devolving on them of exerting themselves to secure its due collection.

In consequence of my representations a Committee of the Guardians met to-day and closely examined the collectors' books, giving directions, when necessary, for immediate proceedings to be taken against all defaulters. This Committee meets again to-morrow to complete the inspection, and I anticipate good results from their proceedings. I was myself engaged with them throughout the day, and I regret to say, I observed instances in which persons of rank and consideration, some of them Guardians, were still in arrear of their rates; in some instances, amongst which I may mention that of Dr. M'Hale, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Tuam, no part of this or the previous rate had been paid; and when it is remembered that this is only the second rate struck in this Union, it will be seen that those parties have thus never contributed to the support of the poor of their district in the manner provided by law.

I reserve some observations upon the proceedings of the Board yesterday, until the minutes shall be referred to me in the usual course.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS:—January 15, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration a report from their Inspector, Mr. Bourke, in which Mr. Bourke states, that destitution exists to a very great and distressing extent in various parts of Tuam Union, but, at the same time, acquaints the Commissioners that on examining the collectors' books he observed instances in which persons of rank and consideration (some of whom were Guardians) were still in arrear in payment of their rates, and that in some instances (amongst which he mentions that of Dr. M'Hale, the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Tuam,) no part either of the present or the previous rate had been paid. And Mr. Bourke further observes, that when it is remembered that the present rate is only the second rate struck in Tuam Union, it will be seen that the latter parties have never contributed to the support of the poor of their district in the manner provided by law.

In reference to Mr. Bourke's report, the Commissioners desire to point out that the facts which it discloses are deeply discreditable to the Tuam Board of Guardians, as such a state of things could not possibly have existed if the Guardians had made use, as they ought to have done, of the extensive powers which they possess to enforce the payment of poor-rates. At a period when great destitution is stated to exist in the Union, the preservation of human life may depend on the manner in which the Guardians levy the rate now in progress of collection; and the Board of Guardians incur a heavy responsibility if they permit any deference to rank or station, or feelings of delicacy towards members of their own body, to interfere with the rigorous exaction of that money from which the destitute poor of the Union are by law entitled to relief.

The Commissioners, therefore, now call upon the Guardians to discharge their duty to the poor—first, by paying the poor-rates which are due from themselves as individuals—and secondly, by instituting legal proceedings without delay against all the highest rate-payers in the Union who are defaulters. The most effectual course will probably be to commence with 8 or 10 of such rate-payers in each electoral division; and if these are promptly compelled to pay, the Commissioners do not anticipate that the Guardians will have any material difficulty with the rest.

At the same time the Commissioners deem it right to state distinctly that unless the Tuam Board of Guardians adopt vigorous measures in accordance with the spirit of the above suggestions, the Commissioners are prepared to exercise their powers under the 18th section of the Irish Relief Extension Act, and to appoint paid officers to administer relief to the destitute in Tuam Union.

Mr. BLAKE, Vice-Chairman of the Board of Guardians, to the COMMISSIONERS :—
January 18, 1848.

Tuam Union.

I AM directed by the Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union to acknowledge the receipt of a communication, dated the 15th January, 1848, and to express their extreme surprise at the report of Mr. Bourke, Poor Law Inspector, therein referred to.

The Board of Guardians are not aware of any neglect on their part in enforcing the collection of the rate, and beg to inform the Commissioners that they have at once adopted any suggestion of Mr. Bourke's in that respect; that circulars to the effect, that legal proceedings would be taken against rate-payers who did not pay in within 10 days from the date thereof, were posted on the 14th instant, at the suggestion of a Committee which was attended by Mr. Bourke himself.

The Board of Guardians, therefore, feel that the threat held out by the Commissioners in the last paragraph of their communication is, to say the least of it, harsh and uncalled for, and went the length of causing a division in the Board as to the expediency of withdrawing themselves from the administration of the affairs of the Union.

REPLY to the above :—January 22, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 18th instant, and to inform you that the Commissioners are in communication with their Inspector, Mr. Richard Bourke, and will address the Board of Guardians at their next meeting.

Further Letter from the COMMISSIONERS to Mr. BLAKE :—January 29, 1848.

ADVERTING to your letter of the 18th instant, and the Commissioners' reply of the 22nd instant, I am directed by the Commissioners to state, that they have reason to believe that their Inspector, Mr. Richard Bourke, will attend the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union on Monday next the 31st instant, and the Commissioners await the result of his communication with the Board of Guardians.

Ordered,—

That it having appeared to the Board that Dr. M'Hale, Roman Catholic Archbishop, had paid the arrears of the former rate, and no credit given for it by the collector; and also having paid the present rate, that the amount of such arrears be deducted from the poundage due to him.

Mr. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 4, 1848.

THE Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union, having declared by a resolution passed at their meeting of the 24th January, that the Rev. Dr. M'Hale, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Tuam, was not liable to the payment of the arrear of poor-rates charged against him in the collector's books, as communicated to you in my letter of the 11th January, I have made inquiry into the evidence upon which they arrived at this conclusion, and find it to have been as follows :—

The Rev. Mr. Ryan appeared before the Board on the 24th instant, and stated that he had paid to Patrick Lally, late rate collector of Tuam electoral division, who has since died, a sum of about 3*l.* charged to Dr. M'Hale, as poor's rates for the house he occupies, and other premises of which he is landlord. He further stated that he had got no receipt, but that Lally had acknowledged in presence of others that he had received the amount. I am informed that a Guardian present at the meeting, stated that he had heard Lally state this before his death, but on the other hand, that another Guardian held a different opinion, and stated that Lally had declared that the amount had never been paid.

Tuam Union.

I instituted the best inquiry I could into the evidence on this subject, but owing to the peculiar circumstances of the case, I regret to say I have not been able to arrive at any certain result. The death of Lally has cut off the source of the best, if not the only information, that in a legal point of view, can be brought to bear on the subject, and what is now available, cannot be considered as directly affecting the matter at issue. Such as it is, however, together with my opinion upon it, I beg to report.

The first rate struck in the Tuam Union bears date the 24th of October, 1842, and under it Dr. M'Hale was charged as follows:—

Killalouty, No. 954, Dr. M'Hale		0	4	6
Bishop-street, 1524, ditto		0	18	9
Dit 1576, Archbishop M'Hale		0	9	7
Dublin-road, 1576, ditto		1	2	11
Old Chapel, 1821, Dr. M'Hale		0	2	1	Not to pay poor rates.
Tierboy, 2152, Archbishop M'Hale		0	3	3½
Total		3	1	1½

By a return which I found in the clerk's office, signed by Patrick Lally, and dated the 13th July, 1846, purporting to be a return of all persons in arrear of their rates at that date in Tuam electoral division, I find Dr. M'Hale's name appearing for all the denominations specified above. Up to that date it seems therefore pretty clear that the rate was unpaid. Patrick Lally appears to have died about April or May, 1847, so that it must have been during the interval that the amount was paid. He has left only one son, who is a child, now residing with his uncle, a Roman Catholic clergyman, near Clifden. I have examined Lally's collecting books, but no entry appears of any payment made to him on this account. And his block receipts have also been searched, but no record of any acknowledgment for this amount can be found. I have not been able yet to examine these blocks, as they are in custody of Mr. William Gannon, who for the present is disinclined to give them up, but I have no doubt that I shall have an opportunity of examining them on my next visit. After the death of Lally, a revision of the valuation of the Union took place, and Dr. M'Hale's name was omitted in connexion with the two last denominations as given above, viz., Nos. 1821 and 2152, but retained in the rest. On the 14th of June, 1847, a new rate was struck, and on the 5th July following, the present collector, Patrick Ryan, was appointed. The circumstances connected with Dr. M'Hale's rates, as far as Ryan is concerned, are detailed in the accompanying deposition which I have taken, in order to show that he acted according to his duty in demanding not only the amount of the rate of the 14th June, 1847, but likewise of the former one which was returned to him in the late collector's books as in arrear.

The result of this evidence appears to be, that judging from documents available for purposes of this inquiry, it appears clear that the whole rate and arrear were due by Dr. M'Hale at the time when the Committee examined into the state of the collection. This documentary evidence is, however, qualified by the statement of the Rev. Mr. Ryan, and the conversation sworn to by Patrick Ryan, as having taken place between him and Dr. M'Hale. But as neither of these statements are legal evidence upon the issue now pending, but at the same time are entitled to weight from the source from which they proceed, I fear it is impossible to place the matter on a footing quite free from doubt.

I shall continue my inquiries when at Tuam, on Monday, and if I can derive any information bearing on the matter I shall not fail to communicate it.

ENCLOSURE.

Patrick Ryan sworn.—Am rate collector for the electoral divisions of the county and borough of Tuam; Clare, Tuam, and Cummer, in the Union of Tuam; was appointed to this situation on or about the 5th of July, 1847; immediately after this date I commenced having the collector's books for these electoral divisions filled up from the revision books of Matthew Kearney, which were in custody of the clerk of the Guardians. I compared the collecting books when completed with Kearney's revision book, and found them to correspond. In the column of arrears and rate due, I find the following entries:—

- No. 321, (Bishop-street,) house, garden, and offices, Archbishop M'Hale, value 45*l.*; rate, 3*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*; arrears, 18*s.* 9*d.*
 No. 330, (Bishop-street,) Corlea Nunnery, Archbishop M'Hale, value 23*l.*; rate, 1*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*; arrears, 9*s.* 7*d.*
 No. 435, (Dublin-road,) two waste-houses and land, Archbishop M'Hale, value, 55*l.*; rate, 4*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*; arrears, 1*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*
 No. 852, (Killalouty,) lands, Dr. M'Hale, value 10*l.* 16*s.*; rate, 16*s.* 2*d.*; arrears, 4*s.* 6*d.*

In the month of October last, as well as I remember, I wrote to Dr. M'Hale demanding payment of his poor's rates; could not see him on that occasion, but left the letter. I made a second application some time after, but could not see him, as he was unwell. About the month of January I called at his house with the particulars of his account; he came down to see me; he stated he would pay, but asked me to look over the books, to see whether he had received credit for 3*l.* paid, as he said, by the Rev. Mr. Ryan. I promised to do so, and accordingly looked over the books, but could find no entry of any such payment; about a fortnight ago I called on the Rev. Mr. Ryan on the subject of the rates; he desired me to draw up receipts and that he would pay; he said nothing to me about the arrear. On Monday, the 24th January, I met him as I was going to the workhouse; he again told me to draw up the receipts and he would pay; he said nothing to me about the arrears. I went up to the workhouse, and when I entered the Board-room the Rev. Mr. Ryan was there. The Guardians desired me to take the amount of the rate due, without the arrear, and to make an entry on my collection book that the whole was paid; they also desired me to give a receipt for the rate, but to make a memorandum on the block receipt that I had not been paid the arrears. In pursuance of their orders, I gave receipts for the rate to the Rev. Mr. Ryan, who paid me the sum of 10*l.* 0*s.* 8*d.*, being the amount of rate due by Dr. M'Hale; I gave the receipt in the name of Dr. M'Hale.

PAT. RYAN.

Sworn before me this 3rd day of February, 1848.

RICHARD BOURKE, Poor Law Inspector.

I certify the corrections were made by me on the dictation of the deponent, whose statements varied slightly on this being read to him, from what they had been at first.

R. BOURKE.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS:—February 11, 1848.

THE Commissioners have received the minutes of the proceedings of the Guardians of Tuam Union on the 24th of January last, in which they find the following resolution recorded:—

“Ordered—That it having appeared to the Board that Dr. M'Hale, Roman Catholic archbishop, had paid the arrears of the former rate, and no credit given for it by the collector, and also having paid the present rate, that the amount of such arrears be deducted from the poundage due to him.”

In a previous letter of the Commissioners to the Guardians, of the 15th January, they mentioned the fact reported to them by their Inspector, Mr. Bourke, that the Roman Catholic archbishop had paid neither the present nor the previous rate, and the resolution passed by the Guardians on the 24th being at variance with that statement, the Commissioners instructed Mr. Bourke to make inquiry into the grounds on which the resolution of the Guardians was passed.

Mr. Bourke has since informed the Commissioners that the evidence on which the Guardians arrived at their conclusion was as follows:—

The Rev. Mr. Ryan appeared before the Board, and stated that he paid to Patrick Lally, late rate-collector, (who died in April, 1847,) a sum of about 3*l.* charged to Dr. M'Hale as poor rates. He further stated that he had got no receipt, but that Lally had acknowledged in presence of others that he had received the amount.

Mr. Bourke was informed that a Guardian present at the meeting, stated he had heard Lally say this before his death, but on the other hand, that another Guardian held a different opinion, and stated that Lally had declared that the amount had never been paid.

It appears further, from Mr. Bourke's report, that no entry was made of any such payment in the collecting-book of Lally, the late collector; and that although the block receipts left by that collector are preserved, no block receipt corresponding to this payment has been found.

Under these circumstances the Commissioners are of opinion that the Guardians took a hasty and improper step in declaring, by a vote of the Board, that the arrear had been paid; and in desiring the present collector, as it appears from his sworn evidence they did, to accept the amount of rate due without the arrear, and to make an entry on his collection book that the whole was paid. It seems that after this order was given, the Rev. Mr. Ryan paid the amount of the latter rate to the collector, and took his receipt for it in the name of Dr. M'Hale.

A collector of poor rates is bound by the rules of the Commissioners to issue a receipt for every payment of rate, and to preserve and hand over to the clerk the counterpart or block receipt; and it is the examination of these receipts by the clerk, and comparison thereof with the sums lodged in bank, which constitute the principal checks on the collector's accounts.

The omission to give a receipt on payment of a rate, and to render any account of such payment in his books, is prima facie an act of peculation and embezzlement on the part of the collector; and the Commissioners think that the Guardians should not lightly have cast such an imputation on a deceased collector; in justice to whom the Commissioners must observe, that no other instance has come to their knowledge, of a rate-payer having paid Mr. Lally his rate, and not having received credit for it.

The Commissioners do not doubt that the Roman Catholic archbishop and the Rev. Mr. Ryan, his administrator, are both under the impression that the arrears of the first rate were paid, and the length of time which intervened between the making of that rate and the close of the collection may have assisted in throwing some obscurity on the subject.

The first rate made in Tuam Union for the relief of the poor was made in October, 1842; it was only by a peremptory mandamus of the Court of Queen's Bench, obtained by the Poor Law Commissioners, after long process in that Court, that the Guardians were induced to place warrants in the hands of collectors to collect that rate, which they did on the approach of Michaelmas Term, 1845.

The warrant given by the Guardians to the deceased collector, Lally, bore date 20th October, 1845. A return signed by Lally on the 13th July, 1846, is still in existence, showing the Roman Catholic archbishop had not at that time paid that rate; and in the October following the collector Lally declared that the archbishop had not only not paid his rate, but had refused to pay it.

The last examination of Lally's accounts was made by the clerk at the end of March, 1847, and the total arrear then appearing, viz., 106*l.*, was carried into the new rate signed by the Guardians in June, 1847, including the arrears then supposed to be due from the Roman Catholic archbishop. The collector took fever early in April, 1847, and died on the 29th of that month.

If previously to his death the collector received that arrear from the Rev. Mr. Ryan on behalf of the archbishop, it certainly was never accounted for by him; and although such appears to be the impression of the archbishop and his administrator, that impression may be erroneous; and when, to the improbability already suggested, that in this particular instance the collector omitted to issue a receipt or to give credit, the further improbability is added, that the Rev. Mr. Ryan, when paying the rate on the part of the archbishop, would neglect to require a receipt, the Commissioners cannot but think it would have been a far more satisfactory course, if the Board of Guardians had permitted the present collector to use his power of recovering the arrears, and thereby obtain an adjudication from a proper tribunal on the facts of the case, than to direct, as they did, the collector to forego the arrears on payment only of the latter rate.

The Commissioners felt themselves called on, by the resolution of the Guardians, to have special enquiry made in this particular instance of default. They trust that in the cases of other parties of rank and station in the Union, who have been reported as defaulters, or as denying their liabilities, the solicitor of the Guardians will strenuously carry on the legal proceedings which the Commissioners understand he has, in accordance with their suggestions, been directed to commence.

The Rev. LUKE RYAN, R.C.C. to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 18, 1848.

FROM your letter of the 11th instant addressed to the Tuam Board of Guardians, the Poor Law Commissioners have done what in them lay to place my name before the public in a light calculated to compromise my character for veracity; similar insinuations against the Board of Guardians and against his Grace the Archbishop of Tuam I pass by without comment, simply remarking that it did not well become the Commissioners to introduce again his Grace's name after my public declaration "that whatever mistake had occurred in reference to this disputed rate, was owing exclusively to my neglect in not being more attentive in procuring the proper receipt from the deceased collector."

I cannot easily persuade myself that the Board of Commissioners would intentionally volunteer their services as auxiliaries to the rabid press of England in blackening the character of men whose lives are evidence of the salutary influence exerted by their teaching over a starving and oppressed population, yet the following statement, in the letter referred to, having the object of falsifying the public evidence given by me before the Board, and corroborated by many respectable members of the same Board, appear as if the Commissioners had directly intended to join in these widely circulated aspersions.

First,—Mr. Bourke, your Inspector, states in his report "that a Guardian had asserted that Lally, the collector, had declared that the amount had never been paid;" as this statement in the report is strictly false, I call upon Mr. Bourke to produce his authority.

Secondly,—Mr. Bourke's report would make it appear that he examined the block receipts of Lally; now this assertion is equally untrue, as I have unquestionable evidence to prove he has never seen them at all.

Thirdly,—Mr. Bourke's assertion that one Guardian only stated that "he had heard Lally declare before his death that the amount in question had been paid, though no receipt was issued," is likewise open to the same charge of falsehood, as I have abundant evidence to prove that Mr. Bourke knew full well that not only one but three Guardians, together with some of the present officers of the house, had attested the payment of the money in question. Now I would submit that the extreme sensitiveness of Mr. Bourke to shield from obloquy the memory of the dead, ought, in justice, to manifest a similar regard for the characters of the living, and not wilfully attempt to discredit, and thus calumniate, the accumulated evidence of so many respectable witnesses. Without entering here into the merits of the question of selecting some rate-payers as objects for public odium, I might fairly ask why so much pains are taken in the case of the Archbishop of Tuam, and pass over men of large fortune, viz., Martin James Blake, M.P.? Is it because he supported the Government in the late tyrannical Coercion Act.

In conclusion, as the Commissioners, along with other unbecoming insinuations, labour to make it appear that my "impression" with regard to the payment is "erroneous" and as their judgment in the case is founded upon the foregoing and similar false and prejudiced statements, I call for, and must insist upon, a further searching and more impartial investigation of this affair.

Before, therefore, I call any further attention to the proceeding I await your earliest reply.

REPLY to the above :—February 25, 1848.

THE Commissioners have received your letter of the 18th instant, adverting to their correspondence with the Guardians of the Tuam Union on the subject of the poor-rate and arrears of poor-rate assessed on the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Tuam.

You state, that it did not well become the Commissioners to introduce his Grace's name after your public declaration, that whatever mistake had occurred in reference to this disputed rate, was owing exclusively to your neglect in not being more attentive in procuring the proper receipt from the deceased collector.

Your declaration to the above effect was not made known to the Commissioners in any shape, and had it been so the Commissioners must nevertheless have expressed themselves precisely as they did in their letter to the Guardians of Tuam Union, of the 11th instant. The Commissioners wrote that letter in the discharge of a paramount and pressing duty. On the one hand, they received representations of the most urgent distress in that Union, unrelieved for want of funds through non-collection of rates; and on the other hand, they found the Guardians hastily deciding on a verbal statement opposed to the evidence of their own books, that a rate-payer of so much consideration as his Grace the Roman Catholic Archbishop had paid a rate for which no receipt could be produced, and which it was well known he had expressed his unwillingness to pay.

The Commissioners regret that, in the performance of their official duty, expressions should have proceeded from them in any way hurtful to your feelings; and that, while stating they had no doubt you were under the impression that the Roman Catholic Archbishop's arrear had been paid, they felt themselves constrained to advert, at the same time, to the possibility that such an impression might be erroneous.

Tuam Union.

In reply to your observations thereon, the Commissioners will now recapitulate the circumstances which led them so to express themselves.

In their letter to the Guardians of Tuam Union, dated 15th January last, the Commissioners cited a report from their Inspector, Mr. Bourke, in which the Roman Catholic Archbishop, Dr. M'Hale, was named as a defaulter both for the present rate, and also for an arrear of the only other rate which had before been made in the Tuam Union.

The former of the two rates was made in October, 1842, and the latter in June, 1847. The amount assessed on the archbishop in the former was about 3*l.*, and in the latter about 10*l.*

The Guardians received the letter of the Commissioners at their meeting of the 17th January last, and at the following meeting of the 24th, you are said to have attended at the Board and to have stated that you had paid the former rate to the deceased collector, Lally. It appears that you then tendered the amount of the second rate to the present collector, who, by desire of the Guardians, received it, and the Guardians then passed their resolution exonerating the archbishop from any further liability for either the first or second rate.

The sworn evidence given by the collector on this point is in the following terms:—

"In the month of October last (as well as I remember), I wrote to Doctor M'Hale demanding payment of his poor's-rates; could not see him on that occasion, but left the letter. I made a second application some time after, but could not see him, as he was unwell. About the month of January, I called at his house with the particulars of his account, he came down to see me, he stated he would pay, but asked me to look over the books to see whether he had received credit for 3*l.* paid, as he said, by the Reverend Mr. Ryan. I promised to do so, and accordingly looked over the books, but could find no entry of any such payment. About a fortnight ago, I called on the Reverend Mr. Ryan on the subject of the rates. He desired me to draw up receipts and that he would pay. He said nothing to me about the arrears. On Monday, the 24th January, I met him as I was going to the workhouse, he again told me to draw up the receipts and he would pay. He said nothing to me then about the arrears. I went up to the workhouse, and when I entered the Board-room the Reverend Mr. Ryan was there, the Guardians desired me to take the amount of the rate without the arrears due, and to make an entry on my collection book that the whole was paid. They also desired me to give a receipt for the rate; but to make a memorandum on the block receipt, that I had not been paid the arrear. In pursuance of their orders I gave receipts for the rate to the Reverend Mr. Ryan, who paid me the sum of 10*l.* 0*s.* 8*d.*, being the amount of rate due by Doctor M'Hale. I gave the receipt in the name of Doctor M'Hale."

With such information before them the Commissioners did not regard your communication to the Guardians as having resulted from any very confident impression of your own upon the subject. The payment, if made by you to the deceased collector, must have been made before the end of April, 1847, about which time he died; and the Commissioners were not made acquainted with any circumstantial facts attending the supposed payment, or with the existence of any entry in your pecuniary accounts with the archbishop, which might have served to assist your memory at this distance of time, ten months, regarding so small a sum as (three pounds) the amount of the arrears.

Should the Commissioners under these circumstances have done you any injustice by mentioning the possibility of your impression being erroneous, they will be most happy to repair it by every means in their power, and on receiving from you a positive statement that you paid the rate of 1842 for the archbishop, and any particulars which you may choose to make known to them as showing the accuracy of your impressions, they will not fail to give your statement the same publicity as the other correspondence on this subject, in the event of the latter being at any time furnished for the information of Parliament, as it probably will be.

The Commissioners must now advert to the reflections made by you on the accuracy of Mr. Bourke's report. They have referred your observations to Mr. Bourke; and he replies that, not having been present at the meeting when your statement was made, he cannot take upon himself to say what the exact expressions were that fell from members on that occasion, but that he has no reason to doubt that the information given to him was, in its leading points, perfectly true. Mr. Bourke adds that as to his knowledge, that not only one but three Guardians stated that Lally had acknowledged the receipt of the archbishop's rates, he cannot remember that at the date of his report, he had even heard of more than one person having so testified, and though at a subsequent meeting of the Board, where he had a conversation with yourself, he did hear a second person so assert, yet up to the present hour he does not know who is the third.

With reference to the other point on which you declare Mr. Bourke's report to be untrue, the Commissioners must themselves observe that you impute to Mr. Bourke a statement which, in fact, he never made, viz., that he "examined the block-receipts of Lally." Mr. Bourke reported to the Commissioners on the contrary that he had not examined the block-receipts; but he stated that they were in existence, and were withheld from him by one of the Guardians; but that no block-receipt had been found among them applicable to the archbishop's rates. It is manifest that this part of Mr. Bourke's report must be correct, when you yourself say that you neglected to obtain from the deceased collector a receipt, in which case there could be no block-receipt; and your assertion therefore of Mr. Bourke's inaccuracy on this point had no relevancy to the question at issue.

You say that you call for, and insist upon, a further searching and more impartial investigation of this affair. The Commissioners do not see on what grounds you rest this peremptory claim for enquiry at their hands.

The Commissioners have censured the late Board of Guardians for passing a hasty resolution excusing a rate-payer from rates appearing due on the collector's warrant; and they are well satisfied that that censure was justified by the occasion; and they do not consider that you have any ground for complaining that the terms in which the Commissioners expressed themselves were not perfectly respectful towards you. On the contrary, the Commissioners have distinctly stated their belief that you were under the impression that the archbishop's arrears were paid; and the Commissioners now repeat that they will be most happy to receive and give effect to any communication from you which may tend to show that your impression was well founded.

IT is painful, while thousands of the poor people around me are dying of actual starvation, to be wasting time in again urging upon the Commissioners the obvious necessity of having the payment of this much-contested rate cleared up. My character, however, requires it, the public expect it, justice demands it. Shift the matter as the Commissioners may, the whole question, disembarrassed of any sophistry, comes simply to this: Was the rate in question paid by me? and, if paid, and if the means of ascertaining the said payment was easily accessible to the Commissioners and their Inspector, have not the public a right to ask, why not ascertain the fact before holding up, and continuing to hold up, for special annoyance the Archbishop of Tuam?

Now, with reference to your reply of the 25th February, the Commissioners, it appears, expect from me a "positive statement" that I paid the rate. What do the Commissioners mean by this positive statement on my part? Now, in their own letter of the 11th February, addressed to the Tuam Guardians, I find the following words:—"The Rev. Mr. Ryan appeared before the Board, and stated that he paid Patrick Lally, late rate-collector (who died in April, 1847), a sum of 3*l.*, charged to Dr. M'Hale as poor-rate." And in the letter of the 25th ultimo, now lying before me, the following words occur:—"And at the following meeting of the 24th, you were said to have attended at the Board, and to have stated that you had paid the former rate to the deceased collector, Lally." If these words of mine, quoted from their own communications, contain not an express and positive statement in reference to the said payment, perhaps the Commissioners will condescend to enlighten me on the meaning of my own language, and say what form of words will convey what they call a positive statement.

In reference to the sworn evidence of the present collector, introduced into the letter, I am at a loss to discover what bearing it has upon the question at issue, unless to prove to the public, from the very words of the same sworn evidence, that I was prepared to pay the collector the amount of his just claims upon the archbishop.

With regard to the reflections thrown upon what the Commissioners term the hasty resolution of the Board of Guardians, and the "possibility of my impressions being erroneous," I will merely beg to remind the Commissioners that when about to give evidence before a public body, composed of men of high station and rank, magistrates, deputy lieutenants, differing with each other in religion and political opinions, it is not only unlikely, but quite impossible, that I would venture upon such a statement without such due consideration as would preclude the possibility of an "erroneous impression." Moreover, will that resolution be called hasty which was deliberately passed by such a body, when, after further investigation and more mature inquiry, the same resolution, and in stronger terms, was again repeated? And, in confirmation thereof, I beg to submit to the Commissioners the following extract, taken from the proceedings of the Board of Guardians assembled on the 4th of February:—"Mr. James Kirwan, Blindwell, said that the letter of the Commissioners was insulting to them as a public body, and also a highly respectable Catholic clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Ryan, and should not be allowed to pass. The Board were fully satisfied that Mr. Ryan had paid the archbishop's rate when they passed the resolution complained of. Although the late collector did not give Mr. Ryan a receipt, he acknowledged to several persons that he had been paid the archbishop's rate by the Rev. Mr. Ryan, and all that was stated here before. If no other gentleman more competent would take it up, he would propose a resolution, stating that, notwithstanding the insulting letter of the Commissioners, we reiterate our firm conviction, not alone that the Rev. Mr. Ryan stated the truth before this Board, but that Dr. M'Hale's rate was fairly and honourably paid, and that we indignantly repudiate the statement put forth in that letter, evidently with the view of throwing discredit on the reverend gentleman's statement, and censure on our act as a public body for directing the present collector to allow it. Mr. Kirwan concluded by proposing the following resolution:—

"Resolved—That we, the late Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union, have with astonishment read the unwarrantable letter of the Poor Law Commissioners, reflecting on our conduct as a Board, and accusing us of neglect of duty. We again express our convictions that the Rev. Mr. Ryan has paid the Archbishop of Tuam's rate, and our surprise is great when that letter doubts or disbelieves the statement of the reverend gentleman, supported as it was by three of the Guardians, a support which we hold to be totally unnecessary, who heard from the late collector that he received it."

"Mr. Thomas O. C. Donelan, J. P., seconded the resolution."

Does that extract imply that their resolve was hasty, or "my impressions erroneous?"

With regard to the attempt made by the Commissioners to exculpate their Inspector, Mr. Bourke, my first charge is left unanswered. Again I repeat it, Who is the Guardian that told him that "the collectors stated this rate was never paid?"

From your letter it seems Mr. Bourke had only the authority of one Guardian that the rate was paid; now from your present letter it appears Mr. Bourke has discovered that a second Guardian has corroborated that statement. Perhaps, if Mr. Bourke will take a little further trouble, he will discover a third Guardian. And in the next letter of the Commissioners it may come out that Mr. Bourke has discovered more of the evidence to which I alluded in reference to the payment.

As to my alleged distortions of Mr. Bourke's report in reference to his inquiry into the block receipts of Lally, I will content myself by referring any impartial reader to that portion of the letter of the Commissioners of the 11th February, to the Tuam Guardians, in which the following words occur:—"That although the block receipts left by that collector are preserved, no block receipt corresponding to this payment had been found." Now I must again repeat that if language has any definite or distinct meaning, my charge, founded upon this extract, is perfectly accurate and by no means distorted. And, to justify Mr. Bourke still further upon this subject, the Commissioners, in their last letter, declare that Mr. Bourke reports that the block receipts were in existence, but were withheld from him by one of the Guardians. Now this is a further inaccuracy in Mr. Bourke's statement, as I have incontrovertible evidence to prove the said block receipts were never withheld by that one Guardian.

Finally allow me to call the attention of the Commissioners to one extract more from your last letter in reference to this said Mr. Bourke of accurate notoriety. The Commissioners make him say that he (Mr. Bourke) not having been present at the meeting when your statement was made, he cannot take upon himself to say what the exact expressions were that fell from the members on that occasion, but that he has no reason to doubt the information given to him, was in its leading points perfectly true. Now allow me to ask what is the character of this private information to which Mr. Bourke refers. He was not present he says at the proceedings, but upon what he calls his source of information, he chooses without knowledge of the evidence upon which their conclusion was formed, to brand the resolution of the Board, at which he says he was not present, with precipitancy, and my impressions as erroneous. Are the public to be left to the mercy of this anonymous informer, of whose credibility they are kept in ignorance.

But although more than sufficient has been already said to show that my statement was made with all due deliberation, enough has been said to bear out the impossibility of my impressions being erroneous. Although the hastiness of the resolution imputed to the Board of Guardians has been shown to be the effect of mature deliberation; although Mr. Bourke's statements are upon the showing of the present letter turning out to be not free from glaring inaccuracies, yet even at the risk of running into too great a length in reply, I must cull one extract more from this studied diplomatic communication. The Commissioners themselves call the arrear in question, "the small amount of three pounds." Now the public have yet a right to demand (even if this small sum was proved not paid); why hold up for public odium, and select for special annoyance, the Archbishop of Tuam. And as I mentioned before, why pass over others whose unpaid rate far exceeds that sum, viz., M. J. Blake, M.P., a member of the same Board of Guardians. Is it because by his ministerial support he aided the ministry, in saddling upon the necks of the people the odious Coercion Act, and by a similar subserviency was silent without demanding and insisting upon food for the starving thousands in his own locality. The Commissioners therefore cannot be surprised that I still demand a searching investigation, not based solely upon the anonymous information so much relied upon by their inspector, Mr. Bourke; especially when I remind them that Commissions are now the order of the day, and with a full conviction before me, that the mass of evidence to be produced at the investigation, would, in the hands of the Attorney-General, suffice to convict to the scaffold, or doom to perpetual exile, whole thousands of our ill-fated and starving fellow countrymen.

REPLY to the above:—March 8, 1848.

THE Commissioners received on the 6th instant your letter bearing date the 2nd instant, and in reply I am to state that the Commissioners regard your letter as a direct declaration of the fact that the arrears of the archbishop's rate assessed in October, 1842, were paid by you on his behalf, to the late collector, Lally, previously to his death in April, 1847, although no particulars relative to such payment are stated by you of the nature referred to in the Commissioners' letter of the 25th ultimo.

No record of what you stated to the Board of Guardians has been made upon their minutes; the Commissioners could not previously refer to any account of the transaction, as proceeding directly from yourself.

The Commissioners continue to think that the Guardians of Tuam Union ought not to have passed a resolution on this subject, purporting to determine a question of fact, and to interfere with the free-exercise of the present collector's power to recover rates which were included in his warrant, and which by the documentary evidence appeared to be unpaid.

Your desire to have an official inquiry instituted for the purpose of proving your veracity, is not one which the Commissioners feel themselves called upon to comply with, inasmuch as they never questioned the sincerity of your convictions on this subject. They have, however, adopted a course which they trust will be equally satisfactory to you, by directing the Vice-Guardians of the Union to inform the present collector, that the Commissioners are advised he is not bound by the resolution of the late Board of Guardians, and that he is still at liberty to proceed in the exercise of his powers to recover the arrears from the archbishop, notwithstanding that by desire of the Guardians he gave you at their meeting of the 24th January, a receipt for the subsequent rate which you then and there paid.

The Vice-Guardians will be at the same time instructed to require the collector to discharge his duty in this respect, should they not be enabled to satisfy themselves by previous inquiry that the arrear has actually been paid. Should the Vice-Guardians so satisfy themselves, the Commissioners will not fail to inform you thereof, otherwise the collector will be required to proceed, and in the event of the archbishop's declining to acquiesce in such proceeding, you will have an opportunity of making your statement upon oath, before a tribunal competent to decide upon the question, whether the rate has or has not been paid.

The contents of your letter as they relate to Mr. Bourke, will be communicated to him, but the Commissioners are most desirous that in justice to you, the papers about to be submitted to Parliament should contain the correspondence up to this point; and they must defer their reply to that part of your letter until they receive Mr. Bourke's observations upon it.

PART II.

DISSOLUTION OF BOARD OF GUARDIANS.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. BOURKE :—January 20, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a copy of a communication addressed to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant by the Rev. John O'Grady, P.P., which has been referred to the Commissioners, relative to the destitution alleged to exist in the parish of Abbeyknockmoy in the Tuam Union, together with a copy of a letter which the Commissioners have addressed to the Board of Guardians on the subject; and I am desired to request that you will be so good as to make inquiry and report specially to the Commissioners on the subject of these statements, and also to report as to the course which you would recommend to be taken to afford effectual relief to the destitute poor in this Union.

ENCLOSURES.

Mr. O'GRADY, Parish Priest, of Abbeyknockmoy and Monivea, Dangan, to Lord CLARENDON.

As I am extremely sorry to be obliged to trespass on your Lordship's invaluable time even for a moment, in the detail of facts connected with this respectful communication, I shall be as brief as possible.

This parish of Abbeyknockmoy, in the county of Galway, comprises 1100 families. Out of that population upwards of 400 persons have died the last 10 months of hunger, and even these last 10 days four other persons have fallen victims to the same disease. I give their names and residences: John Coneely, his wife and daughter, in the townland of Polsilla; Widow Ford of Larabeg, whose husband died also of starvation last summer. Fever is increasing rapidly, the result of the poor having nothing to eat but a turnip or two parboiled in the 24 hours. I can safely, and without fear of contradiction, state to your Excellency, from the list I have accurately taken of the existing distress in this parish, that there are 400 families as amenable to the laws of the land as any in the world, and amongst whom not one single outrage as yet has been committed, in the greatest distress without any means of subsistence, and on the eve of actual starvation. This melancholy tale will plead, I hope, my apology with your Excellency for trespass of time, and induce your Excellency to order some immediate relief for those poor creatures whose case has no parallel in the annals of history. We are here much worse than last year, because the poor have neither employment of any sort nor out-door relief as yet extended to them.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS :—January 20, 1848.

THE Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, desire to inform the Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union, that the Commissioners have had referred to them a letter addressed by the Rev. John O'Grady, P.P., Abbeyknockmoy and Monivea, to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, in which it is stated that of 1100 families in the parish of Abbeyknockmoy, 400 persons have died in the last 10 months of hunger, and that even in the last 10 days four other persons have fallen victims from the same cause, namely,—John Coneely, his wife and daughter, in the townland of Polsilla, and Widow Ford, of Larabeg, whose husband died also of starvation last summer. It is also stated that fever is rapidly increasing, owing to the poor having nothing to eat but a turnip or two parboiled in the 24 hours; that there are 400 families in the parish without any means of subsistence and on the eve of actual starvation; and that the poor there have neither employment of any sort, nor out-door relief as yet extended to them.

In reference to the Rev. Mr. O'Grady's letter, the Commissioners request the immediate attention of the Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union to the necessities of the destitute poor in the district adverted to by him; and they desire the Guardians to take this communication into consideration, in connexion with what the Commissioners stated in their letter of the 15th instant, respecting the propriety of compelling the payment of the poor-rates by all rate-payers in the Union, whatever may be their rank or station.

THE BOARD OF GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—January 26, 1848.

I AM directed by the Board of Guardians to state in reply to your letter of the 20th instant, that they called on the relieving officer referred to in the Rev. Mr. O'Grady's letter, to inform them whether any of the parties mentioned in his letter had applied for relief, and they found that John Coneely, wife, and family, had been admitted into the workhouse on the 15th November, and were discharged on the 17th November last; and that these persons never made application to him for relief. The Board wish not to contradict the statement made by the Rev. Mr. O'Grady, as to the extent of destitution which exists in Abbey and Monivea, as they fear destitution to an alarming and fearful extent prevails in the Union, which they are doing all in their power to alleviate.

MR. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 3, 1848.

IN reply to your letter of the 20th ultimo, I have the honour to state, that I have made inquiry into the statements referred to, and beg to transmit herewith the deposition of the relieving officer of Abbey electoral division, in which the parish in question is situated.

From this document, and from other testimony, I have arrived at the opinion that it is more than probable that the whole family of John Coneely died in circumstances of the greatest destitution, if not from absolute want. But it is clear that no application was made by any of them to the relieving officer, probably from a disinclination to be again sent to the workhouse, which they had quitted on the 17th of November, after remaining in it only two nights.

With regard to the Widow Ford, I have been unable to obtain direct evidence of her death having been caused by hunger; on the contrary, it appears she was suffering from the effects of a fish-bone which she swallowed many months before, and that immediately at the time of her death she was affected with fever, or some complaint considered to be so. There is however no room to doubt her being in very indigent circumstances.

I have not been able to get any confirmation of the statement that 400 persons died during the last 10 months of hunger, as stated by the Rev. Mr. O'Grady; but I believe that during that period a very great mortality took place. It has however been stated to me, and it is also to be found in the deposition of the relieving officer of the district, that fever was prevalent and fatal in the neighbourhood during the time specified.

There can be no doubt that destitution of a very appalling kind exists in the district of Abbey, and other parts of this Union; and as the workhouse is now nearly full of able-bodied persons and their families, I strongly recommend an order for out-door relief to the able-bodied to be issued for the Tuam Union. This I consider it only right should be done as soon as possible; but at the same time I am bound to say, I have very serious doubts how far the Board of Guardians will, from the embarrassed state of their finances, be enabled to carry it out. Upon this subject it is my intention to address you by to-morrow's post, as I find that I have not time to do so this day.

I return the papers enclosed to me.

Tuam Union.

ENCLOSURE.

Patrick Gannon sworn.—Is relieving officer for Killrerin and Abbey; appointed on the 15th of November; on the 29th of the same month (as well as I can recollect) I received my books from the clerk. On or about the 7th of December I opened my office for receiving applications for relief. No application was made to me by John Coneely, or by any one on his behalf. I was present when the register was examined, and heard it read; and I believe that this man and his family were admitted to the workhouse on the 15th of November, and discharged on the 17th. I have heard, and believe, that John Coneely died about 10 days or a fortnight after leaving the workhouse; and about a fortnight after his wife died, and his daughter on the following day. From what I learn I believe the family to have died of want; but no application was made to me for relief, though before the death of the wife and daughter I held my office for receiving applications at Dereen, about three miles from their residence. I never heard of the death of these parties until it was reported to the Government.

I have made inquiries about the Widow Ford; she resided in Larabeg. Some months ago (nearly a year) she appears to have swallowed a fish bone which stuck in her throat, and of which she complained. I have been informed that she had a fever, or what was supposed to be a fever, at the time of her death. I also heard, from inquiries made, that she did not get any attendance while ill, the neighbours being afraid of infection. Was not able to find out the exact time of her death.

She never made application to me for relief, nor did any person on her behalf.

I reside in Killrerin parish, within about half a mile of the parish of Abbeyknockmoy. During the last 10 months fever has been very prevalent, and a large number of deaths has taken place; but I cannot state what they were caused by.

PATRICK GANNON.

Sworn before me this 3rd day of February, 1848,

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS:—February 5, 1848.

THE Commissioners have received a report from their Inspector, Mr. Bourke, confirming the representations recently made to the Commissioners of the severe distress existing in some districts of the Tuam Union. Mr. Bourke further states, that the workhouse of the Union is now nearly full of able-bodied persons and their families, and recommends the Commissioners to issue an order authorizing the Guardians to give out-door relief in food to able-bodied persons, under the provisions of the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.

The Commissioners have determined on adopting Mr. Bourke's recommendation, and an order, under their seal, to the effect above described is enclosed herewith.

The Commissioners feel bound at the same time to observe, that the present financial state of the Tuam Union is in the highest degree unsatisfactory; and, looking at that circumstance in connexion with the alarming state of distress prevailing in many parts of the Union, the Commissioners have under their most anxious consideration the course which they ought to take, as best calculated to provide effectually for the relief of the destitute poor.

The Commissioners are awaiting a further report from Mr. Bourke on the state and prospects of the Union, on the receipt of which they will be prepared to address the Guardians further.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. BOURKE:—February 5, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward herewith, for your information, a copy of a letter which they have this day addressed to the Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union, relating to the employment of poor persons in the receipt of out-door relief in that Union; and I am to request that you will be good enough to afford the Guardians all the advice and assistance in your power to enable them to carry out the out-door relief order with most effect and advantage.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. BOURKE:—January 28, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward herewith a report from Sub-Inspector Wright, of the constabulary, relative to the death of a man named John Collieran, who is stated to have died after being turned out of the workhouse of the Tuam Union for theft; and I am to request that you will inquire and report to the Commissioners respecting this case.

ENCLOSURE referred to.

Headford, January 20, 1848.

Tuam Union.

I HAVE to report that a man named John Colleran, who was lately turned out of the Tuam poor-house for theft, was found dead this morning on the road leading from this town to Shrute. I communicated the event to Mr. Marmion, the governor, but he did not consider an inquest necessary in this instance.

(Signed)

GEO. WRIGHT, 2nd Sub-Inspector.

Mr. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS, in reply :—February 2, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state that the person in question, who appears on the register under the name of John Collernan, is returned on a book kept by the porter as having left the house on the 19th December, accompanied by his son William, aged 11 years. From examination of Patrick Clancy, ward-master, and Michael Browne, porter, I have ascertained that, on the 18th of December last, a complaint was made to the Visiting Committee by a pauper named Peter M'Hugh, to the effect that a pair of shoes had been stolen from the house by John Collernan; that the Visiting Committee inquired into the charge, and satisfied themselves that the robbery had been committed, and that M'Hugh and Collernan were both concerned in it; but that, not considering they had sufficient evidence to send the case for trial, they ordered both parties to be discharged from the workhouse, which was accordingly done on the following day, the 19th December.

Peter M'Hugh's name appears on the master's Admission and Discharge Book as having been discharged on that day; but no mention is made of John Collernan, whose name was continued on the register, and remains there to this day. No report of the circumstances appears to have been made by the Visiting Committee, nor is any resolution of the Board to be found directing those men to be discharged.

Upon this state of facts I think it is to be observed that the Visiting Committee acted improperly in directing the discharge of any inmate of the house without the previous sanction of the Board, and that the right even of the Board itself to discharge under such circumstances is very doubtful. And next, I think the evidence affords a further proof of the extremely inaccurate manner in which the duties of the master were performed, and of the generally irregular manner in which the business of the workhouse was conducted, when two men thus summarily ejected were omitted from being entered as discharged on the Admission and Discharge Book, and were permitted to continue on the register as if actually present in the house.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS:—February 9, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under their consideration the report which they have received from their Inspector, Mr. Bourke, of the circumstances respecting the decease of a poor person named John Colleran, who was stated to have died on the 20th ultimo, after having been turned out of the workhouse of the Tuam Union for theft.

Mr. Bourke reports that the person in question appears on the workhouse books under the name of John Collernan; and that he is returned on a book, kept by the porter of the workhouse, as having left the house on the 19th December, accompanied by his son aged 11 years.

On proceeding to examine Patrick Clancy, ward-master, and Michael Browne, porter of the workhouse, as to the circumstances of the case, Mr. Bourke found that, on the 18th December last, a complaint was made to the Visiting Committee by a pauper named Peter M'Hugh, that a pair of shoes had been stolen from the house by John Collernan; and that the Visiting Committee, having inquired into the charge, ordered both M'Hugh and Collernan to be discharged from the workhouse, not being, however, satisfied that the evidence was such as would warrant their sending the case for trial.

Mr. Bourke reports that M'Hugh's name appears on the master's Admission and Discharge Book as having been discharged on the following day, the 19th December; but he states that no mention is made of the name of John Collernan, whose name was continued on the registry, and still remained when Mr. Bourke inquired into this case.

It further appears that the Visiting Committee made no report of the case, and that no resolution was passed by the Board of Guardians directing these men to be discharged from the workhouse.

The Commissioners request the attention of the Board of Guardians to the inaccurate manner in which the duties of the master of the workhouse were discharged with regard to the case of these two men. The circumstances reported appear to the Commissioners to show great irregularity in the management of the workhouse and the keeping of the workhouse books; and the Commissioners feel bound to add, that the discharge of an inmate by the Visiting Committee without any reference to the Board of Guardians was an unauthorized proceeding on the part of the Committee.

The Commissioners do not doubt that the Visiting Committee acted from good motives; but the case, involving as it appears to have done, fatal consequence as to the person discharged, shows the necessity of the utmost caution being used in observing the law and the regulations of the Commissioners for the relief of the poor and the management of the workhouse.

Mr. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 4, 1848.

WITH reference to your letter of the 15th January, addressed to the clerk of the Guardians of the Tuam Union, and the reply thereto, dated the 18th, I beg leave to submit to you the following statement of facts connected with the collection of rates in this Union :—

The rate at present in collection was struck on the 15th of June last, and the warrants were handed to the collectors, some on the 23rd August, and others on the 6th September following.

The total amount of rate and arrears then put in collection was	6,748	10	9
Whilst the liabilities of the Union to the 31st August, exclusive of the debt for temporary relief and the charge for building the workhouse, amounted to	6,692	13	5 $\frac{3}{4}$
Leaving a balance of only	55	7	3 $\frac{1}{4}$ available for carrying on the expenses of the workhouse.
Of this rate of 6,748 l. 10 s. 9 d. the amount collected during the month of September was	669	18	0
During the month of October	1,362	15	1
„ „ November	948	4	6
„ „ December	545	4	9
„ „ 31st January, 1848	716	12	4
Making in all the sum of	£4,242	14	8

In the month of November I called the attention of the Guardians to the backwardness of the collection, and induced them to demand from their collectors a weekly return of the 10 highest rate-payers in arrear of their rates, with a view to proceedings being taken for recovery of the amounts due. To this list the Guardians directed the collectors to add also the names of 10 of the lowest rate-payers, that steps might be taken against all classes of defaulters. These lists were accordingly furnished by the collectors, and duly handed in to the Board at its weekly meeting; but no orders were made thereon, nor was any further step taken by the Guardians for compelling these parties to pay. On the 10th January, at a meeting of the Board, I again called the Guardians' attention to the unsatisfactory nature of the collection, and suggested to them to appoint a Committee to examine the collectors' books, which Committee I offered to attend. Two members of the Board accordingly met me at the workhouse on the 11th and 12th January, when we carefully examined the collecting books, and the Committee gave such orders as were considered most applicable to each case—placing some in the hands of the solicitor, directing applications from the clerk in others, and summonses or distrains in the rest. The information which I acquired during this examination I communicated to you in my letter of the 11th January, in consequence of which you addressed to the Board your letter of the 15th; since then a sum of about 600*l.* has been paid in; but, up to the present time, there remains outstanding a large amount of rate, part of which is due by Guardians, and more by persons of rank and station in the Union. At their last meeting, on the 31st ultimo, the Guardians directed their solicitor to take proceedings for the recovery of the rates so due; but as much delay must take place before these sums can thus be realized, and the wants of the Union are daily requiring an increased expenditure, I fear that, unless means are promptly taken for increasing the funds of the Union, it will be impossible to meet the demand that is now arising for relief to the destitute poor.

The net amount of liabilities in the Union to the 31st January appear to be 4818*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.*, which exceeds the amount of rate now due by a sum of upwards of 2300*l.*; and as no less an amount than 3778*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.* of these liabilities is secured to the creditors by cheques drawn in their favour by the Guardians (which the treasurer is bound to pay whenever presented, as far as he has funds to do so), it is manifest that no part of this outstanding rate can with any certainty be counted upon as available to meet the current expenses of the Union. Under these circumstances, no course seems open to the Guardians but forthwith to strike a rate sufficient to pay their debts and meet their weekly expenses for the support of their poor; and though this may appear unusual whilst so large an arrear remains outstanding, it must be borne in mind that it has been rendered necessary by the default of those who should long since have paid the amounts due by them, and by the neglect of the Guardians in taking timely steps for their recovery.

I am aware that much objection will be raised to the laying on of a new rate at this moment, not only for the reasons last stated, but also on account of the very defective condition of the rate-books; and I perceive that, at their last meeting, the Guardians appointed a valuator to revise the valuation, and bound him to have his books completed by the 14th April. But even if it were possible that this engagement could be observed, I feel bound to state that, in my opinion, the worst consequences must result from postponing the striking of a new rate for so long a time; and that I can see no possible mode of meeting the present difficulties than at once to strike and levy a rate sufficient to meet the incumbrances of the Union, and liquidate the current expenses, which at present amount to about 100*l.* weekly, and must soon increase to three or four times that amount.

I beg leave to enclose an account of the liabilities of the Union to the 31st ultimo, and of the outstanding cheques drawn by the Guardians, and now in the hands of their creditors.

Mr. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 7, 1848.

I BEG leave to inform you that I attended, this day, a meeting of the Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union.

I regret to say that, since the date of my last report, but little progress has been made in the collection of the rate, and many persons of high position in the county, as well as several of the Guardians of the poor, continue in arrear of their rates. The treasurer's book showed a balance of only 13*l.* this day to the credit of the Guardians: and the contractor for meal, whom they are bound to pay once a fortnight, was a creditor to the amount of about 50*l.* for a week's supply. The order was read for giving out-door relief to the able-bodied, and the books of the relieving officers were in part gone through. They presented several thousand names of persons alleged to be in extreme distress, and the estimated quantity of meal required to supply them with rations amounted to above 25 tons. The contractor for supplying this article positively refused to supply this quantity, unless a distinct promise was given of payment in a week or fortnight; and as the Guardians felt unable to enter into this engagement, it appeared for a long time doubtful whether the wants of the relieving officers could at all be supplied. At length, with the assistance of individual members of the Board, arrangements were made for procuring the required amount from country dealers in small quantities, and thus the demand for the present week has been met, but I cannot see in what manner this is to be further continued.

I took occasion to bring before the Board the very critical condition in which their affairs stood, and urged upon them the necessity of immediately resolving upon a new rate of sufficient amount to liquidate their debts, and meet the demand on their funds for support of the destitute poor; and after much discussion, notice of motion was given for declaring on this day week a rate of 3s. in the pound on the property of the Union. This notice was much opposed on the ground of the large outstanding arrear, and of the necessity for a revision of the valuation before a new rate could be levied; and I fear there is little reason to hope that, under these circumstances, the Board will on the appointed day consent to strike a sufficient rate in time to meet the pressing wants of the Union.

I feel it necessary, with reference to my former communications on this subject, to reiterate my doubts, that in the present embarrassed state of the Union funds, it will be possible for the Guardians to make adequate provision for the relief of the poor; and I regret to add that the conduct of some Guardians and other persons, in withholding the amount of rates due by them, materially increases these embarrassments. The solicitor has been instructed to proceed against these defaulters, but it is uncertain how soon this may lead to a settlement of the present arrears of rate.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS:—February 12, 1848.

THE Commissioners have received their Inspector, Mr. Bourke's, report on the present financial state of the Tuam Union.

From this report it appears that the following were the net liabilities of the Guardians on the 31st January last:—

Due to Union treasurer	16	18	5
Provision, clothing, bedding, and other necessities, &c.	3,637	7	3½
Officers' salaries unpaid	410	10	8½
Due to other parties	754	2	1

Total liabilities on the 31st January . . . 4,818 18 6

To meet these liabilities, and to enable the Guardians to discharge their duty in relieving the wide-spread destitution now prevailing in the Union, a rate is in course of collection which was made in June last, and the warrants for collection of which were placed in the hands of some of the collectors in August, and of the others in September.

The entire rate so placed in collection, including the arrears of the former rate, amounted to 6748*l.*

Of that amount 2505*l.* still remained uncollected on the 31st January; and the collection of those arrears is now all the Guardians have to look to for funds to meet their liabilities and to relieve the destitute until another rate be made, which the Guardians have declared their opinion cannot be done until a revision of the valuation be effected.

For this revision the Guardians provided by the appointment of a revisor on the 29th January, and not before; although the Commissioners pressed on them the necessity of taking this step without delay on the 16th November last.

The Guardians have recently made representations to Her Majesty's Government of the appalling distress of the labouring classes in the Union, and have solicited assistance for their relief; a deputation from their Board having, as it appears on the minutes, waited on his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant for this purpose. His Excellency has also transmitted to the Commissioners a copy of a representation from the chairman of the Union, stating his conviction that no amount of rate which can be made available will enable the Poor Law Guardians to supply the wants of the destitute.

The Commissioners, on the 15th ultimo, addressed the Guardians on the very discreditable state of the collection of the rates, and especially regarding the default of persons of rank and station (some of them Guardians) reported by the collectors as not having paid their rates.

By a subsequent return, bearing date the 26th January, the Commissioners still find it reported that several of the Guardians of the Union remain defaulters, including the chairman of the Union, who it appears refuses to pay certain rates assessed on him as immediate lessor, on the ground that he is not liable; and another ex-officio Guardian is described as refusing payment on the same ground.

Tuam Union.

Other Guardians rated as immediate lessors, although still in default, are reported by the collector as not disputing their liability to pay the rates.

The Commissioners find, by reference to the recent minutes of the Union, that writs have been served on the Guardians for large sums in several instances, and that on the 10th January they directed their solicitor to give pleas of confession to all the creditors who had sued the Board.

Under these circumstances the Commissioners consider that proper exertion has not yet been made to levy rates for the relief of the destitute poor in Tuam Union. The insufficient rates heretofore made by the Guardians, the inactivity shown in collecting the rates when made, the example of default set to the rate-payers by the Guardians themselves, and the position in which the Board is placed in reference to its chairman and other members of its own body refusing to pay the rates; all these are facts which, while they account for the present financial embarrassment of the Union, inspire no confidence in the future proceedings of the Board in reference to the trying circumstances now before them.

On these grounds, as well as on other considerations arising out of their recent correspondence with the Guardians, the Commissioners feel that the time has arrived for discharging themselves of the responsibility placed on them by the 18th section of the Irish Relief Extension Act, in any case wherein it shall appear to them that through the default of the Guardians, the duties of the Board of Guardians have not been effectually performed; and the Commissioners have accordingly dissolved the Board of Guardians of Tuam Union by an order under their seal.

A copy of the order accompanies this letter; and this order will be followed by one appointing paid officers to carry into execution in Tuam Union the provisions of the Acts in force for the relief of the destitute poor in Ireland.

The COMMISSIONERS to Count STRZELECKI :—February 12, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a copy of a letter which they have this day addressed to the Board of Guardians of the Tuam Union, accompanied by an order for the dissolution of the Board.

The Commissioners request that you will be so good as to give your attention to the circumstances of this case, and they would recommend that the Vice-Guardians of Tuam Union should be furnished with an advance of 500*l.*

The attention of the Vice-Guardians will be called to the propriety of making provision for the repayment of the advance at as early a period as practicable.

Count STRZELECKI to the COMMISSIONERS, in reply :—February 14, 1848.

I BEG to acquaint you, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that according to their wishes expressed to me in your letter of the 12th instant, I have authorized the Commissary-General this day to transmit to Richard Bourke, Esq., Ordinary Inspector of Tuam Union, the sum of 500*l.*, to be applied by him as directed in your letter, viz., that the sum is to be paid over to the Vice-Guardians of Tuam Union.

I have advised Richard Bourke, Esq., of the above.

KANTURK UNION.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—December 11, 1847.

IN accordance with the instructions contained in your letter of the 31st ultimo, we beg leave to submit to your consideration the following observations relative to the general state of the Kanturk Union, at the period when the administration of its affairs first devolved on us, and also on the condition of the Union at the present time.

Our attention was first directed to the financial condition of the Union. We found that a debt amounting to 5081*l.* had been suffered to accumulate, while the necessary efforts had not been made to balance the accounts of the collectors of the rate made in March last; that an efficient check and supervision of the several collectors' accounts had never been made; that, in fact, this important duty had never been attended to at all. It appears, on examination of the accounts, that in several instances, the collectors held considerable sums in hand of rates actually collected, and that in many instances, the warrants were not sealed, and the rate-books were full of clerical errors. It further appeared that the arrears of the rate made in November, 1846, were inserted in the subsequent warrants several weeks after they were signed, that the arrears had been omitted altogether from the rate-books, and that the amount of the arrears was not shown in any of the books. The result of this state of things is an actual loss of 23*l.* 1*s.* 8*d.* In order to avoid delay in procuring funds, the whole of the rates uncollected, minus the clerical errors, were added to the rates last struck as arrears leviable from the respective parties.

With respect to the management of the workhouse, we beg to state that it would appear that the Board of Guardians had not exercised any of their functions in this respect. It would appear that a Visiting Committee had never been appointed, or if appointed had never acted, as the Visiting Committee's Report Book did not, on our arrival, contain a single report of any inspection having been made since the month of December, 1846, a period of 11 months. The result of this neglect was but too plainly apparent, in the general disorder and confusion which pervaded nearly the whole of the establishment.

The workhouse and its superadded accommodation contained, on our first inspection, 1534 paupers, 800 of whom were admitted in one day on a verbal order given to the master, to whom was entrusted the allocation of their chargeability; upwards of 500 of this number were sent into the dormitories, in their own wretched clothes, the master having none in his possession to give them. The result of this overcrowding of the workhouse has been attended with an alarming increase of fever and other diseases.

The able-bodied were comparatively idle, and the greatest insubordination existed, so much so, that we were compelled to prosecute several of the ringleaders for threatening language and demeanour towards ourselves. The schools were perfectly destitute of books and stationery, and it would appear that no inspection of them had been made by the Inspector of the National Board, for a period of nine months. No actual examination of the workhouse books had ever taken place. In the week ended the 6th October last, 38 orphans and destitute children under 15, and 44 women, with 120 children, were, at the instance of the Guardians, turned out of the workhouse to receive out-door relief: these persons were allowed to take with them the workhouse clothing and bedding. It also appears that on that occasion, a cheque for 25*l.* was drawn in favour of three Guardians, and distributed by them amongst the several persons so discharged, for the purpose of procuring them lodgings. The administration of out-door relief was left almost entirely to the discretion of the relieving officers; their books had, in the majority of instances, never been initialed, nor their accounts revised. The expenditure of the out-door relief under this system, amounted to upwards of 500*l.* per week. It is needless for us to remark, that the funds of the Union had been misapplied and relief had been administered, utterly at variance with the principles pointed out in the Commissioners' Circular Letter of the 14th August last. For instance, we ascertained, on a revision of the lists, that parties were receiving out-door relief who were employed by the master of the workhouse in tailoring and carpentering, and that these persons were in the receipt of, at least, 7*s.* per week for their labour. It would appear that the master was ignorant of these facts. On our expressing surprise at the iniquity of their conduct, we received for answer, "that as it was "going (the relief), they thought they might as well have a share of it."

Such was the state of the Kanturk Union, when we first examined into its affairs. Our first attention was directed to the examination of the accounts of the collectors, which we succeeded in closing after a week's close investigation. Our next care was to use all possible exertion in striking the rates necessary to pay the heavy debts of the Union, and to provide funds for the relief under the amended Irish Poor Relief Acts. It may be necessary to state, that although the present rates amount to 16,000*l.*, yet, owing to the liabilities of the Union and the present heavy weekly expenditure, the amount so raised will be exhausted in the month of March next. With the view of keeping the finances of the Union on a satisfactory foundation, we have required the collectors to enter into bonds (No. 7) to collect the rates within three months, from the date of their warrants (30th November).

Every care has been taken in making arrangements for the due and sufficient examination of the several collectors' accounts weekly, in accordance with the instructions given in the Commissioners' General Order of the 25th October last.

In proof of the progress which has been made by the collectors, we have the gratification of stating that within eight days (being, in fact, the first week of the collection), since the receipt by them of their warrants, they have collected and lodged with the treasurer of the Union 1476*l.* 8*s.* 11*d.*

With regard to the management of the workhouse, we have to observe, that the state of the paupers now is much improved. They have been employed to the utmost extent possible under the circumstances. The able-bodied males have been required to break a given quantity of stones daily, and we purpose to erect a hand-mill capable of employing 40 men, in addition to the mills supplied by Sir Randolph Routh. We shall then be enabled to grind corn sufficient for the use of the workhouse. The women and several of the boys have been employed in making and repairing the clothing of the house.

The examination of the out-door relief lists has been attended with much labour and difficulty, owing to the false representations made by the recipients, their disorderly conduct, and their inability to speak English. By adhering in the administration of relief, to the principles pointed out in the Commissioners' Circular Letter of the 14th August last, the amount of the out-door relief has been diminished in the first week of our partial revision upwards of 100*l.*, and we may add that numerous cases came under our observation which tended to show that those who are not really destitute, will not accept relief in a workhouse.

We have taken and are fitting up a large store, in which we intend to place the children of both sexes. We also intend to remove the aged and infirm from the workhouse. By these arrangements, we shall be enabled to use the workhouse solely as a test for the able-bodied.

From observation when visiting the several rural districts, we consider that those who do not now come under the General Circular of the 14th August last, will soon from want of food be reduced to the same classes. Little employment is given, and in consequence, the labourers and their families are reduced to exist mostly on turnips obtained either from the farmers, or by stealth. Their clothes are ragged and scanty; the roofs of their cabins in a wretched state; fever and dysentery increasing. On every Board-day, several hundred persons assemble who do not come under the class for out-door relief, and from want of room within the workhouse, we are unable to admit them. Their demeanour and conduct are such that we consider it absolutely necessary to obtain the presence of a magistrate, attended with a military and police force.

From the clergy, magistrates, and gentry we have experienced the greatest attention and willingness to co-operate with us.

We cannot close our report without taking the liberty of expressing an anxious desire that the Commissioners would impress upon the Landed Property Improvement Department, the absolute necessity there is for facilitating the obtaining of money, to enable the landed proprietors of this Union immediately to give employment.

REPLY to the above:—December 14, 1847.

Kanturk Union.

THE Commissioners highly approve of the manner in which you have endeavoured to grapple with the difficulties of the Union.

As regards the want of employment in the Union, I am to state that the Commissioners will readily communicate with the proper authorities respecting the Landed Property Improvement Act, provided that the names of individuals are forwarded, who have complied with the requisite preliminary formalities, and who nevertheless have reason to complain of any unnecessary delay.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—December 28, 1847.

WE have the honour to report, that for the week ended the 25th December, the collection of poor-rate for such week, has been 1147*l.* 12*s.*, making the sum collected in three weeks 3941*l.* 10*s.* 1*d.*; and but for the illness of one of the collectors, the last week's collection would have been increased.

The general expenses of the house continue to occupy our attention, and we have made a further reduction this week in the weekly cost of paupers. Upon our appointment it was 1*s.* 8½*d.*; it is now 1*s.* 3*d.*

The state in which the paupers were, from want of clothing, the want of tools, and other articles absolutely necessary in the establishment, and the fitting up the store for additional house accommodation, will render the expenditure for these items heavy.

Upon Christmas day, we did not give any addition to the usual rations, on account of the general conduct of the paupers, and the state of the funds, but principally to try it as a test.

The result was 63 left the house.

This enabled us to have room to apply the workhouse test to applicants for outdoor relief, who when offered workhouse relief, refused to accept it, to the number of 50.

From the former management of the Union, we find it difficult to obtain articles at a fair price, in consequence of combination among those who tender for workhouse supplies, even among so respectable a class as millers; we therefore take the liberty of requesting the attention of the Commissioners to a resolution on the minutes for this week, for a consent to purchase without requiring sealed tenders.

The general conduct of the paupers is improving, although it requires the utmost firmness and determination on our part, to enforce attention to the necessary rules.

From the feeling existing among the paupers, we do not pass over the slightest dereliction of duty, lest it may be construed by them into fear on our parts.

The paupers are all employed, and were it not from neglect on the part of the manufacturer, we would have had a corn mill erected now.

MR. CRAWFORD, Poor Law Inspector, to the COMMISSIONERS:—
December 22, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that I yesterday attended a meeting of the Vice-Guardians of the Kanturk Union.

The workhouse and all the additional accommodation remains filled to its utmost extent, and in my opinion, from the increasing destitution which prevails in the Union, it has become expedient to issue an order permitting the Vice-Guardians to give relief outside the workhouse to some of the classes not included within the 1st section of the Poor Relief Extension Act.

At present I do not think it advisable to extend the order beyond those classes mentioned in the orders issued to Fermoy and Killarney; but I much fear that a more extended order will soon become necessary.

I regret to say that as yet no employment is being found for the labouring classes by either the landlords or farmers of the district, little advantage having been taken of the provisions of the Land Improvement Act for that purpose.

Kanturk Union.

The progress of the collection of the rate is satisfactory, and there seems no opposition to its collection; but from the present large expenditure of the Union, it is not likely to suffice for a longer period than the month of March ensuing, when a new rate will most probably require to be struck, notwithstanding the Vice-Guardians, who are discharging their duties in a most efficient manner, are keeping down the expenditure as far as they possibly can, consistently with the maintenance of the population.

REPLY to the above :—December 29, 1848.

I AM to inclose herewith, for your information, a copy of an order which has been issued, authorizing the Board of Guardians to give out-door relief to certain classes not described in the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 5, 1848.

WE have the honour to report for the week ended the 1st instant, that the collection of the rate in the Kanturk Union is proceeding to our entire satisfaction, the collectors having lodged with the treasurer of the Union during the week 1725*l.* 5*s.* 2*d.*, making the sum collected in the month of December 5,666*l.* 15*s.* 3*d.* The accounts of the several collectors have been examined and prepared strictly in accordance with the Commissioners' instructions.

The conduct of the paupers in the workhouse is much improved. Fever and other infectious diseases are decreasing.

The pressure for out-door relief still continues, the order of the Commissioners authorizing out-door relief to widows with one child, and to orphans whose parents are both dead, has enabled us, by discharging these classes from the workhouse, to apply the workhouse test to a great many able-bodied applicants, and we are endeavouring to make the workhouse as extensively available as possible for the relief of this class.

We have to request the Commissioners' co-operation in enlarging the present workhouse as far as practicable, and we would suggest the propriety of erecting permanent buildings in the men and women's yards, each capable of containing 300 paupers,—the funds requisite for this purpose to be obtained, if possible, from the Exchequer Bill Loan Commissioners.

From the numerous complaints which have been made to us by the landed proprietors of the present valuation of the Union, and from our own observations in reference thereto, we have decided on appointing a competent valuator to make a complete revision or new valuation of the Union, and we have caused advertisements to be issued accordingly.

The COMMISSIONERS to the VICE-GUARDIANS :—January 8, 1848.

WITH reference to the additional accommodation which you propose to provide at the workhouse, I am to state that the Commissioners approve of the addition of permanent buildings to the present workhouse, in pursuance of the original plan of the building; but they cannot hold out any hope that an application to the Public Works Loan Board for a loan for the purpose would be successful.

If you can obtain a loan or consider that the cost can be defrayed out of the current rates, the Commissioners are prepared to sanction arrangements for the purpose.

As regards the proposed revision of the valuation of the Union, I am to express the Commissioners' approval of the appointment of a fit person for that purpose.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 12, 1848.

Kanturk Union.

WE have the honour to state as our report of the management of the affairs of the Union for the week ended the 8th instant, that the collection of the rates is very satisfactory, a sum of 1863*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.* having been paid to the treasurer by the collectors during the week, making the collection for five weeks a sum of 7530*l.* 1*s.* 10*d.*, which has enabled us to pay 4300*l.* of the debts incurred by the late Board.

The order relative to widows with one child, and orphans whose parents are both dead, by extending to such out-door relief, has enabled us to apply the work-house test to upwards of 200 applicants, one-third of whom refused to avail themselves of this description of relief.

Destitution is on the increase, and we have again to state that, with few exceptions, the landlords and farmers are not giving the employment that the undrained and neglected state of their lands would enable them to do, and by so doing give to the humbler class their natural support, and increase the food of the country.

Your consent for additional permanent workhouse accommodation will enable us to apply for loans to private individuals, when your architect furnishes an estimate of the probable cost of the buildings.

The robbery of meal in its transit to and at the depôts has been met by the instant arrest of the parties who were prosecuted at the late sessions of Fermoy, two of whom have been sentenced to transportation.

There have been several rescues of property from collectors. In every instance we have directed the immediate prosecution of the parties, and the property rescued to be seized under a magistrate's warrant.

REPLY to the above :—January 26, 1848.

I AM directed to express the great satisfaction of the Commissioners at the efficient manner in which you ensured the collection of the poor-rates in the Kanturk Union, during the previous five weeks.

I am at the same time to submit, for your consideration, the arrangements proposed by Mr. Wilkinson for providing additional accommodation at the work-house.

ENCLOSURE.

OBSERVATIONS of the ARCHITECT.

1st Mode.—To carry out plans the same as at Limerick for, say 400 additional inmates, which will cost about 2500*l.*

New Board-room, offices, with room for relieving officers, clerk, and waiting hall for paupers, will cost about 500*l.*, altogether, say 3000*l.*

The present Board-room would be used for probationary ward purposes, and all the old clothes would be deposited in the entrance building.

2nd Mode of Enlargement.—Erect new buildings in front part of the house for the children; for 600 children the sum necessary to be obtained will be about 4000*l.* It should be submitted to the Guardians which arrangement of the two is considered preferable.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 20, 1848.

WE have the honour to report for the week ended the 15th instant, that the collection of the rate is very satisfactory, a sum of 1507*l.* 14*s.* 10*d.* having been lodged with the treasurer for the period in question. The collection for six weeks has realized the sum of 9037*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*

The several accounts of the collectors have been strictly checked and prepared in accordance with your instructions, and the collectors are performing their duties to our entire satisfaction.

Destitution is so alarmingly on the increase in the Union, that we are induced to suggest to the Commissioners that the time has arrived when it is absolutely necessary for the preservation of life to give us a discretionary power to extend out-door relief to the able-bodied, exacting from each able-bodied male person relieved under the authority of the order, a task of work to be named by us.

Kanturk Union.

Before applying for this authority we have taken all the steps pointed out by the Commissioners for making the workhouse accommodation a test of destitution of the able-bodied, but the pressure for relief is so excessive, and the present workhouse accommodation so crowded, that we see no alternative but to grant immediate out-door relief to the class in question.

We may mention that the children of both sexes will be removed from the workhouse at the commencement of the next week, which will enable us to admit 400 paupers whose cases we have already investigated.

The great destitution prevailing in the Union is occasioned, in addition to the failure of the potato, by want of employment, and apathy on the part, with very few exceptions indeed, of the landed proprietors and farmers, who have thrown all the able-bodied on the rates in preference to giving them employment, and thus enable them to support themselves by the labour of their hands. We can see no other means of teaching the landed proprietors and farmers their duty towards their less fortunate fellow-creatures, than by levying rates for their support.

We have been requested by the principal landed proprietors and rate-payers of the Union, to transmit herewith a copy of resolutions adopted at a large and influential meeting of that body held on the 19th instant, relative to the destitution of the Union and the employment of the able-bodied.

We think it right to state that our present weekly expenditure is 700*l.*, and if it does not increase, and we can collect the whole of our present rate, it will carry us on to the 11th of March next. Should we find that the order for out-door relief to the able-bodied involve the additional expense we apprehend of, 400*l.* weekly, the period will be a fortnight earlier.

Our calculation for in and out-door relief, provided public or private works be not carried on, will be at the rate of 1100*l.* weekly, from the 1st of March to the 1st of August, being a period of 22 weeks—total amount 24,200*l.* This sum will require a rate of 4*s.* 6*d.* in the pound on the net annual value.

As we consider it for the interest of the Union that funds should always be in the hands of the treasurer, and it being easier to collect the sum wanted by one than two rates, we propose making the next rate 4*s.* 6*d.* in the pound. The levy of so large a rate immediately after one of 4*s.* on one division, and 3*s.* in the remaining portion of the Union, the rate-payers will certainly consider very severe; we propose, with the Commissioners' consent, to direct our collectors not to levy at once the whole rate of 4*s.* 6*d.*, provided that within one fortnight after the rate being made one-third of such be paid, and the remaining portions at two separate periods to be named.

ENCLOSURE.

Resolved—In consequence of the increasing destitution, that it is the opinion of this meeting the magistrates and cess-payers of the respective baronies of this Union do take immediate steps to carry out the provisions of the Act lately made for the completion of the unfinished roads commenced by the Board of Works.

Resolved—That a Committee of the under-named gentlemen be appointed to carry the above resolution into effect:—

WILLIAM LEADER, Esq., J.P.
 RICHARD O. ALDWORTH, Esq., J.P., D.L.
 EDWARD D. FREEMAN, Esq., J.P., D.L.
 WILLIAM ALLEN, Jun., Esq., J.P.
 BENJAMIN LEADER, Esq.
 CHARLES DALY, Esq.

Resolved—That this meeting urge on the Vice-Guardians the necessity which exists for the Board of Works facilitating the obtaining the advances under the Landed Improvement Act, in this Union.

Resolved—That the Vice-Guardians be requested to impress on the Commissioners the absolute necessity of giving out-door relief to the destitute able-bodied, until the intentions of the foregoing resolutions be carried into effect.

REPLY to the above :—January 22, 1848.

Kanturk Union.

IN accordance with your request an order will be issued at once, authorizing you to give out-door relief to the able-bodied in the Kanturk Union.

A copy of a letter, which has been addressed to the Guardians of other Unions in which such an order has been issued, is enclosed herewith for your information.

Further Letter from the COMMISSIONERS to the VICE-GUARDIANS :—
February 4, 1848.

THE Commissioners cannot sanction the assessment of a rate which could only be paid in instalments.

The Commissioners recommend you to levy a rate sufficient to meet the Union outlay for a portion of the present year, and to be ready for collection immediately after the 25th of March next.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—January 27, 1848.

WE have the honour to report, for the week ended the 22nd instant, that the collectors of the Union have lodged with the treasurer a sum of 1220*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.*, making the collection for seven weeks 10,258*l.* 13*s.* 5*d.* The accounts of the several collectors have been checked and prepared strictly in accordance with the Commissioners' instructions.

We would suggest for the Commissioners' consideration, that it is desirable to erect additional permanent hospital accommodation at the workhouse, with the view of discontinuing the several fever hospitals established under 10 Vic. c. 22. The estimates for this month, for the support of these establishments, amount to a sum of 300*l.*, being at the rate of 3600*l.* per annum, over which there is not any superintendence whatever, either by relief or finance committees.

We have to report, for the Commissioners' approval, the appointment of Mr. William Wilson to re-value the Union at a sum of 200*l.*, to be completed within eight months from the date of his appointment. We wish to observe, that Mr. Wilson was the best qualified of the numerous candidates who applied for the appointment, and that his proposal was much lower in amount than any of the qualified candidates. We enclose herewith his application, in which the Commissioners will observe that reference is made to them as to the manner in which he performed the duties of valuator in the several Unions in which he has been employed.

We are taking active steps in carrying out the views of the Commissioners, in reference to out-door relief to the able-bodied; and we hope to have all our arrangements made for this purpose in the course of two weeks.

REPLY to the above :—February 2, 1848.

THE progress made in the collection of the rate is most satisfactory.

Questions for answers, to be signed by yourselves and Mr. W. Wilson, who has been appointed to re-value the property in the Union, are forwarded, and when answered and signed, to be returned to the Commissioners.

The Commissioners are desirous of being informed whether you propose to make the next rate upon the present valuation.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 3, 1848.

WE have the honour to report for the week ended the 29th ultimo, that the collection of the rate is very satisfactory. The amount 1352*l.* 4*s.* 3*d.*, making in eight weeks the sum of 11,610*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.* The collectors' accounts have been checked pursuant to the Commissioners' orders.

Kanturk Union.

In order to carry out your order for out-door relief to the able-bodied, we have, as far as the heavy fall of snow did permit, inspected the several quarries in the vicinity of unfinished Public Works, with the view of employing those receiving relief; and also, ultimately, to dispose of the broken stones, and place the amount to the credit of the Union.

The examination of applicants as superintendents has occupied two days—upwards of 500.

We are happy to say that the workhouse continues in a very healthy state; and that the conduct of the inmates is much improved.

With respect to the inquiry contained in your letter, “whether we propose to make the rate on the present valuation,” we have to state it is our intention to do so, as we intend to have the new rate in collection early next month.

FINANCIAL RETURNS:—

[In continuation of Similar Series in Fourth Series of Poor Law Correspondence of the present Session.]

MISCELLANEOUS.

Miscellaneous.

Mr. HALY, Chairman of the British Association, to Mr. TREVELYAN:
March 17, 1848.

I BEG to send you a copy of a tabular statement which has been prepared and forwarded to me by Count Strzelecki, respecting the children receiving relief in the western Unions.

By this return you will see that the number of children in receipt of daily rations amounted, on the 1st instant, to 176,304, of which,

78,465 were relieved at Roman Catholic schools.
66,616 were relieved at National schools.
26,300 were relieved at Church schools.
2,260 were relieved at Presbyterian schools.
1,260 were relieved at Baptist schools.
1,056 were relieved at Wesleyan schools.

In my last letter to you upon the subject, I said I calculated that the number of children receiving relief, then amounting to 150,000, could not be much increased, it appears that it has been increased by nearly 30,000. The Committee has, however, now issued an order limiting the number of children on our relief roll to the present estimate.

The period must arrive when the exhaustion of the fund will preclude further relief from this Association, and it is thought necessary, in bringing to a close this very extensive relief system, that the committee should act with foresight and caution.

This order may, therefore, be considered as a preparatory step to those measures of actual restriction in the number of children receiving relief which will soon be necessary.

Might I ask that this tabular statement may be submitted to Sir George Grey for his information?

Sir R. I. ROUTH to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 26, 1848.

Miscellaneous.

I HAVE the honour to forward to you, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, a statement of the provisions now in depôt at the Custom-house, and received from the United States for gratuitous distribution; and I request you will have the goodness to convey to me the recommendation of the Commissioners for its appropriation.

I beg to observe to you that I must be prepared to render an account of this appropriation to the donors.

Probably the part of Kilrush to which the whole of the supply can easily be forwarded, might be a central and convenient locality for its distribution. It is now ready for shipment.

Commissariat, Custom House,
Dublin, 26th February, 1848.

REPLY to the foregoing :—February 28, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 26th instant, in which you request the Commissioners' recommendation as to the appropriation of the provisions which have been received from the United States for gratuitous distribution, and I am to express the thanks of the Commissioners for your offer. I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners deem it desirable that the provisions should be sent to Dingle for the use of Dingle Union.

Dingle is a district with the poverty of which you must be well acquainted; for reasons of general convenience, it has lately been detached from Tralee Union, and formed into a separate Union. But during the present season it will undoubtedly require assistance to a considerable extent; and the Commissioners think that the food placed at your disposal cannot be consumed more beneficially than in alleviating the distress at Dingle.

The Commissioners would wish that the food should be put at the disposal of Sir T. Ross, for the benefit of the Guardians, subject to the regulations of the Poor Law Commissioners.

CIRCULARS of INSTRUCTIONS to BOARDS of GUARDIANS and POOR LAW INSPECTORS, issued by the COMMISSIONERS.

APPLICATION of BALANCES of SUMS advanced by the RELIEF COMMISSIONERS on the CREDIT of the POOR-RATES.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
February 17, 1848.*

SIR,

THE Commissioners forward herewith, for the information of the Board of Guardians, a list of balances left in the hands of the treasurers of Relief Committees at the expiration of the Temporary Relief Act; and in reference thereto, the Commissioners desire to state, that by authority of the Relief Commissioners, conveyed in Circular 32, from their Accountant, it appears, that the Relief Committees were empowered to expend the balances under the control of the Finance Committee of the Union; also, that by the Act 10 Vict. cap. 22, sec. 15, such balances are applicable to the support of any temporary fever hospitals under the management of Committees; and they are further applicable for defraying the expense which such Committees incur in providing coffins pursuant to that Act.

When any Relief Committee shall not have acted on the authority so conveyed by Circular 32, referred to, such portion of the balance as may consist of advances from the Relief Commissioners on the credit of the rates should be handed over to the Board of Guardians of the Union, pursuant to the Relief Commissioners' Finance Circular 26, for the use of the electoral division for which the advances were made; and the remainder may be expended at the discretion of the Committee.

By Order of the Commissioners,

W. STANLEY, Secretary.

USE of COOKED in preference to UNCOOKED FOOD, in administering Relief.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
February 19, 1848.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith, for the information of the Board of Guardians, an extract from a report of Mr. Bromley, Accountant to the Relief Commission, in which the advantages of cooked over uncooked food, in administering relief, are pointed out.

As the statements contained in the report, from which the enclosed extract is taken, are founded on the replies received from nearly 2000 Relief Committees, the Commissioners think that the testimony afforded by it to the advantages of cooked food, must be considered as entitled to particular attention.

By Order of the Commissioners,

W. STANLEY, Secretary.

To

EXTRACT referred to.

Advantage of Cooked Food.

THE almost universal opinion given by the Committees is in favour of cooked food in preference to raw meal; a strong feeling was at first excited against its adoption in most parts of Ireland, not so much from the destitute as from members of Committees, chiefly, as reported, "that they might be relieved from trouble."

The result, however, has proved its great advantage; diarrhoea and dysentery were stayed by it, and a great improvement was rapidly manifested, through its agency, in the general appearance of the people. It was found to be the most nutritious, the best test of destitution, and the most economical.

The saving of fuel to the people was a great desideratum—for that reason alone it was much preferred to the "steeped meal," in which state it was required to be issued, if not cooked, to prevent, if possible, its sale. The really destitute very soon became sensible of its benefits to them; and many persons whose names were on the Relief Lists, did not apply and take their rations, because they did not consist of raw meal.

In one Union, Dunfanaghy, the medical men reported that the people were never so healthy as since the use of cooked food.

The usual proportion for the one pound weight of raw or uncooked ration, was one-third rice, and two-thirds Indian meal, which being cooked with water, as "stirabout," swelled into a ration from three to five pounds in weight, which mixture was pronounced as beneficial to health.

Notwithstanding all these advantages, strange to say, that in many Unions, cooked food was not generally adopted, until the issue of a peremptory order for its use; and the Government Inspector had even been subject to threats of personal violence and conflict with members of Committees, in urging its adoption.

The soup originally issued, before the "stirabout" was brought into use, is reported to have been highly obnoxious to the people; and in Clare it was found necessary to discontinue it.

It is now admitted that, had the system of cooked food been generally adopted at first, much expense would have been saved; and it is strongly urged as the means of out-door relief on any future occasion.

In one Union, Macroom, a Committee reports, "that they were indisposed to the Relief Act before it came into operation, but have now great satisfaction in bearing testimony to its efficiency and economy; had they not witnessed it themselves, they could scarcely have conceived it possible that such a change for the better could have been brought about in the health and appearance of the poor in so short a time, and at comparatively so small an expense."

The strength of the labouring man does not appear to have been reduced, as the usual agricultural labour task has lately been performed with the usual spirit and ability. In consequence, also, from the use of cooked food, it is reported that fever has been less fatal, and dysentery has disappeared.

Robinson's Steam Cooking Apparatus appears to have effected a great saving of fuel, and succeeded admirably.

The women and children in particular much preferred cooked food, for it invariably secured to them their rations; not giving to a selfish husband or father the power of selling it, as was too often the case with raw meal.

CARE AND TREATMENT of IDIOTS and LUNATICS in the Workhouses in Ireland.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
February 25, 1848.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Commissioners to transmit to you herewith a copy of a communication which they have received from Dr. Nugent, Inspector-General of Lunatic Asylums in Ireland, relating to the arrangements for the care and treatment of idiots and lunatics in the workhouses in Ireland; together with observations by Dr. Phelan, Poor Law Inspector, upon the subject of Dr. Nugent's suggestions.

The Commissioners request that you will pay special attention to this department of any workhouse under your charge; and will see that damages to the surface of the floors, and defects of ventilation, are remedied; also that you will insist on the most regular and punctual attention being paid by the attendants to the renewal of the bedding, and to other means of cleanliness.

The medical officer's views, both as to diet and dress in individual cases, should be obtained, to guide the Board of Guardians in the management of this department of the workhouse.

By order of the Commissioners,

*To each Permanent and Temporary
Poor Law Inspector.*

W. STANLEY, Secretary.

ENCLOSURES.

Dr. NUGENT'S COMMUNICATION referred to in the foregoing.

*Dublin Castle, Lunatic Asylum Office,
January 14, 1848.*

GENTLEMEN,

HAVING in the course of the last 10 months inspected upwards of 70 Union workhouses, particularly in the southern and eastern parts of the kingdom, for the purpose of examining into the state of the idiots contained in them, I would respectfully direct your attention to the propriety of making some alterations, which, at a very trifling expense, would, I believe, tend much to the comforts of the unhappy class in question. In the present disorganized state of some Unions, beings naturally improvident of themselves, demand from others a particular regard to their social wants. In the discharge of my official duties, I have constantly represented to the masters, or noted for the respective Boards, the claims which the idiotic had on their benevolence,—in many places, as at Clonmel, Bandon, Limerick, Banbridge, &c., &c., I observed, not alone a desire to carry out original good intentions, but equally to adopt suggestions; whilst in others, I could not but regret, an almost total neglect of the idiot class. To gentlemen so thoroughly cognizant of the character and division of apartments in Union workhouses, I shall only remark, that those immediately intended for idiots require every facility for cleanliness, ventilation, and dryness; and as in the majority of them, I found the ground flooring very bad, made of mortar or composition, and worn into large irregular hollows, (during wet weather particularly objectionable,) I would propose a substitute flagging in the corridors, and in the sleeping cells the same material; or, if possible, tiles, such as are used at the Hardwicke institution. Both equally admit of being washed daily. A timber floor has, no doubt, some advantages, particularly as to warmth; but when on a level, and opening into yards, it soon gets crusted with mud, absorbs wet, and retains foul odours. Nothing can be more disagreeable than the pent up effluvia escaping from lunatics or idiots; and as the latter are very often of filthy habits, too much attention cannot be paid to their cleanliness. I would then, in bad cases, do away altogether with the use of straw as bedding, for unless changed every morning, it becomes so saturated with disgusting deposits as to be utterly insupportable, and a nidus of disease. I would advocate in place of straw, (as originally employed at the Hanwell and Gloucester, and at present in some of our own asylums,) moveable wooden frames, with strong canvas nailed to them, (parallelograms from 5 to 6 feet in length, and about 30 inches wide); when wetted or soiled, the frame can be removed, and the canvas well pumped on and mopped, an hour or two in the open air being sufficient to dry it. A single change would last an individual nearly a year, and at far less expense than the constant change of straw. A great advantage of the frame is derived from the ease it affords to epileptic cases, as dependent simply on the height of its support, it admits of being lowered to within any distance from the floor. With regard to the clothing of idiots, instead of freize, which is a receptacle for hidden dirt, I would recommend thick canvas blouses for males, and a similar style of dress for females, with shoes and stockings. The superintendence of idiot wards, I believe, might be more judiciously conducted; the care of them is generally entrusted to some aged person, who happens to be a veteran in the Union. I think a slight compensation should be secured as an encouragement to those on whom so troublesome a task is imposed. In some Unions, I am aware, extra diet, tea, sugar, &c., is given to the keepers; but the custom is far from universal. With regard to the cells, they are by no means sufficiently ventilated; a crevice in the wall, more adapted for a letter receiver than a window, is frequently the sole air passage to a cell containing three or four beds; a grating in the top of the doors would be a material improvement. In reference to dietary I should, without an exception, put idiots on the best and fullest the Union affords; for the most part, they are of delicate frame, ill-formed, or epileptic; mentally imbecile, they are physically weak, of which their mortality last year affords too ample proof. As the number of idiots, in proportion to the general population of Union workhouses, is at present under 1 per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$), any amelioration of their state cannot be attended with much expense until some definite arrangement, which, I hope, is not far distant, takes place in their regard. I most respectfully submit the preceding observations to your notice, trusting you will give me credit for the motives which induced me to address you.

JOHN NUGENT.

DR. PHELAN'S OBSERVATIONS on the foregoing Communication.

Dr. Nugent's suggestions as to tiling would be an improvement; but I should consider that of flagging to be objectionable, as forming a cold floor; and as the idiots generally have no shoes, or if they had, would not wear them, such a floor would be injurious to them. I doubt that at present, we can do better than to give the idiots straw beds. The masters and matrons should be directed, and are by me, to see that those beds are changed often enough by the superintendents, several of whom do so very carefully, whilst others are much behind.

The number of idiots and lunatics in many houses is very small, and not considerable in more than very few; and in several, or in most, I think an improvement, as to their condition and keeping, is evident.

I quite agree in the necessity of shoes and stockings for all of this class that will wear them, and I always advise it; but Boards of Guardians, at present, cannot readily be got to order them. Perhaps, if the special attention of the district or Union Poor Law Inspector were called to the subject, those and other better articles of dress may be provided. But it will not, I fear, be an easy matter to induce Guardians to supply any other dress than that obtained for the other paupers; nor, indeed, does it appear to be necessary as regards the far greater number of those idiots, who are of such habits that a better would be soon spoiled.

I know of but few houses in which the cells are not sufficiently ventilated, were there only two idiots in each, and the windows and apertures kept open. It is only when in an overcrowded house the cell is overcrowded sometimes with other paupers, that the ventilation is insufficient.

The simple idiot class get the house diet, and do as well as the other paupers on it. The lunatics, or any that are ill, get better; and all are under medical supervision. Dr. Nugent's suggestion is correct; as a class, they require better diet than the other paupers; and, I think, are more attended to in the workhouses, with a few exceptions.

SUSPENSION of ORDERS for OUT-DOOR RELIEF to ABLE-BODIED PERSONS under the 2nd Section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.

Miscellaneous.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
March 2, 1848.*

SIR,

THE Commissioners have had under their consideration the subject of the duration of the out-door relief at present afforded to able-bodied poor persons in Unions in Ireland; more especially in reference to the labour wanted at this season of the year for the cultivation of the land, and the employment provided under the Land Improvement Act, 6 and 7 Vict. c. 32; also the assistance afforded to the labouring classes in 24 Unions, which comprise the most distressed parts of Ireland, by the rations given, from funds supplied by the British Association, to all children attending the public schools.

The Commissioners deem it desirable to determine, or to suspend, on the 18th of March instant, all orders under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, authorizing out-door relief to able-bodied men; and the Commissioners wish to know whether, in your opinion, there would be any decided objection to this course in the Union of which you are Inspector.

You will be good enough to report to the Commissioners on this subject at your earliest convenience.

EMIGRATION OF WORKHOUSE INMATES TO SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,

SIR,

THE Commissioners forward for your information several copies of a communication made to Earl Grey by the Colonial Land and Emigration Commissioners, on the subject of young persons at present inmates of Irish workhouses who may be eligible for emigration to South Australia, together with an extract from a letter addressed by Earl Grey to Sir George Grey, and communicated for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, explaining the manner in which the emigration of such persons is proposed to be conducted.

The Commissioners are most anxious that advantage should be taken of this proposal of the Government, and that the selection of young persons should be so conducted as to ensure the complete success of the experiment.

You will have the goodness, therefore, to address yourself to this object with the least possible delay, and take such steps by communication with the Boards of Guardians in your district, or otherwise, as may enable you to point out the names of young persons eligible in all respects and willing to emigrate, for examination by the agent who may be authorized to make the final selection.

Your attention is especially called to that part of the letter of the Emigration Commissioners, which relates to the peculiar advantage of obtaining young females, eligible and willing to emigrate, in preference to males.

You will take care that such young persons are duly and properly apprised of the prospects which await them in the event of their availing themselves of the free passage to Australia; and you will ascertain from the Board of Guardians, distinctly, their willingness to bear the cost of outfit, and the expense of conveyance to the place of embarkation.

By Order of the Commissioners,
W. STANLEY, Secretary.

Poor Law Inspector.

ENCLOSURE.

The COMMISSIONERS of COLONIAL LANDS and EMIGRATION to the UNDER SECRETARY for the COLONIAL DEPARTMENT.

SIR, February 17, 1848.

WE have the honour to acknowledge your letter of the 1st instant, in which you inform us that Lord Grey is prepared to sanction the proposal of Governor Robe to expend, in emigration, the moiety of the South Australian Land Fund not specially appropriated to that purpose, and that his Lordship is of opinion that this expenditure should not be extended over a period of two years, but that the despatch of emigrants should be commenced and carried on as expeditiously as possible.

We shall not fail to use our best endeavours to carry out Lord Grey's wishes, and with that view we should propose to increase the number of ships to be despatched in the course of the present year to New South Wales, South Australia, and the Cape of Good Hope, from 54 to 72, sending them from England at the rate of six in each month. If our endeavours are as successful as we anticipate, we shall thus despatch upwards of 14,000 emigrants from this country in the course of the ensuing year, and continuing to regulate the numbers of emigrants obtained from Great Britain and Ireland by the relative population of these countries, we should hope to send to the colonies about 10,000 British and upwards of 4000 Irish emigrants.

In order, however, to succeed in obtaining so large a number of emigrants, it will be necessary to have recourse to some additional measures beyond those which we have hitherto employed; and we have, in accordance with Lord Grey's directions, inquired whether an eligible class of Irish emigrants might not be obtained from among the orphans now maintained in the Irish workhouses, of whom many are approaching the age of adolescence. We have the honour to report that the result of our inquiries leads us to hope that this will turn out to be the case.

We are inclined to think that males of this class approaching the age of 18, who, from no fault of their own, have been bred in a workhouse, receiving such education as is there given, and submitting to the restrictions imposed in it, might prove by no means inferior to the ordinary Irish labourer.

But we should anticipate a more decided benefit from the adoption of this plan in respect of female orphans. Lord Grey is well aware of the necessity which exists for preserving the proportion of the sexes in any large emigration to a new country. Single men willing to emigrate are to be found in abundance.

But we learn from the reiterated complaints of our selecting agents, that the difficulty of procuring single females of an eligible character, is one of the greatest embarrassments against which they have to struggle. It is said, however, that a large number of well-conducted young women are to be found among these orphans; the emigration of these persons will be of material service, by placing us at liberty to accept from other sources a corresponding number of young men whom we might otherwise have been compelled to reject. We have, therefore, drawn up a paper, which, with such modifications as Lord Grey may deem fit, might, we think, be transmitted to the Irish Government, with a request that they would take the proper means for communicating it to the Guardians of the different parishes from which emigrants may be expected. It is, we think, obvious that the character of this emigration, consisting entirely of young persons, will necessitate a closer moral and religious superintendence, than has hitherto been thought expedient or even practicable in emigrant ships.

And it has been suggested to us by this view, that a teacher should be attached to each ship. It will be observed, that in the enclosed memorandums we have adopted this suggestion, but we would submit that, considering the peculiar character of the emigration which renders this expense necessary, it could not with propriety be charged against the colony, and should therefore be defrayed from British funds; nor, (we may here add,) do we think it unfair that the parishes which will be relieved from the necessity of supporting these emigrants should have the expense of forwarding them to the port of embarkation. This suggestion we have therefore embodied in the paper which we submit for Lord Grey's approval.

We apprehend that under the local Act 5 Wm. IV., chap. 3, the governor would have the power of apprenticing these young persons as proposed in the 7th clause of the accompanying paper.

Memorandum referred to in the foregoing Letter.

1. Her Majesty's Land and Emigration Commissioners having been instructed by the Secretary of State to make arrangements for a considerable emigration from Great Britain and Ireland to New South Wales and South Australia during the present year, and having been informed that an eligible class of Irish emigrants may be found among the orphan children now supported at the public expense in Ireland, will be prepared to offer to such of those persons as may, on inquiry, be approved, and as may be willing to emigrate, free passage to the above colonies. None will be accepted who are less than 14 or more than 18 years of age, and the nearest to 18 will be taken in preference.

2. In order that the persons in question may understand the nature of the advantages thus offered to them, it is necessary to state that the colony of New South Wales is divided into the Northern, Middle or Sydney, and Southern or Port Philip districts. It is to the two latter districts that emigrants are in the first instance conveyed.

The climate both of New South Wales and of South Australia is remarkably healthy, and suited to European constitutions. The soil is good, and produces in abundance, wheat, maize, barley, oats, and potatoes; provisions are much cheaper than in this country; clothing may be purchased at a cost but little in advance of the retail prices here, and the rates of wages at the date of the last advices, were in all cases much above those given for the same description of labour in this country.

Besides the money wages, labourers in the country are generally provided with a dwelling and the following allowance of provisions by their employers: 10 lbs. of meat, 10 lbs. of flour, 1½ lb. of sugar, and 3 oz. of tea per week.

3. The voyage to these colonies generally occupies about 100 days; and during that time the emigrants will be fed according to the annexed scale, at the public expense, subject, of course, to future modifications, if experience should show them to be for the benefit of the emigrants.

The males and females are intended to be conveyed in separate ships. Teachers will be appointed to them, and means will be taken to provide for the instruction of the emigrants in conformity with their respective creeds. The books furnished to the vessels will consist exclusively of those authorized by the National Board of Education. In those of the ships which may carry orphans (females) there will be a trustworthy matron to take charge of the emigrants, under the direction of the surgeon, who will be entrusted with the general management of every ship.

4. The emigrants' ships will be despatched every month during the present year from Plymouth, to which place emigrants must be conveyed at the expense of the Board of Guardians. Emigrant ships can be despatched from Plymouth only, because it is only at Plymouth (with the exception of London,) that the Commissioners have an emigrant dépôt which will enable them to collect the emigrants previous to embarkation, and officers under their control, who can ascertain by inspection that the emigrants are all in a fit state of health to embark, that their persons are clean, and their clothes clean and sufficient. The calamities which would result from the introduction of any infectious or contagious complaints on board one of those vessels, render this arrangement indispensable.

5. It will be necessary that each emigrant should be provided with the following articles, which compose the lowest outfit that can be admitted:—

For Males.—Six shirts; six pair of stockings; two pair of shoes;* two complete suits of exterior clothing, one of which must be made of some warm material.

* Shoes or slippers are more convenient for use on board than boots.

For Females.—Six shifts; two flannel petticoats; six pair of stockings; two pair of shoes; two gowns, one of which must be made of some warm material.

As a general rule, it may be stated, that the more abundant the stock of clothing, the better for health and comfort during the voyage. At whatever season of the year it may be made, the emigrants have to pass through very hot and very cold weather, and should therefore be prepared for both.

6. The governor will be directed, on the arrival of these emigrants in the colony, to make such arrangements in regard to their employment as may be most to their benefit, according to their age and circumstances.

7. Every pains will be taken to find the emigrants respectable employers; when their age and circumstances render it fitting, they will be bound apprentices, under laws which are in force in the colonies. It will be stipulated that fair wages shall be paid by the employers, according to the current rate prevailing in the district; and after deducting such portion as may be required to pay for clothes, and other current expenses, the remainder of their wages will be reserved, to be given to them at the expiration of the contract, or, in case of females, at their marriage, provided it be approved of by the Government, or by the Committee appointed to act on its behalf. A power will be retained of forfeiting the reserved wages of any of the children who may abscond, or whose indentures may be cancelled for misconduct.

8. The Governors of New South Wales and South Australia will be directed to appoint a Committee in each colony, at which they will request the co-operation of the Bishop of Australia and the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Sydney, and in South Australia, of the Bishop of Adelaide and the Roman Catholic Bishop, to see that these stipulations are duly observed by the employers.

9. The Board of Guardians will determine whether, in order to obtain these advantages, they will provide the outfit and conveyance to the port of embarkation on behalf of the orphans in their respective workhouses; and on their communicating their decision to do so, to the Poor Law Commissioners, an officer will be deputed by the Emigration Commissioners to visit the workhouse, in order to ascertain whether they contain any suitable candidates for emigration of the above class.

10. This emigration will be watched with the utmost interest by all who are concerned in the colonies to which it is to be directed; and upon the manner in which it is conducted will depend the power of the Government to encourage its continuance.

The colonists are desirous of adding to their body, not the idle and the worthless, but those whose education and moral and religious training afford a reasonable guarantee that they will become active and useful members of a society which is in a state of healthy progress; and it will therefore be imperative on the Colonial Land and Emigration Commissioners to select those young persons only whose education has been attended to, and of whose conduct they receive a satisfactory report from the competent authorities.

ADVANTAGES of issuing BREAD RATIONS made from Rye Meal, or Rye Meal mixed with Indian Corn Meal or Barley Meal, to Persons receiving Out-door Relief.

Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
March 11, 1848.

SIR,

I AM directed by the Commissioners to request your attention to the enclosed extract from a Report which they have received from Captain Wynne, Temporary Poor Law Inspector for the Carrick-on-Shannon Union, pointing out the advantages to be derived from the issue of bread rations made from rye meal, or rye meal mixed with Indian corn meal or barley meal, to persons in the receipt of out-door relief.

By Order of the Commissioners,
W. STANLEY, Secretary.

To each Poor Law Inspector.

As the best means of achieving these important objects, I should strongly recommend the adoption of cooked food, in the shape of rye-meal bread, or bread made of that material mixed with either Indian corn meal, or, what is better and cheaper, barley meal. This bread possesses many advantages over any other form in which I have as yet seen food relief dispensed. Its appearance in a house at once stamps the owner as a recipient of charity, or it is evidence of fraud, which may easily be detected. It cannot be so easily converted into money as the raw material. It is decidedly the cheapest and most wholesome food, as is evident from the improved appearance of those children who have received it for the last 10 weeks in this Union, and is peculiarly suited to the present condition of the Union, where there are such vast numbers of the poor who have not any means of cooking meal, not having houses of their own, and, in many cases, not being able to procure lodgings.

Impressed with the value of this description of bread, as applicable to purposes of out-door relief under the Poor Laws, I have directed my attention this past week to the erection of ovens in the workhouse, and will transmit a plan and specification to the Commissioners in course of next week. I would propose to place them, four in number, off the mill-room, making that apartment available for fuel-room, &c., and a loft to be erected over it for bread and meal store. The cost would be about 50*l*.

The oven which I have been allowed by the Guardians to erect in the Boyle workhouse, together with the peel-room, will cost about 8*l*.; it is nearly finished, and will be in operation next week.

In this Union rye-meal bread is produced for $\frac{3}{4}$ of a penny per lb., as follows:—

Meal, per ton	£7 0 0	} Producing 3000 lbs. of bread at a little more than $\frac{3}{4}$ of a penny per lb.
Salt . . .	0 1 3
	£8 1 3

In the Boyle Union, where I bake in the workhouse, the baking costs but 5*s*. per ton, which reduces the bread to a little more than $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per pound.

Bread of rye and Indian meal in equal quantities stands $\frac{3}{4}$ of a penny in this Union, and something over $\frac{1}{4}$ in Boyle Union.

The weekly cost of the youngest class of children on my list is	2 $\frac{1}{4}$ d .	} In this Union, on bread of two meals, rye and Indian.
Second class	3 $\frac{1}{4}$
Third class	4
Average	3 $\frac{1}{4}$

In Boyle it is less.

Weekly rations of rye-meal bread stand in the Boyle Union for—

Youngest class	2 d .
Second class	2 $\frac{1}{4}$
Third class	3 $\frac{1}{4}$
Average	2 $\frac{1}{2}$

The daily rations are 8 oz., 10 oz., and 12 oz.

VENTILATION of the HOUSES of the LOWER CLASSES.

Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
March 22, 1848.

SIR,

I AM directed by the Commissioners to transmit herewith a number of copies of "Observations by Dr. Collins, President of the College of Physicians, on the prevention of Contagious Diseases by the effectual Ventilation of the Houses of the Lower Classes."

In these observations, Dr. Collins points out a very simple, easy and inexpensive mode of ventilation; and from the importance of this subject, and especially at the present time, the Commissioners transmit copies in sufficient number to admit of one being furnished to each of the Guardians and medical officers of the Union, in the hope that they will promote the object in view in their respective districts, by any means in their power.

The Commissioners are desirous, at the same time, of calling the special attention of Boards of Guardians and of medical officers of workhouses, to those parts of Dr. Collins's observations which tend to prove the great importance of good ventilation in lowering the rate of mortality in public institutions, such as workhouses and hospitals.

You are requested to furnish a copy of the observations to each of the ex-officio and elective Guardians, and to each medical officer of the Union.

By Order of the Commissioners,
W. STANLEY, Secretary.

To

The Clerk of each Union.

HOLIDAYS to be observed by Destitute Persons receiving Relief who are Roman Catholics.

Miscellaneous.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
March 28, 1848.*

SIR,

THE Commissioners having had their attention drawn to the employment of destitute poor persons professing the Roman Catholic religion on the 11 principal holidays of the Roman Catholic church, they deem it right to inform you that all such persons who are receiving relief in any Union should be allowed to observe those days in the same manner as Sundays, without being required to work on them as a condition of receiving relief.

By Order of the Commissioners,

To each Poor Law Inspector.

AGRICULTURAL CROPS, IRELAND, 1848.

CIRCULAR OF INQUIRY, TO POOR LAW INSPECTORS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
April 22, 1848.*

The Commissioners will be obliged by your reporting to them, by the post of next Monday at latest, such information as up to the present time you may have acquired by personal observation or otherwise, regarding the general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato crop, in your district.

PERMANENT INSPECTORS' REPORTS ON DISTRICTS OF UNIONS.

April 23, 1848.*

Referring to your circular of yesterday's date, I have already reported on the breadth of land prepared for the potato. There is no distinguishing feature this year in the corn crops. The winter wheat looks generally well, but the constant wet has retarded spring sowing, which is not yet completed on the heavy lands. Though not bearing on the subject, I may perhaps be permitted to take this opportunity of observing, that the population of the north continues to be undisturbed and even unalarmed, ready however to come forward in support of the laws and existing institutions when required to do so.

REPORT above referred to.

Carrickfergus, April 14, 1848.

It may be desirable that I should report to you that the amount of land planted with potatoes this year is large—probably four times that of last season—quite sufficient, should the crop succeed, to restore it as an important, though not perhaps the chief, support of the lower class. The experience of the last year has proved that even without potatoes the introduction of Indian meal has rendered the support of human life as cheap as it was before the potato failure. The average cost of the maintenance of the paupers in the workhouse is in fact rather lower. With potatoes, the use of Indian meal, and the abolition of the corn laws, the cost of food next season will probably be lower than it ever has been, whilst the farmers without money will reduce their present small expenditure on labour. In the Unions where money is given as out-door relief, though confined to clause 1 of the Extension Act, there will be a strong tendency, if the Union is administered by elected Guardians, to make some indirect approach to a system of relief in aid of wages.

Again, the ordinary price of food fluctuates from 40 to 50 per cent. in different seasons of the same year, and as between year and year 100 per cent., which gives relief in kind a great advantage over money relief, which it is difficult to raise or reduce. Only one Union in my district at present gives relief in money, but I have a constant struggle to prevent its extension.

I am, &c.,

EDWARD SENIOR.

The Poor Law Commissioners.

Counties of Cavan, Fermanagh, Monaghan, parts of Tyrone and Louth—Mr. Barron:—April 23, 1848.

With reference to your circular of the 22nd instant, I beg to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that I scarcely ever recollect any year in which a greater quantity of potatoes have already been planted than at present throughout the entire of my district. The crops in general have a most healthy appearance, and there is, I am truly happy to say, every prospect under Divine Providence of an abundant harvest. The potato plant looks well and healthy, and it is the general opinion that they will grow well this year.

Miscellaneous.

There is a very large quantity of potatoes in the markets, and no one had any idea that there were such quantities in the country. They are good, and free in most cases from any disease whatever, and they are at a reasonable price.

*Counties of Londonderry, Donegal, Sligo, parts of Tyrone and Leitrim—
Mr. Otway:—April 24, 1848.*

In reply to your circular dated the 22nd inst., received by me on the 23rd, and which you request I will answer at latest by this day's post, I have to state that the prospects of the agricultural crops appear as good as usual at this time of the year in my district, and that a large quantity of potatoes have been sown, and are being sown; there is a general impression that the disease which has lately affected the potato crop has worn itself out, and that the crop this year will be a good one. All classes appear to labour under this impression, and the poorer classes are especially making the greatest exertions to make as large a planting of potatoes as possible. Seed appears to be found in abundance where least expected, and numbers are now producing their loads of seed that were supposed to be in extreme poverty; good seed cups in abundance can be bought in the markets throughout my district from 6½d. to 8d. a stone.

Counties of Mayo and Galway—Mr. R. Bourke:—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your letter of the 22nd inst., requesting to be furnished with information as to the general prospects of the agricultural crop in my district, I beg to state that the result of my observation has been to satisfy me, that in the counties of Galway and Mayo the extent of land now under cultivation is not very much less than in ordinary periods. In the fertile portions of the county of Galway, which lie to the east and south, I believe it will be found that as large a breadth of grain has been sown as in former years, and when last I saw it the crop looked healthy. I have not been able to visit that portion of my district since the season arrived for potato planting, but I am informed that a large quantity has been put down. In the western and northern districts, comprising Connemara and Joyce's country, there has been but little corn sown, but potato planting is proceeding with great activity. Wherever sea-weed is to be procured large plantings are made; and even in the interior, where this manure is not available, the potato has been planted wherever it appeared likely to succeed. The same remarks apply to all the county of Mayo, except the barony of Tyrawly; there I regret to say very little appears to have been done. The land between the towns of Crossmolina and Killala is much in the same state as last year, and presents a most desolate appearance. It is for the most part unoccupied, and, except near the residence of a proprietor, shows no signs of cultivation. In addition to the land now under corn and potatoes, a considerable quantity is in course of preparation for turnips, and I think a larger supply of this crop may be expected to be sown this summer than during any former period.

Upon the whole, I think I may safely say, that in the plains of Galway much land is under corn as usual; that in the hill country and throughout the county of Mayo, the quantity is far below the average; but that in both counties a very considerable extent of land is now being planted with potatoes, and a quantity much larger than heretofore under preparation for turnips. It is difficult to form an opinion as to the proportion which the potato crop of this year may be expected (if successful) to bear to that of ordinary years; but I think it will not be unsafe to reckon it at one-half. The con-acre must be entirely omitted from the calculation, there will be none of it, neither will the very small farmers have much, for they have in general ceased to occupy the land held with their houses; but every person who has been able to retain his land will plant some, and speculative farmers will put down a much larger quantity than usual.

April 24, 1848.*

I HAVE the honour to report, that from the information I have from time to time acquired, as well as from personal observation, that with few exceptions the occupiers of land have made great progress in the cultivation of the soil—much more wheat than has hitherto been cultivated by occupiers of from five to ten acres has been sown, and generally in good time; oats and rye have been also sown, and potatoes are being daily planted; to purchase seed for the purpose many have sold their only cow.

As regards the numbers receiving out-door relief I can form no accurate opinion, but the impression upon my mind is, that such have not the ability to plant even the quarter rood they have retained after giving up the overplus to the landlord.

There is still time enough to get down potatoes and flax, and if such could be supplied by loan upon guarantee of landlord, such a measure would be, I think, desirable.

Counties of Limerick, Clare, Tipperary, &c.—Mr. Hancock:—April 23, 1848.

In reply to your circular I have the honour to report, that from conversation with the Guardians of the Limerick Union, I have been informed that although the weather has been hitherto unfavourable for spring labour, that preparations have been made for an extensive planting of potatoes; some of the Guardians have assured me to as great an extent as they have been hitherto planted. With respect to the agricultural crops generally, the opinion of those with whom I have conversed appears to be, that the usual quantity of grain has been sown, and that the appearance of the crops is as favourable as the backward and cold season might be supposed to allow.

Counties of Cork and Kerry—Mr. Crawford:—April 24, 1848.

In reference to your circular of the 22nd instant, requesting information as to the general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato crop, in my district, I have the honour to state, that at the period of my departure from Cork on the 6th of April, considerable progress had been made in the spring cultivation, which had yet been much retarded by the wetness of the season.

The quantity of land under wheat is in my opinion considerably less than last year, in consequence of the smaller quantity of land manured last year for the purpose of green crop, which is the usual preparation for wheat.

Much land had been turned up for the purpose of sowing oats, but the state of the weather had materially interfered with its being sown up to the time I have mentioned.

With respect to the potato crop, preparation had been made to a great extent for its cultivation, and a good deal had been planted even at that early period. It was evident that the population was about making great efforts to renew the cultivation of this root, and a large quantity of ground will be placed under it, approaching that of former seasons, particularly round the coast districts, where the people were busily employed in the collection of sea-weed which is the manure principally relied on in those localities.

I cannot give any information with respect to the culture of turnips, the season not having been sufficiently advanced for the sowing of that crop.

I think, generally speaking, the farmers will be enabled to procure sufficient potatoes for seed; the very poorest, perhaps, will not be able to do so without some assistance; but from the great anxiety everywhere prevalent to plant this crop, I think even this class will be assisted by their neighbours to do so, it being the practice in this locality for farmers to let their potato land, not requiring payment until the crop had been matured.

*Counties of Waterford, Wexford, Kilkenny, Carlow—Mr. J. Burke:—
April 24, 1848.*

In reply to your circular of the 22nd instant, requesting me to report such information as up to the present time I may have acquired by personal observation or otherwise, regarding the general prospects of agricultural crops, especially the potato crop, in my district, I beg to say that—

1st. I do not consider that there is as much wheat sown as last year, nor do I think the crop looks as forward as it should at this season.

2nd. Oats will be more extensively grown than last year, but the wetness of the spring has interfered very much with the sowing of the crop.

Miscellaneous.

3rd. The people seem to be very generally employed in planting the potato, and from what I have observed, I should not be surprised if the breadth of land sown under that crop this year will amount to two-thirds or three-fourths of what it was in ordinary years before the failure. There is no want of seed, which is to be had for about 6d. a stone.

These observations apply of course to the counties comprised in my district.

Counties of Meath, Westmeath, Kildare, Dublin, Wicklow—Captain Huband:—
April 24, 1848.

In reply to your circular, relative to the agricultural crops, I have the honour to report to you that there has been a great breadth of wheat sown in my district, and that up to this time this crop is looking well.

The wet weather, which has occurred latterly, has, in some parts of my district, retarded the sowing of the oat and barley crop, but in the early-sown lands the oats are looking healthy.

Of the potato crop a large quantity is already in the ground. The wet weather has retarded the planting of much of this crop, for which the ground has been prepared; and when the planting has been completed in May, I consider that there will be nearly, if not quite, as much of this crop grown this year as there has been for these last few years previous to the general failure.

Although the small patches of potatoes are not now as numerous as formerly, I calculate that the increased breadth sown by private gentlemen and large farmers upon speculation, will bring up any deficiency which may arise from the falling off amongst the small growers.

TEMPORARY INSPECTORS' REPORTS ON PARTICULAR UNIONS.

Ballina Union—Mr. W. J. Hamilton:—April 23, 1848.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Circular letter of yesterday's date, in which you request me to report upon the general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato, in this district, &c.

As letters from Dublin are not delivered in Ballina until after the departure of the mail for Dublin, it is not in my power to reply to letters on the same day that I receive them, therefore I fear that the little additional information which I can give to the reports which I have already forwarded from time to time, will not reach you on the day you require.

I may mention that I have been constantly in communication with such of the landed proprietors and others who have shown any interest in the state of this Union, with the view of obtaining the most accurate information which it is in their power to give on various subjects, but more particularly on the subject of your letter, which must be regarded as one of the deepest importance. Last week I requested some of those gentlemen to have the goodness to communicate their opinions to me, as to the progress which has been made in their respective neighbourhoods in cropping the land; the proportion of potatoes which have been planted, and the quantity of land which is likely to remain unproductive, compared to last year and former years.

I have, however, as yet received only one statement (from Mr. Orme, of Owenmore, annexed A.), which I look upon as a very faithful report of what has already been done.

Owing to the constant severity of the weather, everything is in an unusually backward state; it is almost impossible, therefore, to say at present how much land will remain waste.

There can be no doubt from all accounts (as I was not here last year), that fully four or five times the quantity of potatoes have already been planted compared to last year, with apparently every prospect of success. From the class of persons who, as far as I can judge, have run the risk which must attend the experiment, it is greatly to be feared that success will lead to a return of their old habits, while on the other hand, failure will lead to their ruin, if not starvation.

I think, under all the circumstances of the Union, that more has already been done than was generally expected, but still the Commissioners must be prepared to hear of large tracts of land remaining unproductive this year, the reasons for which may be attributed to the following causes, viz. :—

1. The broken-down state of the majority of the landlords, especially of some of those whose tenants have emigrated.
2. Tenants holding possession who are not in a position to cultivate the land.
3. Want of confidence in the landlord, which is frequently imaginary, and merely a cloak for a grievance or for idleness.
4. The operation of the quarter-acre clause. No person will take land which is covered with paupers.

Owing to the general want of skill and industry, and the complete dependence upon others for everything (except advice, which is rarely followed), with very few exceptions, the small farmers in this Union ruin their land without obtaining half of the crops which the land would yield if properly cultivated. I have no doubt that if anything can do good, the practical instructors will be the most likely means. Mr. Vaughan, who has recently arrived here in that capacity, speaks most confidently of the good which he has been able to effect through the medium of the Society of Friends' farms—they are, in fact, model farms—where he has opportunities of practically illustrating his various lectures.

I hope that in another fortnight or three weeks I may be able to give you more accurate information.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. ORME to Mr. HAMILTON:—April 21, 1848.

IN compliance with your request, I write to let you know the progress made by the peasantry here in cropping their ground.

The quantity of land lying waste, deserted by the occupier, and apparently forgotten by the proprietor, is at this season painfully evident. I am, however, happy to be able to say, that in the occupied districts all classes seem to exert themselves to the utmost in putting down their crops. Already a considerable quantity of grain has been sown, and a small patch of potatoes may be seen planted at almost every dwelling. The people seem aware of the benefit of turnip culture, and no doubt a large breadth of them will be sown.

The better class of farmers (of whom I lament to say there are very few) have in many cases received the same indulgence in the payment of rents as their poorer neighbours, and in consequence are improving in their circumstances; and they have also evidently received a stimulus from the dear-bought experience of the last year. The great majority of the inhabitants, however, occupy small portions of land from six acres downwards; with respect to these, I think that the fears I mentioned in my former letter will be verified.

The system of tillage has been heretofore a manured crop of potatoes, and a white crop alternately.

The people are now sowing grain crops on land already exhausted, without manure, or even the benefit of a winter's fallow. Their haggards are now consumed, and nearly all are in an impoverished state; they are consequently unable to bestow the necessary labour and capital which the proper cultivation of the land requires.

On the whole, I think there is no want of exertion this season in comparison with any preceding one on the part of the poor population of this part of the country, although at the same time I cannot but anticipate a very serious falling off of produce in the ensuing harvest from the exhausted nature of the soil, and want of manure and proper cultivation.

Further Letter from Mr. Hamilton to the Commissioners:—April 24, 1848.

WITH reference to my letter of yesterday's date, on the subject of the agricultural progress which has been made, &c., I beg to forward to you the annexed letters which I have received from Mr. Vaughan, practical instructor, and Mr. Orme, of Abbeytown, a most intelligent and active gentlemen.

ENCLOSURES.

Mr. ORME to Lieutenant HAMILTON:—April 24, 1848.

I HAVE many apologies to make for not having sooner sent the report you asked for, but purposely deferred doing so until I had completed the inspection of this district on Saturday last. I am most happy to state, that there is a large quantity of corn already sown, and a portion of ground under potatoes, varying from a few perches to two and even three acres. On one property near Ballycastle, I find as much tillage as in any former year. Nothing can exceed the anxiety of the peasantry to procure potatoes, some having, I have good reason to believe, sold clothes and even bedsteads for that purpose.

Still it must not be concealed that vast tracts of land will be waste this year, particularly where the tenants were too poor to emigrate, or to cultivate their holdings, to the extent of perhaps half the barony.

Mr. PATRICK VAUGHAN to Lieutenant HAMILTON :—April 24, 1848.

As Practical Instructor of the Ballina district, I beg to state, that I have been over the greater part of the lands of this district, and can state from actual observation, that the people, generally speaking, are using the most extraordinary exertions to plant potatoes; and from all I can see, I have strong hopes that the potato will do well this season. But I fear that if there is not great exertion made to assist the people by employment, &c., to carry them through the intervening space between this and the harvest coming in, they will be reduced to the most extreme privation, as they are parting with every vestige in the way of value they are possessed of to endeavour to get the potato into the soil; I am also sorry to have to state that there is an immensity of land out of cultivation in this district, in many localities that I have visited, full two-thirds.

Belmullet District of Ballina Union—Mr. R. Hamilton :—April 22, 1848.

With reference to your Circular, which I this moment had the honour to receive, I beg to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that as far as I can see and learn there will be but little grain crops sown in this district, but at the same time a much larger quantity of potatoes have been planted than ever was expected, and there is every probability of turnips being sown on a large scale.

With regard to the quantity of land which will remain waste, it is at present impossible to form any accurate estimate, owing to the backward state of cultivation, which has always been the case in this district, and more particularly this year; however, there is no doubt but it will be a large proportion. This evil may be attributed to some of the following reasons, viz :—Many of the proprietors having their entire estates in their own hands, and having no means to cultivate them; many other proprietors being in such distressed circumstances as to be unable to assist their tenants; and their tenants, who, perhaps, if assisted, would be able to cultivate a portion of their holdings, being afraid of so doing lest the crops should be seized for rent. The practical working of the quarter of an acre clause is likewise another impediment to the cultivation of the land.

Several of the proprietors, I am informed, purpose converting their properties into grazing farms, but as this will afford neither employment nor food for the poor of Erris, I see but little prospect of their being supported from the produce of the land for years to come.

Ballinrobe Union—Dr. Dempster :—April 23, 1848.

I have the honour to acknowledge your Circular of 22nd instant, and beg to state that from personal observation and inquiry as I went through this Union, from competent persons, I consider that at least there are three-fourths more potatoes already planted than last year, but that four-fifths less corn have been sowed; this I had the honour of remarking in my report of yesterday.

Ballyshannon Union—Mr. D'Arcy :—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your circular I have the honour to report the state of the crops in this district, and to which I have directed much attention since the spring opened.

Wheat has been sown to a small extent; three weeks since it looked sickly, and I feared it would turn out a poor crop, but the late genial weather has quite recovered it, and now it is tillering, and presents a thriving and healthy appearance.

Bere and rye—none are sown.

Oats will not be as extensively grown as usual in this locality, owing to two causes—first, the very small holders are too poor to purchase seed, and do not possess it of their own; secondly, the farmers, a class above them, who hold five or six acres, have their land in such worn-out condition, that they fear the old broken land which has now given corn two years in succession is unable to bear oats, and they are breaking up any lea land on their farms, and, in some cases, their small pastures for the purpose of growing it. This system, if persevered in, will reduce the county to a barren waste. The immediate cause of this was the potato failure, which was the only crop they were acquainted with, the growth of which cleaned and manured their land, rendering it again fit for white crops.

Potatoes will be planted to an amazing extent, and it is surprising to see what a quantity of seed is now brought to market; a month since the price was 10*d.* to 1*s.* per stone; they came in that time in small parcels in panniers on donkeys' backs, now they come in cart-loads, and the price is reduced to 8½*d.*, and may, by the hundred weight, be had for less.

A very considerable breadth of early potatoes has been planted; I have seen some above ground and others coming up, and I never recollect to have seen a more promising appearance than they present, they are putting up strong stems thick at the but, and have evidently something to grow out of. During the years 1845, 1846, and 1847, although potatoes presented a luxuriant appearance, still I remarked, and also heard it noticed by others, practical farmers, that the shoot was weak, and when farther advanced in the year, that the tops, though long, had not the stamina of former years. The peculiar strength of bud and shoot this year induces me to hope that they will continue healthy, and if so, will be an abundant crop. No poor man that has land and can scrape the price of a hundred weight together that will not plant them, and to such an extent that they will add considerably to the stock of food which will be produced by this country.

The grain crops have been rather later than usual in time of sowing, but the vegetation is rapid beyond precedent, and I hope that they will make up for the difference of time. The grass is more forward through the county generally than I have seen it in other years on the 10th of May.

Bantry Union—Captain Gordon:—May 1, 1848.

I have the honour to report, in accordance with your communication of the 22nd April, that the potato crop is coming on very favourably, and more land planted with that root than has been known for years. Some few instances have occurred of the seed rotting in the ground from the heavy rains—and in these cases the land has been re-set. I state the foregoing from information upon which I can depend.

Cahiriveen Union—Colonel Clarke:—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your letter of the 22nd instant, requesting information regarding the general prospect of the agricultural crops, I have the honour to acquaint you that there is little or no grain of any description grown in this Union; but it is generally admitted that there was never known so great a breadth of land planted with potatoes, which is still going on with great activity.

Some apprehension was entertained that the early-sown potatoes would rot in the ground, in consequence of the long continuance of wet weather; but I have this morning returned from visiting Valencia and the western part of the Union, and found those grounds first planted showing a healthy growth of vigorous plants.

Callan Union—Captain Evans: April 24, 1848.

In acknowledging your Circular of the 22nd instant, it gives me great pleasure to state—not alone from my own personal observations, but that of other gentlemen, with whom I come in contact daily—it has been remarked in this county that the agricultural crops this year far exceed that of former years; and as to the potato crop, I have seen in my travels through the country, particularly in that portion of my Union, Ballingarry, county Tipperary, the planting of this crop carried on very extensively, and at this season of the year to a greater extent than I saw it in the north of Ireland last year; but at the same time I must state, that no employment is given, as the families of the farmers do the work.

Carrick-on-Shannon Union—Captain Wynne:—April 25, 1848.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 22nd instant, relative to the agricultural prospects in my district.

In many electoral divisions, I regret to say, the prospect is anything but cheering, while in some there is nearly an average breadth of corn (for this country), and very great anxiety to plant the largest amount of potatoes their means of purchasing seed will admit of.

Miscellaneous.

The breadth already planted in the district, with the exception of the electoral divisions of Carrick, Elphin, part of Killucan, and part of Drumsna, is not considerable.

The great obstacle will be found the procuring of seed, as this district produced scarcely any potatoes last year; and the small portions that now remain are of the worst description, scarcely to be depended on for seed, from their not having ripened sufficiently. Our market is supplied from the coast and parts of Mayo, where the potatoes did comparatively well last year. The market price here is 40 per cent. higher than in Swineford, or Ballaghaderreen.

I have no doubt but that if a facility of procuring seed were afforded, an average crop of potatoes might be reckoned on in the greater portion of my district.

There is at present available two years' manure, not however twice the quantity of ordinary years, as last year manure was not collected with as much industry as if the prospect of the potato crop had been different, but there is a large quantity available at this moment.

I do not think it will be found possible in this Union to organize a committee to enable us to take advantage of the opportunity of procuring seed which the Central Committee holds out. I have however done all in my power to promote its formation.

In the mountain districts some oats will yet be sown, and some barley in any land which may be suited to that grain; but I do not expect that the amount will be anything considerable.

I do not think that any turnips will be sown if potatoes can be procured for seed.

The corn crops, wherever over ground, appear healthy though backward, but from the temper of the soil and climate such is always the case.

Cashel Union—Mr. Robinson:—April 23, 1848.

In reply to Circular, dated April 22nd, directing me to report upon the general state of the crops in this district, I have the honour to state, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that owing to the severity of the weather there has as yet been very little done by the farmers in respect of the planting of potatoes or the sowing of oats. I have remarked, in going through the Union, that there is an immense deal of land ploughed up, in which it is intended to put oats or potatoes. This work must commence within 10 days or a fortnight, and will then, I trust, afford considerable employment to the poor. There are, however, some electoral divisions in this Union which I am afraid will be exceptions, viz., Killenaule, Kiltinan, part of Peppardstown, and Dangan. In these, from their being very mountainous, there is, and will be, very little tillage, and I fear very little employment will be given.

From what I can learn upon the subject, I consider that potatoes will be planted in this country to a very considerable extent. There is no scarcity whatever with regard to seed, and there is an abundance of both oats and potatoes in every market. Upon yesterday, (the market-day here), they were sold at the following prices:—oats, 9s. 4d. per barrel; potatoes, 7½d. per stone.

Castlebar Union—Captain Farren:—April 23, 1848.

In reply to your letter of the 22nd instant, requesting information relative to the general prospects of the agricultural crops in my district, I beg to state that I have observed for some weeks past a much greater degree of activity in agricultural operations than at the corresponding period of last year. All the holders of land who have any means are exerting themselves to put a crop in the ground, and a very considerable quantity of potatoes has already been sown. It was usual in this district to sow a portion of the potato crop, the garden potatoes early, and the field potatoes late, about May; but now a greater portion has been put down at the early period than on any former occasion. Another month must, however, elapse before the full extent of the potato sowing for this year can be ascertained. Barley has also been sown. The oat crop will not be so extensive as in former years, the land having been exhausted by a succession of grain crops. The people are now anxious to put down potatoes and turnips.

The potato produce of last season has been carefully hoarded, and many of the small holders have suffered great privation to preserve it for seed.

At the market yesterday there was a larger supply of potatoes than for many months past; they were brought in by strangers. There was a tolerable supply of oats and a little barley. The prices were as follow:—

	s.	d.
Seed potatoes (lumpers)	0	7½	per stone.
„ (cups)	0	9	„
Seed oats	6	0	per cwt.
„ barley.	6	6	„

There is a great demand for potato seed. If a supply could be thrown into the market here at this moment it would be of great service.

I have not heard of any land having been set in con-acre. The cottiers, and those who in former years subsisted by that system (a very numerous class), are still unable to make any effort for the future.

The activity amongst the holders of land is however cheering. The apathy and despair which prevailed at this period last year do not now exist, and every man who can crop his land is doing so to the best of his ability.

Castlereagh Union—Mr. Auchmuty:—April 24, 1848.

I beg to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that I have visited nearly the entire of this Union within the last ten days, and have been most particular in making inquiries everywhere I have been; also from what I have observed myself I am of opinion that there will not be near as much oats sown; this year as there was last season. The poor were not able to take con-acres; also there is a quantity of land waste, from tenants emigrating, or from evictions having taken place.

I was quite astonished to see the quantity of land under potatoes; I am informed that for the last 20 years there never was more planted any one season than there is in the Galway and Mayo portion of this Union. I have to observe that there is hardly any wheat sown in my district. Everything is very backward from the wetness of the season.

Clifden Union—Mr. Deane:—April 23, 1848.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 22nd April, requiring me to afford any information I have obtained, by person or observation or otherwise, regarding the general prospect of the agricultural crops (especially the potato crop) in the Union entrusted to my charge.

In reply thereto, I have to state that I have not failed to make accurate inquiry in reference thereto, and combined with the close observation I was enabled to make during my weekly journeys through the district, I am in a position to supply you with the following information.

First. Throughout the whole district there is a very large quantity of potatoes planted, more by those who have been enabled to make a tillage than for many previous years.

Secondly. There has been very little oats sown, and but a small proportion of barley, as compared with last year.

Thirdly. There has been, in consequence of the increased confidence in the success of the potato crop, a disinclination to grow green crops.

In reference to the planting of potatoes, I have known many instances of persons who disposed of their cattle to purchase seed; some parted with their furniture, while others, having saved seed since last year, witnessed their families in want of food rather than use it.

The oat crop will be a very small one, less indeed than for many previous years. The same observation will apply to barley. The confidence in the success of the potato crop has induced the people to rely upon it almost exclusively. The lives of thousands depend upon the experiment.

Miscellaneous.

I may here mention that a very liberal offer was made by the Central Relief Committee of Ireland, to aid two of the parishes in this Union, by an advance of 400*l.* for the purchase of seed. Security was required for the repayment of this sum. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements; but I have been informed by Dr. Suffield, who acted as secretary, that there was an indisposition upon the part of the landlords to make themselves perfectly responsible; Mr. Hyacinth D'Arcy being the exception.

Should you require more detailed information than that which I have had the honour to submit, in reference to the agricultural prospects of the Union, I think I can be enabled to supply it. During the period of my service in Inishowen Union last year I procured a return at a very trifling expense, of the quantity of potatoes and turnips sown in each townland in one or two electoral divisions. I shall feel happy to make a similar return for this Union should I receive your instructions to do so.

Clonmel Union—Captain Hill :—April 23, 1848.

In reply to Mr. Stanley's letter, dated yesterday, I beg to state that having since my arrival last month deemed my services more required in the town than the country, my personal observations as to the progress of agriculture have been limited to the immediate neighbourhood, the general prospect of good crops in which, I consider favourable, though the potatoes are rather late in being planted.

I have observed no land, bearing the marks of cultivation in previous years, lying waste, but all either already sown or in preparation for seed. The young wheat is looking healthy. The early potatoes in many fields are above the ground; and though the quantity of acres intended for this esculent is doubtless less than before the failures of recent years, there is a very considerable portion of the soil devoted to this purpose. I have consulted with many persons on this subject, on whose opinions I believe I can place reliance, and they accord with my own; whilst, from the reports I have heard relative to the rural parts of the Union, I think myself justified in stating that prospects of crops are also good, and the farmers looking forward with confidence to the probable decrease of their difficulties by that of potatoes, the cultivation of which they represent as "abundant."

Dingle Union—Captain Sir Thomas Ross, R.N. :—April 24, 1848.

In compliance with the directions contained in your Circular of the 22nd inst., I beg leave to acquaint you that in one of the electoral divisions of this Union (Castlegregory) there will be as great a breadth of land under potatoes this season as there has been during any period within the last ten years; and I believe the failure, while it was general in other districts in 1846 and 1847, was but partial in Castlegregory. Ballyduff, the adjoining electoral division, promises a good supply. In Ballinvoher, Ballinacourty, and Minard, every person holding land (and there were not so many evictions here as in the poorer districts to the westward) will plant more or less according to their means. In the neighbourhood of Dingle there is much activity with the potato crop, and in the electoral divisions of Kilquane, Dunorlin, Dunquin, and Ventry great efforts are being made to sow by those who continued in occupation of land; and I am glad to say that the greater part of the immense tracts which were lying waste about two months back have since been let to a more substantial class of persons, although I fear too late for extensive tilling; still, under all circumstances, there will I trust be by the exertions of the farmers themselves more tillage of every kind than I had anticipated, although the corn crop will fall very short of what it used to be in palmier days; indeed it never was a corn-growing country, potatoes, milk, and butter being the most profitable (because the least troublesome) sources of support. Even now, and notwithstanding the repeated and dreadful warnings of the last two years, it is really surprising the efforts that are being made by all classes to return to and restore this much loved root. Our very paupers are sowing a few perches of "con" or "score" ground; and repeated applications are made by our stone-breakers for permission to absent themselves for a few days for this purpose, which I invariably grant.

Donegal Union—Captain Herbert, R.N.:—April 24, 1848.

IN reply to your Circular of the 22nd instant, requesting to be furnished with the general prospects of the agricultural crops in this district, I do myself the honour to state my reports for the last three weeks will have conveyed to the Commissioners the gratifying assurance that the rural population had been generally employed in the cultivation of the land; and I am enabled to confirm, as well from personal observations as from concurrent testimony, that a larger breadth of land has been brought into cultivation than was in former years; green crops have been largely extended; but I do not consider the potato crop will be equal to two-thirds of that sown in 1846.

Throughout the Union of Donegal an improved mode of cultivation is very perceptible, and the rural population evince better spirit in the preparation of their land than last year.

Dunmanway Union—Major Stuart:—April 24, 1848.

IN reply to your letter, dated 22nd instant, requiring for the Commissioners, information on the general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato crop, I beg to state that I have observed in this district the planting of potatoes very extensively.

I am informed that there have been a few cases of failure, arising from the great quantity of rain that has fallen; and I have heard the quantity of potatoes planted, variously estimated, at from five to ten times greater than that of last year.

The quantity of wheat and oats is stated to be very much less.

Dunshaughlin Union—Captain Flude, R.N.:—April 24, 1848.

IN reply to Circular requiring a report on the present state of the agricultural crops, I beg to state that a very small portion of this Union is under tillage, the great bulk of the land being appropriated to grazing. As far as my observations go, in travelling from place to place, the small patches of cultivated lands which here and there occur are either cropped, or in progress of being cropped, and in an average state of forwardness. There being few small holders of land, potatoes are consequently cultivated on a very limited scale.

Ennis Union—Mr. Cronyn:—April 24, 1848.

IN reply to the Commissioners' Circular, requesting such information as up to the present time I may have acquired, by personal observation or otherwise, regarding the general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato crop, in this Union, I have the honour to state that very unusual exertions have been up to this time, and are still being made to insure a large agricultural supply.

I am credibly informed that, despite the difficulty many of the poorer class labour under, viz., that of not having the means to purchase potato seed (which however is very abundant, seed of best quality having been freely offered on Saturday last in Ennis market at 9d., 8½d., and 8d. per stone), still that so large a plant of potatoes has not been before known in this district. The wetness of the season has greatly interfered with the grain sowing; notwithstanding this impediment there is a great deal of land oat sown.

Preparations for turnip tillage, to which much of the land in this district is favourable, are being extensively made; but of wheat I regret to say there has not been much sown.

Altogether, I should say that, if blessed by bountiful Providence, the agricultural prospects in this locality would be fully as abundant as they ever were.

Fermoy Union—Major Bolton:—April 24, 1848.

IN reply to your letter of the 22nd instant, I have the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that, from personal observation and inquiry, I am of opinion that double the quantity of land has this year been planted with potatoes, than there has been any season since the potato disease first commenced, and in consequence I am informed that other green crops will not be sown to the same extent as last year; but owing to the extreme wet of the past week or ten days, farming operations have been greatly retarded, and therefore it is impossible to say at present what quantity will eventually be sown.

The wheat crops are about the usual average.

Galway Union—Major M'Kie:—April 23, 1848.

In reply to your letter of yesterday's date I have the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that from personal observation, as well as from information I have gained from others, I am enabled to report that the greatest exertions are making throughout the Union to crop the land, especially with potatoes, of which a great breadth has already been planted. I have been credibly informed that many who have no seed have dug their land in the hope that they may be able to procure seed, and that the people are selling every available article they can dispose of to purchase seed.

The bay of Galway is daily covered with boats laden with sea-weed, which is extensively used as a manure for the potato.

I am informed there will be much less oats than usual, every one being anxious to plant potatoes.

Glenties Union—Captain O'Neill:—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your communication of the 22nd instant, I have the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that from my own observations, and the inquiries which I have made regarding the agricultural crops in this Union, that the quantity of corn sown this season is about an average of the crop of last year. The people are making great efforts to plant a good number of potatoes, and I should say there are already double the quantity planted this year to what there were last; but there will be a great deficiency in the potato crop when compared to former years, from the inability of the poorer class to purchase seed. The general opinion, however, amongst the farmers is, that should there be no failure in the potato crop this year there will be a fair supply.

This Union being almost all mountain, and those parts of it which are under tillage being badly cultivated, the land is not in a fit state to yield corn; hence arises the deficiency in that crop.

Gort Union—Captain Hanley:—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your Circular, requesting such information as, up to the present time, I may have acquired, by personal observation or otherwise, regarding the general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato crop, in this district; I beg to state that considerable portions of this Union remain uncultivated. The oat sowing, hitherto delayed by the inclemency of the weather, now rapidly progresses; as to green cropping it is very little practised, and this is not generally a wheat district, but where sown, the plant presents a healthy appearance; but in the culture of the potato the utmost activity prevails to plant on an extensive scale; and I am convinced a greater breadth of land has been cropped up to this early period, than in former years; and large tracts are in preparation, the people entertaining the most sanguine hopes of its success, and freedom this year from disease.

Granard Union—Captain Lang:—April 23, 1848.

In my report of the 21st instant (which, being too late for Friday's post, you will not receive before Monday) I have in part anticipated the information required by your Circular of the 22nd, received this morning.

In my progress through the district I have taken some pains to observe the general appearance and prospects of the crops in the ground, and of the state of preparation of the land for spring crops. Where the land has been clean and in good tilth (as farmers call it), and the labour well performed, the wheat crops look well and vigorous, generally a little too thick, which is the general fault of Irish wheat sowing; under less favourable circumstances, and defective tillage, the crops look poor and bad. With regard to the oat crop, there is decidedly nothing like the breadth of land got in, as there was at the same period last season, the late wet spring has prevented much of the tenacious clay lands from being sown.

In the potato crop there is an increase in the quantity already planted, and there was some activity and exertion made to plant earlier than usual this season, but there is still a large breadth of land in preparation for planting which the heavy rains have retarded.

I have taken frequent opportunities of examining the quality of the seed potatoes, and I have not found any which were unsound or tainted with the disease of the last two years. The high price of seed potatoes in the markets, ranging from 7d. to 1s. per stone, has prevented the poorer and small occupiers from planting so much of this crop as in former seasons.

The majority of this class of occupiers and the cottier tenantry, indeed I may say the whole of them, with a few exceptions, are, as usual, idle, reckless, lazy, and improvident; many of them I could see as I passed along sitting idly smoking on the back of a ditch, without making the slightest attempt at even digging their gardens. They appear to depend on some future contingency, like the public works or temporary relief measure, to feed themselves and families.

A stranger among these people, and, strange to say, a Government officer, if he knows the tact of drawing them out, will always hear more of their real sentiments than a man of their own country. I seldom lose an opportunity of conversing with them on their affairs, and they readily and warmly enter into an argument, during the course of which you may acquire an accurate knowledge of all their feelings by a little management.

Extract from Captain Lang's Report of April 21, 1848, above referred to.

In my progress through different parts of the district I have directed my attention to the state of the cultivation of the land. There appears to be a greater breadth of potatoes planted than last year; but the frequent rains and the almost total neglect of drainage, which renders any farming operations both injudicious and laborious in a rainy season, have very much retarded the getting in of the spring crops. I have seldom seen any district in Ireland which exhibits a worse system of farming: the small occupiers, and even the larger class of farmers, appear to be ignorant of the first principles of good husbandry. When I first commenced the operations on the workhouse grounds, there was not one of the labouring men employed who appeared to have ever seen or understood any thing about sub-soiling and trenching; and I was obliged to give much of my time and attention to teaching them and superintending the work. In the course of its progress many of the neighbouring farmers have visited the ground, and appeared desirous of information as to its operation and its ultimate advantage; and I hope it will eventually prove a useful lesson. On some few of the gentlemen's demesnes there has been some improvement carried on, and consequent employment afforded. On Major Blackall's property in particular much has been effected and is going on; but a great deal of what I observed on other properties has been imperfectly executed, and on faulty principles. There are large tracts of rich alluvial land lying waste and unprofitable from the want of drainage. Where any has been attempted, the specimens I saw of drainage engineering are the most deplorable examples of incapacity and ignorance, and waste of money and labour, I ever observed in any country.

Kells Union—Captain Dent, R.N.:—April 23, 1848.

In reply to your letter of yesterday's date, calling for an immediate report on the state of agriculture, &c., I am enabled to make a prompt reply as respects this Union, having made a point when going through the country to observe and make inquiries into the state of agricultural pursuits. I have also put myself into communication this day with several of the principal landlords and farmers of the neighbourhood; and from all sources I gain the gratifying intelligence that there is every prospect of an abundant harvest of every production of grain and vegetable. I am told that there is very much more land in culture than was ever known in this country; that the potato planting is on a most extensive scale, 20 times the amount of former (late) years.

Every one is most busy in clearing out their yards, and manure is being carried forth from every house in the town. I invariably stop and ask as I go to what purpose it is to be applied, and as invariably am answered, for the planting of the potato, with the reservation, "please God it will be a blessed season;" "the olden times are coming back," &c., &c. I am inclined to think that, save the small holder, the planting of this root is as formerly. Ground is also being prepared, and I am informed that green crops will be abundant. I write this in a hurry, thinking it may be at once required. I shall make a point of riding through the Union to-morrow and making further inquiries, which shall be reported on if anything transpires.

The Kells markets are abundantly supplied with seed potatoes. On all sides I am told there was no conception there was near so much potatoes in the country.

Kells Union—Further Report from Captain Dent:—April 24, 1848.

In continuation of my yesterday's report on the state of the agricultural labour in this Union, I have to inform you that I have devoted this day to going through the country in its length and breadth, and on all quarters the report is most favourable. Having called on sundry persons, and conversed with the farmers on their grounds, as well as communicated with the several police on my route, all agree that the quantity of land in tillage exceeds any former years. A gentleman in the Girley division, who has resided in that neighbourhood all his life, says that there are more potatoes being put in than he ever remembers, with the exception of the large coarse potato that used to be grown to feed the cattle; that large crops of parsnips and mangel-wurzel will be sown, but that a great deal of the ground that was in turnips last year will be planted with the potato. In the country round Moynalty, Carlonstown, and Feltown, there is not a plot of ground that is not being prepared; and I was informed that many small farmers who lacked money, have sold a beast for the purpose of buying seed potatoes. All the small plots in the rear of the houses in the towns are being planted; and while it is now out of the power of the very poor classes to plant, those who can are doing it on so extensive a scale as will greatly compensate for it. The people appear in much better spirits, and display an energy I have never seen of late among them; the only drawback is the chance of a failure in the crop. Should this unhappily occur, most of the small farmers will be totally ruined. A little open weather, and the country will wear a different aspect. I was informed that persons who heretofore put in a couple of acres, are planting to the extent of eight to fourteen.

Kenmare Union—Captain Ommanney, R.N.:—April 24, 1848.

Agreeably with your request contained in letter requiring a report on the prospects of the agricultural crops in this Union, the greatest confidence is reposed in the potato crop this year by all classes; it is planted more extensively than it has been for several years; and by every authority I am informed that so large a quantity was never known to be planted so early in the season as this year. Every one who has the means has made the utmost exertion to plant a crop of potatoes. The small holders of land have sacrificed all they possess to put in a crop, determined to struggle through the period up to harvest as they best can for subsistence.

The quantity of grain cultivated for this district is inconsiderable; there is a greater disposition in favour of the turnip crop than was ever manifested before.

Kilrush Union—Captain Kennedy:—April 25, 1848.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your Circular, dated 22nd April.

I have within a few days traversed the greater portion of the Union; and the general opinion is, that the wheat crop is looking well. Tillage is very backward, owing to the frequent and heavy rains. The quantity of surface water on the land is very great, none of it being drained.

There is a great breadth of potato planted throughout the Union, particularly to the westward, where every green patch has been broken up for this purpose. I have no doubt that the quantity planted is equal to that of any season within the last 10 years.

The potato succeeded remarkably well in this district last year. Any quantity may be purchased at present for 6d. per stone. Those earliest planted look promising.

Listowel Union—Captain Spark, R.N.:—April 24, 1848.

In compliance with the directions contained in Circular, dated the 22nd instant, to report to the Commissioners such information as up to the present time I may have acquired, by personal observation or otherwise, regarding the general prospect of the agricultural crops, especially the potatoes, in my district; I have the honour to state that potatoes are being very largely planted in this Union by the farmers; and had not so much wet weather prevailed, there would have been by this time a greater breadth of this root in the ground than has been set for many years past. None are yet showing above ground.

Of corn crops very little have been sown at all, owing to the very unfavourable season and wet state of the ground. Those farmers who had intended sowing spring wheat have been obliged to abandon the idea, and they will sow oats or barley instead. On some lands the corn crops must be altogether given up I understand, and turnips or other green crops will be sown instead.

The cottagers and labourers are, some of them, planting a few cabbages; but in general they are so poor and destitute that they cannot obtain seed potatoes, or plants of any kind, and their small holdings must unfortunately be left untilled.

Longford Union—Mr. Downman:—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your Circular of the 22nd instant, I beg to inform you that from my observations, and from what information I could gain in the Union, there will be about one-fourth the quantity of ground under potatoes compared to years previous to the failure. The breadth of land under wheat will not be one-half, the land not having been manured. There is great want of means for procuring seed, otherwise I consider there would be more land under oats than any previous years, waste lands in many districts having been brought into cultivation in small patches.

Manorhamilton Union—Major Fitzgerald:—April 24, 1848.

In compliance with your Circular of the 22nd April, received yesterday, I have the honour to send you a short report regarding the general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato crop, in my Union. The greatest efforts have been made by all parties to prepare and sow as much potato ground as possible this season, and I believe there is nearly four times the quantity sown that there was this time last year. The sowing of oats has been much impeded in consequence of the unusual wetness of the season. Great efforts are being made to sow, especially in the neighbourhood of towns and villages, which may be continued for some time during the month of May, but I apprehend that there is yet a deficiency of nearly one-third as compared with former years. Wheat is not looking very well in consequence of the superabundance of moisture this season; the sowings likewise were not early enough in October, however this is chiefly an oat not a wheat country. Green crops, such as carrots and parsnip, are not making much progress; the wet season has not been favourable to preparing the ground for them, and the people generally express fear of the early green crops, parsnips and carrots, being stolen. The more general green crop, turnips, will I hope be cultivated in considerable quantity this year. The people are not so afraid of this general crop being stolen, and the advancing period of the year will afford facilities for improved preparation of the ground.

It is of such essential importance to apply every incentive to the cultivation of this invaluable crop by the small farmer that I would suggest that instructions be given to Lord Clarendon's Practical Instructor to devote his time during the remainder of the season to furnishing information in various localities of the Union upon the best mode of preparing the ground and sowing the turnip crop. Mr. Wynne Boggs is the person referred to. He is, I believe, fully awake to the importance of confining his efforts to the above object at the present season, and has, I think, made judicious preparations for rendering his assistance as available as possible in the various localities of the Union most requiring it.

With a view to still further stimulate the cultivation of turnip amongst the poorest class of farmers, I am of opinion that it will be desirable to take advantage of the liberal offer of the Dublin Central Relief Committee, to grant supplies of seeds for distribution by Local Relief Committees, throwing upon the latter the responsibility of finding the proper objects to whom such assistance should be granted.

The supply should be only in turnip seed. There is not any general deficiency of grain or potato seed in the country.

Milford Union—Mr. Horsley :—April 24, 1848.

In obedience to the request conveyed in your Circular of the 22nd instant, I have the honour to report as follows upon the "general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato crop, in this Union:"—

In consequence of the backwardness of the season (occasioned by a long continuance of rain and of severe weather) farming operations have been much retarded, and although great exertions are now being made to complete the sowing of oats, much remains yet to be done in preparing the soil for the reception of the seed.

The farmers in this district are generally slovenly and dilatory, few of them ever turning up their land to receive the benefit of the winter frosts. The injurious consequences arising from the neglect of this golden rule in agriculture are twofold. 1st. The strength of the soil is taxed for the nourishment of a double crop, viz., a crop of grain, and a crop of weeds. 2nd. By leaving all tillage to be performed in spring the farmer is forced to work against time, and, consequently, he neither digs nor ploughs deep enough. The same shallow depth of soil is merely scratched and disturbed year after year, until it necessarily becomes incapable of affording a sufficient measure of nourishment to the seed committed to it.

The quantity of potatoes already set and to be set in this Union is fully three-fold that of last year. Seed potatoes in abundance are within the reach of the means of the small farmer, and of the cottier in employment, as the market price is only 5s. per measure of 120 lbs.

I cannot at present, as you require an immediate answer to your Circular of the 22nd instant, give you an approximation to the probable average which will be under potato cropping this year, but it will be very large.

From all that I can learn from good sources, and have observed myself, I beg to state that turnips, carrots, parsnips, &c., will be extensively cultivated this season, the farmers and the labouring population having from last year's experience learned the value of these roots.

Upon the whole I feel unable to report favourably of the agricultural prospects for the present year in this Union. Unless there should providentially be a long continuance of warm and genial weather during the summer months I greatly fear the grain crops will prove to be deficient in quantity and quality, and that the green crops, even if abundant, will be late in arriving at maturity.

Mohill Union—Major Haliday :—April 25, 1848.

I have the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that during the last two days I have remarked in every direction very gratifying indications of activity and exertion on the part of the people in tilling the land and putting in crop.

The accumulated manure heaps of the last two years are being brought forth in all directions, and women and children are busy putting in potatoes, of which there appears to be no scarcity of seed. In consequence of the spungy, wet, and retentive soil of this county, the spring tillage is always late, and the heavy rains and cold weather of March, and the early part of the present month, have retarded it even more than usual; but if the present dry weather continue for a few weeks longer, I am confident that the estimate I stated in my weekly report of the 21st instant, will be found to fall short of rather than exceed the actual extent of land under crop, viz., that the quantity under potatoes will be not much short of two-thirds of the average of former years, and the breadth of land under grain crops will probably be more than double the former average. If the summer and harvest weather be favourable, the result will be that the total quantity of food thus gathered will be as great in proportion to the now much diminished population of the Union, as in the times when the potato was much more largely grown.

I have heard of a very few instances where the early planted potatoes have exhibited decay (in my opinion, from the cold and wet weather succeeding the time they were planted), but the seed generally is extremely good and sound.

The braird of all grain crops as yet above the ground is luxuriant and healthy looking, but there is as yet a good deal of oats to be sown.

Mullingar Union—Captain Telford:—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your letter of the 22nd instant, I beg to inform you that from what has come under my observation, and the inquiries I have made, that the winter crops are very promising, and notwithstanding that spring business has been much retarded by the inclemency of the weather, the oat sowing is nearly brought to a close; and every one who can procure seed potatoes are making active preparations to have as great a breadth of land sown with them as possible.

The market of Mullingar has been abundantly supplied with potatoes from the King's County and remoter places, which have been purchased with the greatest avidity for seed: the impression being that until that esculent be restored again as the food of the bulk of the people, there will be no end to destitution and exorbitant poor rates.

There was no neglect as to the cultivation of the land last year in this Union, and great efforts are now being made, from the potato last harvest having proved so prolific a crop and free of disease, to cultivate it as largely as possible at present.

Nenagh Union—Captain Darley, R. N.:—April 24, 1848.

In reply to the Circular of the 22nd instant, I beg leave to acquaint you for the information of the Commissioners, that all agricultural work has been greatly impeded this season by the continued wet weather. Wheat has been partially sown, and although late, looks healthy. A very great breadth of land has been and is yet being sown with oats. The planting of potatoes is going on to a considerable extent, and much more seed potatoes has appeared in the markets than was supposed to have been in the country; all the better class of farmers are planting them to a considerable extent; the poorer class have not money to buy seed, nor were they provident enough to collect manure, which neglect is now severely deplored by them, as the general opinion prevails that this root will again succeed; if it do, I am borne out in the opinion by the most experienced farmers with whom I have spoken on the subject, that the quantity planted and being planted in the Union will have a material effect on the amount of food likely to be produced this year.

The price of seed potatoes in the Nenagh market on Thursday, the 20th instant, was from 6d. to 8d. the stone weight.

Newcastle Union—Captain Routh.

Extract from a Report from Captain Routh, dated Newcastle, April 19, 1848.

"The market last Saturday was well supplied and well attended. Seed potatoes were selling at 8d. per stone, and seed oats at 8½d. There was a large quantity of each purchased, which would show the intentions of the people."

Newcastle, County Limerick, April 23, 1848.

In reply to your letter of the 22nd instant, I beg leave to inform you that from the inquiries I have made I find there is more preparation being made this year than last, and tillage has already commenced.

Owing however to the flatness of the country and the quantity of rain we have had, and the retentive nature of the soil, it has been impossible to sow very extensively up to the present period; and it is the opinion of those acquainted with the subject, that upwards of three weeks more must necessarily elapse before any considerable progress is made.

The greater number of those possessed of land are busily employed in cultivating it, taking advantage of any fine weather; unfortunately however the work is mostly done by the farmers, with the assistance of their sons and horses, and the destitute poor do not derive much benefit.

I can form no opinion as to the general prospects of the agricultural crops, as they have scarcely as yet made their appearance above ground.

Oats, potatoes, wheat, and barley, are what have chiefly been put into the ground, principally the two former.

New Ross Union—Captain Burmester:—April 23, 1848.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication, dated 22nd April, regarding the general state of the crops in this district.

From my own observation, and from all I can learn, I have to report that the crops promise well. The quantity of land planted with potatoes is at least double that of last year. There is more land sown with grain than usual, and less with green crops.

In the district of St. Mullins and Graigue, the poorest part of the Union, there is a very considerable quantity of potatoes sown. The crops are rather more backward than usual, owing to the cold weather that has prevailed.

Roscommon Union—Captain Musters.

Extract from a Report from Captain Musters, dated Roscommon,
April 24, 1848.

“From my own observation, as well as from inquiries I have made from intelligent persons in different parts of this Union, I find that very great exertions are being used generally in putting down crops of all kinds, particularly potatoes, which have been selling at a reasonable price, from 4s. 6d. to 5s. a cwt. in the Roscommon market. The wheat crop is also very considerable, and promising well; but I think there will be a deficiency in the oat crop, not only from the backwardness of the season, but from their having in a great many instances to sow land that is already completely exhausted, and which can yield but a very indifferent crop. On the whole, however, from what I can gather, should the harvest turn out well, I consider there will be a much larger supply of wheat than usual; and though the oats do not promise well at present, I think we may fairly presume on an average crop of corn, and certainly on nearly double the quantity of potatoes to last year’s crop, should that root not be again attacked with disease, and the general opinion is that it will not.”

Roscrea Union—Mr. Todd:—May 2, 1848.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your Circular of the 22nd ultimo, and regret that my attention having been previously directed almost exclusively to the potato, I was not qualified to report upon “the general prospects” of other crops in this Union.

From my own observation and from the best information I have been able to obtain, I believe that this season there will be a very large tract of land planted with potatoes in this Union, fully one-third more than was last year, and within one-third of an ordinary year’s crop (prior to the appearance of disease). The potato crop of last year having proved more healthy than that of the two previous years, has led to sanguine expectations for the future on the part of many proprietors and farmers; and the class of small holders, already reduced to a state of all but pauperism, are straining every nerve to plant potatoes as largely as possible, as a last desperate venture to retrieve their position.

The wheat sown in this district is almost all winter sown, and it has suffered a little from late hail storms and night frosts; these causes have thrown the crop back, but generally it is healthy and promises favourably; of other corn crops it would be premature to speak; I may add that there will be a very limited quantity of arable land out of cultivation this season in the Roscrea Union.

Scariff Union—Captain Hart :—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your letter of the 22nd instant, I am truly happy to be able to state that the general prospects as regards the agricultural crops throughout this Union are most cheering.

I have every reason to know that a larger breadth of land will be put under cultivation this year than was ever known within the memory of man; and I am informed that the land is being cultivated with a degree of care and skill hitherto unknown in these parts.

As regards the potato crop, I learn from credible sources that fully as large a quantity will be planted this year as was usually the case four years ago.

A short time since on casually meeting a Roman Catholic clergyman, he addressed me as follows:—"Captain Hart, I am glad I met you before you left for Dublin (alluding to my recent visit), because I wish to tell you what you have done! in this Union—you have thoroughly convinced the people, and no mistake, that for the future they must rely upon their own resources only, and not be looking for help elsewhere; and the consequence is, that there will not be a sod of arable land left untilld this year; and next season, please God, we shall have potatoes again as plentiful as ever."

Skibbereen Union—Mr. Marshall :—April 24, 1848.

I have had the honour to receive your Circular of the 22nd instant, respecting the general prospects of the agricultural crops, especially the potato crops, in my district.

I have to report, for the information of the Commissioners, that an extraordinary exertion is making over this district generally to cultivate the land and plant potatoes; not so much wheat appears to have been sown as in other years, from the ground not having been manured last year.

The markets are wonderfully well supplied with seed potatoes; there is a greater quantity in the country than was anticipated.

In many cases farmers had two years' manure; and the sea-weed not having been cut last season increases the supply, and enables the farmers to manure the land better and plant a greater quantity.

The great advantage derived from the turnips sown last year, though badly managed, the people are inclined to sow them and other green crops again, and are preparing for this auxiliary also; on the whole it is most gratifying to witness, on going through the district, that a very great exertion is made by all classes to provide a supply of food for the future, and rely more upon their own exertions.

The potato crop will come in much earlier than usual, therefore by the 1st of August the supply is anticipated to be pretty general. A branch of the Belfast Flax Society has been formed in this Union, and a quantity of flax will be sown; this will tend to increase the resources of the district and give employment.

Sligo Union—Captain Gilbert :—April 24, 1848.

In reference to your Circular, I beg to state that the general prospects of the crops in this Union are not very flattering, or holding forth a hope of a sufficiency of food for next year.

The land is well sown by the more extensive owners and farmers with corn crops, and in most cases with a greater quantity of potatoes than I was led to expect from their scarcity last year; but the small farmers and the lower classes holding a small portion of land are so unable to purchase seed potatoes, from poverty and their high price in the market, that their plots remain unsown and waste.

To provide some seed for those poor persons I have applied, with a prospect of success, to the Society of Friends for a quantity of different seeds; and after their arrival, which is daily expected, I intend distributing them, on the certificate of the Agricultural Inspector, through the relieving officers, to each electoral division.

Swineford Union—Mr. Gibbons:—April 23, 1848.

I have the honour of stating in reply, that from all the information I have been able to obtain and from my own observations, it appears that there is at present more than the usual average crop of potato sown in this Union at this season, and that it is most probable there will be about one-half the usual crop matured.

The potato has been sown much earlier than usual in this Union this year, owing to the fact that the potato which was sown early last year succeeded, and those sown at the usual time failed.

Green crops are very deficient. Many are preparing the land for green cropping, but have not seed or means to purchase; had they seed or means to purchase there would be a considerable green crop sown within a short time.

If the potato succeeds this year there will be an abundance of provisions in this Union; but if the potato fails the people will be infinitely worse off than in former years.

Tipperary Union—Captain Haymes:—April 23, 1848.

In reply to the Circular of yesterday's date, requiring information respecting the state of the crops in this Union, I beg to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that from personal observation and continued inquiries made on the subject, I am enabled to report that the wheat crop looks particularly well, and promises abundance. That the few potatoes which appear above ground look remarkably healthy and strong.

That potato planting to a very great extent has been, and is still going on in all parts of the Union, even to the detriment of the oat crop.

That the market of Tipperary continues to be supplied with seed potatoes at from 7d. to 10d. per stone according to quality, which meet a ready sale, and still the supply does not diminish on the following week, nor has the price varied these last three or four weeks.

It is computed from the great extent of planting, that should the crop succeed this year, there will be more potatoes in this Union than has been known for several years past.

I may add, in conclusion, that all ranks of society here appear to hold the opinion, that the people cannot exist without the return of the potato in the same abundance as they were accustomed to formerly; hence the extent of land thus occupied this year.

Tuam Union—Captain Labalmondiere:—April 24, 1848.

In reply to your Circular, dated 22nd April, I have to report that the crops generally in this Union appear to promise well, but are backward.

From all the inquiries I have made, and from personal observation, I may state that the planting of the potato equals, if it does not exceed, the extent of any previous years. From not having used it last year, the people have nearly double the usual quantity of manure; and I believe the breadth of land already under potatoes is unprecedented.

There is even a return I understand to the con-acre system.

Westport Union—Mr. Lynch:—April 24, 1848.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 22nd instant, and have to report, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that having paid particular attention to the state of the cultivation of the land in this Union, I am happy in being able to bear testimony to the extraordinary exertion which is being made in several of the electoral divisions to secure an abundant crop in the ensuing season.

This applies to Westport, Aughagower, Louisburgh, Newport, Kilmeena, and Achil. In Islandeady and Kilmaclusser, as well as Ballycroy and Clare Island, very little progress has as yet been made, and I fear that a considerable portion of the four last districts is likely to remain again uncultivated; but in the first-mentioned electoral divisions the quantity of potatoes already planted is far greater than ever known at the same period of any other year; and while the poor people are thus actively engaged in the cultivation of the potato, they do not appear to neglect the sowing of the ordinary crop of corn, and I have no doubt as the season advances the same industry will be exhibited in the cultivation of the turnip.

Many instances have been reported to me where the greatest privations have been submitted to, in some cases amounting to absolute want, by poor persons, to enable them to purchase small quantities of potatoes for seed; they seem to me to be under the impression that their future prosperity solely depends on the re-introduction of their favourite plant.

USE OF RYE BREAD.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
April 26, 1848.*

SIR,

THE Commissioners for administering the Laws for Relief of the Poor in Ireland, having had their attention recently called to the quality of the rye bread supplied in a particular Union to poor persons in receipt of out-door relief, deemed it advisable to request the Inspector of that Union in which the bread was issued, to report to them on the subject. The Commissioners were subsequently furnished with the Inspector's report (together with samples of the bread), from which it appeared that bread of a similar quality had been supplied by the British Association to the children attending the schools in the Union, in whose appearance a marked improvement had taken place since such food was first adopted in the Union.

The Commissioners have since submitted the bread for the opinion of the Central Board of Health, and are now informed that the bread having been analyzed in the Laboratory of the Museum of Irish Industry, under the direction of Sir Robert Kane, one of the Commissioners of the Board of Health, had been found to be composed solely of rye meal of very good quality, and not to contain any adulteration or impurity.

The Board of Health, however, stated that it appeared that the bread had been imperfectly prepared and baked, and was not well raised or sufficiently spongy, although the fermentation had been allowed to proceed even too far. The process of baking had been too much hurried, and the fire had been probably too strong; the loaves, moreover, (which were of about 2 lbs. weight) were made of too great a size to allow of their being thoroughly baked, except by very cautious management.

The Board of Health are of opinion that it would be better to make up the rye bread in smaller loaves, or, as is done on those parts of the continent where rye bread is the ordinary food of the people, to form long slender rolls: these are well baked with a very moderate fire, the dough having been sufficiently raised; and the rye bread then forms a palatable, nutritious, and wholesome food.

It is deemed right to communicate to you these remarks of the Board of Health; and the Commissioners will feel obliged to you, if you will acquaint them with the result of your own observations and experience in any points connected with the baking rye bread properly.

By order of the Commissioners,

W. STANLEY, Secretary.

Each Poor Law Inspector.

COPY CONSTABULARY REPORT.

County of Antrim.Antrim, January 22, 1848.

On the 21st a woman named Rose Dowdall died. The following is a copy of the verdict:—

“That her death was caused by exhaustion, brought on by the want of proper nourishment, and by the visitation of God.”

S. STUDDERT, S. I.

Inspector-General, &c., &c., &c.

Mr. SENIOR to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 3, 1848.

WITH reference to the death of Rose Dowdall I enclose a written statement from the coroner, and the evidence of the daughter of the deceased. It appears clear, both from the coroner's letter and the daughter's evidence, that the death of the deceased is attributable to natural causes, disease and general decay, not to the want of the common necessities of life.

ENCLOSURES.

I.

I held an inquest on the body of Rose Dowdall, a pauper, at Randalstown. The verdict of the jury was, that “Rose Dowdall's death was caused by exhaustion, brought on by want of proper nourishment, and by the visitation of God.”

It was stated at the inquest, that deceased had applied for and got a ticket of admission to the workhouse in Antrim, and the day she was to have been admitted she died. There could be no blame attributable to any person; and it appeared that deceased's daughter with whom she lived was very kind to her, and supplied her with what food she could procure; but of late she could not take much food; and what little she took her stomach could not retain. She died on the 20th January last, and the inquest was held on the 22nd.

A. MARKHAM, Coroner.

II.

No. 5607/48.

Matty Quigly on her oath saith, the deceased Rose Dowdall was my mother; she has been sick since harvest; she applied twice for admission to the workhouse, as she stated to me, to Mr. Crawford, the warden, who sent her to Mr. Courtney, the Guardian, who said he did not know her. This was after harvest. The second time she applied to Mr. Courtney was about a month after her first application; and my mother said she had again been refused by Mr. Courtney, on the same grounds that he did not know her. The third time I applied to Mr. Courtney myself, which was about eight days before my mother's death. Mr. Courtney gave me a ticket of admission to the workhouse, and also got a ticket for the dispensary; the medical officer, Dr. Hill, said, it is nourishment your mother wants, not medicine. During the whole time since harvest I kept my mother in my house; and I received soup three times a week, and a portion of bread from Lord O'Neill's soup kitchen in Randalstown; and I also got a little money from washing and other means; my mother was ill of bowel complaint; she did not die of want, but she could not eat food, either stirabout or milk, and I gave her herrings and potatoes, and I gave her everything she wanted.

III.

Rose Dowdall died on 20th January last at Randalstown, not at Antrim. She resided with her daughter—herself a widow—and had been confined to bed for three months previous to her decease. Both were common beggars. The daughter during the illness of deceased procured for and administered to the latter, every comfort in her power; but the description of nourishment latterly obtained, while quite adequate to sustain nature in a healthy subject, was insufficient for that purpose in the present case, owing chiefly to the debilitated state of the digestive organs. Proper nutriment would have been provided for deceased had parties in the neighbourhood been apprised of her condition.

No application for relief was made to the Guardians in this case; but deceased had procured a few days before her death a ticket of admission into the workhouse, and which was in her possession at the time of her decease.

BALLINROBE UNION.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 1, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to forward a letter from Mr. Brannick, poor-rate collector for the electoral divisions of Claremorris and Ballindine, for the information of the Commissioners, requesting that the Commissariat may be directed to become purchasers of farm produce seized by him for rates.

From the circumstances of this case a sale must be had as an example in that part of the Union; I therefore respectfully request instructions, being determined, by every exertion in our power, to get in the rates.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. P. BRANNICK, Collector, to Dr. DEMPSTER:—January 29, 1848.

I BEG leave to inform you that I attended this day to sell by auction farm produce on the lands of Lawan, seized by me, for poor-rates. There being no purchasers, obliged me to postpone the sale to Tuesday the 1st of February next. May I take the liberty of suggesting to you the necessity of the Commissary being in attendance to purchase on that day, as his doing so will produce the most beneficial results in the collection of the rates hereafter.

N.B.—The distress consists of hay and corn in stack. Amount of rate due—21*l.* 16*s.* 7*d.*

Arranged to postpone till Monday 7th February.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 4, 1848.

WITH reference to the sale of goods distrained for non-payment of poor-rate, I am to state, for your information, that the Commissioners have reason to know that a communication on the subject has been made to the resident magistrate, and they do not anticipate that you will find any further difficulty in the matter.

The Commissioners concur with you in thinking it of great importance that the payment of the rates should be effected as speedily as possible, by every means, at the disposal of the collectors and Vice-Guardians.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 5, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state that Deputy Commissary-General Dobree, who came here on a tour of inspection, having reported to me a case of very great apparent hardship which he was witness to "en route" from Maam—that of a man being compelled to level his cabin, and, in fact, from the man's story to him, set fire to it, before a surrender of his land would be accepted by his landlord, and thus become eligible for out-door relief—I proceeded to the district to ascertain the facts.

The man's name is Patrick Philton. He and his family had been receiving provisional relief; but when it was investigated by the Guardians, holding more land than allowed by the Act, he was struck off. He lived on the lands of Doughty, belonging to Sir Richard O'Donnell, but held the cabin and acre of land he occupied from a co-partnership of tenants, to whom he would pay no rent for several years; and being withal a very bad character, living by plundering his neighbours, they compelled him to leave the neighbourhood, and gave him the timbers of the cabin, which he was removing at the moment Mr. Dobree was passing, and to whom he told his own tale. I saw the relieving officer of the district of Cong, and had his name placed on the list for relief. This man is the husband of the woman mentioned by me in my report of 1st January, whom I saw almost in a state of nudity on the road; and I have since learned she was in the constant practice of so doing when strangers passed, to extort charity.

From the great distances some of the poor people of Joyce's country have to come to get the rations of meal, in many instances 15 miles, Mr. Dobree and I, agreed to recommend that the police station at Maam might be sanctioned as a dépôt, and the constable in charge should be appointed distributor, for I can find no person in that part of the country to whom I would entrust the provisions. Constable Flynn was so employed under the Relief Act last year, and gave great satisfaction to all concerned.

I beg to state, that a further adjournment of the sale of stock was granted at the earnest solicitation of the owners; and as I am anxious, if possible, to prevent public exposure, I concurred with the rate collectors granting the time asked for, they having proper security for the forthcoming of the stock, or to pay the money themselves.

In the electoral division of Mayo, Mr. Walsh and his assistants were deforced and rescued on the 3rd instant. Informations were this day taken by the resident magistrate at the petty sessions of Hollymount, and the necessary steps have been taken to bring the parties to justice.

The amount of rates lodged for the week is as follows:—

Mr. Higgins	25	2	0
Mr. Walsh (and 60% too late for treasurer) . . .	148	1	9
Mr. Brannick.	54	6	10
	£227	10	7

A very inconsiderable amount when the number on relief list is taken into consideration. I beg to annex a return of the out-door relief to this date.

I have to acknowledge the receipt of an order for 200% worth of provisions from the British Relief Association, and which I handed to the Vice-Guardians for their disposal.

JAMES DEMPSTER, M.D.

REPLY to the foregoing :—February 8, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration your weekly report to the 5th instant, in which you refer to a further adjournment of a sale of stock, at the request of the owners, of which you approved, from a desire to prevent public exposure, and as the collectors had taken proper security.

The Commissioners presume that this adjourned sale has been the cause of the release of stock impounded, of which the Vice-Guardians complain in a report of the 7th instant, this day referred for your observations.

The Commissioners are not at present prepared to say that arrangements of this kind should not be sanctioned under any circumstances, where the parties owing rate hold back until seizures are actually made. The expediency of sanctioning the collectors giving up seizures, without actual payment of the rates due, is however very questionable; and the Commissioners consider that in such cases the collectors should be left to act solely on their own responsibility; they also think that looking to the difficulty of collecting the rates, and the necessity of making examples, as well as of dealing equally with all classes, no compromise should be assented to from a desire to avoid exposure of the defaulters.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 12, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that I visited the electoral division of Kilmolara for the purpose of inspecting the work of those able-bodied who are receiving rations. I regret to state that the amount of labour performed is not at all in proportion to the time occupied, or the number employed. The same remark is applicable almost to every electoral division; and the Vice-Guardians' attention having been called to the circumstance, a stricter surveillance has been directed for the future, and the overseer ordered to be dismissed in the case of Kilmolara.

I then proceeded to Cong, to the relieving officer's store, to ascertain the actual number receiving rations, as I was not satisfied with the return sent in, there being 4416 so returned, being more than half of the population.

The true state is as follows:—

Adults	1436
Children	896
Making a difference of	2084

On a thorough investigation we found that no fraud had been committed, as the quantity of meal for which orders had been issued by the Vice-Guardians was exactly in accordance with the number now stated as receiving it.

The relieving officer, Mr. Joyce, who had Cong, Ross, and Ballagholla electoral divisions to superintend, had in a hurry added the whole as if belonging to Cong, although he only drew provisions for the actual numbers belonging to each, and thus the mistake originated; all is now rectified.

I visited the Claremorris and Ballindine electoral divisions. There were complaints preferred against the relieving officer as to the unsatisfactory manner of issuing the meal, the people having to wait so long in the street before they could get their rations. The fault lay with the contractor, who was disappointed by the cars breaking down between Westport and Claremorris. The amount of destitution is very great in Claremorris, and likely to increase; and it is under consideration whether a second relieving officer for that electoral division should not be recommended for appointment.

The amount of poor-rate collected this week, and lodged to the credit of the Union, is very small, not exceeding 239 $\frac{1}{2}$; but I trust next week's collection will be a large one.

I regret to report that, in consequence of the Vice-Guardians being unable to pay the meal contractors even a part of the money due to them yesterday, that they have refused to give any more credit, which will create great inconvenience in the Union, as the quantity of provisions required for the ensuing week will amount to nearly 70 tons for out-door relief, and unless some immediate steps are taken the distress will be dreadful.

I take leave to annex a letter I received this evening from the Roman Catholic curate of Joyce's country, the Rev. Mr. Robinson, on the subject, by which it appears one woman died in the street of Clonbur, and another person in Joyce's country, as he states, from want. The people in this locality are unable to go so far for their rations, as I stated in my report of the 5th instant; and I know of no other plan to relieve them except having the meal deposited in the police barrack at Maam, and being allowed the privilege of the constable in charge there to distribute it. There is no one we could trust in that part of the country except the police.

I presented two estimates, approved by the Finance Committee and myself, in favour of Ballinrobe and Kilmain fever hospitals to the Vice-Guardians, but for want of funds no money could be granted. I fear the contractors who supply these establishments will soon stop if they do not get paid.

ENCLOSURE.

Ballinrobe Union.

The Rev. W. F. ROBINSON to Dr. DEMPSTER :—February 12, 1848.

I BEG leave to call your attention to the present awful state of those persons who were receiving out-door relief. This week's supply has been stopped, as the contractors would not give the meal until they get the money due or part of it. I fear that unless the people get the meal, before many days you will hear of the death of some of them. This day a woman died in the street of Clonbur from destitution, and two days ago another person died in Joyce's country from real want. This is, without doubt, a horrid state of things.

Excuse this liberty, and believe me to remain yours very truly.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 15, 1848.

I AM to state that application has been made to Count Strzelecki for a further advance of 400*l.* to assist the Vice-Guardians in providing for the relief of the destitute poor in the Union.

With regard to your suggestion as to the propriety of having the provisions required for the support of the poor in Joyce's country deposited in the police barrack at Maam, and permission being granted to the constable in charge to distribute it, I am to state that the Commissioners presume that the arrangement which you propose has been carried into effect; but if not, they request that you will apply to the County Inspector for the services of the constable referred to.

I am at the same time to state that the Commissioners consider it may now become necessary to re-model the relieving officers' districts, and they wish that you should formally consider the subject in conjunction with the Vice-Guardians, and report the result to the Commissioners.

The Commissioners are desirous that relief should be administered to all in the Union who are really destitute; and as the system of depôts from which relief is distributed in food by relieving officers admits of expansion to any extent which circumstances may render necessary, they rely upon such arrangements being made by you and the Vice-Guardians as will prevent the occurrence of any deaths from starvation.

WE have the honour to inform you that 239*l.* 9*s.* 1*d.* has been lodged to our credit during the last week by the rate collectors. We have paid 10*l.* 16*s.* 10*d.* on account of the current expenses, 104*l.* 13*s.* 2*d.* in part payment of the old debts at 50 per cent, and 123*l.* 13*s.* 1*d.* for outstanding cheques some time issued, and not presented till this week for payment. In consequence of the illness of the clerk on the last Board-day, and for some days previous, he was not aware that any cheques were outstanding; the balance shown to our credit was therefore erroneous, and we drew for the above amount beyond our funds.

The number of destitute poor on the relieving officers' lists entitled to receive rations for the ensuing week is 25,764, and the quantity of Indian meal required for distribution is 70 tons 4 cwt. 2 qrs. 10½ lbs.; but we regret to have to state that we were totally unable to provide any portion of it. We have not received any grant in aid from the British Association, and you will perceive by the minutes of our proceedings that the contractors, all of whom are poor struggling men, dependent upon the merchants for credit, have declined to give any further supply till a considerable portion of the money now due to them for the meal already furnished for out-door relief, and amounting to 1300*l.*, shall be paid. Under these circumstances, should you be enabled to obtain a grant for the necessary supply from the British Association, we have arranged that one of us shall attend at Ballinrobe on Tuesday to receive your communication, and if an order for the food shall be sent, to take the proper measures for its distribution.

We forward the list furnished by Mr. Thomas Walsh, one of the rate collectors, with his remarks upon each case; and we would desire to call your attention to the observation upon that of Mr. Lynch of Partry, which has reference to the statement of Lord Lucan. We also forward a letter addressed to us by Mr. Walsh, with a copy of our letter in reply. We fear that, for the present, the rates will not come in as quickly as we could desire. All the rate collectors in the Unions under our management are, with two exceptions (Sir R. O'Donnell in Westport and Mr. Brannick in Ballinrobe), also collectors of the county cess, which must be paid in, before the coming assizes on the 6th of March next, and will retard the payment as well as the collection of the poor's rate. This subject we think is deserving of serious consideration in the future appointment of rate collectors. The county cess must be paid at the assizes twice in each year; and being in course of collection for a considerable time previous, it must have an injurious influence upon the collection of poor's rate when the same officer is the collector in both cases.

ENCLOSURES.

Mr. WALSH, Collector, to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—February 11, 1848.

I BEG to state that I proceeded to the electoral division of Mayo again yesterday to distrain for rates, with my assistant and eight men. We seized on a cow in the first village we went to, when, after some very violent language, several men and women assaulted my assistant, Pat Mahony, and our assistants; and stones of a large size were thrown at them; and Mahony got several blows on the body and head, and had his hand severely cut in my presence, and they threatened myself with the same treatment; and I very much feared the men would be severely injured, or perhaps some of them killed from the violent manner and language used on the occasion. During the row and fighting, the cow was driven off from us, and we could not prevent it; and all the other cattle were hid from us in houses locked up, or driven away. I then proceeded to other townlands and seized seven sheep, which we brought out to the road, when we were followed by a crowd of men and women, who ran after us, and came out from other villages, and got before the sheep, and with violent and threatening language forced the sheep down a narrow road to a village, where, if we followed, our lives would be in danger. I seized on the corn of the owner of the sheep, but could get no man to act as keeper, to mind it. As I proceeded through the electoral divisions, shouts and whistling went before, and screeching after us; and in all directions, and on all sides, men, women, and children were driving and running away with their cattle. I then seized on some small haggards of corn. If I had police and military to protect us, I will carry away their corn if they do not pay or give cattle to pay. I beg to know can I carry away their corn now under seizure, or must I wait to post notice of sale, and have an auction to sell before I can carry away; if not, I must wait to give six days' notice of sale. I much fear police or military protection will not enable me to make a seizure of cattle, for as soon as we are seen people will run before to give notice, and the stock will be driven out of our reach. I only succeeded in impounding two heifers. I fear the same conduct will be adopted in every electoral division. My assistant was several times before threatened and rescued, and swore his informations before the magistrates at Clare Petty Sessions, and again before Mr. Arabin, who issued his warrant.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to Mr. WALSH:—February 12, 1848.

UPON reading over your letter addressed to us yesterday, detailing rescues of property seized upon by you for poor-rates, and violent assaults committed upon your assistants by persons assembled upon that occasion, we consider that it is imperatively necessary that information of the facts be at once lodged before a magistrate, and that the parties implicated shall be sworn against and brought to justice. From your having been so long a collector of the county cess, we do not apprehend that there can be any difficulty to identify the persons engaged in this matter, as every rate-payer must be known to you and your assistants.

In conclusion, we wish again to impress upon you the absolute necessity of the utmost exertion upon your part to collect the poor-rate, and that you will not allow the collection of the county cess, in which you are at present engaged, to interfere in any way with a matter of such paramount importance.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 14, 1848.

I AM to state that, under the circumstances reported, application will be made for a loan of 400*l.*, to assist you in relieving the destitute poor of the Ballinrobe Union. I am at the same time to state, in reference to Collector Walsh's inquiry, that he is not bound to sell the goods seized where he makes the distress, but may remove them to any convenient and fit place.

The Commissioners regret that any apprehension of the collector's activity should be entertained; and they can only recommend that he may be kept to the execution of his duty. They do not consider that the simultaneous collection of poor rate and county cess by one person should be more an impediment to the payment of the former than a simultaneous collection of the two assessments by two or more collectors.

With respect to the case of Mr. Lynch, of Partry, the Commissioners desire to observe that they have not had the particulars before them which would enable them to form any opinion on his objections, and it is not within the province of the Commissioners to entertain the case. On this head the Commissioners transmit a copy of a letter which they have addressed to Dr. Dempster.

The COMMISSIONERS to Dr. DEMPSTER:—February 16, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration a communication made to the Vice-Guardians of the Ballinrobe Union by Mr. Thomas Walsh, one of the collectors of poor-rate in the Ballinrobe Union, from which it would appear that you have acted in the capacity of arbitrator in the case of Mr. John F. Lynch, of Partry, a defaulter of payment of poor-rate in the Union. The collector states that of 21*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.*, Mr. Lynch has paid 10*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.*, and that "Dr. Dempster, as arbitrator, settled he was not to pay more, except the "arrears." In reference thereto, the Commissioners desire to state that, although they are convinced that in the course which you pursued you acted with good intentions, yet the interference on your part was wholly unauthorized by the law, and you altogether exceeded your powers.

The responsibility of making and collecting poor-rates rests solely with the Vice-Guardians, and neither the Commissioners nor any of their Inspectors have authority to remit any portion of any rate which has been made on any individual, or in any way to alter the rate-book.

The Commissioners have to add that while the power assumed by you in Mr. Lynch's case was one to which neither you nor the Commissioners are entitled by law, they are of opinion, that the power is greater than can be exercised even by the Guardians themselves, when they have once signed the rate-books.

In your report of the 25th December last, the Commissioners observed that you used the expressions, "I arranged with Mr. Lynch to withdraw his appeal "against the rates, and he has left to my arbitration the settlement of the "matter, which I considered much better than going to the quarter sessions, "as all we require is what is legally due from the rate-payers, and I shall "try to enforce what should be collected from those entitled by law to pay "the rates."

The Commissioners refrained from writing to you on the subject at the time, because they presumed that the words you used referred to some point within your competence as an Inspector or a private individual, and it did not occur to them as possible that you would seriously undertake to remit any portion of a rate which had been made on any rate-payer by the Vice-Guardians.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 18, 1848.

We have the honour to report, for your information, that 482*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.*, has been lodged to our credit by the rate collectors in the past week, and 400*l.* received from Doctor Dempster, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, as a grant from the British Association in aid of the destitute poor in this Union. We have paid thereout, for meal issued from the commissariat store-house, including cost of carriage and distribution, 382*l.* 17*s.* 4*d.*, and 300*l.* to contractors on account for Indian meal supplied by them to make up the deficiency of near 700*l.* worth required for the week's provision, as stated in our last report; of the old debts we have only paid 52*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.*, and for current expenses 105*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.*

The numbers now on the books, entitled to receive out-door relief, are 21,166 adults, and 5584 children, total 26,750; requiring about 71½ tons for one week's food, being about 700*l.* worth.

We regret to have again to report that we are without funds to pay for any part, nor will the contractors give a further supply without prompt payment, neither can we ask them when so large an amount is due to them for what they have already advanced. By the above statement you will perceive that upwards of 300*l.* from the rates have been expended upon out-door relief for this week, and we have been thereby prevented from paying more than a very small sum on account of old debts, or anything in discharge of those contracted by ourselves. Our position has therefore become extremely embarrassing from the incessant importunity of creditors, both in the Board-room and as we pass through the town; upbraided by the old creditors who freely entered into an arrangement proposed by us, and sanctioned by you; whilst others (who refused to comply) are proceeding at law to recover their claims, to which pleas of confession are now being entered by our solicitor, but payment must be made in April, and all the costs will fall on the Union.

We, therefore, feel called upon to report and explain our present position, that you may consider it, and determine in what way the immense amount of destitution, now ascertained, shall be provided for, and which from the latitude given to the interpretation of the 10th section of the Relief Extension Act, is still likely to increase to a very great extent, and which, you must now be aware, it is totally out of our power to meet, except means are placed at our disposal sufficient to procure the quantity of food required for each week's consumption.

One of our party will again attend here on Tuesday next, to receive and act upon any orders you may determine to send by that day's post, to provide for the requisite supply.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 21, 1848.

I AM to state that the sum of 700*l.* will be remitted to-morrow, to assist you in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

I am at the same time to state that, on a consideration of all the circumstances of the three Unions of which you are Vice-Guardians, and of the great labour which is now thrown upon you by the increase of destitution therein, the Commissioners deem it desirable to detach the Ballinrobe Union from your district and to constitute you Vice-Guardians for Castlebar and Westport Unions alone. At the same time the Commissioners propose to transfer Mr. Fishbourne's services to Ballinrobe Union exclusively.

The Commissioners will take care that the total amount of your salaries shall not be in the least affected by this alteration previous to the 25th of the next month; but the Commissioners are desirous that, after that date, the present arrangement on this head should be open to revision, if it is your intention after that period to give the Commissioners the benefit of your valuable services.

The Commissioners will address Mr. Fishbourne on this subject by to-morrow's post.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 18, 1848.

WE have the honour to forward to you the copy of a communication received from Mr. Thomas Walsh, rate collector, giving an account of his proceedings in enforcing the payment of the rates, and we have further to state that a similar demonstration will be made by another rate collector on Tuesday next, who intends to distrain some of the higher class who have available property.

ENCLOSURE.

MR. WALSH to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—February 18, 1848.

IN consequence of the opposition I received in the collection of the rates as before reported to you, I gave a requisition to Mr. Arabin; R.M., who accompanied me with a party of military and police to the division of Mayo, taking a long circuit of over 20 miles' distance. I also had to engage an auctioneer and 12 carts at considerable expense. I made 14 seizures, 10 of which paid their rates; and we brought away three heifers to pay the rates of three persons, and four carts of wheat in sheaf, not sufficient to pay the rates of the fourth. This formidable party caused a great sensation all through the country, and though the amount collected is small, it will, I hope, be productive of good results in enabling me to collect the rates. I beg to mention I was, under the direction of Mr. Arabin, most efficiently supported by the military and police in a very harassing day's duty—out from day-light until after night-fall.

DR. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 19, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that on Monday, 14th instant, Mr. Walsh, rate collector, reported he had been deforced in the collection of rates in the electoral division of Mayo; and in consequence, having made the necessary deposition as to the facts before the resident magistrate, and handed in a requisition for protection, Mr. Arabin accompanied Mr. Walsh with a military and police force on Thursday, 17th instant, and made several seizures. His report I beg to annex, by which he considers he will have less trouble in future in the collection.

Ballinrobe Union.

Ballinrobe Union.

The collector of Kilmain and Shruil electoral divisions, under similar circumstances, will be accompanied by Mr. Arabin on Monday next 21st instant. The result I shall report.

On receipt of a communication on the 15th instant, stating that 400*l.* would be transmitted in aid of the destitute of this Union, I arranged with Lieutenant Stokes, R.N., the officer in charge of the Commissariat depôt, that meal should be at once issued to the relieving officers; and Mr. Lecky, Vice-Guardian, having arrived from Castlebar, the arrangements were completed and the meal given out; and from the state of funds of the Union at this moment a similar remittance will be required to prevent the people from starving. The number on the lists for next week being 26,750—adults 21,166, and children 5584.

Mr. Joyce, the relieving officer of Ross and Ballagholla electoral divisions, reported on the 15th instant that 10 persons had died in his district and two of these from want. His report I take leave to forward.

Having been called upon by the Chairman of the Cong and Kilmolara Committee to inspect the fever accounts, I did so, and will transmit the vouchers (I required stamp receipts for some items) next week for Mr. Bromley.

I visited Hollymount and Robeen electoral divisions, and saw the relieving officers performing their duties in distributing the meal; and also inspected the overseer's work in the same localities.

I went to Kilmain on like duty, and shall make a special report on the state of the temporary fever shed there next week.

I attended at the workhouse with the Vice-Guardians on Thursday, and handed to them 400*l.* that day received from the British Relief Association in aid of the destitute poor of this Union. The workhouse is greatly improved in every respect, and the hospital also. Fever on the decline in the house; but dysentery prevails to a considerable extent.

The meal contractors were very clamorous for payment of the advances they had made, and the old creditors of the Union most pressing in their demands on the Vice-Guardians, and several have commenced proceedings at law to recover their money.

The amount of rates this week handed in to the treasurer was 482*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.*

ENCLOSURES.

Mr. WALSH to Dr. DEMPSTER:—February 19, 1848.

I BEG to inform you that in consequence of the opposition I met with in the collection of poor-rates in the electoral division of Mayo, as before stated to you, I gave a requisition to Mr. Arabin, R.M., for military and police to protect me in the discharge of my duties, who accompanied me with a party of cavalry and infantry and police to the district. I engaged an auctioneer and 12 carts and additional men at considerable expense; and we took a circuit of about 20 miles distance, and made 14 seizures: 10 of the owners paid their rates; and we took three heifers from three to pay their rates, and four carts of wheat in sheaf not sufficient to pay the rates, of the fourth—all purchased by Mr. Arabin; and though the amount of rates received was small, the appearance of so formidable a party caused a great sensation through the country, and will, I hope, be productive of good results in inducing the rates to be paid in. I beg to state I was most efficiently supported in this duty by Mr. Arabin and the military and police, who had a very long and harassing march—out from morning until after night-fall.

Mr. JOYCE to Dr. DEMPSTER:—February 15, 1848.

I REGRET to state that within the last four days 10 persons have died in the electoral division of Ross. Those were people who continued in possession of their small holdings of land until they were nearly exhausted; then surrendered it to their several landlords; applied to me for relief, which was granted by the Vice-Guardians, and which they were now receiving.

18th.—Mr. Joyce states that two of the above died from want.

Showed this to Vice-Guardians 17th February, 1848.—J. D.

The COMMISSIONERS to Dr. DEMPSTER in reply:—February 21, 1848.

I AM to state that the sum of 700*l.* will be sent on to-morrow to assist the Vice-Guardians in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

COPY OF OBSERVATIONS of Dr. DEMPSTER, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, on a communication from the Rev. Mr. PHEW, P.P., Shruil, in which he states that he is under the impression that the Poor Rate Collectors are not discharging their duties faithfully, as they take care to apply to the farmer who pays them at once, but are tardy enough to apply to the proprietor in fee, who may be a magistrate or some personage of whom they may be afraid.

THE reverend gentleman was in the Board-room last week when the following case was brought before the Vice-Guardians:—a parishioner of his, a rate-payer, named Connor, and a tenant of a Mr. Kenny, had been met on the road by the rate-collector. Connor was on horseback and carrying a bag with meal; the rate-collector seized the horse for rate and county cess; the man pleaded poverty and inability to pay, besides stating as he was on the relief lists, he was not liable for rates; the collector differed in opinion—kept the horse, and in a few minutes, when Connor found he could not escape, paid the amount on the spot. This man is of the class alluded to by Mr. Pheew, as being one of the farmers applied to and who pay at once: Connor was struck off.

The rate-collectors have instructions to make no distinction of parties, but to get the rates from all indiscriminately. And in the parish of Shruil the collector has been deforced and rescued, in consequence of which the resident magistrate, with military and police, is in that locality this day protecting the collectors.

February 21, 1848.

OBSERVATIONS of Dr. DEMPSTER on a communication from Mr. James Browne, of Claremont House, Claremorris, relating to the distress in the part of the County Mayo in which Mr. Browne's property is situated, and to abuses committed in placing persons on the relief lists who are not destitute, while others who are so have been denied relief:—February 21, 1848.

Mr. BROWNE is a defaulter in his rates, and has been called upon by Mr. Brannick, the collector, for payment.

We all think that many persons receiving out-door relief ought not to get it; but we can get no one to come forward and point out any specific case.

I called on the relieving officer of the Claremorris electoral division, Mr. Gibbons, to answer the allegations of Mr. Browne. He denies that any one is on the list to his knowledge, who is not a fit object. I admit that very great destitution prevails, but every precaution has been taken by myself and the Vice-Guardians (to whom I submitted Mr. Browne's letter) to carry out the Ballinrobe Union. relief properly, and every attention paid to recommendations of the Roman Catholic clergyman of the parish and other competent persons.

The agent of Mr. Browne, Mr. Hewson, a justice of the peace for the county, came to Ballinrobe a short time ago to complain to the Vice-Guardians of the case of a widow with a large family, whom he represented to be in the greatest poverty and destitution and not getting relief. On investigation, the woman and all her children were on the books as residing in a certain townland in the parish and receiving relief; but she wanted to be placed again on the books to get double rations as if living in another place, only altering the respective ages of herself and of each of the children, who were all on the lists by the same christian names and in the same consecutive order. It is very hard to discriminate, and it is possible some cases may be as Mr. Browne represents; but all he or any other person has to do is to point them out, and immediate redress follows.

The COMMISSIONERS to Dr. DEMPSTER:—February 21, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a copy of a communication which they have received from Sir Randolph I. Routh, relating to deaths alleged to have occurred from starvation in the Ballinrobe Union; and in reference thereto I am to request that you will be so good as to explain fully the mode adopted in the Ballinrobe Union, of issuing rations to the classes relieved under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, distinctly from the able-bodied classes, to whom relief should only be given as their tasks of labour are performed daily.

ENCLOSURE.

Commissary-General Sir R. ROUTH to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 17, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to lay before you, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, the annexed extract of a letter from Lieutenant Stokes, R.N., now in charge of the Commissariat duties at Ballinrobe, but without meaning to offer any opinion on that gentleman's suggestion.

Extract of a Letter from Lieutenant Stokes to Commissary-General Sir Randolph I. Routh, dated Ballinrobe, 15th February, 1848.

SINCE writing the above, I regret to say I have heard of a few deaths having taken place in one district of this Union from the want of food. They were persons receiving relief according to the present system. The allowance for seven days is given at one issue; and it appears the people, from improvidently using it, are frequently to be found fasting for the last day or two of the week, and to this cause I believe may be assigned the deaths I have noticed.

Mr. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 24, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that in pursuance of my intention, as communicated to you on a former paper, I this day met the Finance Committee of the Ballinrobe Union, and in conjunction with Dr. Dempster, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, brought before them the subject of the temporary fever hospitals throughout the Union. After an attentive consideration given to the affairs of their establishments, the Finance Committee adopted the resolutions in reference to each of them, of which I now beg to enclose a copy, and request it may be forwarded to the Central Board of Health for their information.

The result of the deliberations of the Finance Committee is, that four of their hospitals shall be continued, and (subject to certain arrangements as to their accounts) should be supported from the poor-rates: that a fifth (which is not yet in operation) should be handed over to the Vice-Guardians, to be opened for the reception of patients when it is considered necessary, and that the remaining two should, for the reasons assigned by the Finance Committee, be discontinued or at least not provided with funds from the rates of the Union.

I entirely agree with the other members of the Finance Committee in the resolutions now adopted. I think the number of hospitals which they are prepared to call on the Vice-Guardians to support, ought to be sufficient for the wants of the Union, and I trust that the Central Board of Health will not consider it necessary to insist upon any extension of these establishments beyond what the Finance Committee have been recommended.

Ballinrobe Union.

ENCLOSURE.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee of the Ballinrobe Union, held at Ballinrobe, on the 24th February, 1848,—Present—Alexander C. Lambert, Esq., Thomas Ellwood, Esq., Richard Bourke, Poor Law Inspector, and Dr. James Dempster, Temporary Poor Law Inspector,—the following resolutions were agreed to in reference to the fever hospitals, for which money was granted by the Relief Commissioners:

Resolved,—That the fever hospitals now established at the places mentioned in the margin be continued, and that, subject to certain arrangements entered into as to their accounts, the expenses be provided for by the Vice-Guardians, from the poor-rates of the Union, and that estimates for this purpose be duly forwarded by us.

That with regard to the hospital established at Claremorris, we respectfully request that it may be withdrawn from the management of a Relief Committee, and transferred to the Vice-Guardians, for the following reason, viz.:—That various representations have been made by one of our members, and by Dr. Dempster, to the present Committee, in order to induce them to send in an estimate, but as these have not as yet been complied with, we apprehend that under the present management, this hospital will not be made available for the poor of the district.

That with respect to the two hospitals named in the margin, we are of opinion that they are not required for the districts in which they are situated, and we respectfully submit that they should not be provided with funds from the poor-rates. Our reasons for this recommendation are as follows:—

The first of these hospitals which is represented to be intended for the poor of the electoral divisions of Cong and Kilmolara, is situated at the extreme end of the last of these divisions, within one mile and a quarter of the town of Ballinrobe. It is a thatched cottage alongside of the high road, ill adapted for the accommodation of fever patients, and so far distant from the principal portions of the district, that it would be as easy to send patients from thence into Ballinrobe, where they could be received at a good hospital already in operation. If this hospital should require to be enlarged in order to accommodate the patients from the Cong and Kilmolara districts, we are of opinion that this would be much preferable to the establishment and support of this hospital, under the circumstances we have mentioned.

The second of these hospitals was designed for the use of the poor of Ballagholla electoral division. This district is very thinly peopled, containing, by the census of 1841, only 1478 persons, and valued at 462*l*. We do not consider an hospital here to be by any means necessary, and we hope that we may not be required to forward estimates to the Vice-Guardians for its support. The district is divided from the electoral division of Partry, by a lake, across which there is an established ferry, and by this conveyance patients may be quickly and safely transported to the fever hospital at Partry, which is already in operation. The sum of 150*l*. was granted for this hospital by the Relief Commissioners, but up to this hour nothing has been done towards its erection but digging the foundations.

We trust that under the circumstances here detailed, the Central Board of Health will be of opinion that sufficient provision will be made by the foregoing arrangements, from providing fever accommodation for the poor of this Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. BOURKE:—February 26, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have communicated your report to the Board of Health, in accordance with your recommendation.

The COMMISSIONERS to Dr. DEMPSTER:—February 25, 1848.

THE Commissioners having observed by a resolution of the Vice-Guardians of Ballinrobe Union, on their minutes of the 10th instant, that they declare their inability to pay two sums required for support of temporary fever hospitals; an examination has been made of the collection of the rate, by which it appears that since warrants were issued on the 11th November last for collection of rates amounting to 14,127*l*., the amount brought in to the 5th instant is only 3,537*l*.; and it is also found that in the divisions of Ross and Ballagholla more than half the rate has been collected—while in the Mayo portion of the Union, the proportion collected is not a fourth.

The Commissioners request that you will examine strictly into the course which each of the collectors is taking; and that you will immediately recommend the Vice-Guardians to adopt such steps as shall appear to be necessary for enforcing a prompt performance of the collectors' duties, wherever the rates can be collected, by exercising the powers vested in these officers.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 26, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that every exertion is being made to collect the rates of this Union. I beg to forward Mr. Arabin's report to me on the subject. The amount of rates lodged this week by the respective collectors is 699*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* as per margin.

I attended at the Commissariat dépôt, as to the issue of meal to the several relieving officers, with Mr. Lecky, Vice-Guardian, to whom I handed the 700*l.* sent from the British Relief Association.

I regret to state that from the great pressure on the stores from Westport and Castlebar, &c., some of our officers were unable to get their proportions till yesterday, and one for Ballindine only this morning, which is the cause of great outcry as against the relieving officers and distributors. I understand the tackling in the store having repeatedly broken during the week, was another cause of delay.

Mr. Bourke, Poor Law Inspector, having arrived here, Messrs. Lambert and Elwood, members of the Finance Committee, attended at my office, and we took into consideration the matters connected with the temporary fever establishments of this Union, and a special report was made.

I visited Partry fever hospital on Friday, and found it clean and in good order.

There was an inquest held on the body of a man named Patrick Gibbons, a patient in that hospital, on 25th instant, at the desire of the Rev. Mr. Conway, Roman Catholic curate of the parish of Partry.

The man was admitted on the 23rd instant, and died same day. He was reported on the hospital register ill fourteen days before admission. The jury found a verdict of "died from starvation."

This man lived on the lands of Druncoggy, the property of Sir Robert Lynch Blossie, bart. He was receiving relief with his mother and sister from 24th January to 21st February instant, when the relieving officer was called upon by the sub-agent of Sir Robert, who threatened to report him to the Vice-Guardians and Poor Law Commissioners for dereliction of duty in affording relief to persons holding so much land as he stated Gibbons was in possession of, upwards of three acres. Being poor and destitute, the relieving officer was justified in affording relief. The agent would not take the ground off the unfortunate people's hands, unless they threw down their cabin, which the sister did, and the man was removed to the hospital. It is quite clear starvation was not the cause, having been on the list, and the three receiving rations till the 21st instant; and the fact of stating to the porter of the hospital on admission, that the man was 14 days ill of fever; his sudden death is easily accounted for—removal in the worn-out debilitated state the man was, and bringing him upwards of three miles.

Two of the jurors, Pat Walsh and Richard Stanton, were very violent in demeanour, and in their observations, both declaring that no rates or cess should be paid in that parish till they got a relieving officer of their own—the same language as that made use of in the Board-room by the reverend gentleman a short time since.

It is in contemplation to ask permission of the Commissioners to appoint a head overseer, whose duties would be to constantly visit the gangs of men on the roads breaking stones, and to report to the Vice-Guardians weekly. I think it would be a desirable appointment, and recommend it.

There are 28,303 on the out-door lists for relief in the ensuing week, and we will require upwards of 70 tons of meal to supply their wants. The Vice-Guardians paid this week the sum of 1387*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.* in old and new liabilities—of old 377*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.*; of new 1009*l.* 15*s.* 1*d.*, which has left the treasurer without any funds.

Considering that Maam would be a place excellently adapted for forming a dépôt for distribution for the western portion of Joyce's country, and to save the poor creatures going so far as Clonbur for their rations, on your letter to me of the 15th instant, giving permission for such an establishment, I accordingly wrote to the County Inspector, Captain Blake, of Galway, on the subject, and requesting that the constable in charge there might be permitted to act as distributor. By that gentleman's answer, this day received, the Inspector-General regrets that the services of the constable cannot be spared for that duty. I regret it also as does Captain Blake, J.P., of Doone, the only resident gentleman in that locality, under whom the constable acted in a like capacity last year, and gave the greatest satisfaction.

I shall visit Maam next week, and try to make some other selection.

N.B.—I take leave to submit a letter I received from the Rev. Mr. Phew, of Shruil, relative to the eviction of tenants in that parish. Mr. Blake, the landlord, is a defaulting rate-payer, and is to be sued for his rates.

Ballinrobe Union.

ENCLOSURES.

The Rev. MICHAEL PHEW to Dr. DEMPSTER.

*Shruil Electoral Division of Ballinrobe Union,
February 23, 1848.*

I BEG to inform you, the Inspecting Poor Law officer in this Union, that the sheriff of this county has on Monday last, the 21st of this month, come on the townlands of Moyne, in this electoral division, and there caused to be levelled to the ground the houses of seven families, and thereby left them unsheltered, and liable to die of hunger and cold for want of food and home. I would like you would come and see their condition. They were hitherto living on that farm, which is the property of Charles Blake, esq., Merlin Park, in the county of Galway; and I would be happy to know whether that gentleman has made any provisions to support them either in the workhouse of this Union, or on the out-door relief system. This I beg to communicate officially to you.

Mr. ARABIN to Dr. DEMPSTER:—February 25, 1848.

I RETURNED yesterday from my expedition to the parish of Shruil, I had 20 cavalry, 20 infantry, and 20 of the police. On Monday the collector drove to the neighbourhood of Kilmaine, the first place visited was the residence of Thomas Fair, Esq., of Fortville, a rich landholder, who paid in the course of the day. The party then proceeded to Coolisduff, where a strong disposition to resistance became apparent; a number of persons got together on a hill, and ventured to attempt a rescue from the drivers, some distance in the fields; this however was quickly repulsed, and did not occur again. I have been occupied three days at this duty, taking up my quarters at Shruil, from which place we took our departure every morning, and marching a distance of not less than 20 miles.

The result of this drive has been very satisfactory. Numerous seizures were made, but the parties mostly redeemed their cattle at the moment; a good many however were driven to the pounds, but the parties came in the next morning and released them; many parties also came in and paid voluntarily. The collector is in hopes of receiving a good deal of the rates without the application of force.

I could not finish this division this time, being called on to go with Mr. Walsh to Cong next Friday (to-morrow); and I am also called on by all the collectors, with whom I am endeavouring to make the most satisfactory arrangements.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 29, 1848.

THE Commissioners are glad to perceive that the collection of poor-rates in the Union during the past week, is not quite so unsatisfactory as it has been heretofore. The Commissioners are awaiting the receipt of the information requested in their letter of the 19th instant to the Vice-Guardians, on the subject of the collection of the rates in this Union; and they are desirous that a strict scrutiny of the lists of defaulters in the Union should be made by the Vice-Guardians, with a view to their being the better enabled to direct and to stimulate the collectors to a prompt and energetic discharge of their duties, regarding only the ability of parties to pay their rates, and the necessity of providing funds to relieve the wants of the destitute poor of the Union.

The Commissioners take this opportunity of adverting to the fact, that in another Union, in which the population, area, and valuation, are not very dissimilar to the population, area, and valuation of the Ballinrobe Union, a sum of 10,258*l.* was collected in seven weeks; and a new rate is in progress of being made and collected. In the Ballinrobe Union, of a rate of 14,126*l.* made on the 15th October last, 10,351*l.* remained uncollected on the 10th instant.

The Commissioners regret the delay which occurred in the distribution of rations to which you refer. They have applied for an advance of 700*l.* in money for this week's supplies, as recommended in a report which they have received from Mr. Bourke; and a copy of a report which Mr. Bourke has made on the subject of the temporary fever hospital of the Union, has been forwarded to the Board of Health.

As regards the case of a poor man named Gibbons, to which you refer, I am to draw your attention to the Commissioners' circular letter of the 15th instant, regarding the operation of the 10th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, and also to the terms of that section as to the affording relief in cases where the applicant is in occupation of more than a quarter of an acre of land.

The Commissioners approve the appointment of a superintendent of the overseers of labour in the Union.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 26, 1848.

I BEG to state for the information of the Commissioners, in reply to your letter of yesterday, that every exertion is being made for the collection of the rates in this Union.

The resident magistrate, Mr. Arabin, with a strong force of military and police, was out on the 21st, 22nd, and 23rd instant, in the electoral divisions of Kilmain and Shruil, protecting the collector and his assistants, the result was a lodgment of 375*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.* with the treasurer.

That Mr. Arabin is at present in the electoral division of Cong, protecting Mr. Walsh with a like force; and he has made an arrangement with Mr. Brannick to attend him in Claremorris and Ballindine electoral divisions on Tuesday, the 29th instant.

These proceedings will show the Commissioners that no steps are omitted to be taken to endeavour to get in the rates.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 28, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners trust that the demonstrations which have been made in the Union will enable the collectors to obtain payment of the rates in future without extraneous assistance such as that to which you refer.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 26, 1848.

WE have the honour to state for your information, that the collectors are now more actively engaged in enforcing payment of the rates, and have lodged during the last week 686*l.* 10*s.* 3*d.*; and we have also received from Dr. Dempster, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, 700*l.*, granted in aid of destitution by the British Association. We have paid on the out-door relief account 822*l.* 13*s.* 7*d.*; we have also paid on account of the old debts under 10*l.* and on the remainder at 50 per cent. 377*l.* 15*s.* 8*d.*, for the current expenses, 166*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.*, and for the audit account, 20*l.* 10*s.*

The gross numbers returned by the relieving officers to receive out-door relief for the ensuing week amount to 28,303, and the quantity of Indian meal required for their supply is about 74 tons, which being now sold by the Commissariat officer at 8*l.* 15*s.* per ton, 700*l.* will be sufficient to cover the expense. It is impossible to make the returns classified under the different heads as you require, most of the relieving officers not having yet made up their weekly relief lists, for which neglect of duty we have ordered by minute that they shall be summoned before the magistrates at petty sessions. We think it right to state that although we have had the selection of those officers from amongst the best of the class of men in this country who would accept of such appointments, and notwithstanding that we consider them trustworthy, yet we fear from the want of business habits of the greater number, they will never be able to keep their books in the prescribed forms, and that if better and more intelligent officers cannot be had, very great confusion and dissatisfaction must be the consequence.

On the arrival of the chairman here on Tuesday last, he was officially informed that collector Fair's deputy was out of the southern district, where he had gone on Monday morning under protection of the resident magistrate, attended by police and military; and on his return on Thursday evening we were happy to learn that he had been very successful, having collected about 400*l.*, besides carrying away a good many cattle. Collector Walsh, similarly attended, has gone out this day, and we hope will meet with equal success. Collector Brannick only waits to have the same protection, the first day the magistrate can attend him, to enforce the rates in his district, and Tuesday next has been fixed on.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 29, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have made application to the Count de Strzelecki for a further advance of 700*l.* to assist you in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners are still anxious that your energies should be steadily and perseveringly directed to compelling payment of the poor rates.

The Commissioners are desirous of having an estimate laid before them of the amount expended weekly for the out-relief of able-bodied men in the Union.

In reference to the relieving officers, the Commissioners cannot but think, that if the relieving officers have ordinary intelligence they will be able to keep their books correctly, provided that pains are taken to instruct them on this head in the first instance.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 4, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that I visited the electoral divisions of Hollymount, Kilmain, and Shruil, in the early part of this week; saw the relieving officers and the several overseers on the roads with the gangs on the lines breaking stones. From the inquiry that was made of me, by one of the overseers, I think there is an indication of the men soon returning to field labour. Whether if those employed in breaking stones had their tasks completed early in the day they might be allowed to absent themselves for the remainder, or if they broke the complement required in two days they would be allowed to seek for employment for the other four? I directed the overseer to report to the relieving officer such men as left their work, whether they had completed their task or not, so that by thoroughly investigating into their respective cases their out-door relief could be suspended and reduce expenditure.

I visited the several schools in these districts. Since the issue of the rye-bread ration they are greatly increased in every direction. I have directed the relieving officers to inspect the lists of the schools and report the names of children appearing also on the relief lists with their parents, so that they may not receive double rations.

I likewise visited the division of Robeen for similar purposes, and I observed a greater amount of field labour going on than in any other district. The Earl of Lucan is giving a vast deal of employment in draining and improving waste lands.

I regret that the amount of rate lodged this week is very small, being only 245*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.* (as per margin), and yet great apparent activity appears in the collectors.

I doubt much the compatibility of the same person being employed in the double capacity of county cess collector and poor's-rate collector. The reason assigned to me for the smallness of rates this week is, that they were obliged to have the cess with the treasurer of the county before the ensuing assizes, otherwise they lose their poundage, as the Grand Jury would not present for them unless they paid up the amount of the warrants. I observed that the pound here was crowded with cattle and sheep, and on inquiry, found they had been distrained for the county cess, and by our rate collectors. They, however, promise after the assizes that we shall have a large amount of rates.

On Thursday, the 2nd instant, a boy was reported found dead on the Roundfort road, near the town of Ballinrobe. I visited the place and investigated the case. He died from exposure to the severe weather and from want of clothing. He

Ballinrobe Union.

The number of applicants for out-door relief is not abated this week, and it will require as much meal for rations as the preceding. From the state of the Union funds the Vice-Guardians will require further aid.

The expenditure this week is as follows:—

	£.	s.	d.
Paid current expenses	42	3	10
Paid of old debts	145	12	9
Paid out-door	739	18	1

which has exhausted the funds.

I was anxious, with the Vice-Guardians, to get a number of the inmates out of the workhouse so as to make room for a succession of those now claiming out-door relief. However, such as were selected and were willing to leave the establishment we found it impossible to discharge for want of clothing. Such coverings they had possessed on admission had been burned by order of the medical officer, at the time the house was overrun with fever, and we had no funds to purchase any clothing for them and their children. We could not possibly let them go out with the Union clothing, as that would, no doubt, lead to vast fraud and speculation.

I agreed with the Vice-Guardians to postpone for a short time the appointment of a head overseer, as perhaps a more advantageous arrangement for the Union may be effected.

ENCLOSURE referred to.

Verdict.

JOHN REGAN came by his death in consequence of having had a bowel complaint, not having sufficient covering, and being exposed to cold and inclemency of the weather, on the evening of Thursday, the 2nd day of March, 1848.

I, Hastings Twiss, M.D., sworn, depose, —That having made a post mortem examination on the body of John Regan, on the lands of Curnaroya, I am of opinion that he came by his death in consequence of the inclemency of the weather acting on an impaired constitution, having found the intestines evidently showing signs of disease.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 10, 1848.

I AM to state that a communication having been made to the agent of the British Association with a view to ascertain whether there was any supply of clothing at his disposal which could be appropriated for the Ballinrobe Union, the Commissioners have to-day received a reply, stating that the clothing which was at the disposal of the Association has been already distributed.

The Vice-Guardians must, therefore, make the best arrangements which the circumstances of the Union admit of for the discharge of some of the present workhouse inmates, to enable them to offer relief in the workhouse to persons now receiving out-door relief.

The Commissioners trust that your next report will be more satisfactory as regards the collection of the poor-rate in the Union. I am at the same time to observe, the collection of county cess and poor-rate by the same collector are presumed to proceed simultaneously, and should not, therefore, prevent the payment of poor-rate to the Union treasurer.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 4, 1848.

WE have the honour to inform you that the rate collectors of this Union have lodged to our credit during the past week but 245/ 4s. 10d., although from their increased activity, and the demonstrations made with the civil and military powers, we had been led to expect a much larger amount would have been collected. The simultaneous collection of the county cess by the same parties, we feel satisfied has been the cause of the smallness of the amount of rate; and in this opinion we are strengthened by the admission of one of the collectors; this cause, however, will soon cease, and we will still continue to urge forward the collection by every means in our power.

Doctor Dempster, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, has handed us 700*l.*, granted by the British Association in aid of destitution in this Union. We have paid on account of out-door relief 739*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*; in part discharge of old debts 145*l.* 12*s.* 9*d.*; for the current expenses 42*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.*, including the amount due by this Union to the Audit Fund; we have also paid 50*l.* to the Ballinrobe fever hospital.

The total numbers on the out-door relief lists are 25,466, and the quantity of Indian meal that has been issued for one week's consumption is 75 tons 5 cwts.; we therefore estimate that 700*l.* at the least will be required to provide for the necessary supply for the ensuing week.

The estimate of the amount expended for out-door relief called for in your letter, of the 29th February, is preparing for each week since the commencement, and shall be forwarded to you on the next meeting of the Board. The lists of immediate lessors and occupiers rated on a valuation of 10*l.* and above are also preparing with all possible expedition, and we expect to be enabled to forward them at the same time. Lists have already been handed to the solicitor to institute proceedings in the superior Courts. The rate collectors also state that several of the rate-payers owing large amounts of poor-rate, have promised to pay them at the assizes to be held at Castlebar on the 10th instant.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 7, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 200*l.* to assist you in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union in the ensuing week, in addition to a sum of 500*l.* already applied for.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 10, 1848.

WE have the honour to forward to you the returns of the persons who have not paid their poor-rates in 12 of the electoral divisions of this Union; those for the divisions of Ross and Ballagholla have not yet been made out. The rate collector, Mr. Higgins, although written to requiring him to attend without delay, and explaining to him the urgency of the case, not having paid any attention to the directions he received. Mr. Donaghoe, deputy collector to Mr. Thomas Fair, sent in his lists, but did not since attend to fill up the column for observations. With the exception of Mr. Brannick, the lists are all without the observations you require; notwithstanding that the collectors, both verbally and by letter, were informed of the necessity of their doing so, and even the paragraph in your letter requiring those returns was read to them.

All the rate collectors, with the exception of Mr. Brannick, are also county cess collectors, and we have found it quite impossible to get the lists perfected by them, in consequence of their having been engaged in collecting that tax for some time past, and being now attending the grand jury assembled for fiscal business at Castlebar. We, therefore, have thought it best to send you the lists as they are, till such time as we can have others made out with the observations of the collectors in each case; and we respectfully suggest that you should return us those lists that we may have the observations of the collectors inserted; at the same time we beg to state that accurate copies have been made, which we retain.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 16, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration the lists received with your report of the 10th instant,—containing the names of rate-payers of Ballinrobe Union who have not yet paid the sums charged against them as immediate lessors or as occupiers.

The Commissioners, although aware of the large amount of rates uncollected, were not prepared for the state of facts presented by these lists, which they cannot regard without disappointment, as indicating neglect on the part of the collectors, that should not have been permitted, more especially in the months most favourable for the collection of rates in that Union.

It appears that in 10 electoral divisions, for which Mr. Fair and Mr. Walsh are collectors,—the amount due by immediate lessors, and occupiers of holdings valued at 10*l.* or upwards, is 3564*l.*,—and that in two divisions for which Mr. Brannick is collector, the same classes of rate-payers owe 1246*l.* These amounts exceed one-half of the total uncollected.

The sums due by immediate lessors, are separately denoted in only nine of the twelve divisions referred to. In seven of these, Messrs. Fair and Walsh have left due by 18 immediate lessors named, 817*l.*, and Mr. Brannick returns 30 as owing 491*l.* It is, however, to be observed in extenuation, that in such cases the collectors could only act as directed by the Board of Guardians where proceedings to enforce payment were necessary.

In the case of occupiers this extenuation does not apply; and it appears that Messrs. Fair and Walsh have allowed 1736*l.* to remain due by 359 occupiers of holdings valued at 10*l.* or upwards, who owe an average amount of nearly 5*l.*, and whose holdings average in annual value about 33*l.*;—while Mr. Brannick has left 755*l.* uncollected from 177 occupiers of the same class.

The Commissioners will not detain you by any further analysis of the arrears. Enough is given to show the necessity for the most prompt and energetic measures to secure payment of the rates outstanding; and the Commissioners rely on your taking proper steps for keeping the collectors to the performance of their duty.

I HAVE the honour to report for the information of the Commissioners, that having accidentally heard on Sunday last, the 5th instant, that Mr. Sheridan, the County Inspector of Weights and Measures, had seized the scales and weights used by the relieving officer at Kilmain the day before, I proceeded to that place, and found the relieving officer busy distributing the meal to the destitute persons of that electoral division, and that the scales and weights then in use were accurate, but that those previously used by him had been placed in custody of the police, as being irregular, and that Mr. Fanagher will be summoned before the magistrates at next petty sessions at Kilmain, to answer the complaint of the Inspector. The scale in which the weights were put was lighter than the tin one in which the meal was weighed; but the relieving officer stated he always balanced the scales by putting a stone in the scale that was lighter than the other. Under the circumstances the Vice-Guardians and I have considered it right to appoint another person to distribute the rations, and to suspend Mr. Fanagher till the magistrates decide upon the case.

I beg to state that, on Monday, the 6th instant, I visited the electoral divisions of Kilmolara, Cong, and Ross. I inspected the workmen on the several lines of road, and met the overseers; all appeared attentive and busy. I also saw the relieving officers distributing the meal. I likewise visited the schools in these localities, and then proceeded to Maam. Next day I went to the extreme end of this Union, to the Killeries, inspecting the schools, and in many cases visiting poor people in their cabins reported ill of fever, for whom I prescribed, and left with the clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Robinson, some medical comforts, as entrusted to me by Count Strzelecki.

I made the following arrangements as to the distribution of out-door relief in these distant parts, which will add much to the comfort of the poor people, who heretofore had to come from the Killeries, and the adjacent townlands, to Clonbur, a distance of 18 Irish miles, and of course to return the same to their respective homes.

The relieving officer of Ross electoral division will attend at "The Griggins," about four and a half miles from Leenane, on one day weekly, at the house of a respectable farmer named Lally, who kindly consented to give the use of his barn for the distribution of the meal; by which, at the very least computation, two-thirds of their journey for the future will be saved to them.

I also arranged that the relieving officer of the Cong division should attend at Curnamona Bridge one day in the week, for the accommodation of the poor creatures who otherwise had to go to Cong to the depôt there for their rations, in some instances upwards of 12 miles. This will save them also better than two-thirds of the distance they previously had to march.

The relieving officer for Ballagholla is also for that division to attend one day at Churchfield, which will be a very great advantage to the people of that electoral division, who had to come to Clonbur for their meal, a long way; and if the weather was stormy, they must come round the lake, Lough Mask, which is upwards of 30 miles. I took the Rev. Mr. Robinson, the Catholic curate of Joyce's country, along with me, to whom, as well as to the people, these arrangements have given great satisfaction.

No. 240, 500*l*.

I handed to the Vice-Guardians two orders for provisions sent in aid from the British Relief Association for the destitute of this Union—amount 700*l*., as per margin.

As per sanction of the Commissioners, the Vice-Guardians have appointed two head overseers to inspect and report on the duties performed by the other overseers, to measure the work performed by the men breaking stones on the lines of road in the electoral divisions. The Union was divided into two districts—No. 1 comprising electoral divisions of Hollymount, Kilmain, Robeen, Burriscarra, Mayo, Claremorris, and Ballindine—Mr. Wayland; No. 2, Ballinrobe, Cong, Shruil, Kilmolara, Partry, Ross, and Ballagholla—Mr. O'Rourke; at salaries of thirty shillings per week each. They will be constantly on the road, and are to devote their entire time to these duties.

I regret to state that only Mr. Brannick, the rate-collector, lodged any monies this week to the credit of the Union—80*l*. 4*s*. 6*d*. The other collectors have promised redoubled exertions after the assizes of Castlebar.

I beg to forward a copy of an inquest held at Kilmain on a strolling mendicant, sent to me by the coroner.

Referring to the rescinding of the certificates for the fever hospitals at the Neal and Churchfield, shall I call upon the Committee of the former to hand over the bedding, &c., so that they may be made available for the Clonbur hospital, which establishment requires such articles, and save the purchase under their estimate, as passed by the Finance Committee.

I have the honour likewise to state that it will require about 80 tons of meal to supply the wants of the destitute of this Union for the week ensuing; and as the funds in the treasurer's hands are almost exhausted, I trust for a further sum in aid.

ENCLOSURE.

William Roberts, sworn and examined, saith, that on the morning of Monday, the 6th inst., the deceased, Michael Conry, came to the house he resides in, and asked him for some relief—deponent gave him some bread—that the said Michael Conry then went down the road a few perches; that about two or three hours after, when deponent went out, he found deceased lying dead on the side of the road.

W. RUTLEDGE, Coroner.

Received March 9,
J. D.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 14, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to Count De Strzelecki for a further advance of 700*l.* to assist the Vice-Guardians in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

Further LETTER from the COMMISSIONERS to Dr. DEMPSTER:—
March 16, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had before them your report of the 11th inst.

They approve of the suspension of Mr. Fanagher, relieving officer, until the charge of his having used unbalanced scales shall be disposed of by the magistrates.

The Commissioners have observed with surprise that hitherto some of the paupers receiving out-door relief in the Union, obtained their rations at a station 18 miles from their homes, that others have had to attend at a station 12 miles from their abodes, while those in Ballagholla division have had in stormy weather, when they could not cross Lough Mask, to walk 30 miles to the relief station.

There appears to be no reason why the additional stations now formed should not have been established when the out-door relief commenced; and the Commissioners must regard with deep regret the hardship which the really destitute poor have suffered in having to travel so far for their food.

The necessary application will be made for the further aid required from the British Association, in addition to the provisions of the value of 700*l.*, the orders for which you have now acknowledged; but the Commissioners observe that although 80 tons of meal are required for the ensuing week, only one collector lodged money in the past week, amounting to 80*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*, notwithstanding the very large amount of rate due by immediate lessors, and the occupiers of the principal holdings in the Union, to which the attention of the Vice-Guardians is specially directed by a letter of this date.

The Commissioners request from you further information respecting Michael Conry, who in the report of the Coroner's inquest, which you have transmitted, is declared to have died of starvation. You will have the goodness to ascertain whether after the 26th of February, on which day 7 lbs. of meal were issued to him, he applied for relief to the relieving officer of his district, or at the work-house; as supposing the issue on the 26th to have been for a week, he might be expected to have applied again on the following Saturday, the 4th instant, being two days before his death.

In reference to your inquiry as to Neal and Churchfield temporary hospitals, the Commissioners desire to observe that the Board of Health in rescinding the certificates on which the orders to establish these hospitals were issued, adopted this course with a view of enabling the Vice-Guardians to make the arrangements which they had proposed, and which therefore should now be carried into effect.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 13, 1848.

WITH reference to your letter of the 2nd March inst., as to the continuance of out-door relief to the able-bodied poor persons in Unions in Ireland, I have the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that from the existing state of this Union I do not consider it would be prudent to stop the issue of food on the 18th instant. From personal investigation I have come to the above conclusion.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 15, 1848.

THE Commissioners will not suspend the Order.

Ballinrobe Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Dr. DEMPSTER:—March 16, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a copy of a communication which they have received from the Under Secretary's Office, relating to the decease of a man named Michael Conroy, who is stated by the jury on the inquest held on his body, to have died from starvation; and I am to request that you will make such inquiry into the circumstances as may enable you to report to the Commissioners as to the facts of the case, and especially whether the deceased made application for relief either to the Vice-Guardians of the Ballinrobe Union, to the workhouse master, or to any of the relieving officers.

ENCLOSURE.

Ballinrobe, March 7, 1848.

An inquest was held on the body of Michael Conroy who died on the 6th inst.

Copy of Verdict.

"That decease came by his death from starvation."

Inspector-General,
§c. §c. §c.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS in reply:—March 18, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that in accordance with your letter, I proceeded on Monday last to Borrisearra, to the Rev. James Browne, P.P., to inquire as to the deaths reported by him to have occurred from starvation in his parish, and found that none of those mentioned in Mr. Browne's report belonged to the Union of Ballinrobe.

I visited the electoral divisions of Hollymount and Robeen, and attended the distribution of the meal to the poor of these localities, and found everything correct and satisfactory. I went to Kilmain to the house of Mr. Rutledge, the coroner, to obtain copies of inquests held by him on two persons found dead in the electoral division of Partry. One was a woman, a strolling beggar from Castlebar, verdict "starvation;" which was not according to evidence. The medical officer deposed, from finding food in the stomach and bowels, on autopsy, that she died from the "visitation of God." The other case, in the same locality, a man, likewise a mendicant from Westport, verdict, "died from dropsy and exposure to the weather."

I attended the distribution of the meal at the relieving officer's store in Ballinrobe, and found all correct, and although numerous complaints against that officer, which on investigation I found to be frivolous and vexatious; it is almost impossible to please all parties.

I beg to forward the required information regarding the case of Michael Conroy, reported as "dead from starvation." He was a strolling mendicant and of uncertain residence, although belonging to the parish of Hollymount.

I regret to report that I see no preparations for spring work going forward in this Union, the lands all lying waste and uncultivated; this is especially applicable to the small holdings.

The number returned for out-door relief for the ensuing week, is 29,825, which will require about 82 tons of meal. The issue of meal from the store this week consists entirely of rye meal, no Indian corn meal being left, the demands from Westport and Castlebar Unions having exhausted the stock in hands.

I handed to the Vice-Guardians an order for 700*l.* worth of provision sent to me by Count Strzelecki, in aid of the destitute poor of this Union.

None of the rate-collectors have attended this week, nor has any money been lodged with the treasurer; and it is my intention to summon them to show cause for apparent dereliction of duty. These officers have been attending at the assizes of Castlebar.

We are enabled to discharge 104 persons on Friday from the workhouse on out-door relief, allowing them a small sum for weekly lodging money, amount, 15*s.*; many of them got the dresses made up in the house, as stated in my letter 13th instant, and we expect by these means to test the able-bodied by offering to receive them into the workhouse.

I beg to acknowledge a copy of letter to the Vice-Guardians, and shall pay particular attention to it; as also to that to myself, with the returns of uncollected poor rate.

ENCLOSURE.

Ballinrobe Union.

Mr. LOOSKAN, Relieving Officer, to Dr. DEMPSTER:—March 18, 1848.

IN reply to your inquiry relative to the death of Michael Conroy, who it is reported by the verdict of a coroner's inquest, died of starvation, I beg leave to state that some time in the month of January last the deceased was met by me in Ballinrobe, begging. Knowing that he originally belonged to the Hollymount electoral division, I asked him to return home, and that I would get him relief. That on the 12th February he applied, and on the 17th was passed by the Board of Guardians for out-door relief; that on the next day of distribution he received his week's rations; that in consequence, as I believe, of his being a strolling beggar through the country, he neglected coming to me for relief from that to the time of his death. I also beg to state that he was a man of very bad character, having been several times convicted and confined for larceny.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 17, 1848.

WE have the honour to state that the rate collectors have again placed us in the very disagreeable position of being obliged to inform you that they have not lodged any sum on account of their collection, since our last report. We constantly urged them in the strongest terms to a more active exertion; but for some time past they appear to have devoted their entire attention to the collection of the county cess; we have therefore determined to bring them before the Board at its next meeting (by summons from the Temporary Poor Law Inspector), to account for their neglect, and we will follow up our inquiry by taking the most stringent measures in our power to compel them to do their duty.

Doctor Dempster has handed us an order for 700*l.* worth of provisions, granted by the British Association, for the maintenance of the destitute poor in this Union, and we have issued orders to the officer in charge of the Commissariat dépôt here, for 80 tons, 12 cwt., 2 qrs. of rye meal, and 2 tons of Indian meal, costing 580*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*, leaving 129*l.* 18*s.* 3*d.* worth towards the next week's supply.

We have placed 561 persons on the out-door relief list this week; the total now being 29,845; but, as many will be struck off at the next Board, for refusing or neglecting to work during the week, we do not anticipate that more than 600*l.* will be required for the ensuing week, in addition to the balance before stated.

We have discharged 104 persons from the workhouse, in the manner mentioned in our last weekly report; and we have determined to make arrangements to place at least 100 more on out-door relief next Board-day, that we may be able to offer the workhouse as a test in all cases where we think it desirable.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 20, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners await your further report with regard to the collectors of poor-rate.

I am at the same time to direct your attention to the circumstance, that the collectors cannot take proceedings to compel payment of the rate due by immediate lessors without your specific directions in each case; and you should closely watch the proceedings in all such cases, from the date on which you direct proceedings to be taken. That date should be immediately after the first ineffectual application of the collector for the rate. In attaching blame, therefore, to the collectors, it will be necessary for you to show when the collectors made application in each case, and when you gave directions to them to take proceedings. Hitherto the collection has been extremely unsatisfactory in the Ballinrobe as well as the Castlebar and Westport Unions.

The Commissioners will apply for a further advance of 600*l.*, to enable you to afford out-door relief in the Union. They desire me at the same time to inquire whether a daily distribution of rations takes place in the Union in accordance with their wishes, as an expression in your report would lead to the supposition that the distribution was weekly, and not daily.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 25, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that I attended at Kilmain petty sessions about the case of Mr. Fanagher, the relieving officer, who is accused of having used light weights and a false balance

Ballinrobe Union. in the distribution of the meal to the poor of that electoral division; only one magistrate, the stipendiary, being present, no decision was had, therefore the suspension of the relieving officer still continues.

The amount of rates collected this week and lodged with the treasurer was far from satisfactory; and having called the collectors together, I, in presence of the Vice-Guardians, urged the necessity of their using more exertion, and of taking every means in their power to bring in the money; and I think from what was said to them we are likely soon to get in a large amount.

Total lodged 246*l.* 9*s.* 1*d.*, as per margin—all of which has been expended by the Vice-Guardians.

Having received from Count Strzelecki an order for 600*l.* worth of provisions on the Commissariat depôt here, I handed same to the Vice-Guardians.

Mr. O'Rourke, the Supervisor of Works, having struck off a number of men in the electoral division of Partry, for not working, and refusing to do so, he has been threatened if he goes again to that locality; and one man named Derrig, for working, having been beaten by others, I sent for Derrig, and brought him before the stipendiary magistrate to lodge informations for the assault, but we could make nothing of him, and were obliged to dismiss the case.

Mr. Wayland and Mr. O'Rourke both gave very satisfactory reports as to the inspection of their divisions; and the Vice-Guardians with myself consider their appointments most useful to the Union.

In the case of the woman Philbin, of Partry, who complained of the relieving officer, Mr. Arabin, for making use of language of a hasty and intemperate nature to her, in compliance with the orders of the Commissioners that officer was severely reprimanded and admonished by the Vice-Guardians and by me, in presence of all the other relieving officers.

From complaints made against Mr. Gibbons, relieving officer of Claremorris electoral division, for giving persons not entitled by law to receive rations, we have suspended him till I investigate the charges, which I purpose doing early next week, and have directed the parties complaining to meet me at Claremorris—the result I shall inform you of.

The Vice-Guardians have dismissed an overseer named Hennely, in the Kilmain electoral division, for being a road contractor, and denying to me that he was so, when questioned on the subject some time ago; for he could not attend to the duties required by us of him, and mind the mending of his roads in the same locality.

I regret to state that the number requiring out-door relief is increased this week—being 30,415; and the quantity of meal for their support amounts to nearly 87 tons.

I take leave to forward a return showing the numbers in each electoral division.

25th March, 1848.

JAMES DEMPSTER, M.D.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 28, 1848.

Ballinrobe Union.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 25th instant, relating to the Ballinrobe Union, in which you state that Mr. O'Rourke, Supervisor of Works, has been threatened for striking off a number of men in the Partry electoral division for refusing to work, and in reference thereto I am to state that the Commissioners trust that the Vice-Guardians will not fail to cause vigorous and effective steps to be taken to ensure due attention to the performance of the labour required by the Commissioners' Order, as a condition of the relief to be afforded.

I am at the same time to state that if the Superintendent is apprehensive of violence, he should apply for protection in the ordinary manner. The Commissioners consider it unfortunate that you were not able to bring any of the parties concerned in the assault referred to in your report to punishment.

If violence is used in any district by able-bodied persons in the receipt of relief, the Commissioners deem it advisable that all relief to the able-bodied in that district should be at once suspended.

The Commissioners have again to recommend that all the relief stations should be regularly visited and examined both by yourself and the Vice-Guardians.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 25, 1848.

WE have the honour to inform you that Mr. Fair, rate-collector, has lodged since our last report 100*l.*; Mr. Walsh, 105*l.*; and Mr. Brannick, 40*l.*—on account of their collections. They have pledged themselves to use every exertion from henceforward; but they complain that when they make seizures and that a sale takes place they cannot find purchasers at more than a nominal value, the proceeds in some instances scarce paying the expense of auctioneer's fees (two guineas)—a licensed auctioneer having to be brought from Tuam.

We have paid on the out-door relief account 28*l.* 11*s.*, to overseers of labour for salary due them; also, 89*l.* 7*s.*, for carriage and distribution of food; and for the current expenses of the house, 118*l.* 19*s.* 9*d.*

The pressure from persons who have tendered possession of their holdings and reported as destitute having much increased, the numbers now on the out-door relief lists are 30,413.

We have received from Dr. Dempster an order for 600*l.* worth of provisions, granted by the British Association: we had besides a balance to our credit of last week's grant, of 118*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*; but to provide the food required this week we have been obliged to draw upon the officer in charge of the Commissariat dépôt for 759*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* worth, leaving a balance now due to him of 40*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.* Under these circumstances we estimate that should out-door relief continue on its present scale, that 800*l.* will be required to provide the food for the week ending the 8th of April, and make good the deficit of this week's order.

The daily distribution of rations has not been practised in this Union: we began it in the Castlebar Union and entered into contracts for the daily issue of rye bread to the able-bodied and their families; but from the very great confusion and the frauds attempted to be practised by numbers endeavouring to draw daily and afterwards weekly rations, we have not been able to extend it as yet beyond two electoral divisions. However, agreeable to your wishes, every effort shall be made to establish the distribution of daily rations of cooked food to the able-bodied and their families in this Union so soon as we can enter into the necessary arrangements.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 28, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 800*l.* to assist you in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

I am at the same time to request that you will have the goodness to make a close revision of the relief lists, for which purpose it will be necessary that you should visit the several relief stations with the Inspector.

As regards the distribution of rations to the persons in the receipt of out-

Ballinrobe Union. door relief, the Commissioners consider any other than a daily issue of food incompatible with the due administration of out-door relief to able-bodied persons.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 27, 1848.

REFERRING to the order for out-door relief which will expire on the 2nd proximo, I would recommend that it should be renewed for another month from that date.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 29, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have given directions for the renewal of the order for one month.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 1, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that I visited Kilmain and Ballindine electoral divisions on Monday last, saw the men at labour on the roads breaking stones, and that the overseers appeared attentive to their duties. I attended the store in Ballindine, and saw the meal distributing, which I found correct and orderly. I also visited the schools on the line from Ballinrobe to Ballindine; the result I purpose informing the Count Strzelecki of in a distinct report.

On Tuesday I went to Claremorris by appointment, to investigate a charge preferred against the relieving officer of that electoral division by Sir Robert Lynch Blosse, Bart., a report of which I had the honour of transmitting to you on 31st ultimo. I have subsequently received a letter on this subject from the Rev. James Hughes, P.P., of Claremorris; being addressed to the Vice-Guardians, I directed the clerk of the Union to acknowledge the receipt of it, and at our next meeting shall lay same before them for consideration.

I met Mr. Brannick, the rate-collector, in Claremorris, who was about proceeding with a military escort to enforce the rates from defaulters in his district, which military party under Mr. Arabin, the stipendiary magistrate, was afterwards to march on Hollymount electoral division, to protect Mr. Donohoe under like circumstances.

The amount of rate lodged with the treasurer this week amounts only to 200*l.* 12*s.* 5*d.*, as per margin. I expect a more satisfactory collection next week, as our creditors, especially the meal contractors, are becoming very urgent for payment.

Our numbers are increased this week, being, as per return herewith forwarded, 31,291, and will require 85 tons of meal for their support next week. We are preparing for next week to get tenders for baking, and intend commencing giving daily rations in bread in the electoral division of Ballinrobe, from which we can gradually extend ourselves to the adjacent districts.

It is, however, very satisfactory to have it to remark, that the general appearance of the recipients of the Government bounty in this Union is greatly improved.

ENCLOSURES.

I.

Sir R. L. BLOSSE to the VICE-GUARDIANS of Ballinrobe Union:—March 22, 1848.

I BEG to call your attention to what I conceive to be a very gross neglect of duty on the part of the relieving officer for the Claremorris electoral division, in the Ballinrobe Union, a man of the name of Gibbons.

A tenant of mine, James Brady, of Barnacarroll, has been and still is, as I am informed, receiving out-door relief; he holds on lease about 156 acres, the yearly rent of which is 84*l.* He now owes me 319*l.* rent, to recover which I have been compelled to take legal proceedings against him; I have not yet obtained possession of my land. He has made no surrender of it.

On Wednesday, the 15th of this month, at Claremorris, my bailiff spoke to Gibbons, and stated these facts to him, stating at the same time that he understood that Brady was receiving out-door relief; this Gibbons admitted, but said that he would continue to allow Brady out-door relief. I feel convinced that the Vice-Guardians will agree with me in considering that this is not a proper case for out-door relief, and that the person who has acted in such a manner is unfit to hold the situation of relieving officer.

Answered 25th March, that I would attend at Claremorris on 28th, and requested the bailiff to come before me.

Ballinrobe Union.

10th and 11th Victoria, chap. 90.

County of Mayo, } The Deposition of William Nally, Bailiff to Sir Robert Lynch Blosse, to wit. } Bart., of Athavallie, in said county.

Ballinrobe } Deponent, being duly sworn on the Holy Evangelists, saith that he Union. } made application to Mr. Patrick Gibbons, relieving officer of the electoral division of Claremorris, relative to a person named James Brady, a tenant of the said Sir Robert Lynch Blosse, who holds in his possession a farm containing upwards of 100 acres of land, which said Brady, deponent heard, was receiving out-door relief from said
Patrick Gibbons; deponent states that he spoke to said relieving officer on the subject, who replied that he would give relief or meal to Brady, and that he would not ask deponent's leave for so doing, or Sir Robert's leave either; deponent replied he would report Gibbons to Sir Robert and to his agent; Gibbons said he did not care, and to do my best, meaning deponent's best; deponent did report said Gibbons to Sir Robert.

Duly read by deponent before signing.

Sworn before me at Claremorris, this 28th day of March, 1848.

JAMES DEMPSTER, M.D.,

WILLIAM NALLY.

Temporary Poor Law Inspector.

Ballinrobe, March 31, 1848.

The relieving officer, Patrick Gibbons, being called on by me to explain why he gave the relief to said Brady, states that during the time he has given it Brady was, and is, a destitute person in his opinion.

On looking over the Distribution Book kept by Gibbons, no man named James Brady, of Barnacarroll, appears on that book; page 61, No. 919, a person named James Reany appears in Gibbons's writing as receiving relief, and he states that by that name he gave the relief to James Brady, knowing the fact of his going by that name of Reany; Gibbons considered it immaterial what name he went by. Gibbons states that the reason he did not change the name of Reany to Brady, although he, Brady, lives within a few fields of his own residence, and was perfectly cognizant of the fact of said Brady, under the name of Reany, getting out-door relief, was, that Brady was ashamed to be known to require relief, although a very destitute person.

On parading James Brady I found him a person as well dressed as myself, and although he may be poor he certainly did not come under the denomination of destitute, and has relatives well able to assist him in his distress.

The Rev. James Hughes, P.P. of Claremorris, attended and offered to be sworn (which I declined doing), and stated that to his knowledge Brady had no land, and that he was not possessed of a horse, a cow, a pig, &c., although he continued to reside in the house on the lands of Barnacarroll.

A Mr. Kelly, an attorney, also attended and wished to be examined. I likewise refused to tender an oath to him: he stated that he held in his possession a deed of assignment (here he produced a document) from Brady of all his title and interest in said lands and farm to himself; and he told Sir Robert L. Blosse that he, Sir Robert, should never get a perch of said land, and that he, Kelly, placed Brady as a care-taker into his own house, at a salary of so much per week, which alone would disentitle Brady to relief.

Sir Robert L. Blosse stated that the land is his property, and that Brady is his tenant, and had taken legal proceedings to recover possession, and that Brady was giving him every opposition through Mr. Kelly, and would neither pay rent or give him his ground.

I told Mr. Kelly and the Rev. Mr. Hughes that I merely came to ascertain whether the relieving officer had been giving relief to a person not entitled by the law to receive same, and that I had no power to sit judicially to determine whose tenant Brady was, and that I did not consider myself authorized to go further in the case than I had, but if they wished, they might attend the Board of Vice-Guardians at Ballinrobe on the next day of meeting, to whom I would submit the matter previously to forwarding a statement to the Poor Law Commissioners; and that I would continue the suspension of Gibbons especially for giving meal to Brady under a false name.

I have carefully considered this case, and am of opinion that the relieving officer should be dismissed by order from the Commissioners.

REPLY to the foregoing :—April 8, 1848.

WITH reference to your report of the 1st instant relating to the Ballinrobe Union, in which you advert to the investigation made by you into the charge preferred against the relieving officer for the Claremorris electoral division, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that a sealed order for the dismissal of Patrick Gibbons, the relieving officer, will be issued.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 1, 1848.

WE have the honour to inform you that Mr. Brannick has lodged 103*l.* 13*s.* 11*d.* and Mr. Walsh 96*l.* 18*s.* 6*d.* for poor-rates collected since our last report. Mr. Donohoe, deputy collector to Mr. Fair, is at present out collecting under the protection of Mr. Arabin, R.M., the result of which we hope will be favourable. We have directed the collectors to proceed by distraint in several cases against occupiers, and have also by minute requested your sanction to take proceedings in the Superior Courts against others as immediate lessors.

The applicants for relief were extremely numerous this week; 1117 have been added to the out-door relief lists, and about 150 ruled for admission to the workhouse; there are now 31,291 to receive food out of the workhouse. We, therefore, estimate that 800*l.* will again be required to maintain them for the week ending 15th of April.

We have received from the British Association an order for 800*l.* worth of provisions on the Commissariat dépôt here, and we have drawn for 761*l.* worth, leaving a balance of 39*l.* towards next week's supply.

We have paid 109*l.* 18*s.* 3*d.* for current expenses of the Union, and 92*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* on account of out-door relief.

REPLY to the foregoing :—April 4, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 800*l.* in provisions to assist you in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

REPORT of Head Constable IRWIN.

County of Galway, Barony of Ross, Union of Cong, March 20.

JOHN KIBBIN, a wandering beggarman, died from starvation in the neighbourhood of Galway, on 17th instant.

No inquest held, and the body has been interred without the coroner.

ALEXANDER IRWIN, 2nd Head Constable.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 5, 1848.

Ballinrobe Union.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that the man named John Kibbin, reported by head constable Irwin to have died in the barony of Ross, in this Union, of starvation, never made any application at the workhouse here or to any relieving officer of this Union for relief.

I ascertained yesterday at Maam, in Joyce's country, where said Kibbin died on the 17th ultimo, that he was from the neighbourhood of the town of Galway, and was a man possessed of money, which he lent out to the poor people at usurious interest, and had arrived in the Ballinrobe Union two or three days previously on his periodical journeys to collect his interest. He was a miser, and denied himself the necessaries of life, which he was well able to afford, and well known to the inhabitants of the neighbourhood.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. REDINGTON:—April 7, 1848.

WITH reference to the communication referred to the Commissioners on the 20th ultimo, relating to the decease of a man named John Kibbin, in the Ballinrobe Union, I am directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, a copy of a report which the Commissioners have received from Dr. Dempster, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, on the subject.

The COMMISSIONERS to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—April 6, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration the resolution contained in minutes of your proceedings on the 30th ultimo, requesting the Commissioners' sanction to proceedings being instituted by you under the 2nd section of the 6 and 7 Vict., cap. 92, in the Superior Courts of Record in Dublin, against the following persons who are defaulters in the payment of poor rate in the Ballinrobe Union, namely: David Courtney, Charles L. Kirwin, Valentine O'Connor Blake, Martin Darcy; and the Commissioners hereby signify their consent to your bringing an action in any one of the Superior Courts of Record in Dublin against the said David Courtney, Charles L. Kirwin, Valentine O'Connor Blake, Martin Darcy, for the recovery of the arrears of poor rate made on them respectively as immediate lessors in respect of certain property situated within the Ballinrobe Union.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 15, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that on the 8th instant the cars conveying meal from the dépôt here for the destitute in Mayo and Burriscarra East Division, were attacked within four miles of Ballinrobe, in the parish of Robeen, and six sacks, containing 15 cwt. meal, carried off. The relieving officer came to me on Sunday, the 9th, when I brought him to the resident magistrate, who received his informations, and from the steps pursued some of the perpetrators are in custody, and I expect more will be so next week.

I stopped the issue of rations in the Robeen division to the able-bodied until they showed an anxiety to bring the parties to justice; but I was obliged to allow the relieving officer to give the meal to the infirm and children.

I visited Kilmain and saw the issue of the meal in progress, and then went to Shrub, for the like purpose; all correct. I then went to Hollymount and Robeen, and returned to Ballinrobe by a long circuit of the Union; I found the men, generally speaking, at work breaking stones. I visited Claremorris, and attended at the store; there is a great amount of destitution in that district. I afterwards went to Ballindine. The cause of the great increase of the relief list this week is, that great numbers have surrendered their holdings who clung to them all the winter, but are unable longer to do so.

Several applicants for relief brought declarations made before a magistrate that they had no land or stock, &c., and were starving. The acting relieving officer at Claremorris went to inspect their residences, and although it was a fact a surrender of one farm had been made, and on which the aforesaid declaration was grounded, yet he found the parties in possession of several acres of land and 12 head of cattle. These circumstances will be more fully brought before the notice of the Commissioners by the Vice-Guardians, to whom I have handed the declarations.

The number for relief next week is 33,447, and will require about 90 tons of meal for their support. I handed the order for 800*l.* worth of provision, sent in aid from the British Association to the Vice-Guardians. The amount of rate lodged this week is only 19*l.* 9*s.* 10*d.*, as shown in the margin, and active steps are now being taken to get in the arrears.

The workhouse is now in a most creditable state in every respect, and means for thorough ventilation are in progress of completion. The men and boys all at work on the grounds, levelling and digging, and parterres, with evergreens and flowering shrubs, have been made, and a good many trees have been planted. In the hospital measles are now abated; very few cases of light fever, and dysentery principally prevails.

JAMES DEMPSTER, M.D.

Dr. DEMPSTER to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 22, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that on Monday last, the 17th instant, I went to the electoral divisions of Kilmolara, Cong, and Ross; saw the relieving officers distributing the meal; went to the several gangs on the roads, and saw the men at work. I met the supervisor, Rorke, on his tour of inspection. In consequence of the newspaper reports that the rye bread issued to the children attending the schools in this Union was producing disease, I visited every school, Protestant and Catholic, from Ballinrobe to the "Joyce's country," and found them all in rude health; and the only complaint against the bread was the quantity not the quality thereof. I was ordered to reduce or limit the issue to the schools, and in consequence many expostulations on the subject have reached my office from the respective clergymen of the Union, but no account of any death has been sent in.

I beg to state that Mr. Donohoe, the rate-collector, was out on duty under protection of Mr. Arabin, the R. M., with police, in the electoral division of Hollymount, on 17th and 18th instant; that he again seized the stock of Mr. Bowen, late collector, and was paid in the field. However he accepted a receipt for Mr. Bowen's arrears, signed by that gentleman, and which is for a larger sum than what was returned in arrear by Mr. Bowen. I objected to the receipt, as I consider Mr. Donohoe ought to have kept the stock till paid the full amount in his rate book, as against Mr. Bowen.

The amount of rates lodged this week amounts to 210*l.* 3*s.* 6½*d.*, as per margin. The treasurer of the Union being in Dublin attending the courts as evidence in the cause of the "Guardians against Bowen and Linsky," I received the money, which I shall hand over on his return to Ballinrobe.

I received an order for 800*l.* worth of provisions from British Relief Association, as a further grant in aid of the destitute of this Union, which I handed to the Vice-Guardians.

It has been reported to me by the relieving officer for Mayo and Burriscarra that the woman who was sent to gaol for assisting in the robbery of the meal on the 8th instant, has been tried at the Westport Quarter Sessions, and convicted. I attended the Petty Sessions at Hollymount this day, when one man was fully identified as one of the perpetrators in this outrage, and committed for trial at next Quarter Sessions.

I regret to state that the numbers for relief in the ensuing week have increased to 34,789, and it will require 91 tons of meal for their support. The relieving officers state that the cause is, the poor creatures are being turned out of possession under decrees obtained for non-payment of rent. Where this will end I cannot see.

JAMES DEMPSTER, M.D.

The COMMISSIONERS to Dr. DEMPSTER:—April 27, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 22nd instant, relating to the Ballinrobe Union, and I am to request that you will be good enough to inquire upon oath, and report to the Commissioners, upon any cases of eviction which come under your observation.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 28, 1848.

WE have the honour to state that Mr. Walsh has lodged 83*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*; Mr. Brannick, 20*l.* 1*s.* 5*d.*; and Mr. Donohoe, 37*l.*; poor rates collected since our last weekly report. We have paid for carriage and distribution of last week's food, 49*l.* 17*s.* 8½*d.*; on account of current expenses, 20*l.* 18*s.* 1*d.*; to Dominick E. Blake, solicitor, amount of execution and costs in the case of "Wilson v. Union," 89*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*, being a debt due by the late Board of Guardians; and we retain 8*l.* 0*s.* 8*d.* to pay another execution, obtained in the case of Daniel, also a debt of the late Board.

We have received from Dr. Dempster, Poor Law Inspector, an order for 800*l.* worth of provisions granted by the British Association, and we have drawn on the Commissariat depôt for 718*l.* 4*s.* worth, in addition to 97*l.* 13*s.* worth remaining to our credit since last week, still leaving a balance in our favour of 81*l.* 16*s.* towards next week's supply. 955 persons have been added to the out-door relief lists, and 766 have been struck off for non-attendance at work, leaving 35,200 to receive food to the 6th May, and we estimate that 750*l.*, with the balance above stated, will be required for the week ending 13th May. Applications for relief continue to increase; numbers have been lately dispossessed by their landlords,

Ballinrobe Union. others offering to surrender their holdings, retaining a quarter acre and their house, of which they either produce proof, or make a declaration before a magistrate. The latter we have discouraged by every means in our power without effect, but we expect to check it by having a man prosecuted who has made two declarations of his utter destitution, although we are informed it is well known, and will be proved, that he holds a farm, and has several head of cattle and other means

We regret to say we see no prospect of employment for the people; the sowing of corn, which has been very limited (at least three-fourths less than last year), and the planting of potatoes, which has been tolerably extensive (about three-fourths of the average of other years), is now nearly over, after which very little will be done on the land until the harvest.

REPLY to the foregoing :—May 4, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 28th ultimo, relating to the management of the affairs of the Ballinrobe Union, and I am to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for an advance of 700*l.*, to assist you in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

BALLYSHANNON UNION.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 7, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report upon the proceedings of the Board of Guardians at their meetings held on the 4th and 5th instant.

Friday the 4th, the Board was solely occupied in the examination of the books of the relieving officers, preparatory to their usual meeting upon Saturday; and all, with the exception of the Bundoran books, were initialed by the chairman.

Saturday, the 6th instant, was fixed to receive tenders to supply clothing, bedding, &c. &c., so very much required to enable the Guardians to admit the numbers for which they have provided additional accommodation; and in this and next week the articles will be furnished by the persons who have obtained the contracts.

The system I had recommended to the Guardians, that cheques should only be given on one Board-day in every month, they have begun to act upon; and on Saturday the expenses of the past month were discharged by cheques; that for the first time for years the treasurer had funds in his hands to liquidate immediately they were presented.

On the motion of Mr. Bloomfield, a cheque to repay the advances under the Temporary Relief Act was drawn for the electoral division of Belleek; as that had been estimated for when the rate was made, beside what appeared sufficient to meet the current expenses for six months. The whole of the rate on this division will be collected within two months from the date of the first payment; and I do not hesitate to say that the same might have been effected generally through the Union, had the other collectors been as determined and energetic as Johnson, who collected this.

The collection the last week was smaller than it should have been, had due exertion been used; and I have spoken to some and written to others of the collectors, to warn them that they will be subject to dismissal if it does not progress more rapidly; and I trust that next week this may produce a larger sum.

The pressure for relief has again been rather increased the past week; and I attribute this solely to the people getting intelligence that the workhouse was full, or nearly so, as I invariably remark, when such is the case, that the number that claim relief are doubled, and all in hope of obtaining out-door allowances. The Guardians are so convinced of this, that they have resolved on taking a large store, which is at present a little out of order; but a small outlay would render it fit for occupation. This will be the third house rented by them; the male and female workhouse schools having been already removed to separate houses. I have much pleasure in stating that now there is a prospect of speedy improvement in and about the workhouse, as Sergeant Healy, who has been selected as an assistant to the master, is active and determined in application of labour as a test of destitution: heretofore the master had far too much to do otherwise, to exact a fair day's work from the paupers; and beside, the Guardians had, till latterly, the house crowded with old infirm persons, incapable of labour to any extent; hence improvements I had projected have not been advanced as rapidly as I could have wished.

At the meeting of the Board on Friday, one of the Guardians, Mr. Gallagher, stated to me that a man named Keenan, who resided near him, had died of destitution and want of food; and Saturday, before the Board met, I drove to the house to inquire into the circumstances. I found, on examination, that the wife had previously died, and that five children were left in a state of the most melancholy misery; the father, it was evident, had fallen a sacrifice to the determination to hold his land (2½ acres) sooner than come with his family to the workhouse for relief, and resign what could have been no use or benefit to him or them; as his poverty was so great, that last year he had no crop, not even a patch of turnips, and without the slightest prospect of being able even to seed it.

Ballyshannon
Union.

A man holding ten acres of land applied to the relieving officer of that district for relief, some days since, stating he had offered the bailiff possession of house and land to entitle him to it. The bailiff could not take it without permission from the agent, who resides in Dublin; and the relieving officer assured me that he believed the man and his family would die from starvation before he could legally obtain relief.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 10, 1848.

IN reference to your statement, that a cheque was drawn to repay the advances in Belleek electoral division under the Temporary Relief Act, I am to express the great satisfaction of the Commissioners at the manner in which this electoral division has faithfully discharged its liabilities, and at the efficient manner in which the rate has been collected; and I am to request that you will be so good as to report whether, in your opinion, it is owing to default of the Board of Guardians that the rate has not been equally well collected in the other divisions.

As regards your statement, that a tenant holding ten acres of land offered possession of his house and land, in order to entitle himself to relief, but that the bailiff could not take it without permission from the agent in Dublin, I am to state that the mere refusal of a landlord to accept a surrender of land does not disqualify a person who has ceased to occupy more than a quarter of an acre of land from receiving relief.

By the 10th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act it is merely the occupation or non-occupation of a quarter of an acre of land which is made a criterion of destitution, provided that an applicant for relief may otherwise be deemed entitled to it.

Hence the Guardians, as far as that clause is concerned, are warranted in relieving any body who is not in such occupation; and they are not bound to investigate title at all, or to ascertain whether the tenant's interest has been legally determined by surrender or otherwise.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 13, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to transmit my weekly report of the matters connected with the business of this Union. Wednesday the 9th instant I attended the meeting of the Board of Guardians; plans were laid before the Board, of buildings to enlarge the workhouse, and advertisements ordered in accordance with them.

A report was made by the schoolmaster that Dr. Simon Sheil had required returns of the state of health of the children in his school, the size of the apartments, &c.; and the Board recorded upon their minutes the inconvenience of attending to his requests; in fact, a party in Ballyshannon wish to force the Guardians to remove the children. I have heretofore stated my views on this point, and shall not now reiterate them.

An assistant matron was chosen by the Board; I have heard a good character of her, and see no reason to refuse to recommend a confirmation of her appointment.

Friday, the 11th instant, the day was occupied in examination of the relieving officers' books; that day each week being solely set apart for the purpose.

Saturday, the 12th, that portion of the books which was unfinished the previous day was completed, and initialed by the chairman.

The letter of the Commissioners dismissing M'Gloin, the collector for Glenade, was read by the clerk, and the sealed order produced, and directions for electing another collector, Wednesday, the 16th instant, were issued by the Board. Whilst on this subject I shall take the opportunity of replying to the Commissioners' letter dated 10th February, in which I am directed to report "my opinion whether it is in consequence of the default of the Board of Guardians that the rate has not been as speedily collected in the other divisions as in Belleek." I beg to state that except in Glenade I cannot complain of any remissness, and of that division, as I have just stated, the collector was on my report dismissed. The Guardians or magistrates never interfered in any division to aid the collection so far as I can learn; leaving the matter entirely to me to urge the collectors to do their duty, and take and direct such steps as I thought best, with the exception of Belleek, in which Mr. Bloomfield resides; there I was assisted by him in every way, and he used the most strenuous exertions as a magistrate to hasten the collection; he was the first to pay himself, and not only supported the collector with his authority and influence, but exercised a constant and daily surveillance of his efforts; the collector is an energetic, fearless man, and to the combination of these circumstances is to be attributed the more advanced state of the collection in Belleek than any other division.

I reported to the Commissioners the violence and threats used by a member of this Board in reference to the payment of his rate; the course pursued by the Commissioners upon this report of directing the collectors to state which of the Guardians in his district had omitted to pay the rate, as well as the intimation that should it be unpaid to any extent by members of the Board, that the Commissioners would consider their powers under the 18th section of the Irish Extension Act, had the effect of producing immediate payment by almost every Guardian; having thus in the first instance, under these circumstances, paid in place of remaining to the last as they have heretofore done, (the rate made nine months previously being due by many of them when I arrived here)—they are now anxious enough that it should be speedily collected, but they have not energy, or in fact, sufficient interest in the success of the law, to induce them to use personal exertion in aid of the collection, as Mr. Bloomfield has done; and I am of opinion that some of them think they do enough if they do not embarrass or obstruct it.

I must confess I had hoped the Commissioners would have considered the collection in this Union had progressed, with the one exception, speedily; a sum of 3,904*l.* 1*s.* 9*d.*, has been paid since the 18th of December, 1847, to the 12th of February, 1848, inclusive, being a period of nine weeks; during the four and a half previous years, that is to say from the half year ending the 29th of September, 1843, to that ending the 29th of September, 1847, the total sum collected was but 4,825*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*; thus in four years and a half, the collection only exceeded by 921*l.* 12*s.* 7*d.*, that of the last nine weeks. I have omitted no means in my power of hastening the payment of rate; and any week it has been smaller than I considered it should be, never neglected to communicate personally with the collectors. In my last report, I mentioned that I thought the collection of the previous week under what it should have been, and that I at once wrote to some, and spoke to others, of the collectors, saying I would expect larger weekly payments; and although this week has been stormy, which always interferes as it is not possible in such weather, so great an extent of country can be travelled, yet the collection has exceeded that of last, by nearly 100*l.* I had hoped that this and next month would complete the collection of the rate, but I fear from the county cess being now called for, and the landlords also becoming urgent in their demands, that some portion of it may not be paid so soon; however I still expect by far the greater part shall have been received by that period.

The proposition to commence immediately to build an addition to the workhouse, and to declare the contractor on Wednesday next, has been postponed at my request until the Guardians have laid the plans before the Commissioners, and received their sanction or views upon the subject.

The clerk applied for an increase of salary, in consideration of his greatly increased duties; it is also postponed for a fortnight, pursuant to a resolution upon their minutes, that of all applications involving increased expenditure, the Board should have so much notice.

The Guardians are, I think, inclined to accede to his request, and I must say it is richly deserved, as he is a most pains-taking, indefatigable, and correct person in the performance of his duties.

The cases of two persons refused relief in Donegal Union, on the ground that they belonged to this, although one had resided in it for three years, and the other for five months, came before the Guardians, and they directed the clerk to draw the attention of the Donegal Board to the Circular of the Commissioners on this subject, directing that the Union in which persons became destitute, was the Union in which they were to receive relief.

The Guardians resolved to apply to the Commissioners to obtain their sanction to the establishment of an agricultural school, and combining the Unions of Donegal, Manorhamilton, and this, into a district for that purpose, by the powers vested in them under the 10th Vict., cap. 31, sec. 24. Was any recommendation of mine likely to have weight, in inducing the favourable consideration of the proposition, I should most cheerfully add it, as I am firmly persuaded it is alone by improving the knowledge of agriculture, and developing the industrial resources of the country, that it will be enabled to sustain the burden of its poverty: whilst I am equally assured, that a little exertion on the part of proprietors in extending employment, and encouraging improved husbandry, would enable the poorest Unions in Ireland (and with most of which I am acquainted), to sustain their population, and afford relief under the existing Poor Law, without such pressure upon their rates, as would justify them in seeking external aid.

Roscommon
Union.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 18, 1848.

THE Commissioners desire to assure you that they are thoroughly satisfied with your successful exertions in pressing forward the vigorous collection of the rates, and they deem it highly creditable to your efficiency that the Guardians should now have a net balance of about 1100*l.* in their treasurer's hands, whereas the balance against the Guardians when you first went to the Union as Inspector was no less than 1071*l.*

In regard to the proposition of the Guardians to unite with the Manorhamilton Union for the purpose of establishing an agricultural school, the Commissioners regret to state that in the present state of the law they are not able to act in accordance with the views of the Guardians; at the same time, it is possible that a proposition for the alteration of the law on this point may be submitted to Parliament during the present session.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 20, 1848.

ON Friday, the 18th, and Saturday, the 19th instant, I attended meetings of the Board of Guardians, and have the honour of forwarding my report.

Friday was occupied entering, examining, and initialing the books of the relieving officers.

Saturday the Board, on my request, passed a resolution, that the extension they contemplate of their workhouse should be of a permanent description, and requesting the Commissioners' architect would forward plans and sections of an addition to be placed either along the yards of the boys' and girls, or men's and women's portion of the house, as he may see fit; but requesting him to bear in mind that economy is essential in the present distressed state of the Union, and that unless his estimates are framed strictly so, they will be useless to the Guardians, as they cannot supply funds to carry out any but moderate improvements and additions. If the Commissioners could obtain a loan from the Treasury for this purpose, the Guardians would be most willing to undertake its repayment, and in that case would build more extensively than they can afford to do under present circumstances.

A very serious charge was made by a Guardian against a relieving officer, which is to be investigated on Friday, the 25th instant, after which I shall report the result.

The Board was informed that the milk supplied to the workhouse was of an inferior description, and that the contractor was in the habit of having it skimmed before he sent it to the workhouse, and directions were issued to summon all the parties before the magistrates' bench on Tuesday next.

The contractor who had supplied ticking for beds I found had sent in an article inferior to the sample, and I brought the matter before the Board, and had it examined into, and the price on 1500 yards was reduced three half-pence per yard in consequence. I find it most necessary to keep a sharp look-out on all workhouse contractors, as they are much inclined to take advantage.

The condition of the workhouse is not what I could wish, as the contractors have not yet sent in the clothing; but this week I trust we shall receive it, and I look forward to an immediate improvement.

A vote of thanks to the British Association and Count de Strzelecki was passed by the Guardians for the relief afforded the Union through the medium of food to schools. I applied some time since to Count de Strzelecki that the ration of bread might be increased to 1 lb., and he at once consented; and this system is now, in consequence, become a substantial support to the destitute, and at the same time has greatly relieved the pressure that otherwise must be borne by the rates.

A proposition to sell stones broken by the paupers to road contractors was made by one of the Guardians; but I showed them it was first required that the yards and precincts of the workhouse should be repaired and completed with stone before they sold any; and then the consideration would be involved, how far workhouse labour would thus interfere with the employment of the country, and whether this mode of proceeding was at all advisable.

The dismissed collector (M'Gloin) paid a sum of 41*l.* which he had in hand, and gave up his books to the clerk. I have heard a very good character of Tiffoney, the person chosen to fill his place by the Guardians, during my absence on leave last Wednesday, and would recommend his immediate sanction by the Commissioners, as further delay in the collection of this division is to be deprecated.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 24, 1848.

WITH reference to the Guardians' resolution to permanently enlarge the workhouse, and to their request for plans for this purpose, I am directed to state that the Commissioners will communicate with their architect on the subject. They have already addressed the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury on the subject of a loan for the purpose, but they are not authorized to hold out any expectation that a loan can be granted.

With reference to your recommendation for the immediate sanction to the appointment of Mr. Tiffoney as collector, in place of M'Gloin, I am to state that the Commissioners will give their immediate attention to the appointment of Mr. Tiffoney, on receiving replies to the usual inquiries, which have already been forwarded.

MR. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 27, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to send my weekly report of the proceedings of the Guardians and condition of this Union.

Friday and Saturday, the 25th and 26th instant, I attended the meetings of the Board of Guardians. Friday the books of the relieving officers were examined and initialed; and the charge I alluded to in my report of last week against a relieving officer was cleared up. Mr. Hea, one of the Guardians, had charged Mr. Rogers, the relieving officer for Devenish and Churchill, with impropriety and embezzlement, and it was arranged the matter should be investigated this day; but Mr. Hea came forward of his own accord, and stated that he regretted exceedingly he had been betrayed into the statement he had made; as, on inquiry, he found that the information he had received was totally unfounded; and indeed the opinion I had formed of Mr. Rogers previously led me to suppose that the charge could not be maintained. Saturday the routine business of the day having been disposed of, the question of an increase in the clerk's salary was brought forward. It was proposed that it should now be made 80*l.*; an amendment was then put that it should be 60*l.*; and, on a division, the numbers were equal—seven and seven. Mr. Dickson and other members of the Board were absent that had declared their determination to support the original proposition; and I have no doubt had it been a fuller Board, that it would have been carried. The clerk has expressed to me his determination to resign if his salary is not increased to what it was proposed to make it. He is most zealous and attentive in the performance of his duties, and omits not the smallest minutiae; in fact, should he resign just now, the consequences to the Union would be very serious, as it would be impossible any new clerk could for a considerable time acquire a knowledge of, and perform with accuracy the many duties attendant on this office. Under all the circumstances, considering the clerk's merits, and the loss the Union would sustain should he resign, in consequence of insufficient payment for the very laborious duties he has to perform, I would recommend that his salary should be increased to the sum of 80*l.* per annum, to which one-half the Board consented, and indeed were anxious to raise it; whilst even the dissentient portion admitted the justice of the principle, although not to that amount. The sum paid the treasurer of the Union this week by the rate collectors, amounted to 469*l.*; and the balance to the credit of the Guardians on the 26th instant was 2298*l.* 18*s.* 8*d.* The collectors for Bundoran, Ballyshannon, and Ballintra divisions, I think have not these two past weeks made the exertions they should have done, and I have written to urge them to greater activity. I still calculate the whole rate will have been collected before the middle of April. The number in the workhouse on Saturday evening was 830; those receiving out-door relief, 874, and children fed by the British Association, 8140. The cost of out-door relief for the past week was 24*l.* 4*s.* As yet very little activity prevails in preparation of the land for spring crops, and I anticipate that the distress will be somewhat lessened next month by the necessary employment for that purpose; still I cannot hope for any permanent improvement of the condition of the people from this cause, and cannot conceal that I think if the charity now received from the British Association were suspended, the pressure upon rates from want of employment would be greater than the Union could bear; at the same time, if the landlords employed even one-half the number of hands that they might do, and that profitably to themselves, I have no doubt that the really destitute would be supported at an amount yearly that very moderate rates would produce. It is but reasonable to expect if employment is neglected, that rates must be high; and I conceive that it is only where labour is sufficiently in operation, and taxation at the same time excessive, that rate-payers can complain.

Union.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 1, 1848.

WITH reference to the proposed increase to the clerk's salary, and to your recommendation that it be raised to 80*l.*, I am to state that the Commissioners are prepared to sanction a salary of 80*l.* If you are confident that the proposition would be carried if brought forward at another meeting, the Commissioners would prefer that mode of proceeding.

If, on the other hand, there is a reasonable probability that the Board may adhere to their former resolution, the Commissioners would prefer raising the salary by a sealed order at once.

EXTRACT from CONSTABULARY REPORT.

County of Fermanagh, Derrygonnelly, February 18, 1848.

A WOMAN calling herself Kerrigan, was found dead on the roadside in the townland of Muckenagh. The following verdict was returned :—We find that the deceased woman, who said her name was Kerrigan, came by her death at Muckenagh, in the parish of Innismacsaint, barony of Magheraboy, on Tuesday, the 15th day of February, 1848, by hunger and cold.

WILLIAM HAMILTON ROWAN,
Sub-Inspector, 3rd Rate.

*The Inspector-General,
&c. &c. &c.*

OBSERVATIONS of Mr. D'ARCY thereon, the Extract having been referred to him by the COMMISSIONERS.

I CAME to this by Derrygonnelly to inquire into the circumstances of this woman's death. I find that she had been in the Ballyshannon workhouse, and whether she left it of her own accord, or had been amongst those put out on an allowance, I cannot say; she was admitted on the application book of the Bundoran relieving officer; at the time of her death she was going, as she stated, to a person named Cox, four miles from Garrison; she did not apply to the relieving officer for Innismacsaint, who resides in Garrison, for relief; she had been refused by the persons residing on the road admittance to their houses or relief, and I have no doubt she lost her life as stated in the verdict of the coroner's jury. On my return to Ballyshannon, I shall ascertain all the particulars of her admission and discharge from the workhouse, and report them.

Enniskillen, February 29, 1848.

JAMES D'ARCY.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. D'ARCY:—March 2, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your observations on the report of Sub-Inspector Rowan, relative to the death of a woman named Kerrigan, at Muckenagh, in Ballyshannon Union; and I am to state, that the Commissioners will feel obliged to you for a full report on the case when you have obtained the requisite information at Ballyshannon.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 5, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to forward my weekly report.

I returned here yesterday morning from Enniskillen, and attended the meeting of the Board of Guardians on the same day. The cheques for the liabilities of the month were drawn upon the treasurer. Contracts for meal and bread for hospital purposes were taken; and, on my suggestion, the Guardians resolved to purchase 10 tons of rye meal from the Commissariat stores in Sligo, and make a trial of it as food. I find that the 4 lb. loaf made of it can be had for two-pence and four-sevenths, which is cheaper than any other description of food that could be used, and will effect not alone a saving in the article of food itself but in fuel. I have made the above calculation, taking into consideration the price of meal per ton 7*l.*, carriage 10*s.*, baking 1*l.* 7*s.*, which latter is what I pay for the bread baked for the schools which are being supplied by the British Association.

I find a ton of meal, when well baked and managed, produces one ton and a half of bread. Thus we should have that quantity at 8*l.* 17*s.*, as shown above, and the 4 lb. loaf as nearly as possible at the price I have stated.

We got a considerable supply of the clothing that had been contracted for during the week, and the paupers are all now well clad, and the establishment presents a quite different and improved appearance in consequence.

I had for some time past impressed upon the matron the value of industrial employment; and, as a commencement, she has had made in the workhouse within the last week 130 bed-ticks, 126 pair of sheets, and 100 shifts. Breaking stones, as a test, is closely attended to by the assistant-master who was lately appointed, and I must say he is giving me much satisfaction.

I have had the girls removed to the workhouse from the school-house in the town, and sent over the oldest of the female paupers in their stead, and find it a better arrangement. The Guardians have promised to make the improvements I suggested in the auxiliary workhouse in the town, and I trust that I shall be shortly able to report that they are completed.

The balance to the credit of the Union the 4th instant was 2607*l.*, the collection during the week being smaller than usual. In a degree this is owing to the fact that all the larger sums of rate are paid in this Union, and that the collection is now going on amongst the poorer class of rate-payers. The Belleek division I may say is collected, and that also has its effect in lessening the weekly amount. In addition to these the assizes of Enniskillen were going on, and two or three of the collectors had business there. And although in future, for these reasons, we cannot expect such large sums as heretofore, still I think a communication direct from the Commissioners to the following collectors, urging increased activity, would be of service—Kelly, for Ballyshannon; Daly, for Bundoran; Farry, for Devenish; Wilson, for Churchhill; and Mackey, for Ballintea; the last particularly, who, with a good division, is considerably behind, and has all through been slow in his collection: if he used proper exertion he would be enabled to lodge 60*l.* or 70*l.* weekly. Tiffony, the new collector for Glenade, made a small lodgement this week; and I trust the example given by the dismissal of his predecessor will have its effect on him and the other collectors.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 11, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners will address the collectors as you recommend.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 7, 1848.

In reply to your letter, dated the 2nd of March, directing me to report at length, when I had obtained the necessary information regarding the death of a woman, named Kerrigan, reported by Sub-Inspector Rowan, and which took place at Muckenagh, near Garrison, in this Union; I have now the honour to transmit all the information I have been unable to obtain on the subject.

Susan Kerrigan, the deceased, applied upon the 12th of January, to Mr. Michael Daly, the relieving officer of the Bundoran district, and on the 13th she got admission to the workhouse. February the 7th ultimo, at her own request, she was discharged, and no more was heard of her until the report of her death by Sub-Inspector Rowan. I have no doubt that want and cold caused it, but the relieving officer did his duty by her, and so did the Guardians of the Union. It was her own free will and choice to leave the workhouse, and no one is to blame in the matter, as she had immediate relief upon her application for it.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 12, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to forward my report for the past week.

I attended meetings of the Board of Guardians on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. Thursday I was present at the petty sessions where some rate cases were to be heard, and one or two in which rescues of cattle seized by the collector had taken place.

A case arose about which the magistrates had some doubts, and begged I would write, stating the circumstances, and obtain a reply. A man was summoned for rate of a holding valued under 4*l.*, and although he was valued elsewhere above 8*l.*, he disputed payment; both the holdings were in the same electoral division, but not held under one landlord. It appeared to me if his holdings in the Union computed together exceeded 4*l.* value, he was liable for each separately.

I have much satisfaction in stating, that considerable progress has been made towards the improvement of the workhouse and yards. The workhouse has been undergoing a thorough cleansing and whitewashing. The wooden fever-sheds are in progress of improvement, and being covered with tar and canvas. Stone-breaking under the superintendence of the assistant-master, is closely attended to; the female paupers employed in making-up clothing for the inmates; and I trust the result will be, that the entire establishment will shortly present a very different and greatly improved appearance.

I think that the time has arrived when an extended order, permitting widows with one child and orphans to receive out-door relief might be issued in this Union, as it is not possible that greater workhouse accommodation can be provided than there is at present, and putting such cases into the workhouse precludes the possibility of the test so necessary to able-bodied. I am in hope that the relief afforded by the British Association, with the employment that the opening spring work will produce, may have the effect of relieving the rate-payers of the burden of supporting this class for some time to come, and I only regret that a Union so highly capable of permanent and remunerative improvement should remain in the neglected condition, that sooner or later, and when extraneous aid is withdrawn, must inevitably throw the able-bodied as well as the infirm upon the rates for support.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 16, 1848.

WITH reference to your inquiry as to the liability of an occupier of a tenement valued at less than 4*l.* per annum, to the rate made in respect of such tenement, he being valued elsewhere above 8*l.*, I am directed by the Commissioners to state, that there is no doubt that if the aggregate value of the rateable hereditaments occupied by him in the Union is greater than 4*l.*, he is liable to the rate, and the immediate lessor ought not to be rated, even though the annual value of any one or more of the holdings may be less than 4*l.*

The Commissioners have directed that an order be prepared in accordance with your suggestion, permitting widows with one child and orphans, to receive out-door relief in Ballyshannon Union.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 14, 1848.

HAVING heard of the death of a woman in the division of Boho, which was attributed to starvation, I thought it my duty to inquire into the circumstances, and for that purpose proceeded yesterday to Cornacully or Tibawn, where it occurred, and have the honour to forward the information I obtained.

The deceased woman, Mary Hart, had but 10 days recovered from fever, and on Sunday morning, the 12th instant, had gone to the house of Mr. James Magrath, the Guardian of the electoral division of Boho, for the purpose of receiving a portion of a sum of 4*l.* which her husband had sent her from America, and placed for safe keeping in the hands of Mr. Magrath. During her illness, from time to time, he had supplied her with meal, money, and the various necessaries she stood in need of, and on this occasion gave her 15*s.* The country about this place is hilly or mountainous, and she lived a couple of miles from the high road and near the summit of the hills; there being no road or pathway to follow, and that I might ascertain the fullest particulars, I left my car on the high road, and took the direction which she did on her return from Mr. Magrath's house, until I arrived at the spot in which the body was found. It appears to me that although she had recovered the fever, that she was in a weak state, and the walk down the hills and then the return up them had exhausted her; and a small swamp lying in her way she tripped in stepping from place to place to get over it dry, and fell on her face, and had not strength to recover, and was either drowned or suffocated. The coroner had not arrived up to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and as I had a drive of some 15 or 16 miles to return I did not wait longer. I saw, however, all the persons who could give any information in regard to the circumstance, and have, no doubt, that she did not come by her death owing to want, but that it was accidental, and probably consequent on her weak condition from her previous illness.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 16, 1848.

In my report, which will be forwarded at the close of the week, I shall advert to the system of baling by contract, which the Guardians have resolved to adopt, and state my opinion of the advantages over its performance in the workhouse. Kelly, the collector for Ballyshannon division, waited on the Guardians and stated that he had just experienced a very determined rescue of cattle he had seized for rate; and that this so frequently occurred now, that unless force was given to protect him, he could not collect the balance of rate still outstanding. The magistrates who were present said they were willing to afford him every assistance, but feared the police officer would not accompany him without directions to that effect from head quarters. I think that a show of force for one day would have the effect of proving the folly of resistance, and I have no doubt that alone is required to produce again a peaceful and general payment of the rate. Up to this the collectors have been receiving from the most wealthy, and more difficulty will be experienced with those persons from whom it is now due.

The Guardians requested me to inquire whether persons guilty of permitting their families to be relieved in the workhouse are all to be sent to this county gaol; as the Union extends into three counties, they think it hard that a person whose family belongs to either of the others should be committed in Donegal, and thus throw the expense of maintaining all such cases solely upon it.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 21, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have forwarded a copy of that part of your report respecting the difficulty experienced by the collector of the Ballyshannon electoral division in the collection of the rate, to the Under-Secretary, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.

Ballyshannon
Union.

Further LETTER from the COMMISSIONERS to Mr. D'ARCY :—April 19, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration that part of your report dated the 16th ultimo, in which you request to be informed whether persons guilty of permitting their families to be relieved in the workhouse are all to be sent to the county gaol of Donegal, the Union extending into three counties, and the Guardians being of opinion that it is hard that a person whose family belongs to either of the other counties should be committed in Donegal, and thus throw the whole expense of the case upon that county.

In reference thereto, I am directed by the Commissioners to state, that the question appears to be one which is for the consideration of the convicting magistrates. The Commissioners presume, however, that the gaol to which persons convicted of deserting or neglecting to maintain their families should be sent is the gaol of the county in which the offence was committed.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 19, 1848.

Mr. GREEN, of Ballyshannon, a very extensive baker, has contracted to supply storage for rye-meal, and bake it for the use of the workhouse, at 25s. per ton, engaging to return 3200 pounds of bread for each 2240 pounds of meal (otherwise ton,) that he received from the Guardians. He stated that he might be able to make a greater return, even so much as 3300 pounds and upwards; but that he would not bind himself to more than the former quantity. The Guardians now propose to lay in a supply of rye meal from the Commissariat stores at Sligo, and have ordered 30 tons, and will make this bread the principal food of the workhouse.

I cannot suppose that it is possible to supply a cheaper article of food. The meal here, carriage included, will stand in 7*l.* 10s. per ton, baking and storage 1*l.* 5s.; and thus give 3200 pounds of bread for 8*l.* 15s., which will be but a minute fraction above one halfpenny per pound.

I am inclined to think that the supply of bread by contract, is preferable to the erection of ovens in workhouses, even were it practicable in all; here it would not be so, without building for the purpose: by the one system the cost can be exactly calculated, by the other it cannot, as fuel, &c., &c., and the other matters required (independent of meal), are supplied the workhouse in large quantities, and the precise amount of each used in the baking would not be known; add to this that no species of labour is more open to peculation, and that it would surely be practised if the most careful and constant surveillance was not exercised.

It is of course easy to enter into calculations of what each ton of meal baked would cost, or rather should cost, but I think the actual expenditure would exceed the calculation. By contract, it is an ascertained matter, that there can be no mistake about; the cost of the four-pound loaf of rye bread, at the price we pay for meal, baking, &c., being exactly 2*d.* and five-twelfths, and I am convinced that baking by contract will, on the whole, be found more economical and satisfactory.

Mr. Otway attended the Board this day, and seeing how cheaply this bread was produced, and being convinced by a specimen of it, which was exhibited, that it was wholesome and nutritious food, strongly recommended to the Guardians that it should be given in place of money for out-door relief; upon his pressing it, and plainly showing the advantage of relieving in food, it was resolved that this course should in future be adopted.

I regret to say, at this advanced period of the spring, little is yet done in the way of cropping the land. In the electoral division of Glenade, I have reason to believe, that little or no grain crop will be sown, as it is a very poor and mountain soil, and is so worn with white crops, that the people fear to sow them. Potatoes they will plant as far as they can possibly obtain seed; and the hope in their success is now very general, from the sound and healthy appearance they have preserved to the present period.

The introduction of rye bread will serve to accustom the people to a food that moory and mountain soil will produce, and which may be sown with certainty of success where barley or oats might be doubtful, and thus, in some degree, supply the loss of the potato in such districts. Laying aside altogether its economy as workhouse food, I hold its use under the peculiar circumstances of the country as most valuable.

I would beg to remark the great benefit that might be derived from the visit of a practical instructor to this Union, and would recommend it to the notice of the Commissioners.

Ballyshannon
Union,

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. D'ARCY:—March 22, 1848.

WITH reference to that part of your report which refers to the use of rye bread in the Union, I am to state that the Commissioners learn, with great satisfaction, that rye bread has been introduced as an article of food for the inmates of the workhouse, and for those who are on the out-door relief lists, as the Commissioners are convinced that it will be highly beneficial to the population generally, if it is found practicable to introduce gradually a rye diet in certain parts of Ireland.

In regard to the expediency of Guardians undertaking to bake their own bread in workhouses, the Commissioners have to observe, that they have never laid down any regulation on this point, and that they deem it advisable to leave it open to the discretion of each individual Board of Guardians. The Commissioners have had occasion more than once to consider this question on which there has been ample experience; and the conclusion at which they have arrived is, that with first-rate workhouse officers bread may be baked in a workhouse with some advantages; but, on the other hand, the system opens the door to so many irregularities and to so much malversation, that it would not be found to answer, if introduced universally.

The Commissioners will communicate your views to the Royal Agricultural Improvement Society, as to the importance of sending a practical instructor in agriculture to the Union.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 2, 1848.

I FOUND that no Board meetings had been held on the Wednesday and Friday as usual, and which have not before been omitted since I first recommended to the Guardians the adoption of that measure. I found it impossible to transact the business as it arose unless this was done, without the risk of its getting into arrear, and at the same time it was a security against provisional relief becoming extensive, as few cases, although they might be urgent, could be so sudden that they required it without an order of the Board, where its decision might be obtained three times a-week.

Under these circumstances, I impressed on the Board the necessity of regular meetings in future, three times, or at least twice a-week, and I have every reason to believe they will again regularly hold them.

Tenders were received for the supply of rye-meal bread to be given as out-door relief in place of money, and Mr. Greene, of Ballyshannon, was declared the contractor at 3d. the 4lb. loaf, to be delivered at the depôts in each division to the relieving officers; and I must say I think this very cheap, when the carriage is taken into account.

I am happy to say, that the use of this bread, as food in the workhouse, is found to answer, and that the general health of the establishment has improved within the past fortnight, which shows that it is wholesome, and if not so palatable as other food, it will become an additional test of destitution.

The collection of the rate is not so far forward as I expected, and proves I was right in the opinion I expressed to the Commissioners in January, that if the spring sowing commenced before its completion, greater difficulty would be experienced; still, on the whole, I cannot complain. 6037*l.* 11*s.* 9*d.* having been paid to the treasurer from the 18th of December last up to the 1st instant; thus in a period of little more than three months 1211*l.* 17*s.* 5*d.* has been collected more than what was paid during the four years and a-half preceding the 29th of September last, as up to that date the sum brought to account amounted only to 4825*l.* 14*s.* 4*d.*, and I think this remarkable as evidencing what may be done by showing a determination to enforce the payment of rate without respect to persons; and I am glad to say, that the Board seem now satisfied of the benefit the Union has derived from the adoption of this course. On Saturday Mr. Dickson, in much too flattering terms as regarded me, admitted the improved condition of the Union, and many of the Guardians thanked me for the persevering determination with which I had urged the collection of the rate against them as well as others; being now convinced of the benefit of that course, although at first they had spoken to me, and of me, in no very measured terms.

Union.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 4, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that the resident magistrate to whom I applied for protection to Kelly, the collector for the Ballyshannon division, on a sworn information, refused till he applied to head quarters, and I would beg to impress on the Commissioners, that these delays are most eagerly seized by the people, as indications of doubt as to the enforcement of the rate. It is now a fortnight since I reported the necessity of aid, and we have not been able to obtain it since; the last week rescues were made in Kinlough, Churchill, and Innismacsaint, and I do believe it to be in consequence of the collector having been foiled in this division. In fact they have grown bold by success and impunity. If the aid I require for the collectors is promptly afforded, I will undertake that within a mere trifle, all the outstanding rate shall be collected; but should delays and obstruction take place in obtaining aid, I fear little indeed of what now remains due will be recovered.

When the rescues were made, had instant protection been given to the collector to enable him to levy a distress next day, it would have had a salutary effect, and we should not have had those which have followed.

I trust that the Commissioners will be good enough to give this matter immediate attention, as it is important that further delay should not take place.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 6, 1848.

The Commissioners will forward a copy of your report to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.

Mr. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 9, 1848.

THE collector of the Ballintra division suffered rescues of cattle distrained in five separate cases on Friday, and I am informed was much abused and beaten. Had more prompt assistance been rendered when the collector for the Ballyshannon division swore informations, matters would not now wear so threatening an aspect, and I again must repeat my conviction, that a very little determination exhibited in the first instance would have saved much trouble now, and every day that passes without steps being taken to uphold the collectors, and enforce the law will but increase the difficulty.

The health of the inmates of the workhouse is much improved, and the number in the fever sheds and infirmary considerably decreased; on the 11th of March, 227 were under medical treatment, and on the 8th instant, 112.

Fever is on the increase generally through the country, and it cannot be expected that the workhouse should be exempt.

The schoolmistress has been in fever, but is now recovering.

The master is still unable to attend to his duties, and I fear his perfect convalescence is more remote than I had supposed, however, I trust, that at the farthest a week or ten days will complete his recovery.

The pressure for relief has somewhat lessened since the opening of spring labour, the number in the workhouse on the 8th being but 712, but this will not be of long duration, and from the middle of May till the 1st of September, it will again considerably increase.

I beg again to draw particular attention to the backward state of culture of the farms of the small holders. I drove during the week, some 80 or 90 miles backwards and forwards visiting schools, and it is quite alarming to see how little is done at so advanced a period; in fact, nothing is done in the way of corn sowing, with the exception of a little near the town of Ballyshannon and Bundoran; potatoes will be planted as far as they can procure seed; some holders of four and five acres told me they would not attempt to raise any other crop, that the land was too much worn out to give corn; in some instances I found them breaking fresh lea land, and on enquiry why they did so, the reply invariably was, "the old land is not able to give a crop, and we must break this."

This state of things has entirely resulted from the loss of the potato, which was the only means they were acquainted with of manuring the land, and bringing it into that state of tilth which would render it fit to bear white crops. Unless an exertion is now made to stimulate them, and improve their knowledge in this respect, each succeeding year matters will become worse, till at last the land of the small holders will be reduced to a mere caput mortuum.

I am quite aware that the landlords and proprietors are the parties who should for their own sakes, as well as that of their tenantry, endeavour to remedy this state of things, but just now were a practical instructor sent here, it would have the effect of rousing the attention of the people, and I have no doubt that considerable benefit would be produced by his visit.

Little or no improvement of a permanent nature is in progress; the only persons who took money under the Land Improvement Bill are Messrs. Bloomfield Dickson and the late Captain Johnston. No Union, perhaps, in Ireland, presents at so small expense so wide a field for improvement, and this by no means of a doubtful or speculative nature; the mere drainage of the arable land alone, without attempting the reclamation of bog or mountain, would for a considerable time to come give employment, and would greatly more than double the produce of the land; three-fourths of the land I may say is literally floating in water, with falls for drainage to be had on every side, and an abundance of stone.

Complaints are daily made of the pressure of rates, and statements of the necessity of the Government doing something to assist in alleviating the burden, and this by the very persons who will by no means be induced, in the smallest degree, to clap their own shoulders to the wheel.

REPLY to the foregoing :—April 12, 1848.

THE Commissioners will communicate with his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant on the subject of the rescue to which you advert.

They will also forward an extract from your report to the Royal Agricultural Improvement Society.

MR. D'ARCY to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 16, 1848.

I FORWARD a copy of informations sworn by Kelly, the collector for Ballyshannon division, and beg to impress on the Commissioners that unless assistance is given at once, the collection of the rate may be considered at an end in this Union. Messrs. Atkinson, Davis, Allingham, and Dickson, the magistrates who were in attendance as ex-officio Guardians on Friday and Saturday, all said they did not consider that the collector's life would be safe, did he attempt further to levy distresses, and I am decidedly of opinion, had a little assistance been afforded earlier, it would have obviated the necessity for much greater now; those who have paid their rates, complain and think fairly that they are or will be sufferers, should the law not be fully enforced against those who are now giving opposition, and I would respectfully impress on the Commissioners the importance of prompt and vigorous aid.

REPLY to the foregoing :—April 18, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have transmitted a copy of that portion of your report which relates to opposition to the collection of rate, together with a copy of the depositions of the collectors forwarded by you, to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. D'ARCY:—April 20, 1848.

ADVERTING to their letter of the 18th instant, in reply to your communication on the subject of the collection of rates in Ballyshannon Union, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they are desirous that whenever a collector has reasonable grounds for requiring the assistance of the police or military in the discharge of his duty, he should make formal depositions for that purpose accordingly before magistrates, and if these depositions are disregarded, the Commissioners do not doubt that his Excellency will deal with the case as the circumstances may require.

The depositions of Edward Kelly and James Flanagan transmitted by you in your letter of the 16th instant, do not seem to the Commissioners to be a formal foundation for requesting the assistance of the police, but to have been rather a foundation for proceeding against the parties mentioned in these depositions as having violated the law.

SATURDAY, I attended the meeting of the Board, and after the routine business had been transacted, the books of the relieving officers, &c. examined, and initialed, considerable discussion arose respecting the taking of Mr. Greene's store as an extension to the workhouse accommodation, as suggested in a letter from Dr. Simon Sheil to the Commissioners. I pointed out to the Guardians that it would be well to be prepared for the pressure which I anticipated would arise, when the work occasioned by the sowing of the crops ceased; and also stated, that I must gradually reduce the issues of food to the schools until it should finally cease the 1st of July, when there was no doubt, that many now supported by charity must then be supported by rates. The Guardians acknowledged this, and said they were quite ready to take the question of additional workhouse accommodation into consideration, but they were not at all prepared to do so on the suggestion made by Dr. Sheil; and Mr. Allingham again stated, that the store was liable to be under water at high tides, and in his opinion unfit for the purpose; however, after much discussion, the Guardians resolved to take timely steps to meet any pressure that may arise; and although in the first instance, when some months since, I proposed that they should take additional workhouse accommodation, they were much opposed to it; they now see the advantage it has been to the Union, and will, I am satisfied, readily increase its extent when it becomes necessary.

I have been anxiously looking forward to the completion of the collection of the current rate, or at least so much of it as it will be possible to make available, and I regret to say, that the hope I had entertained, that this month would have brought it to a close, will not be realized. The arrear of the last rate amounted to nearly 200*l.*, and to that, will in all probability be added 200*l.* more of this rate; so that something over 600*l.* is still outstanding, which I think it is possible to collect. In the Ballyshannon and Bandoran divisions, on which the greatest sum is still due, there are many holdings occupied as grazing farms, and these will not be stocked for the summer, until the 10th or 12th of May; so that at present, distresses cannot be found on the premises. Other cases have arisen where distresses may be found, but difficulties have arisen, and rescues have taken place, which have retarded the collection; however, as there is a handsome balance still to the credit of the Guardians, in the hands of the treasurer, this delay is not of such serious importance as it otherwise might be.

CASHEL UNION.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 5, 1848.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of my appointment as Temporary Inspector of this Union; and I have the honour to report, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that I arrived here upon the 3rd instant to commence the duties of my office.

I have been engaged during yesterday and to-day in visiting the Union workhouse, the state of which is very far from satisfactory. The hospital and infirmaries are crowded to excess. The men and boys had been moved to a house taken by the Guardians for additional accommodation; and the men and boys' wards are filled with women and children, who, from want of clothing, have not yet been classified, and whose appearance is truly miserable.

In the other side of the house, where the women and girls are in a degree classified, the wards are very clean; and although the clothing of the paupers is in a wretched state, they are in comparative comfort to those in the men's wards.

The Guardians having at length been induced to order a supply of clothes, they are being made as fast as possible; and I am turning my first attention to getting the paupers clothed and classified, and the repairs required in the additional house completed.

I find that the Guardians have appointed a certain number of stewards under each relieving officer, for the purpose of employing the men who are receiving out-door relief at stone-breaking.

I have directed the relieving officers to send me a return of the number of stewards appointed under each, the number of men told off to each steward, and the locality where each gang is employed. I have insisted upon every man who is receiving relief being compelled to perform a good day's work at breaking stones; and I purpose visiting each district to see my directions properly carried out.

From having been here for so very short a time, I am unable at present to state as fully as I could wish, the condition in which I find this Union; but I hope after the next Board day to make a more full and satisfactory report to the Poor Law Commissioners, and to lay before them what I have done and purpose doing; in order to have their instructions and wishes carried into effect.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 11, 1848.

I YESTERDAY attended the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians for this Union.

There are at present 1190 paupers in the workhouse, that number being 290 more than it is intended to contain. There are 260 men and boys in that part of the additional house that is at present completed. The hospital and infirmaries are crowded to excess.

I have visited the house every day since my arrival here, and it is almost impossible to describe the disorder and confusion that exist in every part of it. In fact I can safely state, that with the exception of the clerk's office and the girls' school there is not one department of the house in which the business is carried on in the manner in which it ought to be.

The Guardians appear hitherto to have performed their duty in a most negligent and irregular manner. There is no entry in the visiting-book since the year 1846, and I understand that although Visiting Committees were frequently formed at the meetings of the Board they rarely if ever made an inspection of the workhouse.

A supply of clothing for the paupers has long been required, but the Board delayed so long in ordering it that at present nearly one half of the inmates of the house wear their own clothes, and consequently cannot be classified; and those that have the workhouse dress are almost in rags. However I trust that in less than a fortnight this will be remedied, as the Guardians have at length consented to order a supply of materials, which are being made up as fast as possible.

The master has only been appointed a few weeks, and although very inexperienced is an active intelligent man, and seems most anxious to do his best, and I think that when he has had a little more practice he will perform his duty satisfactorily.

I have assembled all the relieving officers of the Union, and have explained to them the manner in which the test of stone-breaking is to be applied to those men receiving relief under the 2nd section of the Act. I directed them to require from each of the stewards appointed to superintend the different gangs a return at the end of every week, stating the number of days' work performed by every man, and that for every day that a man has omitted to come to work, a day's rations is to be stopped from himself and his family.

I propose visiting every district myself, and examining the relieving officers and stewards' books, and I have no doubt that when the system is rigidly enforced, the numbers receiving relief will very quickly diminish.

I find that of the rate struck in May, 1847, there is at present uncollected a sum of about 9435/. I have directed all the collectors to assemble here on Wednesday next, and to have a list made out of the persons who have not yet paid the amount of their rate. I shall by that means ascertain who are the principal defaulters, and what course it will be advisable to pursue in order to enforce the collection of the remainder.

I stated yesterday to the Board of Guardians the condition in which I found the house, and requested that they would appoint a Visiting Committee who would undertake to inspect it regularly. A Committee was accordingly formed, who have promised to attend twice during the week, and I purpose accompanying them, and trust that in that way we shall by degrees get the house cleaner and into better order, and the inmates properly classified.

I then suggested that this Committee should be empowered by the Guardians to make what arrangements they considered necessary for getting the additional house completed, and prepared for the reception of women as well as men. I laid before the Board a plan that I considered advisable, by which the house might be arranged so as to contain about 400 men and boys, and 140 women; and if my proposal was carried, we should have room for and be able to apply the workhouse test to about 100 men with their families, who are now in receipt of relief under section 2 of the Act. This was also consented to by the Board, and I hope in less than a fortnight to have my intentions in that respect carried into effect.

The Board of Guardians quite agreed with me as to the disorderly state of the workhouse, and I am happy to say that I found them most willing to second me in everything that I proposed for its improvement; and if the same feeling should continue to exist, I have no doubt but that I shall be able very soon to effect the changes that I wish, and that the affairs of the workhouse and the Union will assume a very different aspect.

I trust that the course which I am at present pursuing will meet with the approbation of the Poor Law Commissioners.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 17, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners approve the steps you have taken, and they trust that your presence and exertions in Cashel Union will be the means of producing a more satisfactory state of things than at present exists in that Union.

With reference to your statement that there are at present 1190 paupers in the workhouse—290 more than it was intended to contain—the Commissioners request you will be so good as to state whether any part of this number is contained in additional buildings recently obtained by the Guardians. The Commissioners on the 24th March last issued an order limiting the number to be accommodated in the buildings which were then available to 900, and they have had such decisive experience of the evil effects of over-crowding workhouses that they could not give their consent to the reception of any greater number than 900, unless additional accommodation were provided.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 14, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that the men and boys, to the number of about 270, who had been removed from the workhouse to the auxiliary house in this town, broke out this morning, and proceeded in a body (shouting and creating great disturbance) to the workhouse, into which they forced their way through the gates and over the walls, and took possession of the men's yard and old men's ward.

The master and porter endeavoured to make them leave, but were unable to do so, as the men positively refused to move.

Upon hearing of the circumstance I immediately went to the workhouse and spoke to the men, and asked them the reason of their conduct, and they said the place they were put to live in was unhealthy, and they would rather die than return there. I endeavoured to collect a sufficient number of the Guardians to form a Board; but being unable to do so I went to Mr. French, the stipendiary magistrate, and requested he would send a sufficient number of police to clear the house and yards. He immediately turned out the police, and accompanied me back to the workhouse, when we found that the men and boys had left, and it was thought had gone back to the auxiliary house. We followed them, and found that about one-half had returned; the rest are still about the town, but I have no doubt will come back before night.

With the assistance of the master, we selected four men who had appeared most active in the disturbance, and in forcing the gates: these we sent to the bridewell, and the master swore informations against them. The matter stands thus till the meeting of the Guardians on Thursday next.

I do not know what can be done to the remainder of the men for their disorderly conduct. It would be impossible to punish them all, by turning them out of the workhouse with their families, as they would starve; and I have to request that the Poor Law Commissioners will be pleased to give me their instructions upon the subject.

I am sorry to say that the male paupers in this workhouse are very unruly, and have not the slightest respect for the authority of the master; but I hope that punishing severely the leaders of the disturbance to-day will have a good effect.

REPLY to the foregoing :—February 16, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners approve of the course adopted by you in obtaining the services of the police, and in endeavouring to collect a sufficient number of Guardians to form a Board; and they regret that you were not enabled to obtain the immediate attendance of a sufficient number of Guardians to constitute a Board.

In regard to the paupers of the workhouse the Commissioners would suggest that, besides the ringleaders, any other individuals amongst them who were distinguished by taking a prominent part in the uproar might be taken before the magistrates for punishment under the 58th section of the Irish Poor Relief Act.

The Commissioners await your report of the proceedings of the Guardians at their meeting to-morrow.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 18, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that I yesterday attended the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians.

The numbers in the house are 1138; being 238 more than it ought to contain. There are 227 in the auxiliary house, in addition to those in the workhouse.

A contract has been entered into with a builder in this town for the completion of the auxiliary house, which I trust will be ready on the 4th of March. I purpose then removing the nursery there, and reducing the workhouse to its proper number, viz., 900.

I am of opinion that the present unhealthy and disorderly state of the house is mainly to be attributed to the fact of the Guardians not having complied with the order of the 4th of March last, limiting the number to be admitted to the house to 900.

N

Cashel Union.

The hospital, I regret to say, is still crowded to excess, and a very bad fever has made its appearance among the paupers, which affects their head almost immediately, and they become quite delirious, and have to be secured to their beds a few hours after they are first taken ill.

I have visited the workhouse almost daily, and I am glad to say that a slight change for the better is already to be seen in the arrangements.

On Saturday last about 172 of the paupers received new clothing, and as it is issued to them they are classified.

I have directed the master to have the house whitewashed from top to bottom; and glaziers are at present employed in putting some perforated zinc into all the windows. I have had small holes bored in the bottom of all the doors, and thus ensured the proper ventilation of the different wards.

The Guardians at their meeting yesterday resolved to have the whole of the woodwork of the house painted anew, and the whole of the drains and cess-pools cleaned out; and the clerk has advertised for proposals to have the same performed by contract.

On Wednesday last I assembled all the collectors and examined their books. I found that there appeared a sum of about 9435*l.* uncollected—but of this about 679*l.* was not included in their warrants, as it was arrears due by former collectors which could never be recovered, therefore the amount still to be got in is about 8756*l.* I stated to the collectors that they were bound by their bond to have had the whole collected by December last; and that therefore if I found that any of them made any unnecessary delay, I should recommend the Board of Guardians to proceed against them or their securities for the amount.

I stated to the Guardians yesterday that the Commissioners had not sanctioned the burial ground adjoining the hospital in the workhouse grounds, and therefore I requested it might be given up and another one procured; this they resolved to do.

I also informed the Board of Guardians that the Poor Law Commissioners would not sanction Stokes' house, at Fethard, being used as a temporary workhouse; and I recommended that it should be given up forthwith. The Board then came to a resolution, that having had possession of the house for six weeks, they were bound to pay the owner compensation. The sum of 40*l.* was awarded to him, as the Board considered that he had been put to great loss and inconvenience by the alterations he had made in his premises, for the purpose of letting them for a workhouse.

With regard to the outbreak of the male paupers on Monday last, the four men who had been arrested were brought up before the magistrates, at the petty sessions on Wednesday last, when I also attended. The magistrates were of opinion that the only punishment they could inflict would be imprisonment without hard labour (there being no tread-mill in the gaol); and as that was very slight punishment, they recommended that the men should be allowed to return to the workhouse, and be dealt with in the same manner as the remainder of the paupers. I am happy to say, however, that the fact of the police being brought into the workhouse on Monday last, and taking some of the men prisoners, has had a very good effect. The paupers have since been much more orderly and show more respect for the authority of the officers.

Owing to the absence of some of the members of the Relief Committee, the Guardians deferred taking the building of the temporary fever hospital into consideration until their next meeting. I will then inform the Poor Law Commissioners of the result.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 23, 1848.

WITH reference to your statement, that there are 238 more in the workhouse than sanctioned by the Commissioners' order of 4th March last, I am directed by the Commissioners to request that you will be so good as to bring the evil of over-crowding the workhouse strongly before the Guardians, and that you will take care that no further admissions are allowed until the number is reduced to that sanctioned by the Commissioners' order.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:— February 25, 1848.

I HAVE to report, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that I yesterday attended the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians.

The number in the workhouse at present is 1,127; and the auxiliary house 207. I regret to say that the hospital is still very much crowded, and that the numbers attacked with fever do not appear to diminish.

The workhouse, I am happy to say, is becoming gradually cleaner and into better order; the inmates are nearly all clothed; and I have caused all the children between the ages of two and five to be formed into an infant school, and have moved some of the youngest girls into it, and thus given more room in the girls' school-room, which before was very much crowded. The nursery has been moved into the probationary wards, to remain there until the auxiliary house is completed, when they will be moved into it.

The house is being lime-washed all through; and the Guardians have this day entered into a contract to have the wood-work painted. When that is done and the numbers in the house reduced to the proper complement I trust that the establishment will assume a very different appearance from what it does at present.

The amount of rate collected during the last week was 283/. I have pressed upon the collectors the necessity of immediately enforcing the payment of all that is due; and I have given them instructions respecting every case in which they had any doubt as to how to act. As far as I have seen, they appear to be tolerably active and efficient in the performance of their duty.

I stated to the Guardians that the period named in the order authorizing out-door relief to the able-bodied poor would expire on the 29th instant; they resolved to apply to have it renewed for two months longer. This I consider to be necessary, as the number receiving relief in this Union under the 2nd section of the Act is very great, and at present I do not see any prospect of its diminishing.

The Guardians also passed the following resolutions, viz.:—

That an assistant-clerk be appointed at a salary of 25/. a-year.

That an additional fever hospital be erected in the workhouse grounds.

That the walls of the workhouse be raised to the height of 10½ feet the whole way round.

With respect to the assistant-clerk, I consider the appointment to be a very good one. The person appointed is most efficient and intelligent, and had been employed as an assistant for two or three years by the late clerk. He during that time was a pauper boy in the house, and the Guardians have now struck him off the list of paupers and appointed him (as aforesaid) assistant-clerk. I think that one clerk would be unable to perform the work required in this Union; and the Guardians have made a very judicious selection in the appointment of an assistant. They would have deferred doing this until after the election of a clerk on Thursday next, but by their at once appointing the assistant he can also perform the duties of returning officer.

With regard to the additional fever hospital, I stated to the Guardians that as they were about to build sheds for the accommodation of the patients at present in the temporary fever hospital, it would be most advisable that they should be made of a sufficient size to enable the fever patients at present in the infirmary to be moved into them, as it was not right or safe that fever cases should be thus left in the body of the house. It was therefore resolved that they should be built for 120 patients, and according to the plans sent last year by the Relief Commissioners to the different Relief Committees.

As to the workhouse walls being raised to the 10½ feet all round, this I consider to be absolutely necessary. The walls in some places are so low that any one can get over them; and on one night last week they were crossed by some boys who took several loaves of bread from the store by breaking the window and putting their arms through it. Unless the walls are raised it is impossible to prevent the paupers getting in or out of the workhouse as often as they please.

The test of stone-breaking is working very well in most districts of this Union. Numbers of men do not attend to perform their day's work, and consequently lose their rations and that of their families.

The order for the loan of implements from the Board of Works has not yet arrived, which causes some inconvenience, as the implements at present in use are only borrowed and not nearly sufficient for the number of men at work.

In compliance with the instructions contained in the letter from the Commissioners of the 18th instant, I represented the necessity of paying the sum due by the Union to the Audit Fund. The clerk was accordingly directed to pay the amount forthwith.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 1, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have extended the order authorizing the continuance of out-door relief to the able-bodied poor until the 18th instant.

I am at the same time to state that the Commissioners trust that it will not be found necessary to continue out-door relief to the able-bodied poor for so long a period as proposed by the Guardians, and the Commissioners trust that at the expiration of that period there will be sufficient employment to enable the Guardians to dispense with the authority conferred by the present order.

The Commissioners understand that the requisite orders for implements for employing the able-bodied paupers were forwarded to you from the office of the Board of Works on the 25th ultimo, and they presume therefore that you received them after you wrote your report.

As regards the appointment of assistant-clerk, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they have felt bound to decline giving their sanction to John Tubridy's appointment, as they invariably object on general principles to the appointment of persons who have been paupers in the workhouse to paid offices in the Union.

The Commissioners have written to the Guardians to this effect, and have requested them to reconsider John Tubridy's appointment.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 3, 1848.

I THINK that in the beginning of next week we shall be able to move all the youngest children, and some of the women into the auxiliary house, and have also room to admit a number of able-bodied men and their families. It will be seen by the minutes of the proceedings of the Guardians that there are 1108 in the workhouse, and 195 in the auxiliary house.

The numbers in the workhouse have decreased by 19 since last week, which leaves only 208 at present in the house, over the proper number.

I visit the house continually, and am happy to find its appearance daily improving. I have had holes bored at the bottom of all the doors as suggested by Mr. Wilkinson, and am getting perforated zinc inserted into all the windows, and find great benefit to arise from these alterations. I also found that the water-pipes and drains were stopped up; these I have had repaired, and the house is now supplied with water from the cisterns, instead of having it brought in (as was the custom) by a horse and cart at great expense. The Guardians have entered into a contract to have the cesspools cleaned out, which is very much required and is to be done immediately.

I have turned my attention very much to the manner in which the test of stone-breaking is carried out, knowing that its being strictly enforced is the only way to keep improper persons off the out-door relief list.

I am glad to find that upon the whole it is working satisfactorily. I require the relieving officers to send me in a weekly return of the number of men who ought to be at work in the different districts, and the number of those men who were absent during the week. In the week ending Saturday, February 26, there were in this Union 1215 men on the stewards' lists, who should have attended daily at the work; and at the issue of meal on the Monday following, there appeared to have been 1040 men's rations (besides those of their families) stopped for non-attendance at work during the previous week.

I drew the attention of the Guardians to the circular of the Commissioners of the 25th of February, directing lists of the persons receiving relief to be printed and posted. The relieving officers have been directed to prepare the lists accordingly.

I called the notice of the Guardians to the fact that in September last they had received an order from the Commissioners directing the salary of Richard Keefe, the relieving officer of the Knockgraffon district, to be raised from 25*l.* to 35*l.* a year. This has never been complied with, and upon my bringing it before the Board yesterday, they said they considered 25*l.* a year sufficient pay for the work he had to perform, and would not raise it. I would beg to bring this before the notice of the Commissioners, and request their instructions on the subject.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 8, 1848.

WITH reference to your request for instructions in regard to the salary of the relieving officer of Knockgraffon district, which has been fixed by the Commissioners at 35*l.* per annum, while the Guardians refuse to pay a higher salary than 25*l.*, I am to state that the regulation of the salaries of Union officers is by law vested in the Commissioners, and that as a general rule they have determined that 35*l.* ought to be the minimum salary paid to any relieving officer. There have been some few exceptions to this rule, and the Commissioners will readily attend to any statement which the Cashel Board of Guardians may wish to make on the subject in the present instance. But in the absence of any peculiar circumstances to justify a departure from the rule laid down, the Commissioners will deem it desirable to adhere to their former decision, and they propose therefore to issue a sealed order, fixing the salary at 35*l.* per annum, which order will be enforceable by mandamus in the Court of Queen's Bench. Before issuing such order, however, the Commissioners wish you to invite the Guardians to make any statement in support of their views, and the Commissioners will also be glad to receive your own views on the subject.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 10, 1848.

I HAVE to report for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that I yesterday attended the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians of this Union.

It will be seen that a great difference appears on the minutes between the number in the house this week and the last, the reason of which is, that since the resignation of the last master, none of the workhouse books could be made up; and a clerk has ever since been employed in putting them into order. They were only finished on Friday last, and I then ordered the house to be counted out, and found that the number on the books exceeded by 154 the number actually in the house; and consequently all the returns lately sent up to the Commissioners have been incorrect. The master's books are not quite correct and in good order, and the number at present in the house and hospital is 928; and as the house and hospital are calculated to hold 1019, it is now 91 under its proper number.

The auxiliary house is now completed, and capable of containing 580 persons. There are at present only 217 in it, and there is room for 363 more: consequently we can admit now 454 persons; and the relieving officers were directed to strike that number off their out-door relief list, and to send them into the workhouse.

With reference to the circular of the Poor Law Commissioners, No. 219, dated March 2, directing me to report upon the subject of discontinuing out-door relief to the able-bodied poor upon the 18th instant, I have to state, that I consider that from the immense number of poor in this Union, receiving relief under the 2nd section of the Act, and from the great want of employment in this part of the country, the greatest distress would ensue, if they are deprived of the relief they are at present receiving.

There are beyond 1000 men and their families, on the out-door relief lists; and I regret to say that but a very small portion of these are likely at present to be employed in the cultivation of the land.

Under these circumstances, I am of opinion that it will be absolutely necessary that the order authorizing out-door relief to the able-bodied poor in this Union, should be extended beyond the 18th instant.

The Guardians yesterday entered into a contract to have a fever shed, capable of containing 120 patients, built in the workhouse grounds adjoining the fever hospital.

This is quite necessary, as the hospitals are crowded to excess; and there are some cases of fever in the infirmary, which ought not to be left there; and I think it most advisable that the additional shed should be commenced as soon as possible.

I stated to the Guardians that the Commissioners would insist upon the salary of Richard Keffe, the relieving officer for Knockgraffon electoral division, being raised to 35*l.* a year, unless the Guardians could show any good reason for not doing so. They said that the work to be performed in that district was very trifling, compared to many others, and that should he resign there would be no difficulty in procuring a competent person to fill his place at 25*l.* a year.

This may be the case, but at the same time I think it can hardly be expected that any man can properly perform the duties of relieving officer, and give up his whole time for that purpose, for so small a remuneration; and if that system were acted upon, an inferior class of men could only be obtained to fill the situation; and the business connected with the office would not be carried on in a correct or satisfactory manner.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 16, 1848.

WITH reference to your recommendation that the order authorizing out-door relief to the able-bodied should be extended, I am to state that the Commissioners will give directions for its extension to the 1st April; and I am to request that you will report to the Commissioners whether in your opinion the state of the Union will then be such that the provisions of the accompanying order to Listowel Union would be carried into effect.

It will be observed, that under that order single men and men with only two children would be thrown on their own resources.

As regards the objection of the Guardians to the payment of 35*l.* per annum to the relieving officer for the Knockgraffon district, I am to state that as the district is small the Commissioners will sanction the payment of only 30*l.* a year, in order to meet the views of the Guardians.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 17, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that I yesterday attended the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians of this Union.

There being now room in the auxiliary house for about 170 men and their families, the relieving officers have been engaged, according to their instructions, in striking that number off their out-door relief lists, and offering them admission into the house.

This, however, has been refused by most of those to whom it was offered, and they have consequently received no relief this week. This clearly proves how much more efficacious the workhouse test is than any other, and the great advantage derived from being able to apply it to any persons respecting whose claims for relief the relieving officers have any doubt. The relieving officers have been directed to continue giving tickets for the house, until it is filled; and, consequently, I have no doubt the reduction on the out-door relief lists, during next week and the one following, will be very great.

I have, this week, examined minutely the collectors' books, and find an arrear of rate to be collected, amounting to about 6818*l.* I have given the collectors instructions as to how to act, with regard to any cases concerning which they had any doubt. They are, in general, getting in the rates as well as can be expected, but, in one instance, in which I thought the collector was not as diligent as he might be, I brought him before the Board of Guardians, when it was decided that he should be only allowed one month more to complete the collection, and, failing in that, should be proceeded against, as he was bound by his bond to have the amount collected within a certain time, which period has long since expired.

I have been also employed in giving the new clerk all the assistance in my power in filling up the different returns required by the Poor Law Commissioners, especially the one referred to in Circular No. 256, relating to the probable expenditure of the Union, up to the end of next September.

I have inspected the workhouse two or three times in every week. It is improving daily, as regards cleanliness, order, and the clothing and classification of the inmates.

It is not yet quite in the state I should wish it to be; but as soon as the fever-shed is built, which will enable us to remove the patients at present in the infirmary, and as soon as the cleaning of the cess-pools and the painting of the house is completed, I trust that the whole establishment will assume quite a different appearance to what it hitherto has had.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 21, 1848.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, in which you request that I will report to the Poor Law Commissioners whether it is my opinion that the state of this Union will be such upon the 1st of April that the provisions of the accompanying order to the Listowel Union could be carried into effect.

In reply I have the honour to inform you that I consider that, from the increased accommodation provided in the workhouse, and from the employment that will be given by the 1st of April, that single men and married men with only two children may at that time be refused out-door relief. But I am also of opinion that it will be quite necessary that the order should be extended for persons at present receiving relief under section 2 of the Act, but who are not included in either of the above-named classes.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 25, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to inform you that, on the expiration of the present order, the Commissioners will issue an order similar to that issued to Listowel Union, to which you refer. If, however, in the meantime any circumstances should come to your knowledge which may induce you to change your views, as stated in your report, the Commissioners request you will be so good as to report at once to them on the subject.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 23, 1848.

THE additional room that has been provided in the workhouse has been the means of greatly reducing the number on the relief lists. About 600 men have been offered admission, and refusing it, have been struck off the list, and there is still room for a great number.

The persons to whom the workhouse was first offered were single men, and in almost every instance it has been refused; and I recommended to the Guardians, at their meeting to-day, that the relieving officers should be directed to offer it next to married men with only two children. This was done; so that next week these two classes will either be received into the workhouse, or thrown upon their own resources.

In visiting part of this Union the day before yesterday, I was most happy to find that one electoral division (viz. Cloneen) was very much relieved by all the able-bodied men being given employment by the Earl of Clare, who is going to drain the whole of his property in that part of the country, and is about to expend a large sum for the purpose. This will be of the greatest possible benefit to the division; and it is very much to be regretted that works of the same description are not carried on in other parts of this district.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 26, 1848.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 25th instant, referring to my report of the 21st instant, in which I had stated "that I considered that relief might be refused to single men and men with only two children," and informing me that the Poor Law Commissioners would issue an order to that effect when the present order for out-door relief expires, and directing me if any circumstances came to my knowledge for inducing me to alter my opinion, as stated in that letter, to report to the Commissioners accordingly.

In reply I have the honour to state, that I find the number on the relief lists of the above-mentioned classes to be much greater than I then had reason to think. The relieving officers have been directed by the Guardians, at their last meeting, to offer them the workhouse; and I think, from the information I have received from the relieving officers, that there is a possibility of a sufficient number of them availing themselves of it to fill the house, and some of the remainder might suffer greatly from distress if it was out of the power of the Guardians to afford them out-door relief.

Under these circumstances I would respectfully recommend to the Poor Law Commissioners that married men with only two children should not be excluded in the order about to be issued, extending the out-door relief in this Union. At the same time I will take care that this class is not relieved out of the workhouse while there is any room available within it, and that the order allowing them to receive out-door relief shall only be acted upon in case of urgent necessity.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 29, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have directed that an order be issued continuing for a month all the authority to grant out-door relief under the 20th section of the Irish Relief Extension Act.

Single able-bodied men will, however, in accordance with your suggestion, be excluded.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 31, 1848.

THE relieving officers have, during the last week, in compliance with their directions, refused out-door relief, and offered the workhouse to all single men, and married men with only two children. These persons, however, have not as yet availed themselves of the permission to come into the house, and there is, to-day, room for above 200 paupers.

Previous to the resolution of the Guardians to refuse the out-door relief to these two classes, (viz., single men, and men with only two children), they had directed the relieving officers to offer the test of the workhouse to a certain number receiving relief under section 2 of the Act; most of these persons refused it, and some of them were men with very large families; and at the meeting of the Guardians yesterday they came to the determination (as will be seen by the minutes), to re-admit such persons on the out-door relief lists. I do not consider that this was advisable, while there was any room available in the house, and I endeavoured to dissuade the Board from doing so, as although I know that numbers of the people are in the greatest distress, I think that out-door relief should not be given to them when they refuse to come into the workhouse. I do not think, however, that under existing circumstances, this proceeding is of material consequence, as during the ensuing week the house may become full by the admission of those persons with only two children; and should that not be the case, I will, at the next meeting of the Guardians, get them to order the relieving officers to refuse out-door relief to men with only three children, and so on by degrees either fill the house, or strike off the relief lists all those at present relieved under section 2 of the Act.

I am glad to be able to say, that the state of the workhouse is, of late, very much improved. It is now kept exceedingly clean, and the entire building is being whitewashed and painted, which will soon be completed. The paupers are all properly classified, and I have induced the Guardians to order a sufficient supply of clothing which is being made up in the house, and a number of the elder boys are employed under a master in tailoring and shoemaking, where they are taught their trade.

The paupers (with the exception of those admitted during the week) are all clothed, and they are now perfectly healthy both as regards adults and children. I do not mean that the hospital and infirmary are not occupied, for they unfortunately are still very much crowded; but when the fever-shed which the Guardians have resolved to build is erected, it will be of the greatest possible benefit to the house, as the fever patients at present in the infirmary may then be moved out, and that building used as it was originally intended it should be.

As the boys have been moved to the auxiliary house, I have formed in their school-room an infant-school composed of children under five years of age. This is in charge of the mistress as well as the girls school, and we have found it to be of the greatest advantage, as it has reduced the numbers in the girls' school, which before was very much crowded. The paupers, both men and women, are kept employed all day; but, during this week, I found a slight symptom of insubordination among some of the men. The assistant-master reported to me that two of them refused to work, as they were ordered, at breaking freestone. I went with him, and in my presence they refused to work; I then immediately ordered the master to put them in confinement according to Article 41 of the Workhouse Rules, and to bring them before the Board at their next meeting; this was done yesterday, and they were committed to gaol by order of a magistrate, to be prosecuted at the petty sessions in accordance with the 58th section of Act 1 and 2 Vic., cap. 56. This will be a good example to any of the paupers who might be inclined to act in the same manner, and I have no doubt will quite prevent a recurrence of such conduct.

I have been able to effect a most useful change in the manner in which the Board of Guardians perform their business. They used not to meet till near 1 o'clock, and then a great part of the day was lost in unnecessary discussions.

This always made it necessary to have an adjourned meeting next day, when they used to sign the relieving officers' books, and when there were generally only three Guardians present. This also was a great loss of time to the relieving officers.

I have now induced the Board to meet at 10 o'clock, and to examine the relieving officers' books before any other business is transacted; and I endeavour, as far as possible, to have whatever is before the Board attended to, and to prevent all useless discussion. The consequence is, there is much more system and regularity in the proceedings, and the necessity for an adjourned meeting is obviated.

I may also remark here, that in this as well as in everything else I have been engaged in, I have received the greatest aid and co-operation from Mr. Keating, the Chairman, who is always most ready to devote his time and influence in assisting me to carry out whatever I may consider beneficial to the Union.

I have, during this week, carefully examined the collectors' books.

They have collected during the week beyond 450*l.*, and I think are using their best exertions to collect the remainder.

They have great difficulty to contend with from the extreme poverty of numbers of the rate-payers, and in parts of the Union can obtain nothing without distraining.

There are one or two points respecting the collection of rates in this town, concerning which, I would request the instructions of the Commissioners.

In the case of a house being untenanted for several years, is the landlord, during that time, obliged to pay rates for it; and if not, when it becomes occupied, can the collector distrain for the arrears due upon it as well as for the present rate?

Also—Does a court-house come under the head of “buildings used exclusively for public purposes,” and become thus exempt from rate?

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 5, 1848.

THE Commissioners entirely approve of the prompt steps taken by you to check the insubordination which was apparently arising in the workhouse. They think, also, that the change in the hour of meeting from 1 o'clock, P.M., to 10 o'clock, A.M., as suggested by you to the Guardians is judicious.

With reference to your questions regarding the collection of the rates, I am to state, that the Commissioners are of opinion that a house unoccupied at the time the rate was made was not properly rateable; and although a rate is payable until quashed or amended on appeal, the Commissioners would not recommend the Guardians, under the circumstances stated, the house having been untenanted for several years, to take any proceedings to enforce payment.

This observation, however, does not apply to a furnished house in possession of a caretaker, for which, when untenanted, the landlord is liable to be rated as an occupier.

The Commissioners believe that a court-house comes within the proviso to the 63rd section of the Irish Poor Relief Act, and is therefore exempt from poor-rates, except as regards any beneficial occupation beyond that which is necessary to the discharge of the duties of the offices connected with it.

The Commissioners enclose, for your information, a copy of a letter which they have this day addressed to the Board of Guardians in reference to their resolution to re-admit on the out-door relief lists certain parties who had refused relief in the workhouse.

ENCLOSURE.

The COMMISSIONERS to the CLERK of the UNION:—April 5, 1848.

THE Commissioners have received a report from their inspector, Mr. Robinson, in which he adverts to a resolution passed by the Board of Guardians of Cashel Union on Thursday last, to re-admit on the out-door relief lists a number of able-bodied men who had previously been receiving out-door relief, but having been offered admission into the workhouse had refused it.

The Commissioners deem it necessary to request that the Guardians will be so good as to re-consider this resolution. It appears obvious on a consideration of the terms of the 2nd section of the Irish Relief Extension Act, that the Legislature did not contemplate out-door relief being given to the able-bodied in any case in which the workhouse could be made available for their relief.

Now, in the present instance, it appears there was room in the workhouse for above 200 persons, and although the Guardians have, at present, authority to administer out-door relief under the 2nd section, the Commissioners think that that authority should not be resorted to in new cases, while there is so large an amount of available room in the workhouse.

The Commissioners attach much importance to this point as they fear the tendency of the Guardians' resolution may be, to materially weaken the efficacy of the workhouse as a means of checking and preventing imposition and fraud. All experience has shown that many able-bodied men will accept relief out of the workhouse, rather than endeavour to support themselves and their families by independent labour, but that rather than accept relief in the workhouse they will use every means in their power to obtain employment; and it appears to be proved by experience, that if they failed in doing so and are really destitute, they will accept relief in the workhouse. The workhouse thus acts as a stimulus to industry in such cases, but it would not so act and might be altogether inefficacious, if it were generally supposed by the able-bodied poor, that on refusing relief in the workhouse, they would be granted relief out of it.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 7, 1848.

THE Commissioners' letter was read to the Board, stating their disapproval of the course pursued by the Guardians at their last meeting, viz., admitting persons on the out-door relief, who had refused the workhouse test. I pointed out to the Guardians the absolute necessity of applying the workhouse test to persons on the out-door relief list, and the injustice towards the rate-payers, of permitting out-door relief to be going on, while there was any room available in the house, and I induced them to pass a resolution, directing the relieving officers to cease re-admitting on their out-door relief lists, those who had refused the workhouse test, and further, not to give out-door relief under section 2 of the Act, to any fresh applicants, until the workhouse is filled. I am sorry to say that I met a great deal of opposition from several of the Guardians respecting offering the test of the workhouse to the poor, some of them said, that when a man came into the workhouse, his own house was always pulled down, and thus he was made a permanent pauper: others said, that it was a greater expense relieving a person in the house than out of it; and on my wishing them to order the test to be applied this week, to that class, viz., men with only four in family, they came to the determination to defer doing so until the next Board-day. They have, however, promised that if by that time the house is not filled, they will issue that order, and, as I think there is little probability of its being then full, I will bring the matter again before the Board, and will inform the Commissioners of the result. There is at present room in the house for beyond 200 persons.

I attended at the petty sessions this week, where the men whom I mentioned in my last report as having refused to obey the master, were brought up before the magistrates; one was sentenced to a month, the other to three weeks' imprisonment with hard labour; there has been since then no appearance of insubordination among the men, and they are now very obedient and orderly.

I have to request that you would inform me, whether the Commissioners will sanction the building of the timber shed the Guardians have resolved to erect in the workhouse grounds. I am sorry to say, that I fear that fever is rather increasing than diminishing in this country, and this, as well as the crowded state of our infirmary, makes it most desirable that this shed should be completed as soon as possible.

I have also to request that you would have the goodness to have forwarded to me, an account of what is due by this Union and each electoral division respectively, for advances made to them by Government, under the Temporary Relief Act. There is no document whatever in the hands of the Guardians showing this; and I can get no information here upon the subject: and as the Guardians purpose, either this month or next, striking a new rate, it is essential to know the amount for which the Union is in debt, in order that repayment of the advances may be provided for, in any electoral division, in which the rate required for ordinary expenditure does not amount to 2s. 11d. in the pound.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 12, 1848.

WITH reference to the objections made by the Guardians to offering the workhouse to the able-bodied, I am to request that you will again urge the views of the Commissioners in this respect on the Board of Guardians, and explain to them that the point is one on which neither the Commissioners nor the Guardians have any discretionary power. You will observe that the second section of the Irish Relief Extension Act is clear and express upon this point, and only empowers the Commissioners to authorize out-door relief to the able-bodied, in case it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, that by reason of want of room in the workhouse, adequate relief cannot be afforded therein, or in case the workhouse, by reason of fever or infectious disease is unfit for the reception of poor persons. Now the Commissioners are not aware that fever or infectious disease prevails in the workhouse, and you inform them in your report that there is room for more than 200 persons; and under these circumstances, it is a question with the Commissioners, whether they ought not to rescind their order, authorizing out-door relief in the Cashel Union, under the 2nd section of the Irish Relief Extension Act. The Commissioners, however, have not done so, because they do not wish to embarrass the Guardians, but at the same time, they can only consent to the continuance of the authority, on the distinct understanding that the workhouse is to be made as extensively available as possible for the relief of the able-bodied, before the authority given by the order to relieve that class out of the workhouse is resorted to.

With reference to the statement, that the expense of relieving a person in the workhouse is greater than it would be to relieve him out of it, I am to draw your attention to a letter addressed by the Commissioners to the Rathkeale Board of Guardians on this subject in November last, and printed on the Fourth Series of Papers presented to Parliament, relating to proceedings for Relief of the Distress in Ireland (page 162).

A copy of the letter in question is enclosed, as it is possible that you may not have the printed correspondence at hand.

The Commissioners trust that the prompt steps taken to put down the insubordination in the workhouse, and the punishment which has been inflicted on some of the ringleaders will have a beneficial effect on the discipline of the establishment.

With reference to the proposed timber shed for the reception of fever patients, the Commissioners do not, under the circumstances stated by you, offer any objection to the erection of the shed, but they advise that it should be so placed, and so economically constructed, as not to be reckoned as part of the workhouse buildings available for general purposes hereafter.

The Commissioners have directed that a statement be prepared, and forwarded to you, showing what is due by the Union and each electoral division, for advances under the Temporary Relief Act.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. ROBINSON:—April 17, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a copy of a constabulary report which they have received from the Chief Secretary's department, relating to the death of Michael Dwyer on the 6th instant in the Cashel Union, and I am to request you will make such inquiry into the circumstances as may enable you to report to the Commissioners as to the facts of the case.

Cashel Union.

EXTRACT from CONSTABULARY REPORT.

County of Tipperary, S. R., Killenaule, April 10, 1848.

AN inquest was held on the 7th instant on the body of Michael Dwyer, who died on the 6th; and two of his children have since died of diarrhoea. He was receiving out-door relief.

Copy of Verdict.

That deceased died from want of a sufficiency of nutritious food after recovering from diarrhoea.

Inspector-General, &c. &c.JAMES MONOHAN, Sub-Inspector.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 19, 1848.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, dated April 17th, enclosing a constabulary report relative to the death on the 8th instant of Michael Dwyer in the Cashel Union, and requesting me to report to the Poor Law Commissioners as to the facts of the case; and, in reply, I have the honour to state, that I have examined the relieving officer of the electoral division of Killenaule upon the subject, and find that Michael Dwyer was receiving out-door relief for himself and his family up to the day of his death. He had applied at one time to be taken into the workhouse, and the relieving officer offered him admission for himself and his family, but this he refused, as he wished to be taken in himself and to leave his family out.

He had been ill from diarrhoea, but had never made any complaint to the relieving officer as to the description of food he was receiving.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 14, 1848.

I AM happy to be able to state that the proceedings at the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians were much more satisfactory than those of the former meeting. I informed the Board of the contents of the Poor Law Commissioners' letter to me, respecting the continuance of out-door relief while there was any room available in the house, and I explained to them the illegality of such a proceeding, and the folly (as well as the injustice to the rate-payers) of incurring such a very great expense for out-door relief, when it might be so materially diminished by the workhouse test being properly applied.

I said I did not consider it advisable to cease giving out-door relief under section 2 of the Act all at once, but that what I wished was that it should be done by degrees, and the test offered to different classes every week (according to the size of their families), and thus to continue, until the house was filled, or the out-door relief lists cleared.

With one or two exceptions the Guardians agreed with me; and it was resolved that "the relieving officers should be directed to offer the workhouse test to, and strike off the out-door relief lists, all men with only four dependents who are at present receiving relief under section 2 of the Act."

If this does not fill the house by the next Board-day, I will recommend that the same order be issued with respect to men who have only five or six dependents. The relieving officers were also directed, for the present, not to send into the workhouse persons who were sick and infirm, and receiving relief under section 1, as it is desirable to reserve the available room in the house for the purpose of testing the able-bodied. There is at present room in the house for 204 persons.

I found that the collectors and some of the relieving officers were very irregular in their attendance at the workhouse to have their books examined by the clerk, and I, therefore, appointed the days and the hours for the attendance of each, and a resolution was passed yesterday by the Board directing them to attend accordingly; and they have all been warned that, in any instance of the order not being complied with, the officer so neglecting it will be prosecuted, in accordance with section 102 of Act 1 and 2 Vic., c. 56.

The propriety of striking a new rate was yesterday discussed by the Board. Some of the Guardians were of opinion that it should be done at once; but the majority decided that it would not be advisable to do so at present, while there is such a large amount of arrears uncollected.

There appears an arrear at present of beyond 6000*l.*, but the warrants include 679*l.* which was embezzled by former collectors, which leaves 1531*l.*, and of this there is a great deal which can never be collected—from mistakes in the valuation, the great poverty of parts of the Union, houses that have been pulled down, &c.; and I do not think that it can be calculated that more than 4000*l.* can ever be got in from this rate.

I do not think that the collectors are neglecting their duty. I frequently and carefully examine their books, and urge upon them the necessity of making every possible exertion to compel the collection, and give them instructions as how to act in cases of any difficulty. I have to request that you would inform me of the opinion of the Poor Law Commissioners respecting the propriety of striking a new rate in this Union, under existing circumstances.

I stated to the Guardians that the Commissioners would sanction the building of the fever shed, and the contractor was ordered to commence it forthwith; but, at my suggestion, it was agreed with him that, when one-half was completed, if the Guardians found that fever was very much on the decrease, and they considered the other half was not required, it would be optional with them to stop its being built, and one-half of the sum agreed upon in the contract should in that case only be charged.

I fear that fever is on the increase in the country at present; but by the time that one-half of the shed is built, the Guardians will be better able to judge as to the increased accommodation they may require for fever patients.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 19, 1848.

WITH reference to your question, as to the expediency of striking a new rate, the Commissioners would not recommend, that with so large a sum as 6000*l.* remaining on the books, 4000*l.* of which is said to be collectable, the present collection should be stopped, for the purpose of making a new rate, but as it is of the greatest importance that sufficient rates should be made to keep the Union in funds, and enable the Guardians efficiently to carry on the relief of the destitute poor in the Union, the Commissioners suggest, that the amount of the new rate which will be required should be taken into immediate consideration; that when the poundage is determined on, the new rate books should be at once put in course of preparation, that a definite time should be fixed for closing the present rate, within which time the collectors should be urged to complete the collection as closely as possible, and by the expiration of which time the new rate books and collecting books should be ready; the collectors should then close their accounts, and hand over the old collecting books, and the outstanding arrear could then be carried forward into the new books, and the new rate be put in course of collection.

MR. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 14, 1848.

IN accordance with Circular, dated April 11, I have the honour to forward to the Poor Law Commissioners the name of a pauper in this Union, applying for relief, for the purpose of emigration, and to request that you will inform me whether, under the circumstances of the case, the Guardians will be authorized in granting the relief required.

This woman's husband is in America, and has sent to her to go to him. He paid the passage-money for herself and family to the captain of a ship now in Waterford. The relief she applies for is, to enable her to get clothes and provisions for the voyage.

I have seen the persons named in this list, and consider them fit and proper persons to emigrate; and I have no reason to doubt, that the able-bodied of the family ought to be able to provide by their labour for the maintenance of the whole.

One child at present is ill in fever, but it is hoped will soon be sufficiently well to be removed.

April 14, 1848.

HENRY ROBINSON, Temporary Poor Law Inspector.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 18, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state, that there are strong objections to the expenditure of the poor-rates, in defraying the cost of emigration under such circumstances. It would, in fact, operate as a direct premium on desertion, by leading husbands and parents to expect, that if they themselves emigrated, they could have their families sent after them at the cost of the Union.

Moreover, the Commissioners consider that there can be no security that a man who would desert his family, and leave them chargeable upon the poor-rates in this country, would not as readily leave them unprovided for in America, at any time that it might suit his interest or his inclination to do so.

The Commissioners must therefore decline to sanction the expenditure of any sum from the poor-rates, in defraying the cost of the emigration of Mary Connell and her family.

MR. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 22, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to inform the Poor Law Commissioners, that at the weekly meeting of the Board of Guardians, held upon yesterday, and at which I was present, a number of men, amounting to about 100, (who had been struck off the out-door relief lists, and offered admission to the poor-house,) assembled round the door, and demanded out-door relief, but refused to come into the house. The Board sent for two of them, and we explained to them that it was out of our power and contrary to law, to give them out-door relief, while we had room in the house, and we offered to take them all in; and we said, that was the only answer we could give to them all. Shortly after, the mob began to be rather noisy, and suddenly forced through the open door, and rushed up to the Board-room, filling the passages and the hall.

They were mostly all armed with hammers and sticks; there was no magistrate present at the time, and fearing that they might break into the body of the house, I ordered the master to go round, and lock all the doors and gates in the house, and I spoke to the men, and told them, that if they would leave the Board-room and passages, I, with the Guardians, would explain the matter to them outside. This I persuaded them to do, and when I got them out, I told them it was totally out of our power, to do what they wanted, but that they should all be relieved in the house if they wished.

They would not hear of this, and said, what they required was, immediate out-door relief, and finding that some of them were becoming rather violent, I begged of the Guardians present to keep them quiet as long as they could, and I went to Mr. Ffrench, the resident magistrate, and told him I considered it would be necessary to have some force ready in case of a riot.

This he immediately ordered, and returned with me to the workhouse. We met the Rev. Mr. Ryan, P.P., who accompanied us, and they both explained to the mob, that what they wanted could not possibly be granted, and that the only relief the Guardians were entitled by law to give them, under the present circumstances, was admission to the house.

After a great deal of persuasion and talking, Mr. Ffrench prevailed upon the mob to disperse, and out of the whole number only four or five came into the house, showing evidently by this, that the object of the whole was merely to intimidate the Guardians, and force on out-door relief; they also seemed to have formed an idea, that the numbers who were being refused out-door relief every week, was owing altogether to my influence, and that I might order it to be continued to any person I pleased; I am sorry to say that I have remarked this feeling in several parts of this Union, and I believe it has arisen from this fact, that I suspect some of the Guardians and others have been in the habit, when complaints have been made to them by the poor, of laying the odium totally upon me, instead of giving the proper reason, viz., that we are all obliged to obey the law, and the different orders we from time to time receive. I believe it is also well known that some of the elected Guardians would have been willing to continue out-door relief, even while there was room in the house, and that I have been obliged to use every exertion, and insist that the law should be carried into effect. I consider all this particularly unfortunate, as it lessens the influence I might have with the people, when they think it is in my power to grant what is refused, or that there is a possibility of my being forced into compliance. I hope, however, that our having been firm with them yesterday, and positively refusing their demands, will have a good effect upon them, and prevent a recurrence of such scenes.

At the meeting of the Guardians yesterday, a resolution was passed, requesting the Commissioners to renew the order for out-door relief to the 20th of May.

I consider that this will be necessary, as there is a number at present receiving out-door relief, whom it would not be possible to strike off, also there is a number of able-bodied women, receiving relief under section 2 of the Act, to whom the workhouse test has not yet been offered. The order being renewed, will not, I think, prevent the Guardians from gradually reducing the out-door relief lists until the house is filled.

The letter from the Commissioners, stating that they disapproved of additional diet being allowed to paupers employed in responsible situations in the house, was read to the Board, and the master was ordered not to issue such extra rations in future, except to two men, who are employed in whitewashing the fever hospital, to whom the Board considered it would be most advisable to continue it, as the work they are engaged in is quite different from that of any of the other paupers, and their having extra diet, would lessen to them the danger of infection.

I think the view the Guardians have taken of this is just, and that (if the Commissioners would sanction it), men employed in the fever hospital might be considered exceptions to the general rule.

The relieving officers in this Union receive daily applications for relief from women whose husbands have deserted them. They have hitherto given them relief, as otherwise these women and their children would starve, but as a general rule, I think it is very objectionable, as it encourages men to desert their wives and children, knowing that when thus left, they will receive relief from the rates. In every case an attempt is made to discover where the husband has gone to, in order that he may be prosecuted, but in general without any success.

I have to request that you would inform me, what, in the opinion of the Poor Law Commissioners, it would be most advisable to do, under such circumstances.

Since I have written the above, I have received an anonymous letter, stating "that if I did not give relief to the poor, death would be my lot, and that all the army in Cashel would not save me, so that I might get my coffin ready." I mention this to the Commissioners, as it entirely corroborates what I before stated, that the people all are of opinion, that it is altogether in my power to stop or to continue issuing out-door relief as I think proper.

The Commissioners, however, may rest assured that these circumstances shall not in the least intimidate me in the performance of my duty, or induce me to follow any course different from what I may consider it most advisable to adopt.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 24, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners much regret that you should have been exposed to attempts at intimidation in the honest discharge of your duty; but they do not doubt that the magistrates of the Union will give you that protection which the circumstances of the case may require.

The Commissioners deem it highly desirable that not a single Guardian shall have reason to assert that he is ignorant of the provisions of the law respecting out-door relief, and they have accordingly sent to each Guardian in Ireland a little manual containing information on the subject; but the Commissioners have more than once addressed the Board of Guardians thereon, in order that no means may be left untried for removing misconception amongst the labouring classes on this head.

Further LETTER from the COMMISSIONERS to Mr. ROBINSON :—

April 26, 1848.

ADVERTING to that part of your report of the 22nd instant relative to Cashel Union, on which you state that the Guardians have passed a resolution requesting the Commissioners to renew the order for out-door relief to the 20th May, and you recommend compliance with their request, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they have given directions for the preparation of an order in compliance with the Guardians' request. The order will be issued before the existing order expires, and the Commissioners will address the Guardians by this night's post, urging upon them the importance of making such arrangements as will enable them, by the time the renewed order expires, to provide sufficient relief for all the destitute poor in the Union without having further recourse to the provisions of the 2nd section of the Irish Relief Extension Act.

The Commissioners will raise no objection to the extra diet which has been allowed by the Guardians to the men who are employed whitewashing the fever wards, provided the medical officer is of opinion that such extra diet is necessary under the circumstances, and is calculated to lessen the danger of infection.

The Commissioners concur with you in thinking that affording relief to women and children whose husbands and parents have deserted them may operate as an encouragement to desertion. Still, where the destitution of such women and children is undoubted, it is the duty of the Guardians to relieve them. The Commissioners would recommend that in all such cases the relief afforded should be in the workhouse; that efforts should be made to discover the husband or parent with a view to his being punished, under the 2nd section of the Irish Vagrant Act (10 and 11 Vic., c. 84); and with this view hand-bills might be circulated, offering a reward for his apprehension; the relief in such cases might also be deemed to be given by way of loan, and the cost price of such relief would then be recoverable, under the 55th section of the Irish Poor Relief Act, from the husband or parent.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS :—April 26, 1848.

THE Commissioners have received a report from their Inspector, Mr. Robinson, in which he adverts to the resolution passed by the Board of Guardians of the Cashel Union on the 20th instant, requesting that the order authorizing out-door relief under the 2nd section of the Irish Relief Extension Act may be continued until the 20th of May next, and Mr. Robinson recommends that this request be complied with.

The Commissioners have accordingly given directions for the preparation of an order, in compliance with the Guardians' request, as they are apprehensive, from the large number of persons who are receiving out-door relief in the Cashel Union, that the sudden withdrawal of the authority to administer such relief might be attended with inconvenience and embarrassment to the Board of Guardians.

The Commissioners, however, desire to impress upon the Board of Guardians the great importance not only to the rate-payers, but also to the poor themselves, that an effort should be made at this period to break through the habit of dependence on the rates for support, and to induce the able-bodied poor to rely more upon their own exertions. With this view, the Commissioners would recommend the Guardians gradually to reduce the out-door relief lists, by striking off from time to time such of the able-bodied recipients as there is reason to believe could obtain independent employments if they exerted themselves for that purpose, and by making the workhouse as extensively available as possible for the relief of the able-bodied men and their families, and, if necessary, by taking steps to increase the existing workhouse accommodation; so that, on the expiration of the time to which the new order will be limited, the Guardians may be in a position to administer adequate relief to all the destitute poor in the Union, without having further recourse to the provisions of the 20th section of the Irish Relief Extension Act.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 27, 1848.

A LARGE number of men, amounting to about 150, from the electoral division of Fethard, who had been struck off the out-door relief list, came to the door of the workhouse to demand relief. I had been informed by the relieving officer that he knew they intended to do so, and therefore I sent for some police in case they might attempt any violence. We then told them that they would be taken into the house when they brought a ticket from their relieving officer, and came with their families, but we refused to give them out-door relief or to admit them without their families.

The relieving officer for Fethard was present, who informed us that he had told them before that they could not be admitted to the house without their families; it was therefore evidently a scheme, got up in order to try to fill the house, and thus to force on the out-door relief. When they found the Guardians were determined about the matter they dispersed, and said they would return to-morrow with their families, but I do not think that many will do so, and if they should, I have no doubt but that we shall be able to admit them all. I am quite sure that if they do come in most of them will not remain more than a day, as it is evidently a plan, fixed upon by them, to endeavour to fill up all the available space in the workhouse.

There was little business of importance transacted by the Board this day, as they were engaged nearly the whole day in examining and accepting tenders for meal and other provisions for the ensuing month.

I brought before the notice of the Board the financial state of the Union; the very large amount of its liabilities, and the very small amount of the weekly collections. It was resolved, that the collectors should be ordered to make out lists of all persons owing rate to the amount of 2*l.* and upwards. This list will be laid before the Board at their next meeting, and such directions given to each collector with respect to the different defaulters as will leave him no choice as to how he must act.

I have been in the habit of doing this myself every fortnight, but I anticipate good results from its being done by the Guardians, who, of course, must have much more local knowledge than I can have, and be better aware of the circumstances of the different persons who will appear on the collectors' lists.

The Guardians, at my request, resolved on next Thursday to elect an assistant porter to take charge of the gate at the auxiliary house. This duty has been performed hitherto by a pauper, but the house is situated in the centre of the town, and I consider that it is not advisable that the situation should be filled by any other than a paid officer, who must be responsible for what passes in or out of the workhouse.

Mr. ROBINSON to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 28, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report to the Poor Law Commissioners, that upon yesterday evening, I again received a notice, threatening my life. I annex a copy of the letter (as nearly as I can write it).

Mr. Hancock, Poor Law Inspector, was here at the time, and at his recommendation I have lodged information upon the subject, with the stipendiary magistrate, to whom I have given the original letter.

Both he and the police officer are of opinion, that there is a possibility of finding out the person by whom it was written. It was evidently in the same handwriting as the one I had received upon that day week.

“ ROBERTS, I again caution you for this time and no more, i have given you a chance, and you did not take that chance, but by the Emmaculate God you may Prepare your coffin,

P

Cashel Union.

i have left wide in the shoulders for you have narrow and vagabond shoulders, mark my words for this.

“ A Cashel man shall crush your feet you Ruffin.”

A true Copy.

REPLY to the foregoing :—May 2, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners feel much concern that you should have again received a threatening notice; they are glad, however, to learn that there is a probability that the writer will be discovered, and they do not doubt that every necessary protection will be afforded to you by the magistrates and the police.

ENNISKILLEN UNION.

Mr. D'ARCY, Temporary Inspector of Ballyshannon Union, to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 2, 1848.

IN obedience to your commands I came to Enniskillen on the 28th ultimo, and have now the honour of reporting generally on its condition, the state of its funds, amount of liabilities, and the relief which is being afforded to the destitute.

Immediately on my arrival I went to the workhouse and inspected every part of it. The house itself is well kept, clean, and orderly; and the master seems attentive and intelligent. The yards and sewerage are in a wretched state.

The clothing of the paupers is very defective, being much worn and not sufficient in quantity. The master told me there was not a change of linen for the females whilst that which was soiled was being washed.

When I had finished the examination of the house I sent for the clerk, who had not left it long before; and when I obtained his attendance, I commenced arrangements to enable me to obtain the necessary information upon which to make this report, and directed him to communicate with the several collectors that I should require their attendance at the workhouse on Wednesday, the 1st of March instant, with their collecting and receipt books.

Tuesday, the 29th of February, I again visited the workhouse, and commenced the examination of the documents calculated to show the state of the Union as regarded its debts, and ability and prospect of discharging them. As I was thus engaged some of the relieving officers entered the Board-room, and I took their Application and Report Books to ascertain what amount of relief was afforded, and on what principle; and I must say I found it totally inadequate to support the recipients—in some cases not so much as 3d. for each individual of a family being allowed weekly,—and of which I give the following instances, as taken from the books of the relieving officers then present:—

Manor of Carrick Relief District.

- Catherine Smith (widow) with six children, weekly allowance, 1s. 8d.
- William Ross (lame and infirm) with wife and five children, weekly allowance, 2s.
- Anne M'Kinley (widow) with two children, aged respectively 14 and 12 years, weekly allowance, 1s.
- Pat Curren (dropsical) wife and five children, weekly allowance, 2s.

Ballyreagh Relief District.

- Miles M'Cann (in fever) wife and six children, 2s. 4d. weekly allowance.
- Catherine Bannon (widow) and four children, 1s. 4d. weekly allowance.
- Sarah Donnelly (widow, sickly) with two children, aged respectively 14 and 11 years, 1s. weekly allowance.

Tempo Relief District.

- Rose Maguire and three children (widow, this is a case of great distress,) allowed weekly 1s. 4d.
- Elizabeth Maguire and three children (widow, has been in Armagh asylum nearly two years and continues ill,) 1s. weekly allowance.

Holywell Relief District.

- Andrew Millar (widower, ruptured,) with four children, 1s. 8d. weekly allowance

Enniskillen Union.

I could multiply instances such as the foregoing; in fact all the cases that came under my observation were of the same sort, and about the same scale of allowance, except single individuals, old and infirm; that description of case being allowed 8*d.* per week. The general rule they adopt is to allow 8*d.* for adults, and 4*d.* for those dependent upon them; but should the family be large they throw out the youngest or two youngest of the children, not even allowing the miserable weekly sum of 4*d.* for them all.

As I was thus engaged with the books of the relieving officers the Guardians began to assemble, as it happened to be Board-day. I stated to them that I did not attend or come here as Inspector; that I came for the purpose of examining the condition of the Union generally, and I should therefore retire to the clerk's office to prosecute my inquiry, which I accordingly did.

After some time the clerk came to me saying that the Guardians wished to see me, and I at once returned to the Board-room. The Chairman asked me, if from what I saw of their workhouse, &c., I had anything to suggest to them. Again mentioning I did not do so at all in the capacity of Inspector, I told them I thought the out-door relief afforded by them quite insufficient; and that they should make provision for the relief of persons in fever; that the relieving officers told me "that fever and other infectious disease was very prevalent in their several districts, and they found the guardians so stringent that they were afraid to afford medical relief." I pointed out the awful consequences that must ensue should cholera visit this country and find the inhabitants predisposed to its influence from these causes. I then directed their attention to the great want of sufficient day-room accommodation in their workhouse, especially for females and children. The number of the former in the house was 368, and of the latter (that is, infants under two years) 45. The female day-room is only 28 feet 4 inches long by 15 feet 10 inches wide, and the nursery 17 feet 6 inches by 16 feet 6 inches. I told them I had been through the workhouse the previous evening, and that I saw the women sitting on the floor in the day-room packed as closely as possible—in fact wedged together—and that this must be a fruitful source of disease; the doors and windows of the room were all open, and still the smell was most offensive.

I inquired of them had they made any provision for additional workhouse accommodation; they replied they had not, that it could not be obtained in Enniskillen. This, I said, I could hardly understand, as it is a town of considerable size; and in Ballyshannon, so much less, and so miserable compared to it, the Guardians had taken two houses, and found owners just now very glad to get tenants.

When I left the Board-room, Dr. Nixon, the medical officer, asked me if I had any objection to go with him through the infirmary and hospitals, and I at once accompanied him.

To explain how the hospitals are situated as regards the workhouse, it is necessary to describe the position it stands in: Lough Erne, which washes Enniskillen, separates the town from the workhouse, and a boat is kept by the Guardians to convey persons backwards and forwards.

The first of these auxiliaries to the workhouse infirmary which I shall notice is that called Hall's-lane fever hospital, and is in the town.

The second stands on the workhouse ground, and is a thatched cabin, dignified by the appellation of the cottage.

The third is a wooden building, also on the workhouse ground, called the recovery, or wooden house.

The total number under medical treatment upon this day was 242; of these 107 were in fever and small-pox, which cannot now be stayed by vaccination, as the doctor told me he has been obliged to give that practice up, from the reduced condition of the children from want of food and sufficient diet, as the incision made in the arm to receive the infection becomes a sloughing gangrene, which produces almost certain death.

Upon entering Hall's-lane fever hospital, I found but one room habitable, as the roof of the rest of the house had fallen in, (the particulars of which will be found in extracts from Dr. Nixon's reports, which I transmit); in this room were 13 fever patients in seven beds.

The cottage contained 44 patients and two assistants in 20 beds; of this number 29 were in one room, 18 feet long by 16 wide. Immediately previous to my visit there had been five children in one bed, three of whom were in fever and two in small-pox; they had just been removed as I entered the room—two still remaining, one in fever and one in small-pox.

No statement of mine can convey an idea of the wretched condition the inmates of this house were in; I have frequently heard the horrors of Skibbereen quoted, but they can hardly have exceeded these.

The recovery-house, so called, contained 39 persons, when I went through it; the doctor assured me more deaths had taken place here in consequence of dropsy and dysentery, induced by the damp, than from actual fever.

I was informed by Mr. Fee, one of the Guardians, that from the 1st of January, 1847, to 1st of October following, 800 deaths had occurred amongst the workhouse paupers. The papers which follow, marked Enclosure No. I., are extracts from the doctor's reports to the Board.

Wednesday, the 1st of March, I went by appointment to the workhouse, to meet the collectors, and I desired they should make me out a list of the Guardians who owed their rates upon the 29th of February, and also the immediate lessors. I found great reluctance on the part of some to do so, evidently wishing to screen the parties; and I warned them to be cautious how they attempted to deceive me, as I would swear them to the truth of their lists. One or two stated that the landlords would not pay for the tenants under 4*l.* value, for whom they were liable, and insisted they should levy it off the tenants; another collector, Mr. Morrison, stated, that even the magistrates did not support the collectors; and gave an instance, where he had summoned for rates on the 26th ultimo, the magistrates refused to go into the cases, and adjourned them for three weeks.

This moment, as I write, I am informed that Guardians and immediate lessors are making, or are about to make payments, hoping to avoid my returning them in arrear; and I am told, in consequence, this week's collection will be three times larger than last. If I am permitted I shall return here for a day in the next week to report the sum so paid, and the difference as between it and that of the previous week's collection. The lists of arrears here follow, Enclosure, No. II., and the names of Guardians who have not yet paid.

The Enclosure III. is a statement in tabular form, showing the date the rate was made, and its amount collected and uncollected up to the 31st of January last: the last monthly accounts are not yet completed.

Enclosure IV. is a statement of the liabilities of the Union, &c., and the sum, if they were discharged, that would remain for the purposes of relief.

Upon a careful consideration of the position of this Union, and a general review of its affairs, I am satisfied it must proceed from bad to worse if the Commissioners do not exercise some control; and I am equally convinced that a little energy and determination would speedily collect the present rate: were that once accomplished, and a different system pursued in future, that is to say, to purchase for cash, and not on credit of a doubtful description; to estimate carefully and strike sufficient rates to meet demands; to attend regularly as a Board, determined to perform their duty and overcome their difficulties; I am convinced, I say again, that such a course would enable the Guardians of this wealthy Union to maintain their paupers on very moderate rates; but if the former course is persevered in, and contractors paid double prices for every article consumed, it must finally result in the bankruptcy of the Union, and the ruin of the rate-payers.

ENCLOSURES.

I.

Copies of Reports made to the Enniskillen Board of Guardians by the Medical Officer, in the months of January and February of the present year:—

Tuesday, January 4th.—Had to order plank down to the recovery-house, as there is not a portion of the floor dry in the male side except where the beds are standing. This order bears date the 3rd.

Have to report that the roof of one-half of the temporary fever hospital in Hall's-lane fell in yesterday; the other half is unsafe, and can only contain about 15 patients in a miserable way.

Would wish to know how the cases of fever now arising over 100 are to be provided for, as I am ordered not to admit more than that number.

Tuesday, 11th.—Have to report that the roof of the temporary fever hospital further gave way on the evening of the 7th instant; in consequence was obliged to have most of the patients brought across the lake, in the rain, at 11 o'clock at night, to their great injury. Since then have had it partially shored up. Further, the accommodation for fever patients is quite insufficient for the cases arising in the house, and there is at present a person affected with that disease seeking admission. Under these circumstances, would wish to know how I am to act, as those at present suffering from fever are in a miserable state for want of room.

January 16th. (Read to Board on 18th).—Most of the deaths occur in the fever department, and are caused by those in the recovery-house getting improper diet. This morning one died in consequence. The causes before mentioned also affect the inmates of same materially.

Tuesday, 25th.—Have to report again the want of accommodation for fever patients, nothing having been done since last meeting. On Saturday night was called up to Hall's-lane hospital, another portion of the roof of which was giving way; had to get assistance and plank to prop it up; and on Sunday had to get more assistance for like purpose. It is more than probable that the house will all fall in when the thaw comes on after this severe frost.

February 16th.—The accommodation for fever patients and small-pox still continues insufficient. There are 37 patients in 18 bedsteads; some of them afflicted with small-pox. The latter disease is increasing.

26th.—The want of clothing, particularly for children, is such that cleanliness cannot be observed.

Tuesday, 29th.—I beg to report that some additional accommodation should be at once provided for persons affected with fever and small-pox, the latter of which is increasing. In consequence of the hospital in Hall's-lane, the cottage on shore is over-crowded; there being at present 46, and only room for 20 bedsteads; some in small-pox, some in fever.

The medical Poor Law Commissioner reported this house only fit for 20 patients.

In the emergency, ordered one probationary ward to be allocated for the reception of persons affected with small-pox until the meeting of the Board this day.

GEORGE ALCOCK NIXON, M.D.

SIR,

Enniskillen, March 1, 1848.

I RESPECTFULLY beg leave to acquaint you, that I demanded payment from the agents of the above-mentioned landlords of the rate due by them as immediate lessors; they directed me to go to the tenants, as they had got no rents from them for some back.

(Signed)

The COMMISSIONERS to the CLERK of the GUARDIANS:—Dissolution of the Board of Guardians:—March 6, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state for the information of the Board of Guardians of Enniskillen Union, that the Commissioners have had under consideration a report which they have received from their inspector, Mr. D'Arcy, on the state of the Union, which leaves the Commissioners no alternative but to dissolve the Board and appoint paid officers to carry into execution in Enniskillen Union the Laws for the Relief of the destitute Poor in Ireland.

An order dissolving the Board will be issued by to-morrow's post, and will be accompanied by a letter to the clerk of the Union, setting forth the grounds upon which the Commissioners have resolved to take this step.

The COMMISSIONERS to the CLERK of the UNION:—March 7, 1848.

THE Commissioners have already announced to the Guardians of Enniskillen Union their intention to dissolve the Board of Guardians, and an order to that effect is enclosed herewith.

The Commissioners now proceed to state the grounds on which they have determined to take this step.

It appears that on the 7th September the Guardians determined on making a rate which, together with the previous arrears, amounted to 12,831*l*.

The warrants appear to have been given to the collectors in most of the nine districts in the latter part of November and the beginning of December last; in one district on the 2nd of January; and in another the warrant has not yet been placed in the collector's hands, in consequence of the previous collector being a defaulter and refusing to produce his books.

On the 31st January last it appears that 8,621*l*. still remained uncollected; the liabilities of the Union at that date being as follows:—

Due to contractors, and for officer's salaries, &c.	4,216
For advances under Temporary Relief Act	3,115
To Government	300
Total	7,631

To meet these liabilities and to provide for the relief of the destitute poor the Guardians had credit at the same date with their Treasurer for 482*l*.

Supposing, therefore, the whole of the outstanding rate to be collected, a balance not much exceeding 800*l*. would remain available for the purposes of relief; and yet from the backward state of the collection new rates could not be placed upon the books at present, without including a most disproportionate amount of arrears.

Enniskillen Union.

The Commissioners regret to learn from Mr. D'Arcy's report that some members of the Board of Guardians, both ex officio and elected, have not set a good example to the rate-payers by an early payment of their rates, and that several of them remain defaulters in electoral divisions for which the warrants have been for some time in the hands of the collectors.

Mr. D'Arcy reports that in his examination of the relieving officers' books he found that the out-door relief in the Union has been conducted on a most inadequate scale; the amount allowed in many instances being quite insufficient to support the recipients.

The inmates of the workhouse also are represented as being very badly supplied with clothing; what they have is stated to be much worn and not sufficient in quantity; and the female inmates were not provided even with change of linen while that which was soiled was being washed.

The Commissioners regard the defective state of relief as arising not from the absence of humane and benevolent feelings on the part of the Guardians, so much as from the financial embarrassment into which the Union has fallen through the neglect of the Guardians to make in due time sufficient rates, and to enforce their collection.

The inspector reports that some of the departments of the workhouse were much overcrowded, the Guardians not having provided themselves with any additional workhouse accommodation; and he dwells especially on the wretched state of the buildings which are in use for the reception of fever patients, pointing out at the same time that their dilapidated and miserably defective condition has been the subject of continual reports from the medical officer to the Guardians, from the commencement of January to the date of his (the inspector's) visit to the Union.

Under the circumstances thus represented to them as attending the administration of relief to the destitute poor of Enniskillen Union, the Commissioners are bound to state that in their opinion the duties of the Board of Guardians have not been effectually discharged; and they have therefore felt themselves called upon to dissolve the Board of Guardians and to appoint paid officers to carry into execution in that Union the acts in force for the relief of the destitute poor in Ireland.

IN pursuance of the order of the Commissioners, bearing date the 15th instant, we beg to state for their information, that on our arrival here on Wednesday last, we proceeded to visit the workhouse.

That we are sorry to have to report, that in addition to the want of accommodation, we found everything in a very disorderly state, and deficient in almost everything necessary for such an establishment, the paupers deficient in clothes and cleanliness, and the state of the yards intolerable, from the very imperfect state of the sewerage, the cesspools being stagnant in the centre of the yard, and no fall whatever from them; and all the grounds, with the exception of the master's garden, in the rough state in which the contractor left them, and the walls of separation so low that it will be difficult to keep up the regular classification of the inmates.

That it appears to us that the funds of the Union have been extravagantly misapplied, all the contracts above market price, and some of the late Guardians indirectly supplying the articles themselves.

That the children seem orderly in their school-rooms, but sickly in their appearance, the house being surrounded by water in the winter months, and approachable only by a boat; there is no way of giving the children sufficient walking exercise, and the yards being in a very rough state, and the children without shoes, makes the matter worse.

That we find the accommodation in the fever hospital very insufficient, and beg leave to call the attention of the Commissioners to the necessity of sending down a plan for a new hospital, as no proposals can be received from contractors until that is done. The Vice-Guardians regret to learn that the sum of 800*l.* only was applied for by the late Board, as they believe that sum will prove inadequate for the purpose, in a Union of such extent, the more so as they find it impossible to procure temporary accommodation for fever patients in the town or neighbourhood of Enniskillen. Enniskillen Union.

That although we find the collection of the rates in a backward state in several divisions, we do not apprehend much difficulty on that score. We had a meeting of the collectors yesterday, examined their books, and appointed an early day for the lodging of the collections in the hands of the Treasurer.

That we are happy to be able to state that confidence amongst the contractors and the public generally seems restored since our arrival here.

WE beg to report that we have in some degree set the workhouse in order, and the machinery of rate collection into active operation, and for the purpose of applying the workhouse test on as large a scale as possible, we are making every exertion to procure accommodation in the town of Enniskillen until the contemplated erections at the workhouse are completed.

That taking into consideration the present state of the hospital, as well as the low state of the funds of the Union, we have thought it our duty to dispense with the services of the temporary medical assistant appointed by the late Board, and to contract with some respectable wholesale house in Dublin for medicine, which we deem necessary to have compounded in the workhouse by and on the responsibility of the medical officer of the establishment.

That we consider for the well working of the schools that they should at once be put under the superintendence of the National Board of Education.

That we have not sufficient confidence in the ability of the master, matron, or porter of the house; they seem deficient in system, and to want the tact necessary to ensure obedience to orders, but we are disposed to give them a fair trial.

That we are most desirous of calling the attention of the Commissioners to the very defective state of the sewerage of this workhouse, and to beg respectfully to suggest the propriety of sending down some competent person to superintend the whole new modelling of the drains, which were never from the first of the least use; on the contrary, the filtration in several places being in the direction of the house, thereby causing a most offensive smell, which must, when the weather gets warm, be productive of the worst consequences to the health of the inmates.

That we deem it necessary for the purpose of keeping a proper check on the relieving officers, to attend occasionally at the respective relief stations throughout the Union; we are of opinion, from complaints received from different quarters, that such a course would be attended with good results, and we are disposed to follow it up should it meet the approval of the Commissioners.

We further beg leave to report, that on Monday last a female pauper was detected in the act of stealing articles of food and clothing from the workhouse, and not considering that any punishment we had the power to inflict was commensurate with the crime, she was sent before the magistrates at petty sessions who declined to take examinations against her.

That we are glad to be able to state, on the information of our solicitor, that the sureties of the defaulting collector for the Ely district are about forthwith to pay up the amount of his deficit.

That we have further to state, for the direction of the Commissioners, that the relieving officers of the following districts, viz., John Gibson, of Tempo; William Betts, of Tullynamoltra; James Wilson, of Killinagh; and William Skelton, of Ely, have been guilty of neglect of duty and of disobedience to orders, in not attending at the workhouse on the 22nd and 23rd instant, for the purpose of transferring therefrom to out-door relief in their respective districts, the aged and infirm paupers to make room for the able-bodied in the house.

We have to report that there are in the workhouse 973 paupers; in the fever hospital and convalescent house, 89, and 12 in small-pox, in a ward set apart for the purpose, making a total of 1074. We are happy to state that both fever and small-pox appear to be on the decline.

Since our arrival here, on the 15th instant, we have paid to contractors, &c., 1084*l.*, and have now in the hands of the treasurer 1034*l.*; we hope in another week to have the state of the funds much improved.

For the purpose of applying the workhouse test more effectually we have this

R

Enniskillen Union. day entered into a contract (subject to the approval of the Commissioners) for a large store in the vicinity of the workhouse, at 25*l.* for six months, it is well floored and admirably ventilated; one of its apartments is 120 feet long by about 15 feet wide, and the other about 25 feet square. These houses can be kept very clean as the house is nearly new.

We are also in treaty for a large good house for a fever hospital, which will be capable of containing at least 100 patients; we hope to get it for about 40*l.* per annum, should it meet your approval.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 1, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your reports of the 18th and 25th ultimo, respectively, relating to Enniskillen Union, and the Commissioners observe with much satisfaction the several steps recorded, also in your minutes of 17th, 21st, and 28th ultimo, as tending to introduce important improvements in the condition of the Union.

In regard to the provision of fever hospital accommodation, I am to state that the Commissioners have understood that additional accommodation for fever cases is much required; but as it cannot be made available by the erection of a new building for a considerable period, the Commissioners consider that you have taken a most desirable course in taking steps to provide immediately additional accommodation for fever patients.

The Commissioners understand from their architect that plans for a permanent fever ward were sent to the clerk of the Union, in March, 1847, to be laid before the then Board of Guardians. The formal consent of the late Board of Guardians has been given under section 36 of 1 and 2 Vict., cap. 56, to the expenditure for the erection of the hospital, any excess in the expenditure for this purpose over the sum of 800*l.* being payable out of the rates; and the late Board have made application for the loan, and executed the deed of security for repayment of the same. It is desirable that immediate steps should be taken to procure tenders for the erection of the building, for which purpose the plans will be requisite; but if they be not forthcoming, the Commissioners, on receiving a further report from you, will communicate with their architect relative to the preparation of fresh plans for the purpose.

With reference to the state of the sewerage of the workhouse, I am to state that the Commissioners have communicated with their architect on the subject, and have received his observations thereon.

The specifications received from Mr. Wilkinson are also enclosed herewith.

The Commissioners approve of your taking the store adverted to for the purpose of providing additional workhouse accommodation.

In respect to the relieving officers whom you report for neglect of duty, I am to state that the Commissioners will be prepared to remove any officer who perseveres in such neglect; and the Commissioners request you to caution the officers in question accordingly.

'The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 1, 1848.

WE hope early in the ensuing week to be able to detach to our auxiliary accommodation, in the town of Enniskillen, 100 boys.

The collection of the rates is progressing satisfactorily, and the credit of the Union seems re-established.

Should we be obliged to have recourse to legal proceedings for the recovery of rates, we apprehend it will be chiefly among those whose high station affords a very bad example.

We have set all the able-bodied men and women to labour on all the available ground about the workhouse in carrying out manure, planting potatoes, &c., &c., and we are sorry to have to report that our space for that purpose is so scanty.

We beg to call the attention of the Commissioners to a piece of ground close to, and immediately opposite the door of the workhouse, on which stands an excellent limekiln and abounding with limestone of good quality, which we would strongly recommend to be purchased; it would afford a very remunerating employment for the paupers of all classes.

We thought it prudent, before the setting in of warm weather, to order the cesspools and privies to be cleansed out, which proves a most arduous and unhealthy undertaking from the length of time they have been allowed to remain in their present filthy state. Enniskillen Union.

We find that numerous thefts are being committed, partly from the want of a boundary wall, insomuch that we will find it necessary to place sentinels to prevent an intercourse between the townspeople and the paupers.

We propose (under the sanction of our medical officer) an immediate change in the dietary of the house, which will afford more nutritious food with little if any additional expense.

To the mode of giving out-door relief in cash we have been giving our anxious consideration, and we greatly fear that it will prove too attractive in a Union where every shift is used to avoid the little work that is offered.

We regret to state that so far as we can yet judge, the demesnes of the gentry and the land generally in the Union are in a wretched state of cultivation, although naturally fine and improvable, not a labourer is employed upon them beyond the very scanty number absolutely necessary for putting in the crops.

We are happy to state that our medical officer reports fever to be on the decline.

We continue a strict scrutiny and revision of the relieving officers' books, but we regret to say that the respectable farmers in the Union appear to have but little confidence in the integrity of some of them.

One of our rate collectors was brought up before the magistrates, assembled at petty sessions, charged with a serious assault in the discharge of his duty. One of the Vice-Guardians, with the clerk, attended. The case was dismissed with costs.

We regret to state that the town of Enniskillen is infested with beggars and low prostitutes, and we fear that some of them have been recipients of out-door relief.

In our next report we shall be able to lay before you the details of the proposed alterations in the dietary of the house, and to enter fully into matters of finance.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 6, 1848.

THE Commissioners recommend you at once to enforce the payment of rate by persons of the class referred to in your report.

With regard to the purchase of the piece of land adjoining the workhouse, with the limekiln thereon, I am to request that you will ascertain on what terms the land in question could be rented or procured.

I am also to state that the Commissioners regret the absence of a boundary wall, but they fear that the present financial state of the Union will not admit of this defect being remedied during the present season.

As regards the giving of out-door relief in money, I am to state that all out-door relief given under the order of the Commissioners, dated the 16th March last, to classes not included in the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, should be in food as therein directed, and you have a discretion in regard to giving relief in food or otherwise to classes in Section 1, but the Commissioners strongly recommend the substitution of food for money in the generality of cases.

With reference to the statement in your report that the respectable farmers appear to have but little confidence in the integrity of some of the relieving officers, I am to state that the conduct of the relieving officers should be closely watched, and the Commissioners, as already intimated, will be prepared to remove any who may be shown not to be trustworthy.

Respecting the beggars which infest the town of Enniskillen, I am to call your attention to the provisions of the Vagrant Act respecting beggars, of which a copy is enclosed herewith.

FERMOY UNION.

Major BOLTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 16, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report that a great portion of my time during the past week has been occupied in consequence of dissensions amongst the Guardians of this Union, particularly with regard to the electoral division of Mitchelstown, in which district the able-bodied paupers have been allowed out-door relief, and have been sent on the public roads to work, notwithstanding there was room in the workhouse. This arrangement has caused considerable expenditure for out-door relief, and great dissatisfaction. I consider the Guardians in the above-named district have not acted according to the Commissioners' instructions, and in consequence I have directed a portion of the said able-bodied paupers to be sent to the Union house at once, and the remainder next week. I have also directed that the able-bodied paupers receiving out-door relief should not continue to work on the public roads, as I know from experience it tends to idleness and demoralization. Breaking stones by measure I have strongly recommended as most suitable.

I have every reason to hope the arrangements I have made will have a good effect, and restore that unanimity amongst the Guardians which is so desirable.

I have examined into the internal economy of the workhouse, and have great pleasure in reporting that your instructions (with a few exceptions) have been strictly obeyed. My attention will be directed to carrying out your views on every point.

The accounts, &c., of the rate collectors have been duly examined by the clerk, under my superintendence, and found to be correct, but there are some irregularities which I have pointed out and rectified.

I have not had time during the past week to inspect the relieving officers' books and accounts, but I shall take the earliest opportunity to examine them.

Fever is on the decrease in the Union, but dysentery is prevalent.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 20, 1848.

I AM to state that the course proposed by you to the Board of Guardians for checking out-door relief to able-bodied persons, by offering admission to the workhouse, is fully approved of by the Commissioners, under the circumstances reported by you.

Major BOLTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 23, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report that affairs in this Union are proceeding in a satisfactory manner. The Guardians appear to act with more unanimity, and generally approve the course I have recommended for checking out-door relief to able-bodied persons, by offering admission to the workhouse. It has already had a very beneficial effect in suppressing the impositions which have been practised.

My attention during the past week has been principally directed to the books, &c., of the relieving officers; and I purpose continuing my inspection through the electoral divisions, in order to see that the regulations under which these officers act, are strictly obeyed.

I have found it necessary to caution the relieving officers to exercise a rigid scrutiny, and to make themselves personally acquainted with the circumstances of each applicant, in order to guard against the impositions which I fear have been practised in many instances.

From the information I have received, I do not consider it will be necessary at present to renew the General Order of the 31st January last, for out-door relief to able-bodied persons, as I am of opinion they will be able to obtain employment should the weather continue favourable for farming operations.

I beg to recommend a renewal of the limited order of the 8th December, 1847.

On Wednesday I attended a meeting of the Board of Guardians; the collectors were present, when their books, &c., were examined, and I consider they are performing their duty in a satisfactory manner.

I beg to bring to your notice that the sum of 6*l.* 18*s.* 7½*d.* was found in the possession of Catherine Guiry, a pauper in the house, and that the said sum has been placed by an order of the Board of Guardians to the credit of the electoral division of Kilworth, to which division the woman is chargeable. I request you will be pleased to inform me if the Board of Guardians have acted correctly in this case.

I request you will be pleased to inform me if I am empowered as Temporary Inspector to sign accounts and documents relative to the Finance Committee, in the absence of Mr. Crawford.

Fermoy Union.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 29, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have given directions for a renewal of the Order authorizing out-door relief in the Fermoy Union.

Major BOLTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 30, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report that I have continued my visits over the Union during the past week, and have examined the relieving officers' books, &c. The result of my inspection has been satisfactory. The officers generally are intelligent men, and appear zealous in the performance of their duties, but as great deception is often practised by persons seeking relief, I have recommended the Guardians to cause a total revision of the relief lists to be made as soon as possible.

I beg permission to remark, with reference to the electoral division of Mitchelstown, that, on my arrival, I found the expenditure for out-door relief for the week ending 11th March amounted to the sum of 64*l.* 17*s.* 5*d.*, and, in consequence, I immediately ordered the able-bodied men receiving out-door relief into the workhouse, the result is, that the expenditure for the week ending the 25th March has been reduced to the sum of 43*l.* 8*s.* 5*d.*, which shows a decrease in the expenditure between the week ending 11th and 25th March of 21*l.* 9*s.*

The able-bodied labourers have generally refused to enter the workhouse, and I fear that great deception has been practised in this district, particularly by persons seeking out-door relief.

I beg to inform you that farming operations have generally commenced throughout the Union, and I trust the able-bodied labourers will obtain employment for some time.

I regret having to report that the collectors have not exerted themselves in the performance of their duties to my satisfaction during the past week, the total amount lodged with the treasurer appears to be only 262*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.* I have called the particular attention of the Board of Guardians to this important subject, and I expect it will have the desired effect.

I am sorry to inform you that a charge of drunkenness has been made against Francis Foley, relieving officer for the Glanworth division; he admits the charge; but as I find, on inquiry, it is not an aggravated case, and the man is very sorry for his conduct, I am of opinion a severe reprimand will have a proper influence over him for the future.

I beg to state that a deserted male child, aged one week, was admitted into the workhouse on the 24th instant, and as the father and mother of the child are unknown, I request you will be pleased to inform me if the child is to be baptized by the Protestant or Roman Catholic chaplain.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 8, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had before them your report of the 30th ultimo relating to the Fermoy Union, and with reference to the charge of drunkenness preferred against Mr. Foley, relieving officer of the Glanworth electoral division, I am to state, that as it appears that Mr. Foley has heretofore been well conducted, the Commissioners consider that, under the circumstances, a reprimand from the Vice-Guardians will be sufficient.

With reference to your inquiry as to whether a deserted child, which has been admitted to the workhouse should be baptized by the Protestant or Roman

Fermoy Union.

Catholic chaplain, I am to state, that the child should be baptized by the Protestant chaplain.

I am at the same time to state that it would be advisable to have provisions made for the child's maintenance, under the Grand Jury Act, 6 and 7 Will. IV., cap. 116.

Major BOLTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 6, 1848.

THE sealed order of the Commissioners, dated 30th March, 1848, was read yesterday at the Board, enabling them to administer relief out of the workhouse in food to certain classes of destitute persons for the period of one month from the date of the order.

Upon the important subject of the collection of rates, my endeavour to stimulate the collectors in the execution of their duties has generally had a good effect. The sum of 680*l.* 9*s.* 8*d.* has been paid into the treasurer's hands to the 5th instant inclusive.

I regret having to report, that the paupers generally in the workhouse have shown a disposition to create disturbance during the past week; and yesterday the men refused to work. I immediately proceeded to the workhouse, and inquired the cause of such conduct. The men complained that the daily allowance of food is insufficient, and that they refused to work in consequence. I pointed out to them the culpability of their conduct in disobeying orders under any circumstances, and that I was determined not to attend to any complaint until they showed contrition for their conduct, and returned to their work, and that speedy punishment should follow any disobedience of my orders. I am happy to say, the peremptory manner in which I was obliged to act has had the desired effect. The men have returned peaceably to their work; and I have requested the Board of Guardians to cause immediate inquiry to be made relative to the complaint made by the paupers of the insufficiency of the diet used in the workhouse.

ENNISTYMON UNION.

Mr. LLOYD to the COMMISSIONERS—Dissolution of the Board of Guardians:—
February 21, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report for the information of the Commissioners that I attended the Ennistymon Board of Guardians on Friday the 18th inst.; that I found relief had been administered during the last two months in money, and that the allowance granted was not sufficient in amount; that on the lists for out-door relief, were dealers, tradesmen, fishermen, and persons in employment; that the number relieved during the week ending the 11th February, amounted to 13,599, out of a population of 49,935, being 1115 more than the quarter. Amongst the number reported sick and infirm, were able-bodied persons, who when put upon the lists were considered sick and infirm for want of food.

The Union has no money to its credit in bank. A few gentlemen, in their respective districts, advanced money during the week to the relieving officers, to pay the persons whose names are on the lists.

About 1500*l.* of the rate made previous to the 1st October last, is still outstanding. The warrants for the rate made 1st October, not yet given to the collectors.

I expressed my surprise to the Guardians that relief should have been given in a manner totally at variance with the sealed order. They informed me they considered it was the least expensive way. I endeavoured to impress upon them that such was not the fact; that experience had proved that food in a cooked or wetted form was by far the least expensive, as the destitute alone sought for it; that the order of the Commissioners was peremptory; and I trusted that the Board would not put their judgment in competition with men, who, independent of competency to direct the Guardians, had also the practical experience of the working of the Poor Laws in 130 Unions under their care.

I recommended the Guardians, if possible, to procure more extensive work-house accommodation, to test the able-bodied; and I directed them to furnish me with lists of implements required, to keep them employed at stone-breaking.

I inspected the house, which was in pretty good order.

On Saturday morning I sent for the clerk of the Union, to arrange about providing money for the out-door relief for the coming week; and having two of the collectors present, I informed them that if they did not get in the rates in time for the payment of out-door relief, I should report the neglect. I sent a similar message to the other collectors.

I received a list of tools required for the able-bodied, but it was so excessively extravagant, I returned it for revision.

The COMMISSIONERS to the BOARD of GUARDIANS :—February 23, 1848.

THE Commissioners have received a report from their Inspector, Mr. Lloyd, in which he states that he attended the Ennistymon Board of Guardians on the 18th instant, that he found relief had been administered under a sealed order of the Commissioners during the last two months in money, and that the allowance granted was not sufficient in amount; that on the lists for out-door relief, were dealers, tradesmen, fishermen, and persons in employment.

The Commissioners feel called upon further to state, that in making the last rate on the 1st October, 1847, the Guardians violated the sealed order of the Poor Law Commissioners, prescribing the form in which rates should be made; as it appears that the arrears of the previous rates were not carried forward into that rate, and the collectors are even now collecting under the warrants issued for the collection of the previous rate.

In addition, however, to the violation of the order of the Poor Law Commissioners, in respect of the rate of the 1st October last, the omission to carry into it the arrears in due course, and to put it bonâ fide in collection, has left the Guardians without funds to administer relief, it appearing that there was no

Ennistymon Union. money in the treasurer's hands, that the debts of the Union are no less than 1030*l.*, and that private gentlemen had found it necessary to advance money to the relieving officers to enable them to afford the necessary relief to the destitute poor, which the Guardians had neglected to provide.

Upon a review of these facts, the Commissioners have come to the conclusion that the Board of Guardians departed from the line of their duty in two most material points:—

1st.—In administering relief in a manner contrary not only to the order of the Commissioners, but contrary to the express provisions of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, the 2nd section of which expressly provides that all relief given under the authority contained in that section, shall be given in food only.

2ndly.—In neglecting to take proper steps for providing sufficient funds to continue the due and efficient relief of the destitute poor in Ennistymon Union.

They are of opinion therefore that through the default of the Guardians the duties of the Board of Guardians have not been duly and effectually discharged according to the intention of the several Acts which are now in force for the relief of the destitute poor in Ireland; and the Commissioners have deemed it their duty therefore to exercise the power given to them by the 18th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, and they have accordingly given directions for the preparation of an order dissolving the Board of Guardians.

This order will be issued by to-morrow night's post.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. LLOYD:—February 24, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you the enclosed copy of a letter which the Commissioners have addressed to the Board of Guardians, in which they inform the Guardians that they have given directions for the preparation of an order dissolving the Board; and I am at the same time to state that it appears desirable that you should proceed at your earliest convenience to Ennistymon, and give such provisional directions to the officers, and make such provisional arrangements, as may be requisite for carrying on the affairs of the Union, pending the appointment of Vice-Guardians.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 18, 1848.

WE have the honour to report for the information of the Commissioners, that during the past week we have carefully examined the interior arrangements of this workhouse, and have to submit the following observations:—

We found the dormitories very badly kept, the floors and platforms badly swept, the straw in the beds excessively dirty, and collections of dust and filth under almost every bed.

On inspecting the laundry we found the clothes which had been washed and were in process of drying completely covered with vermin, and the persons and clothes of the paupers generally neglected. On remonstrating with the master and matron as to the state of filth in which we found the house, they stated that the filthy clothes all came from the infirmary; we therefore sent for the medical attendants, and informed them of the statements made by the master and matron, and at the same time called their especial attention to the necessity of seeing that the clothes and bedding of the paupers in the hospital be kept perfectly clean.

We have also the honour to enclose for information of the Commissioners, the report of the inspector of national schools, as to the state in which he found the schools of this house, and as to the qualifications of the schoolmaster and schoolmistress; and from our own observation, we are able fully to confirm his report as to the unfitness of both teachers.

The schoolmistress is completely ignorant of the national school system of education, neither grammar, geography, nor writing is taught in her department; and the boys have not made that progress in their education which might have been expected, nor are they kept so clean and orderly as they ought to be. We therefore recommend their dismissal, or that they be advised to resign.

We have further to state that we have felt it to be our duty to suspend the relieving officer for the division of Ennistymon, in consequence of the gross neglect of his duties. Numbers of the very destitute have not been relieved, and we have reason to suppose that a system of favouritism has been throughout pursued by him. Ennistymon Union.

We have appointed another person to perform his duties until such time as we may receive the instructions of the Commissioners on the subject.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 23, 1848.

THE Commissioners regret to learn that the workhouse is in such an unsatisfactory state as you describe; the master and matron must be held strictly responsible for having the workhouse kept in a thoroughly clean and proper state, and the discipline and classification always maintained in accordance with the regulations of the Commissioners; and the Commissioners request that you will admonish the master and matron on this head, and warn them that the only condition on which they can be allowed to retain their present situations is, that the house be immediately brought into a more satisfactory state than it is at present, and that cleanliness, order, and discipline are in future duly attended to and enforced.

The Commissioners have in accordance with your recommendation called upon the schoolmaster and schoolmistress to resign their situations; and if the Guardians desire it the Commissioners will request the Commissioners of National Education, to recommend competent persons to succeed them.

The grounds on which you have deemed it right to suspend the relieving officer of Ennistymon division, viz., gross neglect of duty, many of the very destitute not having been relieved, and there being reason to suppose that a system of favouritism has been throughout pursued by him, are of such a nature, that the Commissioners have deemed it right to direct that an order under seal, removing him from his office be prepared. On receiving this order you will be good enough to take the necessary steps for making a new appointment.

The Commissioners observe by the agreement which you have entered into for the occupation of the house at Lahinch that it is contemplated to have a lease prepared, and the Commissioners wish to be informed whether any instructions have been given for preparing such lease.

THE VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 25, 1848.

WE have the honour to enclose a communication we have this day received from Messrs. Bannatyne and Son, who have been supplying a portion of the meal for the out-door relief in this district, in which they gave notice that after Monday next they will not be able to forward any further supplies for the out-door relief in this Union, if they do not hear from us in the meantime satisfactorily as regards money.

We have also the honour to enclose a communication from Mr. Cronyn, the inspector at Ennis on the same subject.

The balance in the treasurer's hands to the credit of this Union, is at present under 250*l*.

We have given to Mr. Daly, the other contractor for supplying meal for out-door relief, a cheque for 50*l*., but he is very clamorous for the balance due to him.

From the state of confusion in which we found every thing here on our arrival we have been unable to strike a rate until yesterday; we have now done so as you will perceive from the minutes of yesterday's transactions, and hope soon to have it in course of collection.

We have therefore the honour to request that the Commissioners will be pleased to inform us how we are to act under the circumstances, as if from any cause the out-door relief should cease to be issued, the consequences may be expected to be very serious.

Ennistymon Union.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 28, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to state that they would recommend you to borrow money if possible from the treasurer or other party, and to repay the loan from the proceeds of the new rate, or if you will undertake to repay the sum advanced, the Commissioners will apply to the British Association for a loan of 500*l.* to you as Vice-Guardians of Ennistymon Union.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 31, 1848.

WE have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 28th instant, in which we are recommended to borrow money for the present wants of the Union from the treasurer or other party, and to repay the loan from the proceeds of the new rate; and stating that in the event of our not being successful in so doing, the Commissioners would apply to the British Association for a loan of 500*l.* to us, as Vice-Guardians of Ennistymon Union, on our undertaking to repay the sum advanced.

We have now the honour to report, for the information of the Commissioners, that, agreeably to their recommendation, we immediately made application to the treasurer of the Union (Mr. Copland having gone to Ennis, for the purpose of having a personal interview with him) for a loan, on the security of the rates, to enable us to meet the most pressing demands of the Union, until such time as the new rate should come in; but we regret to say that he held out no hopes whatever of our request being acceded to by the directors of the Provincial Bank, in fact, he distinctly stated that in his opinion such an application would be at once refused.

Under these circumstances we respectfully suggest to the Commissioners the necessity of immediately applying to the British Association for an advance of money, we of course undertaking to repay the same.

In our opinion, however, 500*l.* will not be a sufficient sum to meet the demands which will be made upon us before the new rate can be made available—we think 1000*l.* will be required.

REPLY to the foregoing :—April 3, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have, in accordance with your suggestion, made application to the agent of the British Relief Association, for an advance of 500*l.*, to be repaid out of the rate now about to be put in course of collection; and the Commissioners have reason to believe that a draft for that amount will be forwarded by to-night's post to Mr. Cronyn, the Temporary Inspector of Ennis Union, with whom you are requested to communicate on the subject. I am at the same time to state that if it be necessary the Commissioners will afterwards apply for a further loan.

The Commissioners request that you will be so good as to record on your minutes a resolution acknowledging the receipt of the above sum as a loan, and undertaking to repay it out of the rate about to be collected.

GALWAY UNION.

The COMMISSIONERS to Major M'KIE :—February 2, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith, a copy of a letter which the Commissioners have received from the Under Secretary's Office, relating to the decease of a man (name unknown) who is stated by the jury on the inquest held on his body to have died from want; and I am to request that you will make such inquiry into the circumstances as may enable you to report to the Commissioners as to the facts of the case, and especially whether the deceased made application for relief either to the Vice-Guardians of the Galway Union, to the workhouse master, or to any of the relieving officers.

ENCLOSURE.

County of the Town of Galway.

Galway, January 24, 1848.

Copy of verdict of an inquest held on the body of man unknown, who was found dead :—

"That the said deceased man unknown at Clybain, parish of Rahoon and county of the town of Galway, on the 23rd of January, 1848, died from want of the necessities of life and being exposed to the severity of the weather."

JOHN LYNCH.

Inspector-General.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 11, 1848.

IN reply to your letter of the 2nd instant, forwarding copy of a letter from the Under Secretary's Office, I have to report, for the information of the Commissioners, that after due inquiry I have been unable to procure any additional particulars relating to the death of a man (name not known) who is stated by the verdict of a coroner's jury to have died at Clybain, parish of Rahoon, county of Galway, on the 23rd January, from want and exposure.

The relieving officer did not see the body; but would have relieved him had he applied. The Vice-Guardians had no knowledge of the case.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 5, 1848.

WE have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 2nd instant. We are of opinion that proceeding for rates before the magistrates at Petty Sessions would not be very efficacious, from the uncertainty in the attendance of the local magistracy, and the possible refusal, as in a recent instance at Oranmore, where the magistrate refused to hear 48 cases, by which there was a fortnight lost; at the end of which time, when the cases were heard, the magistrate refused to issue his warrants until the next court day, by which there was a month's delay in the collection of the rates, and this at a time when such destitution prevails in the Union. We would also add that we fear that feelings of delicacy in adjudicating on the cases of persons in their own class, might have the effect of retarding that prompt and rigorous decision which the circumstances in which the Union is placed require. We are of opinion that proceedings in the superior courts (after due notice), against some of the highest rate-payers in the Union, would have a most salutary effect, and in the western part of the Union particularly. We are of opinion that to distrain under a 15 days' notice would be difficult and impossible without a large military force.

We consider the seizure made by Mr. Martin, our collector, will have a most beneficial effect; indeed it has already proved so, as many persons from whom he could scarcely think it worth while to demand rates, have since come in and paid. The property seized consisted principally of hay; it was sold by auction in this town, and brought a higher price than could be got for it at market. There was great competition, and no combination amongst the people.

We are unable to give any satisfactory explanation as to the death (as alleged from starvation) of the man at Clybane, in the electoral division of Galway. Our relieving officer for that district, had the man applied, would have given him relief provisionally, as is in every case done where our relieving officers see an urgent necessity for it. All we heard of it was, that he with three others came to the town of Galway from a distant part of the county to beg. We have given the strictest directions from the commencement, to our officers to afford instant relief in every case where there was any apparent necessity for it, and which we have good reason to know has been done.

We have made every arrangement for putting the able-bodied paupers on the out-door relief books to break stones on Monday, the county surveyor having consented to furnish us with the tools he has belonging to the Board of Works, although he has not received any order for their issue. The able-bodied paupers in the workhouse have been set to dig the ground attached to the house, until we commence quarrying on Monday, when a portion of them will be employed in breaking stones.

We have been applied to by the Town Commissioners for men to sweep the streets of this town. If the Poor Law Commissioners would permit the out-door able-bodied paupers to perform this work, we consider it would be of the greatest use in preserving the health of the inhabitants, and could not in any way interfere with legitimate labour, as the Town Commissioners have no funds to employ workmen; and we are confident it would be the severest test that could be put to a certain class of the able-bodied male paupers.

We regret to have to report that our collection for this week must be deficient, in consequence of two of our collectors having been subpoenaed to Dublin to attend a crown case as witnesses in the Court of Exchequer.

We beg to refer the Commissioners to a proposal from Major Geoghegan, for the house and premises at Dangan, on more eligible terms than offered by Mr. Redington, inasmuch as he (Major Geoghegan) proposes to let it on lease, with a clause of surrender. We are informed Major Geoghegan holds the property in perpetuity.

ENCLOSURE.

Major GEOGHEGAN to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—February 4, 1848.

WITH reference to my conversation with you yesterday on the subject of your taking this place, as extra-accommodation for the poor, I beg to submit for your consideration the following terms:—

1st. The premises at present in my occupation, viz., the house, offices, &c., and 16 acres of land, Irish plantation measure, for the annual rent of 200*l.* sterling.

2nd. The house, offices, garden, with one acre of land additional, for 140*l.* sterling per annum.

Should you not find it convenient to take the whole of the land, you can have any quantity of it at the rate of 7*l.* per Irish acre, being the amount usually paid for con-acre in this locality.

With respect to a lease, I am willing to grant one for a term of 21 years, with a clause of surrender every three years.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 8, 1848.

WITH reference to the proposal for the employment of able-bodied persons receiving out-door relief to sweep the streets of the city, I am to state that the Commissioners will not object to that arrangement, provided that strict precautions are taken that the work shall be duly performed, and that it shall not be a mere excuse for idleness.

I am at the same time to express the Commissioners' sanction of the proposal to take the house and premises at Dangan from Major Geoghegan, to be used as an auxiliary workhouse for the Galway Union.

Count STRZELECKI to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 4, 1848.

I REQUEST you will be pleased to issue the necessary instructions to Major M'Kie, the new Inspector at Galway Union, that he may undertake the administration of the relief which heretofore was afforded by the Association to schools of the Union, through the instrumentality of the late Captain Hellard.

The COMMISSIONERS to Major M'KIE:—February 8, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a copy of a letter which they have received from the Count Strzelecki, and I am to request that, in accordance with the desire expressed in that communication, you will have the goodness to undertake the administration of the relief afforded by the British Association to schools in the Galway Union.

Galway Union.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 10, 1848.

I ARRIVED at Galway on the 3rd instant, and immediately put myself in communication with the Vice-Guardians, and entered on the duties of my office.

My attention being called to the insufficiency of the workhouse accommodation, and to the necessity for increased means of offering the workhouse test, I accompanied the Vice-Guardians to inspect a house in the occupation of Major Geoghegan (Dangan), which they considered well adapted to the reception of children admitted to the workhouse; in this opinion I concur, the situation is open and healthy, the house large and well ventilated, having been occupied until lately, as a nunnery.

The only question appears to be that of expense; but as the Vice-Guardians have submitted the terms on which it has been offered, it is unnecessary for me to report on that point, further than to state, that as far as I have been able to ascertain there is no other place available, so well adapted to the purpose; it would accommodate about 600 children.

On the 4th instant I inspected the workhouse, and was well pleased to find it generally clean and in good order, the dormitories particularly so.

A great number of the inmates were in their own ragged clothes, the workhouse clothing being insufficient. The Vice-Guardians entered into a contract on the 2nd instant for a supply of clothing, and the contractor states that the articles are on the road from Dublin, and will be here in a day or two.

With respect to the hospital and the present number of patients, many of them fever cases, I think the utmost attention on the part of the surgeon is called for, and that he should visit it at least once a day. I find that this has not been the case; and that from the first to the ninth, Dr. Browne visited the hospital on six days only, and some of those did not exceed half an hour. With the sanction of the Commissioners I should wish that I might be allowed to call for a regular attendance on the part of Dr. Browne, and that the duties of visiting the sick should not be left to the apothecary.

I found on my arrival, that the town of Galway was inundated with paupers, and the streets swarming with beggars, presenting a scene of squalor and misery that can scarcely be imagined. I waited on the town Commissioners on the subject, and requested them to endeavour to put a stop to it. Their statement went to show that the gaols were crowded to excess, and that in consequence, it would be useless to attempt to put the Vagrant Act in force. They also stated that many of the inmates of the gaol were committed for petty thefts, that on their discharge they were let loose on the town, and thus tended to throng the crowd of beggars in their streets, as they were not furnished with the means of returning to their homes; that the greater number of persons, &c., discharged, and of others begging through the town, came from Connemara (Clifden Union). I saw myself yesterday, several cars loaded with prisoners going to the gaol, and was told they came from that district.

It is expected that the employment of paupers in cleansing the streets, will have a considerable effect in preventing the influx of paupers, and I hope to be able to arrange with the Town Commissioners that they shall supply carts, scrapers, &c., &c., for this purpose.

As a sanitary measure, the cleansing of the streets is much required; I have never seen so filthy a town in any part of the world I have visited.

There was a difficulty about procuring tools to set the able-bodied to work at stone-breaking, but by an arrangement with the county surveyor, on my receipt, he has given some tools, pending the receipt of the application from the Guardians in the prescribed form, and gangs are now at work, and will be increased in number daily.

The employment of out-door paupers on this labour, gives rise to the question, what amount of food will be a sufficient ration for a man employed in labour for eight hours, and on this question I hope to be favoured with the instructions of the Commissioners. The Guardians think not less than 2 lbs. of meal, or an equivalent, and I do not think they can work on much less.

Galway Union.

The amount of rate collected during the last week, is 533*l.*, but for the absence of two of the collectors who were unable to attend to the collection, would have been considerably more, there remains to be collected 10,422*l.*; strict orders have been given to the electors to enforce the collection, and that they should commence with the highest ratepayers.

I am unable to report the number on the out-door relief list, as the accounts are not yet rendered by the relieving officers, not one of whom attended for that purpose on Tuesday; I fear it cannot be less than 5000. These officers, state that it is impossible for them to attend as directed, that the amount of work is more than they can get through; there is much truth in the statement, and it is deserving the consideration of the Commissioners, whether it be not advisable to allow some assistance as storekeeper, to take charge of and distribute the bread. Some of these officers have 1000 names on their relief lists, they have not much less than 20 miles to come to attend the Board. The registering the names by the clerk, is from the numbers, a tedious process, this, together with the revision of the lists, and taking their accounts, occupies much time; the consequence is, that the business which should be brought to a close on Wednesday, will not be finished till Friday. The relieving officers generally, are not intelligent, or fitted for the office, particularly at the present time, with such an amount of destitution as prevails in the Union, rendering it imperative on the Guardians, to leave more to their discretion, than would be the case in ordinary times.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 15, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 10th instant, relating to the Galway Union, and with reference to the want of attention evinced by the medical officer of the workhouse to the patients in hospital, I am to state that the medical officer is by article 66 of the workhouse regulation, bound to attend the hospital inmates at the times fixed by the Board of Guardians. The Commissioners consider that this attendance should not be less in any case than once in every day, and that in cases of serious illness the attendance should be more frequent. They desire to refer to the weekly medical report (form 18 appended to workhouse regulations), in which the medical officer should show the actual attendance on each inmate of the hospital, through the week; and they recommend that the Vice-Guardians be moved to give special directions to the medical officer in pursuance of the workhouse regulations.

As regards the number of mendicants who it appears have crowded into the town of Galway, the Commissioners consider it of importance that the Vagrant Act should be enforced in Galway, with a view of checking the spread of disease, and of relieving the ratepayers from the charge of mendicants from other electoral divisions and Unions; and although the ordinary prison may not afford room for the committal of these mendicants, the Commissioners consider that by taking any building in the town suitable for a house of correction and temporary imprisonment, the magistrates may put the law in force, and probably a few examples made from time to time, would prove sufficient for the purpose.

With reference to the quantity of food proposed to be allowed to the persons who have been placed on the out-door relief list, the Commissioners recommend the Vice-Guardians in apportioning rations for able-bodied persons employed in stone-breaking, not to exceed the allowances fixed by the Relief Commissioners in 1847, which were generally considered sufficient, and were approved by the Board of Health.

In reference to the directions given to the collectors, the Commissioners desire to draw attention to the powers given to collectors, by the 73rd section of the Act 1 and 2 Vict., cap. 56, under which they can enforce payment of poor's rates by all the means which the law provides for recovery of county cess; and it will be observed that under the first provision of the 152nd section of 6 and 7 Will. IV, cap. 116, (Poor Law Compendium, page 130,) county cess may be immediately enforced by distress.

The Commissioners request that you will be so good as immediately to move the Vice-Guardians to consider the duties and extent of the districts of the relieving officers, also the fitness of the persons now so employed for the very responsible duties they have to perform.

The Commissioners will be prepared to sanction any changes in the districts and officers which the Vice-Guardians may consider necessary, and the appointment of so many additional officers as may be requisite during the present pressure of distress. You will, however, have the goodness to observe that the Commissioners object to the appointment of assistant relieving officers in the districts already formed, and in every case desire that the additional officer shall be responsible for a district, for which object the existing districts may be altered.

Galway Union.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 12, 1848.

We beg leave to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th instant. We annex a letter from Major Geoghegan, respecting the house and premises at Dangan, and we are about procuring an estimate as to the cost of the necessary alterations.

We have made an arrangement with the Town Commissioners, as to cleansing the streets, and have insisted upon their carrying into effect one of their bye-laws, prohibiting the citizens from permitting any nuisances to remain in the streets, which hitherto has been little attended to. They are to supply the necessary implements, and to cart to the workhouse as much manure as will be required for the ground attached thereto. This permission thus granted, will be of the most beneficial effect, and be so felt by the inhabitants of the town.

We are of opinion, that from the great pressure that exists, it is indispensably necessary to appoint four additional relieving officers. We are also of opinion that the salary of 30*l.* a-year, is not sufficient remuneration to secure the services of efficient persons to discharge the arduous duties of the office; we therefore recommend that 50*l.* a-year, at least, be fixed as a salary for each relieving officer. From the smallness of the salary allowed by the late Board, efficient persons could not be had, and the result is, that some of the relieving officers are detained from three to four days in town, making up their books. We propose to dismiss some of those persons, and to appoint competent men in their place. Mr. Bourke, Poor Law Inspector, concurs in opinion with us, that the present number of relieving officers is not sufficient for the Union during the present emergency.

We beg leave to bring under the notice of the Commissioners a very considerable evil, which we feel at a loss to correct. For some time past, great numbers of vagrants have been sent into Galway, committed by the magistrates under 10th and 11th Vict., cap. 84. The greater number of these persons are from Clifden, and other Unions. When they are discharged from prison in a state of disease and utter destitution, they apply in crowds at the workhouse for relief; they are provisionally relieved, with an injunction to return to their own localities; but instead of doing so, they remained begging through the streets of Galway, and hence the different inquests that have been lately held. The county prison originally intended to receive 250, now contains upwards of 1000 prisoners.

We are of opinion that 1 lb. of bread is not sufficient to support an able-bodied man at full work.

ENCLOSURES.

Major GEOGHEGAN to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—February 11, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 9th instant, informing me of your having obtained the sanction of the Poor Law Commissioners, to accept of my offer of the premises of Dangan, as contained in my letter of the 5th instant.

I beg to acquaint you that I shall be prepared to give you possession of the place on the 1st of April next; and in the mean time you can proceed with any alterations or improvements which you may consider necessary.

Will you do me the favour of ascertaining if it is the intention of the Commissioners to take the whole of the premises in my occupation, or merely the house, offices, garden, and one acre of land—this not being distinctly stated in your letter under reply.

I would here beg to observe that there are four marble chimney pieces in the house, and as they are easily injured, and cannot be of much use in a poorhouse, I hope you will have no objection to my having them removed, with a view to their preservation.

Galway Union.

To the VICE-GUARDIANS of the Galway Union.

The Memorial of LAURENCE FINERTY, Relieving Officer of the Galway East Electoral Division,

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH,—

THAT when memorialist was appointed by the late Board of Guardians to the situation of relieving officer at the very inadequate salary of 30*l.* per annum, it was not their intention to administer out-door relief, and that even under such circumstances, the rate-payers in general regarded the amount of remuneration fixed upon as meant rather only to procure inefficient officers, so that the law might be defeated, than as a fair compensation for the discharge of the duties of in-door relief; that since your superseding the last Board, the system of out-door relief having been most extensively carried out, it has imposed upon your memorialist an amount of toil and labour, and exposure to infection from the dens of wretchedness and disease which he has to visit, perfectly overwhelming, requiring not only the sacrifice of his meal hours, but even a great portion of the time for natural rest; that under these circumstances, he confidently hopes you will take his case into favourable consideration, and recommend to the Poor Law Commissioners to award him something like an adequate salary for the exceeding danger he has to expose himself to, and the excessive toil he has to undergo. And your memorialist is in duty bound to pray.

LAURENCE FINERTY.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 15, 1848.

I AM to state in reply that the Commissioners approve of the appointment of additional relieving officers in the Union, at an increased rate of salary, according to your suggestion.

I am at the same time to observe that the relief districts of the Union should be reconstructed in such a manner, as that each relieving officer may be responsible for a particular district, which will not be too large for his sole superintendence.

Such of the relieving officers as you shall deem to be unfit for the office, you are recommended to suspend, and if they do not then send in their resignation the Commissioners will be prepared to remove them by an order under seal upon receipt of a report from the Union Inspector, recommending that course to be adopted.

The Commissioners have addressed Major M'Kie respecting the mendicants in the town of Galway, to whom you advert in your report.

With regard to the quantity of food to be allowed to able-bodied men who are receiving out-door relief, I am to state that 1 lb. of meal was the daily ration allowed to persons above nine years of age by the Relief Commissioners in 1847, and was approved of by the Board of Health. The Commissioners further believe that it was the general experience of the Relief Committees under the Temporary Relief Act, that the allowance was amply sufficient.

Further LETTER from the COMMISSIONERS to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—
February 24, 1848.

WITH respect to the premises at Dangan, proposed to be fitted up as an auxiliary workhouse, I am directed to state that your report has been referred to Mr. R. Bourke, Poor Law Inspector, who is of opinion that not more than one acre of land should be taken at present with the house. The Commissioners request that they may be furnished with your observations on the subject.

I am also to request that you will have the goodness to state specifically the terms upon which it is proposed to rent the premises.

With reference to the proposed appointment of four additional relieving officers, I am to state that the Commissioners are desirous of being informed for what districts you propose to appoint the additional officers. The Commissioners are also desirous of being furnished with a list of the districts as now divided for relief purposes.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 17, 1848.

Galway Union.

THE Vice-Guardians were engaged yesterday and this day in the usual routine of the Board, ascertaining the numbers on the relief lists, and investigating the cases of applicants, which are so numerous, that it is impossible for the clerk to have the accounts made up at the appointed time. Forty-three persons have been admitted into the house, 33 discharged and 25 died during the week; leaving the number on the 16th, 1087 in the house, and 10,095 on out-door relief.

The destitution is daily on the increase; frequent deaths occur; and many of the applicants admitted into the workhouse and on the out-door relief, are in such a state of exhaustion, that there is little hope of saving their lives.

There are at present 334 able-bodied men employed in stone-breaking; but as far as I have been able to ascertain, it has not acted so well as a test as admission into the house.

The out-door relief is becoming so heavy, that the Vice-Guardians are considering the propriety of giving Indian meal instead of bread, hitherto issued at 1½d. per lb.

The Vice-Guardians are endeavouring to arrange a better division of electoral divisions, some of which are too extensive for one relieving officer; they are also endeavouring to replace some of the present relieving officers by more efficient persons.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February, 22, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 17th instant, relating to the Galway Union; and in reference thereto, I am to state that the Commissioners are averse to the issue of uncooked food to persons receiving out-door relief under the second section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act; and they request that you will have the goodness to render the Vice-Guardians all the assistance in your power to enable them to have the daily rations to the persons receiving out-door relief in the Union issued in cooked food. A copy of a circular which has been issued by the Commissioners on this subject is enclosed herewith for your information.

The Commissioners will be glad to receive your further observations with respect to the operation of stone-breaking as a test of destitution.

THE VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 19, 1848.

WE have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th instant. We have divided the Union into districts, adding three additional ones for the purposes of out-door relief; notwithstanding the increased number of relieving officers, they will have quite sufficient work in taking down the names and visiting the applicants for the present. When the pressure is over, it is hoped the number can be decreased. We shall, we fear, have to recommend some of the present officers to resign.

The out-door paupers are breaking stones and sweeping the streets of Galway; a number have refused to work in both cases, particularly at the latter employment; they have consequently been deprived of their rations. We have given directions to the relieving officers to give tickets of admission to the workhouse to all able-bodied single paupers between the ages of 16 and 55 years, and to take their names also off the out-door list.

We are strongly of opinion that Indian meal in its raw state should be substituted for bread, as affording a more substantial and economical ration, and also in consequence of the great difficulty there is in getting bread to the distant districts, and the almost impossibility of transmitting it regularly to the islands, whereas the meal could be stored on the islands in large quantities; the people having plenty of fuel, it would be an advantage to them to cook their own food; and independent of any other consideration, there would be a saving to the Union of at least 25 per cent. In case the Commissioners approve of this change, it would be well to obtain permission from the proper authorities to store the meal at the coast guard or police stations.

T

Galway Union.

We are making every exertion to get in the rates. On the 10th November, 1847, when the present rate was struck by the late Board of Guardians:—

	£.	s.	d.
The uncollected rate and arrears amounted to . . .	14,225	5	8
From the 10th November to the 3rd of January, 1848, the amount collected was . . .	1,713	14	8
From 3rd January to 12th February, 1848, collected . . .	2,611	8	3
Uncollected on the 12th February, 1848 . . .	9,900	2	9

It was unfortunate the rate was not struck in the month of June last, when, with due diligence in the collection, we have little doubt that the arrears at present would be very trifling. We have directed the collector for Annaghdown (who has sworn informations that he could not collect in part of his district without assistance) to apply to the resident magistrate at Tuam for a force to enable him to collect the rates. Mr. Brereton, R.M., has appointed Friday and Saturday next, the 25th and 26th instant, to meet the collector in that part of his district.

We are of opinion that it would be very desirable, and tend much to the regularity of the hospital, to have paid a nurse in each ward; and we are also of opinion that it would promote the good order and regularity of the house generally, if there were steady, well-conducted persons put in charge of the dormitories, who, being allowed a small sum, would have an inducement to fulfil a duty, which in various instances we have ascertained, has been hitherto very inadequately performed.

We enclose herewith a list of the number of persons on out-door relief to this date.

I certify the above to be correct,
THOMAS J. REED, Clerk of the Union.

REPLY to the foregoing :—February 22, 1848.

THE Commissioners consider that it is most desirable that the daily rations of the persons receiving out-door relief in the Union under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, should be issued in cooked food, and I am to enclose herewith for your information a copy of a circular which has been issued on the subject by the Commissioners.

The Commissioners wish that you should take such steps as you may deem to be necessary to make arrangements for the issue of the rations in cooked food; and they are convinced that this mode of affording relief will be found in the long run to be the most beneficial to the Union, both as regards real economy and other important considerations.

As regards the collection of the rates in the Union, the Commissioners request that you will impress upon each of the collectors the necessity for their proceeding with energy and dispatch to close the collection of the present rate in their districts respectively; and the Commissioners are desirous of being furnished with lists of the several immediate lessors in the Union who are defaulters in the payment of poor-rate, and with a brief statement in each case, showing the proceedings which have been taken, and the stage in which such proceedings are, for enforcing payment of the rate. Forms for this purpose are enclosed herewith.

The Commissioners wish to be informed of the number of paid nurses and ward-masters, or ward-mistresses, whom you would propose to appoint, and of the salaries which you would recommend to be allowed to them respectively.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 24, 1848.

My attention has been directed to the accounts of the fever hospitals in the Union and their management, with which I am far from satisfied.

On my arrival, I found that objections had been made by the late Captain Hellard and the Finance Committee, to the accounts of the fever hospital at Oranmore, which in consequence had not been audited since the 30th September last, at which time a balance remained in the hands of the treasurer amounting to near 300*l.* There are several charges in the account for which there are no vouchers nor receipts; and on the 15th of January the account was returned by the Finance Committee for revision. They have been brought before the Finance Committee twice since my arrival (but in the same unsatisfactory state) by the treasurer, Mr. Atley. In addition to the balance they have on hands, they require 93*l.* to pay liabilities incurred to the 31st December.

Until this account is amended, funds will be supplied to meet the expenditure since the 1st of January only. The number of patients in this hospital on the 15th February was 51. The medical officer, Dr. Whistler, has also charge of the temporary dispensary, and receives a salary of 10*s.* per day for the two; there is, in addition, an apothecary at 5*s.* per day. Dr. Whistler does not consider it to be his duty as dispensary officer to attend on patients who may be taken ill at their homes, and unable to attend at the dispensary.

This fever hospital had only 17 female patients on the 22nd. The hospital was not completed, and there is no ward for male patients. The medical officer, Dr. Davis's salary 5*s.* per day—no allowance for compounding. The treasurer had a balance on hand on the 30th September of 159*l.*; a small balance still remains.

Has the account settled to the 1st January, had a balance of 378*l.* on the 30th September, and has received from the Guardians 22*l.* The medical officer is Dr. Hutchinson, who resides at Spiddal, has charge of the fever hospital at that place, receiving 5*s.* per day for each hospital, and 5*s.* per day for compounding medicines at Spiddal, and keeping the accounts, being 15*s.* per day. I find that Dr. Hutchinson claims 5*s.* per day for compounding medicines for Moycullen. The distance from Spiddal to Moycullen is 11 miles over mountain. I visited this hospital on the 22nd instant, and beg particularly to call the attention of the Commissioners to the following facts that come under my notice.

On looking at the visiting book I found that Dr. Hutchinson had visited the hospital on the 15th January; on the 1st of February Dr. Munn visited the hospital for Dr. Hutchinson; on the 16th, 17th, 19th, and 20th Dr. Hutchinson visited. I understand Dr. Hutchinson had been ill. The hospital having been visited but once in a month, I asked who prescribed for the sick, and was told by the nurse she had. She had also admitted patients, ordered all supplies, and had the charge indeed of all.

I think it desirable that this hospital should receive other medical attendance.

This hospital had a balance in hand of 135*l.* on the 30th September, and has received 123*l.* from the Vice-Guardians. The account has been settled to the 20th January.

Galway Union.

One Committee manages both hospitals in the town. The expenditure of this hospital from 1st October to 6th January, has been 253*l*. The average number of patients about 100; of these the return shows 10 cases of fever, 90 convalescents. The medical officer, Dr. Colchen, has been called on to explain how the convalescents have so large a proportion to the sick. Dr. Colchen receives 5*s*. per day for medical attendance; he has also charge of the permanent fever hospital in the same place at a salary of 50*l*. per annum. The apothecary receives 5*s*. per day, and for the permanent hospital 30*l*. per annum. The sheds are erected in the yard of the permanent hospital.

The sheds are erected contiguous to the workhouse walls. The expenditure from the 1st of October to 9th February, 330*l*.; the average number of patients about 80. Dr. Browne is the medical attendant, at 5*s*. per day, with an apothecary at the same rate of pay.

Dr. Browne receives a salary of 100*l*. per annum as the medical officer of the workhouse, with an apothecary at 40*l*. per annum. It appears to me that the temporary hospital, being so contiguous, might be attended by the medical officer and apothecary of the establishment without additional pay; the Vice-Guardians are of this opinion also.

The aggregate amount now required of the Guardians to pay off the liabilities of the several fever hospitals is about 700*l*., and the amount already paid by them 546*l*. These sums, together with the balances in hands on the 30th September, will make a total of about 2000*l*. for the maintenance of these hospitals since the 1st of October—say five months—and the average number of patients 351. The above does not include the salaries of the medical officers.

It has been stated that in the hospitals there are persons who are not in fever; I confess I am not prepared to say that this may not be the case; and if I may be permitted, would suggest that some medical officer should inspect and report on these hospitals.

On the 19th contracts were made by the Fever Committee for the supply of all articles of consumption required for the hospitals, on which I expect a considerable saving.

I attended the Board of Guardians yesterday until late, but the accounts of the relieving officers were not checked. Several of those men must be dismissed for inefficiency. Candidates' applications for the offices have been received, but few of them can be depended on. The office at present is a most laborious one, and is not sought after by men who are qualified for it. The weekly expenditure on out-door relief is very heavy, the gross number for the week ending 19th instant, was 11,212, at a cost of about 390*l*.; the number in the workhouse being 1135, at a cost of 90*l*.

I found at Moycullen the soup kitchen in good order, with the boilers set; and I have heard that the greater number of those which were in use under the Relief Act are still available. The relieving officers have been directed to examine and report on them. If these are brought into operation it will effect a considerable saving.

The rate collected during the week amounts to 478*l*. 5*s*. 1*d*., leaving the outstanding debt 9425*l*. 1*s*. 4*d*. The collectors state that many of the rate-payers have no goods nor produce of any kind. Parties of military are out weekly protecting the collectors.

I have not been able to induce the magistrates to enforce the Vagrant Act; and when I suggested the hiring of some building for a house of correction, they say they have no funds, and who is to pay for it?

The town continues to be crowded with mendicants.

I find that the county gaol, which is situated within the town of Galway, and which I am informed was built for 110 prisoners, contains at this moment 946 adults and 51 children—total 997 persons. I am also informed that one-half of this number are from Connemara, and three-fourths of that half from the Union of Clifden. The crowded state of this gaol requires attention. The deaths that have taken place within its walls since the 1st instant are 116—a fearful result of its crowded state—added to which, numbers have died (on being discharged) before they returned to their homes, and vast numbers remain to beg through the streets of Galway.

I am endeavouring to get the labour at stone-breaking and sweeping the streets into a regular system, so that the effect as a test may be correctly ascertained. In three gangs for one week I have a report as follows:—

Galway Union.

Taylor's Hill, Galway,	103	sent to work,	6	left.
Ballyhown,	do.	118	do.	78 do.
Oranmore,	do.	52	do.	10 do.

I have no report yet on three other gangs, as they have not completed a week. Out of 20 men sent to sweep the streets, 10 left work the first day.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 29, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 24th instant, relating to the Galway Union, and I am to state that the Commissioners have drawn the attention of the Central Board of Health to your observations on the subject of the temporary fever hospital in the Union.

The Commissioners are prepared at once to remove any of the relieving officers of the Union who do not discharge their duties efficiently.

An extract from your report relating to the crowded state of the county gaol, has been forwarded to the Government.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 26, 1848.

WE have received your letter of the 24th instant. We have agreed to rent the house, premises, and one acre of land, at Dangan, for three years at 140*l.* per annum. We propose to have the necessary alterations made immediately: the expense will be moderate. We are decidedly of opinion that the entire of the remaining land, 15 statute acres, should be taken, and which we think could be had on advantageous terms. The premises are within a short distance of the workhouse, and we consider that the paupers could be both usefully and healthfully employed in the cultivation of the land.

We have appointed additional relieving officers, and beg to refer you for the particulars to the schedule annexed.

There are only 25 aged and infirm paupers now remaining in the workhouse, and these could not well be removed.

On the day the order came down for the dismissal of the master we had all the inmates brought out to the yards, and on reckoning them we found a deficiency of 41, compared with the number that appears on the books.

We have had Mr. Bell Martin, of Ballinahinch Castle, served with a 15 days' notice, and we beg to annex a copy of a note received from him respecting the payment of his rates.

We enclose a report from our medical officer as to the state of the hospitals. We are of opinion that it would be desirable to have a resident apothecary to make up and dispense our own medicines, and which we are convinced would tend much to the care and attention of the patients. We think 10*l.* a-year with rations would be a fair salary for a head nurse, and we have written to the different hospitals in Dublin to procure one that can be well recommended. We propose to appoint four wardmasters at a salary of 5*l.* a-year with rations.

We find that sweeping the streets has been a good test, as the persons appointed to that duty only remain a few hours at the work, when they give up.

We are decidedly of opinion that cooked food is best, both as being more wholesome and more economical: we were only induced to recommend the distribution of raw meal from a consideration of the difficulty and expense of erecting the necessary boilers, &c., &c.; but as we now find that in most parts of the Union, they still remain as left by the Relief Committees, we are making every exertion to have them put into operation with as little delay as possible.

Galway Union.

We are urging the collection in every manner in our power. The military were out in Annaghdown on yesterday and this day, we do not know as yet with what result, but fear from the information we have obtained that the difficulties of collection will increase weekly. Mr. Martin has informed us that it is useless his taking out the military again into the rural parts of his district, as that part of the country is quite exhausted.

The expenses of the temporary fever hospitals seem to us to be enormous. We are now called upon for upwards of 700*l.*, which is a heavy draw upon a falling exchequer.

ENCLOSURES.

Extracts from Minutes of 24th February, 1848.

Resolved—That the following persons be appointed relieving officers for the Galway Union, at the yearly salary of 50*l.* each, and that the salaries of the other relieving officers of the Union be raised to the same amount.

Nicholas Burke,	Patrick Turke,	Patrick Kinneen, and
Michael Duffy.	John Kearns,	James Campbell.
Walter Amos,

Resolved—That the relief districts of the Galway Union be remodelled, and that the following be the relief districts, with the relieving officers whose names are set forth opposite each district attached thereto, viz :—

1 Galway, East	Laurence Finerty.
2 Galway, West	Nicholas Burke.
3 Moycullen	Morgan Darcy.
4 Killanin, South	Patrick Turke.
5 Killanin, North	Martin Griffin.
6 Killanin, West	Francis O'Connor.
7 Oughterard, North	Walter Amos.
8 Oughterard, South	John O'Connor.
9 Oughterard, West	Michael Duffy.
10 Annaghdown	Matthew Craven.
11 Clare, Galway	James Morris.
12 Lackagh and Athenry	John M'Donough.
13 Oranmore	John Kearns.
14 Ballinacourty and Stradbally	Patrick Kinneen.
15 Union at Large	James Campbell.

Resolved—That Michael Dowling, relieving officer for Galway, and Thomas Francis for Oranmore, be called upon to resign, they being incompetent to discharge the duties of their office.

COPY of a LETTER from ARTHUR G. B. MARTIN, Esq., to the VICE-GUARDIANS, as to payment of Poor Rates.

THE impossibility of getting in my rents (without enforcing payment by severity, which would throw a vast mass of destitution on the Union) has prevented my paying the rate assessed against me. May I beg you to give me time, and to allow me to pay you by weekly instalments of 30*l.* If you cannot accept this proposal, I shall be obliged to increase the number of paupers in the Union beyond the power of support for them.

MEDICAL REPORT of the State of the GALWAY UNION HOSPITAL.

February 26, 1848.

THE number of patients in hospital this day are 255, including 48 fever patients in the fever wards at Straw Lodge; the whole number of fever cases are 100; dysentery 105, other cases 50. The number of deaths reported for the week ending on Saturday the 19th, were 19; from which date up to the present Saturday 26th, there have been 20. I consider this mortality exceedingly small, if the state of the inmates on their admission be considered; they come in reduced to the lowest state of debility and emaciation, from dysentery, want of food, and clothing, and having been exposed for weeks to cold and wet. They are brought directly from the probation wards to the hospital, and die in the course of a few days notwithstanding the most careful medical treatment; it is also to be remarked, that it will be found by a reference to the "records of deaths' book," that almost all the deaths are amongst those admitted from the southern part of Killanin and Oughterard electoral divisions, and scarcely any of the old inmates; the average time of their being in the house is about three weeks; the whole of the females in the establishment appear more healthy than the males; the latter seem to suffer more from dysentery and want of proper clothing than the former. The persons in course of daily admission to the house are wretched beyond description, and are almost immediately in hospital; this of course must be expected from the great increase of destitution abroad and the extreme inclemency of the weather. The number of deaths for the last month have been 64; the average number in the house about 1200. I have been informed that the average number in the county prison are about 960, and the average number of deaths have been about 35 weekly; taking into consideration that their dietary is considerably better than ours, the class of persons admitted much above ours, (except those committed as vagrants,) I think the Vice-Guardians must be satisfied with the result of the management of the hospital.

THOMAS J. REED, Clerk of the Union.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 29, 1848.

WITH reference to the proposed occupation of some land at the house at Dangan, which has been taken by the Vice-Guardians as an auxiliary workhouse, I am to state that as a general rule the Commissioners deem it undesirable that Boards of Guardians should take land with a view of affording employment to able-bodied inmates of a workhouse, as all experience has shown that attempts to provide such employment in the cultivation of land belonging to the Union, weaken the efficiency of the workhouse as a test of destitution. The Commissioners however think that a limited quantity of land may be advantageously appropriated to the purpose of employing the boys in a workhouse and giving them some knowledge of agricultural labour.

So far therefore as it may be necessary to take land for this latter purpose, the Commissioners will acquiesce in such arrangements as the Vice-Guardians propose.

The Commissioners approve of the remodelling of the relief districts of the Union, and of the appointment of additional relieving officers.

As regards the proposed appointment of a resident apothecary in the workhouse, I am to state that the Commissioners have usually objected to the residence in a workhouse of any person who does not come under the control of the master and matron; and for this reason, as well as for some other considerations, the Commissioners must decline to accede to the appointment of a resident apothecary to the workhouse. They approve however of the appointment of a non-resident apothecary to the workhouse, for the purposes proposed by you. The Commissioners have no objection to the allowance of a salary of

Galway Union.

10%. or 15%. with rations, for the services of a competent hospital nurse; and they desire me to express their sanction of the appointment of four wardsmen, at the salaries proposed, for such time as their services may be necessary; but you will probably be enabled to dispense with some of these assistants when a good master and matron of the workhouse have been appointed, and have had a sufficient opportunity of restoring the workhouse establishment to order.

The Commissioners perceive with satisfaction that you are making arrangements for affording out-door relief to the able-bodied in cooked food. The Commissioners are aware that there are some peculiar difficulties in that respect to be overcome in the Galway Union.

The Commissioners trust that your advice and instructions will stimulate the collectors to an active and impartial discharge of their duties, and that they will make prompt and energetic exertions for the collection of the rates outstanding, having regard alone to the ability of the parties to pay, and to the necessity of obtaining funds for the support of the destitute poor of the Union.

The Commissioners are desirous of being furnished with a list of the several immediate lessors in the Union who have not paid their rates, showing the amount due by each, and the steps which have been taken in each case to obtain or to enforce payment of the rates.

Forms for this purpose are enclosed herewith, and the collectors, or some of them, will perhaps be enabled to furnish the lists in the course of the ensuing week. The lists will be found useful in enabling you to direct proceedings to be taken, or to be pressed in cases wherein it may appear to you to be necessary to stimulate the collectors.

The Commissioners regret that the expenses of the temporary fever hospital in the Union should reach so large an amount as that to which you advert, and they will call the attention of the Board of Health to the subject.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 6, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 2nd instant.

In reply, I beg to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that however desirable it may be to suspend all orders under the second section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, I am of opinion that it might be attended with serious consequences in this Union, more particularly in the western districts, if carried into effect so early as the 18th of the present month. The season has been unusually wet, and it has been impossible to prepare the land for sowing. I passed over about 20 miles in Clare Galway and Lackagh on the 3rd instant, and in that journey did not see 30 men employed in any way.

I should suggest that, so soon as the weather becomes more favourable, all able-bodied men without families be first struck off the relief lists of all the eastern divisions. If operations are commenced on the drainage of Lough Corrib so soon as the present high flood shall subside, a great portion of the able-bodied, if not all in the county of the town, will find employment. The cultivation of the land will call for labour in the eastern districts to some extent; but in the electoral divisions of Oughterard, Killanin, and part of Moycullen, I greatly fear there is no chance of employment for the labouring poor. The people to the west are in a wretched state of poverty, being mostly small cottiers who have given up their holdings, which will in all probability be left waste for some time to come.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 8, 1848.

I AM to request that you will have the goodness to state whether the state of the Union is such that the provisions of the accompanying order to Listowel Union could be carried into effect.

It will be observed that, under that order, single men, and men with two children, will be thrown on their own resources.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 6, 1848.

WITH reference to the proposed occupation of some, and in addition to the house and premises at Dangan, we beg leave to annex a proposal from Mr. Redington, who is the owner in fee, and who has taken a surrender from Major Geoghagan, subject to the agreement for the lease to the Vice-Guardians, of the house, garden, and one acre of land, for a term of 21 years, at the yearly rent of 140*l*. We are decidedly of opinion that it would be advantageous to accept the offer made by Mr. Redington of this land, as its occupation will not only provide useful and healthful employment for the boys, but also afford a desirable opportunity of giving them some knowledge of agricultural labour, and training them in industrial pursuits, in which the peasantry of this country are generally so deficient.

We are making every preparation for cooking food for the out-door relief. A number of the boilers put up by the Relief Committees are out of repair, and others have been taken down and removed for security. We trust in our next report to be enabled to state that some of them are at work. We have been at the Commissariat store here to look at samples and to ascertain the prices of Indian and other meal. We found there a large supply of excellent biscuit, which we consider would be a capital substitute for soft bread until we get our cooking operations into full work, being cheaper and so much easier to transmit to the distant districts and the islands; besides a large quantity can be stored in these localities, which cannot be done with soft bread.

We have discharged the last of the aged and infirm paupers, having put them on the out-door relief list, allowing them a small weekly sum for lodging and fuel.

Our contractor for clothing has furnished a good portion of his contract, and is sending in a supply weekly. The miserable state of filth and rags in which the paupers appear was most disgraceful to such an establishment as this.

We will have the male paupers at work forthwith at the hand corn-mill erected in the workhouse; we had hoped to have it at work before this, but there was considerable difficulty in procuring the proper stones for it. We anticipate this description of labour will not only turn out profitable but be a capital test. In connection with this we are anxious to establish the baking of bread in the workhouse, which besides affording a more wholesome article, would be attended with a considerable saving. The principal difficulty we feel is the want of a good plan for an oven; if this could be had (with the sanction of the Commissioners) we should commence the plan with as little delay as possible.

We have not yet been able to visit the most distant relief depôts, our whole time and attention being required to keep the workhouse in any state of regularity, in consequence of the incompetency of the late master; but we intend to make regular visits to those districts when our new master and matron (who are to be elected on Wednesday next) get into the working system of the establishment.

We are using our best exertions to get in the rates; the collectors are with one exception diligently endeavouring to do their duty. When we consider the extreme laxity which was countenanced, and in many instances positive directions given not to press particular parties, we cannot but give them some credit for their present weekly collections. It is with the greatest anxiety we contemplate the large sums we have to pay weekly on account of the out-door relief; and we greatly fear unless we obtain assistance as other Unions have, we shall fail to carry out the intentions of the Commissioners. We cannot avoid stating our opinion, from local knowledge and the best information, that some of the electoral divisions in this Union are in a state of pauperism.

We are continually called on by the creditors of the late Board of Guardians for payment of their demands, amounting to upwards of 8000*l*. This we are totally unable to comply with, owing to the increased expenditure, nearly 500 per cent. since our appointment; we are barely able to meet our weekly engagements.

We have suffered considerable inconvenience during the last week in consequence of three of our relieving officers being in fever, and those in the western parts of the Union, where the greatest destitution prevails. We have not lost any time in sending out persons to superintend the districts and the issue of rations. It has occurred to us that it would be desirable to appoint a supernumerary relieving officer, not confining his duties to a particular district, and who would be ready at all times to proceed to any locality where his services might be required.

Last week we directed the relieving officers to strike off their books all single able-bodied persons between the ages of 16 and 50 receiving out-door relief, and give them tickets for the workhouse.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 8, 1848.

THE Commissioners request that you will propose to Mr. John Redington, a modification of the proposal to let his house at Dangan, with 16 Irish acres of land, in perpetuity, at a rent of 200*l.* a-year. The Commissioners are restricted by law to 12 statute acres, as the extent which may be held with the workhouses of any Union; but they may take an additional quantity of three acres, which latter may be used either for general purposes or for a cemetery, or for hospital-ground. You will therefore have the goodness to arrange with Mr. John Redington for so much of the land as you may consider absolutely necessary, and as with the quantity around the present workhouse shall not in the whole exceed 12 statute acres; reserving the power of holding the further quantity of three acres for a cemetery in any eligible locality.

The Commissioners fully approve of your making arrangements, as stated, for issuing cooked food, and also for having bread baked in the workhouse, with a view to which latter object they have notified to their architect your desire to be provided with the plan of an oven.

They consider it to be of much importance that you should visit the out-relief stations as proposed, with a view to the maintenance of a due check on the relieving officers; and you are requested to give your attention also to the work stations, and the regulations for enforcing the labour test, seeing that rations shall be withheld from the able-bodied men who do not work. When your weekly expenses for these objects, (confined to travelling only,) can be averaged, an equivalent allowance will be sanctioned.

The Commissioners observe with satisfaction the progress made by the collectors, with one exception; and when you shall be constrained by want of funds, notwithstanding due exertion on the part of the collectors, the Commissioners will be prepared to entertain your application for a loan. They rely, however, on your having all the means placed at your disposal, strictly applied to enforce payment of the rates.

They approve of your employing an additional relieving officer as proposed,—and trust that in every case of ascertained inefficiency or irregularity, you will take steps for superseding the officer and providing another.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 11, 1848.

IN reply to your letter of the 8th instant I beg to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that with exception of the electoral divisions of Oughterard, Killanin, Moycullen, and county of the town of Galway, I am of opinion the provisions of the order to Listowel Union of the 7th instant may be carried into effect in this Union.

Having communicated with Mr. Roberts, Superintendent of the Drainage of Lough Corrib, he informs me that, until the purchases of the property required for the proposed works are completed, he cannot employ more than 60 men. I do not, therefore, think it would be advisable to include the electoral division of Galway in the order.

As it is the intention of the Vice-Guardians to take Dangan House from the 1st proximo, for the reception of the children at present in the Union workhouse, they will then be enabled to put the workhouse test to a number of the single able-bodied men, and those having but two children, in the divisions not included in the order.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 15, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have given directions for the renewal of the order.

The Commissioners are not empowered to restrict the operation of the order to any particular electoral divisions, but they rely on the exercise of due discretion on the part of the Vice-Guardians, in either withholding or affording out-door relief to the able-bodied, according to the peculiar circumstances of each case.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 11, 1848.

WE have received your letter of the 8th instant. We have communicated with Mr. J. Redington as to a modification of his proposal to let the house and land at Dangan in perpetuity, but we have not yet heard from him on the subject.

We are making every exertion to establish in the different districts the necessary arrangements for the issue of cooked food, but have been greatly impeded this week in consequence of three of our relieving officers being in fever, and being obliged to call upon two others to resign from incapacity and irregularity in their accounts. We find it most difficult to provide suitable persons for the performance of this duty, and fear we shall still have to make further changes.

We have solicited the most respectable ratepayers in the different localities to give us immediate information as to any abuses, and we have directed the relieving officers to give such persons every possible facility in examining their books for that purpose. We are having lists printed of the names of the persons now receiving out-door and in-door relief, to be posted in each district; and those lists we propose should be renewed every fortnight, so that the ratepayers may be kept informed of the changes that may take place in the lists. Since the commencement of the out-door relief we have anxiously sought information as to any abuses existing in the administration of the relief, but hitherto we have received little or nothing tangible, although so obviously the interest of the ratepayers to afford it.

We propose on Monday visiting some of the out-relief stations to facilitate the preparations for the issue of cooked food, and enforce the regulations with respect to the work of the able-bodied. We were prevented leaving Galway early this week, as we intended, in consequence of the inconvenience produced by the resignation and illness of the relieving officers, and the difficulty we had in replacing them.

We have given a list of the defaulting immediate lessors to our solicitor, Mr. Blakeney, with directions to apply to them for their rates, and if not paid, to take immediate proceedings against them. We are of opinion that some of them must be proceeded against in the superior Courts.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 14, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 11th instant; and in reference thereto I am to state, that the Commissioners trust that you will eventually succeed in obtaining the services of duly qualified persons to discharge the duties of relieving officers in the Galway Union. The Commissioners think that great care should be taken that the relieving officers should not be interfered with by rate-payers who have been selected for the purpose of giving information in the several relief districts, as it is important that the relieving officers should be made fully to understand and to feel that they are individually responsible for the performance of their duties. Your occasional inspection of the relief depôts, the application of the workhouse test, and the enforcement of the labour test, will, it is hoped, be sufficient to expose and to check abuses. At the same time there is no objection to permitting respectable ratepayers to examine the relief lists, if they can be relied on for giving useful information to check abuse.

As regards the immediate lessors who are defaulters on the payment of poor-rate, I am to request your attention to the Commissioners' letter of the 22nd ult., and to state that the Commissioners are desirous of being furnished with copies of the lists of defaulters.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 16, 1848.

I ATTENDED the Board of Guardians on Wednesday, 15th instant.

The deaths during the week were 33.

The collection for the past week amounted to 139*l.* only. One collector, Mr. Walsh, did not come in. The collection made by Mr. Amos was but 20*l.* for the three divisions, viz., Oughterard, Killanin, and Moycullen. I had before occasion to notice the inefficiency of this officer; the neglect I complained of was not serving immediate lessors with 15 days' notice when directed.

I should recommend that a second collector be appointed to these divisions, as they are in my opinion too extensive for one man, and the Vice-Guardians appear to doubt if it would be advisable to dismiss Mr. Amos, when he has a rate partly collected, although fully sensible of his inefficiency.

The Vice-Guardians are much pressed for payment of sums due, particularly debts incurred by the former Board, and, in one case, notice has been given of an intention to take out legal proceedings if prompt payment be not made. There remains in the hands of the treasurer this day 314*l*.

The amount due by the Vice-Guardians, and requiring early payment, is about 1300*l*; this does not include the salaries of officers, or debts incurred by the former Board.

I think the time has now arrived to solicit assistance from the British Association, in aid of the rates, and request the Commissioners will be pleased to favour me with their instructions on this point.

The food hitherto issued for out-door relief has been wheaten bread, on contract, at the rate of 6*d*. per 4*lb*. loaf; this food is expensive and liable to much abuse. I regret that the issue of cooked meal or bread made of meal (rye and Indian) has not yet been substituted. The cost of bread now issued to the children, which is much liked, is 3½*d*. per lb.; the saving in each ton of meal would be 8*l*. 5*s*. I pointed out the advantage of this description of food soon after my arrival here.

A second superintendent of labour has been appointed by the Vice-Guardians, the Union being too extensive for one person to attend to, and I hope this will bring stone-breaking more extensively into operation. I have submitted to the Vice-Guardians the necessity of stricter measures, and the adoption of forms and reports sent down by the Commissioners, but have not been able to obtain their decision. I fear the relieving officers have given relief to the able-bodied who did not produce a ticket from the overseer, and have cautioned them on this head.

The relieving officers have hitherto given out the bread instead of employing storekeepers; this is liable to great abuse, and I should be glad to see storekeepers appointed. Applications were received for the office on the 8th instant, but the appointments have not been yet made.

The contractors for bread will not undertake to deliver it to recipients of relief on tickets from the relieving officers.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 21, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had before them your report of the 16th instant, in which you express your regret that the issue of cooked meal, or bread made of meal (rye and Indian), has not yet been substituted for the wheaten bread, which has heretofore been used in giving out-door relief in the Galway Union.

The Vice-Guardians inform the Commissioners that they have received tenders for bread made of barley and Indian meal mixed, but that the arrangement cannot be brought into operation until the contracts with the bakers expire on the 25th of this month, which fully explains why the use of wheaten bread has not been superseded heretofore.

The Commissioners are also informed by the Vice-Guardians that they will select from the candidates as many persons as they may require to act as storekeepers, when they have ascertained their fitness, and that they have already appointed six, who have been acting for some time.

With regard to the mortality in the workhouse the Commissioners request that you will draw the special attention of the medical officer to the necessity of adopting whatever precautionary measures may be in his power to maintain the inmates in the most sanitary condition. The Commissioners apprehend, however, that the cause of the mortality may be attributable to the exhausted state of the constitutions of the poor persons who seek admission into the workhouse.

The Commissioners will address the Vice-Guardians on the subject of the collection of the poor-rate in Mr. Amos's district.

As regards the collection generally the Commissioners request that you will examine strictly into the course which each of the collectors is taking; and that you will advise with the Vice-Guardians as to the adoption of such steps as shall appear necessary for enforcing a prompt performance of the collectors' duties wherever the rates can be collected, by exercising the powers vested in these officers.

The Commissioners are desirous of receiving information respecting the amount due by each immediate lessor, and by occupiers rated on a valuation of 10*l*. and above in each electoral division of the Union. The Vice-Guardians will afford the Commissioners information with respect to those immediate lessors against whom their solicitor has taken proceedings, and the Commissioners will be glad to receive your report as to the other cases.

The collectors may be summoned successively, and, if requisite, you can examine them upon oath as to any matters upon which they may not be able to satisfy you. It should be shown in every case why the rate has not been collected; and in each case, according to the circumstances, directions should be given for proceedings to enforce immediate payment of the rate.

It will be found useful if each collector is required to hand to the Vice-Guardians at each weekly meeting the names of the 10 highest rate-payers in each of their electoral divisions who have not paid their rates, and the Vice-Guardians will then be enabled to give such directions as may be necessary to enforce payment in each particular case.

The Commissioners will make application for an advance of 500*l*. worth of provisions to assist the Vice-Guardians in providing out-door relief in the Galway Union; but they are desirous of receiving a report from you as to the steps which are being taken to compel immediate payment of the arrears of rate in the Union before they make application for any further advance.

You will probably be enabled to report on some of the electoral divisions by the end of this week or the beginning of the next.

The Commissioners recommend that you should visit the several relief depôts in the Union, and examine into the manner in which the labour test is applied and relief afforded, and then you will be the better enabled to bring specifically under the notice of the Vice-Guardians the particular abuse or abuses which in any case may require to be remedied.

The Commissioners will forward a copy of this letter to the Vice-Guardians as expressing their views as to the course which they wish to be pursued with respect to the collection of the rate and other matters.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 20, 1848.

WE beg leave to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 14th instant, and also that of the 15th instant.

We have been enabled to improve our staff of relieving officers by calling on some to resign, which they have done, and electing others; still we are by no means satisfied with those at present in office. It is next to an impossibility to procure persons properly qualified for the situation, in a great measure owing to the frightful destitution and sickness which prevail in the Union. From the first we gave strict directions that no directions from any quarter should influence them in giving relief without first visiting the parties and ascertaining if they were fit objects. We shall use every exertion in working the out-door relief, both as to affording it to, and withholding it from, the able-bodied paupers as the case may be. In no part of our duties do we exercise greater caution.

We have received tenders for baking bread composed of barley and Indian meal mixed. It will not be more expensive than bread made from rye and Indian meal, to which we have an objection. This arrangement cannot be brought into operation until the contracts with the bakers expire, which will be on the 25th of this month.

We have received Mr. Wilkinson's plan for an oven, which we shall set about erecting forthwith. We are satisfied the bread baked in the workhouse will be of better quality and cheaper than can be obtained outside. We regret it will be necessary to remove the mill which has been at work, as the position occupied by it is the place marked out on the plan for the situation of the oven; however, this will not be attended with much trouble or expense.

We are anxious to get a French hand corn-mill from the Commissariat department; the two mills will give much employment to the paupers, and will be a capital test.

We have had numerous applications for the situations of storekeepers, and will select as many as we may require when we ascertain their fitness for the office: it being one of considerable trust, we are unwilling to make a hasty selection. We have already appointed six who have been acting for some time.

We travelled upwards of forty miles on Monday the 13th instant, visiting the depôts in the western districts. We are happy to have to state that many of the small farmers are tilling their ground, planting potatoes, and preparing to sow corn, which operations were so sadly neglected last spring, and hence in a great degree the fearful destitution which has visited those districts particularly.

We regret to state that the balance to the credit of the Union has been reduced very much.

And we fear there is not much hope that the collections will materially improve for some time.

We enclose a list of the defaulting immediate lessors who have been applied to for payment by our solicitor, to whom we have given directions to take immediate proceedings if the rates be not at once paid, but we fear if the small farmers were proceeded against at present, it would have the effect of paralyzing the exertions very generally making to get a crop into the land.

We beg leave to enclose a modified proposal from Mr. John Redington for the land at Dangan. We consider the offer reasonable, and we have ascertained that part of the same land has been let at 7*l.* per acre without any buildings whatever.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 21, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners rely upon your discretion in affording out-door relief in the Union. The Commissioners trust that you will be shortly enabled to report that the daily distributions of rations is given in cooked food in all parts of the Union where it is practicable. An extract from a report on the subject of cooked food from Captain Wynne, Temporary Poor Law Inspector of Carrick-on-Shannon Union on the subject of the use of cooked food is enclosed herewith for your information.

An extract from your report with regard to the oven to be erected at the workhouse will be forwarded to the Commissioners' Architect, and the Commissioners will make application for two French hand-mills for the employment of able-bodied persons in the workhouse.

The Commissioners perceive with satisfaction your account of the progress which is being made in the cultivation of the land in the western district of the Union.

As regards the collection of the rates, the Commissioners are anxious that your continued attention should be directed to this important point, that the proceedings of the collectors should be closely watched, and that they should be stimulated to a faithful and energetic discharge of their duties, regarding alone the ability of the rate-payers to pay their rates and the wants of the destitute poor of the Union.

The Commissioners are informed by Major M'Kie that he has more than once had occasion to notice the inefficiency of collector Amos, and he recommends that a second collector should be appointed in Mr. Amos's district.

The neglect of which Major M'Kie has now to complain is, that Mr. Amos has not served the immediate lessors in his district with the fifteen days' notice when directed to do so.

Major M'Kie states that you appear to doubt the expediency of dismissing Mr. Amos, although fully sensible of his inefficiency. He states as your reason for this doubt that Mr. Amos has partly collected the rate.

The Commissioners find that there is about 2500*l.* uncollected in Mr. Amos's district, and they think that the subject should be taken into your immediate consideration with regard to the expediency of at once dismissing Mr. Amos and appointing one or more collectors in his room. He and his sureties would still remain liable for any amount of the rates which may ultimately be lost by his neglect of duty or default, and sufficient remains uncollected to remunerate other collectors who might be appointed.

Mr. Amos's dismissal, moreover, by an order under seal, would probably have a good effect as an example to the remaining collectors.

The Commissioners are prepared at once to dismiss him upon the fact stated by Major M'Kie if you should recommend that he be removed, as it is necessary that the collectors and the rate-payers should see that a determination exists to compel the collectors to discharge their duties with zeal, fidelity, and promptitude.

The Commissioners trust that you will see that your solicitor allows no unnecessary delay to elapse in vigorously pursuing to a successful issue the proceedings which he has been directed to institute for recovery of the rates.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 23, 1848.

I ATTENDED the weekly meeting of the Vice-Guardians on Wednesday. The clerk of the Union was absent, attending the assizes in this town, and I have not been able to ascertain the number receiving out-door relief. The total number in the workhouse was 1167, of which 290 were in the hospital. I am happy to be able to report a considerable decrease in the mortality during the past week, the number of deaths being 18.

The amount of rate collected is only 93*l*. Mr. Martin, the collector of Galway, did not bring in his account; and on inquiry yesterday evening, I learnt he had been violently assaulted and severely beaten, together with his assistant, in Quay-street, in the town of Galway, on the 20th instant, when distraining for rates. Mr. Martin states, a large mob assembled and joined in the assault. Information was laid before Mr. Kernan, resident magistrate, who has issued warrants against the parties.

The test of labour has not been fully applied in all the divisions to the able-bodied labourers. In Lackagh and Athenry no overseers have been appointed. The Vice-Guardians think the people are so much scattered, that it would incur too much expense to appoint overseers for the number of able-bodied in the two divisions (145). I have advised that the workhouse test should be given for these districts, which will be done as far as practicable.

I find also that the relieving officers delay sending the lists of able-bodied men to the overseers for some days after they have been sanctioned by the Vice-Guardians—giving them, in the meantime, a week's relief in bread: for instance, one officer stated he had 267 men on his list, and on referring to the return of labour I found only 164 for the last week, the additional list having been given to the overseer only on the 21st instant. The Vice-Guardians have again warned the relieving officers not to give relief to the able-bodied unless they produce an order from the overseer.

Since my last report I have again advised with the Vice-Guardians on the advantage of issuing bread of mixed meal, and called their attention to Captain Wynne's report; and I have to report that they have resolved to adopt the use of this bread, and have advertised on the 21st instant that they will receive tenders on the 5th of April next, for the supply of bread of a mixture of Indian meal, rye meal, and barley meal—the contractor to be required to deliver the bread at the different food depôts of the Unions free of all expense, and to be distributed by him or his clerk to the out-door paupers, on tickets issued by the relieving officers.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 25, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had before them your report of the 23rd instant, relating to the Galway Union, and they regret to observe the small amount of rate collected during the last week, and the opposition offered to one of the collectors. They trust that you will direct your continued attention to the collection of the rates in the Union, and they have to observe, that in another Union where much opposition existed to the collectors, very beneficial effects resulted from the Inspector having accompanied the collector in the discharge of his duties.

As regards the labour test, the Commissioners are of opinion that whenever out-door relief is given to the able-bodied, arrangements should be made for enforcing the performance of the amount of work required by the Commissioners' order, and they are desirous that you should without delay visit the districts referred to in your report, and assist and advise the Vice-Guardians in making the necessary arrangements for the strict application of the test. The Commissioners rely upon the success of your endeavours in this respect: at the same time they fully approve of the intention of the Vice-Guardians to apply the workhouse test to the full extent of the means at their disposal.

The Commissioners consider it of great importance that you should visit the several relief depôts regularly, in order to satisfy yourself that the labour test is in full and effective operation, and to remedy any defects which may be found to exist. It may be so arranged that every depôt may be visited and thoroughly examined, at least once in each week, either by yourself or one of the Vice-Guardians, so that a continual check may be kept upon the local officers, and abuses be at once corrected or defects be at once remedied. The Commissioners will forward a copy of this communication to the Vice-Guardians, as expressing their views on the subject.

The delay on the part of the relieving officers in sending to the overseers the lists of persons to be relieved is extremely reprehensible, and means should be forthwith adopted to remedy this defect, and also to ensure the daily distribution of food. The Commissioners object to the issue of weekly allowances of food to the families of able-bodied persons, and they wish your particular attention to be directed to this point.

The Commissioners will be glad to receive a report from you on the several matters above referred to as soon as you have succeeded, with the assistance of the Vice-Guardians, in making satisfactory arrangements in each respect. The Commissioners desire me at the same time to state that they are fully aware that there must necessarily be many matters requiring much arrangement and attention in organizing an extended system of out-door relief, and it is to the remedy of the defects that present themselves that they wish your endeavours to be directed.

The Commissioners have read your observations with regard to the use of a mixed meal bread in giving out-door relief with satisfaction. They were apprised of the intentions of the Vice-Guardians on the subject in their last report.

The COMMISSIONERS to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—March 24, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had before them the list of immediate lessors in the Galway Union referred to in your report of the 20th instant, to whom application has been made by your solicitors for payment of the rates due by such immediate lessors respectively. The list does not however show the particular course which it is proposed to pursue in each case to enforce payment of the rates.

The Commissioners enclose a copy of the list herewith, as the information contained therein will probably be required by Major M'Kie, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, in the investigation which he is about to make into the accounts of the collectors of poor-rate.

The Commissioners observe that the total amount of rate included in the list is only 1468*l.* 0*s.* 0½*d.*, and they conclude that this does not comprise the whole of the rate due by immediate lessors in the Union.

I am directed to draw your attention to this point, as it is necessary in every case in which the rate has not been paid on demand by immediate lessors, that one of the three courses by legal proceedings to obtain payment should be at once commenced, the proceedings being open to more delays of form than in the case of rate due by occupiers.

In any cases in which you may determine to apply for the Commissioners' consent under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Amendment Act to take proceedings against immediate lessors in the superior Courts of Record in Dublin, the requisite particulars in accordance with the Commissioners' circular of the 14th January should be transmitted to the Commissioners with your application without delay, in order that the necessary consent may be given, and proceedings commenced, so that the writs may be returnable on the 15th April next. If that period should by any mischance be permitted to elapse, great inconvenience will arise in the delay which will take place before the commencement of the following Term.

The same kind of necessity for despatch exists in cases where civil bill processes before the quarter sessions are resorted to.

Vigorous proceedings should also be pressed to obtain payment of the rates due by occupiers; the ability of parties to pay, and the necessities of the poor of the Union, whom want of employment and other causes of destitution may throw upon the poor-rates for relief, being the only points of consideration which can legitimately influence the course to be pursued by the Guardians of a Union.

The Commissioners take this opportunity of drawing your attention to the necessity for making preparations for striking a new rate in the Union immediately after the 15th April, when the law proceedings for recovery of the outstanding portions of the existing rate may be expected to enforce payment in the majority of cases.

If in the rate of November, 1847, provision was not made for repayment of the advances under the Temporary Relief Act, it will be now necessary to make such provision in addition to the current Union expenditure; but if in any case the amount necessary for both purposes shall exceed 3*s.* in the pound, this amount of rate only is to be levied in any such division.

The COMMISSIONERS to Major M'KIE:—March 25, 1848.

MAJOR M'KIE is requested to report his opinion as to the time for which a renewal of the order for out-door relief will be necessary.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS, in reply:—March 27, 1848.

I THINK it will be necessary to renew the order to the 1st of May. I have advised with the Vice-Guardians, and it is intended, so soon as the house at Dangan is available, to give the workhouse test to the able-bodied males in the eastern districts.

Galway Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Major M'KIE:—March 29, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to inform you that they have given directions for the renewal of the order for the period recommended.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 28, 1848.

ON receipt of your letter of the 21st instant, I summoned the collectors to attend in succession, that I might inquire into the course they were taking for the collection of the rates, naming the 25th and 27th instant for their attendance, and sending blank forms to be filled in with the names of immediate lessors and occupiers rated at a valuation of 10*l.* and above.

I regret to report that these officers have failed to attend to these instructions, and that I am consequently unable to forward the returns as early as directed, while I have to regret that I have been unnecessarily prevented from attending to other duties by their neglect.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 29, 1848.

I AM to state that unless you shall have received some satisfactory explanation of the neglect of the collectors to obey your directions, it appears to the Commissioners to be expedient that you should take steps to have them punished summarily, under the 100th section of the Irish Poor Relief Act.

The COMMISSIONERS to Major M'KIE:—March 30, 1848.

WITH reference to the letter recently addressed to you on the subject of the collection of the poor-rates in the Galway Union, I am directed by the Commissioners to draw your attention to the circumstance that Mr. Martin, collector for the Galway division, collected in the week previous to the meeting of the Vice-Guardians on the 22nd instant, only 40*l.*, leaving 3476*l.* uncollected.

The Commissioners cannot consider that the same causes exist in the Galway electoral division as have been alleged to exist in other divisions of the Union for the non-collection of the rates, and they are anxious that you should use your best endeavours to have the rate collected in this division with the least possible delay. In another Union in which opposition to the collection was alleged to exist, the Inspector having accompanied the collector, the rates were at once paid.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 31, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to forward returns of rates due by immediate lessors and occupiers rated at a valuation of 10*l.* and above, in the electoral divisions of Clare, Galway, Annaghdown, Lackagh, and Athenry.

The cause of non-collection is stated in each case; some of the road contractors and others have promised to pay after the assizes, but there are many who will not pay until compelled, and the collector asserts that the presence of the military is absolutely necessary.

The resident magistrates have been prevented from attending with the military in consequence of the assizes; but as they have now terminated, I hope no further delay will take place.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 1, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to return herewith the lists of defaulting rate-payers enclosed with your report of the 31st ultimo, and I am to request that you will have the goodness to obtain and forward to the Commissioners the information required by the headings of the additional columns appended to the lists of immediate lessors from whom rate is due.

In any case in which it is proposed that proceedings in the superior Courts of Record should be taken against immediate lessors, the Vice-Guardians should forthwith apply for the Commissioners' consent to proceed, and in order that the lists may be returnable on the 15th instant, no delay on the part of the solicitor should take place.

The COMMISSIONERS to Major M'KIE:—April 1, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward to you herewith a communication which they have received from the Under Secretary's office relating to your report with reference to the eviction of tenantry on the estate of Mr. Christopher St. George, in the Galway Union; and I am to request that you will be so good as to furnish the Commissioners with a report on such of the statements of Mr. St. George as may appear to call for remark.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. CHRISTOPHER ST. GEORGE to Mr. REDINGTON:—March 28, 1848.

I BEG to observe, in relation to your letter of the 25th instant, that I am of opinion that the Poor Law Commissioners should have communicated with me at the time, February 3rd, of sending the Inspector, Major M'Kie, to investigate into the statement of the "Galway Mercury" of January 29th. The Poor Law Commissioners should have acted impartially; and they would have more amply vindicated the interests they are concerned for, by affording an opportunity to the accused, as well as accusers, to be present at the inquiry at Costello Bay.

They have thought fit, in a most unbecoming manner, to be lavish of the character of an individual fully as respectable as themselves, by inserting, without one precaution, statements unsupported for the most part by facts.

Because I have not entered into a newspaper squabble, the allegations of certain journalists are supposed to be true. I left London on the 8th instant for Ireland to attend the County Galway Assizes, and to further some matters of great private interest. On my arrival in Dublin I heard of the extreme illness of a near relative; I a few days subsequently was informed of her death in Rome; and but for such bad tidings I would in my place in Parliament have disproved any foul aspersion that could be cast on my character by pretended Irish philanthropists.

I shall now, for his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's information, proceed to narrate to him all I myself know or can ascertain relating to the matters he has inquired of. I have to thank his Excellency for the courtesy he has evinced towards me on this occasion, which exhibits a glaring contrast with the conduct of the Poor Law Commissioners of Ireland.

Mesdames Jane O'Flaherty and E. O'Shaughnessy, in the year 1836, obtained from my father, the late Arthur F. St. George, a lease of the district of Letterman Garomba, and other denomination of land thereto appertaining, at the yearly rent of 837*l.* 5*s.* 4*d.*, and 20*l.* duty turf. On the 1st of May, 1847, there being unpaid to me by the aforesaid person 1255*l.* 18*s.*, I was obliged to bring in Easter Term, 1847, against the premises ejectments for non-payment of this to me very considerable sum of money. Every person living on or at all interested in those lands was served with copies of ejectments. At least 600 householders were served on the 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th of last May; and in Trinity Term following I obtained judgment in ejectment, and thereby was concluded the entire interest of Mesdames O'Flaherty and O'Shaughnessy, and the several tenants to the full extent, that until the sum of 1255*l.* 18*s.*, and all accruing rent and costs of ejectments, was paid, the lessees or their tenants were not entitled to reside on, or in any degree to enjoy the possession of, the premises. Beside the sum of 1255*l.* 18*s.*, and 65*l.* costs at law, and 30*l.* duty turf owed me, I was obliged to pay Mrs. O'Flaherty 150*l.* in order to obtain possession of my property.

The aggregate quantity of money owed to me and expended for the recovery of my estate was 1500*l.* 18*s.*

On the 15th of last August I proceeded to Letterman and Garounna. I inquired into the circumstances of the tenantry; I found their condition indeed bad, arising from the neglect of the Mesdames O'Flaherty and O'Shaughnessy. I discovered in those districts persons residing, who, the outcasts of all other estates, had come from all parts of Ireland, chiefly pending the litigation between me and the Mesdames O'Flaherty and O'Shaughnessy. I was informed by the more respectable portion of the tenantry and by their priest, the Rev. Mr. Horan, that nothing could exceed the depredations of the persons termed "squatters." A flock of upwards of 800 sheep existed amongst the tenants; not one now remains; many cows have been killed and carried off. I informed the tenantry that 1500*l.* 18*s.* was due to me off the lands of Letterman. I investigated their accounts, and found they owed Mesdames O'Flaherty and O'Shaughnessy as much more as was due to me. I inquired of them how they were disposed to act towards me. I stated to them I had the full ability of dispossessing them all. They entreated me not to do so. I considered their sad condition; and at length informed them that if I was paid 400*l.* within three months I would remit 1100*l.* The tenants and the priest considered my offer most liberal. The tenants informed me they would pay me 400*l.*, provided I got rid of the "squatters" and of all bad characters. I engaged to them to do so. I have here to say, I have not as yet received 400*l.* as promised me. On the 30th of September last, and for two or three days subsequently, the deputy sheriff County Galway was occupied in executing the habere had against the lands of Letterman, &c. I accompanied the sheriff on the 30th, when possession was taken from some persons, who were permitted to return to their dwellings in character of caretakers. I explained to several persons who were pointed out to me as very objectionable persons that I could not allow them to remain on my property. I gave them money to enable them to remove elsewhere. Since the 30th September the power of the habere has been occasionally put in force. The badness of the district required the deputy sheriff not alone himself to act, but to grant specialties to carry out the intention of the law.

Galway Union.

Several persons have been dispossessed; but I am informed no act of inhumanity has been perpetrated in the removal, unless in the most urgent cases. The ability which I possessed, and still possess, to keep on my property such persons as I may deem fit shall remain, has not been acted upon.

I shall now apply myself to the report of Major M'Kie, and send certain affidavits to show that no person was illegally dealt with, and that no act of cruelty has been perpetrated.

I have great confidence in the prudence of my manager, Mr. John Lennan, of Letterman House, and I am certain he can qualify fully any act of his. I have looked through the book kept as to service of ejectments on the lands of Letterman, and I find the statements—

Thomas M'Donough, doctor, served personally on the 18th May, 1847.

Jane Connor.

The district called Garvinha comprises many denominations of land. If I was aware of the exact part Michael M'Donough claims to be of, I could inform you whether or not he was served with a copy of ejectments. This matters not, for judgment had on the ejectment concluded the entire interest of all parties.

I am quite averse to acts of cruelty. I regret the state my property is in in Connemara; such is ascribable to the sad middlemen system in Connemara. I have got rid of this class of tenants, as in one instance. Connemara is an extraordinary country, and requires more than private enterprise to uphold its inhabitants, and regenerate its circumstances. I have borrowed 6000*l.* under the Land Improvement Act, and have appropriated 1500*l.* to Letterman, and 1000*l.* to the other parts of Connemara. I have not received any rents, and have paid an immense poor-rate—oppression when a proprietor cannot realize anything from his property. Elsewhere—in Queen's County, and other parts of County Galway—my property is in a fairly wholesome condition. I pay weekly from 50*l.* to 60*l.* in different parts for the employment of my tenants. I feel indignant at being called a bad landlord. I scorn any charge of dereliction as to the duties of my position in society.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. M'KENNA:—April 1, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo, transmitting a copy of a communication from Mr. Christopher St. George, with respect to the report of Major M'Kie, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, relative to the eviction of tenantry on Mr. St. George's estate in the Galway Union; and I am to state, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, that the Commissioners will again communicate with Major M'Kie on the subject of the evidence in the case.

The Commissioners deem it right, however, in justice to Major M'Kie, to transmit, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, a copy of a communication received from him, dated the 18th ultimo.

This communication is as follows, namely,—“I saw Mr. St. George in Galway at the time the notes of evidence were being copied by the clerk. Mr. St. George had come in to make application to the Guardians for a revision of the valuation of his property. I took the opportunity to speak to Mr. St. George on the subject of the evidence taken at Derricaine Lodge, and offered him the perusal of it.

“Mr. St. George not only read the evidence, but left a person to copy it (I believe his steward): he had two persons with him. Mr. St. George led me to understand that any defence he had to make would be made in another place (i. e., the House of Commons).”

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 4, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 1st inst., forwarding me a letter addressed by Christopher St. George, Esq., to T. N. Redington, Esq., &c., &c., relative to the ejectments on his estate, and referring to my report of the 19th of February last, on which I have to offer the following remarks:—

At the time I proceeded to Costello Bay to hold the inquiry directed in your letter of the 3rd of February, I understood that Mr. St. George was in England; before, however, I had written my report of the evidence above alluded to, viz., on the 16th of February, the notes of evidence taken at Costello Bay were shown to Mr. St. George, and every explanation afforded him that it was in my power to give, and Mr. St. George left a person to take a copy, which he did.

Mr. St. George called on me on the 30th ultimo, and informed me that he had ample proof of the two witnesses having committed perjury. I remarked that I had given him full opportunity to put in any contradictions; and that had he expressed a wish to that effect, I should have delayed my report to enable him to do so. I was, indeed, most anxious that statements from both Mr. Blake and

Mr. St. George should have gone up with my report; and I delayed sending it to give time to Mr. Blake, who had stated that he would send me an affidavit.

Galway Union.

Mr. St. George did not, I confess, lead me to expect anything from him, as he stated in the Union Board-room on the 16th February that he should reply in another place, by which I understood him to mean the House of Commons; and that he would not enter into explanation elsewhere.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 13, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 4th instant, relating to the eviction of tenantry on the estate of Mr. St. George in the Galway Union, and I am to forward herewith for your information a copy of a letter which the Commissioners have addressed to the Under Secretary for Ireland on the subject.

LETTER above referred to.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. REDINGTON:—April 11, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to transmit to you herewith a copy of a letter dated the 4th instant, which they have received from their Inspector, Major M'Kie, in reference to the letter addressed to you by Mr. St. George on the 28th ultimo, in reference to the eviction of tenantry on his estate in the Galway Union.

The Commissioners sincerely regret that any injustice should have been done to Mr. St. George through inadvertency on their part. At the same time they feel bound to state that the complaints of Mr. St. George against the Commissioners appear to the Commissioners to be founded on a misapprehension of the course usually pursued in similar cases.

It is by no means the general practice of the Commissioners, when they give instructions for an inquiry into disputed facts, to write from their office in Dublin, to give notice to all the parties whose character may be involved in that inquiry. It is their custom to give instructions in each case to one of their Inspectors, in the full confidence that he will not make his report on the subject until he has given an opportunity to all parties concerned to offer explanations or to tender evidence.

This confidence in the instance under consideration appears to have been not misplaced. It is distinctly stated by Major M'Kie that, before he made his report, he showed the depositions to Mr. St. George; and as Mr. St. George had the opportunity of tendering either his own evidence, or the evidence of his stewards, the Commissioners do not think that there is any ground for the charge of want of impartiality towards him.

The Commissioners have to add that they will readily give due publicity to Mr. St. George's letter; at the same time they cannot forbear from expressing their surprise that it contains no allusion to the very material fact that Mr. St. George had been permitted by Major M'Kie to read the depositions in manuscript three days before the day of the date of Major M'Kie's report.

Major M'KIE to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 2, 1848.

IN reply to a letter of the 30th ult., I have the honour to report, for the information of the Commissioners, in further explanation of my report of the 19th February last, that the persons whose houses were thrown down at Tully were the tenants of Mr. Patrick Blake, of Gortnamona: he is the landlord, as stated by the witness John Costello. Mr. James Blake is the uncle of Mr. Patrick Blake, and his agent. As far as I have been able to understand, they were all tenants of Mr. Patrick Blake, of Gortnamona. Mr. James Blake holds a farm there at Inver, and it is possible some of the persons may have been his tenants; but my impression is, that they held the land from him as agent to his nephew, Mr. Patrick Blake. In either case there have been no ejectments served at Tully.

Fifth Series, page
466-70.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 10, 1848.

I AM to state that on the receipt of your report a copy was forwarded for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.

DINGLE UNION.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 25, 1848.

IN reference to your letter of the 7th instant, as also the accompanying resolution, I beg to acquaint you that, having previously to the meeting on the 15th requested of Captain Hotham to press the consideration of the subject upon the Board, and it appearing that, notwithstanding the division which took place (there being 12 to 12), they consented to reconsider the whole case at their next ordinary meeting, and which, in accordance with their resolution, I attended. Having afforded such information and explanation as was deemed necessary, the Board, after some discussion, unanimously resolved to place the sum of 300*l.* at my disposal, being the amount I considered necessary for fitting up two temporary workhouses in Dingle, supposed to be capable of receiving about 400 paupers.

As I cannot calculate upon assistance or co-operation from the Committee of Guardians, I apprehend that the responsibility of directing and superintending the necessary alterations and repairs will devolve upon myself. I shall, therefore, feel obliged by the intended visit of Mr. Wilkinson being hastened, in order that I may have the benefit of his suggestions and advice.

My absence from Dingle from Monday to Thursday night has necessarily delayed the revision of the relief lists. I resumed it, however, on Thursday at Inniscaul, where the Guardians and ratepayers of the district met me by appointment. That part of my duty once completed, I should have more time to hurry on the fitting up the temporary workhouses, and correct the abuses at the schools, which appear to require it as much as any other matter connected with the administration of relief in this most unfortunate district, there being hundreds of children receiving rations whose parents are in comparatively comfortable circumstances, to the exclusion of the children of paupers, who are supported by the funds provided by the rates.

With reference to your circular of the 19th instant, I beg respectfully to state that, although I am well aware of the advantages of cooked as compared with uncooked food, yet considering that I am now about to enter upon the arduous task of organizing a Union, without being in a position to call to my assistance even the advice of one efficient person; and bearing in mind that in the rural districts there is almost a total absence of gentlemen, or others who would be willing to co-operate with me, I trust you will be pleased to allow me to postpone the carrying out that principle, however desirable, for six or eight weeks, when I hope the pressure of my duties will have been so lessened as to enable me to undertake it with more prospects of success than if I commenced now, without machinery and without funds. In the mean time I am doing the next best thing, namely, purging the lists, and removing every person who is not by law entitled to relief. I believe I have already struck off 1500 persons.

Saturday morning.

I have just received a communication from Captain Hotham, informing me that the order for dividing the Union immediately had arrived, and of some of the arrangements consequent upon it. They are all embarrassing enough in our present unprepared state, without a workhouse—without officers—without money—without Relief Committees—without soup-kitchens; but that which I fear will prove the most embarrassing of all is, to the order to the Visiting Committee of Tralee workhouse “to give every encouragement to the paupers to quit it,” and this after the able-bodied shall have been turned out. That they will encourage them to leave there can be no doubt, as they are already delighted at the proximity of a separation; but as the Tralee Union is rich (vide rates struck) and Dingle miserably poor, I would entreat of you to require the Tralee Board to retain our infirm paupers until we have a place prepared for their reception.

Gentlemen, it will of course suggest itself to you, under all these circumstances, the absolute necessity of providing funds from some other source than the very remote one of the rates; for, although something might be collected about June or July, when the farmers will have made something by milk and butter, and again after harvest, the attempt to do so now would be worse than useless. Another result from the immediate division it would seem is, that out-door relief by the Tralee

B ard will cease immediately here. Now, with a debt impending over us to that Board, an exhausted treasury, and no credit from the contractors, you will see the embarrassing position which an immediate division will place us in, and the indispensable necessity of providing funds, to the amount of 1000*l.* at least, to begin with. I respectfully solicit your serious consideration to these several matters.

Dingle Union.

ENCLOSURES.

TRALEE UNION.

COPY of a RESOLUTION passed at the Ordinary Meeting of the Guardians, held on Tuesday, 15th February, 1848.

Resolved,—That the Commissioners' letter of the 7th instant, on the subject of fitting up a temporary house at Dingle, having been read, and having also heard Sir Thomas Ross's letter to Captain Hotham on much the same subject, this Board, not being able to come to any conclusion upon so serious a subject at a moment's notice, deem it prudent to postpone to next Board-day the consideration of the subject, and if it be not inconvenient to Sir Thomas Ross, that he do attend this Board next Board-day; and that he do in the mean time obtain such information with respect to rent of the proposed store, and all other matters of expense connected with the fitting up the same, and whether a more suitable one may not be had at Dingle.

W. O'CONNELL, Clerk of Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Count STRZELECKI:—February 29, 1848.

I AM directed to forward to you the enclosed extract from a report which the Commissioners have received from Sir T. Ross, the Inspector in charge of Dingle Union, relative to the necessity of providing funds for the maintenance of the destitute poor in that district.

I am at the same time to inform you that Dingle has lately been separated from Tralee Union, that there is, therefore, no workhouse for the reception of the poor, who are in the utmost state of destitution; and I am to request that you will be so good as to take the circumstances of the case into your consideration, and advance out of the fund at your disposal the sum of 1000*l.* for the support of the poor of Dingle Union.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 1, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration your report, dated the 25th ultimo, relative to Dingle Union; and they have made known your wishes in regard to the architect's visit to Dingle, and the fitting up the temporary workhouses, to Mr. Wilkinson.

With reference to your observations as to the difficulty of commencing the administration of relief in cooked food, the Commissioners trust to your discretion in not postponing the introduction of cooked food longer than may be absolutely necessary under the circumstances.

As regards the division of the Union, the Commissioners have to state that the course taken by them in establishing the new Dingle Union has resulted from the provisions of the original Poor Law Act, which it was imperative on them to follow out; and they do not see any occasion to apprehend serious embarrassment in effecting the change.

The rates struck by the Tralee Board on the Dingle divisions will remain for consideration by the new Board, when fully constituted, as it will not be advisable for the ex-officio Guardians to make any rate until the Board is complete; neither would the Commissioners recommend that more paid officers than may be absolutely necessary should be appointed before the 25th March. Perhaps pro-tempore appointments until that period will suffice of such officers as must be immediately appointed.

Captain Hotham has been informed that the Dingle inmates should, in the opinion of the Commissioners, remain in Tralee workhouse until premises have been provided at Dingle to receive them; and that if the Guardians take any premature step to discharge destitute persons from their workhouse, they will be answerable for any evil consequences which may ensue.

The Commissioners have applied to Count Strzelecki to advance out of the fund at his disposal the sum of 1000*l.* to you for the support of the poor of Dingle Union. They rely on your administering the expenditure of that sum with the utmost caution and economy; and they would wish you to avoid, as far as is possible, the making it generally known that so large a sum has been advanced by the British Association in aid of the poor-rates in Dingle Union.

Dingle Union.

Sir T. Ross to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 29, 1848.

IN reference to your order for dividing the Union, bearing date the 22nd instant, received last night, I beg to state that it appears by a second note received from Captain Hotham, his own views of the arrangements consequent upon the order above alluded to, are those which he sets forth and not the Commissioners'. I have, therefore, written a respectful remonstrance to the Tralee Board, and protesting against (as appears to me) the proposed inhuman act of ordering or using any influence, directly or indirectly, to get rid of our infirm paupers, and turning them upon the world houseless and friendless; at any rate until the subject was brought before the Commissioners, and their pleasure made known, even the able-bodied paupers whom it is proposed shall be discharged immediately, will be similarly circumstanced, having, when they accepted the workhouse, surrendered their wretched cabins, so that they are either in the occupation of others or razed to the ground. I do not, however, so much complain of this, as we are giving out-door relief to all classes; but I do complain of the Tralee Board withdrawing the revisor, who is now engaged revising this Union, it being absolutely necessary preparatory to arranging the new rate-books, that the land and houses lately vacated should be made available for the rates, and which they properly cannot be until revised. I believe the other measures contemplated by the Tralee Board are in accordance with law, however hardly they may press upon us, and therefore I do not find fault.

If the Board should decide at its meeting this day to discontinue relief to the poor of this Union, I have given the contractor to understand that I would hold myself responsible for any meal he may issue until I receive your instructions; and I have convened a meeting of the ex-officio Guardians for an early day for the purposes suggested in your letter of the 26th instant. I expect the attendance of two, or at most three.

Our prospects are gloomy, but I do not despair of working through every difficulty, and by perseverance bringing them to a successful issue.

The COMMISSIONERS to Sir T. Ross:—March 4, 1848.

ADVERTING to your report, dated the 29th ult., relative to the division of the Tralee Union, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they have received a copy of the resolution passed by the Board of Guardians of Tralee Union, on the 29th ult., setting forth the arrangements they propose as consequent upon the separation of those portions of the Union which now constitute the Dingle Union.

The Commissioners have already, in their letter to you of the 1st instant, apprized you that steps have been taken for placing funds at your disposal, to enable you to carry on the relief of the destitute poor in Dingle Union, and they presume that by this time the money is available to you for that purpose. The Commissioners have also, as stated in their letter of the 1st instant, informed Captain Hotham of their opinion that the Dingle inmates should remain in Tralee workhouse until premises have been provided at Dingle to receive them, and that if the Guardians take any premature step to discharge destitute persons from their workhouse, they will be answerable for any evil consequences which may ensue. Beyond this it does not appear to the Commissioners necessary for them to take any step with reference to the resolutions in question.

In reference, however, to that part of your report in which you complain of the Tralee Board withdrawing the revisor who is now engaged revising the Union, the Commissioners desire to observe that the withdrawal of the revisor does not constitute any ground of complaint against the Tralee Board of Guardians, but flows as a necessary consequence from the separation of Dingle from Tralee Union. The revisor of Tralee Union is the officer of the Tralee Board of Guardians, and as such he has no authority to revise the valuation of Dingle Union, nor have the Guardians of Tralee Union any authority to direct him to do so. If, however, from the local knowledge which the revisor has of Dingle Union, and from the experience which he has gained respecting the district when revising the valuation of it as part of Tralee Union, it is thought that there will be any advantage to Dingle Union in securing his services with a view to the first rate to be made in Dingle Union, the Commissioners do not doubt that some arrangement by which that advantage may be secured can be effected, and they trust that if such arrangement is thought advisable, the Tralee Board of Guardians will do all in their power to facilitate it.

Dingle Union.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 29, 1848.

IN compliance with the directions contained in your letter of the 26th instant, requesting that I would make a separate report on the subject of some remarks cursorily made by me on the back of a weekly return on the 20th instant, I beg to inform you that it has come to my knowledge that daily instances occur of unfortunate cottier tenants, whose holdings average from "the grass of half a cow to two cows" (for such is the way land is let here), surrendering them, in order to qualify themselves for out-door relief as hitherto administered. This is followed up quickly by the presentation of a document at the Committee-room from either the landlord or agent, to the effect, "that bearer had given up possession of his land;" and the fact of such surrender is in most cases evidence of the destitution of the person applying, having held the land until the cravings of hunger, together with all hope of being enabled to crop it, compelled them to give it up.

Thirty families residing upon a farm in the electoral division of Kilquane (Ventry trust property) were ejected by habere about a fortnight back; and the unfortunate people, amounting in all to about 150 souls, were exposed for several nights on the road-side to the inclemency of the weather, having no protection or covering than such as they could erect in the form of tents with the fragments of their miserable furniture and blankets; some have since obtained temporary house room from their acquaintances, others have erected huts, and until within a few days very few have applied to us for relief, being deterred from so doing under the apprehension that the Committee would have been informed by the drivers of the property (for we encourage the attendance of such persons when revising the lists) that a few miserable sheep, valued at about 2s. each, still remained among them.

Thousands of acres are and will be waste this year unless something be speedily done by either the landlords or the Government, to provide seeds for those who are still in occupation; and a strong feeling exists on the part of those who would otherwise be willing to take the vacant farms against doing so, in consequence of the alarm caused by the amount of rate struck for the support of the poor, and the apprehensions that matters will not mend for some time. In fact, the evil has arrived at such a pitch that it behoves the Government or landlords, or both, to come forward with some measure of reproductive employment of the people, otherwise the increased demand for relief next winter will completely absorb the entire property of the barony, but more particularly five of the electoral divisions whose ratings vary from 6s. to 14s. in the pound.

The large proprietors are my Lords Cork and Ventry (the Ventry trust property being nearly half the barony), and the Rev. Fitzgerald Townsend.

If I have stepped out of the course of my duty in any of the foregoing remarks I trust the urgency of the case will plead my apology.

P.S.—I should have mentioned, in justice to the receiver under the Courts, that the persons ejected paid little or no rents during the last two years; and that, as an inducement to give up the peaceable possession, he offered to each person holding the grass of one cow 1l., and so on, for any quantity over, which they refused.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 6, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have forwarded a copy of your communication to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant.

Dingle Union.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 4, 1848.

SINCE the rather unexpected division of the Union, and the determination of the Tralee Board of Guardians to cast us off in the midst of our difficulties, despair and disappointment pervaded the minds of all classes in the Dingle Union; and so far from results of an embarrassing nature being likely to arise from communicating to the assembled Guardians the timely relief to their besieged garrison, I do believe that it will have a directly contrary tendency; as I took the opportunity of impressing it upon them, that the advance was so munificent it was not at all likely that any further aid would be given, and that the rates, which would not now be more than the property could bear, should be made available for the relief of destitution; and here I may be permitted to ask if the gratuitous distribution of food is intended to be confined to the electoral divisions in proportion to their poverty and inability to pay high rates, or is it to be general over the Union, observing that they vary from 5*d.* to 14*s.* in the pound.

The clouds which overhung us are now happily dispelled and confidence restored. I beg to congratulate you, therefore, upon the carrying out of a measure which already bids fairly to be of great advantage to the property as well as to the poverty of the Union.

I have in almost every particular anticipated the instructions you sent me for the guidance of our pro tempore Board of Guardians, having made no appointments, except that of a clerk, at 10*s.* per week, which I beg you will be pleased to confirm. He will by this night's post transmit to you the minutes of our proceedings, by which you will perceive that Mondays are fixed for the weekly meetings of the Board.

I now proceed to report my own more immediate acts for the week. The schools entrusted to my superintendence required reform. I have accordingly applied myself to the task, and removed about 120 children from the rations lists of the schools in and near Dingle, and transferred thereto a like number from the relief lists. I believe every school in the Union requires a similar purging, which I will attend to as opportunities offer. On Tuesday and Wednesday was engaged revising relief lists and getting them into order. On Thursday at Annascaul, where I met the Guardians of the district and rate-payers, by appointment, to revise lists, struck off 200 persons. Friday our first Board day. This day engaged from 11 to 6, investigating the claims of paupers for relief; and I have the satisfaction to say, that in Dingle electoral division alone the expenditure has been reduced, within one month, from 116*l.* to 50*l.* per week.

I shall take care upon the Board being duly constituted, to bring under its immediate consideration the necessity of proceeding with the revision of the electoral divisions which were not completed by Mr. Roche, and to strike rates sufficient in amount to meet the expenditure up to the 1st of October next, making due allowance for the advance by the British Association and the expected bread-stuffs.

Your admonition to the Tralee Board as to our Dingle paupers will, I have reason to believe, have the best effect.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 8, 1848.

IN reference to the inquiry whether the gratuitous distribution of food is intended to be confined to the electoral divisions in proportion to their poverty and inability to pay high rates, or whether it is to be granted over the Union. I am to enclose, for your information, a printed copy of correspondence which has taken place between the Commissioners and Count Strzelecki, regarding the distribution of such advances.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 8, 1848.

WITH reference to your circular of the 2nd instant, as also your letter of the 4th instant, I beg to acquaint you that I have not been unmindful of the importance of the subject to which they refer; but as they involve considerations of so serious a nature, I thought I should be held excused if I deferred returning a reply, until by further inquiry and observation I could form an opinion which I should not afterwards have occasion to regret giving expression to. And although my present opinion would incline me to suggest that relief to the able bodied may be suspended in the electoral divisions of Castlegregory, Ballyduff, Ballinvoher, Ballinacourty, and Minard, on the 18th instant, and that it ought to be continued in the remaining, or five western electoral divisions, yet I am anxious that you would allow me a few days longer to make a final report.

The reasons which suggest themselves to me for adopting this course are the following:—In the first named five electoral divisions the population, as compared to estimated value, is as one to one pound, whereas in the remaining five it is as three to two, added to which the land in the first five is more fertile, and divided into larger farms, and is nearer to Tralee, a good market-town.

To the latter five (if in the meantime I should not see reason to change my opinion) the labour and cooked food tests could be applied, and I believe with good effect. In fact, we have already commenced with the former, as will appear by the minutes of our proceedings, which will be forwarded to you by this night's post.

I find on looking over your letter of the 4th instant, that the foregoing has almost exclusive reference to circular of the 2nd; but you will perceive from its tenor that relief has been given under the 2nd section of Poor Law Extension Act in this Union; and I respectfully recommend that you will be pleased to sanction its continuance until the 21st instant, by which time I hope to be in a position to recommend that it may cease in five electoral divisions at least, if the law will admit of such an arrangement.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 11, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners cannot limit the application of an order authorizing out-door relief under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act to particular electoral divisions. They have issued an order, as you suggest, authorizing out-door relief in Dingle Union until the 21st instant; and on receiving your further report they will again consider the subject.

Should it be necessary to continue the authority for any further period it will be within the discretion of the Board of Guardians to abstain from availing themselves of it in any electoral divisions in which they are satisfied that there is sufficient employment for the able-bodied, and that none of that class are actually destitute.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 19, 1848.

WITH reference to your letter of the 11th instant, as also your order of same date authorizing relief to the able-bodied of this Union, under section 2 of Temporary Poor Law Extension Act, until the 21st instant, I beg respectfully to suggest that you will be pleased to extend this authority to another month, ending 21st proximo, particularly as you state, "the Guardians may abstain from availing themselves of it in any electoral division in which they were satisfied there was sufficient employment for that class, and that none are destitute." I brought the subject under consideration at our meeting yesterday, and it is intended that relief shall cease to the able-bodied in the Castlegregory and Ballyduff electoral divisions on the 21st instant.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 24, 1848.

I AM to inform you that an order authorizing the continuance of out-door relief to the able-bodied poor to the 31st instant, had been prepared before your report was received. The Commissioners will be prepared to renew it for a further period if you think it necessary; and they request you will be so good as to report further to them, so that your report may reach this office, at latest, by the day before the present order expires.

Dingle Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Sir THOMAS ROSS :—March 23, 1848.

WITH reference to your suggestion that the British Relief Association be requested to place a sum of 125*l.* at your disposal, for the purpose of procuring clothing for the adult paupers in Dingle Union, I am directed by the Commissioners to transmit for your information, a copy of a communication which the Commissioners have received from Count Strzelecki on the subject, from which it appears that the British Relief Association have no funds at their disposal applicable to such an object.

The COUNT STRZELECKI to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 20, 1848.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 18th instant, accompanied by an extract from a report by Sir Thomas Ross, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, in which he suggests that the British Relief Association should be requested to place a sum of 125*l.* at his disposal, for the purpose of procuring clothing for the adult paupers in Dingle Union. In reply I have to acquaint you, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that the Association have no funds at their disposal applicable to such an object.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 28, 1848.

THIS being the assizes week, Lord Ventry was the only Guardian who attended the ordinary meeting of the Board yesterday. I have since the division of the Union requested the attendance of Mr. M. Gallway, an ex-Guardian, because as his re-election is certain I thought it advisable that he should be acquainted with our proceedings during the interim of the division of the Union and the assembling of the new Board, and because I found him on all occasions inclined to act a fair and honourable part in the discharge of his duty as a Guardian.

After disposing of the routine business, I brought before the Board the subject of forming new districts, together with the amount of salary which in my opinion ought to be paid to each relieving officer; they are embodied in resolutions entered on our minutes, copies of which will be forwarded for your approval by this night's post. I have abstained as much as possible, and consistently with the administration of the law in relieving the wants of the poor and a proper regard to economy, from any interference with what will more properly be the duty of the Board, but I considered that as we had entered upon another financial year no time ought to be lost in paying off all legal claims and balancing our accounts; and that by introducing a better arrangement of districts, regulating the salaries of relieving officers upon more economical principles, I should be best consulting the interests of all parties, particularly as these matters are within the province of the Guardians, and may be set aside if they should think fit.

The medical officer attended at my request and submitted his report, by which it appears that fever is much on the decline, although of a dangerous type, whilst dysentery is much on the increase, the hospital, which is only capable of accommodating 40 patients, being full. Lord Ventry having left the meeting at 4 o'clock I was engaged investigating the claims of paupers, assisted by ratepayers, until 7 P.M., and here I may remark that the question will probably suggest itself, "how is it that so much of Sir T. Ross's time is occupied in investigating the cases of paupers?" I answer, that the greater proportion of those who present themselves are persons seeking to have additional members of their families placed on the lists, whilst others who have been struck off wish to be restored; instances have occurred of persons having been improperly removed from the lists by the representations of unfeeling ratepayers, but I can safely say that so searching are our inquiries not one has been admitted who is not an object and by law entitled to relief.

In reference to your sealed order, authorizing relief to the able-bodied of this Union, under section 2 of the Irish Poor Law Extension Act, I beg to reiterate the suggestions I took the liberty of offering in my letter of the 19th instant, recommending its extension to the 21st April, as I see nothing in the circumstances of the Union to justify a discontinuance of relief to that class; but I will take care to remind the Guardians from time to time that whenever they are satisfied there is sufficient employment in any electoral division relief may cease.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 1, 1848.

Dingle Union.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 28th ultimo, in which you recommend that the order authorizing out-door relief in Dingle Union be continued until the 21st instant, and I am to inform you that the Commissioners have issued an order accordingly.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 2, 1848.

WE had an adjourned meeting of the Board on Wednesday last, as agreed upon, to examine tenders for supplying the workhouse with clothing, and I beg to refer you to minutes of our proceedings for the particulars of the business transacted. There being but few samples of freizes, flannels, and linens exhibited for examination, I directed the clerk to advertise for tenders for a farther supply of those articles, and to make it known in every way that he could by posting notices, &c., that it was the wish of the Board to give every encouragement to home manufacture, particularly linen, with a view, if possible, to revive the growth of flax, which, in days of yore, was a source of comparative wealth in this part of the country; and I have reason to believe that, as we have evinced a desire to circulate our money within the Union (provided it proves the cheapest market), we shall be enabled to complete our supplies on next Board day.

On Thursday I crossed the far-famed "Connor Hill," one of the levies of Kerry, being the direct road to Ballyduff, where I inspected the whole of the schools in that electoral division, and where, as usual, I discovered jobbing, and robbery of the food of the unfortunate children. I did what I considered necessary to mitigate the evil, by giving directions to have the meal placed in charge of the Coast Guard; the officer having kindly promised to see each day's ration weighed for the two schools in the vicinity of his station, and otherwise to assist in carrying out the benevolent intentions of the British Relief Association.

The weather having taken up a little, I was happy to observe great activity in preparing for and planting potatoes, and, from inquiry, I have every reason to believe that every person in the Union who holds land will plant to the utmost of his means. I have heard of an instance of a family living upon one meal a-day for the last three weeks rather than encroach on their little store of seed potatoes, upon which it appears they have cast their lot whether for weal or woe. The effort to return to the potato cultivation will not be confined to holders of land, as I believe numbers of the unfortunate people who either surrendered their holdings or were evicted, and now receiving whatever relief, will sow more or less within the quarter of an acre, as allowed by a resolution passed at our Board on the 15th ultimo.

I do not fail to impress it upon them, that they ought not to be too sanguine of the success of the potato, and that they ought rather to reserve part of the land and manure for turnip growing, telling them at the same time that so little do I rely on the potato myself, although I hold over 160 acres, I do not intend sowing more than a few barrels, whilst I am preparing several acres for turnips.

Yesterday engaged inspecting the progress in the repairs and alterations of temporary workhouses, examining and paying tradesmen's bills, &c. Visited the meal depôt at Ballyduff and Dingle; found that the week's issue was not according to sample in my custody, and for which I shall take care to bring the contractor to an account. Everything else, I am happy to say, goes on satisfactorily. I purpose having another revision of the relief lists, by which, as there is some employment now, I hope to be enabled to strike off a few hundreds.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 18, 1848.

THE Dingle Board met yesterday for the first time; there was rather a good attendance, and, with the exception of Messrs. Gallwey, M. Moriarty, and H. M'Cann, were composed of the most respectable class of freize-coated farmers in the Union. As a specimen of future promise, I may mention that one of the number could not speak a word of English, and a second, when asked how he intended to vote on a certain question then before the Board, replied that "he would vote with the majority." However, if the ex-officio Guardians attend, and give their assistance, I do not despair of the business of the Union being carried on in a satisfactory manner, saving and excepting the providing funds, which, in its present impoverished condition, none of us can contemplate without anxiety and alarm.

Dingle Union.

The Chairman, Vice-Chairman, and Deputy Vice-Chairman, under the late regimen selected, and for the business transacted, I beg to refer you to minutes of proceedings forwarded by this night's post.

I have not failed to impress upon the Board the necessity for frequent meetings until the Union is properly organized, the clothing prepared, and the temporary workhouse completed with every requisite for occupation, and certain days have been set apart for revising relief lists and investigating the claims of applicants for relief, which latter, I am very sorry to say, continue as numerous as heretofore, the poor people having, under the advice of the Roman Catholic clergy, either by an offer of surrender of their holdings, or disclaiming the occupation with the exception of their cabins, and thereby becoming eligible for relief. This ingenuous arrangement, in the present state of the law, places the landlord in the peculiar position of not being able to let the land to other persons without having recourse to the expensive process of ejectment: one thing, however, is certain, that there has been a considerable increase in our expenditure in consequence of this combination, if I may so term it.

I have, in my letter of the 16th instant, informed you of the number of children in the Union who receive school relief, and I have the honour to inform you that the number of persons who receive out-door relief are 9220, amounting in all to nearly 12,000, being very nearly one-third of the population; of this number I hope during the present and ensuing weeks, by a revision of the Unions, to be able to strike off at least 1000.

I had hoped, as the spring season advanced, a perceptible proportion of the able-bodied would be absorbed into private and self-supporting labour, but so long as the authority exists for giving out-door relief to that class (and I am by no means prepared to recommend its discontinuance), so long will they remain a burthen upon the charity. The experience, however, of the success of the experiments resorted to by the Government in the spring and autumn of 1847, by the almost sudden stoppage of both systems of relief then in operation, induces me now to state as my opinion that, unless some bold and vigorous measures be adopted upon the responsibility of the Commissioners, there is not the most remote prospect of effecting any considerable diminution in the expenditure, as arguments and reasoning have altogether failed in persuading the people that they must rely on their own industry for the support of themselves and families. With this view therefore I would respectfully bring under the notice of the Commissioners whether it would not be advisable, after the 21st instant, to authorize a modified system of relief to the able-bodied, by withholding it altogether from single men, and married men having no children dependent upon them, or by allowing a reduced portion of the present scale of rations to all able-bodied who shall not be in permanent employment, with the understanding that they will be permitted to avail themselves of an occasional day's work for wages to assist in maintaining themselves and families.

It is scarcely necessary to remark that, although we have a labour test in full operation in several districts in the Union, notwithstanding every effort is used to check it, many of the labourers absent themselves on the plea of illness, &c., when there can be no doubt they were employed either for their victuals or hire. No doubt the workhouse test, when it can be applied, will operate as a wholesome check against imposition of this sort, but it must necessarily be limited, as I believe we shall not have accommodation for more than 350, or at most 400.

I throw these suggestions out for consideration of the better judgment of the Commissioners.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 27, 1848.

IN regard to your suggestion that after the 21st instant a modified system of relief to the able-bodied should be authorized, withholding it altogether from single men and married men having no children dependent upon them, the Commissioners desire to observe that under the present Irish Poor Laws it is a part of the duty of the Commissioners to see that persons really destitute receive relief either in or out of the workhouse. If there is any class of persons such as single men or married men with not more than two children, who might if they exerted themselves obtain employment, the Commissioners would not regard them as really destitute, and would on your recommendation (if made after due inquiry and consideration), omit them from the order authorizing out-door relief to able-bodied men.

The Commissioners object, however, in the strongest manner to the alternative suggested of allowing a reduced portion of the present scale of present rations to all able-bodied who shall not be in permanent employment, with the understanding that they shall be permitted to avail themselves of an occasional day's work for wages to assist in maintaining themselves and families. Such a system would be fraught with dangerous consequences, and would, in the opinion of the Commissioners, be seriously injurious to the permanent welfare of the Union, it would in fact be a very near approach to, if not an actual adoption of one of the most objectionable practices under the old system of English Poor Laws, viz., the practice of giving relief in aid of wages—a practice which it is the duty of the Commissioners and their Inspectors to exercise the utmost vigilance in preventing.

With regard to the labourers absent from stone-breaking on the plea of illness, when there is no doubt that they are in employment for victuals or hire, the Commissioners desire to point out that such parties should be at once struck off the Relief lists. Indeed the Commissioners do not see how such an abuse can exist to any considerable extent if a proper system of relief has been organized in the Union; and the Commissioners earnestly request your special attention to this point, in order to prevent such an abuse in future.

The Commissioners had, previously to the receipt of your report, issued an order continuing the authority to grant out-door relief to the able-bodied in Dingle Union until the 28th instant, and they have now given directions that the order be continued for a week beyond that period, and they request that you will report specifically before the renewed order expires, as to the necessity of a further renewal of the order, and as to any modification of it which you may consider practicable.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that stone-breaking by task is being carried on in every district throughout the Union where out-door relief is authorized to be given to the able-bodied, although many difficulties present themselves in enforcing the task-system with any degree of regularity, many of the labourers being physically incapacitated from performing what ought to be considered a fair day's work. We are however improving in organization and discipline; and considering that my staff of assistants is not as efficient as I could wish, and that our performances do not recommend themselves in the absence of neatly printed forms and printed instructions, yet I do believe that we can show as good returns as any other Union having the same number of persons employed.

Adverting to your observations that the material is generally available, I take leave to say that, with the exception of those cases in which we found stones on the unfinished Board of Works roads, our material will not, I fear, be available for some time to come, or at any rate until the barony is in a position to resume those works from funds raised by local taxation, as both sea and river gravel is found in great abundance, scarcely anything else being used on the contract roads. I am therefore confining our operations as much as possible to the new roads, where I find large quantities of stones deposited.

Relative to the subject of cooked food, I need hardly assure you that I am as sensible of its many advantages as the Commissioners themselves can possibly be; but when I inform you that every available means were resorted to by the Relief Commissioners to put it in operation in this Union last year, when there were ample funds, Relief Committees, &c., without succeeding in even one instance, you can judge of the difficulties I have to encounter, without the co-operation or assistance of a single individual of influence; without money, without a police establishment in the rural districts to protect the depôts, and though last not least, having still the practical working and carrying out the details of the Union on my own hands, and thereby rendering it difficult for me to absent myself from head quarters sufficiently to hire suitable places to superintend the fitting up boilers, organized staffs, &c., for cooking food for 9000 individuals in a wild and mountainous country. Still I feel that at any sacrifice the attempt should be made; and if the necessary funds are placed at my disposal, I will, without a moment's further delay, undertake the task even if I should sink under it, more however with the view to the preservation of the lives of our poor recipients of relief than as a test of destitution, because I am perfectly convinced from what I am a daily witness to, that such is the state of wretchedness and misery they are now struggling against, and so low is the standard of morality to which a succession of suffering during the last two years has reduced them, that no matter how unattractive the test, they will gladly accept as a condition of obtaining rations. I participate, therefore, in the higher feelings and motives with which the Commissioners are influenced, in offering my best efforts to establish the system of cooked food, namely, that it will materially conduce to the preservation of the health of many who must otherwise fall a sacrifice to dysentery and diarrhoea, which are now very much on the increase.

Dingle Union.

Dingle Union.

According to a rough calculation I have made, it will require about 130*l.* to procure the required number of boilers, pay for carriage, fitting up, &c.; but if they could be procured in Cork or Limerick, and sent round by the Government steamer, it would lessen the expense materially and be a very great convenience, as there is scarcely any intercourse with those places and this remote corner of the globe.

If I may calculate upon the co-operation of the Commissioners by requesting the Commissariat officers in Limerick and Cork to procure the boilers, I would send the dimensions and number required, but without money I can do nothing; meantime having ascertained that a hooker belonging to Dingle is now in Cork for a general cargo, I have ordered a ton and a half of rice upon my own responsibility, and will have it mixed in small proportions with the rations of persons affected with dysentery, which I trust will have a good effect.

REPLY to the foregoing:—May 1, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report dated the 25th ultimo, relative to Dingle Union.

The Commissioners do not doubt that the difficulties which you experience in the organization and enforcement of the rules under which out-door relief to the able-bodied is to be administered are great, but they trust, that with the co-operation of the Board of Guardians, and by a continuance of energetic measures on your part, those difficulties may be overcome. In reference to your observation that you have the practical working and carrying out the details of the Union on your own hands, and that it is therefore difficult for you to absent yourself from head-quarters sufficiently to organize the introduction of the cooked food system, the Commissioners trust, that now the new Board has met and commenced its functions you will not fail to point out to the Guardians the absolute necessity of their attending to the duties of their office, and that you will explain to them that you cannot undertake the performance of their duties without prejudice to your own more immediate duties as Inspector.

In regard to your statement in reference to the stones broken by the paupers that the material will not be available for some time to come, except in those places where stones were found on unfinished roads, the Commissioners desire to state, that this is a secondary point, to which they attach but very little importance. The advantages of stone-breaking over other descriptions of employment, as a condition of relief are so great, that the Commissioners think it should be adopted wherever the materials are available, that is, wherever they are easily procurable, without reference to the question of whether the stones, when broken, can be advantageously disposed of.

The Commissioners have applied to the Count Strzelecki to place, at your disposal, a further sum of 500*l.*, in order that you may be enabled to commence the cooked food system at once, and they will apply to Sir Randolph Routh to know whether he can, under the circumstances of the case, assist you in obtaining the boilers.

Sir THOMAS ROSS to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 30, 1848.

I MAY have been wrong in holding out a hope of any further aid from the British Relief Association, but the almost indescribable poverty and misery of the Union demands from me that I should be explicit upon this point, and when I inform you that, at this moment, almost every available shilling is in requisition for the laudable purpose of cropping the land, encouraged as it has been by the respite given through the generous contributions of others, I need scarcely say, that to attempt to collect a rate, would not only prove unavailing, but would be a heavy blow and great discouragement to the extraordinary efforts that are being made by all classes to make the land productive, and to which alone they look forward to relief from the pressure of taxation. In their behalf, then, I respectfully but earnestly appeal for further assistance from the British Association, and when it is borne in mind, that nearly half the money already received was necessarily expended in fitting up workhouses, procuring furniture, clothing, &c. I trust you will give us credit for having exercised a rigid economy, and upon the whole, we have entitled ourselves to your sympathy, and that you will be pleased to recommend a further grant of 500*l*.

I shall feel obliged, by being informed, whether, as a medical officer was elected yesterday for the workhouse, and our sick poor were removed to the workhouse hospital, the services of the gentlemen appointed by the Board of Health are now to be dispensed with, and also, if a nurse and nurse-tenders are to be selected from the paupers who may be found fit, and if they are to be paid salaries.

I shall be glad also to be informed if hospital accommodation is in future to be confined exclusively to paupers, recipients for relief.

REPLY to the foregoing:—May 4, 1848.

WITH reference to your request for further assistance from the British Relief Association, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they cannot recommend that aid be given to the Union, in order to prevent or postpone the necessity of making rates for the relief of the destitute poor; the conditions on which it was originally arranged that the British Relief Association would afford assistance to certain distressed Unions, were as follows,—“assistance will be granted to a Union only at a period when the Board of Guardians have made proper exertions in the working out of their own arrangements, and when it is clearly ascertained and certified by the inspector that these efforts have been made, and the extent of distress really exceeds all their power of relief duly and fully exerted.”

The Dingle Union has, however, been particularly circumstanced, and has to some extent been made an exception to the general rule; but now that a Board of Guardians has been constituted, and the Board has commenced the exercise of its functions, the Commissioners could not properly recommend further assistance without your certificate that due efforts have been made by the Board of Guardians. The Commissioners think therefore that the preparation of the new rate should be urged forward with as much dispatch as possible, and if before the rate can fairly be put in collection, further assistance should become necessary, or if when put in collection it is found that sufficient funds cannot at present be raised for the due relief of the destitute poor in the Union, the Commissioners will recommend a further advance to be made.

A sum of 500*l*. has been remitted to you since the date of your Report, so that there can be no immediate necessity for a further advance, but should it become necessary for you to apply for such further advance, you will be good enough to forward with your application an estimate of the weekly sum which in your opinion will be required in order to preserve from starvation the destitute poor who are entitled to relief in your district, forming a separate estimate for each of the three following heads:—

1. Relief in the workhouse.
2. Relief out of the workhouse to persons entitled to such relief under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.
3. Relief to able-bodied persons entitled to such relief under the 2nd section of that Act.

In reply to your inquiry as to whether the services of the gentleman appointed by the Board of Health are now to be dispensed with, a medical officer for the workhouse having been elected, and the sick poor having been removed to the workhouse hospital, I am to state the fact of the workhouse being opened, does not in any way affect the position of the medical officer of the Board of Health. If, however, you are of opinion that the medical relief afforded in the workhouse is sufficient for the wants of the Union, the Commissioners will on receiving a Report from you to that effect, represent the case to the Board of Health, who will doubtless adopt such course as the circumstances of the case may seem to require. You are of course aware that officers appointed under the Board of Health, are paid from the Consolidated Fund, and not from the poor rates.

As regards the nurses, the Commissioners think that as a general rule, it is important that the workhouse hospital should be placed under the care of a respectable and competent person at a fair salary. The nurse might have the assistance of such of the paupers as may be fit for the duty, but under no circumstances could a salary be allowed to a pauper.

No person should be admitted into the workhouse hospital who could not properly be admitted into the workhouse as a pauper on the ground of destitution.

GORT UNION.

Captain HANLEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 24, 1848.

THE general state of the workhouse here has improved considerably since my last report; as yet much remains to be done.

I have had much fault to find with the female portion of the house, as to order and cleanliness; but the matron who has proved unfit for her situation, has sent in her resignation, and a notice for a successor will appear in the next "General Advertiser."

I am using every effort to have the rate-books completed; books for three electoral divisions were signed on Friday, and I have the collector of that portion of the Union actively at work.

The number in the workhouse is 999, receiving out-door relief 7,029. From the loose manner in which I find that out-door relief has been hitherto granted (on the mere representation of relieving officers,) I have no doubt many of the recipients should not have been admitted; however, with the stone-breaking test, (having received a supply of tools from the store of the Board of Works,) I hope soon to be able to check it.

The state of the sick for want of hospital room is deplorable. We have 128 fever cases huddled into a small space, and the doctor has this day reported to me, that the apartments occupied by 58 dysentery patients, are not suited with safety to receive more than 20.

The doctor requires a supply of rice for which there is no provision. I beg to know am I at liberty to order it.

No step was taken by the late Board of Guardians relative to the erection of a fever shed, as approved of.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 25, 1848.

WITH reference to the crowded state of the hospital of the workhouse, I am to suggest that the Vice-Guardians should immediately take steps to relieve out of the workhouse such of the present inmates as will enable them to provide sufficient accommodation for the sick. The Guardians are fully authorized to provide the classes coming under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, with allowances for lodging, fuel, and clothing, as well as food; and they request your particular attention to their circular letter of the 18th ultimo, on this subject.

It will be desirable that you should consult with the medical officer of the workhouse as to the best mode of separating the infectious cases in hospital, so that the workhouse may not be rendered unavailable as a test of destitution. It will probably be found practicable to make arrangements for this purpose in the buildings at present available; but if not the Vice-Guardians should endeavour to hire a house or houses for the purpose.

The Commissioners think it probable that the Vice-Guardians may not yet have funds to enable them to have the necessary steps taken promptly in the present emergency, and the Commissioners have therefore applied for a sum of 500*l.*, to be placed at your disposal for the purpose.

This sum should be repaid out of the current rates with as little delay as possible.

The sealed order of the Commissioners issued yesterday, will have enabled you to give orders for such of the provisions required for the relief of the poor, as contracts have been made for.

The Commissioners think it may be useful to you to have the enclosed observations of the Board of Health, as to the steps which they recommend to be taken in cases where infectious disease may be prevalent in a workhouse.

Gort Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain HANLEY :—February 28, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to call your attention to the fact that the Commissioners' order of the 6th instant, authorizing out-door relief to the destitute poor in the Gort Union, will expire on the 6th March; and I am to request that you will inform the Commissioners if, in your opinion, there is any necessity for a renewal of the order.

Captain HANLEY to the COMMISSIONERS in reply :—February 29, 1848.

WITH reference to your letter of yesterday's date, I beg to state that it will be necessary, in my opinion, to obtain a renewal of the order authorizing out-door relief in this Union for a period of two months longer, to enable the Vice-Guardians to effect a gradual reduction in the number of able-bodied persons receiving out-door relief, without at the same time overcrowding the workhouse, which in its present state must be avoided.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 3, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have given directions for the preparation of an order authorizing out-door relief until the 18th instant only; I am at the same time to request your attention to the Commissioners' circular of the 2nd instant, relating to the duration of out-door relief in the different Unions in Ireland.

Captain HANLEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 1, 1848.

HAVING communicated with Mr. Hall, Vice-Guardian, we deemed it advisable to visit the temporary hospital at Kinvarra, with a view of ascertaining the best mode of carrying out your instructions as to providing increased hospital accommodation.

We were accompanied this day by Dr. Nolan, the medical gentleman in charge.

On arrival at Kinvarra, we made inquiry as to the fever committee, hospital arrangements, books, &c., but could obtain no information beyond the fact that everything was being carried on by Dr. Hynes, the medical attendant, and that the committee had long ceased to act.

On proceeding to the hospital, which was attentively examined by Mr. Hall, the same irregularity seemed to exist; no matron or respectable person in charge, want of cleanliness, regularity, and ventilation prevailed all through.

In the small yard attached I was shocked and astonished by the porter or servant applying to me "to know what he was to do with four bodies, (patients who had died in the hospital) which he had in an out-house, one of them for upwards of four days." He stated that the cemetery was so crowded that he could not, nor dare not, bring them there; however, Dr. Nolan gave him directions on that head.

Fever to an alarming extent prevails in that very destitute, populous, and impoverished district, in which a well-regulated hospital with 100 beds would scarcely meet the emergency; to the providing of which, under competent direction, I cannot too earnestly recommend attention.

The present hospital is not calculated to receive more beds. Dr. Nolan is in temporary charge, in the absence of Dr. Hynes.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 4, 1848.

I AM to state that a copy of your report will be forwarded to the Central Board of Health.

I am at the same time to forward herewith plans for a temporary fever hospital, and I am to state, that if there are not at this time funds at the disposal of the Vice-Guardians to defray the expense of erecting such a building, the Commissioners will endeavour to obtain an advance of the amount which you may report to be requisite, provided the Vice-Guardians will repay the sum out of the current rates.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 9, 1848.

Gort Union.

IN reference to your communication of the 6th instant, requesting a report to be continued weekly of the state of the collection and the financial affairs of the Union generally, we beg to state that immediately on assuming the duties of the office of Vice-Guardians our attention was called to the necessity of ascertaining the actual amount of the liabilities of the Union, as well as the means available for discharging such liabilities, and instructions were accordingly given to the clerk to prepare the information required so far as relates to the debts of the Union, with the utmost accuracy, and with the greatest possible despatch. We hope in a few days to be furnished with the necessary particulars to enable us to make the required report.

As regards the state of the collection we beg to observe that there appears to have been a degree of looseness in transacting the monetary affairs of the Union, which renders it difficult to arrive at a true knowledge of the amount which may be available to the Vice-Guardians, either of the arrears of former rates or of the rates now being made. The new rate on three electoral divisions has been made and is now in course of collection, and the books for the other seven divisions will be ready for signature on to-morrow, when also two collectors for these latter divisions are to be appointed. When these arrangements shall be completed, and an opportunity afforded us of examining the rate-books and the collectors' last accounts, of which no statement has yet been laid before us, we will make the required report as fully and accurately as possible.

Captain HANLEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 13, 1848.

WITH reference to your circular of the 2nd instant, regarding the cessation of out-relief to certain classes of the destitute poor on the 18th instant, I beg to observe, after mature consideration, and consultation with the Vice-Guardians on the subject, I have come to the conclusion, that under the present circumstances of the Union and of the workhouse, in the former of which destitution is not diminishing, and in the latter contagious disease is increasing, I could not advise the cessation of out-relief on the 18th instant.

I much fear, from the extent of disease in the house, that it will be necessary to discharge the greater number of its present inmates before contagion can be so entirely removed as to make the institution available as a test of destitution.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 15, 1848.

I AM to inform you, that in accordance with your recommendation, the Commissioners have given directions for a renewal of the order.

Captain HANLEY to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 15, 1848.

AIDED by the Vice-Guardians, I am using every effort to get the very neglected affairs of this Union into some order—indeed a difficult task, from the irregular and deranged system heretofore practised in every department.

The general state of the house, wards, yards, &c., &c., exhibited a decided improvement; but I lament to say, that disease, fever, and dysentery, as yet unchecked, prevails to an alarming extent. Every thing that order and cleanliness can suggest is being adopted, but the crowded state of the house, and the distressing want of hospital accommodation, mar our best efforts.

The urgent necessity of procuring land for a cemetery was brought forward by the late Board of Guardians, and a resolution passed to rent three acres from Lord Gort, at same rate as now being paid for the workhouse site (about 7*l.* 2*s.* the Irish acre).

Mr. Hall, Vice-Guardian, and myself, accompanied Major Vereker, his Lordship's son, and agent, to view some waste land adjoining the workhouse premises the day before yesterday, which we considered suited for the purpose. The Major said he should consult his father, and yesterday I received a message, "that as yet his Lordship has not made up his mind." Really it is hard, the case pressing, willing to pay an enormous rent, and to meet with such difficulty and delay.

Gort Union.

The numerous interments in the confined grounds about the house (which we are now having covered with additional earth), are quite enough to create contagion, and would be fearful in warm weather.

By getting the land convenient to the workhouse, fever sheds could be got up and so ease the hospital of the pressure now on it.

From the reports of the relieving officers, and my own observation, few Unions can be in a more deplorable state—fever and dysentery raging in every quarter, and a distressing appeal to provide coffins meets you at every point.

The state of this Union too truly indicates the necessity which exists of providing further permanent workhouse accommodation; the system adopted almost generally by the proprietors, will make it imperative: the able-bodied out of doors can find no employment; and when driven to seek relief at the workhouse, their cottages are pulled down, and they are thrown with their families a perpetual burden upon the Union.

The excellent working regulations of the Ballina Vice-Guardians I shall endeavour to carry out here; and when the clerk of works (whose arrival we daily expect to superintend alterations we have in view) affords us assistance, I hope a workhouse bakery will supply the wants of the establishment.

I cannot too warmly express my high opinion of Mr. Hall, Vice-Guardian: his unceasing efforts and perfect knowledge of all matters connected with the workhouse in detail, have had the best effect in correcting the abuses which prevailed.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 22, 1848.

WITH respect to the want of temporary hospital accommodation, it appears that a certificate had been issued by the Board of Health for increased accommodation, and that the late Board had made arrangements for erecting a shed, which it is desirable that the Vice-Guardians should have constructed with the least possible delay.

The Commissioners trust that the arrangements for a cemetery will now be speedily completed.

The Commissioners are not aware that the practice of pulling down houses of persons going to the workhouse to apply for relief has been general in the Gort Union; but when any specific case of this kind comes under your notice, the Commissioners wish that you should take evidence upon oath as to the facts, and then report them to the Commissioners.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 16, 1848.

IN conformity with the instructions contained in your letter of the 6th instant, that we should report on the state of the Gort workhouse when we commenced the performance of our duties, and also on its present state, we have taken the earliest opportunity which our numerous other urgently pressing duties would permit, of complying with the Commissioners' directions.

We consider it right in the outset to premise that in consequence of the extraordinary state of irregularity and confusion into which the workhouse and the establishment generally had been allowed to fall previous to the dissolution of the late Board of Guardians, no very marked change could be expected for the short period we have been in office. We are however taking the necessary steps to base the system of management on the Commissioners' regulations, which seem to have been heretofore in a great measure neglected; and we hope, notwithstanding the many difficulties with which we are beset, to effect a decided improvement in a comparatively short period. Under the circumstances we consider it more advisable in the present report to state the evils which exist or have existed, and the remedial or corrective measures we have deemed it expedient to adopt.

The house appears to have been well executed, but scarcely any of those minor matters appear to have been attended to which are always required after the erection of a building of any magnitude, and in workhouses are absolutely necessary for health and cleanliness; for example, neither the small probationary yards nor the small yards adjoining the washhouse and kitchen have been paved, nor have the passages from the main building to the men's and women's yards. The surface may have been levelled, and possibly have received a coating of broken stones, or perhaps the rubbish of the building; on our arrival however the places we have mentioned were rough and uneven, particularly the kitchen and washhouse yards, and passage from the main building to the women's yard, which were broken into numerous hollows, containing stale soap-suds, or green and stagnant water; and at the women's side matter of a more offensive and injurious description. To remedy these evils we have made an arrangement for having the respective yards and passages paved; and in the meantime we have caused the hollows to be filled and the surface covered with broken stone and refuse lime; at the same time prohibiting under severe punishment the deposit of urine or other offensive matter in any but the proper receptacle.

The boys' and girls' yards, and the yards of the lunatic wards and infirmary, remain to the present period without a coating of broken stone; the surface has been levelled, but being composed of ordinary soil it becomes soft in wet weather, and gets into puddle. In this case we have directed that the earth be altogether removed from the yards and placed to the depth of two feet at least on the graves of those deceased inmates of the house who have been buried on the workhouse site; to be replaced in the yards by stones detained in grubbing and digging up the land attached to the building, and to be afterwards covered with fine limestone gravel, thereby providing a dry, hard, and level space, available to the persons occupying those portions of the workhouse.

Several other matters of detail not necessary to be mentioned here, remain still unexecuted. Our best efforts will be directed to the completion of these with the utmost despatch—as tending to promote the health of the inmates and establish regularity and cleanliness in the institution.

The several sewers from the building discharge themselves into open drains at a short distance from the walls of the house, and these again fall into a deep ditch filled with water, which on one side forms the boundary of the premises. We intend to take the necessary steps for having the drains covered in to the ditch, and for sinking the latter as much as possible to draw off the water which would otherwise become stagnant in summer and probably cause malaria, prejudicial to the health of the inmates of the house.

Closely adjoining the infirmary and temporary fever sheds on the same side of the building, is a very large heap of manure, the fetid exhalations from which must certainly be injurious to the occupants of that portion of the institution. It will be our duty to have this nuisance removed without delay.

On going over the workhouse grounds immediately after our arrival, we became aware of a practice which it appears has prevailed here for the last six years, and which, independently of its injurious moral tendency, will, we much fear, operate most prejudicially on the health of the inmates of the house. We allude to the fact of the greater number of the deceased inmates of the workhouse having been buried in the workhouse land, and in many cases within a very short distance of the building, from the opening of the house up to the present period. After careful inquiry and inspection of the record of deaths we are led to believe that at least 1000 bodies have been disposed of in this manner, by much the greater portion victims of the vastly increased mortality which has taken place in the workhouse since last spring having been interred within the last 12 months. This practice is rendered much more objectionable and dangerous by the slight covering of earth which the coffins receive—not more than 18 inches. We regret to say that we have not yet been able to provide a remedy for this great evil; we have however in conjunction with Captain Hanley, inspector of the Union, made use of every effort to induce Lord Gort to complete the arrangement entered into with the late Board, for letting three acres of land to be used as a cemetery for the deceased inmates of the workhouse. We have reason to hope that the matter will be finally settled in a few days, and the ground available for the required purpose. In the meantime we have directed that all new graves be made of a sufficient depth, and that those existing at the period of our arrival be covered to the depth of two feet more with earth taken from the boys' and girls' yard as hereinbefore mentioned.

We next come to the workhouse buildings which we ascertained were intended to accommodate 500 inmates. No permanent additional accommodation has been provided, although at many other workhouses on which the pressure of destitution has not been greater, or perhaps so great as on this, additional buildings have been erected. For temporary accommodation we found two sheds similar to those recommended for temporary fever hospitals last year, each capable of containing about 100 persons. One of these, situated in the yards of the infirmary buildings and lunatic wards, was finished, and occupied by fever patients; the other, which is placed inside the wall of the women's yard, was left unfinished about three weeks before our arrival. We have caused it to be completed and divided into two portions: one to be occupied as a day-room by infants under two years of age with their nurses, and the other by female convalescents from dysentery; the great increase of this disease within the last few weeks having rendered additional apartments more necessary for the dysenteric class than for any other.

A house has been taken in the town of Gort for the female school children and the schoolmistress. It will afford accommodation in day or schoolroom, and sleeping apartments for 200 or 250 persons, together with an apartment in which the children's food is prepared, and which is also used as a washhouse. The building appears to be well adapted for the required purposes, except as regards the supply of water for drinking or culinary purposes, there being none now available but that of a river which runs by the house and which in summer may perhaps be unwholesome. We hope however it will not be necessary to put it to the test, as from inquiries we have made we have learned that there was at one period a pump on the premises, the well of which is still in existence. For this we shall immediately cause diligent search to be made, and thus relieve ourselves from all apprehension on the score of the supply of water.

On taking charge of the Union our attention was at once directed to the ventilation of the workhouse. Upon examination we found that notwithstanding the repeatedly urged requests of the Commissioners that additional ventilation should be provided for, and notwithstanding the vast amount of disease which has existed in the house, and caused such a very great mortality for the last 12 months, no measures had been taken for furnishing the inmates with a sufficient supply of fresh air. Even the quantity of ventilation originally intended was not available, as many of the windows could not be opened, and several of the wall ventilators were out of order. To remedy this evil as much as possible, we have caused all the windows to be opened, whether they could or could not be again closed; and we have at the same time applied to the Commissioners' architect for the services of a competent person to superintend a general and thorough ventilation of the workhouse buildings.

We learn that for a considerable period the probationary wards have not been available for the reception of paupers, or for relieving the pressure on the house, having been applied to a different purpose altogether from that which they were intended for. The upper male ward had been converted into a waiting-room for the relieving officers, and the upper female ward into a paupers' clothes store. From the former a doorway had been opened into the Board-room for the accommodation of the relieving officers; and in the latter the accumulated old clothes of the last six years were thrown in a heap, without having undergone any cleansing or disinfecting process whatsoever. The apartment over the Board-room which was originally intended for a store for the old clothes of the paupers was occupied with the workhouse clothing. We remedied these irregularities as much as possible, by causing the doorway from the male probationary ward to be built up; the workhouse clothing to be removed to the clothing store; the paupers' old clothes to be opened and sprinkled with a disinfecting solution, previous to their removal from the ward, and by causing a quantity of lumber which had been allowed to accumulate in the lower probationary wards to be removed.

In going through the house we discovered that three stoves originally placed in the rooms on the ground floor of the infirmary, and four stoves in the rooms on the ground floor of the main building had been removed for the purpose of substituting grates, which however have not been put up; and in consequence the fires in these apartments, including two dormitories in the infirmary, the aged male and female dormitories, and the boys' and girls' schoolrooms, are made on the hearth; whereby, in addition to a vastly increased consumption of fuel, the smoke from the fires had discoloured the walls and ceilings, and the quantity of ashes produced on the floor, renders it impossible to keep the rooms in a satisfactory state as to cleanliness. We have ordered grates to be placed in the several apartments abovementioned.

We were much surprised to discover that the workhouse land has not yet been completely fenced in. The boundary on one side is still an almost imaginary line. Our attention will be directed to this matter at an early period.

At the time of our arrival there were 1082 paupers on the workhouse books, of whom 162 were in the additional building taken for the female school children at Gort; 270 were in the infirmary and fever sheds, leaving 650 persons in the main building, nearly double the number that portion of the house was intended to accommodate. We immediately made arrangements for discharging on out-relief those classes for the proof of whose destitution the workhouse test is not so necessary as for able-bodied males and able-bodied single females, these being the only classes we were anxious to retain in the house; yet, although we have been enabled by this course of proceeding to discharge about 300 persons, so great is the pressure of destitution, that the vacancies thus created were immediately filled up by the classes to whom the application of the workhouse test is considered desirable. In this state of things we have been under the necessity of giving out-relief to many able-bodied men and their families, the condition of its receipt being, that all the able-bodied males should work at least eight hours a day at stone-breaking, or such other labour as might be provided. In our report on the general state of the Union we will enter more at length on the extent of destitution and its probable continuance for a considerable period, being the natural consequence of causes which are now in active operation.

Our attention was directed at an early period to the state of the infirmary, temporary sheds, and to the state of the sick generally. We found 270 persons on the medical officer's books, of whom 100 were in the temporary fever sheds, while the remainder, consisting of dysenteric patients, convalescents from that disease and from fever, children suffering from measles, and the ordinary cases of sickness, with two cases of small pox, were crowded together in the infirmary and idiot wards; thus in fact huddling together 170 persons in apartments which were intended to accommodate not more than 60; and in this instance the original extent of accommodation has been diminished by appropriating the two day-rooms on the ground floor, one for the purposes of a surgery, and the other as a kitchen or cooking-house for the hospital. In the male and female idiot cells, intended to contain 12 persons, we found 53 patients labouring under dysentery. There is no day-room available. Every apartment is a dormitory, in which the inmates sleep three or four, or more, in a bed; and the result is obvious; relapses are most frequent, and the mortality excessive.

The causes which have tended to place the infirmary department of the workhouse in its present peculiarly difficult position may be briefly explained here, although it may be considered that the subject more properly belongs to our report on the state of the Union generally. In consequence of there being no other institution in the Union for the reception and treatment of contagious diseases (except the small temporary fever hospital at Kinvarra, which is always full), the practice heretofore has been to send to the workhouse all diseased poor persons, no matter in what part of the Union they may have been taken ill, thereby, in fact, making it the cesspool of contagion for the entire Union. At the same time no arrangements were made for the proper treatment of such a mass of disease. The only step taken was the erection of temporary sheds with sleeping rooms for 100 fever patients; but no day room was provided; no wards were provided for convalescents; nothing was done to prevent communication with the body of the house; nor were there any decisive measures adopted to prevent the spread of contagion among all the inmates. No separate washhouse, store-rooms, or cooking apparatus were procured, except a small boiler or two for heating water or making whey. The clothes belonging to the patients were scattered carelessly about the yards of the infirmary without having previously undergone any cleansing or disinfecting process. In short, from the operation of all these causes, coupled with the overcrowded state of the house, the want of a proper supply of clothing, and the deficiency in ventilation, the cases of fever and dysentery occurring among the inmates, were so numerous and so frequent, that it may almost be said that the entire institution was one mass of contagious disease.

The difficulty that met us here was greater than any other. Additional space was absolutely necessary to give the sick a chance of recovery; yet in the town of Gort we could not obtain a house of any description for the sick; in fact the bare mention of such an idea caused a kind of ferment among the inhabitants. We could not even learn of any proper building in the country which would be let for such a purpose. We could not introduce the sick into the main building, which was still overcrowded notwithstanding the large number we had discharged; nor could we even obtain a house or houses sufficient for the accommodation of the school boys, whom we were most anxious to send with the master from the workhouse. Under these circumstances we have advertised for a house in any part of the Union, and in the meantime, in order to relieve the pressure on the hospital department, we have prepared the upper male and female probationary wards, and half the new shed in the women's yard for the reception of convalescents. We have also instructed the relieving officers not to send sick persons to the workhouse henceforward, but to relieve them in their own residence, reserving the hospital accommodation at the workhouse for the inmates of the institution. Cases, however, we regret to say, occur almost daily, where persons, generally strangers in the locality, are found lying sick on the streets or on the road side; to these no one will give admission even for payment, and we are therefore reluctantly compelled to receive them into the workhouse.

We readily admit that the arrangements we have just mentioned are merely makeshift expedients to meet the pressure for the moment. After mature consideration we are satisfied that to remove contagion from the workhouse, and to arrest its progress throughout the Union, decided and energetic measures must be adopted. We propose, with the sanction of the Commissioners first obtained, to erect on a portion of the three acres of land about to be taken from Lord Gort, temporary sheds for the accommodation of at least 300 persons, with apartments for the medical officers and nurses, a washhouse, kitchen, and storeroom, in the manner pointed out in Mr. Wilkinson's communication to Captain Hanley, the inspector of the Union. To these sheds which will be placed at a sufficient distance from the workhouse to prevent communication, and still near enough to allow constant supervision, we propose to remove from the workhouse and sheds adjoining all the fever and dysenteric patients, now amounting to nearly 200, with the hospital nurse and her staff. The spare room in the new sheds will be available for persons not being inmates of the house, suffering from either of the above diseases, and for whom at present there is no hospital accommodation. The workhouse buildings will thus be freed from all cases of contagious disease, and the whole house, including the new apartment to be erected over the idiot wards and sheds and the temporary shed in the woman's yard will be available to test the destitution of the able-bodied. There may perhaps remain in the infirmary a few persons labouring under chronic disease, or afflicted with sores of a peculiarly malignant character, who cannot be properly relieved outside. The sheds to the rear of the infirmary we propose to retain as recovery rooms for convalescents from fever or dysentery, in which they may remain for some short period previous to their admission into the body of the house, or to their final discharge from the institution.

At Kinvarra, a most impoverished district, in which fever prevails to an alarming extent, we propose to erect sheds to accommodate 100 patients, retaining the building now used as a temporary hospital for the purpose of a convalescent ward after providing therein a room for the medical officer, a kitchen, washhouse, and store-room.

By these arrangements, if sanctioned by the Commissioners, we hope we may be able to provide for the more destitute portion of the sick poor in this Union. If, however, the increase of contagious disease should require further accommodation, we shall be prepared to suggest the erection of temporary hospitals in other parts of the Union, or the extension of those now proposed, as may seem most expedient.

At the same time we strongly recommend, that in addition to raising a story over the idiot wards and sheds some further permanent enlargement of the workhouse should be made. We have good grounds for believing that from causes which are now, and for some time past have been in operation, and which we will fully explain in our report on the state of the Union generally, that for some years to come the number of able-bodied who will require relief will be very considerable.

Having now disposed of the workhouse buildings, &c., we come to the management of the institution; with regard to which we feel bound to say, though with reluctance, that the greatest possible neglect has been manifested by the late Board of Guardians. The admixture of the classes appears to have been almost general; discipline had disappeared; cleanliness was altogether neglected; and idleness would seem to have been the general rule, the exceptions to which were very few indeed. Through the exertions of Captain Hanley, previous to our arrival, whitewashing had been commenced, and some of the tables and forms subjected to a cleansing process, but the general appearance of the workhouse and its inmates were dirty in the extreme. This, however, was not a matter of much surprise, when we discovered that scarcely half the inmates had a full suit of the workhouse clothing; most of them wore one or more articles belonging to themselves. The quantity of clothing in the house was altogether insufficient. The total number of shoes belonging to the Union was three pairs, and there was not a single man's cap in the workhouse. A change of linen or any other article of dress was very seldom obtained; and it was stated, that on some occasions several of the inmates had been for days without either shirts or shifts. The officers of the house were overworked. The only assistance they could procure was that of paupers who were allowed some extra diet or small pecuniary payment, but whose services in such cases are seldom of much value. The schoolmaster was ill of fever. The master had some time previously recovered from a severe attack of that disease. The matron had resigned, and the hospital nurse had preceded our arrival but a few days; the former nurse having been dismissed for incompetency. Bakers' bread, of nominally the best quality, was the principal article of food for dinner, yet there was no contract for its supply, and the quality was very inferior though the price was excessive. Neither was there a contract for groceries, oatmeal, turf—the only article of fuel in use since; or the numerous other small articles constantly required at a workhouse. The only articles for which contracts existed were Indian meal, new milk, meat, soap, salt, and coffins, the prices being generally high, and the quality indifferent. These contracts had not been regularly executed, being merely accepted tenders. No fixed dietary could be said to be observed. The quantity of food supplied to the able-bodied did not appear to be excessive, yet the average weekly cost was very high. In short, the entire institution was in a state of the greatest irregularity and confusion.

The books of account and other workhouse and Union books betrayed the same negligence and mismanagement. The half-year's accounts up to the 29th September last have not yet been audited. Many entries in the Provision Books, Admission and Discharge Books, and relief lists were made in pencil; and the blots, mistakes, and irregularities were so numerous and so glaring, as to prove that no proper supervision had been exercised over them for the last 10 or 12 months, and that any attempt to put them in order now would be a hopeless task. The workhouse register was similarly circumstanced; intended for 8000 names, the entries in it had ceased at 6440, and a new register had been commenced. The clerk's books were not exempt from the general charge of irregularity and confusion; the ledger had not been properly entered up since the termination of the last half-year; scarcely any entries of payments had been made, and no entries whatsoever relating to out-relief, though it has been in operation for many weeks. The minute was also defective in several particulars. The relieving officers' Application and Report Books and relief lists were not properly entered up. The classification on the statistical side of the latter was absurd. The rate books and collecting books were irregularly filled up. The rate receipt check books were not numbered or initialed. There was no mark on the latter, or on the collecting books, to indicate that they had been subjected to the weekly or monthly examination. Arrears which had been struck off by the former Board as not recoverable, were still carried forward in the accounts; and scarcely any lodgments of rate had been made with the treasurer for the last six months, the sums collected having been handed to the clerk who paid away the amount on cheques drawn by the Board or on bills furnished. The monthly return of liabilities showed the debts of the Union to be much under their actual amount, from a practice which prevailed of not calling for or including many current accounts till the termination of the half-year. It appeared that large sums had been advanced to the master to purchase provisions, &c., for which he was not required to account for a long period. But it is unnecessary to proceed further, the instances we have adduced will afford a sufficient insight into the manner in which matters were managed in the Gort Union.

Having regard to all the circumstances of the case, it appears to us that the irregularity and confusion may in a great measure be attributed to the late Board of Guardians, who introduced into the workhouse nearly double the number of inmates it was intended to contain without making any provision for their accommodation or proper treatment; who, on the appearance of fever in the Union instead of requiring Relief Committees to do their duty and establish temporary hospitals in their respective localities, through a mistaken spirit of economy, allowed the workhouse to become, with one trifling exception, the general receptacle for the contagion of the entire Union; who allowed the workhouse to be used by the Relief Committee as a dépôt for the distribution of food under the Temporary Act, thereby materially interfering with the discipline of the inmates; and who, notwithstanding the certainty of very great destitution, and the probability of an extensive spreading of disease, made no adequate preparations for providing funds to meet the emergency, but left the Union in debt at least 5000*l.*, and left the workhouse and its inmates in such a state that a further outlay of perhaps 1500*l.*, is necessary to provide a sufficient quantity of bedding, clothing, furniture, and utensils for the institution.

We have spared no exertion to remedy the evils we have mentioned, and lay the foundation of a proper system of management based on the Commissioners' regulations. It would be useless to enter into the detail of each particular matter, but it is right to add, that in all our proceedings we had the full concurrence and co-operation of Captain Hanley, the Inspector of the Union, who has afforded us the most valuable assistance and support since our arrival.

We have not as yet suggested the removal of any of the officers; we wish to give them an opportunity of doing their duty properly, proper means being afforded them. If, however, the duty shall not be efficiently performed, we shall not hesitate to recommend their dismissal.

We request the Commissioners' opinion on the suggestions made in the present report, and also their advice generally on the subjects we have referred to.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 27, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration your report of the 16th instant, on the state in which you found the workhouse of Gort Union, when you entered on the discharge of your duties as Vice-Guardians, and the means already taken or proposed to be immediately adopted for rendering the workhouse more fit for the relief of the destitute poor.

The Commissioners fully approve of the steps already taken, more particularly the precautionary measure of having additional earth placed over the graves in the workhouse ground, where you found that so many bodies had been interred at a depth of only 18 inches; also the course you propose to adopt for relieving the overcrowded sick and idiot wards, by constructing on the additional ground agreed to be taken from Lord Gort, temporary sheds for 300 persons, to which you intend to remove all patients in fever or dysentery.

The Commissioners, however, have not sufficient information before them to enable them to judge of the expediency of the hospital extension proposed to be made at Kinvarra, for 100 patients. There being a temporary hospital at that place under the control of the Board of Health, any extension of it to be made should have that Board's sanction; and the Commissioners recommend that application be made to the Board for a requisition to authorize it, otherwise any hospital to be established there by you, should be considered as one under the 16th section of the Act 6 and 7 Vict. cap. 92; and the medical officer appointed and paid by the Board of Health might object to attend to the patients.

The want of cleanliness which you found in the workhouse must be considered as inexcusable; but the irregularity in the clothing and classification is ascribed to the great number of admissions and discharges made in each week by the late Board, from the extensive application of the workhouse test. Allowance must also be made for the great extent of sickness which prevailed in the workhouse before October, 1847.

The supply of clothing, deficient from want of funds, owing to neglect in the collection and levying of rates, was, as the Commissioners have been informed, in course of being replenished when the order for dissolving the late Board of Guardians was issued, a stock of clothing materials having been purchased, and being then about to be prepared.

The irregularities in the changes of pauper clothing, the overcrowding of the workhouse, the neglect of ventilation, the waste of fuel for want of grates, and the very serious mismanagement in obtaining supplies, as well as the reprehensible practice of employing the clerk to receive payments from the collectors, and apply the funds in discharge of cheques previously issued, or accounts already due, all appear to have arisen from neglect in the collection and levying of sufficient rates.

The irregularities in the accounts show neglect in the officers of the Union, as well as in the late Board of Guardians; but the Commissioners approve of your proposal to allow them an opportunity of fully executing their duties on being afforded proper means.

The close investigation of neglect and abuse which you have made, and so amply reported, gives the Commissioners assurance that through your exertion, the administration of relief in the Union will be steadily advanced to a state of conformity with the law, and with the regulations of the Commissioners.

Captain HANLEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 18, 1848.

IN reference to your letter of the 13th instant, accompanying a communication which the Commissioners had received from the Under Secretary's office, relative to the decease of a man named Foley, who was stated to have died from want and destitution, I have the honour to report, for the information of the Commissioners, that I have caused diligent inquiry to be made into the circumstances of the case, and have learned the following particulars relative to the deceased person.

Michael Foley, aged 14, was the son of Michael Foley, of Caherfonvose, in the parish of Killeevy, in this Union; he did not however commonly reside with his father, but was in the habit of rambling about. On the 1st of February last, he was committed by Mr. Lambert, J.P., of Aggard, to the county gaol at Galway for one month, for begging in the village or street of Croughwell, where he was arrested by the police of that station. On Sunday, the 27th February, he called at the house of one Michael Connolly, of Tullanroe, being then apparently suffering from severe illness. In reply to questions put by Mrs. Connolly, he stated, he had been discharged from Gaol on the Friday or Saturday previous, and that he had slept at one Michael Kelly's, of Caldwood, on Saturday night. He got some oaten bread at Connolly's, whose family were most anxious for his departure, being afraid of taking the disease under which he appeared to be labouring. After leaving Connolly's, he was not seen until Tuesday the 29th February, on which day about 11 o'clock, he was found dead in a field at the distance of a quarter of a mile from Connolly's house, by Michael Connolly, who immediately gave information to the police. When discovered he appeared to have been dead for some time, and had a piece of the oaten bread given him by the Connollys in his pocket.

Subsequently to the commitment of the deceased, his father, Michael Foley, applied for relief to the relieving officer of the district, and in two or three days after was admitted into the Gort workhouse, where he and his family now are.

Under all the circumstances, it appears probable, that the boy, Michael Foley, got ill in Galway gaol, where disease now prevails to a great extent; in consequence whereof, and from the over-crowded state of the prison, he was discharged a day or two before the expiration of his period of imprisonment; and that he died from the effects of disease, cold, and exhaustion, and not from starvation, as reported by the sub-inspector, soon after leaving Michael Connolly's, not having been able to obtain admission into any house in the neighbourhood, the people having the greatest dread of persons supposed to be labouring under sickness.

He made no application to the relieving officer, nor was any application made on his behalf after being discharged from prison, or previously to his commitment.

Captain HANLEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 27, 1848.

IN consequence of destitution prevailing to a vast extent in this Union, and very little employment being afforded by the proprietors or farmers, together with the want of room in the workhouse, in which disease is prevalent, I beg to recommend a further extension of the order sanctioning out-door relief to the able-bodied.

Gort Union.

It is difficult under existing circumstances to fix the precise time for which the renewal may be necessary; but at present I will say for one month (from 1st April to 1st May), for which period I am quite certain it will be required.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 29, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have given directions for a renewal of the order for one month.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 27, 1848.

IN conformity with the instructions of the Commissioners conveyed to us in your letter of the 6th instant, that we should report weekly on the state of the collection of the poor-rate in the Gort Union, and that it would be desirable in our first report to advert to the state of the affairs of the Union generally, we beg leave to submit our first communication on the subject.

We fully concur in opinion with the Commissioners that we should, at the outset, have under review the general state of the Union. From the peculiar position in which the country is now placed, and the extent to which relief under the Poor Law must be carried into operation, the social relations and conditions of the people, and the circumstances of the Union generally, will either influence, or be influenced, by the proceedings consequent thereon; it is, therefore, most desirable that the condition of the district should be accurately known and carefully considered, preliminary to the adoption of any decided course for providing and administering relief to the destitute, in order that the measures to be taken may have a fair chance of success.

The necessity for a thorough knowledge of the state of the Gort Union was forcibly impressed on our minds when we commenced the performance of our duties. We were, moreover, desirous, that our first communication to the Commissioners on the subject should be as ample as possible, and we have, therefore, devoted much of our attention to the acquisition of the requisite information. We now proceed to state the result of our investigations.

The Gort Union, situated in the counties of Galway and Clare, the greater portion, however, in the former county, contains a population, according to the census of 1841, of 43,543 persons, its estimated extent is 108,975 acres, and its net annual value, according to the last made rate, is 52,965*l.* The face of the country is considerably diversified, in some districts rising into ranges of hills of some height, and in others, stretching away in an almost level plain; broken ground or isolated hills are not unfrequent, and in these latter localities are numerous bogs and lakes of greater or less extent. The extended chains of hills, or, as they are called here mountains, consist chiefly of bog and coarse pasture, with occasional patches of arable land. The broken or hilly country is, perhaps, about equally divided into pasture and tillage; the level ground, or extended plains, are principally devoted to agriculture. The soil in the plains and broken districts is apparently light, though it is said to bear reasonable crops when properly cultivated, and where laid down in grass it affords good pasture for sheep. Good stock, including black cattle, are also produced on the large grass farms in that part of the Union which is situated in the county of Clare. A considerable portion of the land is susceptible of improvement by grubbing, draining, and sub-soiling; there are districts, however, covered with immense blocks of stone and boulders, or in which the subjacent rock appears on the surface, altogether irreclaimable.

On examining the rate-books, or in going through the Union, it is impossible to avoid being struck with the number of small occupiers, and the almost total absence of that class which forms the link between the upper and lower, and which is one of the most important in its relation to the poor-rates in some other Unions, we allude to the large tenant farmer class, which if it ever had existence here is now entirely extinct, there being scarcely a substantial yeoman to be met with in the Union. The land is in consequence occupied either by proprietors or small farmers, the former of whom hold large tracts principally devoted to the feeding of sheep, and, in some instances, black cattle, with portions of tillage occasionally, while the latter occupy small lots, which are tilled where practicable, and used as pasture for a few sheep, or perhaps a cow, where cultivation is impossible.

The following particulars from the valuation and rate-books will exemplify the foregoing statement:—

Gort Union.

Total number of hereditaments rated in the Union	6733
Total number, the net annual value of which is over 20 l .	396
Number valued at and under 20 l .	6337

The extent to which sub-division has been carried in the Gort Union will also appear from the following abstracts from the rate-books:—

Total number of persons holding land	5554
Number holding not more than 10 acres	2986
Number holding not more than 20 acres	4466

When it is considered that the average net annual value of land, including the buildings thereon in this Union, is but 9*s*. 1*d*. per acre, giving a total net annual value of 9*l*. 1*s*. 8*d*. for a farm of 20 acres, it will readily be perceived that the general size of the holdings is small, and the value low, as compared with the more extensive and more valuable farms in other districts.

Another circumstance which immediately strikes the observer is the almost universal absence of those comfortable looking farmsteads so frequent in other counties, scarcely any, even the most distant attempts at ornament or neatness can be seen, except in the immediate neighbourhood of towns. The cottages and farm-houses partake alike of the same dilapidated impoverished appearance, forming a striking contrast to the generally well-planted, well-fenced, and improved extensive sheep-walks and grass farms of the occupying proprietary. It may be said that indifference to comfort and carelessness as to appearance are characteristic of some parts of Ireland; but we are satisfied that the desolate appearance of the dwellings of the small farmers and labourers in the Gort Union is in a great measure caused by their poverty, and the fact of a considerable portion of the land of the small holders being uncropped last year is another proof of their destitution.

A considerable number of the occupiers in the mountain districts add the cutting and sale of turf for fuel to their own avocations, and there are some who support themselves exclusively by this branch of industry. Many of these persons are, however, very poor, having to convey the article in baskets on the back of an ass, and receiving perhaps but a few pence for the load.

There are other classes besides those we have named which is necessary to refer to in giving an account of the Union. The first is that which comprises shopkeepers, persons in trade or business, and other residents in the several towns and villages in the Union. Many of these, in addition to their ordinary callings, occupy more or less land principally in the neighbourhood of the towns in which they reside, and which is generally of a good description. Of these it need only be said that persons in business, particularly in the interior of the country, when connected with any branch of the provision trade, have not in general been injuriously affected by the failure of the potato crop.

The next class comprehends tradesmen and mechanics, carpenters, smiths, masons, tailors, shoemakers, and weavers, &c. Many of these, more especially the three latter, a considerable portion of whom depended for employment on the labouring and poorer portion of the population, have been reduced to poverty and destitution within the last two years.

Of the class of labourers holding no land we have reason to believe that the number is considerable, that it is rapidly increasing from the operation of causes which we shall hereafter advert to, and that they are in general completely destitute.

Along the shores of the bay of Kinvarra and bay of Galway, which form a portion of the boundary of the electoral divisions of Kinvarra and Killeenavarra, reside a considerable number of persons, some with and some without land, who have heretofore supported themselves by fishing, and by the sale of sea-weed for the purpose of manure. The failure of the potato crop in 1845 and 1846, by its discouragement to the planting of potatoes, completely paralysed the operations of the latter, who are now in a most abject state.

The only portion of the population remaining to be noticed is that which comprises the miscellaneous class of pedlars, hucksters, small dealers in fruit or vegetables, and mendicants, all of whom are affected by the general poverty of the district, and are mostly in a destitute condition.

As regards the prospects of the Union for the ensuing harvest, we have learned that a considerable quantity of wheat has been put down by the larger farmers, but it is certain there will not be anything approaching to the breadth of corn of the past year. On the other hand, it would appear from the reports of the relieving officers, and from personal observation, that the general success of the potato crop in 1847 has encouraged the larger holders of land to make arrangements for planting a greater quantity in the present spring. Many, however, of the smaller farmers will, we fear, be unable to set any, in consequence of the scarcity and high price of seed, added to their inability to purchase manure, and it is therefore to be apprehended that a much greater quantity of land will remain uncultivated this year than last. In former years most of the labouring population had potatoes in con-acre, but their impoverished condition now renders them incapable of making any preparations for having a crop in the present season. Even if they were able to procure seed and manure, they have no means of support while engaged in their cultivation.

The amount of agricultural employment at present is very trifling, and we regret to say that after making the most minute inquiries we have no reason to hope that the demand for labour will be much increased for a considerable period. We have learned that loans under the Acts for the Improvement of Land and for Drainage have been granted to persons in the Union, and that in some instances the works are in operation. Their effect however in relieving the pressure on us is unfortunately very slight, from the practice that prevails in this as in some other districts of employing the small farmer tenants of the persons by whom the loans are obtained, in the execution of the works. It is to be feared that the same course will in general be pursued when the other works for which grants have been made shall be proceeded with.

We have made particular inquiries as to the probability of an increased demand for labour when the ordinary farming business of the country shall be in full operation; and we regret to say it is not expected that agricultural employment will have any very beneficial effect on the present depressed condition of the labour market. It is most likely that the occupying proprietors will employ their own poorer tenantry on any farming operations in which they may be engaged; and it is certain that farmers generally will execute the greater portion of their tillage by means of horse work where practicable, and where manual labour is unavoidable they will work themselves and employ the members of their own family. On the whole, it is to be feared that no great portion of the unemployed labour will be in any manner absorbed in this Union during the ensuing spring, summer, and harvest. It may not be out of place here to observe, as indicating the probability of increased destitution, that many persons are now discharging their domestic and farm servants, male and female, in consequence of their stock of provisions being nearly exhausted, and their anxiety to retrench their expenditure.

We cannot omit adverting to another matter which will very materially increase the pressure on the poor rate, and add to the difficulty of our position. A course of proceeding has been adopted and is still in operation to a greater or less extent in several parts of the Union, which is calculated not only to add to the existing amount of destitution, but to impose a permanent dead weight on the rate-payers. We allude to the practice of dispossessing small holders of land and then throwing down their houses, whereby, in a district situated as the Gort Union now is, with no employment obtainable, and lodgings procured with great difficulty, the parties are thrown immediately on the poor rate for support without a chance of their being able to retrieve their condition. In these cases possession is not always obtained by a regular process of law—other means are employed. In some instances the remission of rent is held out as an inducement; in others, the parties have been allowed to take away a portion of the crop of their little holdings, or a small sum of money is given; but it appears to us that the most powerful means which has been adopted, and that which has been most generally successful in inducing the small farmers to give up their house as well as their land, is the refusal of the landlord to take the latter if the former be not also surrendered. As the surrender of land is almost always made for the purpose of qualifying the occupier to receive relief under the poor law, his destitution compels him to submit to any condition whereby such relief may be obtained; and thus deprived of both house and land, without a field for his labour or hope of employment, he becomes a permanent burden on the community. The evils of this course of removal would be in some degree mitigated if the land so given up were devoted to agricultural purposes, whereby employment might be afforded; but it is to be apprehended that a considerable portion of it will, after no great lapse of time, be converted into sheep walks, as was done with land in the adjoining county of Clare, about 15 or 16 years since, from which the occupiers were removed.

There are numerous cases also in which the tenant has been allowed to continue in his house after surrendering his land. In such instances we require to be satisfied by the best proof available that the surrender is actual before we order relief. There are some cases in which, from the peculiar circumstances of the property, the absence of the landlord, or his agent, or from other causes, a regular surrender of the holding is impossible. Under such circumstances we require that the applicant should prove to us that he has done everything in his power to divest himself of the occupation before we recognise his claim for relief. The parties so peculiarly situated are generally very poor, and were we to withhold all relief from them, death from starvation or disease would, in many instances, be the consequence.

In reporting on the state of this Union in relation to the Poor Law, there is one material element of destitution now in active operation which must not be passed over. We advert to the prevalence of contagious disease in the workhouse and in the Union generally. We believe that no other circumstance in connexion with our duties will have so important an effect in preventing our placing the relief under the Poor Law on a satisfactory footing within a comparatively short period. The extent to which fever and dysentery exist in the workhouse, prevents our making use of the institution as a test for the able-bodied and for all doubtful cases, and the spread of disease throughout the Union, more especially amongst the very poorest classes, without any adequate means of relief, increases the very weighty claims on our resources. The mortality, we regret to say, is great, and when one of the principal members of a family dies, the others become almost inevitably permanent burdens on the poor rates.

It may not be out of place here to advert to the course of proceeding which it appears to us has in a great measure contributed to the extraordinary spread of contagion in the workhouse, and to some extent in the Union generally.

In common with many other parts of Ireland, in the spring and summer of the past year, the Gort Union was affected with fever and dysentery; and as there was no permanent fever hospital in the Union, no effective mode of relieving poor persons suffering from these diseases was in existence. To remedy this state of things, and with a view of not only providing relief for the sufferers, but also of preventing the diseases from spreading, the Relief Committees then existing in certain districts were authorized and directed to provide hospital accommodation and other means of relief for the sick poor. The Relief Committee for the electoral divisions of Kinvarra and Killeenavarra received these instructions, as did also the Relief Committee for the electoral divisions of Kilmacdooagh, Beagh, Kiltartan, and Kilbeakanty. In pursuance of such instructions the former Committee fitted up a building near Kinvarra for the purpose of an hospital to contain 50 patients; the latter, however, through a mistaken idea of economy, declined to fit up a separate institution, but with the consent of the late Board of Guardians, adopted the workhouse hospital as the fever hospital of their district, in direct violation of the express provisions of the statute, and sent all their patients thither. The workhouse was over-crowded at the time, and fever and dysentery prevailed therein to a frightful extent. The only additional accommodation provided was the erection of sheds to contain 100 persons, placed in the infirmary and idiot yards, immediately to the rear of the infirmary buildings. By this course of proceeding the workhouse became the reservoir of contagion for the entire Union, except Kinvarra and Killeenavarra, and their hospital being speedily filled, the sick poor of those impoverished districts were added to the general current. The consequence may be readily anticipated, the workhouse accommodation for the sick was soon exhausted, all parts of the building became infected, no sufficient arrangements were made for meeting such a mass of disease, which rapidly assumed a malignant character, and the mortality became very great, deaths to the amount of 60 or 70 a week having occurred in the institution. Such of the inmates as were not yet materially affected with the diseases, became alarmed. Many of them departed from the house carrying with them the seeds of contagion to all parts of the Union. Fever and dysentery rapidly increased, and there being no effectual relief available, deaths became frequent and destitution more general.

Such was the existing state of the workhouse and of the Union at the period of our arrival at Gort, and it was with the mass of disease and destitution we have described that we were called upon to deal.

Since making our report on the state of the workhouse, we have not seen any reason for modifying or altering the suggestions we then offered for providing accommodation for the sick poor and for relieving the destitute. We are still of opinion that extensive arrangements should be immediately adopted for the reception and treatment of febrile and other contagious diseases, and that increased workhouse accommodation of a permanent nature should be provided.

At present our attention is mainly directed to the removal of disease altogether from the house, so as to make it available as a test of destitution, to which purpose it cannot at present be applied from the prevalence of contagion. We are, in consequence, under the necessity of giving out-relief to a greater extent than would be required if the workhouse test could be applied to all doubtful applications. We continue to discharge on out-relief, in money or food, all those entitled to relief under the first section of the Poor Relief Extension Act who can be properly provided for outside, together with orphans and such other inmates as we are satisfied are destitute and incapable of supporting themselves by their own exertions. We are at the same time limiting our admissions as much as possible, and have prohibited the relieving officers from sending sick persons to the workhouse, except in cases of the most urgent necessity, preferring to relieve them in their own houses than to add to the already over-crowded state, and consequent increased mortality of the medical department of the institution. There are instances, however, in which we must either admit persons suffering from fever and dysentery or allow them to die on the street or on the road. Cases occur in which persons labouring under either of these diseases are forcibly put out of their lodgings or out of the houses in which they have previously resided, and left on the road or at the gate of the workhouse in a dying state. In such circumstances, we cannot always find persons willing to admit them into their houses even for payment, and we are, therefore, compelled to take them into the workhouse, where they usually die after a very short period, and thus swell the amount of mortality. Persons getting out-relief have been put out of their residence in this manner, and the near relatives of the sick person have not scrupled to act in the way we have mentioned.

We shall now report on the state in which we found the financial affairs of the Union on our arrival. On the 21st of May, 1847, a rate, amounting in the aggregate to 3015*l.*, was made, being about 1*s.* 1½*d.* in the pound on the entire valuation. There were arrears of previous rates then due, which brought up the whole sum to be collected to 3404*l.* 1*s.* 7½*d.* Of this amount there had been—

There were three collectors at the time; the state of their respective collections will perhaps be best shown by the following summary:—

The uncollected arrears have accumulated since September, 1845, and include those of a rate then made, of a rate made in October, 1846, and of a rate made in May, 1847. On examining the returns of rates not collected, made by the collectors previous to the 4th of February last, we find that the arrears declared not recoverable consist principally of rates made on unoccupied tenements, houses which are now down, small spots of unoccupied land, and on premises the persons in possession of which are either gone away altogether, or too poor to pay. The arrears brought forward are chiefly rates made on small holders of land, and on the poorer class of occupiers in towns and villages. There are also a few immediate lessors in arrear, principally of a minor class. On a general review of the subject it appears to us that there has been a great want of energy in enforcing the payment of the rate. If a proper degree of activity had been exercised, we are of opinion that a great portion of the recoverable arrears might have been collected during the last harvest. Some of the districts were perhaps too large, one was certainly so, and we have in consequence divided it, and appointed three collectors for that portion of the Union. We hope that this course will considerably facilitate the collection of the present rate.

On the 4th of February last, a rate of 3s. in the pound on each electoral division in the Union, was struck by the late Board of Guardians, and on the 18th of February, the rate-books for three divisions, forming the collecting district of Mr. John Slator, were signed, as were also the collecting books for the same divisions. The other books were not then ready, and on examining the progress which had been made in their preparation at the period of our arrival, we observed certain irregularities which we directed to have remedied, lest advantage might hereafter be taken of them. For example, we discovered that immediate lessors had been rated in several instances for hereditaments of a greater net annual value than 4*l.*; that in numerous cases the word "ditto" had been substituted for the name of the person rated, instead of repeating the name, and that neither the barony or parish were inserted in any of the books. The books for the remaining seven divisions being thus properly filled up, were signed by us on the 10th instant. We had in the mean time recommended the re-appointment of Messrs. Taylor and O'Shaughnessy, the former to the district for which he was before collector, and the latter to two of the divisions only of the district in which he had previously acted. For the two remaining divisions we received proposals in reply to our advertisement from two, as we believe, very eligible persons, who each offered to collect one division, but was not willing to undertake more, and as we had no other tender that we could deal with, we accepted their proposals and recommended their appointment to the Commissioners.

The Commissioners having sanctioned the re-appointment of Messrs. Taylor and O'Shaughnessy, we lost no time in causing them to execute their bonds, and in signing their warrants, so that they might proceed with the collection at once. Mr. Taylor received his collecting book on the 21st instant, and Mr. O'Shaughnessy on the 24th. We think it right to observe with respect to the bonds of the collectors, that the forms of bond heretofore in use in this Union were No. 1, being a continuing security; we have however considered it advisable to adopt the form No. 2, to collect within a specified time. The period we have allowed is three months. Mr. Slator having entered his sureties before our arrival, is bound in No. 1 form. The following table shews the extent of each collector's duty according to present arrangements.

The present rate and arrears of former rates, amounting as above to 8,508*l.* 6*s.* 11*d.*, will not be sufficient for the exigencies of the Union up to the ensuing harvest. We have therefore come to the determination of making another rate of similar amount about the beginning of June, by which time we hope that a great portion of the present rate and arrears will be collected.

From the number of small occupiers, the minute sub-division of the land, and the absence of a substantial yeomanry class, we imagined that the difficulty in collecting the rate, particularly at this period of the year, would be very great. As compared with other Unions the average net annual value of each hereditament is very low, not amounting to 8*l.*, and when the principal occupying proprietors are taken away, not exceeding 6*l.* Moreover the average net annual value of land with the buildings thereon, as we have already stated, is only 9*s.* 1*d.* per acre. These circumstances led us at first to feel great doubts as to the probability of any considerable amount of rate being got in before the crops were available; when, however, we came to examine the rate-books more closely we found that although the total number of hereditaments rated was

Immediate lessors were rated for 6733

And occupiers for 4843

The rating of the immediate lessors for such a large number of hereditaments, and those of course of the poorest class, is evidently calculated to facilitate the collection, the collectors' greatest difficulty being the small holders. The total number of hereditaments rated at and under 4*l.*, is

Of which immediate lessors are rated for 3254

Leaving the number of occupiers rated at and under 4*l.* 1364

A difficulty is frequently experienced in collecting the rate at any period of the year from small holders having no land. By the following summary it will appear that the number of persons included in that class in the Gort Union is not great:—

Total number of rated hereditaments with no land attached 1179
Of which there are rated over 4*l.* 619

Number rated at and under 4*l.* 560
Immediate lessors rated for 415

Occupiers at and under 4*l.* rated 145

The 619 hereditaments without land rated on a net annual value of more than 4*l.*, are principally houses in towns and villages occupied by persons in business, or respectable tradesmen, from whom, in general, we think the rate may be got without much difficulty.

Taking all the circumstances into consideration, we would say that by adopting an energetic course of proceeding a great portion of the rate may now be collected; and by making immediate and judicious arrangements for relieving the sick, removing contagion from the workhouse, and providing extended accommodation, so that the workhouse test may be efficiently applied to all able-bodied applicants, we shall be able to meet the actual destitution of the Union—the greatest obstacle we have to overcome being the debts of the former Board, and the outlay required to put the house and its inmates in a proper condition. In regard to the latter, we are taking the necessary steps for the purpose; we have worked up all the material in the house, and have given notice for a considerable additional supply; we have a master tailor and master shoemaker employed to instruct a certain number of boys, and to superintend the work of any of the inmates who may belong to those trades; we have had two carpenters and a mason almost constantly engaged in completing the sheds and executing necessary alterations and repairs; we have also contracted for a number of tables, forms, and bedsteads, which were urgently required.

Our attention was early directed to the debts of the late Board, and on examining the return for the month ended the 31st of January last, we found it stated that the net amount of liabilities at that period was 3538*l.* 14*s.* 11½*d.* A cursory examination of the ledger and other books of account, to the irregularity of which we have adverted in our report on the workhouse, led us however to believe that the debts were considerably higher than was stated on that document. We therefore at once directed the clerk to procure all outstanding accounts and calculate the several salaries and other items of expenditure up to the 29th of February, when we took charge of the Union; and we find by a return made to us on this day that the actual amount of the ascertained liabilities up to the above date is 6563*l.* 13*s.* 9*d.* The clerk states that he does not recollect anything else being due, but it is possible that other bills may come in. However, admitting that the above sum is correct, and adding thereto 1500*l.* to provide a sufficiency of bedding, clothing, furniture, utensils, &c., for the inmates of the house: to liquidate the entire amount a rate of 3*s.* per pound on the whole Union would be necessary.

It is evident that this large amount of debt cannot be immediately discharged. Perhaps the better course would be to pay off at once the smaller bills which are generally those of the most needy creditors, and to discharge the larger claims by instalments. It is probable that this arrangement would generally be acceded to, although we have already received a solicitor's letter on behalf of one claimant. However, they may fairly wait for a short period before their entire demands are cleared off, as the prices charged for many of the articles supplied are from 20 to 25 per cent. over the ordinary rate of the market.

Having thus furnished the Commissioners with a view of the state of the Union and its financial affairs, we have now to report the proceedings we have recently taken in the execution of our duties. We have at last succeeded in obtaining a house for the schoolmaster and boys: it is situated in the town of Gort, but off the street, and has a well walled-in garden and an open space in front. There was at one time a pump on the premises, and we expect that the well may be still made available. The house and offices will accommodate from 150 to 200 of the class for which it is designed. Some repairs and alterations will be necessary. We are to get possession in a day or two, and will then immediately proceed to place the building in a proper state for the reception of its intended inmates. Rent 42*l.* per annum.

We have also, after considerable delay, finally arranged with Lord Gort for three acres of land for a cemetery. It is situated near the Loughrea road, something over a quarter of a mile from the workhouse, and about the same distance from the town. The soil is as deep and as free from rock as any in the neighbourhood, and is, moreover, perfectly dry, with a sufficient inclination to carry off rain. We are to get it up in a few days, and we shall then at once proceed to wall it in and occupy it. The rent we have agreed upon is the same as that for the workhouse site.

The shed in the women's yard is completed and now occupied, one portion by children under two years of age and their nurses, and the other by convalescents from dysentery. The probationary wards have also been cleared out, and while the lower apartments are reserved for admission, the upper rooms are occupied by convalescents from the infirmary and sheds. By this arrangement the pressure on the hospital department of the institution has been considerably diminished; and we expect that by the removal of the infants and nurses to the shed in the women's yard, the mortality among that class will be reduced.

We have prepared a well ventilated shed in the men's yard for the paupers' own clothing, to which receptacle the articles are removed, having previously undergone a disinfecting process.

Grates are now being placed in the fire-places of the several apartments, where heretofore the fires were made on the hearth. We hope, in addition to cleanliness, a saving of fuel will be effected by this arrangement.

Gort Union.

Gort Union.

The small yard adjoining the cooking house or kitchen is being paved, which will prevent the collection of water or filth in that department.

The workhouse generally has been thoroughly whitewashed, and certain portions are now undergoing that process a second time.

The graves of deceased inmates buried on the site are being covered with earth from the boys' yard, which is replaced by broken stones.

We have made contracts for bread, turf, groceries, oatmeal, &c., at 25 per cent. lower than the former prices. When the existing contracts for the other articles of large consumption shall expire, we hope to renew them on equally favourable terms.

Much of our attention has been directed to the correct keeping of the workhouse and Union books, and we have spared no trouble in pointing out to the several officers the proper method of performing their duty in this respect. From the great number of admissions and discharges which occurred for some weeks previous to our arrival, we suspected that the register and other workhouse books did not show a correct return of the inmates; we therefore gave directions that a scrutiny of the workhouse paupers should be effected in order to discover any irregularities which might exist in this respect. The scrutiny is now in progress.

It is unnecessary to mention several other minor matters of detail which have been executed, or are in progress, and which will materially assist in establishing cleanliness, order, and discipline.

We shall not at present trespass any further on the Commissioners' time with a statement of our proceedings, but henceforward we shall make our regular weekly report after the ordinary day of meeting. Our present communication was delayed in order that the information it contains regarding the affairs of the Union might be as correct and as ample as possible. In fact, we did not until this day obtain from the clerk a return of the liabilities of the Union up to the period of our arrival.

We request the favour of the Commissioners' opinion on the suggestions we have thrown out, and their advice as to our future proceedings generally.

REPLY to the foregoing :—April 7, 1848.

WITH reference to your observations on the subject of the 10th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, I am to state, that the only question which a Board of Guardians has to consider with reference to the provisions of that section is, whether or not the party seeking relief ceases to occupy a greater quantity of land than a quarter of an acre; and further than this it is not in their province to enter into questions as to the legal surrender of the land above that quantity.

As regards the practice of sending fever patients to the workhouse, I am to state, that the Commissioners are informed by Mr. Bourke that the practice referred to was discontinued in September or October last. An extract from your report with respect to the prevalence of disease in your Union has been sent to the Board of Health. The Commissioners trust that you will continue to devote your best endeavours to the remedy of the serious evils in that respect to which you advert.

The Commissioners trust that you will see that the collectors exert themselves with promptitude in the collection of the present rate, without favour or distinction, regarding only the ability of the parties rated to pay their rates, and the necessities of the destitute poor in the Union.

It appears desirable that you should come to some regular understanding with the creditors of the late Board of Guardians, based on the principle of discharging small debts, and arranging for the gradual liquidation of the remainder. Perhaps it will be expedient for you to advertise for the several creditors to send in their accounts, with a view to the proposal of an arrangement for the gradual liquidation of the debts.

The Commissioners await the receipt of specific particulars as to the cemetery which you propose to occupy at once.

When the particulars and a map of the land are furnished, the Commissioners will give directions to their solicitors to prepare the necessary lease.

Captain HANLEY to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 28, 1848.

Gort Union.

IN reply to your letter of the 24th instant, accompanying a copy of a communication from the Under-Secretary's office, relating to the death of a man named Michael Hanburry, in the Gort Union, I beg to state that having made diligent inquiry into the circumstances attending the decease of the above-named individual, I have learned that Michael Hanburry was a single man, aged nearly 70 years; he generally resided at or near Tubber, with some of his friends, who were numerous in that locality, not having any residence of his own. On Monday, the 6th instnt, he applied for relief to the relieving officer of Beagh electoral division, in which Tubber is situated; the officer considering from his appearance that he was in want of food, and having regard to his great age, gave him provisional relief in meal, with which he expressed himself satisfied.

The case was brought before the Vice-Guardians on the following Friday, who ordered out-relief to be continued.

On Monday, the 13th instant, Hanburry called at the depôt and got his week's supply of meal.

On the following day the relieving officer met him on the road, and in the course of conversation was informed by him that his sister, who lives near Tubber, and with whom he used occasionally to stop, had quarrelled with him and turned him out.

The relieving officer then considered he was going to the house of some other of his friends, as he made no complaint of being unable to provide a lodging; Hanburry had a portion of the meal with him at the time.

It appears he proceeded to the house of a cousin of his, named Flanagan, who however refused to let him remain for the night, and about nightfall he departed, it is believed with the intention of going to the house of a man named Mullins, where he had a box. He did not, however, arrive there, but was found the next morning on the road quite dead.

The relieving officer states, "that the man was rather an oddity, difficult to agree with, and having a large appetite."

He considered his death was probably accelerated by eating too much Indian meal, perhaps not sufficiently cooked.

Under all the circumstances, it does not appear that Hanburry died of starvation.

The CLERK of the UNION to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 2, 1848.

IN answer to letter, 24th March, inquiring as to the cause of the death of a man named Michael Hanburry, I am directed to state, for the information of the Commissioners, that the deceased Michael Hanburry was an infirm man, aged nearly 70 years, receiving out-door relief; that he had been supplied with seven pounds of meal on the day but one previous to his death; that from all the Vice-Guardians have been able to learn, the cause of his death was his being turned out of his lodging by a near relative, added to infirmity and old age.

I am also directed to state, in answer to your letter dated 29th March, making inquiry respecting the death of a man named John Davis, that the deceased John Davis was admitted as a fever patient into the workhouse hospital on the 5th ultimo, and that he was discharged, cured, on the 15th. He then went to live in the house of a widow Hynes, at Gort, with whom he had previously resided; on the 18th he applied to the relieving officer, Forest, for relief, being apparently in a delicate state of health; he wanted to come into the workhouse, but the place being over-crowded the Vice-Guardians ordered him out-relief in cash; he got 1s. 6d. on that day, and the same night he was surreptitiously admitted into the fever shed by the dismissed nurse, E. Fitzpatrick, who kept him there, without the knowledge of the head nurse or medical officer until the 21st or 22nd, when, getting fearful of the consequences, she removed him to a disused privy at the rear of the sheds, where she furnished him with straw for a bed, blankets, sheet and quilt. He died there the next day. It appears that he was treated in the same manner as the other inmates, except as to medicine.

Gort Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. REDINGTON:—April 12, 1848.

WITH reference to the communication referred to the Commissioners on the 20th ult., relating to the death of a man named Michael Hanburry, in the Gort Union, I am directed by the Commissioners to forward herewith, for the information of his Excellency the Lord-Lieutenant, a copy of a report on the subject which they have received from Captain Hanley, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, together with an extract from a communication from the Vice-Guardians of the Gort Union.

It appears that the poor man was relieved provisionally by the relieving officer, and that he expressed himself satisfied with the relief afforded.

The relief was continued by the Vice-Guardians when the case was brought before them.

I am at the same time to observe, that the Constabulary Report does not appear to the Commissioners to give an accurate representation on the subject.

The report is as follows:—

“On the 15th instant Michel Hanburry died near Tubber; he had refused going into the workhouse. The coroner states, that deaths from starvation are now so frequent that it is impossible for him to attend them all.”

Captain HANLEY to the the COMMISSIONERS:—April 1, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report, that the Vice-Guardians are proceeding with the utmost zeal in the management of the affairs of this Union, and in every department the most satisfactory results are evident.

The minutes of the Board will detail all our proceedings, and I can only add, that every exertion is being made to improve the condition of the house, and to restore it to a sanitary state.

The collection of the rate in one division is proceeding satisfactorily, the collector having lodged this week 690*l.* 5*s.* 5*d.* The other collectors recently appointed are taking the preliminary steps necessary.

I shall not fail to press the collection forward in the most expeditious way.

I have received several applications earnestly soliciting I would apply to the British Association to extend aid in food to the children at the different schools in this Union. From the poverty and destitution which prevail, I must say, if such could be obtained, it would be truly desirable.

The applications for relief this week were not numerous; still the vast number of 10,091 are receiving out-relief at an expense of 335*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.* weekly; and as there should now be an immense reduction, particularly of the able-bodied, I purpose in the next week visiting all the depôts and relieving stations, and testing the appearance of the recipients.

The state of the hospital is still unsatisfactory, but improved ventilation and other matters under the direction of the clerk of works, who is busily engaged with his arrangements for that purpose, will, I trust, ere long enable me to report an amendment.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 5, 1848.

I AM to inform you, that the attention of the British Association has been drawn to your suggestions relative to affording aid in food to the poor children in the different schools in the Gort Union.

BALLINA UNION.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 5, 1848.

In making my weekly report I wish to lay before the Commissioners a few observations regarding the present state and future prospects of this district. Erris.

In the electoral divisions of Belmullet and Binghamstown, as far as I can ascertain, there are only 16 farmers who are able to cultivate more land than they would require for their own support; and some even of these, terrified by taxation, are anxious to get rid of their holdings; however, they would not at any rate, cultivate more than 20 acres each; and they have not as yet commenced any agricultural operations; besides the above, there are many small occupiers who could sow from one to four acres of land, but are afraid of doing so, lest the crops should be seized.

There are only 320 persons employed in the district, 220 in the construction of a canal near the town of Belmullet, and 100 under the Land Improvement Act.

The cabins of the people are miserable; bad as they are, the proprietors and lessees are rapidly depriving them even of this shelter. One proprietor (Mr. Walsh) lately unroofed upwards of 80 cabins at Mullaghroe in one day, as I mentioned in my report of the 1st January.* The village of Carnboy in the Belmullet division, out of which 150 persons were relieved during last summer, has also been unroofed; and everywhere the demolition of houses is steadily going forward; upwards of one-third of the cabins in the district are unroofed.

There is hardly any food, the turnips being now exhausted.

The people are miserably clothed; their appearance is frightful, especially the children, many of whom are little better than living skeletons. I found five out of one family which had been ejected out of Mullaghroe, lying on the road side last Wednesday, near the workhouse; they were carried into it by my orders, but I fear only to die.

Fever and dysentery prevail to an alarming extent.

With the best assistance it would be difficult to deal with this state of things. The class of persons here who offer themselves as relieving officers, are ignorant, stupid, and corrupt, and if not closely watched would relieve all those who do not require it before they attend to those in actual want. I anticipate being able to do but little good until I can get a better class of men to work with.

The difficulty of affording relief is greatly increased by the wholesale system of ejectment carried on, and the most frightful misery is the result; the wretched creatures deprived of shelter, spend their nights in the streets, and howling at the door of the relieving officer's residence; no workhouse accommodation would afford shelter to such numbers.

The auxiliary workhouse is not capable of accommodating more than 100 in its present state. The illness and death of the person placed in charge of the premises has hitherto reduced the capability of accommodation to about 80.

From the great difficulty of coming at the truth of statements of others, I purpose personally inspecting the townlands in company with the relieving officers, and have recommended their duties to be confined to receiving applications, and reporting on them.

Upwards of 2000 children are relieved at schools in the district.

* In a communication of the 21st February, Mr. Hamilton states that on local inquiry since the date of this Report, he has found that the unroofing of the cabins occupied a few weeks.

Ballina Union.

REPLY to the above :—February 9, 1848.

THE Commissioners acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 5th instant, which they have read with the deepest concern.

It appears to the Commissioners evident that the destitution at present existing in your district can only be relieved by very extensive arrangements, similar to those which were adopted last year; and the Commissioners request therefore that you and the Vice-Guardians will organize a system of depôts of cooked food to be distributed in rations to the really destitute. The Commissioners will not object to any reasonable increase in the staff of relieving officers which may be recommended by you and the Vice-Guardians for this purpose; and the Commissioners will endeavour to secure the services of three efficient and trustworthy individuals as relieving officers, to be sent down to you from Dublin.

The Commissioners have at the same time made application to the British Association for an advance of 400*l.* on account of your Union, in the full reliance that such an advance will not in the least cause you to slacken your exertions in compelling the payment of the poor rates by the rate-payers who are in arrear.

The Commissioners request you to supply them with an estimate of the weekly sum which in your opinion will be required, in order to preserve from starvation, the destitute poor who are entitled to relief in your district, forming a separate estimate for each of the three following heads :—

1. Relief in the workhouse.
2. Relief out of the workhouse to persons entitled to such relief under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.
3. Relief to able-bodied persons entitled to such relief under the 2nd section of that Act.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. R. HAMILTON :—February 10, 1848.

WITH reference to your report of the 5th instant, and to the letter addressed to you thereon of yesterday's date, I am directed by the Commissioners to state, that as you consider the present relieving officers for Belmullet and Binghamstown electoral divisions unfit, the Commissioners will be prepared to remove them, if, when required, they shall not resign.

I am further to observe, that as you are of opinion that local persons cannot be relied on, the Commissioners recommend you to apply to Mr. Henry Brett of Castlebar, the county surveyor, under whom the Public Works of Mayo were carried on last year, for reference to intelligent and trustworthy persons suitable for the duties of relieving officers, who may have been employed under him, and are desirous of employment at present, at the salaries which can be allowed for the duties to be performed, which should be stated to Mr. Brett, and who should be apprised that application is made to him at the desire of the Commissioners.

If the parties reside near Ballina they should be referred to the Vice-Guardians there, and an immediate appointment being necessary, your earliest attention is requested to the object.

FURTHER LETTER from the COMMISSIONERS to Mr. R. HAMILTON :—
February 10, 1848.

IN reference to your report of the 5th instant, the Commissioners desire to state that there appears to them, that there must be want of common shelter in your district for some of the destitute poor, and they desire to know whether there are any houses which you would be able to hire for the use of the poor whose cabins have been unroofed.

The Commissioners likewise wish to know whether, in your opinion, the evil might be remedied by the erection of temporary sheds, or whether any other plan has occurred to you as suited to the peculiar circumstances of your district.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 6, 1848.

Ballina Union.

WE beg leave to enclose to you a copy of some further instructions issued by us to our relieving officers, with respect to landholders who are applicants for relief. We issued such, finding that many bailiffs were attempting, and sometimes successfully, to have persons removed off the lists on the mere faith of their word; and feeling that if the 10th section is to be acted on, the landlords should at least take the trouble of satisfying us that its provisions were infringed, and that, as appears just, the onus probandi should in all cases lie on them. On their coming before us and making their complaint, we fix a day, and sending for the applicant, judge of how we should act, requiring in every case that it should be fully and incontrovertibly proved that the applicant was still in possession before we deny him relief. On the other hand, we consider a certificate signed by the agent or bailiff to the effect that the applicant had given up possession, should be deemed conclusive and construed in his favour, unless the relieving officer has good reason to believe to the contrary.

ENCLOSURE.

Further Instructions to Relieving Officers.

1st. In case of any bailiff or agent desiring a relieving officer to strike a destitute person off his list because such person retains possession of land, such request is not to be attended to, it being highly improper that a relieving officer should act in such an important matter upon the mere word of a bailiff or agent, but the relieving officer should refer him to the Vice-Guardians to lay his complaint before them, and satisfy them of its truth.

2nd. In case any destitute person produces a certificate, signed by his landlord, agent, or bailiff, stating that such person "has given up possession of his land;" unless the relieving officer is well aware that such is not the fact, the certificate may be considered conclusive, and relief administered, provided the possession of the land had been the only reason for its being hitherto refused.

By order of Vice-Guardians.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 10, 1848.

I AM to state, that the mere refusal of a landlord to accept a surrender of land, does not disqualify a person who has ceased to occupy more than a quarter of an acre of land from receiving relief.

By the 10th section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, it is merely the occupation or non-occupation of a quarter of an acre of land which is made a criterion of destitution, provided that an applicant for relief may otherwise be deemed entitled to it.

Hence, as far as that clause is concerned, you are warranted in relieving any body who is not in such occupation, and you are not bound to investigate title at all, or to ascertain whether the tenant's interest has been legally determined by surrender or otherwise.

A copy of the first instruction to relieving officers, forwarded with your report as approved by the Commissioners, is enclosed herewith.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 9, 1848.

THE funds in the hands of the treasurer to the credit of the Union are nearly exhausted. Mr. Richard Hamilton and Mr. Waters applied for money yesterday to enable them to provide the necessary supplies in Erris. The Guardians, however, had not sufficient to give them; and as the Commissariat officer has orders not to advance 1 lb. on credit, and Mr. Richard Hamilton had exhausted his private means in providing food last week, I lent them 100*l.* out of a balance to my credit of the funds of the British Association, which they will repay as early as possible. I have written to Count Strzelecki on this subject.

In consequence of a communication which I have received from Count Strzelecki, I would beg to recommend that application be made to the British Association for a loan of 1000*l.* for this portion of the Union, and 500*l.* for Erris.

Ballina Union.

I submit that this step cannot be taken with too much secrecy, as the moment it is suspected that funds can be provided in any other way than out of the rates, there will be hopes encouraged which it is not desirable should be the case. The rate-payers will hold back, and there will be a general attempt at jobbing.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 10, 1848.

THE Commissioners have made application for an advance of 400*l.* for the Ballina Union, to assist the Guardians in providing for the relief of the destitute poor.

The Commissioners will make a further request for a sum of 200*l.*, to be forwarded to you for the same purpose. These moneys, as well as any former advances, should be duly brought into the Union accounts as loans.

The Commissioners wish to be furnished, with as little delay as possible, with a list of all the immediate lessors in the Union from whom rates are still due, and a list of all other rate-payers who owe more than 5*l.* on account of poor-rates.

The stage in which the proceedings to enforce payment are in each of these cases should be stated on the list.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 7, 1848.

I REGRET to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that a verdict of "died from lingering starvation" has been brought in in the case of Honor Feery, a pauper in receipt of out-door relief in the electoral division of Kilgarvan.

The relieving officer was not called upon by the coroner to give evidence; however I will lose no time in requiring a written explanation from him, which I will forward for the Commissioners' information.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 10, 1848.

WITH reference to my letter of the 7th instant, respecting the verdict of a coroner's jury on the case of Honora Kerrigan (which by mistake I called Honor Feery), I beg to annex the explanation of Mr. O'Flynn, the relieving officer of Kilgarvan electoral division.

As Captain Drought was the Vice-Guardian who disposed of the Kerrigan's application for relief, and the explanation called for by him on the annexed letter (A) from the Rev. Mr. Egan, P.P., of Kilgarvan, was, I am informed, given verbally to Captain Drought, who is now at Athlone, I think, if the Commissioners wish for any further report on this case, it had better be referred to Captain Drought, as he may remember the circumstances.

I am exceedingly anxious that there should be the fullest inquiry into every case of alleged neglect. As soon as the present coroner was elected, I lost no time in putting myself in communication with him, and I requested him to acquaint me with any circumstances which might come to his knowledge in which there was reason to suppose that proper relief had not been afforded to all applicants legally entitled to it. It is necessary, however, to be very guarded in attributing blame to relieving officers without a most searching investigation. I may mention as an instance, that, on the 8th instant, I heard a most heart-rending account of a person who it was alleged had dropt down in the streets of Ballina in a state of starvation, and had been carried to the workhouse infirmary in a dying state. I immediately went to the infirmary and saw the woman. I asked her whether she had ever applied to the relieving officer for relief: she stated to me that she had not. I found that she had 3*s.* 1*d.* in her pocket when brought into the house; so that, without venturing an opinion as to whether she had allowed herself to starve, it clearly would be unjust to blame the relieving officer in her case.

ENCLOSURES.

Ballina Union.

(A.)

ANDREW KERRIGAN and wife, residents in Kilgarvan, are both labouring under severe indisposition. Although the case has been reported on yesterday to Mr. O'Flynn, the relieving officer of the district, yet they have been refused relief, because (feeble and weak although they are) they have not come into the workhouse on yesterday, the day fixed on by Mr. O'Flynn to distribute rations in said electoral division. Mr. O'Flynn states he received orders to this effect on Tuesday last from the chairman of the Union.

To the Chairman of the Ballina Poor Law Union.

Mr. O'FLYNN to the VICE-GUARDIANS:—February 9, 1848.

IN the case of Andrew Kerrigan and Honor Kerrigan, on the 14th of December, 1847, they applied to me for an order of admission to the workhouse, which I gave them; and on the 24th December, 1847, I gave them out-door relief for the week ending 25th December, which is continued weekly to them as appears at foot, and will from my book also. On the 4th January, 1848, I brought my books for revision before the Board. Captain Drought, the then chairman, ordered them into the workhouse, which I offered them on the 6th January, but refused it in presence of Thads. O'Dowda, jun., Esq., Bonneconlan House. They applied to the Rev. Mr. Egan to get them meal, contrary to the order of the Board. I refused to out-step it. He then reported me to the Board. They ordered me to revisit them, and give provisional relief if necessary. I did so; and, on the 11th, the Board allowed them 14 lbs. weekly.

It can be proved to the satisfaction of Mr. Hamilton and the Vice-Guardians that Honor Kerrigan was sickly for three years previous to her death; also that it was not a case for an inquest.

Mr. O'FLYNN to Captain HAMILTON:—February 9, 1848.

I MOST respectfully take leave to enclose to you my report relative to the death or case of Honor Kerrigan, of Kilgarvan, on whose body an inquest was held at the special instance and requisition of the Rev. Mr. Egan, instead of that of a policeman. I beg to refer you to Sergeant Ward, stationed at Bonneconlan: he can prove it was not a case for an inquest, therefore he refused to give a requisition.

Captain DROUGHT to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 23, 1848.

IN reply to the file, herewith returned, I beg to say that, at this distance of time, I cannot speak confidently as to the verbal answer Mr. O'Flynn, the relieving officer, gave to the Board in reply to the letter marked (A), sent by us to him for explanation and information ; but the impression on my mind is, that in ordering the 14 lbs. of meal weekly it was only provisionally, until Mr. O'Flynn had time (under the then existing pressure of business) to make further inquiries into the circumstances of the Kerrigans, as they had refused to come to the workhouse. And all the relieving officers received strict directions from the Board that, if they found the quantity ordered by us at any time was not sufficient, to give what would be so until they next appeared before us, when, on proper explanation, we would sanction it and revise the quantity previously ordered in their books.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 10, 1848.

EVERYTHING connected with the house is in a satisfactory state. The cases of fever are very few indeed, and we are still in a position to admit persons whom we consider require the "test."

We regret to state that our weekly liabilities are far exceeding the amount of rate lodged by our collectors; and we cannot say that we have the least expectation of being able to meet them, if we are entirely to depend upon the amount of rate collected weekly. Our contractor's demands are necessarily very high, and they reasonably expect prompt payments, it being on those terms that they entered into contracts requiring great outlay and unremitting attention on their part. We must state that the latter is fully afforded by these gentlemen, who seem as anxious as we could be to prevent any abuse in carrying out the details of the system we have organized in this Union.

We summoned all the collectors to attend last Monday, and having impressed upon them the necessity of further exertion, informed those whose accounts were not satisfactory, that if their lodgments were not considerably increased in amount next week, we should forthwith dismiss them, and put their sureties in suit; the excuse that they had hitherto of "having no court," being now removed.

We obtained about 100 decrees at the last Court, which are now in course of execution. Our system of labour test works well. The weekly report for a small portion of the Union shows 700 absent out of 1200 employed.

Much evil has arisen from our not being supplied with implements; but we hope this will be speedily remedied, as we have sent forward a requisition for the quantity required.

We have had occasion to dismiss several overseers for not enforcing sufficient work from those employed, stopping in each case the amount of salary due to them. This course, we anticipate, will have the desired effect of making their successors more careful in the discharge of their duties. We fear that great abuse exists in some of our divisions, and for this reason are anxious for your approval of the appointment of Mr. John Palmer as revising officer, as we have no doubt this step will be attended with much good; he being a person to whom, judging from our experience of him, and the high character he bears, we can with confidence entrust such important duties.

We beg leave to forward a report furnished by him relative to some cases of gross imposition which he detected in his own division, and we very much deplore the evidence that is thus laid before us, that a gentleman, whom a sense of duty, if not a feeling of what is conducive to his own interests, should urge to check abuse, could be found base enough to sanction it in the most direct manner.

We would be sorry to suppose that conduct such as this was not rare; but even one instance is sufficient to prove to what a state of degradation the country is reduced, and to cause us to feel but little astonishment at the many flagrant attempts at imposition which are daily practised by those in a lower sphere of life.

We have calculated that the expense of printing the necessary forms for relieving officers of every class will average about 3*l.* weekly; and we are desirous of ascertaining if you will sanction this outlay, remarking at the same time that we consider it necessary, and that it shall be conducted with a strict view to economy.

ENCLOSURES.

Ballina Union.

Remarks as to annexed Report and Certificates.

THE person who has signed the annexed certificates is the son of Captain Knox of Greenwood, who is a magistrate and deputy lieutenant. On questioning the relieving officer we have ascertained that this person has been duly authorized by Captain Knox to act for him in all matters relating to his tenants; and that Captain Knox himself directly informed the relieving officer that he might rely upon any representations made to him as to his tenants by this person.

SIR,

Roosky, February 3, 1848.

AGREEABLE to your desire I hasten to furnish below, as shortly as possible, a sketch of my doings on the evening of the 1st instant. May I request your forgiveness if the novelty of those disclosures will not admit of a greater brevity than in my present haste I can command.

I forward by bearer the return, as ordered by the Commissioners.

I am, &c.,

JOHN PALMER,

R. O., Kilfin E. Division.

Peter Burrowes, Esq., Chairman Vice-Guardians,
Ballina Union.

Townland of Fairfield.

Patrick Quech, landlord's certificate, No. 365, was tested in poor-house for 10 days, and after ordered to working party. On the 1st instant sent assistant relieving officer into this townland, who, after some inquiries, discovered that the said Patrick Quech was a pensioner in the receipt of 6d. per day, and that he had two cows. I had previously paid two visits into this locality, but failed to learn anything beyond poverty, and so forth.

Daniel Doherty, landlord's certificate, No. 362, was tested in workhouse and ordered to join working party. On the same day my assistant discovered that he was in possession of a cow, and in rather comfortable circumstances.

Thomas Mohan, landlord's certificate, No. 843, offered workhouse and refused. On the evening of the 1st accompanied my assistant into this townland, and found this family seated round a cheering fire, with an immense wooden dish of stirabout before them. There were three sheep and a large quantity of new thrashed straw in the lower part of this house. This man had a stack of corn in haggard, which he said was seized on by landlord for rent.

Ballina Union.

Thomas M'Namara, landlord's certificate, No. 229, offered workhouse and refused; called at his house on same evening, and found there an ass and rather a poor house. This man told us that only now all his resources were run out, and that I should give him a ticket of admission to workhouse shortly, which, as in duty bound, I promised.

Patrick Brown, landlord's certificate, No. 281, in workhouse, but left. On same evening found in his house a cow, calf, and ass.

In the course of our rambles said evening, visited John Gillaspys house, who had applied for relief, but did not as yet bring the landlord's certificate. Here we found a cow and horse, and comfortable house.

Our next visit was to Francis M'Namara's house, another applicant, but not having as yet obtained the landlord's certificate. Here we found a cow and comfortable house.

We proceeded next to Mary Reap's house who would, if she could, persuade us that she was a poor widow, and brought us a landlord's certificate, No. 500. We found her husband, Michael Quinn, comfortably seated by a roaring fire, after having returned some hours from his daily labour with his landlord.

N.B. You will perceive that all these cases refer to the same townland and under the same landlord. I only hope my disclosures may be of benefit to my electoral division, as I am certain they were as unexpected as they were merited.

JOHN PALMER,
R. O., Kilfian E. D.

Peter Burrowes, Esq., Chairman Vice-Guardians,
Ballina Union.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 11, 1848.

WE have already reported "that our weekly liabilities were far exceeding the amount of rate lodged by our collectors, and that we had not the least reason to hope we would be able to meet them, if we were to depend entirely upon the amount of rate to be collected."

We have now the honour to enclose a letter received from the Vice-Guardian at Belmullet, requiring 300*l.* immediately; at the same time stating, he was obliged to borrow 100*l.*, for the re-payment of which his credit is pledged.

Our contractors' demands on to-morrow will be 800*l.*; Mr. Waters requires 300*l.*; our fever hospital, 100*l.*; our relieving and other officers, who have had the payments of their respective salaries postponed, in order to enable us to meet our contractors as long as possible, will require 300*l.*, thus making a sum of 1500*l.*, exclusive of liabilities incurred by the former Board.

To meet these demands we have in bank 113*l.*, so that it is quite evident that the time has arrived when we must request immediate assistance to enable us to carry on the affairs of the Union with credit; and we are anxious to ascertain to what extent, and when, we may expect such will be afforded.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. WATERS, Vice-Guardian, to the VICE-GUARDIANS, Ballina Union:—
February 9, 1848.

I WILL feel much obliged by your remitting me immediately 300*l.*, as I want to pay some demands that are pressing. Were it not that Mr. Hamilton handed me this day 100*l.*, I do not know what I should have done, as Mr. Fortescue refused to give me any more credit: I had to borrow some from a person in this place on Monday.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 12, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of the Commissioners, that Mr. Reilly, a respectable merchant residing in the town of Belmullet, having undertaken to provide and distribute any number of rations that might be required at the several stations named by the Vice-Guardians for 1½*d.* per ration, consisting of one pound of meal made into stirabout, and as Mr. Waters and myself considered this proposal most advantageous, I thought it necessary to proceed to Ballina last Monday for the purpose of laying it with other matters before the Board.

Erris.

The Guardians immediately agreed to it, and I have no doubt but this will be the means of checking imposition to a great extent.

I brought before the Board the necessity for the appointment of additional relieving officers, at the same time naming distinct districts to be placed under the charge of each officer, on which they advertised for two.

I likewise applied for funds sufficient to meet the expenses of the current week, which the Guardians were not prepared to give; and had I not obtained 100*l.* from Lieutenant Hamilton, besides other sums borrowed, all relief in the district must have ceased, the Commissariat having refused to issue provision to the Guardians on credit; and there being no supply in the hands of merchants, the Vice-Guardian here is at this moment nearly 500*l.* in debt for provisions placed in the hands of relieving officers.

I have written to Count Strzelecki, recommending him to place funds at my disposal for the purpose of lending to the Vice-Guardians, in case of such an emergency.

I returned from Ballina on Tuesday, in company with Mr. Wilkinson, and have been principally occupied with him during the remainder of the week.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 15, 1848.

I AM to state that application has been made to Count Strzelecki for a further advance of 500*l.* on account of the whole Union.

I am at the same time to request your attention to the Commissioners' letter of the 9th instant, on the subject of providing funds for the maintenance of the poor in the Ballina Union.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 14, 1848.

WITH reference to your letters of the 9th and 10th instant, I beg to Erris. state, for the information of the Commissioners, that arrangements will be completed in about 10 days for distributing cooked food at nine depôts in this district, which at present I consider sufficient; and the localities selected for these depôts will not require any pauper to walk an unreasonable distance for his food.

It is extremely difficult to form anything like an accurate estimate of the probable expenses for relief in these two electoral divisions; but judging from the relieving officers' books, and my own observations, I consider the following is as near a calculation as at present can be made of the amount which will be required for the weekly support of each class named in your letter:—

1st. Relief in the workhouse	£ 30
2nd. Out-door relief to persons entitled under 1st section of 10 Vict., cap. 31	110
3rd. Out-door relief to persons entitled under 2nd section of 10 Vict., cap. 31	175
Total	£315

Independent of the above, about 17*l.* per week will be required for the payment of salaries to relieving officers and their assistants, exclusive of the workhouse establishment, and a further sum of 20*l.* weekly for wages to mechanics employed at the auxiliary workhouse.

With regard to providing accommodation for the poor people whose cabins have been unroofed, I beg to state that there are no houses in the district applicable for the purpose which could be hired; and even if such could be procured, I doubt whether it would be desirable to crowd a number of these people together, covered with filth of every kind, and suffering from disease. In about a fortnight a comfortable thatched house will be completed in the outside garden, attached to the auxiliary workhouse, 313 feet long by 16 broad, which was intended for school-rooms, day-rooms, &c.; but, in order to meet the present pressure, I should recommend it being appropriated as sleeping apartments for the able-bodied men and boys above a certain age. The buildings in the inner yards to be reserved for infirm men, women, and children, and also for hospital accommodation. Sheds can easily be erected for school-rooms, &c. I think it would be desirable the Commissioners should consult Mr. Wilkinson on this subject, as he is acquainted with the building to which I refer.

I take this opportunity of drawing the Commissioners' attention to the only agreement entered into between the Guardians and the late proprietor of the auxiliary poor-house, which I submitted through Mr. Wilkinson for their consideration some time ago. I am convinced, from the state of this district, a long period must elapse before it can be dispensed with.

Immediately on receipt of your letter I placed myself in communication with Mr. Brett, in order to obtain his assistance in procuring a proper class of persons as relieving officers.

In consequence of the Vice-Guardians at Ballina having declared their inability to supply the requisite funds to meet the current expenses of this district, I purpose going there on Thursday next to consult Lieutenant Hamilton on the subject.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 17, 1848.

I AM to request that you will have the goodness to make a close scrutiny into the cases of the parties who are receiving out-door relief in the Union, and that you and the Vice-Guardians will press forward vigorously the collection of the rate.

I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners have made application to the British Relief Association for the sum of 200*l.* for the district of Erris, to assist the Vice-Guardians in their present embarrassments.

For the future, the course which the Commissioners are prepared for a while to adopt is, to undertake to make weekly advances for the relief of the able-bodied men out of the workhouse, provided that the Vice-Guardians will relieve from the poor-rates able-bodied men and their families in the workhouse, and destitute persons entitled to relief under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act out of the workhouse.

The Commissioners request you to supply them on Saturday in each week with an estimate of the weekly sum which, in your opinion, will be required in order to preserve from starvation the destitute poor who are entitled to relief in your district, forming a separate estimate for each of the three following heads:—

- 1st. Relief in the workhouse.
- 2nd. Relief out of the workhouse to persons entitled to such relief under the 1st section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.
- 3rd. Relief to the able-bodied persons entitled to such relief under the 2nd section of that Act.

An extract from your report relating to the auxiliary workhouse has been forwarded to Mr. Wilkinson.

MR. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 16, 1848.

I HAVE delayed sending a weekly report until I could furnish you with a return of all defaulters of poor-rate, owing over 5*l.*, showing the steps which have been taken, &c.

Although I had lists in my possession I thought it better to require the collectors to furnish me with corrected returns to the latest period, copies of which I now beg to annex with the exception of Mr. Thady Foody's district, for which a new collector has not yet been appointed. I likewise annex a return showing the numbers at present receiving out-door relief in each electoral division; together with the number of children attending schools, and receiving relief from the British Association.

The Vice-Guardians are much embarrassed for want of funds to meet their weekly liabilities. The rates are coming in very slowly, as will be perceived by the annexed return. I have placed at their disposal the order transmitted to me for provisions by Count Strzelecki; but as the issue of rations both in a raw and cooked state has hitherto been carried out by contract, an entire change of system will have to be adopted if funds cannot be procured; the present system has worked so well, that I shall be sorry if circumstances render it necessary for the Vice-Guardians to make any change.

The Vice-Guardians have recently dismissed five overseers for disobedience of orders in permitting the working parties to follow their own inclinations and do nothing; two of these overseers have this day been committed to gaol for issuing orders for bread on the contractor subsequent to their dismissal; fortunately in every instance notice has been given to the contractor of each dismissal, therefore the fraud was discovered. It is almost impossible to get overseers who will do their duty; there is not the same excuse here which I have heard urged in other places, "that a man's life is not safe if he does his duty;" the people are quietly disposed, but the most idle and corrupt set I ever had to deal with, and the overseers are little or no better. Although I write thus harshly of these poor people, I feel that there is every allowance to be made for them; indeed, so much so, that in many localities, for want of a good example, and brought up in the most deplorable ignorance, it would only be surprising if they were any better than they are.

As regards the state of the workhouse and Union in general (except Erris), I think that, with the exception of the finances, matters are in every other respect very much more satisfactory than they were two months ago. The law is fully and fairly in operation; and although it is not giving satisfaction, it is giving relief. I do not think that anything short of universal relief would give general satisfaction.

ENCLOSURES.

(A.)

STATEMENT of the COLLECTION of the POOR RATE in the Killala, Lackan, Kilfian, Ballysokeery, and Ballycastle Electoral Divisions, Ballina Union. PALMER KIRKWOOD, Collector.

W. J. HAMILTON, T. P. L. Inspector.

Ballina, February 15, 1848.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 21, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration your report of the 16th instant, in which you state that the Vice-Guardians of Ballina Union are now much embarrassed for want of funds, as the rates are coming in very slowly.

The Commissioners observe by one of the statements appended to the report, that (in addition to 1389 inmates of the workhouses in the Union) the Vice-Guardians give out-door relief to 22,348 persons in a population of 120,787, whilst in your portion of the Union the funds of the British Relief Association provide rations for 15,139 children attending the National schools, which, with the children similarly subsisting in the Binghamstown and Belmullet, must, when added to the number of persons on the pauper relief lists, form a total exceeding one-third of the population.

The Commissioners further observe that in this Union, possessing rateable property of the annual value of 95,774*l.*, estimated on a very moderate scale—the rates collected since the 2nd of August last amount only to 6,662*l.*, out of 13,869*l.* assessed by the late Board of Guardians.

Without adverting to the services rendered by yourself, the Commissioners recognise in the advance of the weekly collection, since the appointment of the Vice-Guardians, evidence of the exertions which these officers have made, at once manifesting the important utility and necessity of their services, without taking into consideration the advantages derived from their organization of the measures essentially requisite for an effectual administration of the laws for relief of the destitute poor in the Union.

The Commissioners are made fully aware of the difficulties with which the Vice-Guardians have to contend, when your lists of the persons owing rates, amounting to 5*l.* or upwards, show that in such amounts there is uncollected 3775*l.*, out of rates struck in July, 1847, averaging only 2*s.* 10*d.* in the pound. As this large sum appears to be due by many of the owners of property and principal landholders in the Union, the Commissioners would have hoped, looking to the extent of destitution to be relieved, that no legal proceedings could be necessary for obtaining the discharge of liabilities so created.

The Commissioners observe that there are several cases in your lists where payment has not been promised, and directions for proceedings have not been given. The Vice-Guardians will no doubt in these and all other cases adopt such course as may be requisite for recovery of the rates;—and in reference to the cases in which distress must be resorted to, the Commissioners desire to draw attention to the powers of the collectors under the 73rd section of the Act 1 and 2 Vic., c. 56, combined with the 152nd section of the 6 and 7 Wm. IV., c. 116, the first provision in which latter enactment, enables them to levy by distress, without first summoning the defaulters before the magistrates.

The Commissioners have perceived with much satisfaction the promptness of the course adopted towards the overseers who failed to perform their duty with integrity, as well as those who subsequently attempted the fraud of giving orders for food after their dismissal. Such decisive measures, and a cautious selection of the persons employed to carry out the orders of the Vice-Guardians,—present the only means of securing a faithful execution of the duty to be performed.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that I have been at Ballina for the last two days, in order to facilitate the necessary arrangements for carrying out the Commissioners' instructions relative to the issue of cooked food throughout my district, as well as obtaining a regular supply of funds to defray the current weekly expenses, such as additional buildings, &c., at the auxiliary workhouse, expenses of in-door relief, cost of staff, and other contingencies. In my report of the 14th instant, I stated the probable amount on these heads. I find that it is quite out of the power of the Vice-Guardians, under present circumstances, to undertake to remit funds sufficient to meet these demands with any degree of regularity; and as Commissary-General Dobree has informed me that any assistance which may be given will be only in food, I see no alternative, so far as this portion of the Ballina Union is concerned, but at once proceeding to strike and levy (if possible) another rate; however, before recommending the Guardians to take so important a step, I should feel obliged by your acquainting me with the Commissioners' wishes on this subject.

With reference to your letter of the 17th instant, respecting the enforcement of the rates and the revision of lists, the Commissioners may feel assured that every step has been taken to carry out their instructions. Three new relieving officers were appointed on Thursday, two of whom were recommended by Mr. Brett, and a third has been acting as an assistant in the Ballina electoral division, they are all very young and inexperienced, but they were the best that offered. I asked the Vice-Guardians to send Mr. Palmer, who has a general superintendence of the Union, to devote a week in order to give these young men a fair start, but he is at present correcting abuses, and they seem to think he has enough to do.

With respect to the line drawn between the relief afforded by the Guardians and that derived from other sources, I beg to state I have consulted Lieutenant Hamilton on the subject, and we fully agree that owing to the state and prospects of this Union it is a step which we apprehend may be attended with dangerous results. If we could place any dependence on the rate-payers it would no doubt be a great boon to the Guardians, and much facilitate the administration of relief; but as a very large majority of the rate-payers appear blind to their own interests, and to embarrass rather than assist the working of the Act, we fear that whether under the name of loan or otherwise, so long as the funds did not come out of their own pockets, the demands for relief would be excessive and steadily increase. We would, therefore, prefer that any assistance which may be afforded to the Guardians should be unconditional, to be applied by them to the general purposes of the Union, and become a charge as such. In offering these suggestions we are not aware whether the Commissioners have ulterior objects in view, but, at the same time, we wish to lay before them our opinion without reserve.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 2, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners are of opinion that a new rate of at least 3s. in the pound should be made on the Belmullet and Binghamstown electoral divisions when the present rate is collected.

I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners would wish to know the precise sum required for the out-door relief of destitute able-bodied men in your district, with a view of having data for regulating the amount of advances for your district, which they would recommend to the favourable consideration of the British Association.

The Commissioners do not contemplate a specific appropriation of such advances; but they are desirous that the rate-payers should provide funds adequate to the due relief of the workhouse inmates, and of persons relieved out of the workhouse, under the first section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act.

Mr. BOURKE to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 22, 1848.

IN reply to your letter of the 15th instant, calling my attention to the operation of the labour test as a means of checking applications for relief from persons not in a really destitute condition, and inviting me to offer any suggestions that may occur to me with regard to the manner in which the details of such a system of employment may be most advantageously conducted, I have the honour to state that I have attentively considered the working of the system in Ballina Union, and both by examination of the persons now at work there, and of the Labour Books recording their attendance, I have arrived at the conclusion that the employment of the able-bodied paupers, as conducted at Ballina, does operate as a sufficient check to applications from persons not in a destitute condition. The general appearance of the paupers employed in the working parties which I visited, marked them as being in destitute circumstances, and I could not hear of any cases where it was alleged that persons not requiring relief were thus receiving it. Indeed I think that the nature of the relief, and the terms upon which it is granted, make it highly improbable that any persons who were not in great want would seek it by this means. The ration for an able-bodied man is no more than 1½ lb. of the coarsest bread daily; and to entitle himself to this he must perform a task of work which requires some industry to complete. The details of this system were arranged by the Vice-Guardians with my concurrence, and I do not at present see any manner in which they could be much improved. Their greatest defect appears to me to be want of simplicity, but I am not prepared to suggest any method by which this could be remedied without diminishing the checks against fraud which they were framed to secure. If, indeed (as you have suggested in a paper lately referred to me), one description of work could be adhered to, and the paupers kept solely at breaking stones, I think the test would become more stringent; for there is much more opportunity given for an indolent man to escape performing a full task of work when employed at labour, the result of which is not easily capable of regulation by measurement. And with this view the Vice-Guardians of Ballina and other Unions are now, at my suggestion, advertising for contracts for the supply of stones for the use of the working parties, and if these are obtained on easy terms, I anticipate great advantage from the plan. I think it very possible that such contracts may be obtained from road contractors.

Ballina Union.

The numerous instances in which men have left the working parties after one or two days' trial of them, affords in my opinion some additional evidence of the good effects of this test, and is corroborated by the increased activity which I think I can observe among small holders of land in preparing for a spring crop. However, of this I cannot speak with much confidence, as I am unable to judge of it relatively with what takes place in other years, from being but slightly acquainted with this district of Ireland.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 24, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 15th instant, forwarding for my information an extract from a report which the Commissioners have received from the Vice-Guardians of this Union, relating to the employment of poor persons receiving out-door relief in the Union, and stating that the Commissioners desire to draw my attention to the operation of the labour test, as a means of checking applications for relief from persons not in a really destitute condition; and that the Commissioners will be glad to be furnished with any suggestions which I may wish to offer on the subject of the manner in which the details of such a system of employment may be most advantageously conducted.

I beg to say that having, from the commencement of the out-door relief, been in almost daily communication with the Vice-Guardians, any suggestions as to details which I had to offer, I made to them, and that I fully approve of their arrangements, which only require, in my opinion, a trustworthy staff to make as perfect as any system of such magnitude can be; at present, however, there is a great deficiency of implements. All the exertions of the Vice-Guardians to prevent imposition by enforcing a sufficient task of work in return for the relief afforded are in vain, as they are powerless from want of implements. They received orders from the Board of Works on the storekeepers at Ballina and Killala; from the former they only received part (and the greater part useless), from the latter they received but a small portion, partly useless.

Every hour brings in applications and complaints from the overseers, the justice of which cannot be denied, particularly as the Vice-Guardians hold them strictly accountable for any irregularity or insufficiency of work.

Although Dromore West and Easky were mentioned in the application to the Board of Works, we have neither received any tools, nor any reply from them.

At those stores on which orders have been received, the storekeepers refuse to deliver tools until exorbitant demands for rent shall be satisfied. The Commissioners will thus perceive that it is very discouraging, after having organized a good system of checking abuses, to have it in a great measure rendered unavailable for want of machinery.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 25, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 24th instant, relating to the operation of the system of out-door relief established in the Ballina Union, and I am to state that the Commissioners have called the attention of the Board of Works to that part of your report which relates to the deficiency in the supply of implements required to employ the able-bodied poor receiving relief.

The COMMISSIONERS to COUNT STRZELECKI:—February 26, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward herewith for your information, a copy of a communication which they have received from Lieutenant Hamilton, Temporary Poor Law Inspector, relating to the state of the finances of the Ballina Union, and I am to request that you will be good enough to take the circumstances of the case into consideration, with a view to the application of Lieutenant Hamilton being complied with.

Ballina Union.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—February 27, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report to you, for the information of the Commissioners, that the various departments of the workhouse of this Union are in a satisfactory and healthy state. The mortality in the infirmary has been trifling considering the number of patients and the state to which some of them are reduced by dysentery and hardship. I think the medical officer is very attentive to his duties, in which opinion I am strengthened by the fact that the patients invariably seem to be most thankful to him for his exertions and kindness. The workhouse schools are in my opinion cleaner and better managed than any of the schools (national or otherwise) that I have seen in the Union.

I am sorry to say that our assistant-master, three of our relieving officers, and the porter at Binghamstown, are in fever.

I yesterday visited the working parties at Kilglass and Dromore West. I must own I was agreeably surprised at finding the progress which had been made. Mr. Burrowes (Vice-Guardian) writes me word that he visited the pits at Killala, and that everything seemed satisfactory. The Vice-Guardians have called for a return of 200 single men, able-bodied, at present on the works, for the purpose of giving them all orders for admission to the workhouse; ten men from each working party will give the number; they purpose repeating the dose once a fortnight. I hope that this may drive some of them to seek for employment, which I fear, notwithstanding what may be said to the contrary, is very sparingly offered; however, if we do our best, and try to make the subordinates do their best, I think the ratepayers will only have themselves to blame if one man for whom there is employment at profitable work, be permitted by them to be fed at their expense at unprofitable work. While on this subject, I may mention that offers have been made by road contractors to lay down stones for the paupers to break, for which they are willing to pay a certain limited sum per ton.

I have replied to some very plausible applications that I considered pauper labour cannot be applied too unprofitably, but that if the county surveyor will point out any roads upon which contracts have expired, and any saving to the Union will result, I thought the Vice-Guardians would have no objection to have stones broken for their repair; but I set my face against contractors being permitted to derive any benefit by getting the work done cheaper than they would be forced to pay for legitimate labour.

I have been seriously thinking whether or not it would be expedient to limit the out-door relief to able-bodied to the expiration of the current two months' order. It is a subject of deep importance. On the one hand there are thousands of acres lying waste, and on the other, thousands are supported for whom there is an abundance of employment. If the ratepayers would only see their own interests and exert themselves a little, I have no doubt that we could manage very well to relieve under the 1st section of the Act all proper objects who are legally entitled to relief; however, the landholders say that they neither have nor can they get the means to give employment: some of those who can best afford to do anything are not doing as much as those who can badly afford to pay their weekly labour bills; so that I fear there is very little prospect of any early improvement in the present deplorable and ruinous state of affairs.

To show how completely the exports and imports of corn have changed in the last three years, I give the following statement, which I extracted from the collector's books of the Harbour Commissioners:—

Bread stuffs imported into the port of Ballina from 1st January, 1845, to 1st January, 1846	.	.	None.
Ditto exported	ditto	from
1st January, 1845, to 1st January, 1846	.	.	9480 tons.
Bread stuffs imported into the port of Ballina from 1st January, 1847, to 1st January, 1848	.	.	7631 tons.
Ditto exported	ditto	from
1st January, 1847, to 1st January, 1848	.	.	455 tons.

By this it may easily be seen how the tide has turned.

I purpose visiting the district of Erris in company with Mr. R. Hamilton during the ensuing week. He and Mr. Waters are so completely thrown upon their own resources, that I may be of use to them in various little matters of detail connected with their very painful duties. I have requested that my letters may be addressed to Belmullet up to Saturday next.

Ballina Union.

REPLY to the foregoing :—February 29, 1848.

I AM to express the Commissioners' satisfaction at the course pursued by you with regard to the proposals of the road contractors to lay down stones for the paupers to break, which is entirely in accordance with the Commissioners' views.

I am at the same time to state that the Commissioners think that the Vice-Guardians should be careful not to sell broken stones below the market price.

The Commissioners would propose to limit the out-door relief order to the 18th March, at which time the Commissioners trust that the able-bodied paupers in the Ballina Union may be thrown for awhile on their own resources.

MR. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 26, 1848.

REFERRING to your letter of the 10th instant, relative to providing accommodation for the poor whose cabins have been unroofed in this district, and to my reports of the 14th and 21st instant, I beg to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that upwards of 35% is now due to the mechanics employed in making available the buildings attached to the auxiliary workhouse, independent of bills due for materials, &c., and as the Vice-Guardians have hitherto been unable to meet these liabilities, I should feel much obliged if you would have the goodness to inform me of the Commissioners' wishes regarding the carrying on of these works.

I may remark that within the last few days three persons have been found dead on the road-side in the vicinity of the workhouse, whose death I attribute to want of common shelter, as on referring to the relieving officers' books it appeared they had regularly received the relief allowed for their support; and I this day brought into the poor-house three persons (from Mullaghroe) in a dying state, who I was informed had slept under a hay-rick for three nights; two of these I consider past all hope of recovery.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 2, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 26th ultimo, relating to the Ballina Union, and I am to inform you that the Commissioners have made application for an advance of 400% for the purpose mentioned in your report.

MR. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 26, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of the Commissioners, that in consequence of the owners of the houses in which the boilers are in belonging to the British Association, having refused to give them up, or let them be made use of, until all manner of old outstanding claims be liquidated, a sufficient number could only be obtained for the issue of stirabout rations at three depôts in this district during the past week. I attribute this unwillingness to give up possession of the boilers to a combination against the issue of cooked food which appears pretty general; however, no exertion shall be spared in order to carry out the Commissioners' instructions on this point with as little delay as possible, and I am in hopes a supply of boilers may shortly be obtained from the neighbourhood of Ballina.

Great difficulty has been experienced in carrying out the labour test, principally owing to our not being able to procure from the Board of Works' store a sufficient number of hammers, and the great expense of bringing other requisites for this purpose from Ballina. All the able-bodied paupers in the vicinity of the auxiliary workhouse are employed in various kinds of useful works on the premises, and considering these people have been hitherto so little inclined to labour, they appear to be getting on pretty well.

I regret but little progress has been made during the last fortnight in the collection of rates in this district, owing principally to the collector not having the power of taking summary proceedings against defaulting landlords; however, the requisite notices have been served, and proceedings will be immediately taken for the recovery of nearly 200*l.*; this course would have been adopted some time previous, only the Guardians were then of opinion proceedings in the superior Courts against these parties would be preferable; there is still 380*l.* due by landlords, 127*l.* by tenants, and 483*l.* being collected, makes the total of the rate 990*l.*

I regret the relieving officers have not as yet brought in their books, consequently I am unable to prepare the estimate required by your letter of the 17th instant, but I hope to forward it by Monday's post.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 6, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the attention of the Board of Works has been drawn to the necessity of supplying the implements required for the use of the Union.

I am at the same time to state, that the boilers mentioned in your report belong to the Vice-Guardians.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 1, 1848.

WE have to report most favourably as to the state of the poorhouse. Commissary-General Dobree visited it lately, and expressed himself highly satisfied at the regularity and cleanliness which prevailed.

The amount of rates paid in weekly by the collectors is sadly inadequate to meet our demands. Every exertion has been made, and is making, to render the collection more satisfactory; but we do not calculate on receiving much before the 15th April, on which day we purpose revising the cases of those in default, and issuing such further instructions as may seem necessary.

We are endeavouring to satisfy our contractors by making small payments on account, as our funds enable us; but it is vain to hope to succeed in doing so much longer without considerable assistance. Our meal contractor declared this day his inability to supply us further without payment, there being due to him over 1,200*l.*; and we believe would have ceased to honour our orders were it not for the timely assistance afforded us by Mr. Hamilton, which has set things right for some little time longer.

You may with confidence rely that any assistance which may be afforded, shall not cause us to relax our exertions in compelling payment from defaulters, but on the contrary will stimulate us to greater, as it will afford us prospects of being able to carry on the relief of the destitute.

We can report favourably as to the working of the out-door labour test: it is answering our expectations.

Many complaints are made by farmers and landholders of the difficulty of procuring labourers, in consequence of the superior attraction our employment offers; but on inquiry we invariably find that the rate of wages offered by such persons is totally inadequate to enable the object of their kindness to support their families from starvation—the real motive being, to obtain relief in aid of wages.

Feeling that it is now necessary to force persons who may not be inclined, through idleness, to seek employment in the fields, we are making arrangements to provide room in the house for 200 able-bodied single men, or married without families, and to refuse such out-door relief, leaving them the alternative of being admitted to the poor-house, or using exertion to find employment.

We persist in giving bread only to the able-bodied labourers, although the expense is one-third more than meal; but we calculate that the evil of such extra expense is fully counterbalanced by the stringency of the test. A manifest improvement has taken place in the health of the able-bodied, though fed on bread alone, of which we can produce ample testimony.

We are gradually finding a good class of overseers; and if any peculiar instances of good conduct and attention appear, we use our discretion in rewarding such person by advancing his pay from 1s. 6d. to 2s. per day during pleasure.

Every day brings in instances of attempted frauds and forgeries, but which rarely succeed. We enclose you specimens of such, and copies of instructions we have issued to protect ourselves as much as possible, which we hope will meet with your approbation.

We have much reason to feel satisfied at the appointment of Mr. John Palmer as revising officer. His exertions have produced much good in checking abuse, and directing relief to the proper objects.

In conclusion, we are happy to be able to state, that although abuses may exist, the general impression through the country seems to be, that our first and most important object is attained, "that of meeting destitution."

To Messrs. WILLIAM and GEORGE MALLEY, Contractors for Meal and Bread.

GENTLEMEN,—As cases of the forgeries of tickets are occurring every day, particularly of those signed by Overseers, we have directed a circular to be issued, ordering each overseer and relieving officer to write the word which signifies the amount of food in red ink, and in large letters, so as to occupy the entire space. If you detect any person offering a ticket which is evidently a forgery, lay it aside, and refuse any food to all such persons for that day. If the false ticket has been paid in the press of business, and the forgery is afterwards discovered, refuse to honour the ticket that may be next presented by the same person, even though it be a true one. This will serve as a punishment, and replace what you already distributed improperly. I think our adopting this plan, and punishing the overseers, unless their instructions as to writing the amount, &c., are attended to, will serve to check the abuse without resorting to the measure of striking the offenders' names off the lists, which might be attended with most serious consequences.

You will please circulate this among your storekeepers.

CIRCULAR sent to all OVERSEERS and RELIEF OFFICERS.

As many forgeries of tickets are daily committed, you are requested in future, when filling each ticket, to write the word which shows the amount of food in red ink, and so as to fill the entire space, as also the number; the remainder of the ticket may be written in black or blue. In no case is an overseer to give a ticket for more than one day's rations except on Saturday, when he gives three.

In case any person, who has not been employed before during the week, applying for the first time on Saturday, he may be set to work, but is only to receive one day's rations.

You are again requested to be careful in filling the tickets correctly, as the storekeepers have received instructions to refuse any that are obliterated or are not plainly written.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 2, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have applied for an advance of 400*l.* to assist you in your present difficulties.

I am at the same time to express the satisfaction of the Commissioners at the arrangements made by you for the relief of destitution in the Union.

The Commissioners are convinced that you will do everything in your power to prevent frauds upon the rate-payers, and they approve of the course which you have adopted in reference to the particular kinds of frauds mentioned in your report.

Mr. R. HAMILTON and Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—
March 2, 1848.

Erris

ON our return yesterday from visiting the depôt at Aughtram, we found a crowd of persons collected under the windows of the relieving officer's residence in Binghamstown, all of whom appeared in a state of starvation, and were most clamorous in their complaints against the relieving officer for the manner they were kept waiting for days, in order to obtain their tickets on the storekeeper. One man was lying exposed in the street, I may say dead, apparently without any attention having been paid to him. We brought the relieving officer over to this man, and asked him what he had done for him. He said he had given him a ticket on the storekeeper, which, of course, was no use, as the man was actually dying at the time. With some difficulty we persuaded a resident in the town to take this poor man into his house, and attend to his wants for the present.

In consequence of this occurrence, together with the youth and inexperience of the relieving officers lately sent down here, we thought it prudent to write the annexed letter to the Vice-Guardians, which we hope the Commissioners will approve of.

We again visited the Binghamstown depôt this day, and were not at all satisfied at the manner the relieving officer was attending to the wants of the poor.

Ballina Union.

LETTER referred to.

The TEMPORARY POOR LAW INSPECTORS to the VICE-GUARDIANS :—March 1, 1848.

WE have the honour to request that, if possible, you will on receipt of this communication send Mr. John Palmer to take charge, pro tem., of the Binghamstown electoral division.

We are aware that Mr. Palmer is at this time most actively employed in detecting abuses; but in this case it is a matter of life or death, so that we trust on your co-operation.

Mr. Palmer will have to remain here for a fortnight. We will recommend to the Poor Law Commissioners that he be allowed a fair sum for his trouble and expenses.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 11, 1848.

I AM to state, that the Commissioners fully approve of the course which you adopted under the circumstances represented in your report; and they are prepared to sanction any reasonable allowance to Mr. Palmer for the extra expense which he may incur in carrying into effect the instructions which he may receive.

The Commissioners presume that steps are being taken to replace the inefficient relieving officer to whom you refer; and the Commissioners await your report of his name, with a view to the issue of an order under seal for his dismissal.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 4, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to send you the annexed letter which I have received from the Vice-Guardians.

I beg to recommend that an order for 500*l.* worth of provisions may be forwarded for the use of my district of the Ballina Union.

LETTER referred to.

Mr. BURROWES, for Vice-Guardians, to Mr. W. J. HAMILTON :—March 3, 1848.

WE will require immediately some assistance in provision, as the amount of our last order on the Commissariat stores is nearly exhausted, and our bread contractor must cease supplying us forthwith, unless he is provided with funds. He has given formal notice that he will cease on this day week, unless his demands are met.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 8, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 500*l.* to assist the Vice-Guardians in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 4, 1848.

As the season is now advancing, and the period for sowing will soon have come and passed, we are particularly anxious to curtail the out-door labour test, which has answered its purpose so far, and to extend the in-door test to the utmost of our power.

We are of opinion, that if we were in a position to offer workhouse accommodation to one thousand persons, we would be able to reduce the numbers relieved at present by at least five thousand.

We would first throw upon their own resources all single able-bodied men; next, all those married, without families; and so on, according to the smallness of the number of dependents; as such will be able to support themselves upon the wages usually given in the country, and should be compelled to seek for such support.

Ballina Union.

We are daily weeding the workhouse, so that we shall have room for 400 shortly. We would also wish, if you approve of it, to rent a store in this town capable of accommodating at least 600 persons. The title to it is doubtful, being the store for which Colonel Gore disputes his liability to pay rate; but we consider, if he would give us an undertaking for quiet enjoyment we might with safety treat for it.

It is admirably adapted for our purpose, there being boilers already set, used by the late Committees.

This would accomplish our object, but a serious difficulty presents itself; we have clothing for only 50 men, in addition to the present inmates. We might turn out 50, and thus provide for 100, but no more. And our funds will not permit of our incurring the serious expense of providing clothing for so many. We are anxious to know if we could look forward to receiving any assistance to enable us to take a step so important to the welfare of the Union.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 7, 1848.

I AM to request that you will be good enough to furnish the Commissioners with an estimate of the clothing which will be required to carry out the arrangements suggested in your communication.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 6, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that I have passed the last week in the district of Erris, and that I have, in company with Mr. Richard Hamilton, visited several localities in the electoral divisions of Binghamstown and Belmullet.

I find that the general distress which he has to provide for is with difficulty met; and in some localities it is to be feared that, notwithstanding every exertion, and I may say almost unlimited relief, the heartless conduct of Mr. Walsh has brought many poor persons to a premature grave. On the last occasion of my visit to Erris, I felt so strongly on this latter subject that I did not trust myself to write to you with reference to it until some days after my return to Ballina: I find, however, that the same system of eviction is still going on; and I cannot be an eye-witness to the terrible results of it without expressing my horror at the barbarous manner in which many poor persons have been treated. I have less hesitation in doing so, as I am aware that this report will probably appear in some future blue book, and that Mr. Walsh will have an opportunity of defending himself, if he can. Giving him credit for having received every provocation, I must record my humble opinion, that no man possessed of common feeling would have acted as he has done.

A Mr. Lyons, a middleman, is following Mr. Walsh's example upon a small scale. Mr. Hamilton and myself picked up one of his outcasts a few days ago in Binghamstown, laid out as a corpse in the centre of the streets, and to all appearance dead: however, through the exertions of a person whom we persuaded to take the poor man in, he was, I may say, brought to life again, although the doctor whom we met on the road a few minutes previously, first told us he was dead, and then said that he was past all hope. The man is now in the workhouse doing well.

In this wretched place one hears of nothing but deaths or disease; such is the demoralized state of the people that dead bodies and frightful objects are paraded to excite compassion; every person one meets has some complaint to make, about one in a thousand of which there is any foundation for, or any grounds over which we have control. As I have said of the people of my own district, there is every allowance to be made for all this; it would only be wonderful if they were anything better, considering the examples which they have before them; it is in fact the blind leading the blind.

With reference to my own immediate district, to which I propose returning on Tuesday, I have every reason to believe that all is going on well. The Vice-Guardians have acquainted me that they have called upon Mr. Tighe, the relieving officer of Crossmolina electoral division, to resign, in consequence of his inability to perform his duties. I think that they have done quite right; if I had been able to prove any specific charges against Mr. Tighe, I would have had him dismissed long ago.

The Vice-Guardians also report, that some of the relieving officers' books are in arrear. Although this is to be deplored, yet I think that, considering the pressure which has been on them for the last four months, and their great previous inexperience, much allowance is to be made. That pressure is happily very much abated, and I have no doubt that everything will be satisfactory in a short time.

I have received your letter of the 2nd instant, relative to the suspension on the 18th instant of the order under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, and "expressing the Commissioners' wish that I should state whether there "would be any decided objection to such a course in the Ballina Union." I do not see any objection to such a course; on the contrary, I think that the suffering which would again result from allowing the land to be waste for another year, which would practically be the effect of continuing out-door relief to the able-bodied, will far exceed the distress which will no doubt be caused in many instances by the proposed suspension of relief under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act on the 18th instant.

I will endeavour in some measure to mitigate this distress, by providing increased relief through the medium of schools. I have written on this subject to Count Strzelecki, and as soon as I shall receive his reply I will put myself in communication with the Vice-Guardians with the view of obtaining lists, &c., of the most destitute.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 9, 1848.

THE Commissioners request that you will state whether Mr. Walsh and Mr. Lyons reside in Ballina Union, and on any part of the lands which they have been depopulating, or elsewhere in Ireland; also, whether they have paid any rates charged on them, and, if not, how much is due, and what proceedings have been taken to enforce payment.

I am at the same time to state, that, in accordance with your report, the Commissioners will suspend on the 18th instant the order authorizing the Vice-Guardians of the Ballina Union to give out-door relief to the able-bodied.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 6, 1848.

WITH reference to your letter of the 2nd instant, I beg to annex, for the Erris. information of the Commissioners, a return made by the collector a few days ago of the immediate lessors in this district who still owe their rates, and the amount of rate due by each respectively; and as I have but small hopes of this amount being collected for a length of time, I should feel inclined to recommend the Vice-Guardians to make a new rate at once, without waiting for the entire collection of the present rate, as unless the Commissioners can procure a loan I do not see how the establishment of the auxiliary workhouse can be supported. Most of the persons taken into it require peculiar attention from their previous privations, and as the Vice-Guardians here cannot obtain any nourishing food on credit, the dietary has not hitherto been calculated to restore the health of the inmates.

The Vice-Guardians at Ballina, as I have before stated, have on several occasions declared their inability to provide the funds required to meet the current expenses of this district, and Mr. Waters is at this moment in debt to the amount of nearly 400*l.*, viz.:—

1. Lieutenant Hamilton	£101
2. Mr. Carey	90
3. Mr. Lyons	99
4. Sundries	100

The first three items were obtained at a time when all relief must have ceased had it not been for the accommodation afforded by these parties. The fourth item is for sundry expenses connected with the administration of relief.

JOHN COSGRAVE, *Rate Collector.*REPLY to the foregoing:—March 8, 1848.

THE Commissioners observe that six persons only out of the whole number mentioned in the list have been served by the collector with notices to pay the rate, and they wish to be informed of the stage at which proceedings now are in each of the other cases to enforce payment of the rate. The Commissioners also wish to be informed whether the Mr. John Walsh, who is returned as a defaulter in the sum of 48*l.* 18*s.*, is the person who is referred to in a report which they yesterday received from Mr. W. J. Hamilton as having ejected tenants under circumstances of peculiar hardship.

The Commissioners consider that such further rates as may be necessary should be made; but that the most vigorous proceedings should be prosecuted, with as much despatch as possible, to compel payment from all those persons who are defaulters in the current rate, keeping in view alone the ability of the parties to pay and the wants of the destitute poor.

With regard to the supply of money for the support of the auxiliary workhouse at Binghamstown, and to pay the debts already incurred on account of it, amounting to 384*l.*, I am to state that the Commissioners will have the attention of the Vice-Guardians drawn to these important considerations by Mr. Bourke, the Inspector for the district.

Erris.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 7, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 2nd, relative to the suspension of relief under the provisions of the 2nd section of 10 Vic., cap. 31, on the 18th instant; and in reply I beg that you will acquaint the Commissioners that, general as the distress is in this district, I think it would be very unadvisable to offer any opposition to so desirable a course; at the same time, uncared and unprovided for as the people in this locality are by those who ought to be at their posts, and the natural protectors of their tenants, I fear that the only change will be the issuing of relief under the first instead of the second second of the Act. Perhaps there is no part of Ireland so unfortunately circumstanced as Erris, therefore the same drawbacks may not exist elsewhere.

Ballina Union.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 9, 1848.

THE Commissioners do not precisely understand what you refer to in the passage wherein you state that you fear that the only change will be the issuing of relief under the first instead of the second section of the Act.

The Commissioners for a short time propose to suspend the order, under the second section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, but they do not intend to be parties to any violation or evasion of the law by which out-door relief to able-bodied men is illegal, except under the provisions of such an order.

THE COMMISSIONERS to Mr. W. J. HAMILTON:—March 8, 1848.

THIS statement is deserving of inquiry; and probably Mr. Richard Hamilton can, without much difficulty, obtain a list of the landlords of property within the electoral divisions of Belmullet and Binghamstown, stating their residences, and expressing an opinion as to their capability and disposition to have the lands cultivated which have now been surrendered, or have otherwise got into their actual possession. He will be so good as to supply the information, if attainable.

ENCLOSURE in foregoing.

Mr. DOBREE to Sir R. I. ROUTH:—February 15, 1848.

A BUILDING belonging to a Mr. Bingham, at Binghamstown, three miles distant on the Mullet, has been hired as a poor-house of ease to the Ballina Union, for the barony of Erris, and is fitting up for the accommodation of 400 persons, at present it is occupied by 80 children. In this district, consisting of the two electoral divisions of Belmullet and Binghamstown, a rate of 1s. 6d.,^a averaging 850l.,^b was struck in July last; 500l.^c have been raised up to this time, and every opposition is thrown in the way of collecting the remainder. ^{1s. 8d.} Property is being freely distrained on defaulters, and it is fearlessly purchased when put up to ^{990l.} public auction without any vindictive consequences. ^{* Nearly.}

There are 27 schools,^d with 2350 children being fed with a ration of 11 ounces of bread; and the recipients in the several schools of the district which I have visited, seem by their destitute appearance and condition to be the legitimate subjects for this relief, which was not the case in some other Unions. ^{* These are now increased.}

Mr. Atkinson is the only landlord now giving employment under the Improvement Act. Mr. Carter has applied for and obtained 5000l. The canal cutting through the Isthmus, to unite Blacksod Bay with Broadhaven, employs 200 men at 1s. per day.

The farmers are busy in collecting seaweed and preparing their land;^e and the certainty of having a supply of seed placed at their disposal betimes would stimulate them to greater exertions, and induce others, who are despairing of being furnished with such, to follow their example;^f of course the poorer classes will sow nothing; and there is every prospect in this barony that many of the small holdings, which are now generally in possession of the landlords, will remain uncropped; these persons have not the means of stocking and cultivating their estates now that they have them mostly in their own hands. ^{* I doubt this.} ^{* I have no doubt of this, but is it expedient?—W. J. H.}

The market is entirely supplied with meal from Ballina and Westport by hookers; it is now selling at 10l. per ton. There are fewer small dealers in the rural districts of this barony than in any other part of the country I have visited, except Achill. There are about 7000 persons on the relief lists; and the Poor Law Inspector calculates that he will require, from our depôt weekly from the present time, about 20 tons of meal for the Union, and four for the schools. Arrangements are making for setting up nine boilers in central situations, and issuing cooked food to the recipient of out-door relief.

Read—see remarks in the margin.

March 9, 1848.

W. J. HAMILTON,
Temporary Poor Law Inspector.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 11, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of the Commissioners, that I visited the workhouse at Ballina, and the auxiliary workhouse at Ardnaree, on Wednesday and Thursday last, and found both houses in excellent order. There was nothing requiring my presence on the spot, as the schools were amply provided for; and the Vice-Guardians informed me, with the exception of abuses which are being daily put a stop to, and a scarcity of funds, everything was going on in a most satisfactory manner.

I informed the Guardians, that should the Commissioners determine upon the cessation of relief, under the provisions of the 2nd section of the Act 10 Vic., cap. 31, in the Ballina Union, Lieutenant Hamilton and myself would be prepared, through the British Association, to relieve the children of all destitute able-bodied paupers in our respective districts, and I requested that directions should be given to have us supplied with lists for this purpose.

On Thursday evening I returned to Belmullet, where I considered my presence was more required than at Ballina.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 11, 1848.

Erris.

WITH reference to your letter of the 9th instant, I beg to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that what I intended to express in my report of the 7th instant was, that such is the state of destitution to which the people in this district are reduced, that any cessation of relief to a very large majority of the now able-bodied, would reduce them to such a state as to entitle them to legal relief under the provisions of the 1st section of 10 Vic., cap. 31; at the same time I wished to express that I thought it desirable that excuses which may hereafter be made by landlords, that the Poor Law interfered with the labour of the country, might be removed.

If the Commissioners, however, should be of opinion that by such a course the intent of the law would in any way be violated, I can only say that it will be very unsafe to withdraw the order for relief under the 2nd section of the Act in this district. It is impossible to say, with the present prospects and the present proprietors, when the extraordinary amount of relief now issued can be safely diminished.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 14, 1848.

THE Commissioners request you to report whether any complaints have yet been made, which appear to be well founded, of inability to obtain labourers in Belmullet or Binghamstown electoral division, in consequence of the receipt of pauper relief by able-bodied persons.

The Commissioners also request you will consider and state whether the relief may safely be withdrawn from able-bodied men who are unmarried, or who have but a wife and one child.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 11, 1848.

IN reply to your letter of the 8th instant, I beg to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that the solicitor to the Vice-Guardians has been directed to take legal proceedings against those parties who have not been served with notices; but I cannot state the exact stage at which these proceedings are, until I communicate with Mr. M'Andrew. I may state generally, however, that the solicitor in whose hands the parties are, is using due diligence.

With regard to the Commissioners' wish to be informed whether the Mr. John Walsh, who is returned as a defaulter in the sum of 48*l.* 18*s.*, is the person who is referred to in a report which they yesterday received from Mr. W. J. Hamilton, as having ejected tenants under circumstances of peculiar hardship; I beg to say he is the same individual; and I have, on more occasions than one, mentioned in my reports the difficulty experienced in providing proper relief for the poor from his property, owing to their having been deprived of their cabins, and consequently applicants for in-door relief, when no in-door relief could at the time be provided.

I cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing my strong indignation at the course which has been pursued by Mr. Walsh, which has almost daily brought under my notice the most horrifying sights. No later than yesterday I saw in the infirmary a poor man named Coyle, from Mulloghroe (a tenant of Mr. Walsh's), who I saw three months ago in his own house, a strong healthy man. From the time his cabin was unroofed (about Christmas), he has been begging.

about, seeking shelter for himself and family wherever he thought he could find it. He applied frequently to be taken into the auxiliary workhouse, and was taken in the moment there was any room for him, but it was too late. This poor man received out-door relief regularly up to the time of his admission to the workhouse.

Ballina Union.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 14, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 11th instant, relating to the ejection of tenants from the property of Mr. John Walsh, who it appears is a defaulter in the payment of poor rate in the Ballina Union; and I am to request that you will communicate with Mr. W. J. Hamilton and the Vice-Guardians, without delay, with a view to the most stringent and prompt measures being prosecuted, to compel immediate payment of the rates due in this case, as well as in other instances.

I am at the same time to request that you will have the goodness to take evidence upon oath respecting the ejection, in order that there may be no doubt what the real facts of the case are.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 11, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 9th instant, requesting that I will state whether Mr. Walsh (of Castlehill), and Mr. Lyons, to whom I alluded in my report of the 6th instant, reside in this Union, or in any part of the lands which they have been depopulating, &c.; also whether they have paid any rates charged on them; and if not, how much is due, and what proceedings have been taken to enforce payment. With respect to Mr. Walsh, I beg to state that he has a residence not far from Crossmolina, in this Union; but from a letter which I read in the public journals, addressed to his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, denying certain statements contained in a pamphlet published by Mr. Tuke, I am led to believe that he at present resides in Dublin. However, I conclude that he cannot be ignorant of the state to which his tenantry have been reduced, as I am credibly informed that his son has been an eye witness to several of the evictions which have taken place.

Up to the period of my leaving Ballina a few days ago, Mr. Walsh had not paid any part of the two years' rates, viz., 5*d.* and 1*s.* 3*d.* on his property in the electoral division of Binghamstown, amounting to 48*l.* 18*s.* The solicitor of the Vice-Guardians made two applications to Mr. Walsh to no effect, upon which proceedings were commenced for this amount, together with a balance of about 15*l.* in the electoral division of Crossmolina.

Mr. Lyons has paid his rates. From his residence in the wretched village of Binghamstown several of the unroofed cabins of his evicted tenantry are visible. Mr. Lyons appears to think himself deeply aggrieved by his tenantry; perhaps he has been, but he most assuredly has had his revenge.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 14, 1848.

I AM to request that you will draw the immediate attention of the Vice-Guardians to the case of Mr. John Walsh, with a view to the most prompt and effectual steps being prosecuted to enforce payment of the rates due by him, by every legal means in their power.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 11, 1848.

IN consequence of a communication which I have received by this night's post from the Chairman of the Vice-Guardians, acquainting me that the contractor has refused to issue any further supplies, I have only a moment to request that the Poor Law Commissioners will recommend assistance from the British Association to the amount of 1000*l.* worth of provisions, which I have no doubt will be urgently required by the Guardians.

Ballina Union.

I have likewise received by this night's post 500*l.* in cash, of the prospect of which I advised the Vice-Guardians by yesterday's post. I trust, therefore, that they will be able to prevent any evil consequences.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 13, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 1000*l.* to assist the Vice-Guardians in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 14, 1848.

As I anticipated in my letter of the 11th instant, the Vice-Guardians have made the annexed application to me for 1000*l.* worth of food, which I beg to submit for the Commissioners' favourable consideration.

I returned here yesterday and was glad to find that the contractors had not carried their threat into execution. I attended the Board at which Mr. Richard Bourke was present; I find that the Vice-Guardians are opposed to the stoppage of out-door relief under the 2nd section of the Act, and Mr. Bourke considers it "extremely hazardous."

Although I do not wish the Commissioners to think that I in any way change my opinion as to its being most desirable to stop relief under the 2nd section, yet as the Vice-Guardians state to me that they have not made any report on the subject, I take this opportunity of acquainting you with their opinion, that it is desirable, but not practicable.

Mr. Bourke has reported on the subject, and as I have no doubt that the Commissioners will attach far greater weight to his opinion than to mine, I shall not be surprised if I should hear further from you on the subject.

ENCLOSURE.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to Mr. W. J. HAMILTON :—March 13, 1848.

To enable us to carry on the relief of the destitute poor in this Union, it will be absolutely necessary that we should be supplied with 1000*l.* in money, or so much in meal, on or before this day week.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 16, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have given directions for the continuance of the order authorizing out-door relief to destitute able-bodied persons in the Union.

I am at the same time to request that you will have the goodness to state whether the state of the Union is such, that the provisions of the accompanying order to Listowel Union could be carried into effect.

It will be observed, that under that order, single men and men with only two children, would be thrown on their own resources.

If you are of opinion that the provisions of this order could not be immediately acted on, you will be so good as to state whether in your opinion, there may safely be a suspension or modification of the order authorizing relief to the able-bodied poor, under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, on the 1st April next.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 16, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to forward to you the annexed application from the Vice-Guardians for assistance to the amount of 500*l.*, on or before the 24th instant, which I beg to recommend to the favourable notice of the Commissioners. I would further recommend that this assistance should be in money.

ENCLOSURE.

Ballina Union.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to Mr. W. J. HAMILTON :—March 15, 1848.

WE have been enabled by the order for 1000*l.* worth of meal, received yesterday, to continue relieving the able-bodied destitute. We wish to acquaint you, that in order to enable us to give relief to the impotent class, we will absolutely require 500*l.* in money on or before the 24th instant, as an assistance to the rates.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 18, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 500*l.*, to assist the Vice Guardians of the Ballina Union in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 17, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, in which you request that I will state whether the state of this Union is such that the provisions of an order which has been issued to Listowel Union could be carried into effect.

In my opinion the provisions of the order issued to Listowel Union can be acted on with safety in this Union. I think the sooner the better. It appears to me that frauds have recently increased to such an extent that the distress which exists is by no means the most alarming feature.

The Vice-Guardians acquaint me that they attribute the majority of the abuses which have crept in to the delay in procuring implements from the Board of Works. This, no doubt, has, in some measure, encouraged abuses; but I am afraid that the difficulty of procuring efficient and trustworthy subordinates is the chief cause. At all events almost every person in search of or in receipt of relief would deceive us as to their real circumstances, if they could by the grossest perjury do so; and they would receive infinitely more assistance in doing so than we should in detecting them.

It is dangerous to attempt to prevent abuses by passing very stringent rules, for although hundreds might be deservedly punished by them, others might perish.

P.S.—Of course I do not include the Erris district in this report.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 21, 1848.

I AM to state that as this arrangement does not include the Erris electoral divisions, and an order for out-door relief cannot be issued for part of any Union,—the Commissioners request that you will propose to the Vice-Guardians to restrict the out-door relief to the able-bodied classes described, in the Ballina portion of the Union, and if any others apply for relief to offer it in the workhouse.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 20, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that on my return from Erris last week, I found everything much in the same state as when I left Ballina. I was however struck with the improved appearance of the people generally. I think that considering the prevalence of fever and dysentery, they look wonderfully well.

The workhouse is clean and healthy. The mortality in the infirmary is very much less than might be expected: last week there were only four deaths.

I annex copies of some communications which I have received on the subject of the progress which has been hitherto made in the ordinary farming operations compared with this time last year and previous years.

ENCLOSURE.

EXTRACT of a LETTER from WILLIAM ORME, Esq., of Owenmore.

"I WISH to confine the observations I make solely to this barony of Tyrawley, in which I constantly reside.

Ballina Union.

"It is only at this advanced period of spring that the great majority of farmers commence the cultivation of the soil; and from the continued severity of the weather, little has been yet done. They all however seem determined to exert themselves to the utmost, and I doubt not will use every energy they possess to crop their lands.

"The next subject demands the greatest consideration, and is of a much more serious character. The worn-out state of the land generally, the impoverished condition of the landlords, and their consequent inability to procure seed or manure in sufficient quantity, forbid the hope that the land thus occupied can yield anything like an average crop. I may also add, that the scarcity and consequent high price of potatoes for seeds will cause corn crops to be again sown on the land that has already been producing them for the last two seasons; and this vile system of farming may be expected to produce disastrous results. There is, however, another class of landholders even less likely to crop their lands fully. I allude to a large number of the landed proprietors whose estates have been deserted, and are now wholly or in great part waste. This is the natural consequence of the immense emigration and mortality of last year, and also partially increased by the operation of the present Poor Law. The proprietors into whose hands these large tracts have fallen are for the most part unable to meet their legal demands, much less to incur the large outlay that would be required for so extensive a system of tillage as would be necessary. The quantity of land in this state I have no means of accurately stating; but I think I am not estimating too highly when I compute that at least one-third of the land of this barony will either be wholly waste, or so imperfectly cultivated as to produce no food for the population.

"The number of offers of land free of rent made to the Society of Friends in their present benevolent undertaking is a proof of the little value of land here at the present moment; and I am sure that instead of 500 acres required, 5000 would be placed at their disposal by a public notice of only one week. These opinions, although hastily written, are formed upon the closest consideration, and I doubt not are for the most part correct. What is to become of the country involved as it is in such a mass of poverty, is a question which I shall not attempt to solve."

EXTRACT of a LETTER from Colonel VAUGHAN JACKSON.

"I AM happy to say that I consider the cultivation of the soil much more advanced than this time last year, and the population appear disposed to make every exertion in the matter. I think every man that possibly can will make a sowing."

EXTRACT of a LETTER from JOHN SYMES, Esq., Agent to the Earl of ARRAN.

"I REGRET to say, from the present appearance of the land, and from inquiries I have made, I do think there will be a considerable deficiency in the quantity of land sown with barley and oats, as compared with the years 1846 and 1847—I would say one-fourth. I draw this conclusion from seeing the immense tracts of waste lands not occupied, and from inquiries no chance of their being cultivated. I am also aware that a great majority of persons receiving out-door relief, who have small holdings, are not in a position to sow, not having means, money, or seed. With respect to green crops, I should say there will be a considerable increase over the two last years, both in the potato and turnip crop; but at this early period it is difficult to form an opinion on those crops. The inclemency of the weather for the last three weeks, with constant rain, has stopped the digging and ploughing of the land in many parts of this Union, and will cause the spring works to be very backward. I hope, in the course of 10 days, to be able to give a more accurate statement of the cultivation of the lands in this Union."

EXTRACT of a LETTER from HENRY BRETT, Esq., County Surveyor.

"I THINK the progress in the preparation of the land for tillage is far behind what it ought and used to be in ordinary years; it is however much greater than it was at this time last year, and would be far more forward but for the dreadfully inclement season we have had. I think, that in most parts of Mayo, great efforts will be made to put down a crop; but there are other districts, such as Erris, Achill, the Islands, and parts of Tyrrawley and Gallen, &c., that must, of necessity, lie waste. Very much will depend on the weather for the next month."

EXTRACT of a LETTER from THOMAS HOWLEY, Esq.

"I THINK that a smaller portion of land in the barony of Tyreragh is at present in course of cultivation than I have observed at the same period in former years; but this, in a great measure, I attribute to the extreme severity of the season, and to the number of holdings left unoccupied by the former proprietors having either died, emigrated, or thrown themselves for support upon the rates of the Union. I think, however, that such of the tenantry as are engaged in the cultivation of their lands are doing so in a more painstaking and workmanlike manner than heretofore; and I trust, that although a smaller breadth of land may be cultivated this season, that owing to the good example and advice of the Society of Friends, a more than usually productive crop may be expected from the land brought under cultivation."

EXTRACT of a LETTER from Mr. MARTIN, Practical Instructor.

"FROM what I have seen and heard relating to the usual time of cultivating the land in this Union, my opinion is, the few occupiers are tilling their land better and earlier than heretofore; yet the number of small tenants who have given up their land, and cast themselves on the relieving officers of the Union, will cause a deficiency in the breadth of land as sown last year; consequently there will not be so much land cropped. This deficiency will be, in a great measure, lessened in this locality by the kind exertions of the Society of Friends; and I have noticed through the country their example of deep cultivation is followed by the small farmers in each locality where the Society are carrying on their useful operations."

EXTRACT of a LETTER from Mr. BLEWET, Superintendent of Overseers.

"I REGRET to state that in the eight electoral divisions between the River Moy and the boundary of Erris there is scarcely any work done, except what is done by the landed proprietors, and a very few landholders. There is a likelihood of very little being done, as the greater part are paupers.

"Ardnaree, Attymass, Kilgarvan, Castleconnor, Kilglass, Easky, and Dromore West, are a little more forward in the farming operations; but, in fact, the best advanced districts are far behind previous years."

EXTRACT of a LETTER from Mr. PETER HOPKINS, an extensive Farmer in Tyreragh Barony.

"IT is now far advanced in the spring and there are not 10 acres of land ploughed or dug for miles around me, or a grain sown, or a kitchen-garden set, except a very few gentlemen farmers, and two or three middle-class farmers. We had 200 acres of corn down before the 20th of March in 1847, and may add, we never had more corn down any one year in my recollection than we had in 1847. I may safely vouch for it, that we had five acres to every one we will have this year. All the tenant-class farmers seem very anxious to plant potatoes this year; but I fear it will be almost out of their power for want of means to purchase seed, which already brings too high a price in the market. I think we will put down more turnips this season than usual, the seed being much cheaper than any other. If the landlords do not provide seed oats and potatoes for their small tenants, it is woeful to contemplate the misery we may calculate on; but I must admit it is not easy for the landlords to do so on any large scale, as they are virtually getting no rents in this locality, not as much as will pay the poor-rate and county cess on their properties. Emigration is now the topic of the day in this locality; but not more than 1 to every 10 or 15 will be able to go out, compared to last year, for want of means. Very many who could have gone last year could not attempt it this. If something is not done in the way of giving seed, we shall not have three months' provisions in this parish next season, and landlords need not expect a penny of their rents, or even the rates."

I acquainted Mr. Hopkins, in reply to this, that I wished him to understand clearly that no assistance in the way of seed, or in any other way, was to be expected from Government.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. REDINGTON:—March 28, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to forward herewith, for the information of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, a copy of a report which they have received from Mr. W. J. Hamilton, Temporary Poor Law Inspector of the Ballina Union, relating to the progress which has been hitherto made in the farming operations for this year, compared with this time last year and previous years.

I am at the same time to enclose a copy of the observations of Mr. R. Bourke, Poor Law Inspector, on this report, from which it will be perceived that Mr. Bourke places particular reliance upon the opinions given by Mr. H. Brett, County Surveyor, and Mr. Blewet, a Superintendent of Overseers of labour in the Union.

OBSERVATIONS of Mr. BOURKE:—March 25, 1848.

I AGREE generally with the observations made by Mr. Hamilton's correspondents. The best opinions are those of Mr. Brett, County Surveyor, and Mr. Blewet, both practical men, who do not judge of a whole district from the circumstances of their immediate neighbourhood, but have opportunities of observing the state of things in all parts of the Union. There is but little doubt that the truth is to be found in their joint statements.

R. B.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 22, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to forward to you, for the favourable consideration of the Commissioners, the accompanying application from the Vice-Guardians of this Union for 500*l.* in cash and 500*l.* worth of provisions, which they state they will require by the 1st of April.

Ballina Union.

ENCLOSURE referred to.

WE are indebted to our meal contractor for the out-relief to the amount of 2000*l.*, and to our bread contractor not much less. We have been able to continue the supply of food to those entitled to out-door relief in this Union, by making payments to those contractors to enable them to continue their weekly expenditure; such payments being made from the funds placed by you at our disposal.

We have made and are making a great reduction in the numbers receiving out-door relief, and, consequently, in the weekly expenditure; but as we cannot calculate on receiving weekly a greater amount of rate than will enable us to make payments weekly on account to our other contractors for the supply of meal, milk, bread, &c., for the use of the poor-house, we beg leave to inform you, that to enable us to support the impotent and able-bodied poor who are still entitled to out-door relief, we will absolutely require on or before Saturday the 1st April 500*l.* in money, and also an order for 500*l.* worth of meal.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 500*l.* in money, and 500*l.* (in provisions) to assist the Vice-Guardians of the Ballina Union in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Union.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 22, 1848.

WILL you have the goodness to give me some information on the following point:—There can be no doubt that workhouse accommodation is and will be much required for at all events the next few years in this Union, even making allowance for the contemplated new workhouse in Erris. I believe that Mr. Wilkinson has prepared plans and estimates for adding to the present workhouse, and now is the time to commence any permanent building; but before I take any steps in the matter, I should like to know if there would be any use in applying for a loan to the Board of Works for the necessary funds on the usual terms.

I think (but I am no architect) that for 3000*l.* the present workhouse could be made to afford ample accommodation for 2000. A boundary wall is much required; at present, however, it is useless to think of anything but feeding and clothing the paupers.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. W. J. HAMILTON:—March 25, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have no hope that an application to the Public Works Loan Board for a loan to make additions to the workhouse of Ballina Union for ordinary purposes would be successful.

I am at the same time to state, that the Guardians can legally borrow from any source from which they can obtain it, any sum which the Commissioners may, with their consent, direct them to expend for that purpose; and they may charge the repayment of the amount, with interest, on the future rates of the Union at any time within 20 years.

You will perceive by a letter this day addressed to the Vice-Guardians that the Commissioners will be able to obtain a loan of 1500*l.* for erecting a permanent fever ward to the workhouse.

Erris.

FOR the information of the Commissioners I have to state, that according to my directions the poor-rate collector for this district (John Cosgrave), on the 20th instant, proceeded to Binghamstown, to have a summons served on Denis Bingham, Esq. (a magistrate of this county), for the sum of 120*l.* 18*s.* 2*d.*, due by him for poor-rates.

The collector has reported to me that on his assistant going into the town he was met by a number of men and women who struck him several times, and from the excitement he was compelled to make his escape.

From these circumstances I much fear that to effect the service of a summons or writ will be very difficult, the town being without any police, and no magistrate (except Mr. Bingham) nearer than 30 miles. The petty sessions are held only once in the fortnight, which is often the cause of great delay in carrying out the law, as well as being unprepared to meet any breach of the peace.

I have directed the collector to meet me at the petty sessions of Belmullet on the 25th instant, for the purpose of ascertaining if any of the guilty parties can be identified, and if so, shall not fail to have proceedings instituted against them, if it meets the approbation of the Commissioners.

REPLY to the foregoing :—March 24, 1848.

I AM to state that in every case of assault on collectors the offenders should be prosecuted, if they can be identified.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—March 24, 1848.

Landed Proprietors in the Electoral Division of the Ballina Union.

William H. Carter, Esq.,
Castlemartin, Kilcullen,

Is the largest proprietor in Erris. More than one-half of the arable lands on his estate are waste. I am informed he has the inclination but not the means to cultivate them.

Messrs. Bingham, Binghamstown, Belmullet,

Possess estates next in size to Mr. Carter's. Their arable lands are generally waste; they have no means to cultivate them. They are defaulters as to the payment of the two last poor-rates made, which together amount to 1s. 8d. in the pound.

Messrs. Walsh and Coyne;
Mr. Walsh, Castlehill, Crossmolina, and Hume-street, Dublin; Mr. Coyne, Dublin,

Possess considerable property in both electoral divisions. They have lately cleared off the occupying tenants, and have the greater portion of the estate in their own hands; it was waste last year, and is likely to remain so. I am informed they have means but do not intend to use them in cultivating their lands.

Matthew Atkinson, Esq.,
Dublin and Belmullet,

Has a small property in the Belmullet electoral division. He has given a great deal of employment in improving his estate, and will do what he can to cultivate it.

The Ecclesiastical Commissioners

Hold a considerable extent of property; it is in possession of their lessees, who have not the means of assisting the tenants holding under them.

Representatives of late
Walter Burke, Esq., Killala,

Possess a small property in Belmullet electoral division. The occupying tenants have been removed. The lands were waste last year, and are likely to be so again this year. Mr. Burke died about a month since.

Colonel Kirkwood, Killala,

Has a small property in both electoral divisions. His estate in Binghamstown is held by a middleman (Mr. Lyons), who has removed nearly all the occupying tenants holding under him. I understand Mr. Lyons is a wealthy man, but I believe he does not purpose cultivating his lands this year.

A. Richie, Esq., Dublin,
La Touche's Bank,

Has a large tract of land in Binghamstown division. I am informed he has means, but I do not know whether he intends assisting his tenants.

John Richards, Esq., Elmgrove, Blackrock,

Possesses a small property in the same division. He has means, and I understand will assist his tenants to crop the land.

Messrs. Burns

Hold a large tract of land in the Belmullet division. It is under the Courts. Mr. Madden, of Ballycastle, is receiver.

Mr. John Gibbons

Has a large tract of land in same division. It is also under the Courts, and Mr. Madden is receiver.

Ballina Union.

Mr. Cormick, Doogork,
Belmullet,

Possesses property in same division. It is in Chancery, Mr. James Gore is receiver. The lands are waste, and will remain so.

Mr. Follet, Belmullet,

Possesses a tract of good land in Binghamstown division. He is very little better off than his tenants, who are for the most part receiving out-door relief.

Mr. Caldwell and others,
Belmullet,

Possess a fertile tract of land in Binghamstown division. Their tenants are starving. They themselves have no means.

Jasper V. Fowler, Esq.,
Shankill House, Bray.

Possesses a small property in Binghamstown division. His lands are waste, and likely to remain so.

Miss Gamble, Belmullet,

Possesses a property in Binghamstown division. Her lands are waste, her tenants are starving, and she herself applied for relief.

Mr. Burns, Rossport,
Belmullet,

Has a small property in Belmullet division. He will do all he can to cultivate his lands, but his means are limited.

Mr. O'Donnell, Polly-
tomas, Belmullet,

Has a small property in same division. He has no means of assisting his tenants, who can do nothing for themselves.

Small estates.

Besides the foregoing there are several small estates worth from 50*l.* to 200*l.* a-year, the proprietors of which, generally speaking, are absentees, who receive no rents, therefore take but little interest in their properties; their lands for the most part were waste last year, and are likely to remain so this year.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 25, 1848.

I BEG to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that the Vice-Guardians will require 250*l.* worth of provisions, in order to meet the wants of this district for the week commencing the 27th, and I hope an order to that effect may be forwarded.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 25, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 250*l.* worth of provisions, to enable the Vice-Guardians of the Ballina Union to provide for the maintenance of the poor in the Erris district.

Lieutenant HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 29, 1848.

SINCE the date of my last weekly report I have been principally occupied in visiting the several working parties throughout my district, with the view of assisting the Vice-Guardians in making the necessary reductions in the issue of relief under the 2nd section of the Irish Poor Relief Extension Act, which the present season of the year requires. I found most of the working parties going on fully as well as I expected, some of them better. The Guardians have by constant weeding at length obtained a tolerably fair class of overseers; the result is a manifest improvement in the manner in which their orders are carried out.

In consequence of the reductions which the Vice-Guardians have been able to make, by referring certain classes to the workhouse, there has been a slight run on the house for the last few days; but not greater than the Guardians were prepared for.

Mr. Howley, chairman of the late Board of Guardians, accompanied me on last Monday through every department of the house, which I am happy to state continues in a clean and healthy state. He appeared to be much pleased with everything he saw, particularly with the schools where he examined the children.

The amount of rate lodged with the Treasurer during each week of the month ended 27th instant, was—

Ballina Union.

		£.	s.	d.
Week ended 4th March	.	114	0	0
„ „ 11th „	.	160	0	0
Total	.	£626	16	2

Which leaves the state of the collection as follows:—

Amount of last rate struck, including arrears of former rate	13,869	0	0
Amount of last rate collected to 27th March, 1848	7,587	0	0
Amount of last rate uncollected	£6,282	0	0

Last month's collection was the worst we have had for the last three months, but I think that this is easily accounted for, and that a larger collection may fairly be expected during the two ensuing months.

I will again prepare lists of the defaulters against whom proceedings have been directed in the superior courts, leaving a column for remarks as to the result of those proceedings, which I will transmit to you. I am glad to say that the agents of the Moy fishery, who are defaulters to a very considerable amount (between 400*l.* and 500*l.*), at length seem inclined to come to their senses. A communication was made on their behalf yesterday to the chairman of the Vice-Guardians and myself, to the effect that they positively had not the funds, but that if the Guardians would agree to take 250*l.* down, and the remainder in two months, they would not offer any further opposition. We requested that any proposal which they might have to make should be furnished in writing, to which the Guardians would give their best consideration. The objections which would apply in other cases to taking money on account do not exist in this case, as the amount is due to several collectors, some of whom might be paid in full.

The Vice-Guardians purpose striking a rate in the electoral division of Binghamstown of 3*s.* in the pound, as early as possible, and a general rate throughout the Union in July; for this latter purpose they will take immediate steps to have the valuation of the Union revised. I fully concur in the necessity and propriety of these intentions.

As it appears hopeless to expect any success from an application to the Board of Works for a loan for increasing the permanent workhouse accommodation, and it would be equally hopeless to look for a loan from any other source, the Vice-Guardians are endeavouring to procure another building, and to fit it up as an auxiliary workhouse.

Considering the present deplorable state of the sanitary condition of the poor, indeed I may say of all classes, and the probability that the approaching hot weather will increase both sickness and mortality, I hope the Commissioners will excuse me for troubling them on a subject over which they have no immediate control.

Mr. Richard Hamilton has requested me to go to the Erris district for a couple of days, which I purpose doing to-morrow, as I am anxious to be present at his examination upon oath into the circumstances of the evictions which have taken place in that locality.

REPLY to the foregoing:--April 8, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had before them your report of the 29th ultimo, relating to the Ballina Union, in which you state that the Vice-Guardians propose to have the valuation of the Union revised before striking a new rate; and I am directed to state that the Commissioners concur in the views adopted by the Vice-Guardians on the subject.

The Commissioners consider that steps should be taken to secure a revisor for the valuation as soon as possible; or if the Vice-Guardians find the revision made by order of the late Board in the summer of last year available, they should adopt it.

The Commissioners have forwarded a copy of your observations to the Board of Health.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 30, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to acquaint you, that for this district the Vice-Guardians will require, for the week commencing the 3rd April, 200*l.* (provisions), and 100*l.* (cash).

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 1, 1848.

I AM to state that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 200*l.* in provisions, and 100*l.* in money, to assist the Vice-Guardians in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor in the Erris district of the Union.

Mr. W. J. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 30, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to forward to you the annexed letter from the Vice-Guardians, requesting that 400*l.* in cash, and 300*l.* in provisions, may be transmitted to them by the 8th proximo, which I beg you will have the goodness to lay before the Commissioners for their favourable consideration.

ENCLOSURE.

VICE-GUARDIANS to Lieut. HAMILTON:—March 30.

WE shall require a sum of money amounting to 400*l.*, and an order for 300*l.* worth of provisions on next Saturday week, the 8th April, to enable us, with the amount of rate we calculate on receiving, to provide for the poor of this Union.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 1, 1848.

I AM to inform you that the Commissioners have made application to the British Association for a further advance of 400*l.* in money, and 300*l.* in provisions, to assist the Vice-Guardians of the Ballina Union, in providing for the maintenance of the destitute poor of the Union.

Mr. CARTER to the CHIEF COMMISSIONER:—March 30, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to enclose you a copy of a letter I this morning received from Mr. Crampton, the agent of my estate in Erris, county Mayo. I beg to say that I have forwarded a copy to the Lord Lieutenant, and I hope you will be so good as to give it the consideration that a document so important as concerns the ill-fated barony of Erris, and the uncultivated western districts of Ireland generally, in relation to the working of the Poor Law, requires.

I am most anxious to lay out the money applied for and granted, but the contents of this letter certainly cause me to pause before I take up 5000*l.* to be expended in increasing the burthens of the land in Erris, without a prospect of redemption. I do hope, as I will give land free, that something will be done by the Poor Law Commission, to employ the able bodied in raising food for themselves; there is no time to be lost, and you may rest assured that I will through my agent, a man of activity of body and mind, do my best to carry out any plan that may be devised for the useful and profitable employment of the poor on my estate in Erris.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. CRAMPTON to Mr. CARTER:—March 28, 1848.

I LEARN at the Custom-House that your application under the Land Improvement Act for the drainage of your Erris estates has been approved of to the extent of 5000*l.*, and that you will very shortly be placed in possession of an instalment of this sum; however, as it would interfere with the spring work, and so tend to destroy the very slender prospect of any harvest this year in that country, if you now commence operations, they must necessarily be postponed till summer.

Previous, however, to your embarking in this expenditure, I wish to lay before you as clearly as I can the present state and prospects of Erris generally, that you may judge for yourself whether by this expenditure you would improve your estate there, or whether, on the contrary, by adding so much to its incumbrances, you will only be accelerating its ruin.

The valuation of the two electoral divisions (Belmullet and Binghamstown, in which your estate lies), under the Poor Law, is under 12,000*l.* a-year; this sum is not very much less than the amount of rent which was paid (before 1846), by the occupying tenants to their immediate landlords; at present small holders (who occupy more than nine-tenths of the country), are able to pay no rent whatever.

The population of these two electoral divisions, which, before 1846, was considerably over 20,000, is now (as well as an estimate can be made) under 20,000; about one-sixth of this population are resident on those parts of your estate which are not leased against you in perpetuity, and about another sixth on those townlands which are.

Out of this population upwards of 10,000 are now receiving relief daily under the Poor Law, at the expense of upwards of 250*l.* a-week; that is, at the rate of upwards of 13,000*l.* a-year (more than the entire rental of the two divisions even in flourishing times). This relief is administered with the utmost vigilance, and the utmost care taken that none except those actually starving shall be relieved, so that there is no hope that the expense will be diminished, on the contrary it is certain that it will considerably increase; destitution among the population yet off the lists increasing more rapidly than deaths occur among the paupers who are on; deaths among the paupers being the only circumstance by which the numbers receiving relief are or can be diminished.

As might be imagined, the proceeds of the poor rate are by no means equal to this enormous expenditure; the British Association are supplying the funds, and will probably do so till next harvest; however, they cannot and will not continue to do so, and as the people are supported in what is as bad as idleness, and the arable land is suffered to lie waste, there is no hope that the country can support itself when the British Association shall cease to give assistance.

It is for you to consider, whether under these circumstances the 5000*l.* granted to your application under the Land Improvement Act, will not (if laid out in Erris) be utterly lost, while you will remain personally liable to 650*l.* a-year for interest on this loan, if the Government insist on property supporting its own poor, while at the same time it also insists that the poor shall do nothing to help themselves.

Being intimately acquainted with the circumstances of the country, and alarmed at the course persisted in, I took the liberty, as far back as February last, to suggest to the Lord Lieutenant the propriety of enabling the Guardians to employ the able-bodied paupers in raising crops to aid in supporting themselves, and (with your permission) made an offer of land rent free to be cultivated by them for this purpose; more recently, seeing the present season passing away, I again pressed the same subject on his Excellency, reiterating the same offer, but no notice whatever was taken of my communication.

It is my deliberate conviction that if the present system be persevered in, the entire pauper population must die within the month succeeding the cessation of the supply from the British Association, if the Government themselves do not come forward and support them.

I am also convinced that there are no means left to render Erris self-supporting but by employing the pauper labour in raising food to sustain themselves, and I firmly believe that if this labour was so employed it would sustain them.

Can there be a question about it—that with land rent free, with quantities of manure within reach, now lying idly on the sea-shore, with an enlightened system of farming, they would not be able to raise food enough to support themselves? They did so under the worst system of agriculture (and paid rent beside), is it reasonable to suppose they could not do it under a better?

And what would this effect? It would render the poor rate supportable, it would enable the country farmers gradually to gain strength, and as they did, the labour of the able-bodied paupers would be absorbed in the cultivation of their farms, and better times would dawn on the country; whereas, if the present system is pursued, it will strike down the farmers who have yet been able to stand, and reduce the whole population to the rank of paupers.

If the British Association continue their assistance till harvest (as I am informed they will), there is even yet time to rescue the country, by employing the pauper labour in raising food for themselves; with this prospect you might lay out the 5000*l.* with great advantage to those of your tenants who are yet self-supporting; but if the cessation of relief from the British Association will bring us only to barren fields and a destitute country, your expenditure and exertion will only be rewarded by a fuller measure of misfortune.

If by any exertion the Government could be induced to adopt some plan of this kind, it should not be one moment delayed. This is the 28th of March, on the next few weeks depend the hope of the coming year.

If the Government will do nothing, and at the same time insist that proprietors must support the destitute on their estates (that is on your paying 2000*l.* a-year for poor-rate for your Erris estate, which would be about your proportion, while you at the same time get nothing out of it), I would say the sooner you got rid of that property the better, and that your laying out money on it, with these facts clearly before you, would be an act of deliberate folly.

Ballina Union:

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 1, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ult., transmitting a communication from your agent, Mr. Crampton, and I am to state that the Commissioners propose to communicate with you very shortly on Mr. Crampton's statement.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. R. HAMILTON:—April 1, 1848.

IN the letter of Mr. Carter's agent, Mr. Crampton (who does not now reside at Belmullet, and whose residence there is occupied by Mr. Hamilton, the Inspector), it is assumed that the annual value for rating, of the Belmullet and Binghamstown electoral divisions (10,822*l.* 13*s.*), is about the rent that was paid in 1846, although in these divisions (leaving houses out of consideration), there are 79,057 acres of land actually rated to occupiers (their holdings being over 4*l.* value), and 91,772 acres rated to immediate lessors; so that, on Mr. Crampton's estimate, the land rent paid in 1846 was about 1*s.* 10*d.* the statute acre; and it will be observed that any occupier who on this scale of value is rated for holdings valued above 4*l.* must hold nearly 50 acres of land; but of such occupiers there are 392 only in the two divisions, so that their holdings in the aggregate of 79,057 must considerably exceed 50 acres in the majority of cases.

These holdings cannot necessarily be cultivated by the occupiers' families exclusively, and may be considered as affording employment to a portion of the remaining population.

The total population is 22,773 (supposing the numbers in 1841 still to exist), and the great majority of this total would appear to be located on the 91,772 acres rated to landlords, which appear to be divided into 4,298 holdings, averaging 21 acres; and allowing five persons, old and young, to each, the population on these holdings would be 21,490, leaving only 1283 for the larger holdings.

If these amounts are right, (all of which, except the population, are taken from the rate book of the Union,) they do not present so unfavourable an aspect as Mr. Crampton's statement would appear to give to the affairs of these electoral divisions, and the prospects of the proprietors.

But it will be necessary to obtain a report from Mr. Hamilton on some of the statements which Mr. Crampton has made.

1. As to the number now receiving relief in each division, which Mr. Crampton states to be for both 10,000; and he assumes that this number will not be abated except by death.

2. That if the population be not enabled to raise food for self-support, all who are destitute must die in the month after aid from the British Association shall cease.

3. That no means are left to render the divisions self-supporting, than the employment of the population in raising food.

4. That Mr. Carter is prepared to give land rent free for the latter object.

Mr. Hamilton will be so good as to state whether he anticipates any, and if so, what reduction of the numbers now getting relief, from the employment which the district ordinarily affords; and how far this will operate more in Binghamstown division than in Belmullet division, or vice versa; also, whether Mr. Carter's estate is principally in the former, or the latter, and whether it is likely that if the landholders possessing means in that part of the Union, or elsewhere, were to be offered the land rent free, they would be likely to occupy and cultivate it.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 4, 1848.

I think Mr. Crampton's letter is not by any means an exaggerated statement, although it may not be strictly correct in all its details, and that his views as to rescuing the country from its present broken down state, may be open to many objections.

The present expenditure is about 250*l.* a week, and a considerable portion of the persons now receiving relief are permanently pauperized, unless some unexpected demand for labour should arise.

With reference to those portions of Mr. Crampton's letter on which you wish me specially to report:—

1. The total number of persons relieved last week in each electoral division was—

Belmullet	8993
Binghamstown.	3926

2. I certainly think all destitute persons now receiving relief would die, if relief were to be discontinued.

3. I do not think the population have any means of subsistence except what is obtained from the land.

4. I annex reports from the relieving officer for each district on this subject; I think I may say the lists can be reduced to about 8000; a great reduction has been made in the last two days.

There will be more employment in Belmullet than Binghamstown division, but any employment given is of little or no assistance to the rates, as the employers seldom keep the same person more than two days.

Mr. Carter has property in both electoral divisions, but the principal portion is in Belmullet. There are few landholders, if any, who have means sufficient to cultivate all the lands at present in their possession.

Reductions are making in this district; annexed is a statement of the numbers removed this day.

ENCLOSURES.

Mr. FERRALL, Relieving Officer, to Mr. HAMILTON :—April 3, 1848.

ACCORDING to orders, I have to inform you that the number of persons relieved on my books (including all dependents) are 6227 for the preceding week, of which number I consider I will make a reduction of 10 per cent. on an average.

THOMAS FERRALL, Relieving Officer.

Mr. TALBOT, Relieving Officer, to Mr. HAMILTON :—April 3, 1848.

ACCORDING to directions, I have to inform you the number of persons receiving out-door relief in my district is 1968, (including all dependents,) and from the great distress prevailing, I do not think I can reduce that number more than 5 per cent., having reduced my list last week nearly 5 per cent.

Mr. HOWLEY, Relieving Officer, to Mr. HAMILTON :—April 3, 1848.

I BEG leave to acquaint you for the information of the Commissioners, that I have at present on my book for the Bangor district, 771 cases, which comprise a gross number of 1368 persons, of which (I think, as far as I can judge at present), I will strike off 100 persons.

Mr. DAVID WALKER, Relieving Officer, to Mr. HAMILTON :—April 3, 1848.

THERE are at present 656 cases, numbering 1398 persons receiving out-door relief in Belmullet Northern district.

I cannot now with safety state what proportion of those, if any, can be struck off; but will on next week as well as I possible can, furnish you with a list of those persons whom I find to be making tillage, or are in any manner more comfortably circumstanced than the others.

Mr. WINTER, Relieving Officer, to Mr. HAMILTON :—April 4, 1848.

AGREEABLE to order, I have to inform you that the number of persons receiving out-door relief in this district (including all dependents) is 1958: from this number I consider a reduction of 6 per cent. can be made.

Ballina Union.

The COMMISSIONERS to Mr. CARTER:—April 8, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration the letter of Mr. Crampton, your agent, received with your letter of the 30th ultimo, already acknowledged, in which he recommends that the able-bodied destitute persons now supplied with food in Binghamstown and Belmullet electoral divisions of Ballina Union, should be employed in raising food for their support, on unoccupied land which Mr. Crampton recommends you to give rent free, with the privilege of using the manure within reach.

The Commissioners concur with Mr. Crampton, in regarding it as very important that the land now lying waste in those divisions should be used for producing food, and that the able-bodied destitute persons in the district should be employed in the cultivation of the soil; but the Commissioners do not consider it practicable that all these persons could be engaged at work on your unoccupied farms by the Guardians, as is proposed by Mr. Crampton, nor does there appear to be any way in which the requisite supplies of seed could be obtained, and seen properly planted by the Union officers employed to distribute out-door relief.

The Commissioners do not consider the Union officers capable of doing more than superintending the gangs of able-bodied persons who are occupied in the labour of stone-breaking. It would be impossible for such a staff of officers to superintend the same number of persons dispersed in agricultural employments.

In the present circumstances of the Binghamstown and Belmullet electoral divisions, it is only by the adoption of means to encourage agricultural undertakings, independently of the poor-rates, that any progress can be made in ameliorating the condition of the labouring population, and lessening the pressure on the resources of the ratepayers. The Commissioners would be gratified to know that such means were applied by the owners of the lands heretofore cultivated, but now waste; and were all to adopt your proposition of giving the land rent free, at first, there would it is presumed be found persons of the requisite skill and capital, to migrate to that district.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 1, 1848.

WITH reference to your letter of the 14th ultimo, requesting I would take evidence upon oath respecting the evictions which have taken place on Mr. Walsh's property in this district, I have now the honour to forward the annexed true copies of sworn statements made by a few persons. I have to apologize for not having complied with your directions earlier; but as I left this on leave of absence immediately after the receipt of your letter, was unable to do so.

You will oblige me by stating whether the Commissioners wish for any further evidence.

ENCLOSURE.

Catherine Coyle, sworn in Irish by an interpreter:—Am the widow of Anthony Coyle. My late husband was for the last 20 years tenant to Mr. John Walsh, on the townland of Mullaghroe. I was his second wife, and have been two years married. My husband paid Mr. Walsh 3*l.* a-year rent. About the 1st of November William Heffron (who acts as agent to Mr. Walsh), accompanied by another man, came to the house. They demanded possession of the house, and my husband gave it to them. He was re-admitted by Heffron, who gave him three or four weeks to prepare to leave the house. Shortly before Christmas day William Heffron and another man came into the house, and desired us to leave it that he might throw it down. We all went out; my husband and his four children, and I and the two children he had by me, quitted the house. The house was thrown down the moment we quitted it. We returned to the ruins and lived in a corner of it, having made up a sort of tent there. This was thrown down by Heffron shortly after Christmas. I was not in at the time, but my husband and children were. Since then we have been begging about, sleeping wherever we could get a lodging. About a fortnight ago we came to the workhouse; for six weeks before we had been getting relief in food from the relieving officer. My husband was in a dying state when we came to the workhouse, and has since died. He was a strong man when our house was thrown down upon us.

David Reilly, being duly sworn in Irish by a sworn interpreter, states:—I have a wife and one child. Lived in Mullaghroe for the last 16 years, the property of Mr. John Walsh. Held two acres and a half of land, and paid 1*l.* 8*s.* yearly rent. About Christmas Mr. Walsh's son, William Heffron, steward to Mr. Walsh, and Pat Barret, herd to Mr. Walsh, came about three o'clock in the day to my house, raised the couples of it, and threw off the roof. I was in the house at the time; was served with a notice. Myself, wife, and child have slept several nights in the ditches. About a week after my house was thrown down I found a shed in Mullaghroe, which I went into with my family, and remained in it one week when Pat Barret, herd to Mr. Walsh, came and threw it down; also set fire to my bed when I was in it. Since then myself and family have been living in another shed, four feet high and five feet square, which I put up close to the gable of a house in Mullaghroe. Made several applications to be admitted to the poor-house, and was told I would be admitted whenever there was room in it.

Patrick Murphy, being duly sworn and examined through a sworn interpreter (not being acquainted with the English language), states as follows:—Has lived in Mullaghroe all his life, on Mr. Walsh's property; held about five acres of land and a house and barn, for which he paid 3*l.* per annum. Was served with a notice to quit in November, 1846, at which time he owed a year's rent. After legal possession had been taken by Mr. Walsh, he was allowed to remain a month in the house. Five days before Christmas day, Mr. John Walsh's son and his steward, William Heffron, and his herds, Pat Barret and Pat Broderick, came with crow-bars, raised the couples of the roof off the walls, and threw in the roof before he had time to leave the house, or take out any of his furniture. His furniture consisted of two beds, dresser, three pots, three tubs, a bucket, and a table, which he considers were worth about 1*l.* 5*s.* This took place about an hour or half an hour before sunset. He never received a penny from Mr. Walsh. About 30 houses were unroofed that day by the same party. Has been wandering about the country up to the last six weeks, during which time, for five nights, he was forced to sleep in the open air, not being able to procure any shelter. Two nights he slept in a cock of hay when it was snowing and freezing; the remaining three nights were not severe. Has been receiving out-door relief for the last ten weeks. For four weeks he has given one quart of meal per week of his allowance for shelter. For the last six weeks he has been sleeping in a hut which he erected inside the walls of an old house in Mullaghroe, the size of which was five feet long by two and a half feet wide, and four feet high. This hut was thrown down and burnt yesterday by Pat Barret, Mr. Walsh's herd. Of the 30 houses which were thrown down on the same day as his, every one was inhabited. Of the families who inhabited those houses some of them have since died, and others are scattered in every direction.

Being examined through a sworn interpreter, she states:—That she lived at Mullaghroe, on Mr. Walsh's property. She had a house and one and a half acre of land, for which she paid 30*s.* to Mr. Ruane, Mr. Walsh's agent. Owed a year's rent. Lived there all her life. Was never served with a notice to quit, nor was her house, to her knowledge, taken possession of until about the month of September, when upon her return from the sea-shore one day she found the roof thrown in. She was told by the villagers that William Heffron, Mr. Walsh's steward, had thrown the roof in, and that he had the sheriff's boy with him. She made up a hut against the walls of the house and remained for about a fortnight in it, when one of her children having died she left the place and went out through the country to beg. Has been an inmate of the auxiliary workhouse at Binghamstown since the 9th of February.

The sheriff took possession, but her family were allowed to return. This occurred about last harvest. Shortly before Christmas Mr. Walsh's son, William Heffron, and Pat Barret, came and threw down the roof, at which time her husband and all her family were lying sick. They said that if witness did not go out, they would throw down the roof. She was not even allowed time to prepare a drink for her husband. Witness built up a hut two or three times, which was pulled down by Mr. Walsh's men. On one occasion her husband fell down three times in attempting to leave the house. Her husband and one of her children are since dead. Has been receiving out-door relief since the commencement of its being given out. Almost the entire village was thrown down before Christmas.

Mr. Walsh's son, with his bailiff, William Heffron, William Gibbons, and Pat Barret, came shortly before Christmas last; they desired him to leave the house, or they would pull it down; refused to leave the place, not having any shelter for himself and family, which consisted of his wife and two children. Mr. Walsh's son then took a crowbar, raised the couples of the roof, and with his servants threw down the entire roof, by which his dresser, chest, pots, &c., were all broken. Mr. Walsh did not give him any money when he turned him out. Witness left Mullaghroe that night with his family, and slept at Carne, near Belmullet. Has frequently, with his family, slept out in the open air. He never has been in good health since, and has lost one of his children in consequence of the sufferings which it had undergone. He and his family have wandered from place to place; they now occupy a hut, which he is obliged to pay three pints of his relief meal for every week; this hut is only sufficiently large for them to sleep in; has been getting out-door relief since December last. There were several houses thrown down the same day as his was; owed half-a-year's rent, with 13s. arrears, up to November, 1847; offered to pay Mr. Walsh's son the arrears if he would permit him to remain in the house.

Joseph Talbot, relieving officer of the Binghamstown electoral division, being duly sworn, states:—That he has visited the greater part of the families who once resided at Mullaghroe; he has found them in the most wretched state; frequently three or four families in small cabins, and others occupying huts which they have erected against gables, and inside of the ruins of their former dwellings; many of them have complained of their being forced to sleep out at night, and are most anxious for the completion of the auxiliary workhouse, in order that they may get shelter; is of opinion that these people, who are all, more or less, suffering from disease, have suffered the greatest hardships from want of shelter, and is positive that no amount of relief can bring the greater part of them round. In the village of Surge-view many of the Mullaghroe people are now living whose sufferings cannot be exceeded; there are four families in one hut, most of whom have dysentery, and there is fever in almost every cabin. Belmullet, 1st April, 1848.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 16, 1848.

WITH reference to your letter requesting I would take the evidence of Mr. Walsh's son and servants, if they consented to be examined, respecting the evictions that have taken place on his property in this district, I have the honour to acquaint you, for the information of the Commissioners, that I wrote to Mr. Walsh, asking him whether his son would consent to give such evidence, and yesterday I received a message from him, stating he was at the hotel in Belmullet, and was most anxious to see me. I immediately called upon him, when he entered into a long justification of his conduct, which I informed him I should be happy to lay before the Commissioners if he put it on paper; at the same time, he said his son had no objection to be examined, and requested I would meet him in Ballina on Thursday next for the purpose of taking his evidence, which I promised to do.

Mr. Walsh also requested I would give him permission to read the evidence already taken; this I refused to do until I knew what the Commissioners' wishes were, which I hope you will have the goodness to communicate before Thursday.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 18, 1848.

In reply to your communication of the 16th instant, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they are of opinion that Mr. Walsh should be permitted to read the evidence which has been taken with regard to the eviction of tenants upon his estate, and that every facility should be afforded him for that purpose.

Another copy of the evidence will now be sent for his use.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 22, 1848.

WITH reference to your letter and to my subsequent report, giving the purport of an interview I had with Mr. Walsh, I beg to forward to you the annexed papers as per margin, by which the Commissioners will perceive the present state of the case.

ENCLOSURES.

Monday, April 17, 1848.

I MET William Herron, Mr. Walsh's bailiff, on the road between Clughtean and Tarram, and asked him whether he would consent to be examined on oath regarding the evictions and unroofing of houses that has taken place on Mr. Walsh's property.

He said he would not do so unless he had leave from his master, as he was afraid of losing his situation; but that the only evidence he could give was, he was present at the pulling down of 16 houses in Mullaghroe, and 8 houses in Clogher, all of which were occupied at the time; the remainder of the houses were unroofed after the people had left them.

R. HAMILTON, Temporary Poor Law Inspector.

I was present when the above conversation took place.

JOSEPH TALBOT, Relieving Officer.

(B.)

Mr. TALBOT to Mr. HAMILTON:—April 17, 1848.

SINCE I saw you, William Heveran and Patt Barrett have refused to give any evidence regarding the evictions that took place in Mullaghroe and Clogher until they got permission from their master, Mr. Walsh, to do so.

William Heveran also told me he would be at the same work on to-morrow; he would be pulling down more houses, and he did not know where the inhabitants would go to, nor did not care, but it was his directions to do so.

(C.)

Mr. WALSH, Jun., to Mr. HAMILTON:—April 19, 1848.

My father desires me to express his regret that he cannot have the pleasure of meeting you to-morrow at Ballina, as arranged. He is very unwell, and unable to leave home; and besides; he desires me to say he thinks it would be premature in him to submit to my examination without being informed of the matters reported to the Commissioners, but in any event he or I cannot go further than as already explained to you at the hotel, Belmullet.

(D.)

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, and to forward a copy of a letter I have received from the Poor Law Commissioners, together with a copy of the evidence which has been taken.

If, on further consideration, you should feel inclined to make any statement, I beg to inform you that I shall remain in Ballina until Monday, and will meet either you or Mr. Walsh any day in the interval you may appoint.

Mr. WALSH to Mr. HAMILTON:—April 20, 1848.

My son handed me yours and the enclosures. I have been very unwell for some days, or I should have much pleasure in keeping my appointment with you. I fear I cannot be able to meet you at Ballina on Saturday; if not, I shall send you my deposition, sworn before a magistrate, as soon as possible.

Pat. Broderick, being duly sworn, states:—I was employed by Mr. Walsh as herd on the lands of Mullaghroe and Devillaan Clogher. I recollect shortly before Christmas proceeding with Mr. Walsh's son to Mullaghroe, by whose directions I at that time assisted in the levelling of three or four houses there; warning was then given to the remainder of the inhabitants to leave their houses, and to prepare another place for themselves, after which Mr. Walsh's son directed that we should not leave a single house without levelling it, and that he did not care one damn where the people went to. The next day we accordingly went and levelled as many houses as we could; we were occupied in the same manner for the three or four succeeding days, during which time, between Clogher and the two Mullaghroes, to the best of my belief, we threw down about 50 houses. I cannot tell the exact number; people were living in the greater part of them. They asked to be allowed to remain in their cabins until after Christmas, when they would go away of their own accord. Mr. Walsh's servant (Jack Walsh) said that by his master's orders he could not let them remain one hour longer. After the cabins were thrown down many of the people erected huts or tents from four to five feet square, and about three or four feet high. I received directions from William Heveron, Mr. Walsh's agent, to level these huts. I did not level many of them.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—May 4, 1848.

Ballina Union.

WITH reference to former correspondence on the subject, now before the Commissioners, I beg to forward the annexed letter, received this moment, from Mr. Walsh.

ENCLOSURE.

Mr. J. WALSH to Mr. HAMILTON :—May 3, 1848.

I HAVE had the honour of your note in reference to my property in Erris district, and on reflection I feel I should make no affidavit on the subject, particularly as you reported ex parte, and not of the number referred to in your report only from more recognized tenants. I feel it would be an insult to my own feeling to make any affidavit, and I deny the right of any affidavit to interfere in my management of my property to yourself personally.

REPLY to the foregoing :—May 6, 1848.

THE Commissioners desire to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 4th instant, with a further communication from Mr. Walsh, of Castlehill, respecting the levelling of cabins on his property in Binghamstown electoral division, of Ballina Union, and they desire to observe that the depositions already transmitted, and the communication now received, appear to render any further inquiry in the case unnecessary.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 8, 1848.

IN making my weekly report I have the honour to state for the information of the Commissioners, that heretofore my great object was to check the urgent distress which prevailed throughout the district, and to see that relief was afforded to all those requiring it, but before this object could be attained it was impossible to prevent a considerable number being relieved who did not need it. This must be attributed to the relieving officers, as well as ourselves, being strangers, consequently unacquainted with the people, nearly the entire population being applicants for relief, and there being no proprietor or ratepayer who afforded any assistance in checking abuses; but now that I am convinced there is not a single person in need of relief who is not getting it, I have turned my attention exclusively to reducing the lists, and with this view Mr. Waters and myself have attended the various depôts on the days of distribution, and put the workhouse test to considerable numbers. At present there are upwards of 12,000 persons (including dependents) on the relieving officers' books; this number, I think, may in the course of a short time be reduced to about 8000, but I am afraid a further reduction than this will be attended with great danger, as the majority of these people are permanently pauperized.

The relieving officers (all of whom have been lately appointed) are active young men, and I have no doubt but after a little will perform their duties well.

The only fault I had to find with them was placing parties on their books without examining the residence; certainly on their arrival they were surrounded with difficulties of no ordinary nature, and every allowance should be made, particularly so, as they now appear anxious to retrace their steps. Their books and accounts are made up to the day.

In consequence of the rapid spread of fever in the auxiliary workhouse, and there being no means of separating the patients, Mr. Waters and myself considered it necessary, in order to check the progress of the disease, to take a house in the town of Binghamstown for a month or so, where the fever patients have been removed to. I trust the Commissioners will approve of this course.

The VICE-GUARDIANS to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 12, 1848.

THERE is nothing particular to draw your attention to in the state of the house.

The assistant master at Ardnanee is giving much satisfaction, and has returned 750 boxes of stones well broken for the work of 500 men last week, this amounts to $1\frac{1}{2}$ box, being $13\frac{1}{2}$ cubic feet each man, which we consider most excellent work, indeed it has been proved so by the fact of many able-bodied men becoming so disgusted with it, that they left the house rather than continue on such terms.

Ballina Union.

We have been much disappointed at not being able as yet to procure a second auxiliary house. The medical officers have condemned Colonel Gore's store, we propose inserting an advertisement for one this week, as it is most desirable to procure extended workhouse accommodation in this Union.

There is no material change in the amount lodged weekly by our collectors, we fear that not very much of the amount of rate at present uncollected will be ever realized, and are consequently most anxious to be in a position to strike a rate, for this purpose we have advertised for a person competent to revise the valuation, and will lose no time in having such revision completed.

Although the returns forwarded as yet by the clerk do not show great reduction in the number or expense of those receiving out-door relief, still that such have been made, and to great extent, we are aware, having under our own inspection reduced many thousands, and having received a report from our contractors to the effect that the weekly expenditure in out-door relief has been lately reduced in value 300% at least; the issue from one depôt being only 10½ tons which used to be 19.

A great effort appears to be making by the people in preparing to sow the land, and from what we can learn a much greater breadth will be put under cultivation this year than was last.

Mr. R. HAMILTON to the COMMISSIONERS :—April 29, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of the Commissioners, that everything in this district is going on satisfactorily. The relieving officers, generally speaking, appear to be performing their duties well.

The appearance of the people has considerably improved, far beyond what I ever expected; and in the town of Belmullet for the last month I have seen comparatively speaking, but few beggars, although the Vagrant Act never has been enforced, there being no magistrates within 26 Irish miles. The town is likewise pretty free from disease.

The labour test has been found most valuable in the Bangor district, where 90 men were returned for work only about 20 attended. At Curlough (Belmullet division), where upwards of 200 men were originally returned for work, the attendance has not on an average exceeded 40 each day. The attendance at the other depôts has been pretty much in the same proportion, except Geesula (Belmullet division) and Aughleam (Binghamstown division), in the neighbourhood of which places there is little or nothing doing in the way of cultivating the land. In the other portions of the district great preparation is making for sowing potatoes and green crops on a large scale.

Great difficulty has been experienced in keeping the auxiliary workhouse in anything like proper order, there being I may say no master or matron for the last month owing to the illness of Mr. Rogers (who is slowly recovering), and Mrs. Rogers being occupied up to the last few days exclusively attending him; but, I am sorry to say, that on visiting the house yesterday I found her very unwell, and the doctor informed me she had fever. I immediately requested he would take steps to have her removed, which he promised to do.

The oven at the auxiliary workhouse is, I may say, finished, and I have requested the Guardians to take steps to have it made available. The other works are likewise in a forward state, and, I hope, in a few weeks we shall be able to provide shelter for most of those who are houseless.

A great deal of my time has been occupied with the schools, between the distribution of clothes and removing the children who are receiving relief under the Poor Law from the school lists, as I did not consider it desirable this system of double relief should be continued any longer; at the same time I must remark by so doing the school lists will be reduced from 4500 to about 1000. I thought it preferable to remove the children from the school relief rather than the Poor Law, in order to prevent confusion hereafter.

MACROOM UNION.

Mr. BRANDLING to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 5, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report that I arrived at the Macroon Union on the 4th of March, and attended a meeting of the Poor Law Guardians on that day.

It appears from the statements of the clerk that the Guardians have about 1300*l.* in the hands of the Treasurer, which sum is the balance of a rate struck on the 24th July, 1847; and that about 1300*l.* of this rate is still uncollected.

The Guardians are preparing to strike another rate, which will be the second within twelve months, and the chairman has requested me to state to the Poor Law Commissioners that as the two rates, when taken together, amount in all cases, excepting the electoral divisions of Aglish, Cannavee, Magourney, Matchy, and Ovens, to 3*s.* in the pound; and as these sums will be only sufficient for the maintenance of the poor without repaying any of the money advanced by Government under the Temporary Relief Act, he requests, in the name of the Macroon Board of Guardians, that the repayment of the Government loan may be put off till after the harvest, when a rate can be struck and collected for that purpose. I must beg that an immediate answer be sent on this subject, as the matter is to be finally arranged at a meeting of the Poor Law Guardians on Saturday next the 11th of March.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 10, 1848.

THE Commissioners desire to inform you that they are not authorized to sanction the making of a rate of less than 3*s.* in the pound, on any electoral division in which the sum required for ordinary expenditure, in addition to defraying the sum due to Government, would equal or exceed that amount.

It is not required, however, in any case in which the amount for expenditure under the Poor Relief Acts will be less than 3*s.* in the pound that the rate for both purposes should exceed this amount; nor is it necessary where a rate of such amount is requisite for ordinary expenditure that any addition should now be made for repayment of the advances from the Relief Commissioners.

Macroon Union.

The Commissioners therefore request that you will inform the Guardians accordingly, and have the books for the new rate proceeded with as speedily as possible, ready for the insertion of the amount of new rate when agreed upon by the Guardians.

Mr. BRANDLING to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 13, 1848.

WITH reference to the circular of March 2, 1848, I beg to state, that it will be impossible for the Macroon Board of Guardians to suspend at the present time all the relief to the able-bodied poor without increasing the distress in this district to an alarming extent. The relieving officers are preparing to strike off about 2000 from their lists, which plan will be carried out before the 18th of March; and there is every reason to suppose that an extensive reduction will take place from that date.

Since my appointment, I have received every assistance from the Macroon Guardians, who have met my suggestions with perfect good feeling.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 16, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 13th instant, relating to the proposed revocation of the order authorizing out-door relief to able-bodied poor persons in the Macroon Union, and I am to state that the Commissioners will be glad to receive a further report from you on this point, in about a fortnight from this time.

I am at the same time, to request that you will have the goodness to report, if you think that an order authorizing the Guardians to afford out-door relief to able-bodied persons, with the exception of single men, and men having but two children, could then be issued.

Mr. BRANDLING to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 15, 1848.

SINCE my arrival at Macroon as the inspecting officer to the Union, I have discovered some irregularities in the management of the poor-house books, which are to be attributed to the sickness and various changes of the officers of the establishment.

In the first place, the number of paupers actually in the house is less than the number in the register, there being a difference of about 20. This is owing to the discharges of the paupers not having been regularly entered as they left the poor-house. I thought the best plan for rectifying these errors was, to have the paupers assembled in one of the yards, and their names called over, which has been done, much to the satisfaction of the Guardians; and in my opinion, after another investigation, we shall completely succeed in correcting the books.

The number of paupers at present receiving out-door relief amounts to about 10,000; but I am in hopes that there will be a great reduction when the test of stone-breaking is applied to the able-bodied. I have written an application, through the Poor Law Commissioners, for 1000 stone-hammers to be given from the stores of the Board of Works; but there has not been any answer to my communication.

The medical officer informs me that the paupers in the workhouse are improving in health. There are about 50 in the fever hospital; but out of these one-half the cases are dysentery, which disease has been very fatal in this part of the country.

The Guardians are to meet at the poor-house to-morrow for the purpose of preparing a new rate, which is to provide funds for the poor-house and the out-door relief till after the harvest. This rate, when added to the one struck in August, 1847, will, in all cases (except in the five most wealthy electoral divisions), amount to 3s. in the pound; and I do not anticipate much resistance in the collection.

There are only three collectors in this large Union of 16 electoral divisions, and these men receive but 4d. in the pound for collecting. To these circumstances I attribute the non-payment of part of the arrears now due. This subject is to be considered at the next meeting of the Guardians; and there is every prospect of an increase to the number of collectors, and an addition to the percentage for collecting. Macroon Union.

I have recommended establishing local committees of the highest rate-payers in the electoral divisions, for the purpose of scrutinizing the relieving officers' lists, which I think will be acted on in all districts.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 16, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 10th instant, relating to the Macroon Union, in which you state that you have recommended the establishment of local committees of the highest rate-payers in each electoral division, for the purpose of scrutinizing the relieving officers' lists.

In reference thereto I am to state, that it should be distinctly understood that the course proposed, if entered upon, must not interfere with the duties of the relieving officers, or the functions of the Guardians, whose duty it is to determine in each case, whether any and what relief shall be given; and the rate-payers should only furnish the Guardians with information for the purpose of assisting them in the discharge of this duty.

The Commissioners have given directions for the renewal till the 18th instant, of the order authorizing out-door relief to destitute able-bodied persons in the Union, and the Commissioners request that you will have the goodness to report to them in the mean time, in accordance with their circular letter of the 2nd instant.

Mr. BRANDLING to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 19, 1848.

ON the 18th instant there was a meeting of the Poor Law Guardians of the Macroon Union, for the purpose of striking a rate which is to support the poor till after the harvest, and to repay a large portion of the 10,479*l.*, the sum advanced by the Relief Commissioners, as a loan under the Temporary Relief Act. The following are the names of the electoral divisions, and the rate for which the books are signed:—Macroon, 3*s.* in the pound; Ballyvoerney, 3*s.*; Clondrohid, 3*s.*; Kilnamartyr, 3*s.*; Kilcorney, 3*s.*; Kilmurry, 3*s.*; Ahabullogue, 3*s.*; Donoughmore, 3*s.*; Macloneigh, 2*s.* 6*d.*; Aghina, 2*s.* 6*d.*; Matehy, 2*s.* 6*d.*; Eveleary, 2*s.* 6*d.*; Ovens, 1*s.* 6*d.*; Magourney, 1*s.* 6*d.*; Aglish, 5*d.*; and Canaree, 5*d.* This rate, when collected, ought to produce a sum of 11,700*l.* The Guardians have adhered strictly to the directions received from the Poor Law Commissioners, and as the treasurer to the Union has but 1100*l.* in his hands, the collectors have orders to proceed in the collection without delay.

In the place of the three old collectors, 16 new ones have been appointed (one for each of the electoral divisions). This will greatly expedite their business, as the former districts were too large.

The relieving officers have reduced their lists of able-bodied paupers, and I think that by the 25th of this month the number will not exceed 2000. I fear that for the present a greater reduction than this cannot be effected, as a part of the Union is wretchedly poor, and the farmers are not able to employ their usual complement of labourers.

Local committees, consisting of the highest rate-payers, have been established throughout the Union. I have explained to these gentlemen that they have not any control over the relieving officers or their lists, but that any useful suggestions or exposition of abuses will be thankfully received by the Guardians.

Mr. BRANDLING to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 26, 1848.

AT a meeting of the Poor Law Guardians on Tuesday the 21st instant, the rate-books were signed for all the electoral divisions (except Eveleary, which is to be signed on the 2nd of April), and as extra collectors have been appointed, the collection of the rate will be proceeded with immediately. It is the opinion of the chairman (Mr. Nettles), that before the end of August this Union will be able to repay about 4000*l.* of the 10,479*l.* advanced by the Relief Commissioners in 1847, and that the surplus will be ample for the poorhouse and out-door relief till after the harvest.

I am sorry to report that the relieving officers' books and accounts have been in a very imperfect state; this has obliged me to warn these officers that all will be removed from their situations whose books and accounts are not completed by Tuesday next the 28th instant, which is the day appointed by the Guardians for revising and scrutinizing all papers relating to out-door relief.

The Guardians and rate-payers appear anxious to keep down the expenditure. These gentlemen have local meetings in the electoral divisions, which have been useful in exposing abuses.

There was a strong complaint urged against the relieving officer in the Ballyvourney electoral division, to the effect that he had allowed two children belonging to the district to starve. After careful investigation I found that these unfortunate creatures had actually perished from starvation, but that their father (a strong able man), had been offered work by which he could have earned upwards of one shilling per diem; notwithstanding this the man refused the employment and witnessed the death of his infants without making an exertion.

The Board of Guardians are anxious to put some working test to the able-bodied women receiving out-door relief; they have requested me to write on this subject to the Poor Law Commissioners, and to state in my correspondence that stone-breaking is the only work they can suggest. I think that there is a great objection to this plan, as it would tend to demoralize the females and take them from their natural avocations.

I am making arrangements for supplying the able-bodied women in the poorhouse with work in constructing fishing-nets. At present there is a good net maker in the poorhouse who will be able to superintend the netting.

The Guardians are going to have the names of the paupers who are on the out-door relief, printed and posted in various parts of the Union. This I think will be a very efficient mode of checking imposition.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 1, 1848.

WITH reference to your statement connected with the deaths of two children from starvation I am to state that the parent should have been prosecuted under the 2nd section of the Act 10 and 11 Vict. cap. 84, for having wilfully neglected to maintain the children, and the children should have been taken into the workhouse.

Mr. BRANDLING to the COMMISSIONERS:—March 27, 1848.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of an order which empowers the Macroon Board of Guardians to grant out-door relief to the able-bodied till the 1st of April, 1848; I am convinced that this order must be extended in the electoral divisions of Eveleary, Kilnamartyr, Clondrohid, Kilcorney, Ahabullogue, and Donoughmore, as they are very poor districts.

REPLY to the foregoing:—March 29, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to acknowledge the receipt of your report of the 27th instant, and I am to state in reply, that the Commissioners have given directions for the renewal of the order authorizing out-door relief in the Macroon Union for one fortnight. This order is applicable to the whole Union.

I am at the same time to state, that the Commissioners have received a report from their Inspector, Mr. Crawford, in which he states that he is of opinion that an order similar to an order issued in the Listowel Union, may be substituted for the order at present in force in the Macroon Union.

The Commissioners request that they may be furnished with your observations on the subject, previous to acting on the recommendation of Mr. Crawford.

Macroon Union.

Mr. BRANDLING to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 2, 1848.

SINCE my last report I have received an order which empowers the Macroon Guardians to give out-door relief to the able-bodied labourers till the 15th of this month. I am required by the Commissioners to report on the expediency of applying that part of the Listowel order which includes single able-bodied labourers and labourers having but two children dependent on them for support, to the Macroon Union. As out-door relief to some few of the able-bodied will be absolutely necessary in a portion of this district after the 15th instant, I think from that date it will be as well to omit single able-bodied labourers, and able-bodied labourers having but two children, in the Macroon Orders which emanate from the Poor Law Commissioners' office in Dublin.

The funds at the disposal of the Macroon Guardians are nearly exhausted; but as the new rate has been prepared, and the collectors appointed, the Guardians do not anticipate any want of money. The collectors are to attend at the poorhouse on Tuesday, the 4th. I will then take the opportunity of inciting them to activity and determination in the execution of their duties.

During the last month great improvements have taken place in the interior economy of the poorhouse. The male paupers are now employed in planting potatoes, forming gravel walks, breaking stones, &c. &c.; and the females are making up large quantities of wearing apparel and bedding which are required for the use of the establishment.

The master has been sent to Cork, where he is going to prosecute some people for purloining sheets from the poorhouse. I think this example will be of service in putting a stop to a system of petty thefts which has been going on in the poorhouse.

The relieving officer's accounts have been made up and forwarded to the Commissioners.

Mr Hinds, the Government agricultural lecturer, is preparing to deliver some dissertations in Macroon on the improvement of lands. These suggestions if acted on must do an infinity of good, as most of the farms in the neighbourhood are in a shocking state.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 10, 1848.

WITH reference to your report of the 2nd instant, on the subject of the extension of the order authorizing out-door relief in the Macroon Union, I am directed by the Commissioners to inform you that they have given directions for the issue of an order authorizing the Board of Guardians to continue relief to the several classes, with the exception of the able-bodied single men, and men having but two children dependent on them.

Mr. BRANDLING to the COMMISSIONERS:—April 9, 1848.

I HAVE not anything of an extraordinary nature to report in this week's letter as the surrounding country is in a very quiet state, and the collectors are commencing with apparent success to levy the rates in several parts of the Union.

The Guardians are so well satisfied with the circumstances of the poorhouse, that they propose meeting but one day in the week, instead of the two regular meetings they have held up to the present date.

The out-door relief lists have been reduced within the last fourteen days by about two thousand applicants. The number given in by the relieving officers as persons relieved during the past week did not exceed 6800, and I think that there will be another large reduction before the 15th instant.

I fear that some of the relieving officers are not sufficiently remunerated for their work, as two of them, who have the worst districts in the Union, viz., Eveleary and Clondrohid, have but 25% per annum. I expostulated on this subject with the Guardians at their weekly meeting of the 8th instant, but I am sorry to say with little or no effect.

The inmates of the poorhouse are generally very healthy, and there is a daily reduction in the fever and dysentery cases.

REPLY to the foregoing:—April 12, 1848.

I AM to request that you will be good enough to bring the subject of the relieving officer's salaries again under the notice of the Board of Guardians.

The Commissioners are desirous that the relieving officers should be fairly remunerated for the discharge of their important duties; and they think that salaries not less than 30*l.* per annum should be allowed to the relieving officers referred to in your report.

LISTOWEL UNION.

Captain SPARK to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 4, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report, for the information of the Poor Law Commissioners, that I attended the ordinary meeting of the Guardians yesterday. On the letter being read, dated the 31st ultimo, requesting the Board to make arrangements for having the rations wetted before being issued, a discussion took place upon the subject, and whilst the value of the principle upon which the recommendation was made was conceded, objections were urged against it on account of the expense attending the same, arising from the additional staff and numerous dépôts that would be required, considering that there are above 22,000 persons to feed, and that the food must (if wetted meal) be issued daily, or it would turn sour. It was argued subsequently by Mr. Crosbie, of Ardfert Abbey, high sheriff for the county, on a motion made to appoint local committees, that, with the experience of the abuses under the Relief Act of last year before them, no person could reasonably suppose that relief on so extended a scale, to be given in daily issues, with the labour-test to accompany it, could be efficiently carried out, and that abuses could be checked without a most extensive staff; or that this system of relief with labour could at all be properly worked and controlled by one central Board for the whole of this large Union, when a body of gentlemen like the Relief Committees for each electoral division, possessing every local knowledge, failed entirely to do so in respect of the former relief measures.

I must leave these arguments for the Commissioners' consideration, and have only to remark, that it is true the present relieving officers could not possibly accomplish the issue of daily rations, and fulfil their present instructions. Their districts are large, and they now take two, and some of them three, days to issue the food for the week. The other days of the week are occupied with their accounts, and in coming to Listowel to have them examined by the clerk (Wednesday), and to attend the Board of Guardians with their Application and Report Book (Thursday), besides having to visit the houses of all the new applicants for relief, to receive the supplies, and to look after the dépôts.

If the Poor Law Commissioners will be so good as to afford me their directions on the subject, after the objections urged by the Guardians have been considered, I will see them fulfilled as strictly and as soon as possible; for it would be advisable that no time should be lost, or the additional month granted for the continuance of the out-door relief will have elapsed before the necessary steps have been taken, and such additional staff be organized as the Commissioners may determine to be needful. As regards the additional staff, I take the liberty to suggest that one or more confidential clerks would be required in each of the present relief districts to superintend the daily issue of the rations at those places and on those days on which the relieving officer's duties call him elsewhere. This clerk to be provided with a duplicate of the relief list. Paupers could assist to wet and weigh out the meal. Large tubs with measures to be provided at each dépôt.

I submitted a resolution, that was agreed to, directing the collectors to serve notices agreeably to the 6th and 7th Vic., cap. 92, sec. 2, on all immediate lessors whose rates have not been paid; and to take such legal steps as may be necessary for the immediate recovery of same.

It was resolved to request the Commissioners to authorize the Board to rent land to the extent of 15 acres, in accordance with the provisions of Act 1 and 2 Vic., cap. 56, sec. 35, and of the Poor Law Extension Act, sec. 20.

Upon this considerable discussion took place, and much stress was laid on the great advantage of establishing, by means of the poor-houses, agricultural schools to improve the industrial habits of the inmates, to be the means of diffusing the knowledge thus acquired for the future benefit of the country. I would strongly recommend this measure to the favourable attention of the Poor Law Commissioners, if compatible with their views. I am glad to have this proof to record of increased attention of the Board of Guardians to the future interests of the Union, which the Commissioners will perceive has been shown in many other matters of late.

Listowel Union.

The Guardian from the Ballybunnion electoral division presented a list of 62 names found to be illegally on the relieving officer's books, and receiving relief, and they were struck off.

The Workhouse Extension Committee reported the hired buildings (with the exception of one portion yet found damp) ready to receive the girls of the workhouse school, to the number of 130, and they were ordered to be removed thither on Monday next accordingly, which will afford further opportunity of applying the workhouse test.

This test, I am glad to have to report, is found to work well here. During the last five days 90 persons have quitted the house who had but a few days previous entered on tickets of admission given by the relieving officers.

Miss Nolan, the schoolmistress (a most valuable, steady person), applied for an advance of salary. She had heretofore only 8*l.* a-year! The Board readily agreed to advance it to 15*l.* in consideration of her increase of duties and responsibility at the new building, as well as an act of justice she deserved long since; and I trust the Commissioners will be pleased to sanction it.

REPLY to the foregoing :—February 8, 1848.

IN reference to the objections of the Guardians to the issue of meal in a steeped state, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they have already made a concession to the Guardians in not insisting that the food should be invariably cooked, and that its issue in such a state is contrary to the views of the Commissioners, who cannot doubt that with proper energy and arrangement on the part of the Guardians, a system of relief to the able-bodied in cooked food might be carried on throughout the Union.

With regard to the meal being steeped, the Commissioners desire to state that they consider this to be essential, and they request you to insist upon it.

As to the statement, that the system suggested by the Commissioners could not be carried out with the present staff of relieving officers, the Commissioners have to observe that they will readily sanction any reasonable increase in the number of relieving officers; and they request you to report to the Commissioners what increase will, in your opinion, become necessary.

In regard to any objections arising from the alleged expense, the Commissioners think that such objections are founded on misapprehension, and may easily be met by you. The object of the staff of relieving officers, of the exaction of labour, and of requiring the food to be steeped, is, that while under such a system persons really destitute will undoubtedly accept relief rather than starve, yet that the relief will not be in itself attractive, and will not induce able-bodied to come upon the Union funds who are able to obtain a subsistence by working for private employers of labour. Hence objections founded on the expensiveness of this system are far more than counterbalanced by the consideration that if the system is properly carried out it deters improper applicants from becoming a burden to the honest and industrious rate-payers of the Union.

FURTHER LETTER from the COMMISSIONERS to Captain SPARK :—

February 10, 1848.

WITH reference to that part of your report of the 4th instant, in which you state that the Board of Guardians of Listowel Union are desirous of taking land, with the view of raising crops for the use of the house, and employing the able-bodied labourers in cultivating it, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they deem it undesirable that able-bodied paupers should be employed in the cultivation of land for the Guardians. Any arrangement founded on such a proposition would materially weaken the efficacy of a workhouse as a test of destitution, and would render it, in some respects, even an object of attraction.

The Commissioners have no objection to the Guardians hiring as much land as may be necessary to teach the children to labour, if any additional quantity is necessary for this purpose.

The Commissioners desire to assure you that the principles of workhouse management at present in force, are the deductions from long and extensive experience; and they are anxious that you should not, either directly or indirectly, give your countenance to any project at variance with them.

The COMMISSIONERS to Captain SPARK :—February 8, 1848.

Listowel Union.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration the statement contained in your abstract report of business for the week ending the 5th instant, viz., that you "have visited various schools crowded to suffocation on account of the relief afforded by the British Association."

In reference thereto I am to state, that the Commissioners do not interfere with the arrangements under which the school relief is administered; but they presume that it is not allowed to cause any accession of numbers merely to receive the daily allowance of food, without being duly enrolled school attendants.

As the school relief may in some measure interfere with, and lead to the abuse of out-door relief under the law, the Commissioners request to be informed whether due care is taken by the relieving officers to ascertain whether the children on their books, are receiving allowances at the schools, as in such cases, deductions should be made from the relieving officers' issues on account of such children.

Captain SPARK to the COMMISSIONERS, in reply :—February 13, 1848.

IN reply to your letter, dated the 8th instant, I have the honour to state that the object of my journey in that distressed district, besides seeing into the labour performed by able-bodied paupers receiving out-door relief, was to look into the management of the relief afforded the schools by the British Association, as that was only the second day of its distribution, in order to prevent it being given to more than the scholars duly enrolled, and that the number was limited to as many as could be conveniently accommodated for the purpose of education.

Crowds of the poor creatures naturally rushed to the schools on its being understood that a meal was to be given to those who attended, and I took steps with the Rev. Mr. M'Carthy, the manager of these schools, to have the numbers reduced accordingly.

I beg to state that the relieving officers have my orders to deduct the amount of provisions the children so obtain from the amount they would be entitled to as belonging to destitute families on their lists. It will be my endeavour to see that the Commissioners' directions are fulfilled in these respects as closely as is possible.

Captain SPARK to the COMMISSIONERS :—February 12, 1848.

I HAVE the honour to report for the information of the Commissioners that on the 9th instant I attended an adjourned meeting, since the 4th instant, of the Finance Committee of the Guardians, to make inquiry into the financial state of the Union, and particularly the accounts.

The master had been in the habit of obtaining supplies of articles and of getting work executed without the orders of the Board, and had also obtained on some of such orders articles of considerable extravagance, such as looking-glasses, muslin for curtains, and feathers of the best kind for porter's bed. The supply of the milk has been had by the master from the contractor on his requisition, without Board orders being first obtained, but which were afterwards sent to him. Many of the accounts sent in were found to contain exorbitant charges, and payment of the same was postponed by the Committee that a reduction might be made; all this is the result of the long-continued neglect of the Guardians, to remedy which they are now, with myself, taking active steps; and I am happy to have to state this co-operation on their part.

The Committee's report was read, and approved of by the Board of Guardians at their meeting yesterday, and is inserted on the minutes, to which I beg to refer.

At the meeting of the Board of Guardians yesterday I communicated my receipt of the Poor Law Commissioners' letter of the 8th instant, setting forth their views and directions as regards the issue of cooked or steeped meal to the paupers receiving out-door relief; and I did not fail, in accordance therewith, firmly to impress upon the Board the necessity that immediate steps should be taken to carry them out, and, in fact, to insist upon its being done.

Listowel Union.

For some time past, and up to the period of the meeting I am reporting upon, the utmost harmony prevailed amongst the Guardians in a desire to act energetically, both individually and as a body, to reduce the numbers of the able-bodied paupers on out-door relief, and to adopt every means suggested for that end; but upon the Commissioners' views as to the distribution of cooked or wetted food being thus urged upon them a total change appeared to take place in the minds of a great majority, and more particularly did this show itself among the most intelligent and influential of the members, and I regret to have to state this to the Commissioners, for the anticipation I had indulged in, mentioned in my first report after the meeting of the Board on the 18th of November last, was being realized, that I should soon be able to bring, through the good feeling and aid of its members, the affairs of the Union into a greatly improved state.

They appeared to take deep offence that such an endeavour should be made to coerce them into the adoption of a measure they seem to have a firm conviction cannot be carried out with any probable good effect. They carried a strong resolution against it almost unanimously. They take their stand upon the reasons given in their last letter upon this matter, ordered to be addressed by the clerk to the Poor Law Commissioners on the 3rd instant, as founded on their experience gained during their arduous labours under the Temporary Relief Act. They conceive they would only be lending themselves to a practical delusion of the Commissioners if they attempted it; and above all that the necessity for serving daily rations to the able-bodied would injuriously interfere with the more valuable labour-test, which they had determined on strictly enforcing by every means in their power.

They came to the resolution of striking off the relieving officers' list all single able-bodied men above the age of 18 years, upon the ground that, as the weather had become open, work could be found by such persons. A legal objection was made to the effect that under the Commissioners' sealed order, none of the able-bodied destitute could be excluded by the Board. I participate in this opinion; and if I am wrong I shall be glad to be instructed on the point. Many of the rural Guardians insisted that no work would be offered to these people by the farmers until the middle of next month.

I have to report that last night Mr. Lloyd, Poor Law Inspector, arrived at Listowel, and I had immediately after a conference with that gentleman on the state of the Union, and on the probable working of the system of out-door relief with cooked or steeped food; and afterwards I visited with him the auxiliary establishment occupied by the pauper children, amounting to 148 boys and 136 girls, who were all well placed in the premises, and then proceeded to examine the workhouse throughout.

P.S.—Upon consideration of the latter part of the Commissioners' letter to me of the 8th instant, where it is stated that the objections made by the Guardians may be easily met by me, and the object of the staff of relieving officers, of the exaction of labour, and of requiring the food to be cooked or steeped, is urged upon my attention, I beg to repeat here in substance what I have stated on the reference paper dated the 8th February, attached to the minutes of the Board's meeting of the 3rd instant, that I am well aware of, and am convinced, from my own experience when Inspector under the Temporary Relief Act, of the wisdom of the system alluded to, and the necessity for its adoption in the administration of out-door relief; and notwithstanding that I have honestly stated some objections in the way of its being so readily carried out in this large Union as the Commissioners desire, I am using, and have used, my best endeavours to get it established in spite of the strong objections and opposition offered by the Board of Guardians; and I trust the Commissioners will not do me the injustice to suppose me to want zeal in this matter to enforce their views, and to insist upon their directions being complied with.

REPLY to the foregoing:—February 15, 1848.

I AM directed by the Commissioners to enclose for your information a copy of a letter which they have this day addressed to the Board of Guardians on the subject of the administration of relief in cooked food.

ENCLOSURES.

Listowel Union.

I.

The COMMISSIONERS to the CLERK of LISTOWEL UNION :—February 15, 1848.

THE Commissioners have had under consideration your letter of the 8th instant, in which you state the objections of the Board of Guardians of Listowel to the issue of cooked or wet meal to the able-bodied receiving out-door relief in Listowel Union.

In reference thereto I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they have fully weighed the reasons urged by the Board of Guardians of Listowel Union against the use of cooked food; but the Commissioners still adhere to the opinion that the food distributed to destitute able-bodied men should be cooked, and the Commissioners request the Guardians to refer to the order under which the Guardians are now relieving able-bodied men in their Union, and it will be perceived that relief otherwise than in cooked food, where the system is practicable, is absolutely illegal.

In regard to the advantages of cooked food, and on the practicability of giving relief with it, the Commissioners desire to call attention to the following extract from a report to the Relief Commission by Mr. Bromley, the accountant of that Commission, who framed his report on reports received from nearly 2000 Relief Committees:—

II.

“The almost universal opinion given by the Committees is in favour of cooked food in preference to raw meal. A strong feeling was at first excited against its adoption in most parts of Ireland, not so much from the destitute as from members of Committees, chiefly, as reported, ‘that they might be relieved from trouble.’

“The result however has proved its great advantage; diarrhoea and dysentery were stayed by it, and a great improvement was rapidly manifested through its agency in the general appearance of the people; it was found to be the most nutritious, the best test of destitution, and the most economical.

“The saving of fuel to the people was a great desideratum; for that reason alone it was much preferred to the ‘steeped meal,’ in which state it was required to be issued, if not cooked, to prevent, if possible, its sale. The really destitute very soon became sensible of its benefits to them; and many persons whose names were on the relief lists did not apply and take their rations because they did not consist of raw meal.

“The advantage of cooked food as a test of destitution may be shown by two electoral divisions alike in circumstances, in which the proportion of population receiving relief were:—

“ Cooked food	36 per cent.
“ Uncooked food	58½ per cent.

“In one Union, Dunfanaghy, the medical men report that the people were never so healthy as since the use of cooked food.

“The usual proportion for the one pound weight of raw or uncooked ration was one-third rice and two-thirds Indian meal, which being cooked with water as ‘stirabout,’ swelled into a ration from three to five pounds in weight, which mixture was pronounced as beneficial to health.

“Notwithstanding all these advantages, strange to say, that in many Unions, cooked food was not generally adopted until the issue of a peremptory order for its use, and the Government Inspector had even been subject to threats of personal violence, and conflict with members of committees, in urging its adoption.

“The soup originally issued before the ‘stirabout’ was brought into use is reported to have been highly obnoxious to the people; and in Clare it was found necessary to discontinue it.

“It is now admitted that had the system of cooked food been generally adopted at first much expense would have been saved; and it is strongly urged as the means of out-door relief on any future occasion.
